Pupils should be taught to distinguish between learning and practising. Practising means the repetition of the right thing after it has been learnt, and not the continual correction (or, worse, the repetition) of mistakes made in learning. Consequently, the first reading of a new work should be slow and very careful, and the piece should be divided for the purpose into quite short sections, not more being studied at a time than can be kept well in mind, so that each successive difficulty may receive a certain amount of treatment at once, before the attention has become weakened from being spread over a large number of points for consideration.

In making this division, pupils are very apt to begin each section at the beginning of a bar, or of a line, regardless of the musical sense. This is unmusical and wrong, and tends to prevent the development of the pupil's feeling for phrasing. Each separate section must begin with the beginning of a phrase (the point at which one breaks off is less important), no matter on what part of the bar it may commence.

In the slow practice of difficult passages, a pupil should be taught to play always forte, irrespective of the proper effect of the passage when perfectly rendered. The reason for this is that a strong touch, produced of course without undue pressure, necessitates a rapid finger, and rapidity of finger is naturally the object of all technical practice. Thus the pupil is preparing himself to play the passage in rapid tempo, at the same time that he is acquiring security by playing the notes slowly.

A pupil should never be allowed to correct a wrong note by playing the right note immediately after it, an error which pupils are very likely to commit, and which inevitably produces insecurity in playing. All pianoforte playing is the result of certain movements of the fingers, and to play a wrong note means to make a wrong movement. If, then, the right note is played at once, immediately after the mistake, the finger executes a second wrong movement (from the wrong note to the right)—and two wrongs do not make one right. In the case of a wrong note played the pupil must accustom himself always to go back a bar or two, and so to play the right note at the right moment, repeating the phrase until the tendency to go wrong has disappeared.

Pupils very generally take in fresh music by the eye alone at first, the ear not coming into operation until later. One curious result of this is that if a fairly intelligent pupil meets with a seeming contradiction in notation, say, F sharp and F natural struck together, he refuses to believe in it, and considers it abominable. If, however, the teacher plays the phrase in a different key, so that he shall not see the imagined discrepancy, his ear accepts it readily enough, and he becomes reconciled. Similarly, if he misreads a note and does not correct it at once, his ear may easily become so accustomed to the false note as even to prefer it to the right one when pointed out. Here, again, if the phrase be transposed, his ear, being free to listen, will at once perceive the fault.

Unless the music is very complex, reading with one hand at a time is not advisable, as it tends to weaken the power of reading at sight; but the practising of difficulties with separate hands is most necessary, especially with the left hand, which is not only physically weaker, but less readily obedient to the will than the right.

A teacher should always take care that the pupil understands the meaning of all the Italian or other foreign terms which are met with in the course of his piece, writing the English translation in the margin of the copy. Mere learning of the words from a vocabulary is of little use, but if each term is explained as it occurs, there is a present example of its intended effect, which helps greatly to fix it in the pupil's memory. Thus no pupil will be in the position of the young lady who, being asked why she played a certain Adagio so quickly, replied, 'Well, it's marked "express."'

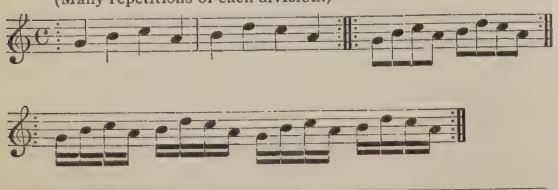
TECHNIQUE.

In my youthful days, technique pure and simple used to be taught in a very perfunctory manner; according to my recollection, pupils were supposed to begin with five-finger exercises and scales, invariably followed by Czerny's '101 Exercises' (which contain much material quite unsuited to beginners) and the same author's 'Étude de la Velocité.' Thanks to the general improvement in musical education, however, a more intelligent method is followed at the present time, but I find with regret that one important branch of technique is very generally neglected—namely, broken-chord passages, as distinguished from continuous arpeggios. In teaching technique, a distinction should be drawn between those exercises in which the hand keeps its natural position, and those in which the thumb passes under the fingers. To the first class belong the five-finger exercises and the four-chord passages more fully described in my 'Primer of Pianoforte Playing';* to the second, scales and arpeggios; and the second class should never be attempted until the fingers have acquired sufficient strength and freedom of movement by the help of the first. This is not to say that the theory of scale-construction should not be taught in the earliest stages, indeed, it is necessary, in order that the chord-passages may be understood.

Formerly it was the custom to teach the melodic form only of the minor scale, but of late I have observed that this form is frequently neglected, and only the harmonic form practised. Both forms should of course receive equal attention, as both are used by composers. Scales fingered with the thumb on black keys should never be practised, except by very advanced pupils, and the same warning applies to arpeggios, with the obvious exception of F sharp major and E flat minor, in which the keys are all black.

When practising five-finger exercises, they should be commenced in slow tempo and after a while the speed should be doubled—not slightly increased—without stopping to make the change, and if the pupil's technique is equal to it, the speed may be doubled again with advantage. By this method the pupil's sense of rhythm and proportion is strengthened, whereas the custom of gradually quickening finger exercises induces the bad habit of hurrying in passage-playing. The following example may help to make my meaning clear:—

(Many repetitions of each division.)



* Macmillan and Co., Ltd.

When able to undertake wrist-staccato, the pupil must be made aware that there are two kinds: full wrist, in which the hand is thrown back as far as possible, and half-wrist, in which it rises from the key to a horizontal position only. Before coming to octaves or chords, it is best to practise on single notes with the thumb and middle finger pressed gently together at the tips, the keys being struck by these two together, while the other three fingers are raised and kept clear of the keys. By this means all interfering movement of the finger-joints is prevented, and the player is compelled to strike from the wrist only.

In learning a difficult legato passage of single notes, it is a good plan to play it backwards and forwards many times without stopping, unless the form of the passage is such that it can be made continuous by mere repetition. The reason for this is that security is attained more readily in a continuous passage than by a series of interrupted repetitions. For instance, the first of the three following examples would become continuous by repetition alone, but (b) would require to be practised as at (c) to make it so—

It sometimes happens that, owing to the position of the hand, one note in a sequence of similar figures gives trouble by remaining persistently weaker than the rest, or even missing altogether. In such a case the defect may be cured by re-arranging the grouping of the passage so that the accent falls on the note which is inclined to fail. A little practice of the new arrangement will equalize the touch, and on returning to the proper form the improvement will be felt at once. For example, the following passage, in which the eighth note of each group is likely to be weak—may be practised thus—

Perhaps it may be well to conclude this portion of my subject with a table of technical work, arranged in the order in which I think the various items should be undertaken. Of course they would not be kept entirely separate, but would overlap to some extent for the sake of variety in the daily work, care being taken not to attempt too much at once:—

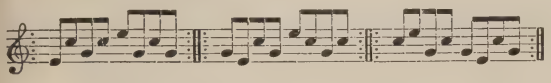
ORDER OF TECHNICAL WORK.

I. Two-finger exercises on consecutive notes (slow trill), to be practised on white keys, black keys, and black and white mixed.
II. Five-finger exercises, with similar variety of black and white keys.
III. Exercises on broken chords, with fixed position of hand, in the following and similar forms—



These accustom the fingers to move freely in extended positions, in which the hand is naturally less flexible, and at the same time teach the various major and minor chords and their inversions.
IV. Exercises with one finger pressed down (inaudibly), the other fingers moving.
V. The four principal chord-passages, on common chords.
VI. Diatonic scales.
VII. Common-chord arpeggios.
VIII. Chromatic scale.
IX. Chord-passages and arpeggios on chords of the seventh.
X. Slow trill in double-thirds.
XI. Scales with the hands separated by various intervals, also in contrary motion.
XII. Wrist and half-wrist work in single notes.
XIII. Double scales.
XIV. Octaves.
XV. Various kinds of special technical difficulties, which it is better not to attempt to classify, such as broken chords on extended positions of the tenth or eleventh, repetition exercises, skips, unbroken chords (staccato), part-playing, &c.

FINGERING.

Since the pianoforte is an instrument which depends entirely on finger-movements for the production of music, it follows that the Art of Fingering—that is to say, the use of the fingers in such a manner that the particular key required for each successive note of a composition shall be within easy reach—is one of the most important branches of technical instruction. Now the manner in which this art is commonly taught does not appear to be quite satisfactory; it is too mechanical and unintelligent. The customary method is to mark the notes, or most of them, with a corresponding numeral, and then to tell the pupil to 'pay attention to the fingering.' This advice, sound enough as far as it goes, does very little towards enabling the pupil to choose his own fingering, and it is only after years of practice, and innumerable repetitions of passages similarly fingered, that habits are formed, sufficiently fixed to allow of the fingers going their own way, as it were, instinctively. But the principles of fingering are few and simple, and their practical application is by no means uninteresting, and it is quite possible so to present these principles to the pupil, even in the early stages, that he shall not only see what he ought to do, but shall know why it is done. Once this is accomplished, the fingering ceases to be a command to do so and so, and becomes what it ought to be, a reminder of a certain change of position, made with a definite object in view.

Taking, then, the right-hand part of a simple piece of music of legato character, preferably one in which there is no great variety in the length of the notes, and starting from the obvious fact that five fingers cover five consecutive notes, and that consequently no marked fingering would be needed if the piece did not exceed this compass, the first step would be to point out to the pupil the earliest moment at which the fingers would be all used up, and a change from the original position would become necessary. The teacher would then write the appropriate number over the first note of the new position, and at the same time explain the method by which the change was effected, whether by contraction, extension, or passing of the thumb. Then the pupil would be required to find out for himself how far he could continue in the new position, and as soon as further progress became impossible without break of legato, by what means he could enter upon another position so as to cover the largest possible number of the succeeding notes. Having determined this, and marked the figure over the first note of the new position, he would proceed onwards, the object being to arrive at the end of the piece with as few changes of position as possible, the first note of each change being marked with its proper figure, thus illustrating the chief principle of all good fingering, and at the same time the use of the marks. For such exercises as these, pieces without printed fingering are naturally best, but unfingered editions are rare now-a-days, and if it is necessary to use a fingered copy a small circle should be drawn round the important figures, thus ③, which will cause them to stand out prominently from among the others.

To assist the pupil in choosing the means of escape from one position to another, two general rules may be laid down—first, that contractions are better than extensions when both are available; and, secondly, that both extensions and contractions are better when the thumb is employed than when made between any two of the fingers. Of course these general principles apply equally to the left hand, but in either hand to legato passages only, and the teacher will naturally take the opportunity to explain the fingering of chords, repeated notes, &c., as occasion serves.

Some editions there are, but not many, in which the method just described is strictly adhered to, moments of change of position alone being marked, and with a single figure, but it will be found better, as a rule, to mark two figures, the first giving the change of position, and the second showing the direction which the passage takes after the change. Editions which are very full of fingering, and especially those which make a point of marking every note—and there are such—should be avoided; the mass of figures dazzles the eye, and the reasons for the marking not being obvious, the pupil usually disregards them altogether, and fingers by the light of nature, with lamentable results. But even here there is a remedy: the teacher should draw a small circle round each really important figure, and so enable the pupil to distinguish it from the remainder. It is also well for the pupil to do this for himself, in the case of any note which he may have practised with false fingering and finds a difficulty in correcting.

To ensure quick and correct reading of the fingering, pupils should be taught that it is best, when attacking a new piece, to read the fingering first and the note afterwards. As a rule, a pupil seeing the note G plays it, and then (perhaps) looks to see if he has got the right finger on it. This requires two distinct mental efforts, and takes more time than the method, easily acquired after a little practice, of reading, say, 'second finger on G,' when his second finger moves instinctively towards its note, and the thing is done at once.

One more point of importance. The pupil should never be allowed to depart from the marked fingering, even for the better, without marking in the alteration legibly. Although he may remember the new fingering perfectly, the fact of playing a note with one finger while he sees a different finger marked tends to destroy that intimate connection between eye and finger which, when established, is of such great assistance in learning fresh music.

The difficulty of acquiring certainty in reading fingering is no doubt aggravated by the unfortunate fact that there are two systems in use, English and foreign, and as most pupils begin with one system alone, the other has to be learnt subsequently, and dire confusion, for a time at least, is the consequence. To avoid, or at any rate to lessen this confusion, the best plan is to consider the new system as consisting not of numbers at all, but of signs representing certain fingers. For instance, in passing from English to foreign, the number 5 for the little finger offers no difficulty, the 1 (considered as a vertical line merely) is easily understood to represent the thumb, and the only figure which really needs learning is the 3 for the middle finger, since the remaining two, 2 and 4, occur far less frequently, and then nearly always in immediate connection with 3 or 1, which makes them comparatively easy to read.

(To be continued.)

LADY HALLÉ'S FIRST APPEARANCE IN ENGLAND.

The announcement that Lady Hallé is about to retire from the concert platform and devote herself to teaching is one that will be received with widespread regret, and nowhere more so than in this country, as for many years she has formed an important part of our musical life. It may, therefore, not be inopportune to recall the circumstances attending the initial visit to Great Britain of the most distinguished of lady violinists.

Half-a-century, plus one year, has passed since little Wilhelmine Neruda, a child of nine, first set her foot on these shores. Like Joachim —who, as a boy, made his first bow before an English audience at Drury Lane at a 'benefit' of Mr. Alfred Bunn—Miss Neruda was introduced within the walls of a theatre and not a concert-room. In the year 1849 Mr. J. M. Maddox was giving operatic representations at the Princess's Theatre, in Oxford Street. Playbills of these performances are preserved in the British Museum. That of 'Monday, April 30, 1849,' contains the following announcement—

> Extraordinary attraction.
> First appearance in England of
> The sisters Neruda and brother Victor
> From Vienna—celebrated for their musical talent, who are engaged for two nights only, this evening and to-morrow.

Thus it will be seen that the child-fiddler was not heralded as a great star, but as one of a constellation. The Musical World, then edited by Mr. J. W. Davison, warmly welcomed the clever family, with a special tribute to the genius of little Wilhelmine. 'J. W. D.' said:—

> THE NERUDA FAMILY.
>
> On Monday evening [April 30, 1849], after the performance of Carafa's opera, the Heart of Mid Lothian, at the Princess's Theatre, these talented children appeared for the first time before an English audience, by whom they were welcomed in a most encouraging manner. The Neruda family consists of two girls and one boy—viz., Amalie, aged about twelve (pianist), Wilhelmine, aged nine (violinist), and Victor, aged eleven (violoncellist). Victor and Amalie have been most highly commended by the German critics: on this occasion, Wilhelmine, the little violinist, had the position assigned her of sustaining the reputation of the family, and the little violinist came off with the greatest éclat; she may justly be deemed a prodigy. Vieuxtemps's 'Arpeggio,' for violin, violoncello, and piano, gave Wilhelmine an opportunity of displaying her effective bold style of bowing to great advantage, which was excellently relieved by the clever accompaniments of Victor and Amalie on the violoncello and piano. We are sorry the public did not hear the two last named in more important pieces, knowing, as we do, their great talent from the frequent opportunities we had of hearing them when in Berlin. Ernst's celebrated Carnaval de Venise was the next piece selected to display the extraordinary capabilities of the young Wilhelmine. This humorous piece, calculated to display, to the utmost, the violinist's command over the instrument, was executed with so great a degree of taste, precision, and confidence, that it elicited the most rapturous applause from the audience, and an encore was vociferously called for, but Wilhelmine would only return and acknowledge the compliments by a graceful obeisance. We have no doubt that Mr. Maddox, to whom the credit is due of introducing to the musical public these clever children, will be rewarded by the patronage of the public. (Musical World, May 5, 1849.)

The same critic (Mr. Davison), who called Miss Neruda the 'Arabella Goddard of violinists,' thus noticed the little prodigy in The Times:—

PRINCESS'S THEATRE.

A remarkably clever trio of children have made their appearance here, and have obtained unanimous applause. The Neruda family consists of two girls, Wilhelmine and Amalie, violinist and pianist, and Victor, violoncellist. Their respective ages are stated to be 9, 12, and 11. Wilhelmine, the violinist, aged 9, appears to be the star. Her performance of Vieuxtemps's Arpeggio and Ernst's Carnaval de Venise are really wonderful, nor does it require any apology on the score of her tender age. After the Milanollos we have no recollection of such remarkable precocity of talent. Those who are curious about musical phenomena may advantageously spend half-an-hour at the Princess's in listening to this little prodigy, whose style and execution are equally remarkable. Wilhelmine is accompanied to perfection by Victor and Amalie on the violoncello and piano. (The Times, May 7, 1849).

The extraordinary success that attended their wonderful performances, which 'completely took the audience by surprise,' resulted in a re-engagement for six nights. Moreover, further re-engagements followed, and instead of two nights—the limit of the original engagement—the Nerudas made eighteen appearances.

Amongst the pieces played by Miss Wilhelmine we find Ernst's 'Carnival of Venice,' De Beriot's Violin Concerto, Vieuxtemps's 'Les Arpeges,' his celebrated 'Recollections of America,' and Variations on the air 'Yankee Doodle' for violin, with accompaniment for violoncello and pianoforte, the last-named instruments being played by Amalie and Victor Neruda. For her 'benefit,' on May 15, the playbill furnishes this interesting announcement as No. 4 of the programme:—

God save the Queen, composed and performed by Mademoiselle Wilhelmine Neruda.

It may not be generally known that the great little fiddler appeared, at the age of nine, as a composer!

The scene of Wilhelmine Neruda's triumphs was soon to be removed from the theatrical atmosphere of the 'Princess's' to the purer air of the concert platform. At the Philharmonic Society's concert of June 11, 1849—then held at the now demolished Hanover Square Rooms—she played De Beriot's Concerto—the programme may, however, be given in full as a specimen Philharmonic programme of half-a-century ago:—

UNDER THE IMMEDIATE PATRONAGE OF HER MAJESTY.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

SEVENTH CONCERT, MONDAY, JUNE 11, 1849.

PART I.

Sinfonia in C, No. 1, Grand .. .. Haydn.

Recit 'Vattene Prence' (Idomeneo) Miss Williams
Terzetto 'Pria di partir' Miss M. Williams & Mr. Lockey } Mozart.

Concert Stück, pianoforte, Madame Dulcken C. M. von Weber.

Aria, 'Lascia amor' (Orlando), Mr. H. Phillips Handel.

Concerto, violin, Mdlle. Wilhelmine Neruda De Beriot.

Aria, 'O salutaris hostia,' Miss Andrews Cherubini.

Overture, 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' Mendelssohn-Bartholdy.

PART II.

Sinfonia, No. 9 (composed expressly for this Society). Terminating with Schiller's Ode to Joy. Beethoven.

The principal voice parts by Miss Williams, Miss M. Williams, Mr. Lockey, and Mr. H. Phillips.

Conductor, Mr. Costa.

The musical critics of The Times and the Athenæum were redoubtable men in those days (though no reflection is cast on the present worthy holders of those important offices), and they were often of one mind as to 'anything new.' But in regard to Wilhelmine Neruda the two lions did not roar in unison. Mr. Chorley, of the Athenæum, had no fancy for prodigies. He gave vent to his feelings on this point in the following protest, which formed part of his notice of the Philharmonic concert in the columns of the Athenæum:—

With regard to the violin solo;—no just person (even supposing that he does not hold our opinions regarding precocious and prodigious exhibitions) could oppose the appearance of a child-player already hackneyed on the stage of the Princess's Theatre, when Ernst and Molique have compositions to offer yet unknown—when Joachim is here, the most promising genius of the day, and signally improved since his last visit. Mdlle. Wilhelmine Neruda—whom we may name since there is small chance of our remarks reaching her painfully—has been capitally trained—and may, in time, emulate those more distinguished girl-violinists, the sisters Milanollo; but childish curiosity and indulgent applause—were they not destructive to their victim—are not the emotions to excite which the Philharmonic Concerts were founded. An artistic exhibition is thereby sunk to one of those inane shows which persons of quality not nice in their pleasures may frequent, but from which the thoughtful and the accomplished will recoil. Neither music nor morality (in the high sense of the latter word) will accredit such puerile and catch-penny work. (Athenæum, June 16, 1849.)

It may be doubted whether Mr. Chorley ever looked upon any lady violinists with favour. Only thirty years ago, in writing on the subject in the Athenæum, he said: 'The fair sex are encroaching on all man's privileges.' Poor man! Poor Mr. Chorley! many a fair fiddler will compassionately exclaim.

A very interesting, and hitherto unpublished testimony to the extraordinary gifts of the child violinist is furnished in the following extract. It is from a letter dated June 12, 1849 (the day after the concert), and written by the late William Bartholomew (the translator of Mendelssohn's 'Elijah') to the late Mr. Joseph Moore, the factotum of the Birmingham Musical Festival, just as Councillor G. H. Johnstone is at the present time:—

> A little girl—a child in years and person—but a perfect miniature Paganini, played last night to the Philharmonic audience a concerto of De Beriot's on the violin. Her tone, her intonation, her execution, especially with the bow hand, were all perfect—the latter is beautiful: her graceful and elastic wrist produced some of the most sparkling staccatos by up and down bowing that I ever heard. Mr. Anderson found this child out, and brought her forward from the Princess's Theatre into her proper sphere. At the Saturday's rehearsal she played us the 'Carnival of Venice' after she had ended the De Beriot concerto. I hope she may meet with the patronage she merits.

Has not Bartholomew's wish been fully realized?

OCCASIONAL NOTES.

As special attention will be called to Cardinal Newman's great poem 'The Dream of Gerontius' by reason of its musical setting by Mr. Edward Elgar, to be first performed at the Birmingham Musical Festival on the 3rd inst., a few particulars in regard to its history may not prove unacceptable. 'The Dream of Gerontius' was written in the year 1865, when Newman was in his sixty-fifth year, and shortly after the close of his great controversy with Charles Kingsley. It is recorded that he thought so little of the poem that when the editor of a periodical 'asked him for something,' he said: 'I have routed this out of a drawer'; and it is also said that he (Newman) consigned the manuscript to the waste paper basket, and that it was rescued therefrom by a friend. All this shows that the author little thought that his verses would attain the fame that has befallen them.

It is stated in the usually accurate Julian's 'Dictionary of Hymnology,' and also elsewhere, that the poem was first published in Newman's 'Verses on various Occasions,' in the year 1868. As a matter of fact, 'The Dream of Gerontius' made its first appearance separately, in a 32mo booklet of fifty-five pages, published at sixpence by Messrs. Burns, Lambert and Oates, three years earlier—i.e., in 1865. Moreover, it appeared anonymously, so far as the title-page of the tiny publication was concerned, the only indication of its authorship being a modest 'J. H. N.' at the foot of the Latin dedication to 'Fratri Desideratissimo, Joanni Joseph Gordon.'

'The Dream of Gerontius' attracted the attention of two of the most remarkable Englishmen of this century—Mr. Gladstone and General Gordon. In his 'Notes from a Diary, 1873-1881,' the Right Hon. Sir Mountstuart E. Grant Duff says, under date May 19, 1879, when the Gladstones were his guests: 'At dinner we talked of Newman, whose Dream of Gerontius Gladstone puts very high, so high that he speaks of it in the same breath as the Divina Commedia!' Could higher tribute be paid? In regard to General Gordon, we are told that 'it "took away his [Newman's] breath" to find, one morning in 1885, among his letters one from Frank Power's sister, to say that she possessed a relic from Kartoum—a copy of The Dream of Gerontius given to her brother by Gordon, and scored by Gordon with incisive pencil marks at such passages as "Now that the hour is come, my fear is fled" and "Pray for me, O my friends," and elsewhere throughout the poem.' Mr. Frank Power was the special correspondent of The Times in Kartoum. Further information in connection with this interesting incident is furnished by a letter, written by Mr. E. A. Maund to General Gordon's sister, under date, London, January 30, 1888:—

> Dear Miss Gordon,—On my return from Africa, I heard you were writing reminiscences of your brother, General Gordon, and at the same time recollected that there had been some controversy about that little book The Dream of Gerontius, which he gave to Mr. Power at Kartoum, and which the latter mentions in his letters home and afterwards sent to his sister. It may be of interest to some to know how it was that General Gordon had this little Roman Catholic poem with him in Kartoum.
>
> The day he left, your brother related to me how his spiritual life was changed by what he experienced at his father's death-bed, as, gazing on the lifeless form, he thought: 'Is this what we all have to come to?' This led to a strong discussion on death, when I remarked that some of his ideas reminded me of Dr. Newman's little book, The Dream of Gerontius. Whereupon he said he should like to read it; and I promised to send it after him to Egypt.*

The book was duly sent to Gordon, and acknowledged by him on a post card, dated 'Kartoum, March 7, 1884,' with the result already referred to—viz., those 'incisive pencil marks,' which took Newman's breath away. In conclusion, 'The Dream of Gerontius' has become widely known by the fine hymn 'Praise to the Holiest in the height,' which occurs and re-occurs in the poem. It first came into use on its appearance in 'Hymns Ancient and Modern' in 1868, where it is associated with Dr. Dykes's tune. Those who were fortunate enough to be present at the funeral of Mr. Gladstone in Westminster Abbey, two years ago, will not soon forget the thrilling effect of that noble hymn, sung by the great congregation over the body of the dead statesman on that memorable occasion.

The current issue of the School Music Review contains an interesting article, by Mr. C. Egerton Lowe, on 'The Associated Board Examinations.' Mr. Lowe has made a digest of all the pianoforte pieces used at these examinations since their commencement, with the result that of a total of 524 pieces, only twelve are by British composers! The number of composers represented is sixty-nine, of whom four are British. It is no wonder that a German musician should have remarked to the writer of the article: 'I cannot understand you English. You are so intensely patriotic in everything except music; but in that you apparently prefer the poorest stuff by a foreign composer to the very best and highest art your own countrymen produce.' Yes, we are not only a much-examined people, but a funny folk in matters musical.

* Letters of General C. G. Gordon to his sister, M. A. Gordon. Macmillan and Co., Ltd., 1888, p. 402.

Edward Elgar.

There could be no greater contrast between the equipment of and the music sung at Hereford Festivals of half-a-century ago and that just held than the meeting of 1846, which was one of curious interest. As the Cathedral organ was out of order at the time, an instrument was lent for the occasion by the Rev. R. L. Freer! Amongst the principal performers was John Liptrot Hatton, who appeared as composer, solo pianist, and vocalist at two of the evening concerts. Two songs by him, 'The Chapel' and 'The Shepherd's winter song,' were sung by Miss Dolby, concerning which the Musical World, by the pen of Mr. J. W. Davison, said:—

These songs are the composition of Mr. J. L. Hatton, an English artist of distinguished talent, who should know better how to regard his art and respect the public, than to adopt the questionable procedure of publishing them under an uncouth hyperborean signature 'Czapek.' They are exceedingly clever and musician-like, and will win favour on the score of their own merits, without the subterfuge of pseudonymous parentage.

Hatton cleverly performed Mozart's beautiful Pianoforte Concerto in D minor, and took part in Beethoven's Quintet for pianoforte and wind instruments. He also sang a chansonette of his own composition, 'Le Savoyard'—'a piece of drollery,' we are told, 'which was vociferously encored, and the words of which consisted of a mixture of the French and Italian languages, common on the Italian frontier.'

The Prospectus of the approaching Birmingham Festival is a very different publication from that of 1837, which was very much in the nature of a broadside. This document, a copy of which is before us, contained the following curious information as to the mode of transit from the Metropolis in the ante-railway days:—

'Coaches leave London at almost every hour of the day from the Swan with two Necks, Lad Lane [and nine other inns]: and as there will not be found sufficient conveyance for the whole Party on one day, a portion of the performers must secure their places on the Saturday, and the others on the Sunday!'

In the present day, of course, a Crewe locomotive can transport the 'whole Party' in less than three hours from the Metropolis to Hardwareopolis.

The Barrow-in-Furness second annual musical Festival and Eisteddfod is announced to be held on November 14 and 15, when various vocal and instrumental competitions will take place. Mr. T. J. Symons, 2, Strawberry Terrace, Barrow-in-Furness, is the honorary secretary. For the musical adjudications Dr. McNaught will be the judge—and a good judge too!

The Sacred Harmonic Society seems so entirely to belong to the dead past that the receipt of the 'Report [the forty-third] of the Benevolent Fund of the Sacred Harmonic Society for the year 1899' comes almost as a surprise, and recalls those never to be forgotten oratorio performances in Exeter Hall under Costa's autocratic sway. Yet the treasurer of the Benevolent Fund disbursed no less a sum than £184 in relief last year, and the invested funds, 2¾ per cent. Stock, are certified as standing at £1,620. There are now eleven annuitants on the fund. The first on the list is 'A professional member of the alto chorus for nearly twenty years, elected January, 1878.' What a number of interesting reminiscences she (or he) could tell!

Our true-born Briton correspondent (vide p. 591 of our last issue) has been carrying on his manufacture of foreignizing the names of native musicians. Here is a portion of his output for the past month:—

M. le Brasseur.
G. Bodenkammer.
Enrico Poltrone.
F. Vacheloupe.
Giovanni Occidente.
Edouard Réseau de la Brioche.
Versare Serratura.
Herr Lauter Mensch.

(To be continued.)

An Italian writer, Signor Cambiasi, has compiled biographical notices of all the composers known to have produced operatic works in Italy. Their number, in round figures, is 2,250, including 165 foreigners, while their compositions for the lyrical stage total in the aggregate to 14,000. Of these, only about 80 still remain on the repertory of operatic establishments; certainly a minority altogether out of proportion to the enormous 'output.' And how much anxious labour, disappointed hope, and many heartburnings may there not be represented by many of the remaining 13,920 now on the shelf and likely to remain there!

The Council of the University of Melbourne invite applications for the Professorship of Music and the Directorship of the University Conservatorium of Music in that city, which will become vacant on January 1 next. The fixed salary is about £800 per annum. All particulars can be obtained from the Agent-General for Victoria, General Sir Andrew Clarke, 15, Victoria Street, Westminster.

Those who wish to procure a copy of Sir George Grove's 'Dictionary of Music and Musicians' at the reduced price may be advised to do so without delay, as we understand that the special terms of purchase (two guineas for the four volumes) will be withdrawn on February 1, 1901. After that date the publishers intend to issue the work at the price of four guineas, just double that for which it may be obtained during the next four months.

With reference to the letter which appeared in our last issue (p. 612) relating to the grave of Dr. S. S. Wesley, we are glad to learn that the family of the distinguished composer have arranged to do everything that is necessary in the way of restoring the stone, including the recutting and releading of the inscription, &c. Therefore no subscriptions for this purpose will be needed.

The lecture arrangements for the forthcoming term at the Royal Academy of Music are as follows:—

Sir Alexander C. Mackenzie, four lectures on 'The History of Music,' September 26, October 3, 10, 17.

Miss Grace Jean Crocker, two lectures, October 24, 31.

Mr. E. F. Jacques, three lectures, 'The Æsthetics of Music,' November 7, 14, 21.

Mr. J. A. Fuller Maitland, three lectures on 'The development of Pianoforte Technique in the Nineteenth Century,' November 28, December 5, 12.

Dr. Arthur Henry Mann, organist of King's College, Cambridge, has been appointed chorus-master of the Norwich Musical Festival in succession to Dr. Horace Hill, deceased. On the 16th of May last Dr. Mann, who is a native of Norwich, completed his jubilee. He was a chorister in the Cathedral under the celebrated Dr. Zechariah Buck. The following organ appointments have been held by him: St. Peter's, Wolverhampton, 1870; Tettenhall Parish Church, 1871; Beverley Minster, 1875; and King's College, Cambridge, 1876, which post he has held and still holds with much distinction. Dr. Mann became a Fellow of the College of Organists in 1871, and took the degrees of Bachelor in Music and Doctor in Music at Oxford University in 1874 and 1882 respectively. He was appointed organist to the University of Cambridge in 1897, and he is an honorary member of the Royal Academy of Music. The Norwich chorus-master is well known as a great lover of Handel and as an editor. In the latter connection he has done good work in compiling (with Mr. Fuller Maitland) the Catalogue of Music in the Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge, as musical editor of the Church of England Hymnal, and of Tallis's Motet for forty voices. His compositions are almost exclusively for the church. For nearly a quarter of a century the musical service at King's College, Cambridge, has attained great and well-merited celebrity. As a church choirtrainer Dr. Mann stands in the front rank, and there is little doubt that the wisdom of the choice of the Norwich Committee will be fully justified. Hearty congratulations to Dr. Mann.

Amongst the Europeans in the Legations at Pekin during that recent terrible period of suspense was Mr. Berthold George Tours, eldest son of the late and much esteemed Berthold Tours. Young Mr. Tours, mainly by his own indomitable perseverance in the matter of hard study, succeeded in entering the Diplomatic service seven years ago. Here is his record, extracted from the official Foreign Office List:—

Tours, Berthold George

Passed a competitive examination, February 18, 1893, and was appointed a Student Interpreter in China, March 7, 1893. Promoted to be a 2nd Class Assistant, September 27, 1897. Has been in discharge of the duties of Accountant at Pekin since May 19, 1899.

Mr. B. G. Tours has inherited some of his father's musical gifts, as an Evening Service by him, in the key of D, is to be found in Messrs. Novello's catalogue. It is no wonder that Mr. Tours was proud of his son's success in the Diplomatic service; and it must be a source of supreme satisfaction and thankfulness to his mother that her son and his young wife and child have escaped the perils that were almost too awful to contemplate.

Mr. Edward Lloyd was announced to take his farewell of public life in December next. But, like other distinguished artists, he finds it exceedingly difficult to say 'Good-bye.' It appears that he intends to add a very considerable coda to his farewell, first by singing at the Cincinnati Musical Festival of 1902, and after that making an extensive professional tour in South Africa and in Australia. The eminent tenor has not hitherto visited these Colonies, and therefore it may be taken for granted that he will receive a right royal welcome from many sons and daughters in those parts of Greater Britain.

The Vice-Chancellor of Oxford has appointed Dr. Iliffe organist to the University in the place of the late Dr. Taylor. Dr. Iliffe came to reside in Oxford as far back as 1878, when he was for a time organist of St. Barnabas' Church. Since 1883 he has been organist of St. John's College, where his quiet, unostentatious work has earned for him the respect and regard of the President and Fellows. He duly proceeded to the degrees of B.A. and M.A., though fully occupied with his daily work as a musician. Besides devoting some of his leisure to composition, Dr. Iliffe is an ardent student of the art of music, and probably many of our readers have reaped the benefit of his admirable critical analysis of Bach's 'Wohltemperirte Clavier,' issued in No. 56 of Novello's Primers. As a conductor, Dr. Iliffe has also done good work in producing at the concerts of the Eglesfield (Queen's College) Musical Society new cantatas and other compositions from the pens of Prout, Mee, Bridge, Gadsby, Woods, Sweeting, and others.

The forthcoming issue is announced by Messrs. Breitkopf and Härtel of the first complete edition of the works of Victoria (better known as Vittoria), one of the classics of polyphonic music, and a contemporary and, to some extent, the successor of Palestrina. The publication, which is being prepared on the same liberal scale as the other standard editions of the great masters published by the eminent Leipzig firm, is edited by Dr. Felipe Pedrell, the distinguished Spanish musical savant, who has been engaged for many years in a special study of the compositions of his illustrious countryman. A complete and critically revised edition of Vittoria's works will be specially welcome to all earnest musicians, as many of his masses, motets, &c., have hitherto been almost inaccessible to the student.

Dr. McNaught—like the proverbial omnibus driver who spends his 'day off' in sitting beside a brother Jehu—improved the occasion of his holiday in Lakeland by delivering two addresses on choral singing. The first, at Morecambe, had reference to 'the preparation of music for competition, conducting, and the methods of adjudication'; the second, at Kendal, was entitled 'How to teach choral singing.' In the course of his many words of wisdom, Dr. McNaught said: 'It was true that the success of a conductor depended upon the material of the choir, but it was equally true that the choir depended upon the skill and sagacity of the conductor. Therefore, the study of the training of conductors must precede the study of the training of choirs.' No truer words have ever been spoken in connection with this important subject.

A provincial journal, in an appreciative notice of the article on 'The wives of some great composers,' which appeared in our last issue, states that the two wives of J. S. Bach are buried in Westminster Abbey. This is a grave perversion of the truth.

An echo of the Hereford Festival:

Q. Why is a baker like a Tonic Sol-faist?

A. Because he kneads the movable dough.

St. Michael's College, Tenbury, founded by and so long associated with the late Sir Frederick Ouseley, will form the subject of an illustrated and descriptive article in our next issue.

THE HEREFORD MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(By our Special Correspondent.)

The pleasant city on the banks of the Wye furnished the locale of the 'One hundred and seventy-seventh meeting of the Three Choirs of Hereford, Gloucester, and Worcester, for the benefit of the Widows and Orphans of Clergymen in the three dioceses,' to give the Festival its full title. It would be hardly fair to make a comparison with the sister cities in the matter of the natural advantages which belong to Hereford; but one cannot help taking into account the spacious Close—and how beautiful that verdant setting of the venerable pile appeared on those sunshiny Festival days—the broad thoroughfares of the city, and the picturesque river flowing its tranquil course Severnwards—all these externals are not without their effect upon one who visits these music meetings in the right spirit.

Before placing upon record the daily doings of the Festival, I may refer to two features of the event because they deserve special mention. It is a matter of sincere congratulation that for the first time in the long history of these meetings the chorus was selected entirely from the trio of cities. Hitherto, outside assistance has had to be sought in the choral department; but the attainments of the chorus at the recent meeting have fully justified this new departure. Moreover, Dr. Sinclair had gathered together a body of voices of whom any conductor might feel proud. One of course missed the magnetising influence of the Sheffield folk, but for all that the Hereford Festival choir proved to be a very capable body of singers, and full acknowledgment must be made of their efficiency; it is their just due.

But however good a choir may be, it becomes backboneless without a conductor who knows his business. Such an one is Dr. G. R. Sinclair. Energetic, resourceful, tactful, and businesslike to a degree, the present organist of Hereford Cathedral proved himself to be the right man in the right place. He knew what he wanted and he got it without beating about the bush or wasting time. The performances conducted by him throughout the Festival reached a very high level of excellence, and any evidence of supergesture, resulting from his boundless energy, in the use of his baton may be forgiven when the results were so uniformly praiseworthy.

Statistics are dry reading, yet The Musical Times would belie its traditions of being a record for future reference were certain figures to be omitted. Exclusive of extra instruments for special works, the band (ably led by Mr. Arthur W. Payne) numbered some seventy players, of whom forty-two were 'strings,' who proved themselves to be a very capable body of performers. The Festival chorus consisted of 241 voices, distributed thus:—

Sopranos:	Ladies, 52 Boys, 23	Altos:	Ladies, 46 Men, 12	Tenors:	Basses:
	75		58	50	58

THE SPECIAL OPENING SERVICE.

The Festival was worthily inaugurated on Sunday morning, the 9th ult., by a special service in the fine old Cathedral. Whilst waiting for its commencement my thoughts retrospected, as it were, to some former organists of the fine old fane, of whom the most distinguished were Dr. John Bull (1582-1591), John Clarke-Whitfeld (1820-1832), and Samuel Sebastian Wesley (1832-1835). But one was soon recalled from the dead past to the living present by the strains of Sir Alexander Mackenzie's Benedictus (for orchestra), which, by reason of its solemnity, formed a fitting opening voluntary on this occasion. And here it may be stated that the entire Festival forces (with the exception of the soloists) took part in this service, that they occupied the temporary orchestra erected in front of the West door of the Cathedral, and that Dr. Sinclair—arrayed in the gorgeous robes of a Doctor of Music—conducted. The special Psalms (xlvi. and xlviii.) were sung to a very melodious single chant (in A) by Garrett and a double chant (in D) by Dr. Sinclair. The occasional employment of the orchestra in the Psalms was not only most judicious, but exceedingly effective, especially the drums in the verse 'Though the waters thereof rage and swell: and though the mountains shake at the tempest of the same,' and the brass at the words 'He maketh wars to cease . . . and burneth the chariots in the fire.' The Glorias, with full band and chorus of 300 performers, were overwhelming in their simple grandeur. The setting of the Te Deum and Benedictus was that in the key of F, composed by Mr. Edward Elgar for the last Hereford Festival (in 1897). No one can question the appropriateness of this very remarkable composition—a favourite of its composer's, I believe—on such an occasion. To those who would say 'This is not church music,' the composer might very naturally reply: 'I wrote my work on Festival lines, and therefore it should be judged from that point of view, and not from that of Gibbons in F.' It would be interesting to know what Tallis would have said to Smart in F! But to return to the service. The first anthem, Ouseley's 'It came even to pass' was doubtless selected as a tribute to the memory of a former Precentor and Canon of Hereford and one who did so much for the Cathedral and English church music. With its orchestral accompaniment it well merited a place in the service so eminently Festival in character, and the charming quartet 'For He is good' furnished a very pleasant contrast. 'All people that on earth do dwell,' sung to the Old Hundredth tune, in which the great congregation joined, was taken at a stately rate of speed, and not rushed along at an outrageous pace. An excellent and short sermon, preached by the Rev. Russell Wakefield, vicar of St. Mary's, Marylebone, was followed by the Offertory, during which Dr. C. H. Lloyd's melodious Festival Overture was played. Beethoven's 'Hallelujah' furnished the second anthem, and a very inspiring service was brought to a close with Sir John Stainer's devotional Sevenfold Amen. Mr. Percy C. Hull, who presided at the temporary Festival organ—specially erected by Messrs. Nicholson and Son, of Worcester—played Bach's noble G minor Prelude and Fugue on the Cathedral (Willis) organ as the great congregation of some 3,000 people dispersed.

A PATRIOTIC PERFORMANCE.

The whole of Monday was devoted to rehearsals. Tuesday morning witnessed what was termed a 'Patriotic Performance,' not a particularly nice definition in connection with the House of God. The occasion furnished two of the four novelties of the Festival. Following the National Anthem, Sir Hubert Parry came forward to conduct his Thanksgiving Te Deum, 'composed . . . to commemorate the noble achievements of the British Forces in South Africa.' The Te Deum has been so ably described in the September issue of The Musical Times that there is no need to give details of its constructive excellence. Suffice it to say that, in this, his latest work, Sir Hubert Parry fully sustains his high reputation for vigorous music, in which contrapuntal skill go hand in hand with broad choral effects and exciting climaxes. It was a worthy contribution to the Festival. The difficulties of the work were probably handicapped by the Latin words to which the Hymn is set, as singers often fail to get their best tone when singing in a strange language, moreover, they are apt to be deficient in attack from the same cause. The rendering was hardly an ideal one, although all concerned did their best under the circumstances. The soloists were Madame Ella Russell, Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Muriel Foster, and Mr. Andrew Black.

To the Te Deum succeeded the noble Symphony in D (No. 2) of Brahms—a work that has long been accepted as a classic of high degree—which received a very satisfactory rendering under Dr. Sinclair's baton. The second Festival novelty, Professor Stanford's setting of Mr. W. E. Henley's expressive lines entitled 'Last Post,' was next performed. This 'Choral Song' gave evidence of that skill in craftsmanship and grasp of effect which has long been one of the attributes of the Cambridge Professor. As its title implies, the bugle call—blown over the grave of fallen warriors—is a prominent feature of the work; but at Hereford the bugle was replaced by a valve trumpet, not only in the opening symphony, but also in the concluding section, when the 'call' was heard echowise from far away in a distant part of the Cathedral. The work, which was performed at one of the State Concerts last year, received a very effective interpretation under the direction of the composer.

After the interval Verdi's 'Requiem' was presented, under Dr. Sinclair's conductorship. With the recollection of the memorable performances of the work in 1875 at the Royal Albert Hall, under the composer's direction, it would not be fair for me to make comparisons with the rendering it received at Hereford. But this may be said—in terms more or less military, as becometh a 'patriotic performance'—that Dr. Sinclair brought his forces through with flying colours. That the solo portions were in safe keeping, it is only necessary to mention the names of the soloists—Madame Albani, Miss Marie Brema, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Mr. Andrew Black.

THE EVENING CONCERT.

This took place in the Shire Hall in the presence of a large audience. The attractive programme may be quoted in full:—

1. Overture—'Die Zauberflöte' .. .. Mozart.
2. Scene III. from 'Caractacus' (for Soli and Chorus) Edward Elgar
   Madame Ella Russell and Mr. Edward Lloyd.
   (Conducted by the Composer.)
3. Romance in F (for Solo Violin and Orchestra) .. Beethoven.
   Mr. Arthur W. Payne.
4. Ballade—'La Fiancée du Timbalier' .. .. Saint-Saëns.
   Miss Marie Brema.
5. 'Siegfried Idyll' .. .. Wagner.
6. Overture—'The Flying Dutchman' .. .. Wagner.
7. Scena—'Ocean, thou mighty monster' ('Oberon') .. Weber.
   Madame Ella Russell.
8. Preislied—'Die Meistersinger' .. .. .. Wagner.
   Mr. Edward Lloyd.
9. Songs—'Der Doppelgänger' (Orchestrated by Theodor Thomas) .. .. ..Schubert.
   'Der Erlkönig' (Orchestrated by Anton Seidl .. .. Loewe.
   Miss Marie Brema.
10. Hungarian Rhapsody (No. 2, in D minor and G major).. Liszt.

The outstanding features of the concert were the dramatically powerful scene from 'Caractacus,' in which Madame Russell and Mr. Edward Lloyd greatly distinguished themselves, and Saint-Saëns's delightful song, delightfully sung by Miss Brema. Beethoven's Romance in F was artistically interpreted by Mr. Arthur W. Payne, the well known leader of the Queen's Hall orchestra. In the various orchestral numbers Dr. Sinclair gave further evidence of his natural conducting gifts.

'ELIJAH,' TSCHAÏKOWSKY, AND OTHERS.

The golden orb of day put on one of his most smiling expressions on the Wednesday morning of the Festival. It was market day, and, considering that Hereford is such an agricultural centre, it is no wonder that the streets were more or less bucolic in appearance. But the farmers and their entourage by no means held possession of the city. Comfortable looking country parsons were very much in evidence, and so were many fair damsels, who, in the daintiest of costumes, gave just that touch of airy lightness to an animated scene that was typically English and pleasant of vision.

'Elijah' was the source of attraction to those on Festival bent. As at Worcester last year, I listened to Mendelssohn's great oratorio in the Ladye Chapel. There, in that distant place of seclusion, the familiar strains reached the ear with an ethereal beauty. Except that Mr. Santley again demonstrated his wonderful interpretation of the music assigned to the Prophet—with what Mendelssohnian impetuosity he sang 'Is not His word like a fire?'—it is only necessary to record the names of the solo singers who took part—viz., Mesdames Albani, Agnes Nicholls (who, in the music of the Widow, sang remarkably well), Hilda and Muriel Foster, Marian Blinkhorn, and Ada Crossley; and Messrs. Edward Lloyd, William Green, Daniel Price, and Santley. Master Treloar, a Hereford chorister, again took the part of the Youth with all due effect. The attendance was the largest during the Festival—there being present no fewer than 2,126 people. Those who are in the habit of asserting that 'Elijah' is an effete oratorio may derive all the comfort and satisfaction they can from those figures.

The evening performance began with Part I. of the 'Creation,' the solos in which were sung by Madame Albani, Mr. William Green, and Mr. Watkin Mills. The 'Dixit Dominus' of Leonardo Leo (1694-1746) followed. This fine work, for double chorus, soli, and orchestra, was a most welcome feature in a scheme that was not without certain blemishes. The autograph of the Psalm was discovered in the Fitz-William Library, Cambridge, and the work was edited by Professor Stanford and published by Messrs. Novello for a performance given by the Cambridge University Musical Society (then under Dr. Stanford's enthusiastic sway) in December, 1879. The splendid vigour and breadth of old Leo's choral writing, and the general interest which belongs to the work, should cause this noble specimen of church music to be better known than it is. With the addition of Miss Agnes Nicholls and Miss Muriel Foster, the solo singers were the same as in the 'Creation.'

What shall be said of Tschaïkowsky's 'Pathetic' Symphony, which concluded the day's proceedings? It was impossible to listen to those barbaric strains, and to gaze the while at those massive pillars and noble Norman arches—the glory of Hereford Cathedral—without a strong feeling of conviction that a grave mistake had been made in including this work in the Festival scheme. If our venerable and venerated cathedrals are to be turned into mere concert halls, and their sacred associations destroyed in the process, then there is nothing more to be said. It is all very well for young conductors to be ambitious and to be eager to walk in the paths of novelty; but enthusiasm in these respects should be tempered with discretion, and in getting out of ruts care should be taken to avoid treading in slippery places. It was a welcome relief to leave the heated and strenuous-charged atmosphere of the Cathedral and to wend one's way to Broomy Hill, there to breathe the fresh air of God's own heaven and to behold the stars.

Hereford Cathedral.

PROFESSOR PARKER'S NEW WORK.

Thursday morning witnessed the first performance of Professor Horatio Parker's setting of Psalm cvii., composed expressly for the Festival. It will be remembered that the distinguished American composer visited the Worcester Festival last year, at which he conducted his 'Hora Novissima' with great success. This novelty, entitled 'A Wanderer's Psalm,' founded on the Tonus Peregrinus, furnishes the chorus with plenty of interesting work, and it occupies just under an hour in performance—a half-programme work, in fact. Of its seven numbers, two only are solos per se. Moreover, there is no difficulty in regard to an unknown tongue, as the music is set to English words. Many interesting features could be referred to did space allow, and had not the work been subjected to careful review in the last issue of this journal. But mention must be made of the vigorous bass solo and chorus, 'They that go down to the sea in ships,' and the melodious and well-written unaccompanied chorus, 'The righteous will consider this.' Yes, there can be no doubt that the Yale professor's latest production is not only an interesting, but a very practical production that ought to make its way in popular favour. The chorus gave every evidence of keen enjoyment in regard to their participation in the Psalm, and Professor Parker, who conducted, must have felt very gratified at the result of his labours. The soloists were Madame Albani, Miss Ada Crossley, Mr. William Green, and Mr. Andrew Black.

The remainder of the programme consisted of the Good Friday music (Act III.) and the Finale (Act I.) of Wagner's 'Parsifal,' which was as much out of place—if not actually irreverent—in a Cathedral as Tschaïkowsky's Symphony. Another attempted Cathedralisation was that of Beethoven's Choral Symphony, with a sacred (!) version of Schiller's words! Here again, while fully acknowledging Dr. Sinclair's splendid qualities and the valuable services he has rendered to the cause of music in Hereford, I must part company with him on a question that has caused many misgivings in the minds of not a few thoughtful people in regard to the wisdom of admitting essentially non-sacred works into cathedrals. Without discussing the question, what is or what is not sacred music, there is a deep-rooted feeling of association which should not be lightly set aside and which is entitled to respect even on Festival occasions.

Bach's church cantata, 'God goeth up with shouting,' opened the evening performance. This characteristic work of the great Cantor has probably not before been heard, in its complete form, in this country. Next to the opening and closing numbers, its principal feature is a lovely mezzo-soprano solo (well sung by Miss Brema), set to the words 'My spirit Him descries,' with its charming obbligati accompaniment of two oboes. The effect of the final choral, 'O Jesus Christ, Thou dearest Lord,' was simply stupendous, and again proved that in the hands of a master simplicity is a moving power in music. Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's contribution to the Festival novelties was a setting of four sonnets, by Mrs. Browning, under the generic title of 'The Soul's Expression.' This is really a cycle of songs—The Soul's Expression, Tears, Grief, Comfort. It seems strange that Mr. Taylor should have sought out these sonnets for the exercise of his muse, as it is a question whether they are at all suitable for musical treatment. But although thus handicapped, the young African composer has not failed to leave the impress of his great gifts on these gloomy lyrics, especially in the orchestration thereof. All possible justice was done to the songs by Miss Marie Brema, under the composer's conductorship. Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' terminated the proceedings. The soloists of the evening were Madame Ella Russell, Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Marie Brema, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Mr. Daniel Price. The chorus, notwithstanding the demands made upon their voices by the long day's performances, again proved their fitness for the work required of them.

'The Messiah,' on Friday morning, practically brought the Festival to a close. The soloists were Madame Albani, Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Ada Crossley, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Mr. Watkin Mills, while the important obbligato to 'The trumpet shall sound' was in the safe hands (or lips) of Mr. W. Morrow.

The Hereford Festival of 1900 turned out to be a great success from all points of view, and everyone connected with its organisation is to be congratulated thereupon. Concerning Dr. Sinclair as a conductor I have already spoken. It is only necessary to add that he engineered the whole Festival with remarkable skill and judgment. Mr. Ivor Atkins (of Worcester) and Mr. Herbert Brewer (of Gloucester) presided at the temporary organ with their customary ability at the morning and evening performances respectively. Full acknowledgment must be made of the courtesy and attention of the honorary secretary of the Festival, the Rev. Prebendary Ashley.

The following are the Cathedral attendance statistics and a comparison with those of the previous Festival:—

	1897.	1900.
Sunday	2,163	2,981
1st Day (Tuesday morning) ..	1,348	1,565
2nd ,, (Morning)	1,337	2,126
,, ,, (Evening)	1,706	1,408
3rd ,, (Morning)	1,449	1,452
,, ,, (Evening)	1,435	1 510
4th ,, (Morning)	1,798	1,987
	11,236	13,029

An increase of 1,793 persons.

THE CHAMBER CONCERT.

The Hereford 'use' is to conclude the Festival with a concert of chamber music, which was given in the Shire Hall on Friday evening. With so capable an artist as Miss Agnes Zimmermann as solo pianist, and a quartet of strings in the competent hands of Messrs. Payne, Eayres, Hobday, and Ould, the instrumental portion of the programme was in safe keeping. The Misses Hilda and Muriel Foster sang duets with all their characteristic charm, and Mr. Santley created a veritable furore. A special feature of the evening was the singing of the Gloucester Orpheus Society, a well drilled body of singers, under the direction of Mr. A. Herbert Brewer, organist of Gloucester Cathedral and conductor of the Society. A part-song, specially composed by Mr. Brewer for this occasion, entitled 'Love's Philosophy,' was excellently sung and proved to be an attractive composition of distinct merit.

A series of special morning services (at 8.30 a.m.), in which the boys and lay clerks of the Three Cathedrals formed a united choir, were held on the four days of the Festival. At that on Thursday, which I had the privilege of attending, Hopkins in F was sung and the anthem was 'O clap your hands' (Greene). At all these services Mr. Percy C. Hull, Dr. Sinclair's invaluable assistant, presided at the organ with marked ability. His voluntaries on this particular occasion were the slow movement from Mr. Elgar's Organ Sonata and Bach's small E minor Prelude and Fugue.

POSTSCRIPT.

After the performance of Verdi's 'Requiem,' a telegram was despatched to the veteran composer in these words:—

Maestro Verdi. Busseto.

Saluti affetuosi da tutti dopo una recita splendida del Requiem Festival di Hereford.

(Signed) Albani-Gye, Brema, Lloyd, Sinclair, Elgar, Santley, Stanford.

Amongst those present at the Festival were Professor Samuel S. Sanford (of Yale University, New Haven), to whom Professor Parker has dedicated his 'Wanderer's Psalm,' Dr. C. Harford Lloyd (of Eton), Mr. George Riseley (of Bristol), Dr. Henry Coward (of Sheffield), Mr. Taphouse (of Oxford), the Rev. John Hampton (of Tenbury), and Mr. F. Oddin Taylor, secretary of the Norwich Musical Festival. The last-named was observed to be holding a conversation with Mr. Elgar. Was this in the nature of a coming event (in 1902) casting its shadow before?

Madame Albani sang in the Choral Symphony for the first time in her career.

Mr. Edward Lloyd, who has now made his farewell appearance at a Three Choirs Festival, was presented by a lady at Hereford with a beautiful Jersey heifer. This *moo*sical quadruped is to be named 'Symphony' and will be conducted to Mr. Lloyd's estate in Sussex, where the great tenor will doubtless watch the movements of his new 'symphony' with interest.

The view of Hereford Cathedral is from a photograph by The Photochrom Company, Limited.

DR. G. R. SINCLAIR,

CONDUCTOR OF THE HEREFORD MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

Not the least interesting feature connected with the three chief musicians of Hereford, Gloucester, and Worcester Cathedrals is that they were all born in the sixties; thus they are all young men. The traditional type of an English Cathedral organist is that of an elderly, double-chinned, more or less portly gentleman, given to playing from figured bass and taking things easily. But the conditions of musical life are so changed that, now-a-days, a man who allows himself to get old is severely handicapped in the race, especially if he hold a Three Choirs appointment. The senior of the trio of organists—Dr. Sinclair, Messrs. Brewer and Atkins—is the organist of Hereford Cathedral. It was during an interval of the recent Festival that Dr. Sinclair, in his charming old house and garden in the Close, kindly spared a few minutes in order to tell us something about his early days.

George Robertson Sinclair was born at Croydon on October 28, 1863. Anyone who possesses a copy of The Times of October 31 of that year may find contained therein the following information on page 1, under the heading 'Births':—

On the 28th inst., at 3, Devonshire Villas, Sydenham Road, Croydon, the wife of Dr. R. S. Sinclair, of Bombay, of a son.

Dr. Sinclair's ancestors, though of Scotch descent, have for several generations been settled in Ireland—Killiney, near Dublin, being his home. In this connection, when he recently opened an organ in Dublin, one of the newspapers, with true Hibernian humour, said that he was 'originally (!) a native of Kil*kenny*'! It seems as though the good scribe must have had some inkling of Dr. Sinclair's affection for the feline species—but more of this anon. Dr. Sinclair's father—an LL.D. of Trinity College, Dublin—held the appointment of Director of Public Education in Bombay, and it was owing to the temporary residence of his mother in England that the Hereford organist happened to be born at

(From a Photograph by Messrs. Jakeman and Carver, Hereford.)

Croydon. But he is proud to call himself an Irishman; moreover, did he not proclaim his nationality by hoisting the Irish flag outside his house during the Hereford Festival week?

At the early age of eight young Sinclair entered the Royal Irish Academy of Music, where he studied under the late Sir Robert Stewart. He soon, however, left Dublin. Stewart was an old college friend of his father's and of Sir Frederick Gore Ouseley. Thus it came to pass that, in 1873, young Sinclair—aged ten—gained a choral scholarship at St. Michael's College, Tenbury. There he remained for six years, singing in the choir at the daily services, sometimes deputising at the organ, and greatly benefiting by his intercourse with Ouseley, as Sir John Stainer had done years before. It was the intention of his parents that he should take Holy Orders; but the death of his father changed the course of his life-work. Since the age of seventeen, having been thrown on his own resources, he has been entirely dependent on his unaided exertions.

In May, 1879, he became a pupil of Dr. Harford Lloyd, then organist of Gloucester Cathedral, and gained much experience from his friendship with that excellent musician. Indeed, he speak in terms of warm gratitude of his old friend and master, now Precentor of Eton. Sinclair was assistant-organist of the Cathedral and organist of the Church of St. Mary-de-Crypt, Gloucester.

Ouseley had kept his eye on the boy during his choristership at Tenbury, and when Bishop (afterwards Archbishop) Benson, of Truro, asked Ouseley to recommend him a young man for the organistship of the proposed Cornish Cathedral, he at once nominated Sinclair. Thus at the early age of seventeen the youth became organist and choirmaster of Truro Cathedral. Bishop Benson said to him: 'You have the knowledge, with the energy of a boy, but you must do what you're told.' The young organist went to the Bishop constantly to receive his instructions and seek his advice—'in fact,' he says, 'I was a sort of prefect, with the Bishop as head-master.' At the consecration of the new Cathedral of Truro (November 3, 1887) Sinclair greatly distinguished himself in the musical arrangements of that important ceremony. Following upon the consecration service, at which many of the Cathedral choirs of England were represented, a series of Diocesan choral festivals was held in the new sanctuary, when some 4,000 singers from all parts of the county were conducted by him during the week. He also designed the fine four-manual organ built by Father Willis. 'I quite thought that I should never leave Truro,' he says. 'I was very happy there; I had my little yawl, and seemed to be a fixture. But, almost against my inclination, I was urged to apply for this post, then vacant by the death of my predecessor, Dr. Langdon Colborne. I believe that I was run very close by another man, but I got it, and here I have been ever since.' That was in the year 1889.

THE METAMORPHOSIS OF DAN.

Dr. Sinclair has conducted the last four Hereford Musical Festivals—1891, 1894, 1897, and 1900—with conspicuous success. Through his persevering energy the sum of £2,300 was raised to re-build the Cathedral organ, the work being carried out by Father Willis. The Ouseley Memorial window, a prominent feature in the Cathedral, is also largely due to his exertions, and his influence on the musical life of Hereford and the neighbourhood is very great and beneficial to the progress of the art in that fertile region.

As an organist, accompanist, and solo player Dr. Sinclair occupies a very high place in technical attainment and sympathetic feeling. He played organ concertos at the Gloucester Festivals of 1892, 1895, and 1898. An echo of his pedalosity may be found in the opening of the 'G. R. S.'—i.e., G. R. Sinclair—section of Mr. Elgar's 'Variations on an original Theme.' He leads a very busy life at Hereford. His conducting engagements alone include the Hereford Choral Society, Herefordshire Orchestral Society, Crickhowell Musical Society, Ross Musical Society, and Herefordshire Choral Union.

In July last Dr. Sinclair was unanimously—first by the committee and afterwards by the members—appointed conductor of the Birmingham Festival Choral Society, in succession to the late Dr. Swinnerton Heap. This event in his life is made all the more gratifying to him in that he did not in the least degree seek the post; the offer of it was purely spontaneous on the part of the Birmingham people. In 1895 he was made an Honorary Member of the Royal Academy of Music, and last year he received the degree of Doctor of Music at the hands of the Archbishop of Canterbury. To his conducting gifts we have referred in the notice of the Hereford Festival.

Dr. Sinclair's hobbies are cycling and photography. He thoroughly enjoys a yachting cruise. Cats have a strong claim upon his affections—'at present I have only six,' he remarks. But Dan has the first place in his heart. 'Who is Dan?' He is a most prepossessing specimen of the brindle bull dog race, who literally dogs his master's footsteps wherever he goes, except that he enters not the Cathedral, but waits on the doorstep thereof. Every rehearsal Dr. Sinclair conducts and every lesson he gives, Dan honours with his presence. We give in fac-simile a caricature, drawn in pencil by a member of the Hereford Choral Society, of the 'Metamorphosis of Dan.' This comical sketch was quietly passed round during a rehearsal, but was never intended to fall into the hands of the conductor! As a distinguished London musical critic observed at Hereford: 'Dan fully deserves to be made a Dogter of Music!'

MR. ELGAR'S SETTING OF 'THE DREAM OF GERONTIUS.'

TO BE PRODUCED AT THE BIRMINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL ON OCTOBER 3.

'The Death-bed of a dear friend,' we read in Mr. Henry J. Jennings's 'Cardinal Newman: the Story of his Life,' 'was the inspiring cause which occasioned "The Dream of Gerontius" to be written.' Gerontius, while he lies a-dying, dreams of his soul's transportation to the unseen world, and its reception by the ministering agents of the Almighty's will. In a sublime strain of poetic power the mysteries are pictured that lie hidden across the portals of the tomb. The straining eye of a hungering fancy discloses its idea of the 'maybe of the soul's future.'

Another critic speaks of the late Cardinal's poetic masterpiece as 'one of the most unique and original of the poems of the present century, as well as that one of all of them which is in every sense the least in sympathy with the temper of the present century, indeed the most completely independent of the Zeitgeist.'

That such a poem should attract the attention of musicians was but to be expected. So far, however, no one has been bold enough to undertake the formidable task. It required a poet, a dreamer of dreams, to do justice to such a subject. Has Edward Elgar succeeded? The production of his work should prove that he has, at least, deserved to succeed. For if ever a musician poured out his whole heart and soul in his music, the composer of 'King Olaf' and 'Caractacus' seems to have done so in this, his latest and greatest work.

'The Dream of Gerontius' is scored for a very large orchestra, consisting of three flutes, two oboes, English horn, two clarinets, bass clarinet, two bassoons, double bassoon, three trumpets, four horns, three trombones, bass tuba, two harps, organ, three tympani, gong, Glockenspiel, Schellen, drums, and cymbals. The strings are occasionally divided into fifteen or eighteen or even twenty parts, and the score is altogether, perhaps, the 'fullest' and most complicated in English music.

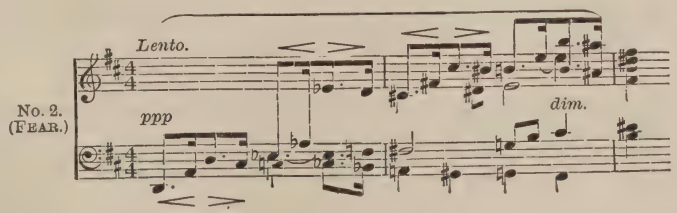
As the 'Dream' is, so far, Edward Elgar's most important contribution to his art, so the orchestral Prelude is his longest and most remarkable movement of the kind.* It is modelled on the Weber-Wagner operatic prelude, in that it deals with material to be found in the body of the work, and in such a way that, once the significance of the various themes is understood, the intelligent listener can easily attach a connected programme to the music without having to draw very largely upon his own imagination.

It commences with the most important theme in the cantata:—

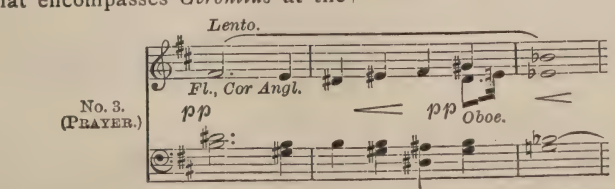
This solemn subject appears whenever the thoughts of Gerontius or of his Guardian Angel dwell on the dread enigma of the judgment meted out to mortals by Almighty God.

As it will be advisable, for the sake of clearness, to give all 'leading' themes the shortest possible designations compatible with a solicitous respect for the composer's intentions, the above mystery-laden melody may be named the 'Judgment' theme.

With a change to the key of D, a second very important theme is announced—



Slowly, mysteriously, on muted strings, it passes by, and, with a sudden diminuendo, vanishes into thin air, so to speak—a phantom to affright the soul. It suggests the fear that encompasses Gerontius at the thought of death and judgment. This 'Fear' theme is immediately and appropriately followed by a 'Prayer' theme—



* The Analysis of the Prelude is reprinted from the Birmingham Festival Programme Book, by kind permission of the Committee.

Note the final soft sigh of three notes in the oboe; it forms an important feature of this deeply expressive theme whenever it is heard. The last two quotations are twice presented in the order named, and with a change to triple time a very original and beautiful subject is announced. It suggests 'sleep,' not the heaven-sent 'gentle thing,' however, that 'slides into soul,' but the weary, troubled sleep of a sick man:

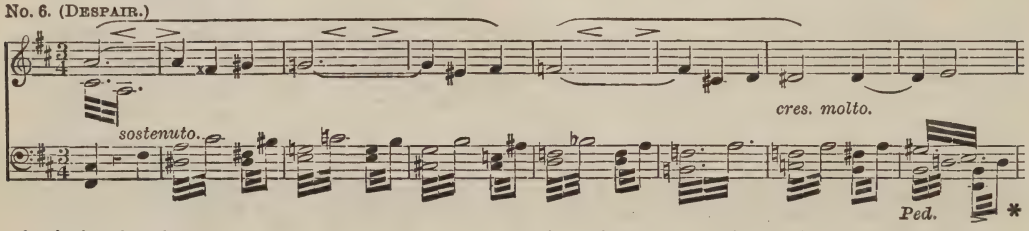
No. 4. (Sleep.)

A solo viola and horns play the melody; the rocking figure of accompaniment is assigned to harps (in octaves) and first violoncellos, and the pppp drone-like bass figure is given to two (only) second violoncellos. With a gradual crescendo we reach this pathetic outburst, to which Gerontius utters the prayer 'Miserere, Judex meus.' It may be called the 'Miserere' theme—

No. 5. (Miserere.)

It is soon followed by a very chromatic subject, which recurs at the dying man's cry of despair, 'O Jesu, help! pray for me, Mary!'—

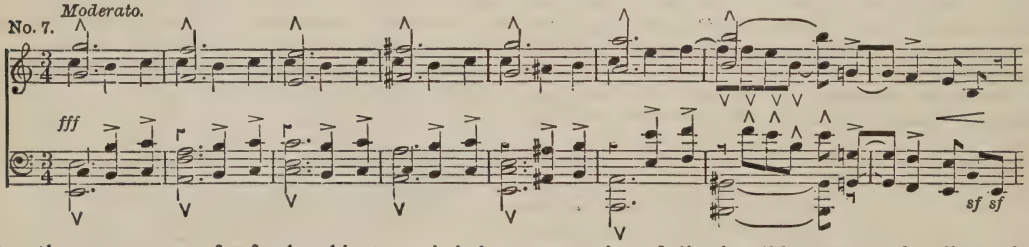
No. 6. (Despair.)



A soul-stirring inspiration this, striking an acute note of suffering and despair.

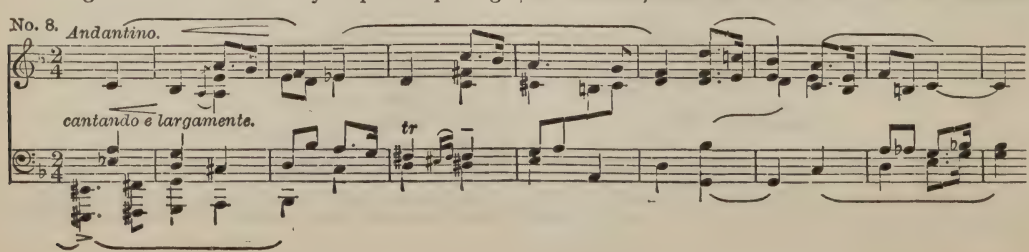
A repetition of this 'Despair' theme, a minor third higher, with fuller instrumentation, forte and crescendo, and we reach the tremendous climax of the Prelude—

No. 7.



It has the appearance of a fresh subject, yet it is but a metamorphosis, by augmentation, of the short, humble 'Prayer' theme (No. 3). Thundered out by the full force of the orchestra, including organ, it seems like the whole Church's agonised supplication: 'Jesu, have mercy! Mary, pray for me!' Note the persistent, strongly accentuated figure of three crotchets to the bar, having all the importance of a new theme rather than an accompaniment figure, and leading to a remarkable syncopated passage suggestive of dire bewilderment and collapse in the hour of supremest trial. Strange as it may appear, the 'Prayer' theme does not occur in the above form in the body of the cantata, which makes the prominence given to it in the Prelude all the more remarkable. Its repetition, a fourth higher, leads us through a sixteen-bar modulatory passage to this fresh theme, sung to the words 'Go forth, in the name of Apostles and Evangelists,' by the chorus of Attendants, after Gerontius has breathed his last—

No. 8.



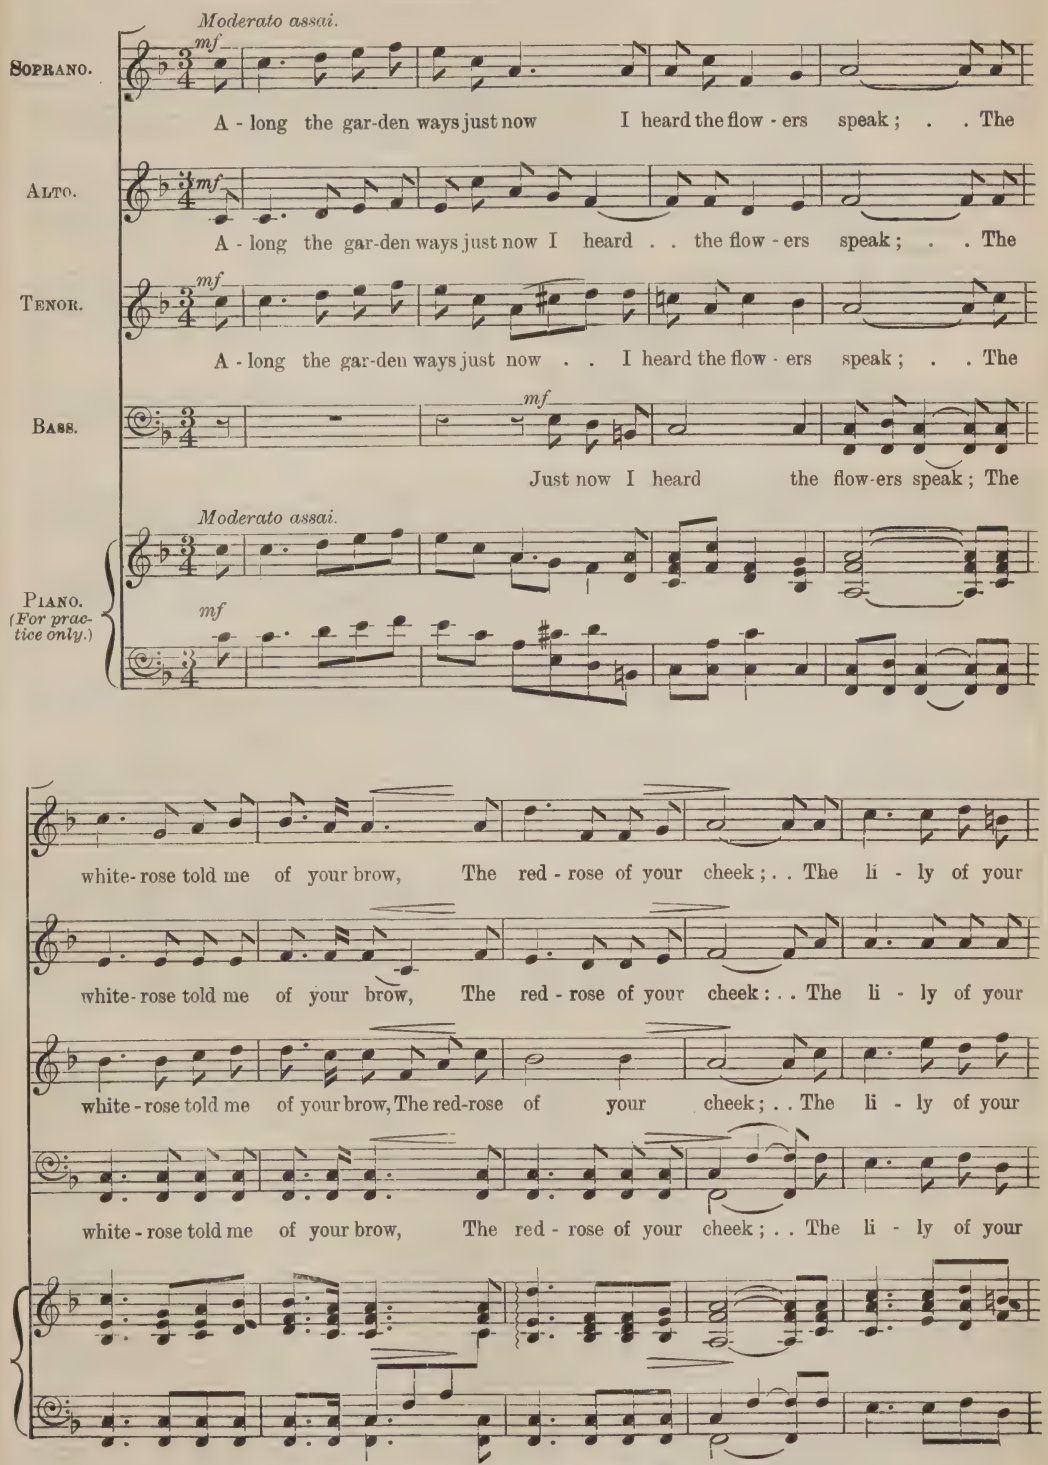
A Love Symphony.

PART-SONG.

Words by A. O'Shaughnessy.*

Composed by Percy Pitt (Op. 30, No. 3).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited; and NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., New York.



Moderato assai.
mf
Soprano.
A - long the gar-den ways just now I heard the flow - ers speak; . . The Alto.
A - long the gar-den ways just now I heard . . the flow - ers speak; . . The Tenor.
A - long the gar-den ways just now . . I heard the flow - ers speak; . . The Bass.
Just now I heard the flow-ers speak; The Piano. (For practice only.)
white-rose told me of your brow, The red-rose of your cheek; . . The li - ly of your white-rose told me of your brow, The red-rose of your cheek: . . The li - ly of your white-rose told me of your brow, The red-rose of your cheek; . . The li - ly of your white-rose told me of your brow, The red-rose of your cheek; . . The li - ly of your

* By kind permission of Messrs. Chatto and Windus.

Copyright, 1900, by Novello and Company, Limited.

bend - ed head ; The bind - weed of your hair ; . . Each . . look'd its bend - ed head ; The bind - weed of your hair ; Each look'd its love - - - - - bend - ed head; The bind - weed of your hair ; Each look'd its love - - - - - bend- ed head;The bindweed of your hair ; Each look'd its love - - - - - love - li- est and said You were more fair, you . . were more fair. . . I
- - li - est and said . . You were more fair, you . . were more fair. . . I
- - li - est and said You were . . more fair, you . . were more fair. . .
- - li - est and said You were more fair, you . . were more fair. . .
went in - to the wood a - non, And heard . . the wild birds sing, How went in - to the wood a - non, And heard . . the wild birds sing, How
I went in - to the wood And heard the wild birds sing, How
I went in - to the wood And heard the wild birds sing, . . How sweet you were; they war - bled on, Piped, trilled, the self-same thing.

sweet you were; they war - bled on, . . Piped, trilled, the self-same thing.
sweet . . . you were; they war-bled on, Piped, trilled, the self - same thing.
sweet you were; they war - bled on, . . . Piped, trilled, the self - same Thrush, black-bird, lin - net, Thrush, blackbird, lin - net, And Thrush, black-bird, lin - net, . . with - out pause, blackbird, lin - net, And Thrush, black-bird, lin - net, Thrush, blackbird, lin - net, . . The bur - den did re - thing. Thrush, blackbird, lin - net, And still be - gan a - gain, . . . be - cause You were more still be - - gan . . . a - gain, ... be - peat, . . And still be - gan . . . a - gain, . . be - still be - gan a - gain, ... be - cause You were more

rall.
sweet. . . . . And rall.
mf
p
- cause You were more sweet, you were more sweet. . . . .
mf rall.
p
- cause You were more sweet, you were more sweet. . . .
1st Bass.
p rall.
mf
p sweet, ... you were more sweet. And 2nd Bass.
p rall.
sweet, ... And
mf
p mf rall.
p
a tempo.
p
then I went down to the sea, And heard its mur-m'ring too,
a tempo.
mf
. . And then I went down to the sea, And heard . . its mur - m'ring
a tempo.
mf
p
. . And then I went down to the sea, And heard its mur-m'ring too, 1st & 2nd Basses.
a tempo.
mf
p then I went down to the sea, And heard its mur-m'ring
a tempo.
mf
p

The Musical Times, EXTRA SUPPLEMENT. October 1, 1900.

No. 796. NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK. Price 2d.
(SECOND SERIES.)

AS TORRENTS IN SUMMER

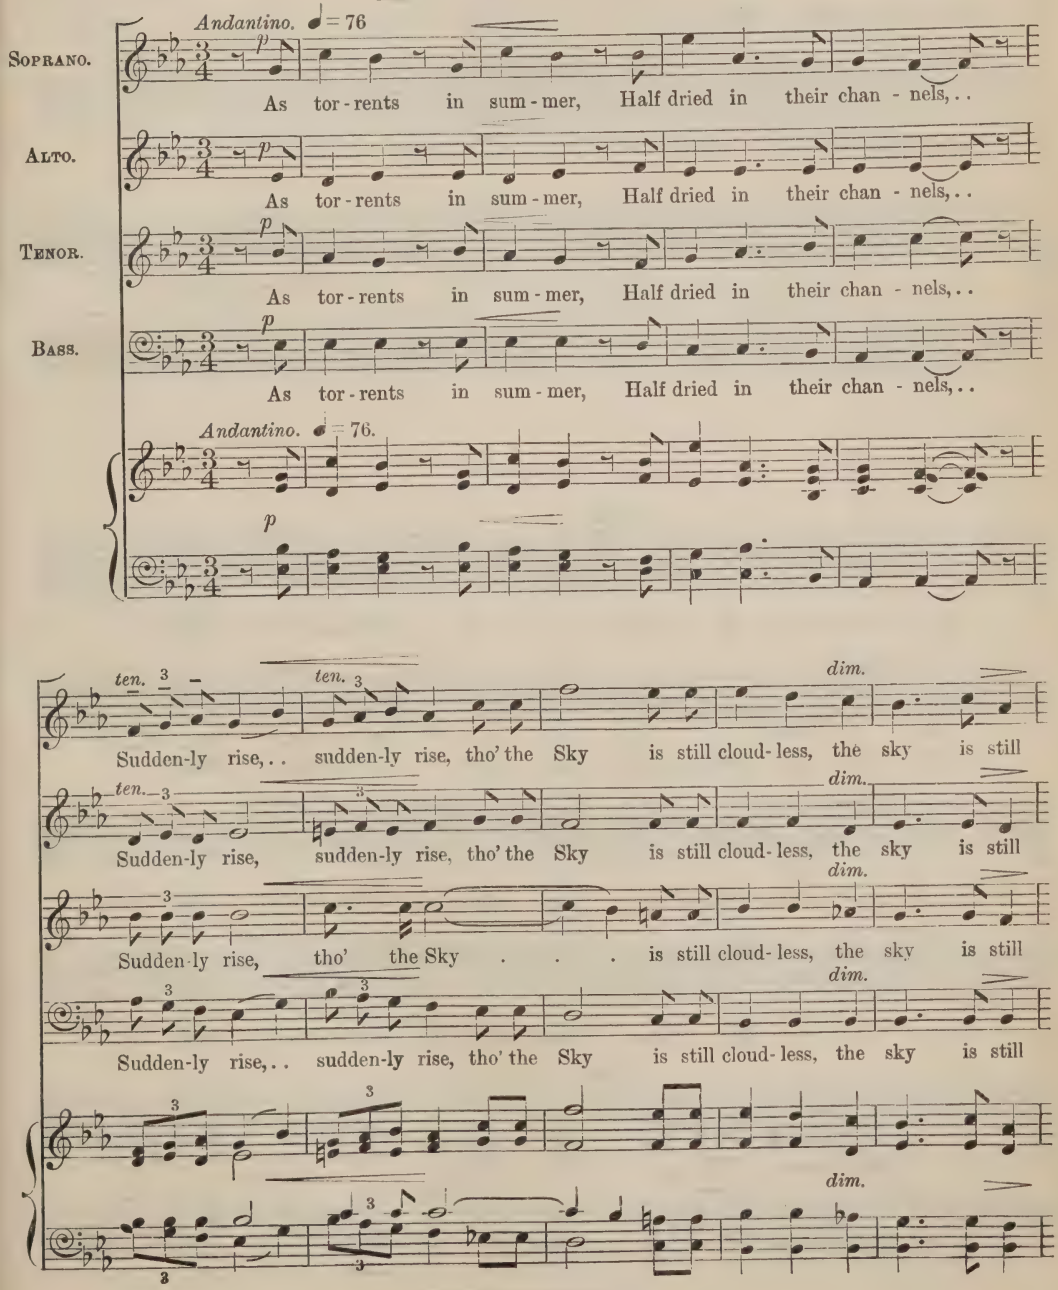
FOUR-PART SONG (FROM THE CANTATA "KING OLAF")

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY LONGFELLOW

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.



Andantino. ♩ = 76
Soprano.
Alto.
Tenor.
Bass.
As tor - rents in sum - mer, Half dried in their chan - nels, . .
Andantino. ♩ = 76.
ten.
dim.
Sudden-ly rise, . . sudden-ly rise, tho' the Sky is still cloud- less, the sky is still Sudden-ly rise, sudden-ly rise, tho' the Sky is still cloud- less, the sky is still Sudden-ly rise, tho' the Sky . . . is still cloud- less, the sky is still Sudden-ly rise, . . sudden-ly rise, tho' the Sky is still cloud- less, the sky is still Copyright, 1896, by Novello, Ewer and Co.

pp
mf cloud - less, For rain, . . . for rain has been pp
mf cloud - less, For rain, . . . for rain has been p
cres.
cloud - less, For rain, . . . for rain . . . . . has been cloud - less,
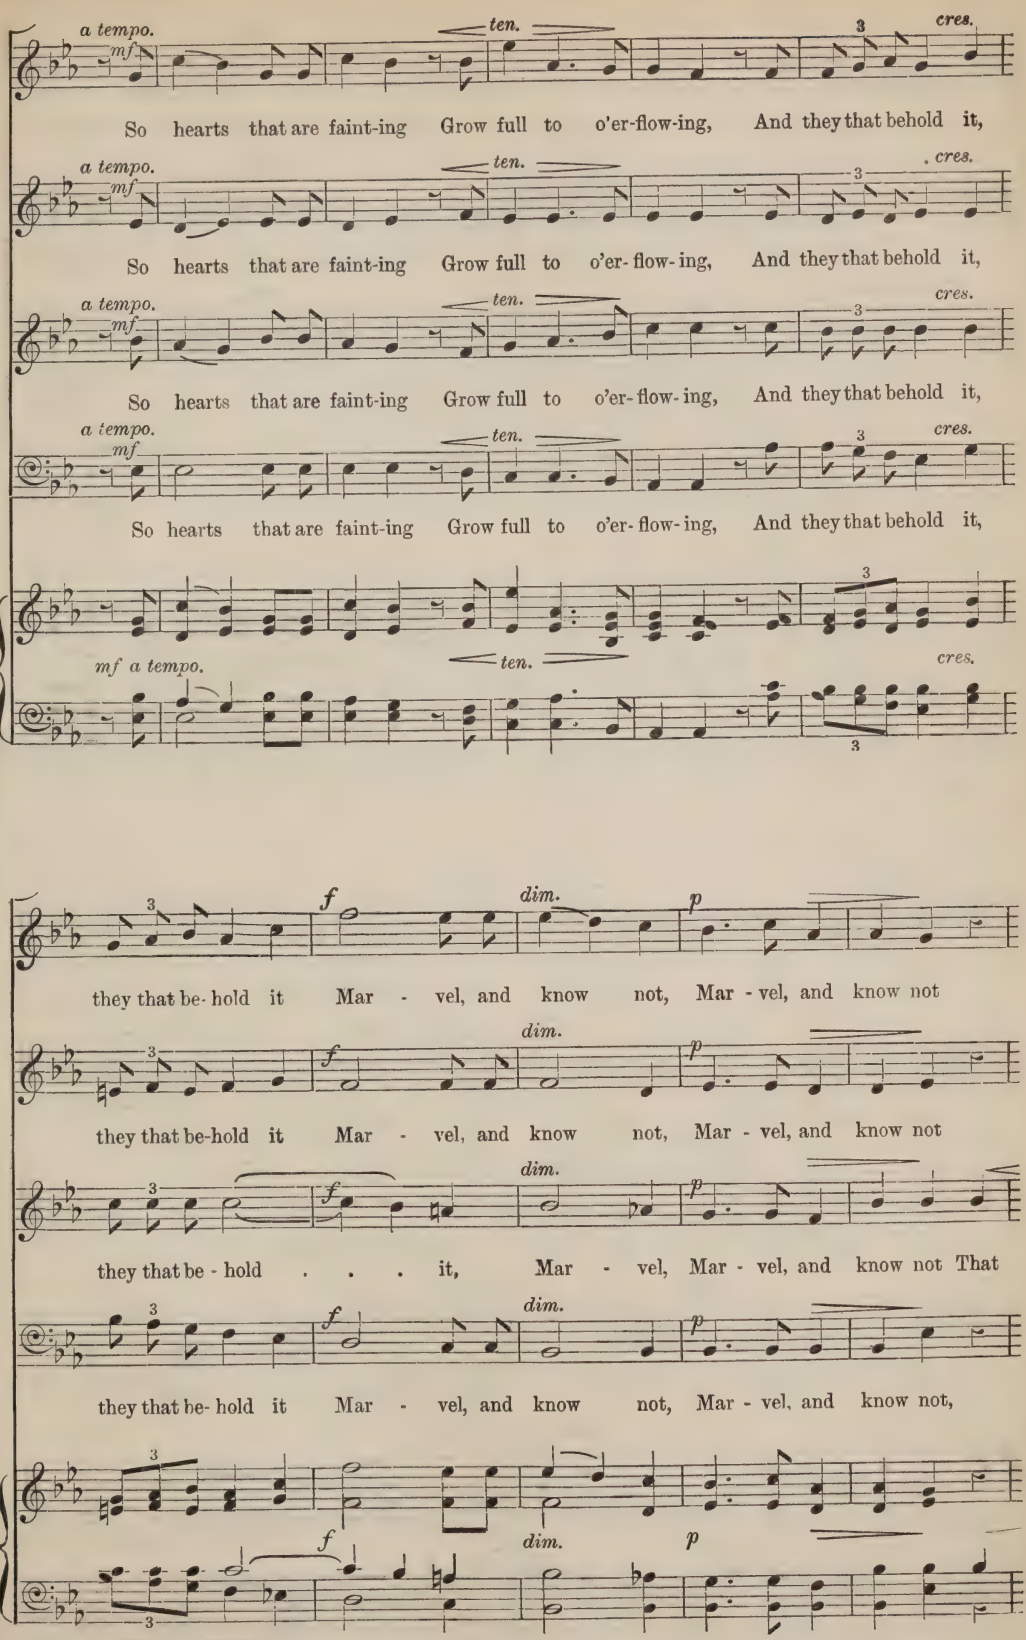
p
cres.
mf
pp espress.
pp
poco rit.
fall - ing, fall - ing Far . . off at their foun - tains; . .
pp
pp
poco rit.
fall - ing, rain has been fall - ing Far off at their foun - tains; . .
pp
pp
poco rit.
fall - ing, rain has been fall - ing Far off at their foun - tains; . .
pp
pp
poco rit.
For rain has been fall - ing at their foun - tains; . .
pp
pp
poco rit.



a tempo.
mf
ten.
cres.
So hearts that are faint-ing Grow full to o'er-flow-ing, And they that behold it, mf a tempo.
f
dim.
p
they that be-hold it Mar - vel, and know not, Mar - vel, and know not they that be-hold it Mar - vel, and know not, Mar - vel, and know not they that be - hold . . . it, Mar - vel, Mar - vel, and know not That they that be-hold it Mar - vel, and know not, Mar - vel, and know not,

mf
dim.
That God, . . . that God at their foun - tains, their foun - tains, mf
dim.
That God, . . . that God at their foun - tains, Far off . . has been cres.
dim.
God, . . . that God . . . at their foun - tains, Far off . . has been pp
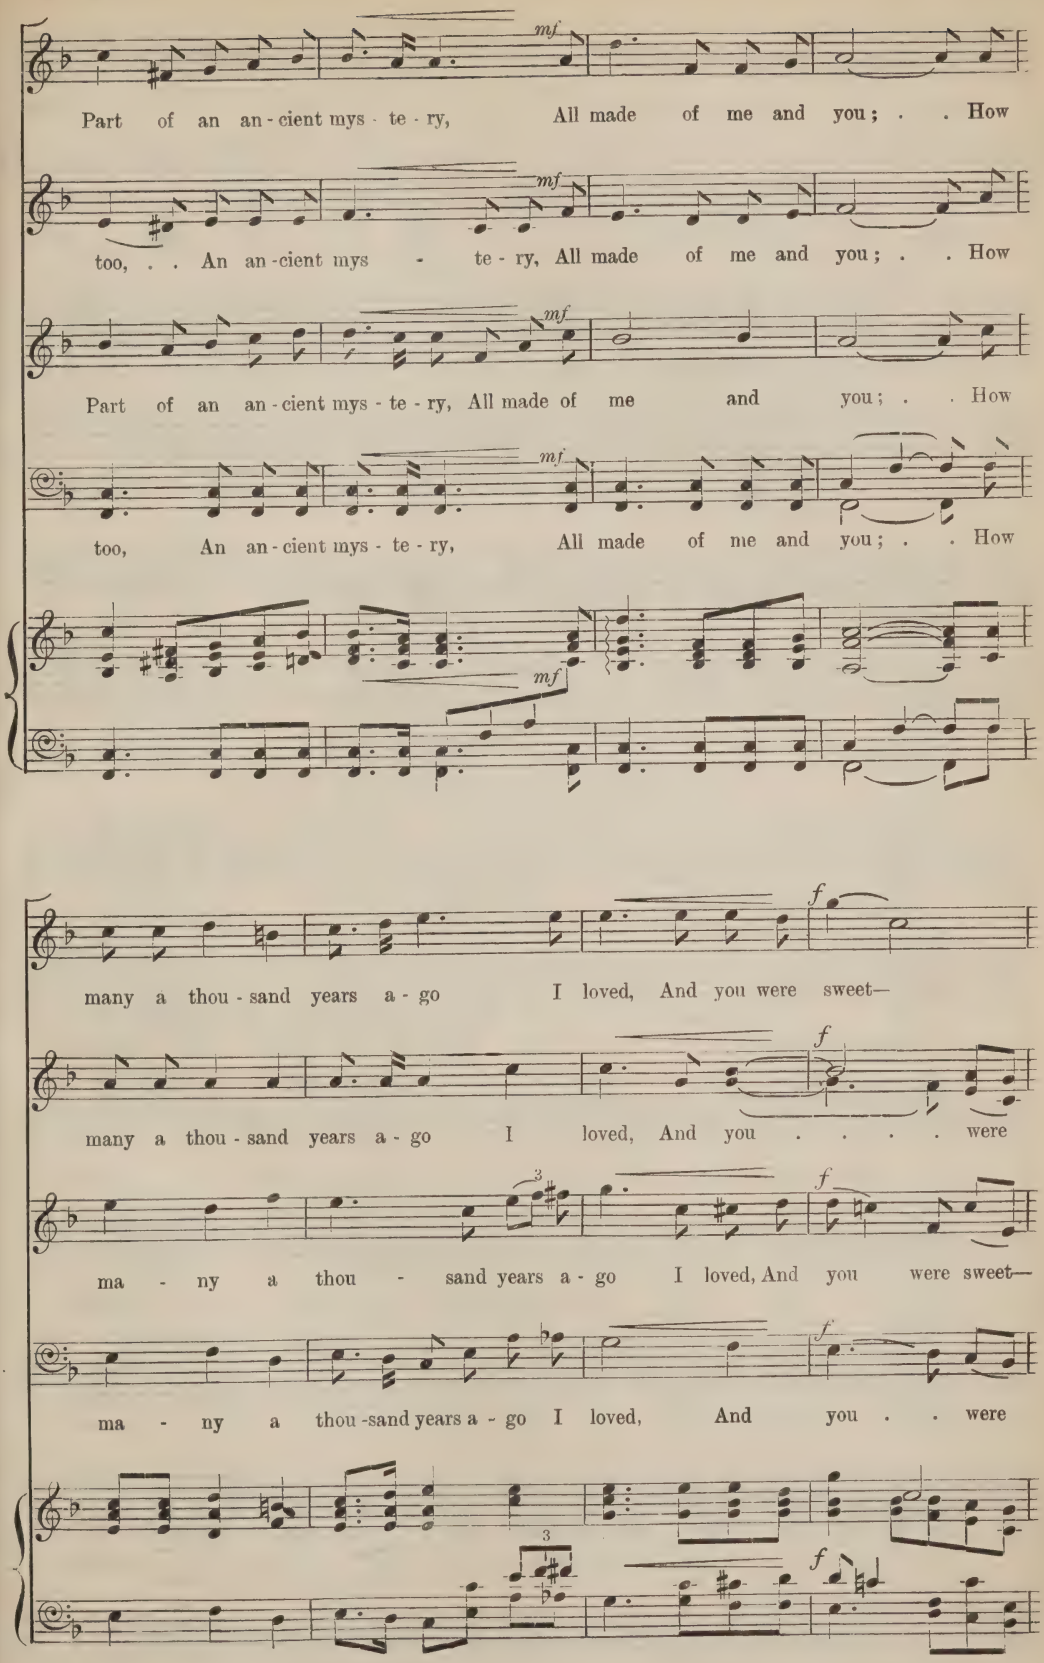
Far
cres.
mf
dim.
espress.
pp
poco rit.
Far . . off, far . . off has been rain - ing! . .
pp
poco rit.
rain - ing, far . . off, far off has been rain - ing! . .
pp
poco rit.
rain - ing, far . . off, . . far . . off has been rain - ing! . .
pp
dim.
poco rit.
off, far off, . . far off has been rain - ing! . .
pp
poco rit.



mf
Part of an an - cient mys - te - ry, All made of me and you; . . How too, . . An an - cient mys - te - ry, All made of me and you; . . How Part of an an - cient mys - te - ry, All made of me and you; . . How too, An an - cient mys - te - ry, All made of me and you; . . How
f
many a thou - sand years a - go I loved, And you were sweet—many a thou - sand years a - go I loved, And you . . . . were ma - ny a thou - sand years a - go I loved, And you were sweet—ma - ny a thou - sand years a - go I loved, And you . . were

mf
p
Long - er I . . could not stay, and so . . . I fled back, . . . back.
sweet— I . . could not stay, . . . and so I . . fled back.
Long - er I could not stay, and so I sweet— Long - - er I could not stay, . . . and
. . . to your feet, back . . to your feet, . . . you were so sweet!
rall.
pp
pp subito.
. . . to your feet, . . . to your feet, ... so . . sweet!
fled back to . . your feet, ... you . . were so sweet!
1st Bass.
so I fled back . . to your feet, you . . were so . . sweet!
2nd Bass.
so I fled back . . to your feet, . . . so sweet!

NOVELLO'S ANTHEM BOOK

A COLLECTION OF POPULAR ANTHEMS

FOR

FESTIVAL AND GENERAL USE THROUGHOUT THE YEAR.

Each book of this series contains twelve anthems: some for Festival occasions—e.g., Christmas, Easter, Harvest—and others which may be used at any time. Great care has been taken in making the selections, in order that suitable variety may be secured and practical needs supplied.

It is therefore anticipated that in churches where an elaborate musical service is not possible, this publication will find acceptance. In such cases the advantage of having, in one book, twelve standard anthems which more than cover the requirements of the Church's year is obvious.

Book 1.

Advent	O King and Desire of all Nations	Stainer.
Christmas	Arise, shine, for thy light is come	Elvey.
Lent	Lord, for Thy tender mercies' sake	Farrant.
,,	Enter not into judgment	Attwood.
,,	O ye that love the Lord	Coleridge-Taylor.
Easter	O give thanks	Goss.
Whitsuntide	Come, Holy Ghost	Attwood.
Harvest	The Lord is loving unto every man	Garrett.
General	O love the Lord	Sullivan.
,,	The day Thou gavest, Lord, is ended	Woodward.
,,	Blessed are they that dwell in Thy house	Tours.
,,	Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace	Lee Williams.

Book 2.

Advent	Hosanna in the Highest	Stainer.
Christmas	Sing and rejoice	Barnby.
Lent	O Saviour of the World	Goss.
,,	Teach me, O Lord	Attwood.
,,	Jesu, Word of God Incarnate	Gounod.
Easter	Christ is risen	Elvey.
Harvest	Great is the Lord	Steane.
General	What are these?	Stainer.
,,	O how amiable	West.
,,	O taste and see	Sullivan.
,,	The Lord is my Shepherd	Macfarren.
,,	God that madest earth and heaven	Fisher.

Book 3.

Advent	Far from their heavenly home	Woodward.
Christmas	Four Christmas Carols	Various.
Lent	Turn Thy Face from my sins	Sullivan.
,,	O Lord, my God	Wesley.
,,	Jesu, Word of God Incarnate	Mozart.
Easter	Break forth into joy	Barnby.
Harvest	O Lord, how manifold	Barnby.
General	Seek ye the Lord	Roberts.
,,	I was glad	Elvey.
,,	The radiant morn	Woodward.
,,	O praise God in His holiness	Weldon.
,,	Doth not wisdom cry	Haking.

Book 1 now ready. Other Books (in the Press).

ONE SHILLING EACH BOOK.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited

AND

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

COMPOSITIONS BY EDWARD ELGAR.

CANTATAS, &c.

THE DREAM OF GERONTIUS
(Op. 38)

For Mezzo-Soprano, Tenor, and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra

Price 3s. 6d.

Paper boards, 4s.; cloth, gilt, 5s.
Vocal Parts, 1s. 6d. each.
String Parts (in the Press); Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

CARACTACUS
(Op. 35)

For Soprano, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass Soli, Chorus and Orchestra

Price 3s. 6d.

Paper boards, 4s.; cloth, gilt, 5s.; Vocal Parts, 1s. 6d. each.
Words only, 25s. per 100.
String Parts, 24s.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

KING OLAF
(Op. 30)

For Soprano, Tenor, and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra

Price 3s.

Cloth, gilt, 5s.; Vocal Parts, 1s. 6d. each;
Tonic Sol-fa (Choruses only), 1s. 6d. Words only, 25s. per 100.
String Parts, 23s.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

THE BLACK KNIGHT
(Op. 25)

For Chorus and Orchestra

Price 2s.

String Parts, 9s.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

THE BANNER OF ST. GEORGE
(Op. 33)

For Chorus (Soprano Solo ad lib.) and Orchestra

Price 1s. 6d.

Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. Words only, 12s. 6d. per 100.
String Parts, 10s. 6d.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

THE LIGHT OF LIFE ("Lux Christi")
(Op. 29)

A Short Oratorio. For Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, and Baritone Soli, Chorus and Orchestra

Price 2s. 6d.

Words only, 10s. per 100; String Parts, 13s. 6d.;
Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

TE DEUM AND BENEDICTUS IN F
(Op. 34)

For Chorus (S.A.T.B.), Orchestra, and Organ

Price 1s.

String Parts, 4s. 6d.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

PART-SONGS AND CHORUSES.

	s.	d.
MY LOVE DWELT IN A NORTHERN LAND. For S.A.T.B. ... ... Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.	0	3
O HAPPY EYES. For S.A.T.B.	0	1½
SPANISH SERENADE ("Stars of the Summer night"). For Chorus (S.A.T.B.) and Orchestra (or Pianoforte) ... ... Full Score and Orchestral Parts, MS.	0	3
THE CHALLENGE OF THOR ("King Olaf") ... ... Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.; String Parts, 2s.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.	0	4
AS TORRENTS IN SUMMER ("King Olaf")	0	2
IT COMES FROM THE MISTY AGES ("Banner of St. George") ... ... Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.; String Parts, 2s.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.	0	4

THREE-PART SONGS.

	s.	d.
THE SNOW. For Female Voices (S.S.C.). With Accompts. for Two Violins and Pianoforte ... Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.; Violin Parts, 6d. each.	0	6
FLY, SINGING BIRD. For Female Voices (S.S.C.). With Accompaniments for Two Violins and Pianoforte ... ... Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.; Violin Parts, 6d. each.	0	6

SONG.

THE SWORD SONG ("Caractacus"). For Baritone	2	0

ANTHEMS.

LIGHT OF THE WORLD ("The Light of Life"). S.A.T.B.	0	3
SEEK HIM THAT MAKETH THE SEVEN STARS ("The Light of Life"). Tenor Solo and Chorus for T.T.B.B.	0	6
DOUBT NOT THY FATHER'S CARE ("The Light of Life"). Duet, S. and C. ...	0	2

ORCHESTRA.

VARIATIONS ON AN ORIGINAL THEME (Op. 36):—
Full Score, 25s.; String Parts, 10s.; Wind Parts, 22s.

IMPERIAL MARCH (Op. 32):—
String Parts, 2s.; Wind Parts, 7s.; Full Score, MS.

MEDITATION ("The Light of Life"):—
String Parts, 2s.; Wind Parts, 5s. 6d.; Full Score, MS.

FROISSART (Op. 19). Concert-Overture:—
String Parts, 4s. 6d.; Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

TRIUMPHAL MARCH ("Caractacus"):—
String Parts, 2s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 10s. 6d.; Full Score, MS.

THREE PIECES (Op. 10):—
1. Mazurka.
Full Score, 5s.; String Parts, 2s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 5s.
2. Sérénade Mauresque.
Full Score, 5s.; String Parts, 2s. 6d; Wind Parts, 4s. 3d.
3. Contrasts (The Gavotte, A.D. 1700 and 1900).
Full Score, 5s.; String Parts, 2s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 5s. 3d.

ORGAN.

SOLEMN MARCH. From "The Black Knight"	1	0
MEDITATION. From "The Light of Life"	1	0
IMPERIAL MARCH	2	0
TRIUMPHAL MARCH ("Caractacus") ...	2	0

MILITARY BAND.

IMPERIAL MARCH	9	0

PIANOFORTE.

VARIATIONS ON AN ORIGINAL THEME (Op. 36)	3	6
THREE PIECES (Op. 10):—
1. Mazurka	2	0
2. Sérénade Mauresque	2	0
3. Contrasts (The Gavotte, A.D. 1700 and 1900)	2	0
MEDITATION ("The Light of Life")	2	0
IMPERIAL MARCH (Op. 32)	2	0

VIOLIN.

CHANSON DE NUIT (Op. 15, No. 1)... ...	1	6
CHANSON DU MATIN (Op. 15, No. 2) ...	2	0

VIOLONCELLO.

CHANSON DE NUIT (Op. 15, No. 1)... ...	1	6
CHANSON DU MATIN (Op. 15, No. 2) ...	2	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

It is developed at some length, and works up to this strong climax—

No. 9.

The new theme in the inner parts (also taken from the aforesaid chorus) is forcibly ejaculated by English horn, bassoons, trumpets, two trombones, violas, and cellos. The orchestra gradually decreases in force, the harp enters with demisemiquaver arpeggios, and after a short moan (No. 10 A, which compare with the last bar of No. 8) uttered thrice by first violins, a chord for muted horns above a drum-roll, and a stroke (vibrato) on a gong suggest the end of the Protagonist's earthly life—

No. 10.

The remainder of the Prelude is devoted to a repetition of the 'Sleep' (No. 4), 'Fear' (No. 2), 'Miserere' (No. 5), and 'Judgment' (No. 1) themes, in the order named, and played as softly as possible. As it began, so this poetic and impressive Prelude ends, with the most solemn thought of God's Judgment.

A detailed analysis of a work so full of beauty as 'The Dream of Gerontius' would occupy many pages. The above description of the Prelude must, therefore, suffice for the present. We may, however, rapidly survey the cantata, single out a few salient points, and venture to express opinions which have by no means been formed after a hasty perusal of an exceptionally complicated score.

The work contains a number of solos for the Angel (mezzo-soprano), Gerontius (tenor), the Priest and the Angel of the Agony (both bass). They run through the whole gamut of expression, from beatific serenity to the most heartrending human pathos. The Protagonist's last confession of faith, 'Sanctus fortis,' the Guardian Angel's song, 'My work is done,' the prayer of the Angel of the Agony for the soul of Gerontius, 'Jesu! by that shudd ring dread which fell on Thee,' and the most exquisite final song for the Guardian Angel (accompanied by chorus in 4, 8, or 12 parts, pp and ppp), 'Softly and gently, dearly ransomed soul,' are inspirations of the rarest beauty and finest originality. Choruses of a prayerful, devotional character, alternate with others of terrific force and demoniac wildness, and yet with others full of angelic peace changing to sublime exultation. The great hymn, 'Praise to the Holiest,' is set as one of the longest choral movements in all music. It is a wonderful Pæan of Praise that should produce an effect of rarely paralleled grandeur.

A. J. J.

CHURCH AND ORGAN MUSIC.

VAIN REPETITIONS IN ANTHEMS.

The sailor's definition of an anthem is too well known to need re-telling. Like all nautical yarns, Jack Tar's description should be taken with a certain quantity of salt; but for all that it contains a considerable sediment of truth. Prosper Mérimee, in his delightful 'Letters to Inconnue,' gives a somewhat similar instance of 'vain repetition,' furnishing in illustration thereof the second verse of Psalm cxxxiii. 'Who knows,' he says, after the anthem was finished, 'where it [the oil] finally did, or did not run; or whether it was the oil, or Aaron, or the beard which eventually ran down.'

Such familiar words as—

> I will wash my hands in innocency,
> So will I compass Thine altars, O Lord, may prove a veritable snare to those composers who regard the words as so many pegs upon which to hang their crotchets and quavers. For instance, any imitative cleverness in setting the initial words, 'I will wash'—by assigning them in succession to sopranos, altos, tenors, and basses—while excellent from an ablutionary point of view, at once distorts the beauty of the Psalmist's imagery, and, at the same time, destroys the poetic beauty of the Hebrew parallel. Even experienced composers have been known to nod in this fashion; but too much care cannot be exercised in avoiding those 'vain repetitions,' which not only turn sense into nonsense, but pay little respect to Holy Writ.

That some such warning as the foregoing is no new thing is proved by some quaintly expressed words of good old Precentor Mason, of York Minster, uttered by that worthy ecclesiastic more than a century ago. Here is the title—a trifle long perhaps—of his 'Words of anthems' publication, which includes the 'Essay' in question :—

A Copious Collection of those Portions of the Psalms of David, Bible, and Liturgy, which have been set to Music, and sung as Anthems in the Cathedral and Collegiate Churches Of England.

Arranged in Chronological Order, according to the Times in which the several Musical Composers lived. And published for the Use of the Church of York, Under the Direction of William Mason, M.A., Precentor of that Cathedral. By whom is prefixed, A Critical and Historical Essay on Cathedral Music.

York : Printed by A. Ward, in Coney-Street, mdcclxxxii.

Precentor Mason, in referring to the 'extremely intricate' and 'abstruse harmonical proportions' of cathedral music at the time of the Reformation, says :

This intricate, or, as it was termed, curious music, had, it seems, at this time, taken possession of the whole Church Service ; it not only was joined to the Psalmodical and supplicatory part, but even with those few fragments of Scripture which were selected from the New Testament, and admitted into the Liturgy, under the title of Epistle and Gospel ; these were all sung, not merely in simple intonation or chaunt, but in this mode of figurate descant, in which the various voices following one another, according to the rules of an elaborate Canon, were perpetually repeating different words at the same time. One example of this kind may suffice, and a more ridiculous one can hardly be conceived. The genealogy, in the first chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel, was thus set to music : while the Bass was holding forth the existence of Abraham, the Tenor, in defiance of nature and chronology, was begetting Isaac ; the Counter-Tenor, begetting Jacob ; and the Treble, begetting Joseph and all his brethren.

No one will deny that even the genealogy would seem to be getting mixed up by such a process. The lessons of such 'vain repetitions' should not be lost on those who wish to enrich the music of the church instead of becoming mere manufacturers of anthems.

THE OUSELEY MEMORIAL WINDOW AT HEREFORD.

The stained glass window, erected to the memory of Sir Frederick Ouseley in Hereford Cathedral some years ago, has recently been remodelled, completed, and removed to the South side of the nave, exactly opposite the North door. The impression which the memorial creates upon entering the Cathedral is exceedingly pleasing. It is what is known as a four-light figure window, the quartet of principal characters being King David with his harp, Asaph with his trumpet, Miriam with her timbrel (tambourine), and Deborah in the act of singing, a scroll in her hands bearing the words, 'I will sing praises to the Lord God of Israel.' At the base is the following inscription :—

Frederick Arthur Gore Ouseley,
Born 12th August, 1825 ; died 6th April, 1889.

Fixed upon the wall, near the window, is a brass plate, which thus records the life work of the former Precentor of Hereford :—

The above window is sacred to the memory of the Rev. Sir Frederick Arthur Gore Ouseley, Bart., M.A., Mus. Doc., and Professor of Music in the University of Oxford, Honorary LL.D. of Cambridge and Edinburgh, D.C.L. of Durham, and Mus. Doc. of Dublin ; Precentor and Canon of this Cathedral ; Founder and First Warden of St. Michael's College, Tenbury, in the Diocese of Hereford, where he was laid to rest. Born 12th August, 1825 ; died 6th April, 1889. Laus Deo.

The cost of the completion of the window has been about £400, which amount was mainly raised through the exertions of Canon Palmer and Dr. Sinclair. There is no memorial in Hereford Cathedral to Dr. S. S. Wesley, where he held his first Cathedral organistship. Dr. Sinclair should make this the first claim upon his energies, and thus atone for a certain neglect on the part of former officials in not commemorating one of Hereford's most distinguished organists and a great master of English church music.

ORGAN RECITALS.

St. Bede's Church, Liverpool, by Mr. Ernest H. Smith (whose programme was entirely by English composers) ; Wilmslow Parish Church, by Mr. R. E. Parker (who played Tours's Postlude in D) ; Grahamstown Cathedral, by Mr. W. Deane ; Holy Trinity, Margate, by Mr. J. E. Campbell (who played Wolstenholme's Grand Chœur) ; Parish Church, Leigh (Kent), by Mr. George S. Evans ; St. Mark's, Southampton, by Mr. George Leake (who played Hollins's Overture in C minor and the Romanza and Finale from Peace's 'Sonata da Camera' in D) ; Ryde Parish Church, by Mr. Yates Mander (who played Wesley's Choral Song and Fugue) and Mr. Allen K. Blackall ; Luton Parish Church, by Mr. Fred. Gostelow (who played Bach's Toccata in F) ; St. Paul's, Liverpool, by Mr. W. A. Roberts (who played Sullivan's 'In Memoriam' Overture) ; St. Oswald's, Filey, by Mr. F. de English (who played Handel's overture to 'Samson') ; Kirkley Parish Church, Lowestoft, by Mr. H. D. Flowers (who played Stainer's 'On a Bass'), and Mr. Philip Chignell (who played Lemare's Rêverie) ; SS. Philip and James's Church, Ilfracombe, by Mr. William Lee (who played Silas's Andante in D) and Mr. T. Davies ; Roomfield Baptist Chapel, by Mr. W. A. Wrigley (who played Stainer's 'Finale alla Marcia') ; St. Saviour's Church, Manchester, by Mr. Arthur Pollitt (who played Smart's 'Evening Prayer') ; St. Mary of Eton, Hackney Wick, by Mr. D. A. Fox (who played Bache's Andante and Allegro) ; and St. Mary, Ardee, Co. Louth, by Mr. John Lowe (who played Smart's 'Festive' March).

ORGAN RECITALS IN GLASGOW CATHEDRAL.

Mr. Herbert Walton, organist of Glasgow Cathedral, continues to maintain the traditions of those interesting performances so long associated with his predecessor, Dr. Peace. Moreover, these music-makings are well attended, as they deserve to be. Here is one of Mr. Walton's recent programmes :—

1. Prelude and Fugue in C major .. .. .. J. S. Bach.
2. Idyll in E flat .. ..E. H. Lemare.
3. Sonata, No. 1 .. .. Mendelssohn.
4. Andante in A (from the Violin Sonata, Op. 137) Schubert.
5. Triumphal March ('Caractacus') .. .. Elgar.

The annotations to the programmes are admirably written. This is what Mr. Walton has to say of No. 1 in the above scheme, the Bach Prelude and Fugue (Bridge and Higgs's edition, Book 7, No. 4) :—

The above specimen of the unapproachable genius of the 'father of organ playing,' although but seldom seen on recital programmes is none the less interesting and attractive. The prelude opens with a bravura passage for pedal solo, in some degrees resembling a trumpet fanfare, being constructed on arpeggio figures. Modifications of this passage are more or less in evidence during the course of the prelude, and the bravura element is sustained throughout, so that the entire movement resembles nothing so much as a miniature Toccata. When the fugue is reached, it is seen that the prelude has furnished a most appropriate introduction, the subject and counter-subject being of the same bright, even bustling character, and this feeling of sprightliness is maintained to the end. The fugue is not only interesting to students from certain peculiarities in its construction, but it appeals to all music lovers by its vivacity and inherent tunefulness.

ORATORIOS IN CHURCH.

The special orchestral services on Sunday afternoons in Brixton Church, which were so successful last winter, are about to be augmented by a series of oratorio services during the coming season. Twice a month—on a Sunday afternoon and a Wednesday evening—an oratorio will be performed by a full orchestra, organ, and an 'unsectarian' choral body of about 100 voices. The works at present selected are 'The Messiah,' 'Creation,' 'Elijah,' Graun's 'Passion' Music, 'Hymn of Praise,' and 'Hear my Prayer.' Mr. Douglas Redman, organist of Brixton Church, is the conductor. We shall watch this interesting experiment with interest: it deserves every encouragement; all success, and many imitators.

THE NEW ORGANIST OF ROCHESTER CATHEDRAL.

Mr. Bertram Luard Selby has been appointed to succeed the late Mr. John Hopkins in the organistship of Rochester Cathedral. Born at Ightham, in Kent, February 12, 1853, Mr. Selby studied at the Conservatorium of Leipzig, under Reinecke and Jadassohn. He has held several organ appointments in London and in 1884 was at St. John's Church, Torquay. Mr. Selby is not new to Cathedral work, as he was chief musician at Salisbury Cathedral for two years from 1881. He is well and favourably known as a composer.

ORGANIST AND CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. Fred. J. Blake, Blackfriars Parish Church.

Mr. F. T. Tookey, Parish Church, Towyn, Merioneth.

Mr. Allan Biggs, private organist to the Earl of Scarborough.

Mr. David Dunbar, the American Church, Paris.

Mr. Alfred B. Choate, Emmanuel Parish Church, Camberwell.

Mr. Percy Jones, Melton Mowbray Parish Church.

Mr. Godwin Fowles, All Saints' Parish Church, Wandsworth.

Mr. David Mackenzie, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Gravesend.

Mr. Edward U. Ireland, Emmanuel Church, Nottingham.

REVIEWS.

The Art of Singing. By William Shakespeare. Part I. [Metzler and Co.]

Few educational subjects have given rise to more acrimonious controversy than voice development. But out of the turmoil of the battle much good has come, and Mr. Shakespeare's vocal tutor is certainly one of the accruing advantages. Doubtless some readers will solemnly shake their heads with fancied superior knowledge at sundry passages in the book; but those who are widely read in this complex subject must agree that the statements made are based upon facts which are now generally accepted, added to which the author brings the valuable experience of a successful vocalist and excellent teacher. A pleasing feature of the work is the author's unassuming style, and the acknowledgment he makes of the methods pursued by the great singing masters of the last century. In a short preface our author says: "The endeavour has been to gather together these traditions and hints and weld them into a consistent whole. The aim has not been to write anything new, but simply to make an intelligible, and useful record of the old truths concerning our art." Mr. Shakespeare, however, is manifestly well acquainted with the results of modern research, and for enquiring minds who like to know the reason why they are told to do certain things, there are a number of diagrams of parts of the body which influence the voice. The chapter on the management of the breath is wholly admirable, and many of its sentences might with profit be committed to memory by the student, the quotation of the old Italian adage, 'The art of singing is the school of respiration,' being one. For explanation of the vocal registers Mr. Shakespeare relies on Sir Morell Mackenzie and the celebrated old singing master, Lamberti, two most excellent authorities, and the difference between a good and bad singer is happily attributed to the former chiefly using the lower notes of his upper registers, and the latter habitually employing the upper notes of his lower registers. To quote the following sentences will serve better than comment on the treatment of æsthetic questions.

'Intensity is the basis of all expression in singing.'

'In the absence of warm impulse, there will be little real expression in the voice.'

'The end of art is not to astonish, but to move.'

Sixty-six Short Studies in Three-part Counterpoint. By Francis Edward Gladstone.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

Musical students of the present day cannot complain of any lack of aids to their knowledge acquirements. Dr. Gladstone, who has a high reputation as a contrapuntist, clings to the faith of the strict school and does not accept the 'certain novel doctrines' of more recent times. In these studies he uses one canto fermo throughout, and furnishes a series of workings in the various species which are of the greatest value to the student in the matter of 'how to do it.' The author says: 'The object of these Sixty-six Studies is to illustrate by examples the manifold varieties which are possible even when counterpoint is written in more parts than three.' Organists who are preparing for examinations would find these 'Studies' useful as exercises in playing from the different clefs.

VIOLIN MUSIC, &c.

A Modern School for the Violin. Book 3B (Third Book of Studies). August Wilhelmj and James Brown.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

A book of thirty-six studies designed to be used concurrently with Book 3A (third book of Technical Studies). These exercises are written for the first five positions on all the strings and form a very important set of studies at this juncture. The master usually makes a stand at the fifth position and many things are brought into line. With a good control of the fingerboard up to the fifth position a number of important pre-concerto solos are possible for the young player, and greatly advance his musical development. One could not well imagine anything better than these excellent studies, to further this important object: every detail has in this book material to develop and advance it.

A distinct feature of Book 3B is an excellent plan of study laid down for the pupil's guidance.

Young teachers will find in this Modern School the art of teaching unfolded to them, and if they follow it patiently and conscientiously with their pupils they will attain a high artistic result.

Twelve Folk-Dances from Denmark. No. 13. Pieces in completion of the scheme of a Modern School for the Violin. By August Wilhelmj and James Brown.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

These Twelve Dances are all in the first position, and may be undertaken by students who have arrived at Lesson xv. (page 16) in the first book of Technical Practice (1A).

There is a charm and sweet heartiness about these little dance pieces that well warrant their inclusion in the scheme of the Modern School.

Romance for Violin, with Pianoforte accompaniment. By S. Coleridge-Taylor. Op. 39.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

We have here a very delightful piece, which will be hailed with pleasure by violinists. It is moderately difficult for the solo player, and demands a very musicianly accompanist.

Chanson de Matin for Violoncello. By Edward Elgar. Op. 15, No. 2.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

A beautiful little example of Mr. Elgar's art.

Romanza and Allegretto for Violoncello and Pianoforte; or Viola and Pianoforte. By W. Wolstenholme.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

Two little pieces very suitable for teaching purposes; the Romanza will prove a general favourite. The Allegretto suffers from a bald accompaniment to the middle section.

The composer has arranged the above pieces for the viola, for which they seem very suitable.

SONGS.

Song Dances. Vocal suite for female voices. Composed by Wilfred Bendall.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

Mr. Wilfred Bendall's 'Song Dances' are a very attractive series of choric measures in three vocal parts, first and second soprano and contralto, with an independent accompaniment for pianoforte solo or duet, or orchestra. So independent are the accompaniments and so complete in themselves that, played alone, they would form a number of pleasing instrumental solos or duets.

The songs are six in number, and the words of three, 'To the Nightingale,' 'The rain is falling,' and 'Song should breathe,' are by Barry Cornwall. The first of these is set in minuet rhythm, the second in waltz time, and the third in tempo di Mazurka, the characteristics of each dance form being pleasingly accentuated. The names of the other numbers are, 'To the Skylark,' words by James Hogg; 'Twilight,' words anonymous; and 'Dametus, his jigge in praise of his love,' by an unknown poet of an unknown period. The last-named is a 'right merrie measure,' the poet insisting that 'love lasts for aye,' and the composer vigorously supporting this amorous opinion.

Songs of China, Japan, India, Arabia, Persia, and Egypt. Words by Helen F. Schweitzer. Music by Granville Bantock. [Breitkopf and Härtel.]

Some few years ago the attention of musicians was drawn by the late Major Day's book, 'Music in Southern India,' to Eastern scales, and subsequent investigations revealed to Western composers the possibilities of increasing the resources of their art. The subject seems to have appealed with peculiar force to Mr. Granville Bantock, and the present series of songs are a part outcome of his endeavours to combine Eastern melodic idiom with Western form and harmony. Each book, which, by the way, is got up in artistic fashion, comprises a cycle of six songs, and, as will be expected, possesses considerable distinctiveness. That this distinctiveness is always pleasing, or, indeed, acceptable, can scarcely be said; but several of the songs are very charming, a few are really beautiful, and cultured vocalists in search of music out of the beaten track may be recommended to examine these books. It should be added that the text is thoroughly Eastern in spirit, picturesquely suggestive, and emotional, and that English singers who reasonably doubt their ability to articulate their own language distinctly can take refuge in a German translation.

Beethoven's Choral Symphony. Pianoforte arrangement, with vocal parts in open score. By Berthold Tours.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

This is a new issue with sundry decided improvements of a convenient arrangement which is familiar to many lovers of Beethoven. The English text, by Lady Macfarren, has been revised and partly re-written; moreover, each vocal part has now its own stave, independent of the admirably arranged pianoforte accompaniment made by the late Berthold Tours. The new edition is, therefore, not only useful for home use, but for employment in the ranks of the chorus, or for following a performance of this gigantic work. Now that the 'Choral' is no longer regarded as 'impossible,' but, on the contrary, may be said to have become popular, this issue is certainly opportune.

THE COMING SEASON.

Since the end of June, with some few unimportant exceptions, the voice of the 'Divine Art' has been practically silent until the commencement of the Promenade Concerts on August 25, a record of which will be found in another column. Entrepreneurs are now, however, bestirring themselves for the coming winter season, and the cessation of 'wars' alarms' and the return of peace certainly make the outlook brighter and more hopeful than it was at this time last year. The first prospectus to claim our attention is that of the Royal Choral Society.

Seven Subscription Concerts are announced, with the addition of the customary Good Friday performance of 'The Messiah.' The series opens on November 8 with 'Elijah,' followed by 'Judas Maccabæus' (December 6), 'Messiah' (January 1), 'Scenes from the Song of Hiawatha' (January 24), Parker's 'Hora Novissima' and Beethoven's Choral Symphony (February 20), 'Israel in Egypt' (March 14), and the 'Hymn of Praise' and 'Walpurgis Night' (on April 25).

A concert to be looked forward to with pleasure and regret is the 'farewell' of Mr. Edward Lloyd, which will take place at the Royal Albert Hall, on December 12.

Queen's Hall.

Mr. Robert Newman announces eight Symphony Concerts, on the afternoons of October 27, November 10 and 24, December 8, January 26, February 9, and March 2 and 16; some Ysaye Concerts, details of which are yet to come, in November; a St. Andrew's Day Concert on November 30; and the usual Christmas Day, Ash Wednesday, and Good Friday Concerts. Mr. Henry J. Wood will conduct throughout. The so-called 'London Musical Festival' will take place from April 29 to May 4. The Sunday Concert Society's Sunday Afternoon Concerts will be held every Sunday afternoon at 3.30.

St. James's Hall.

The Saturday Popular Concerts re-commence on November 3 and continue weekly till December 15. The Ballad Concerts at this hall will be resumed on November 7, continuing weekly during the month. Other Afternoon Concerts are announced by Miss Clara Butt and Mr. Kennerley Rumford; Madame Marie Brema, Mr. Henry Bird, and Mr. Vert; and Recitals by Herr Reisenauer (3), Mr. Frederick Dawson, Mr. Donald Tovey (3), Herr Rosenthal, Miss Marguerite Elzy, and Madame Marchesi, with Messrs. Wolff and Schonberger.

In the evening three Richter Concerts will be given, commencing on the 22nd inst.; those of the Curtius Concert Club will be resumed on November 7. Mr. Henry Such will give an Orchestral Concert, and Herr Kupperschmidt a Recital, while the Saturday Orchestral Concerts (now under the direction of Mr. Edward O'Brien) will re-commence on the 6th inst.

The Crystal Palace

celebrated Saturday Concerts, as such, are now, alas! only a memory; but the veteran conductor will direct two Concerts on the 27th inst. and November 10; Mr. Newman's orchestra, under Mr. Henry J. Wood, will be responsible for Concerts on the 13th and 20th inst. and November 3; and on November 17 Dr. Richter's orchestra, under their distinguished chief, will give a Wagner Concert.

Steinway Hall

will, as usual, be the locale of Mr. Clifford Harrison's Recitals, which were to be resumed on the 29th ult., while at St. George's Hall

Mr. Charles Fry's Costume Recitals, with Miss Olive Kennett and company, now in their seventh season, will be given on the Saturday afternoons in November, commencing on the 10th. Mr. Edward O'Brien will direct the music, which is a prominent feature at these performances.

Mention should also be made that the venture of the Purcell Operatic Society in producing Purcell's 'Dido and Æneas' at the Hampstead Conservatoire, in May last, was so successful that it is proposed to repeat that work, and also a stage version of Handel's 'Acis and Galatea,' at a London theatre in the early autumn, with the further prospect in the spring of producing Purcell's 'King Arthur.'

Suburban Choral Societies.

The Highbury Philharmonic Society announces four Concerts, commencing on November 27 with Frederick Corder's 'The Sword of Argantyr' (first performance in London) and Clay's 'Lallah Rookh'; Stanford's 'Last Post' and 'A Love Symphony,' Percy Pitt (first performance), January 21; the first London performance of Professor Parker's 'Wanderer's Psalm' (produced at the recent Hereford Festival), and Rossini's 'Stabat Mater,' March 12; and a concert recital of Gounod's 'Faust,' on April 30. Mr. G. H. Betjemann will, as usual, be the conductor.

The Finsbury Choral Society will perform 'The Golden Legend' and Bridge's 'Ballad of the Clampherdown' (November 22); 'The Hymn of Praise' and Parry's 'St. Cecilia's Day' (February 14); and Gounod's 'Faust' (April 18). Mr. F. Cunningham Woods will conduct.

The People's Palace Choral Society (conductor, Mr. Allen Gill) contemplates performances of 'Elijah,' Elgar's 'King Olaf,' 'Scenes from the Song of Hiawatha,' and 'The Messiah.'

The Muswell Hill and East Finchley Choral Society will give 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast' and 'Death of Minnehaha,' 'The Messiah,' Sullivan's 'Martyr of Antioch,' and Stanford's 'The Last Post.' The conductor is Mr. Allen Gill.

The Bermondsey Settlement Choral Society, directed by Mr. J. E. Borland, hopes to perform Gounod's 'Redemption,' 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast' and 'Death of Minnehaha,' 'The Messiah,' 'Elijah,' the 'Last Judgment,' and the 'Crucifixion.'

The South London Choral Association (conductor, Mr. L. C. Venables) will give 'Judas Maccabæus,' 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast' and 'Death of Minnehaha,' and Sullivan's opera 'The Chieftain,' besides a miscellaneous Concert, and a Violin Recital by Mr. T. E. Gatehouse.

Mr. Quance's Choral Society, Streatham, announces Sullivan's 'Prodigal Son,' Lloyd's 'Hero and Leander,' Bridge's 'Ballad of the Clampherdown,' Cowen's 'Rose Maiden,' and 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast.'

The Barnet Choral Society, under Mr. Frank B. Wood, will give 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast,' the 'Death of Minnehaha,' and Handel's 'Joshua.'

The Ealing Choral Society will perform Sullivan's 'Martyr of Antioch,' Barnett's 'Ancient Mariner,' and a new cantata, 'England, my England,' by the conductor of the Society, Mr. J. Cliffe Forrester.

The West Norwood Choral and Orchestral Society announces Mendelssohn's 'Athalie,' Stanford's 'Revenge,' and Spohr's 'Last Judgment.'

Provincial Arrangements.

The prospectuses of the following country Societies are already before us:—

Blackburn.—The St. Cecilia Society, conducted by Mr. J. H. Rooks, announces 'Israel in Egypt,' 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast,' with Mendelssohn's 'Loreley,' &c., and a miscellaneous Concert.

Bournemouth.—The sixth series of sixty Symphony Concerts, at the Winter Gardens, under the able direction of Mr. Dan Godfrey, Jun., will commence on the 8th inst. The programmes, as usual, are of a highly attractive character, and each concert will include at least one novelty. Several interesting works will be played for the first time in England, including symphonies by Wilhelm Berger, Max Bruch, Volkmann, Reinecke, and Cuthbert Hawley; and other novel instrumental works. Some of the programmes will be devoted entirely to works by Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Wagner, Glazounoff, and Tschaïkowsky (when the orchestra will be specially augmented), and a special feature will be the performance during the season of the whole of Tschaïkowsky's symphonies. Among the composers who have promised to conduct their own works may be named Sir Alexander Mackenzie, Sir Hubert Parry, Professor Villiers Stanford, Mr. F. H. Cowen, Mr. Coleridge-Taylor, Dr. W. H. Cummings, and Mr. August Manns. Bournemouth may, indeed, be congratulated on the healthy existence and adequate performance of good music in its midst, and at a subscription sufficiently moderate to be within the means of its humblest inhabitants.

Cheltenham.—The Musical Festival Society, so long directed by Mr. J. A. Matthews, has in hand the ubiquitous 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast' and 'Death of Minnehaha,' a choral song, entitled 'Music,' specially composed by C. Lee Williams, and the 'Redemption.'

Dover.—The Choral Union will give 'The Messiah' and 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast,' with Bridge's 'Ballad of the Clampherdown.' The conductor is Mr. H. J. Taylor.

Ipswich.—The Choral Society, under the baton of Mr. Burton, will perform the 'Hymn of Praise,' Goring Thomas's cantata 'The Swan and the Skylark,' Stanford's 'Revenge,' and 'The Messiah.'

Leicester.—The new Musical Society has arranged to perform Handel's 'Samson' and 'Messiah,' and a Beethoven programme, including the Mass in C and 'Mount of Olives.' The conductor is Mr. C. Hancock.

Lincoln.—The Musical Society, so ably directed by the Cathedral organist, Dr. G. J. Bennett, only announces at present one performance (on November 28), when Handel's 'Acis and Galatea' and a miscellaneous selection will be given.

Sidcup.—The only performance at present contemplated by the Musical Society is that of 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast,' without which work very few choral concert schemes this season appear to be complete. The conductor is Mr. A. E. Butterworth.

Stockton-on-Tees. — The Choral and Orchestral Society will give Gounod's 'Redemption' and a Cowen Concert, at which the chief feature will be the 'Sleeping Beauty.'

PROMENADE CONCERTS, QUEEN'S HALL.

Mr. Robert Newman's determination to possess the finest orchestra obtainable is still active. The system of annually re-electing its members may press hardly on some who have tried their best and yet been dismissed, but it is the only one by which the efficiency of any musical body can be maintained. No one will deny that several of our instrumental and choral forces would benefit by the adoption of this policy. For the present season, which began on August 25, Mr. Newman has secured the services of Mr. A. V. Belinski, principal violin of the late Crystal Palace Orchestra, who now sits at the first desk with Mr. Arthur W. Payne; Mr. M. Belinski, principal violoncellist from the Sydenham Orchestra, and Mr. T. Fonteyne, a fine oboe player from Brussels.

With Mr. Henry J. Wood as conductor of such a fine orchestra as has been gathered together, it is scarcely necessary to say that a very high standard of excellence has been attained. Few novelties have been given, and these of small importance; but the scheme of music merits the highest praise for its comprehensiveness and high-class character. As in previous seasons, Monday is devoted to Wagner; Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays are termed 'Popular,' but include works by the great masters. The application to such high-class music of a word hitherto of somewhat unsavoury significance to musicians shows the immense progress that has been made in public taste since 1838, when the first promenade concerts were given in London, at the Lyceum Theatre, under the conductorship of Signor Negri, and when the programmes consisted of four overtures, four quadrilles, four waltzes, and an instrumental solo. On Wednesdays large audiences have been attracted by the masterpieces of Schumann, Brahms, and Tchaikovsky (to adopt the spelling of the last-named suggested by Mrs. Newmarch), and Beethoven's symphonies are being played consecutively on successive Fridays. It may interest some readers to know that Beethoven's 'immortal nine,' minus the 'Choral,' were performed in consecutive weeks at the promenade concerts at Covent Garden, conducted in 1878 by Sir Arthur Sullivan; but it is recorded that the music was so good that it hindered the sale of refreshments, and the financial results were proportionately unsatisfactory! Happily nous avons changés tout cela.

Several new soloists have appeared. The most noteworthy are Madame Leonora von Stosch and Señor Antonio Paoli. The former is an American violinist. Her mother, as Miss Thompson, was a much esteemed singer in the United States, and her father, Count von Stosch, after serving in the German army, removed to Washington before the outbreak of the civil war in which he took a prominent part. Madame von Stosch began her musical studies early, and played in public at eight years of age Beethoven's C sharp minor Sonata. Subsequently, however, the pianoforte was relinquished for the violin, which she studied under Kaspar, of Washington; Cornelis, at the Brussels Conservatoire; and Arno Hilf, at Leipzig. Her style is nearest akin to that of Señor Sarasate, the tone being more remarkable for purity than power. The chief charm of her playing, however, is its finish and refined expression, and these attributes will probably secure her widespread favour in this country. Señor Paoli made his first appearance in England on the 18th ult. He is stated to have been born in 1872, and, after having studied in Madrid and Milan, to have made his public début in 1896 at the theatre at Valencia. Since then he has sung with considerable success at several Continental opera houses. He possesses a powerful tenor voice, articulates distinctly, and phrases intelligently, but marred his singing by unpleasantly forcing the tone in forte passages. One other vocalist deserves mention, Miss Etta C. Keil, a young American soprano, a native of Pittsburg, who appeared on the 18th ult., and made a most favourable impression by reason of the freshness and purity of her voice and artistic style. Her latest instructors were Mr. Randegger and Mr. Henry J. Wood.

Some interest was excited on the 19th ult. by the first performance in England of M. Rimsky-Korsakoff's second symphony, entitled 'Antar.' As an example of what may be called musical impressionism this is a remarkable work. It is programme music of the most pronounced type. The story, printed on the first page of the score, is by Seukowsky. The opening movement illustrates Antar's rescue of a gazelle which is about to become the prey of a gigantic bird. The gazelle is a fairy queen under a spell, and Antar is transported to her palace. The three subsequent sections deal with the queen's 'Three great joys of life'—vengeance, power, and love. The most satisfactory number is the opening one, the supernatural element being cleverly suggested, and the orchestration, in which the strength of the work consists, being picturesque and brilliant. Great command of creating fearsome noises is shown in the Vengeance section, and the composer's idea of power is manifestly participation in the pomps and vanities of this wicked world. The finale, dealing with the tender passion, contains some charming passages, but the phase of love portrayed is so entirely emotional that the music becomes monotonous. In its entirety the symphony may be recommended to students for brilliant orchestral effects and for what to avoid in construction.

The London Church Choir Association will hold its twenty-seventh annual Festival in St. Paul's Cathedral on Thursday, November 15, at 7.30 p.m. Mr. Myles B. Foster has written an anthem, 'The right hand of the Lord,' specially for the occasion, and Mr. Edwin H. Lemare contributes a new setting, in B flat, of the Evening Canticles. As heretofore, the conductorship and organistship of the Festival will be in the safe keeping of Sir George Martin and Mr. Charles Macpherson.

THE ROYAL NATIONAL EISTEDDFOD AT LIVERPOOL.

(By our Special Correspondent.)

The great annual Eisteddfod which unites North and South Wales was this year held at Liverpool, from the 18th to the 22nd ult. As an audience of about ten thousand persons was looked for on this occasion an arena had to be practically created. The Liverpool Corporation was equal to the demand and arranged to accommodate their guests in the North Market Hall. This huge building as fitted up served the purpose fairly well, the main disadvantage being the exposure to the distressing noise of the adjacent streets. The proceedings were, as usual, of a highly miscellaneous nature. We have only to do with the musical features of the gathering. The zeal and capacity of the Welsh for singing are notorious and found ample vent during the four days. There were numerous sections for solo singing, for which there were no fewer than 476 entries, and there were 149 entries for duet, trio, and quartet singing. Instrumental sections, which as yet are not very popular in Wales, brought out 113 pianists and violinists and two bands. The choral sections brought large numbers of competitors. Some of these sections are fully mentioned below.

The 1900 Eisteddfod is likely to be memorable for the fact that English choirs gained all but one of the most important prizes. There will be many wholesome searchings of the spirit over this pregnant result. It is now evident that Welsh conductors and choralists will have to revise the aims of their practice and their standards of excellence if they hope to excel the best led English choirs, more especially those in Midland and Northern districts.

THE CHIEF CHORAL COMPETITION. PRIZE, 200 GUINEAS AND A GOLD MEDAL.

The chief choral competition, open to choirs consisting of 150 to 180 voices, was announced to take place at 2 p.m. on the 18th inst. At that hour nearly nine thousand persons were assembled in hopeful expectancy, but no attempt was made to keep faith with the public, and it was 3 p.m. when the first choir rose to sing. The test pieces were the accompanied choruses 'How the giant winds do wrestle,' by the Welsh composer Stephens, and 'Why, my soul,' the last chorus from the 42nd Psalm, by Mendelssohn, and the unaccompanied part-song 'The vale of rest,' also by Mendelssohn. This selection was calculated to test the choirs thoroughly. The choice of an unaccompanied piece was especially to be commended. The adjudicators were Signor Randegger, Dr. Varley Roberts, Dr. Joseph Parry, Mr. C. Francis Lloyd, Mr. Dan Protheroe, Mr. Tom Price, and Mr. John Thomas.

There were five entries, but a choir from Pontypridd failed to appear. The following choirs sang in the order given: Shrewsbury (Mr. W. D. Phillips), Carmarthen (Mr. A. J. Silver), Potteries and District (Mr. Jas. Garner), and Carnarvon (Mr. John Williams).

The order of performance of the three pieces was left to the discretion of the conductors. Shrewsbury began with 'The vale of rest.' The tone was not very full, the sopranos especially being inclined to shrillness. The intonation wavered in the chromatic passages. The blend was not first-rate and the enunciation was indifferent. But there were many evidences of painstaking preparation. The rhythm was attractive and the attack good. The expression, however, lacked distinction. In the Welsh chorus, which was sung in English, the feature of the execution was the compactness of the attack and clearness of the runs. The Mendelssohn chorus was sung with over-eagerness and, therefore, lost breadth and dignity. The enquiry, 'Why, my soul,' was almost indignantly delivered. The high notes were an obvious trouble. Carmarthen began with Stephens's chorus. The girlish tone of the sopranos was apparent and the deficiency of alto destroyed the possibility of a satisfactory blend. On the whole, the execution was perfunctory and failed to stir enthusiasm. The part-song—which, in pursuance of a bad custom that obtains only at Welsh competitions, was partly played over before the choir performed—was sung in a curiously cold fashion. No attempt was made to secure piano, and the pianissimo passages were sung mezzo-forte. The Mendelssohn chorus evidently suited this choir. The opening was especially dignified and impressive, and, throughout, the attack was clean, well-knit, and assured. It was a pity that the musicianship and care brought to bear on the execution of this chorus were not evident in the rendering of the other test pieces. The Potteries choir began with 'How the giant winds do wrestle.' Their fine rich tone, musical blend, and firm attack instantly arrested attention. Some of the climaxes were thrilling. The expression was convincing and there were no exaggerations. Then in the part-song the tone was beautiful and the expression had the called for sympathetic pang. But the intonation was not always true and the pianissimo lacked the highest delicacy. The phrasing and enunciation were admirable. In 'Why, my soul,' the fine tone and brilliant attack fascinated attention. One felt too that the expression was entirely adequate—dignified and joyous and without an exuberance difficult to restrain in so inspiring a chorus. The obvious superiority of the Potteries choir made the audience almost feverish. Would the celebrated Carnarvon singers beat the record? As if to encourage them to do their utmost to save the situation, the North Wales singers were loudly cheered as they rose to sing the Welsh chorus. They began well, with a firm attack and a full musical tone, but not so rich as that displayed by the Potteries choir. There were some exaggerations in the delivery of the sforzandos and gradations of tone, but, on the whole, the expression was impressive. The ff in the Adagio molto at the end was tremendously effective, but the following diminuendo to pp was not so well contrived. So far the result was dubious. It was felt that much would depend upon the unaccompanied part-song which the Carnarvonites sang as their second piece. In this the clear finish of the execution, even to the delicate tapering off of the ends of phrases, was admirable. The expression hardly reached the poignancy secured by the Potteries singers, but it was full of point, and, moreover, was not merely mechanical. There were, however, unfortunately one or two blemishes in the intonation that jarred seriously. Much was hoped for Carnarvon when they rose to sing the Mendelssohn chorus. Here was a piece thoroughly fit to display the peculiar excellencies of Welsh choralists. The attack at the opening was splendid, but the phrasing, in which the word 'Why' was so completely separated from the context, sounded strange, and set one thinking as to its propriety. The molto allegro opened magnificently and enthralled the audience. Later, the constant short phrasing began to be a too obvious feature of the execution—the fugal passages were occasionally laboriously sung, the sopranos were not quite in tune, and at the end the strain induced a slight hurry that destroyed the unity of the attack that previously had been one of the best points in the performance of the choir. At the conclusion the choir was deservedly applauded, but even the strongest Welsh partisans felt that there was faint hope that the Potteries' record had been beaten. This hope, however, was fanned by the fact that the adjudicators were a long time in arriving at a conclusion. When at last Signor Randegger, in an adroit speech, announced that the Potteries' choir was to have the prize, there was much excitement, but it was soon tempered by a feeling that no other verdict was possible. The choir was constituted as follows: Sopranos, 47; contraltos, 36; tenors, 39; and basses, 45. Total, 167.

The children's choir competition was announced for noon on the 19th ult., but it was not called until after 1 p.m. The test pieces were 'Don't forget the old folks' (Jude) and a four-part arrangement of a part-song, 'Selenè' (John Henry). The first piece afforded little opportunity for the display of merit, and the second piece was thoroughly unsuited for children because of the character of the music and especially because of its wide range. Eleven choirs entered but only nine sang. The standard of the singing was not very high. It was evident that the preparation of the four-part piece had done more harm than good, The adjudicators decided the prize between the three choirs generally felt to be the best—namely, Brymbo, which was awarded nine guineas; Blaenau Festiniog, six guineas; and Mountain Ash had the solatium of three guineas. A detailed account of this competition will be found in the October issue of the School Music Review.

THE SMALL CHOIR COMPETITION.

CHOIRS OF SIXTY TO SEVENTY-FIVE VOICES.

PRIZE, SIXTY GUINEAS AND A GOLD MEDAL.

This competition was held on the 19th ult. Ten choirs had entered, but only seven came. The test pieces were an accompanied chorus, 'There is joy in the presence,' from the 'Prodigal Son' (Sullivan), and an accompanied part-song, 'Sleep, my beloved' (J. H. Roberts). The time announced was 2.30 p.m., and the choirs were ready at that hour; but owing to the masterly inactivity of the arrangements it was 3.30 p.m. when the competition commenced. In order to gain time the choirs were directed to sing only the part-song, which was in every way a sufficiently severe test. Holywell United (Mr. J. E. Pierce) sang first. Their tonal attack was very defective, many notes being out of tune, and they need much drill to gain more unity in rhythm. Blackpool (Mr. Whittaker) came next and gave a most refined performance in every detail. The tone was sweet and full and the expression chaste. They were not always absolutely in tune, but the wonder was that they sang so admirably, in spite of the thunderous noises coming from the street by the side of the Market Hall. Cefn Mawr (Mr. G. W. Hughes) sent the next choir. They began capitally, but the trebles were soon worried. The tonal attack was defaced by 'scooping,' and the swells bulged out too much and some wrong notes were sung. The expression was good, but the dulness of the vocal tone militated against some of the effects sought for by the conductor. Machynlleth came next and exhibited a sweet, agreeable tone and a nice feeling for expression. Their crescendos were disappointing, and the last bars were sung with wavering intonation. Talke (Mr. J. Whewall) came next and at once attracted attention. The blend was beautiful, the sweetness of the female voices being especially noticeable. The phrasing was most artistic and the attack clean. The gradations of force were admirable and the rhythm was agreeably dainty. Next came St. Helen's (Mr. H. Berry). Their specialty was fulness of tone and an excessive legato delivery. The quality of voice and blend were decidedly good, but the altos were hardly strong enough for an ideal balance. There were some small faults in execution, and the expression was somewhat too aggressive for the words. This choir had to contend against a most distressing noise from the street. Bangor sang last. They appeared to be somewhat inexperienced, and their tone needs much refining. With singular unanimity they sang astonishingly wrong notes, some of which altered the key. The end of the competition left the audience dubious as to whether Blackpool or Talke would be adjudged as first. It was lugubriously felt that the Welsh choirs were again out of the running. The adjudicators announced that they desired to hear Blackpool and Talke again, but as the singers had dispersed this was not possible. It was therefore settled that the prize should be divided between the two choirs. It may be hoped that these two excellent organisations will meet again—say at Morecambe, where the conditions allow choirs every chance of showing off their best work.

On the 20th ult. the competition for female voice choirs of thirty-five to forty voices was held. The prize was thirty-five guineas and a gold medal. The test pieces were 'Sweet the balmy days' (Mackenzie) and 'Jesu, Lover of my soul' (Protheroe). Eight choirs entered, but only seven appeared. The result was another victory for the Blackpool Society, under Mr. Whittaker. The voices of this choir were especially beautiful and the expressive performance of both pieces elicited general admiration. Pontypridd was an excellent second and Nantlee did very well and earned a third place.

THE MALE-VOICE CHOIR COMPETITION.

The competition in the male-voice choir section, on the 21st ult., was looked forward to with special interest. So far, the laurels had gone to English choirs, and speculations were rife as to what would happen in a department of choral execution in which Welsh singers often display great skill. The adjudicators, with the exception that Mr. John Thomas did not officiate, were the same as for the chief choral competition. The test pieces were 'Crossing the plain' (T. Maldwyn Price) and the chorus (unaccompanied) 'Cyrus in Babylon' (Boulanger). Sixteen choirs entered, but only eleven competed. We regret that we have not space to analyse the singing. It must be enough to state that the performance of the test pieces was of a high order, and evoked great enthusiasm. The Dowlais Choir gave superb renderings and was awarded the prize of sixty guineas. Swansea (Mr. J. D. Thomas), Port Talbot (Mr. John Phillips), and the Manchester Orpheus (Mr. W. S. Nesbitt) were not far behind. This well-won victory gave great satisfaction to the Welsh section of the audience and was the subject of congratulation from all quarters.

An important part of the musical scheme was a series of evening concerts. For these concerts a capital choir of 400 voices was organised and conducted by Mr. D. O. Parry, and a full orchestra of seventy performers, under the leadership of Mr. Thos. Shaw was also engaged. The works performed included the 'Creation,' Dr. Joseph Parry's cantata 'Ceridwen,' specially composed for the festival, and 'Judas Maccabæus.' The artists engaged were Miss Evangeline Florence, Miss Helen Jaxon, Miss Gertrude Hughes, Miss Maggie Davies, Miss Ada Crossley, Miss Juanita Jones, Madame Marian McKenzie, Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. Maldwyn Humphreys, Mr. David Ffrangcon-Davies, Mr. Emlyn Davies, Mr. David Hughes, and Mr. Barry Lindon.

In view of the obvious difficulty of arranging a time table for so many events, it may seem ungracious to complain that no apparent effort was made to keep faith with the hundreds of competitors in the choral sections and the thousands of the audience specially interested in these sections. Again and again small matters and long speeches were permitted to hinder large choirs already assembled, and impatient and weary of waiting. The children's competition was actually stopped in the middle in order that a long speech might be made, although already many of the children had been wearily waiting for hours. How could the officials expect little folk to sing their best under such trying circumstances? It would have taken no more time if the speech had been delivered afterwards.

HOVINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(By our Special Correspondent.)

It is impossible to attend a Hovingham Festival without being impressed by its absolutely unique character, but, though I may reckon myself a regular habitué at Hovingham, I must say that this never came home to me with such force as on the occasion of the tenth of these festivals, on the 18th and 19th of last month. I do not know the population of Hovingham, but it must certainly be calculated by hundreds, and not by thousands; it is in a purely agricultural district in the North Riding of Yorkshire, without a single town of any importance within reasonable distance. Yet it can boast of a well-established festival at which choral and orchestral works of the first importance have been given, and in which artists of the first rank take part, and in many instances generously and voluntarily give their services. On this occasion the orchestra, a most efficient body of some fifty players, contained among the violins several well-known soloists, whose names are familiar to the musical world, and whose presence would have been almost as unaccountable as that of the proverbial fly in amber, were it not for another phenomenon, the participation of the most venerated of all violinists, Dr. Joachim. That consummate artist for the second time gave the festival the benefit and honour of his help, while as pianist he had a sympathetic colleague in Miss Fanny Davies. The people of the district are certainly much to be congratulated on their good fortune, but he who is most entitled to take credit for such a state of things is Canon Hudson Pemberton, as it is owing to his artistic and social qualities, together with his genuine enthusiasm, that this village festival has been possible. He is ably seconded by the Squire of the parish, Sir William Worsley, Bart., who lends the curious structure attached to Hovingham Hall, and known as 'The Riding School,' for a concert-room, and he has a capital business manager in his honorary secretary, Mrs. Fraser; but all must confess that Canon Pemberton is the moving spirit, as he was the originator, of the festival.

His good judgment is evidenced in the compilation of the present programme. There were three concerts, at which the choral works were Beethoven's Mass in C, Mendelssohn's 'Walpurgis Nacht,' Brahms's 'Song of Destiny,' and Thomas's 'The Swan and the Skylark,' all of which were more than creditably done. A shade more delicacy, especially in Brahms's work, would have been an improvement, and with so carefully trained and intelligent a chorus it should be readibly obtainable; but in force and spirit there was little left wanting. The principal vocalists were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Mrs. Burrell, Mr. Gregory Hast, and Mr. Andrew Black, a remarkably efficient and artistic 'all-round' quartet.

On this occasion, however, the interest of the programme may be said to have centred on the instrumental pieces. Foremost was one of Bach's concertos, which has probably never before been heard in this country—at least, in its complete form. It was the second of the Brandenburg Concerti Grossi, in F major, for the singular combination of violin, oboe, and trumpet, with, of course, the string band to accompany. It is a delightful work, fresh, vigorous, and full of the astounding fertility of invention that distinguish the composer. Played admirably by Dr. Joachim, Messrs. Vivian, E. W. Davies, and Solomon, it made so lively an impression, at the second concert, that there was a strongly expressed desire for its repetition at the third, which accordingly took place. Less piquant, but equally beautiful, was a Violin Concerto in A, by Mozart, which Dr. Joachim introduced. It is the fifth in Köchel's list, bearing date 1775, and is a pleasant, light-hearted example of the composer, while the last movement in particular has more than common character of its own. It was played by Dr. Joachim with rare distinction, and with a sympathy that made one feel—"this must be exactly what Mozart meant." Miss Davies gave a fine performance of Beethoven's Fourth Pianoforte Concerto, and Dr. Joachim was joined by her in Brahms's Pianoforte and Violin Sonata in G (Op. 78), and by Mr. Kruse in one of Spohr's violin duets, which commend themselves more for their perfect adaptation of means to end than for their actual musical effect. Mr. Carl Fuchs, who led the violoncellos, played the quaint Intermezzo from Lalo's Concerto in D in very accomplished style.

The principal orchestral piece was Mozart's G minor Symphony, which showed the excellent quality of the band, as did Gluck's 'Iphigenie in Aulis' Overture, with Wagner's concert-ending, and Weber's 'Oberon' Overture. There were some other solo pieces, vocal and instrumental, but enough has been said to indicate the high character of the programme. Both it and the performances reflected the utmost credit on Canon Pemberton, and there was afforded a pleasing proof that his efforts are appreciated in the announcement of sundry testimonials that are to be presented to him by those interested in the festivals, whether as performers or listeners. He is about to leave the district, but it is hoped, and believed, that his active interest and help will not be lost to the festival.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Preparation for the approaching triennial Festival overshadows everything else here in matters musical at present. On the 12th ult. Mr. Elgar attended the rehearsal at the Masonic Hall, and took the chorus through his 'Dream of Gerontius.' He said he had always a friendly feeling towards Birmingham, as all he knew of music he had learnt while a member of Mr. Stockley's orchestra. Dr. Richter made his first appearance on Monday, the 17th ult., when he rehearsed the 'Passion Music' and part of the Requiem by Brahms. He expressed his satisfaction with the chorus, and hoped the last Festival of the century would be a great musical treat. On Wednesday, the 19th ult., Mr. Coleridge-Taylor attended the rehearsal of his work 'Scenes from the Song of Hiawatha,' and had a great reception. It is stated that three days are to be devoted to the final combined rehearsals, instead of two as formerly. Dr. Richter will conduct the performances of Mr. Elgar's and Mr. Taylor's compositions.

The Midland Institute School of Music opened for the session on the 17th ult., with Mr. Granville Bantock as Principal. Mr. Bantock will take a class in form and composition and will direct the students' orchestra.

Mr. Halford has issued the programme of his series of Orchestral concerts. The first will be devoted entirely to Mendelssohn, the second to English composers, the third to Beethoven, and the fourth to Tschaïkowsky. Mr. Max Mossel announces a series of quartet concerts, and Messrs. Harrison have a long list of artists for their popular concerts, including Madame Patti and M. Paderewski.

The City Choral Society announces three concerts, under the direction of Mr. F. W. Beard. The first, on the 17th inst., includes Stanford's 'Revenge' and a selection from 'Carmen'; on December 13, the 'Golden Legend' and an operatic selection; on February 28, Gounod's 'Messe de Pâques' and a selection from the same composer's 'Faust.'

A concert was given in the Masonic Hall, on the 20th ult., in order to raise funds to enable Miss Eugenie Usher, a local contralto singer, to continue her studies at the Royal Academy of Music. The concert was fairly well attended.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

It is hoped that the Colston Hall may be opened during the last week of October or early in November, when six concerts will be given. The Choral Society, numbering 600 voices, has been invited to sing the choruses, and the members are enthusiastic in their desire to give a good rendering of the various works entrusted to them. The great organ for the hall, the gift of Sir W. H. Wills, and built by Mr. Henry Willis, is now completed and the task of erection going forward. A band of eighty performers has been engaged for the opening concerts, of which Mr. Riseley will be the conductor.

Practices of the Bristol Royal Orpheus Glee Society have re-commenced. A composition by Mr. C. Lee Williams, inscribed to Mr. Riseley, the conductor of the Society, will be taken in hand for the opening night in the spring. The piece is a setting of Tom Hood's ballad, 'Faithless Sally Brown.' Professor Horatio Parker has also presented a MS. composition to Mr. Riseley, expressing a hope that the choir of which he had heard so much would include it in their scheme.

There was a fair attendance of the Riseley Male-Voice Choir on the 6th ult., when the first practice after the summer interval was held. The compositions taken in hand for the concert of the choir were the following: 'Salamis,' by Gernsheim; 'Britannia, the Queen of the Ocean,' by Hirsch; 'The Recognition of Land,' by Grieg; Mendelssohn's 'Antigone,' and the 'Soldiers' Chorus,' from Gounod's 'Faust.'

A series of six orchestral concerts, at the Victoria Rooms, has been arranged for, the conductors being Dr. Percy Buck, organist at the Cathedral, and Mr. F. W. Rootham, organist at St. Mary's Church, Tyndale Park.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Palestrina's five-part Mass, 'Ascendo ad Patrem,' was sung on the 11th ult., by Mr. Vincent O'Brien's special choir, in the Church of St. Lawrence O'Toole. The Credo of the 'Missa Papæ Marcelli,' splendidly sung, was substituted for that proper to the Mass. An exquisite 'O Salutaris Hostia,' by Pierre de la Rue, and Palestrina's 'Tantum Ergo,' for male voices, completed a beautiful service. A Magnificat, in falso bordone, by Palestrina, was also sung, but not so well as the other music. The excellence of the whole performance leads one to ask why, with really good material to hand, such music is not more frequently heard in Dublin.

At last the Cathedral at Marlborough Street has an organ worthy of the premier Catholic Church in Dublin. It has cost over £3,500, and a series of blunders and mishaps has occupied the ten years which have elapsed since the work was begun. For the last four years the organist, Mr. Brendan Rogers, has been obliged to conduct the services at a small one-manual organ. The firm of Hill, in London, have now completed the work to the entire satisfaction of all concerned, and the organ is now one of the finest in the three kingdoms.

We understand the Dublin Musical Society is going to make an effort to start again after Christmas. A call on the guarantors is to be made immediately to discharge the existing liabilities of the Society so as to enable it to be re-constituted without any let or hindrance.

The Dublin Orchestral Society announces a series of four afternoon concerts in the Royal University Buildings, to begin early in November. A novel feature will be the introduction of a vocalist at each concert. It is understood that this series will bring to a termination the existence of the Society unless the support accorded by the public is very much greater than heretofore. It is most desirable for the honour of our city that such a thing should be averted.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(From our own Correspondent.)

As in other artistic and social circles, the life promised in the musical world of Edinburgh this session will be a great relief after the depression of last winter, when the Scottish capital was one house of mourning over its sons in the Highland Brigade and other Scottish battalions.

The most important prospectus is, of course, that of Messrs. Paterson's fourteenth annual series of orchestral concerts. The Scottish Orchestra has again been engaged, under its fourth conductor, Mr. Frederic H. Cowen; and the Edinburgh Choral Union, Mr. Kirkhope's and Mr. Moonie's choirs (the latter for the first time) will take part in the scheme. Mr. Cowen will be assisted, when occasion requires, by M. Sons, the capable leader, who acted as conductor last year during Herr Bruch's temporary indisposition, and Herr Moszkowski will officiate at the first concert. The choral works announced to be performed are Elgar's 'Caractacus,' 'The Messiah,' and 'St. Paul' (Edinburgh Choral Union); 'Scenes from Hiawatha' (Mr. Moonie's Choir); 'Israel in Egypt' (Mr. Kirkhope's Choir); and Mr. Millar Craig's Choir has chosen Bruch's 'Odysseus' for its winter study and annual concert.

Miss May Elliot, a former pupil of Miss Lichtenstein and for the last four years of Herr Stavenhagen, will make her début in Edinburgh on November 10.

Mr. Denhof's scheme of Chamber concerts promises this year the collaboration of such artists as Professor Halir, Willy Hess (with quartet), Pècskai, and César Thomson; Mesdames Marchesi and Ella Russell, Miss Clara Butt and Miss Rose Ettinger.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

With the wane of summer come throughout the provinces rumours of musical and other delights, for the charming of the approaching dark evenings, which as September draws near to its close begin to assume definite form and positive pledge. On all sides we are gladdened by evidences of renewed activity and of determination to advance: the suburban choral societies have selected the chief items of their winter programmes and are re-commencing practice with fresh zeal, after their summer idleness. Even better are the hopes caused by promises of fresh amateur associations for the study of orchestral works; and, so, for the broadening and deepening of musical knowledge and extension of the general appreciation of its larger scope. Among professional undertakings the Hallé concerts take, of course, chief place; and the already issued prospectus for the forty-third season shows that Dr. Richter, who has now taken up his residence among us, will not allow their excellence to decrease. The selection of orchestral works is capital, although, perhaps, the absolute novelties are not too numerous. Among the symphonies, that of Sinding in D minor will find a place; and Tschaïkowsky's No. 5, as well as the great 'Pathétique,' will be again given, and many Overtures with which we are more or less familiar.

On the choral nights Beethoven's Mass in D will, as well as the Ninth Symphony, be repeated; Berlioz's 'Faust' will resume its accustomed place and, doubtless, after the few years interval, again attract a crowd almost equal to that drawn by the one great Oratorio of modern times—Mendelssohn's immortal 'Elijah.' No selection from Wagner's operatic works is to be vouchsafed; but the 'Requiem' of Brahms and the St. John Passion of Bach are promised, while Cowen's 'Ode to the Passions,' unavoidably withdrawn a year ago, is again announced. The cast for 'The Messiah' is a very safe one; and Mr. R. H. Wilson will again take charge of the performance of the never-dying celebration of Christmas. An attractive list of soloists—instrumental and vocal—has been secured, and, altogether, the scheme is bright and should be alluring of subscribers.

Mr. Lane grows more and more ambitious, and to his large choir and, for the accompaniment of choral works, sufficient orchestra, adds an immense list of singers of celebrity, from Madame Marchesi downward. In addition to 'The Messiah' and the 'Elijah,' which no sane man would think of withholding, Mr. Lane promises 'Acis and Galatea,' and, as a novelty, Stanford's Irish Ballad, 'Phaudrig Crohoore.'

At the Town Hall the Saturday evening recitals of Dr. Kendrick Pyne will certainly lose none of their interest; and the 'Gentlemen's' concerts—including four orchestral performances under Dr. Richter—will again be given.

Dr. Watson's choir will delight us, as of old; but, so far, we have no positive information about new works in rehearsal.

MUSIC IN NORTHUMBERLAND AND DURHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Most of the musical societies are now issuing their prospectuses for the coming winter season. The Newcastle and Gateshead Choral Union announces a very attractive series of concerts, commencing with Sullivan's Festival Te Deum and 'The Golden Legend.' At this concert Mr. Edward Lloyd (on November 28) will make his farewell appearance before a Newcastle audience. Mr. James M. Preston will conduct. On March 20 the Society will give a performance of Berlioz's 'Faust,' under the conductorship of Dr. Hans Richter. The Hallé Orchestra has been engaged for both these concerts, and an additional concert, of purely orchestral music, will be given by the same orchestra, conducted by Dr. Richter.

The Sunderland Philharmonic Society announces two concerts. On December 12 Dvorák's 'Spectre's Bride' and Schumann's 'Nachtlied' will be given, and on March 13 Handel's 'Acis and Galatea.' Mr. N. Kilburn will conduct both concerts.

The arrangements of the Middlesbrough Musical Union are, as usual, very complete. On November 8 Goring Thomas's 'The Sun Worshippers' and a violin concerto by Max Bruch will be performed, Mr. Louis Pècskai having been engaged for the solo part in the latter work. On February 6 an orchestral concert will be given by the Hallé Orchestra, under Dr. Richter; and on March 27 the season will close with a performance of Mr. S. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Scenes from Hiawatha,' which the composer will conduct in person. The conductor of the Society is Mr. N. Kilburn.

The Auckland Musical Society, of which Mr. Kilburn is also conductor, this year celebrates the twenty-fifth year of its existence by a musical festival, which will be held in Bishop Auckland on December 4 and 5. The works to be performed will include 'The Messiah,' a portion of Sullivan's 'Golden Legend,' and Mr. S. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast,' the latter to be conducted by the composer.

The South Shields Choral Society announces for its first concert, on December 11, a performance of Handel's 'Judas Maccabæus.' A second concert will be given on March 27, at which Mr. S. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Death of Minnehaha' and 'Hiawatha's Departure' will be performed. Mr. M. Fairs will conduct both concerts.

The Tynemouth Vocal Society, of which Mr. M. Fairs has just been appointed conductor, in place of Mr. Bird, resigned, purposes giving Goring Thomas's 'The Sun Worshippers' and T. Anderton's 'The Wreck of the Hesperus,' on December 19. A second concert will be given during the season, at which Parts I. and II. of the 'Creation' and Gade's 'Spring's Message' will be performed.

MUSIC IN NOTTINGHAM AND DISTRICT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The prospects for the coming season in Nottingham are such as should be heartily welcomed and readily supported.

The Sacred Harmonic Society will commence with a recital of 'Tannhäuser,' Acts i. and ii. (without cuts), and the Paris version of the Venusberg scene. Its next effort is to be Brahms's 'Song of Destiny,' Max Bruch's 'Frithjof' (for male voices), Bach's 'Jesu, priceless Treasure,' and Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast.' The full programme is completed by the mention of Verdi's 'Requiem' (Manzoni) and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony.

In addition to the choral concerts, the same Society is responsible for two orchestral concerts. The orchestra will be led by Mr. H. Lyell Taylor. The Society is to be congratulated in securing, for another season, the services of Mr. Henry J. Wood, whose reputation and work needs no eulogy.

Chamber music will be represented by Miss Cantelo's excellent concerts. The programme for the season will include the engagement of the Willy Hess and Kruse Quartets, as well as the engagement of Mr. Paul Ludwig and Miss Maud Powell.

Miss Nellie Smith, a most conscientious artist, announces a pianoforte recital on the 10th inst., for which she puts forward an attractive programme. With Miss Chaplin (violinist) she will play Brahms's Sonata in A major and Schumann's in A minor.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Judging by present indications, the forthcoming season promises to be busy and full of interest. The reports of the various musical societies in the city and district show in most cases that last season's results were financially satisfactory and there is a consequent access of enterprise in their coming plans.

The Sheffield Amateur Musical Society (Mr. Schöllhammer) announces Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul' for the winter concert.

The Sheffield Musical Union, under the conductorship of Dr. Coward, has issued an attractive prospectus of the season's arrangements, in which Elgar's 'King Olaf,' Gluck's 'Orpheus,' Bridge's 'The Ballad of the Clampherdown,' Mendelssohn's 13th Psalm, 'The Messiah,' and Spohr's 'The Last Judgment' are announced to be performed. The last-named work will be given in connection with the newly formed Sheffield Orchestra, which body has in its turn put forward an interesting list of orchestral works to be given at four concerts under Dr. Coward's direction.

The Sheffield Choral Union (Mr. S. Suckley) promises Elgar's 'Caractacus,' which has not yet been heard in the district, and 'The Messiah.'

The Male Glee and Madrigal Society (Mr. J. A. Rodgers) has re-commenced rehearsals with Ambroise Thomas's 'The Witches' Sabbath,' and works by Stevens, Webbe, Mendelssohn, &c.

At Barnsley the St. Cecilia Choral Society (Dr. Coward) will have the distinction of being the first to perform Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha' (complete) in South Yorkshire. Gluck's 'Orpheus' will be given at the second concert.

The Hoyland Common Choral Society (Mr. G. M. Coates) announces Handel's 'Alexander's Feast' for the opening concert, and Costa's 'Eli' for a later date.

The Chesterfield Harmonic Society opens with Sullivan's 'Golden Legend,' to be followed by 'The Messiah,' under Mr. G. A. Seed.

The Eyam Choral Society (Mr. J. W. Froggatt) is rehearsing Stainer's 'Daughter of Jairus,' to be followed by a more pretentious work, probably one by Mr. Coleridge-Taylor.

The Baslow Choral Society will perform 'Judas Maccabæus,' under Mr. E. U. Ireland, after which the post of conductor will be undertaken by Mr. J. W. Froggatt.

The Chapeltown Harmonic Society (Mr. T. Bool) announces 'Elijah,' and the same work is to be given at St. Mary's Church, Sheffield, under Mr. J. A. Rodgers.

At Retford Mr. Hamilton White's orchestral concerts are suspended for the present, but performances will be given of Rossini's 'Stabat Mater,' Beethoven's 'Mount of Olives,' and Gounod's 'Faust.'

The Rotherham Choral Society (Mr. T. Brameld) will perform Elgar's 'King Olaf,' a selection from Bach's Mass in B minor, and 'The Messiah.'

'King Olaf' is also announced to be given by the Norton Lees Choral Society (Mr. H. Reynolds).

The St. Peter's (Abbeydale) Choral Society's programme includes Mendelssohn's 'Walpurgis Night' and 'Hear my Prayer' and Henry Gadsby's 'Lord of the Isles,' to be given under the direction of Mr. William Gadsby.

FOREIGN NOTES.

Baltimore (U.S.).—The well-known pianist, Mr. Ernest Hutcheson, has been appointed to the senior professorship of pianoforte playing at the Peabody Institute Conservatory of Music.

Berlin.—The subscription fund for the combined Haydn, Mozart, and Beethoven monument, to be erected in the Thiergarten, has been making such good progress that its realisation may be looked for at no distant date.——Professor Martin Blumner has resigned his position of Vice-President of the Academy of Arts (musical section) and will be succeeded by Professor Joachim. Professor von Herzogen has likewise retired, on account of failing health, from his appointments at the Academy and the Hochschule für Musik. At the latter Institution, where he conducted a class for composition and theory, he has been succeeded by Dr. Max Bruch, the well-known composer.——According to the annual report of the Klindworth-Scharwenka Conservatorium, the number of pupils at that excellent Institution during the past academical year was 365.

Beziers.—The performance, at the Arènes, of the tragedy 'Prométhée,' by MM. Jean Lorrain and F. Hérold, with incidental music by Gabriel Fauré, which took place on August 27, in the presence of some 12,000 spectators, was a complete success, the effect produced by the overture and opening chorus being particularly marked. The tragedy was preceded by the performance of an 'Ode Symphonique,' by M. Camille Saint-Saëns, set to words by M. Sicard, the composer conducting the somewhat unpretentious novelty.

Bologna. — Encouraged by the phenomenal success achieved in the domain of oratorio by Don Lorenzo Perosi, another young composer in holy orders, Don Antonio Pincelli, has made his appearance as the composer and author of the text of an oratorio entitled 'Judith.' The work has been greatly admired upon its recent performance before a private circle, and will most likely be produced at the Teatro Communal in the course of the present month.

Boston (U.S.).—By the liberality of a Boston citizen, Mr. E. D. Jordan, the Conservatory of Music has been enabled to offer two substantial prizes for a choral work, with soli and orchestra, and a symphonic composition respectively, to be competed for by composers residing in the United States.

Cologne.—The well-known Cologne Maennergesang-Verein, which will celebrate next year the fiftieth anniversary of its foundation, is organising an international competition, on a large scale, of choral societies, in connection with that event. The participation is invited of foreign choirs, numbering not less than fifty voices, and a number of valuable prizes will be offered. The competition, which will probably take place in July next, promises to be of exceptional interest.

Dresden.—Professor Wilhelm Rischbieter, for thirty-eight years a member of the teaching staff at the Royal Conservatorium, is about to retire from his position at that Institution.——A special performance took place, last month, at the Royal Theatre, of Edmund Kretchmer's 'Die Folkunger,' in honour of the seventieth anniversary of the composer's birth.

Genoa.—A new mass for four-part choir, with orchestral accompaniment, by Signor Gualeo, was performed last month at the Metropolitan Church, producing an excellent impression.

Gmünden.—Carl Goldmark, who has been residing here during the summer months, has nearly completed the score of his new opera, 'Goetz von Berlichingen,' the libretto of which is founded upon Goethe's drama bearing the same title.

Leipzig.—The excellent Solo-Quartet for Church Music, which, under the direction of Cantor Röthig, recently undertook an extensive concert-tour, for charitable purposes, in Russia and the Scandinavian countries, has made arrangements for a similar tour, during the next few months, in the United States of America.

Lisbon.—Weber's 'Der Freischütz' has recently been produced here, for the first time, with enormous success. The work has taken seventy-nine years, since its original Berlin performance, before finding its way to the Portuguese capital. Under the circumstances it is, perhaps, scarcely surprising that a 'leading' (or a misled) local critic, while considering the composer to be one 'of much promise,' should have felt it to be his duty to call the latter's attention to 'the spirit of modern opera, whereof little is, as yet, to be discerned in the present work'!

Milan.—The next new operatic work by Leoncavallo, the composer of 'I Pagliacci,' will be on the subject of 'Zaza,' and is to be brought out during the coming season at the Theatre della Scala.

Munich.—Felix Weingartner has just completed two parts of an operatic trilogy, founded upon the 'Oresteia' of Æschylus, and entitled 'Orestes.' When complete the work will comprise three one-act dramas, intended for performance on one evening.——The honour of the name of 'Mozart Strasse' has been conferred upon one of the principal streets in Munich, which has recently been extended. It is the first public recognition of the many associations, particularly during the earlier part of his brief career, of the composer of 'Don Giovanni' with the Bavarian capital.

Prague.—Under the energetic artistic management of Herr Angelo Neumann, a carefully prepared cycle of Gluck's operas, in chronological order, is about to be inaugurated at the German Theatre, the interpreters being nearly all members of the very efficient personnel of that establishment.

Pyrmont.—During the Lortzing Festival, recently held here, the idea of erecting a monument to the genial composer of 'Czar und Zimmermann' was initiated, and has been so freely taken up by many of the visitors that its realisation, on the occasion of the centenary of the composer's birth, in June next, is assured. It will be the only Lortzing monument, till then, in existence.

Rome.—The prize for a composition for mixed choir, with organ accompaniment, offered last year by the Academia di Santa Cecilia, has been awarded to the young Maestro Luigi Mapelli.

São Paulo.—A new opera by a native Brazilian composer deserves mention on account of the rarity of the occurrence. We refer to a three-act lyrical drama, entitled 'Saldunes,' by Leopoldo Miguez, which was produced here recently with much success.

St. Petersburg.—Elaborate preparations are going forward at the Imperial Theatre for the first performance, in the Russian language, of Wagner's 'Die Walküre,' at which the Emperor and the chief members of his Court are to be present.

Vienna.—The prizes in the Rubinstein Competition have been awarded to MM. Bosquet, of Brussels, for pianoforte playing, and Goedicke, of Moscow, for composition.——Aided by an invention of the new technical director, Herr Bernier, Herr Mahler has caused some alterations to be made in the construction of the stage at the Imperial Opera, by which its dimensions may be reduced at will, thereby rendering it more suitable for the performance of Mozart's operas and similar works.—— The 'Schubert Bund' Choral Society has been awarded a gold medal at the Paris Exhibition, the Maennergesang-Verein and Philharmonic Orchestra having likewise received distinctions.

Wittenberg.—Music-Director Carl Stein, a highly esteemed organist and teacher, celebrated, last month, the fiftieth anniversary of his organistship at the Municipal Church. Truly an unusual occurrence and a most gratifying one to the numerous pupils and friends of the veteran musician.

OBITUARY.

MR. JOHN HOPKINS.

We regret to record the death of John Hopkins, organist of Rochester Cathedral, which took place on August 27, at the age of seventy-eight. A younger brother of the veteran Dr. E. J. Hopkins and a cousin of the late John Larkin Hopkins, the deceased organist was born in Westminster, on April 30, 1822. He was a chorister of St. Paul's Cathedral under Thomas Attwood. At the age of sixteen he succeeded his brother Edward as organist of Mitcham Parish Church (1838). His subsequent church appointments were St. Stephen's and Holy Trinity, Islington; St. Mark's, Jersey; St. Michael's, Chester Square; and the Parish Church, Epsom. He resigned the last-named post (in 1854) upon his appointment to Rochester Cathedral, which he has held for the long period of forty-six years. Amongst Cathedral organists who passed through his hands as chorister boys at Rochester can be named Sir Frederick Bridge (Westminster Abbey), his brother, Dr. J. C. Bridge (Chester), Dr. Crow (Ripon), and Dr. Wood (Exeter). The late Joseph Maas was also an old Rochester boy. The late Mr. John Hopkins, who held his Cathedral appointment during the régime of six Bishops and three Deans, was greatly respected. With his death there passes away an interesting link with the past and a Cathedral organist of the old school which is rapidly passing out of existence.

MR. GEORGE PARKER.

The death of George Parker, Clerk of the Schools, or, more properly, Clericus Universitatis, which, we regret to say, took place on the 17th ult., has caused sincere grief amongst a very wide circle of Oxford men of all ages and standings. He began his life of active work in the University Press, but when barely twenty-five years of age his sound business habits, his tact in dealing with his fellows, and his willingness—one had almost said his anxiety—to make himself useful, pointed him out as the man to fill the then vacant post of 'Clerk of the Schools.' When he entered on his duties in 1859 the work was fairly straightforward, though requiring patience and method. But since that time numerous changes in the system of examinations have practically completely overthrown their previous constitution, and Mr. Parker, who had to answer innumerable enquiries and make practical arrangements for examiners and examinees, found that he had to deal with a very complex piece of machinery. But of all those who bothered him with highly unnecessary letters and telegrams the greatest sinners were the candidates for musical degrees. The majority of them being non-resident were profoundly ignorant not only of University ways, but of the meaning of the commonest expressions. A collection of the curiosities in the way of letters which Mr. Parker received, either directly or from the authorities, during his career would form an entertaining volume. When a man encloses a stamped envelope in order to be matriculated by return of post; or writes to the Vice-Chancellor to know his terms for lessons in his Musical College; or says that having three weeks' holiday, he would like to pass the course in that time and take a musical degree the week after next—it can be easily imagined that good nature is put to severe test. On one occasion a candidate, after having duly received numerous replies to his long strings of questions, evidently had a suspicion that the Clerk of the Schools 'knew nothing about it,' so he wrote a letter (on a small greasy page of an account-book), and addressed queries to the Bursar of All Souls' College. With all his acumen and long experience, George Parker was never able to discover or even suggest any reason why this unfortunate bursar should have been selected for a final shot by this pushing young North-country candidate. Examiners in every department of the University curriculum found in Mr. Parker one who could and would give them advice on every point of customary usage or statutable law. It will, indeed, be difficult to find a successor to such an honourable, zealous, and much respected officer of this venerable corporation.

Friedrich Nietzsche, the distinguished philosophical author, died on August 25, at Weimar, having nearly completed his fifty-sixth year. His name is associated with musical art, on account of his having taken a prominent part, first on one side and subsequently on the other, in the controversy at one time raging round the reformatory efforts of Richard Wagner in the domain of opera; his 'Die Geburt der Tragödie aus dem Geiste der Musik' and 'Der Fall Wagner,' marking the two opposite poles in the development of his artistic bias. Nietzsche was born at a village near Lützen, in Saxony, where his father was the Protestant pastor. During the last eleven years of his life he was suffering from a mental malady.

The death recently took place, at Lichfield, of Ann Spofforth aged seventy. Her husband, a well-known surgeon of Lichfield, who died in 1868, was the only son of Samuel Spofforth, for seven years organist of Peterborough Cathedral, afterwards for fifty-seven years organist of Lichfield Cathedral. His brother was the celebrated Reginald Spofforth, organist of Lincoln Cathedral, and the composer of 'Hail, smiling Morn.' Their uncle was Thomas Spofforth, who was for sixty years organist of Southwell Minster.

The death occurred, on August 11, at Berlin, of Franz Betz, the original interpreter of the part of Hans Sachs, in the first (Munich) performance of Wagner's 'Die Meistersinger,' and for many years, up to his retirement, two years ago, one of the mainstays of the Berlin opera. He was in his sixty-sixth year.

On the 6th ult., at 56, Hilldrop Road, N., after a short illness, Lucy Harriet Greenfield, second daughter of the late Charles King-Hall, aged twenty-one.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY AND COLONIAL NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Blackpool.—At the special orchestral concert in the Pavilion on the North Pier, on the 7th ult., Dr. Horton Allison was the solo pianist, and played a Concerto of his own composition for pianoforte and orchestra, in four movements—Allegro, Scherzo e Trio, Andante (Berceuse), and Presto Finale. The performance was good and was much applauded. In the second part of the concert Dr. Allison played an Improvisation on subjects by Gounod, and Chopin's Valse in A flat. The vocalists were Miss Esther Palliser and Mr. Charles Tree. Mr. Henry A. Bird and Mr. H. H. Leather acted as accompanists, and Mr. Speelman conducted the orchestra.

Cape Town.—The Philharmonic Choral Society gave two concerts at the Good Hope Hall, on July 26 and 28. The programme of the first was miscellaneous and contained no feature of special interest. On the 28th, however, the first part was devoted to a selection from Haydn's 'Creation,' in which the Philharmonic Choral Society and Orchestra took part, under the direction of Mr. W. J. Tilly. The solo vocalists were Mdlle. Virginie Chéron, Mr. H. Clements, and Mr. Avon Saxon; and Madame Belle Cole, with Master Raimund Pechotsch (violinist), joined these artists in a miscellaneous second part. The same artists were responsible for the programme on the 26th.

Christchurch (N.Z.).—A very successful concert was given, on July 12, by the Musical Union. The programme included Mackenzie's spirited 'Britannia' Overture, two movements from a symphony entitled 'Maori,' by Mr. Alfred Hill, an esteemed New Zealand musician, Cowen's delightful 'English Dances,' and Godard's Gavotte. These were all excellently played by the orchestra, under the able direction of Mr. Wallace, who had only recently returned from Europe. Miss Packer and Mr. Webley played a duet for two violins, and the vocalists were Miss Moir and Mr. Hockley. Miss Lingard was an admirable accompanist.

Melbourne (Australia).—The Philharmonic Society in this city hopes to produce Coleridge-Taylor's 'Death of Minnehaha' and MacCunn's 'Lay of the last Minstrel' at its November concert, and will give its forty-eighth annual performance of 'The Messiah' on Christmas night. During the year the Society has performed 'Elijah' (Good Friday), Berlioz's 'Faust' (July), and Costa's 'Eli' (August).

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

A. B.—Pérotin—called by his contemporaries Perotinus Magnus—was a distinguished church musician of the old French school of the first half of the twelfth century, and organist of Nôtre Dame. He was an excellent organist and wrote a large number of works, many of which, highly esteemed by his colleagues as models, have been preserved. He is the known author of two, three, and four-part 'Conduits,' which appear to have gained great celebrity in Paris. Some of his works show attempts at imitation. In a four-part song, 'Viderunt,' by him several pure consecutive fifths may be traced, thus showing the influence of the Organum and Fauxbourdon; but Pérotin endeavoured to soften the harshness of these fifths by a counter-movement of the remaining two parts. The compositions of Pérotin and his successors formed part of the repertory of the Nôtre Dame choir during the twelfth, thirteenth, and fourteenth centuries.

Exon.—(1) Molique has written two Concertos (in G and D) for the concertina, and Regondi has also composed a couple in D and E flat. Mr. Silas has written an Adagio in E for eight concertinas; a Quintet in D for pianoforte, concertina, violin, viola, and violoncello; and six Trios for pianoforte, concertina, and violin. Thus you will see that your instrument has not been altogether ostracised in the field of classical music. (2) We do not remember to have seen the concertina as an instrument upon which candidates are examined by the various testing bodies; but there could be no harm in making inquiry as to whether the powers that be would examine a candidate in that instrument. If the reply should be in the negative, it need not necessarily imply any disrespect to the instrument.

Soundpost.—(1) It is difficult to say 'what talent would be required in a provincial theatre orchestra as a violinist,' as it would probably depend upon the theatre and the town in which it is situated. (2) The salary would be governed by the ability of the performer and other circumstances. (3) While there seems no reason to doubt that there will be some scope for 'orchestral business in South Africa a little later,' it might be advisable to have some other string to your bow instead of depending entirely on your fiddle. Why not ask the conductor of some provincial theatre orchestra to let you play to him?

Time.—(1) If the intonation is bad on the violin, it is better not to play the viola during student days. Otherwise it does no harm, and is good for musicianship. All the great violinists have played the viola—Vieuxtemps, Joachim, Strauss, and others. (2) Practising with a metronome, while helping you to become a good timeist, will not develop your sense of rhythm—that is a thing to be felt, not mechanicalized.

Miss A.—Analyses of the works you mention are contained in the programme books of the Popular Concerts. If you send the titles to Messrs. Chappell and Co., Ltd., New Bond Street, they may be able to send you the necessary books.

H. G.—Taking into consideration all your circumstances, the concertina seems the most promising of the three instruments you name. Some excellent effects can be obtained from a good instrument when well played. (See reply to Exon.)

Wilton.—Saint-Saëns's Violin Concerto in A (Op. 20) may be played at Allegro, dotted minim = 84; Andante, crotchet = 60.

C. W. S. M.—We do not know of any amateur operatic societies in the neighbourhood to which you refer.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., Limited.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—"Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast." Full Score, 25s.

ELGAR, EDWARD—"The Dream of Gerontius." (Op. 38.) Set to music for Mezzo-Soprano, Tenor, and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. The poem by Cardinal Newman. 3s. 6d.; paper boards, 4s.; cloth, gilt, 5s.

NOVELLO'S ANTHEM BOOK. A Collection of Popular Anthems for Festival and General Use throughout the Year. Book I. 1s.

PARKER, HORATIO W.—"A Wanderer's Psalm" ("Cantus Peregrinus"). Op. 50. Set to music for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. 2s. 6d.

PARRY, C. HUBERT H.—Te Deum laudamus. Set to music for Soprano and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. 2s. 6d.

SULLIVAN, ARTHUR—"Onward, Christian Soldiers" ("St. Gertrude"). Arranged for Brass Band by Fred. Haines. 2s. 6d.

BARNBY, JOSEPH—The Canticles (Chant Form). (No. 523. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

MANN, A. H.—(in A flat). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 524. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 6d.

OULD, S.—The Compline Hymn. (No. 29. Cantiones Sacræ.) 3d.

ROBERTS, J. VARLEY—(in F). A Morning and Evening Service. 1s.

—— (in F). Te Deum and Benedictus. (Nos. 1 and 2 of A Morning and Evening Service in F.) 9d.

TIARKS, Rev. MORRIS C.—"The Song of Simeon"; or, Nunc dimittis. 3d.

GARRETT, GEORGE M.—"Just Judge of Heaven." (No. 677. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 6d.

PARKER, HORATIO W.—"Now sinks the sun." Chorus, for S.A.T.B. (Unaccompanied), from "St. Christopher." Latin and English words. (No. 673. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

WILLARD, DAVID—"O be joyful in God." Harvest Anthem. For Bass Solo (ad lib.), Quartet, and Chorus. 6d.

WOOD, E. FLINTOFT—"I will lift up mine eyes." Anthem. For Tenor Solo, Quartet, and Chorus. 3d.

FETHERSTON, Rev. Sir G. R.—"Far from my heavenly home." Hymn. 2d.

—— "Out of the deep I call." Hymn. 2d.

DAVIES, WILLIAM—"Close to my heart." Four-part Song. For S.A.T.B. (No. 845. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

LOTT, JOHN B.—"Hail, sweet peace." Four-part Song. For A.T.B.B. (No. 341. The Orpheus.) 4d.

PITT, PERCY—"A Love Symphony." Four-part Song. For S.A.T.B. (No. 692. The Musical Times.) 1½d.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—"The Soul's Expression." Op. 42. Four Sonnets: "The Soul's Expression"; "Tears"; "Grief"; "Comfort." For Contralto. 2s. 6d.

ODELL, ANNIE A.—"Kathleen May." Song. For Mezzo-Soprano. 1s. 6d.

BENDALL, WILFRED—"Pas Seul," from "Song Dances." For the Pianoforte. 1s.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

COWEN, F. H.—Waltz from "The Sleeping Beauty." Arranged for Pianoforte Solo by Theophil Wendt. 2s.

STILL, ELSIE—Melody. For Violin and Pianoforte. 2s.

TARTINI, GIUSEPPE—Sonata in G minor. For Violin and Pianoforte. (No. 14. A Modern School for the Violin, by August Wilhelmj and James Brown.) 2s.

SULLIVAN, ARTHUR—Overture in C ("In Memoriam"). (No. 20. The Recital Series of Transcriptions for the Organ, by Edwin H. Lemare). 3s.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS.—Edited by W. G. McNaught. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo size; B. Voice Parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation

			A.	B.
No. 393.	Butterfly Fairies. Song and Two-part Chorus	Arthur Somervell	1½d.	—
„ 583.	Why do summer roses fade? Unison Song	George Barker	1½d.	—
„ 586.	In our forest dell. Part-Song. For s.s.c. (accompanied)	J. L. Hatton	—	1d.
„ 618.	The Japanese umbrella. Action Song, with Dance. For Junior Classes	Wakeling Dry	2d.	—
„ 620.	The Butterfly. Action Song, with Dance. For Junior Classes	Wakeling Dry	2d.	—
—— Book 115.	Four Connected Action Songs, with Dances. For Junior Classes	Wakeling Dry	8d.	—

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 100. Contains the following Music in both Notations: "God protect our soldiers brave." Round for five voices. By Dr. Blow. "Now let us make the welkin ring." Arranged for s.s.a. (unaccompanied). Composed by J. L. Hatton. 1½d.

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Edited by W. G. McNaught.

No. 1142.	Dream, baby, dream	Henry Smart	1d.
„ 1143.	The shepherd's farewell	Henry Smart	1d.
„ 1144.	Now, O now, I needs must part ..	J. Dowland	1d.
„ 1146.	The people that walked in darkness	C. F. Bowes	1½d.
„ 1147.	The chase	Edward German	1½d.
„ 1148.	Magnificat, Nunc dimittis, and Vesper Hymn	Bruce Steane	1½d.
„ 1149.	The laughing waves	Reginald Somerville	1½d.
„ 1150.	The Story of the Advent of Jesus	J. Stainer	1d.
„ 1151.	Wake with a smile, O month of May	Sir W. S. Bennett	1½d.
„ 1152.	I will go forth in the strength of the Lord God	Hugh Blair	1d.

WAGNER, R.—"Tannhäuser." Choruses only. 1s.

MR. GEO. DENHAM (Baritone)

"The popular baritone sang with rare taste and expression."—Morning Leader. "Pontac," Dorking.

THE LONDON ORATORIO QUARTET

Miss LOUISE BURNS. | Mr. D'ARCY CLAYTON.
Miss FLORENCE CROFT. | Mr. SAMUEL HEATH.

Now booking for Winter Season.

Address, Arch. E. Swanson (Manager), 5, East India Avenue, E.C.

MISS LOUISE BURNS

(SOPRANO). Oratorios, &c.

Now booking for Winter Season.

Erin, Riffel Road, Willesden Green, N.W.

HARRISON BROCKBANK

(THE POPULAR BARITONE)

MAY BE ENGAGED FOR

OPERA RECITALS, ORATORIOS, CONCERTS, &c.

FOR TERMS AND DATES

ADDRESS, 22, WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND, W.C.; OR, AGENTS.

MR. ARTHUR SEDGLEY

(PRINCIPAL BASS of the late Arthur Rousbey Opera Company).

For Oratorios, Opera, and Ballad Concerts.

For terms, Press notices, &c., address, 51, Worcester Street, Wolverhampton.

MISS NETTIE CARPENTER

(THE CELEBRATED VIOLINIST)

MAY BE ENGAGED FOR

RECITALS, CHAMBER CONCERTS, &c.

FOR TERMS AND DATES

ADDRESS, 22, WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND, W.C.; OR, AGENTS.

THE CHURCH ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY

Hon. Conductor: G. F. Huntley, Esq., Mus. Doc.

Rehearsals are held on Tuesdays (commencing October 2), at 7 p.m. in St. Peter's Mission House, adjoining Victoria Station (L. C. and D. Rly.). The Society's Band undertakes Festival and Special Services. For terms of membership (professional and amateur), apply to the Secretary, Hon. Richard Strutt, Rayleigh House, Chelsea, S.W.

THE TRAINING of ALTOS.—TUITION by MUNRO DAVISON, L.R.A.M. (Singing), F.R.C.O., L.T.C.L. Professor of Alto Singing, G.S.M. Solo Alto, Temple Church. 142, Stroud Green Road, N.

CHORAL SCHOLARSHIPS VACANT, giving Free Board and Education at high-class School. Must be good Solo Boy and gentleman's son. Apply, John Newton, A.R.C.O., Harlow.

VOCALIST (competent) WANTED, for an ORGAN RECITAL in October, near London. Convenient trains. Guinea and train fare offered. Also solo instrumentalists (same terms) for Sacred Concerts. Address, Organus, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

CARLISLE CATHEDRAL.—Deferred ELECTION of TENOR SINGER and LAY CLERK. Salary, £80 per annum. Must not be over 30 years of age. For particulars and terms of engagement, apply to S. G. Saul, Esq., Chapter Clerk Carlisle, to whom testimonials of character and musical efficiency must be sent in by the 15th of October.

MR. HENRY J. B. DART, Organist, Parish Church of Paddington, Mus. Dir. Boro. Poly. Inst., has a VACANCY for an ASSISTANT PUPIL. Complete professional training. Large Organ. Orchestra and Choral Society. Specialty, Choir training. Terms moderate. 14, Kilburn Priory, N.W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for St. John's Church, Upper Holloway, N. Salary, £50 per annum. Applications, with testimonials, to be sent to Thos. H. Bowness, 67, Huddleston Road, Tufnell Park, N., not later than October 15.

TUNER.—Duck, Son and Pinker, Bath, require a first-class TUNER, principally for country work. Applicants please state age, salary required, if married, give references, and enclose photo. The berth would be a comfortable and permanent one to a suitable man.

AS MANAGER or ASSISTANT. Advertiser requires POSITION as above. Sixteen years' experience in general business. Aged, 36 years. Tall and of good appearance. Moderate wages. W. Henry, 53, Gray's Inn Road, W.C.

FOR SALE, Two-manual CHURCH ORGAN, in excellent condition. Built in 1877 by Hunter. Full compass pedals. Selling to make room for much larger instrument. Price £160. Great Organ: open diapason, stop diapason, dulciana, principal, flute, fifteenth, twelfth, gamba, mixture (prepared). Swell Organ: double diapason, open diapason, Lieblich gedact, principal, fifteenth, oboe, cornopean (prepared), mixture (prepared). Pedal organ: open diapason. Apply, W. Bundy, Churchwarden, Emsworth, Hants.

ORGAN for SALE (cheap), Parish Church, Stockton-on-Tees. 3 manuals and pedals, 56 stops (including couplers), 6 compositions; immediate removal necessary. G. H. Wass, 6, Lorne Terrace.

SECOND-HAND BECHSTEIN BOUDOIR HORIZONTAL GRAND. 7¼-octaves. Blackwood case, in splendid condition, offered for sixty guineas. Beringer and Strohmenger, 86, Westow Hill, opposite Crystal Palace.

PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS.—For SALE, in a first-class South Coast Watering resort, a well-known old-established BUSINESS, situated in one of the best thoroughfares. Long lease. Moderate rent. Good hiring, tuning, and selling connection. The premises have been specially adapted for the business, and are replete with every modern appliance and convenience. For full particulars, apply, X., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Edward Elgar (Illustrated Biography, with special Portrait)	641
Pianoforte Teaching: Some Practical Hints, by Franklin Taylor	648
Lady Hallé's First Appearance in England	652
Occasional Notes	654
The Hereford Musical Festival (with View of Hereford Cathedral)	657
Dr. G. R. Sinclair (with Portrait)	661
Mr. Elgar's setting of 'The Dream of Gerontius'	663
Church and Organ Music	673
Reviews	675
The Coming Season	676
Queen's Hall Promenade Concerts	677
The Royal National Eisteddfod at Liverpool	678
Hovingham Musical Festival	680
Music in Birmingham	680
„ Bristol	681
„ Dublin	681
„ Edinburgh	681
„ Manchester	681
„ Northumberland and Durham	682
„ Nottingham and District	682
„ Sheffield and District	682
Foreign Notes	683
Obituary	684
Brief Summary of Country and Colonial News	684
Answers to Correspondents	685
Music published during the last Month	685
Part-Song—"A Love Symphony."—Percy Pitt	665
Part-Song—"As Torrents in Summer" ("King Olaf").—Edward Elgar.—(Extra Supplement.)
Thanksgiving Hymn—"Praise the Lord"—J. Barnby.—(Extra Supplement.)

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.
A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in proper position Advertisements for the next issue should reach the Office NOT LATER THAN THE TWENTIETH of the Month.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

Published on the 1st of every Month. Price 1½d. Annual Subscription, including Postage, 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW for OCTOBER contains:—

General Notes, &c.
The Stage Management of Children's Plays. By Wakeling Dry.
Entertainment Hints. By A. E. Steel.
Scale Tone Characters.
School Music Sight Singing Reader—Both Notations.
"The Brook." Kindergarten Game. By Josephine Brown.
Coming Competitions.
Society of Arts Examinations—Report of Examiners for 1900.
Notes on Welsh School Singing.
The Associated Board Examinations.
The Royal National Eisteddfod at Liverpool.
Examination Answers.
Books received.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

The OCTOBER number contains the following music:—
"Beautiful World." Unison Song. By John E. West.
"Swinging." Junior Unison Song. By Adela Medley.
Junior School Music Course.
Also, Extra Supplement, containing "Autumn Woods." Two-part Song. By Thomas Murby. (Novello's School Songs, No. 131. Price 1½d.)

The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

COMPLETE SET of HULLAH'S EXERCISES and PART-SONGS, in full-size Sheets. Published by John W. Parker, Strand. Offer wanted. T. M., Novello & Co., Ltd.

TECHNIQUE AND EXPRESSION
IN PIANOFORTE PLAYING
BY FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

WITH NUMEROUS MUSICAL EXAMPLES FROM THE GREAT MASTERS.

Price Five Shillings, in cloth, gilt lettered.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

A SONG OF TRAFALGAR BALLAD
FOR MEN'S VOICES (Soli and Chorus) AND ORCHESTRA WORDS BY
E. NESBIT
MUSIC BY
GERARD F. COBB.
(Op. 41.)

Price Two Shillings.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Played by the Queen's Hall Orchestra, London.
Conductor, Mr. Henry J. Wood.

AIR DE BALLET
FOR STRING ORCHESTRA
COMPOSED BY PERCY PITT.

FULL SCORE.
Price Two Shillings.
Orchestral Parts, Sixpence each; Three Shillings the set.
Arrangement for VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE,
Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo (in the Press).

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

TEN HYMNS
WITH TUNES
FOR USE IN SCHOOLS AND FOR CHILDREN'S FESTIVALS

(Suitable also for Flower Services, Anniversary Services, or Sunday School Festivals)

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

The Very Rev. The Dean of Rochester, The Rev. W. St. Hill Bourne, A. C. Benson, Charles Wesley, M. F. Maude, F. J. Van Alstyne, and M. L. Duncan

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN, SIR JOHN STAINER, SIR GEORGE ELVEY, A. M. GOODHART, J. H. MAUNDER, and H. D. WETTON.

Edited by W. L. R. McCLUER,
Organist of St. Paul's, Canonbury.

Price Threepence.
Words only, Five Shillings per 100.

London: Novello and Company, Limited; and Novello, Ewer and Co., New York.

Just Published.

ROMANCE IN G

FOR

VIOLIN SOLO AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

(Op. 39.)

ARRANGED FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE BY

THEOPHIL WENDT.

Price Two Shillings.
String Parts, Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

No. 24. Novello's Music Primers and Educational Series.
Edited by Sir John Stainer and Sir C. Hubert H. Parry.

DOUBLE SCALES

SYSTEMATICALLY FINGERED

A SUPPLEMENT TO ALL EXISTING PIANOFORTE SCHOOLS

BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

PREFACE.

The fingering of double scales, as given in the various pianoforte schools, exhibits a remarkable amount of diversity, no two teachers agreeing entirely as to the fingering of all the scales, and no single one appearing to follow any definite and recognisable system throughout all the keys. This want of uniformity adds greatly to the difficulty of acquiring a fluent execution in scales of thirds and sixths, since in addition to the large amount of practice they require, a very considerable time has to be devoted to the endeavour—not always successful—to commit to memory the fingering proper to each scale. It is probably on this account that the practice of this essential branch of pianoforte technique is frequently neglected by students.

The present system is designed to lessen the difficulties alluded to by establishing regular principles of fingering, at the same time giving the order in which the scales may be progressively and most advantageously studied. It is based upon the proposition that, since the right and left hands are the exact counterparts of each other, but reversed, so the fingering which is good for one hand must be good for the other, but in the reverse direction, the right hand executing ascending that which the left hand executes descending, and vice versâ.

Price One Shilling.
In paper boards, One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

SCHOOL MARCHES

ARRANGED FOR

PIANOFORTE SOLO.

BOOK I.—Contents.

Bridal March from the Opera "Lohengrin" (Wagner).
British Grenadiers, The.
Cock o' the North, The.
Cornelius March (Mendelssohn).
Empire March (National Tunes, arranged).
Huntsmen's Chorus, from "Der Freischütz" (Weber).
Let the hills resound (Richards).
March from "Masaniello" (Auber).
March of the Men of Harlech.
March from the "Occasional" Oratorio (Handel).
March from the Opera "Scipio" (Handel).
Onward, Christian soldiers (Sullivan).
Râkoczy March.
Victoria, our Queen (Barnby).
Yankee Doodle.

Price One Shilling.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

ANTHEMS FOR TRINITYTIDE.

BEHOLD, GOD IS GREAT

COMPOSED BY

E. W. NAYLOR.

Price Fourpence.

LIGHT OF THE WORLD

Final Chorus from "The Light of Life"

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

Price Threepence.

O JOYFUL LIGHT

COMPOSED BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price Fourpence.

I AM ALPHA AND OMEGA

COMPOSED BY

J. VARLEY ROBERTS.

Price Threepence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

ANTHEMS FOR TRINITYTIDE.

*Almighty and everlasting God	Gibbons	1½d.
Ascribe unto the Lord	S. S. Wesley	8d.
Behold, God is great	E. W. Naylor	4d.
Beloved, if God so loved us	J. Barnby	1½d.
Beloved, let us love one another	Gerard F. Cobb	1½d.
Be ye all of one mind	Arthur E. Godfrey	3d.
*Blessed is the man	J. Goss	4d.
Blessing and glory	Boyce	1½d.
Blessing, glory	Bach	6d.
*God came from Teman	C. Steggall	4d.
*God so loved the world	Matthew Kingston	1½d.
Grant, O Lord	Mozart	1½d.
*Hail, gladdening Light	J. T. Field	2d.
Hail, gladdening Light	G. C. Martin	4d.
He in tears that soweth	F. Hiller	1½d.
*Holy, holy, holy	Crotch	3d.
How goodly are Thy tents	F. Ouseley	1½d.
How lovely are Thy dwellings	Spohr	1½d.
*I am Alpha and Omega	J. Stainer	1½d.
I am Alpha and Omega	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
I beheld, and lo!	Blow	6d.
I know that the Lord is great	F. Ouseley	1d.
I saw the Lord	J. Stainer	6d.
I will magnify	J. Shaw	3d.
I will sing of Thy power	Greene	4d.
*I will sing of Thy power	A. Sullivan	1½d.
I will sing unto the Lord	H. Wareing	3d.
*In humble faith	G. Garrett	1d.
*In Jewry is God known	J. Clarke-Whitfeld	1½d.
In sweet consent	E. H. Thorne	3d.
In the fear of the Lord	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
Let the peace of God	J. Stainer	4d.
Light of the world	E. Elgar	3d.
*Lord of all power and might	William Mason	1½d.
Ditto (men's voices)	J. Barnby	2d.
*Lord, we pray Thee	J. Varley Roberts	1½d.
O Father blest	J. Barnby	3d.
O joyful Light	B. Tours	4d.
O Lord, my trust	King Hall	1½d.
*O taste and see	J. Goss	3d.
*O taste and see	A. Sullivan	1½d.
O taste and see	A. H. Mann	3d.
O where shall wisdom be found?	Boyce	6d.
Ponder my words, O Lord	Arnold D. Culley	1½d.
*Praise His awful Name	Spohr	2d.
Rejoice in the Lord	G. C. Martin	6d.
*See what love hath the Father	Mendelssohn	1d.
Sing to the Lord	Mendelssohn	8d.
*Stand up and bless	J. Goss	4d.
Teach me Thy way	W. H. Gladstone	1½d.
*The Lord hath been mindful	S. S. Wesley	3d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
The Lord is my Shepherd	J. Shaw	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion	H. Hiles	6d.
Thou shalt shew me the path of life	Alan Gray	1½d.
We have heard with our ears	H. Aldrich	1s.
Whatsoever is born of God	H. Oakeley	3d.
Who can comprehend Thee	Mozart	3d.

 Anthems marked thus () may be had in Tonic-Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each*

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

ORGANISTS, &c.

RUMMENS'
Organ Pedal Attachment to Pianofortes
FOR HOME PRACTICE OF ORGAN MUSIC.
STRAIGHT AND CONCAVE, RADIATING AND CONCAVE
Or any other form of Pedal Board.

UNRIVALLED FOR TOUCH, APPEARANCE, DURABILITY, AND PRICE.

Sir JOHN STAINER: "I can confidently recommend it . . . nothing more valuable."
Sir FRED. BRIDGE: "I have tested it . . . successful . . . will give satisfaction."
Sir GEO. MARTIN: "I think very highly of it . . . clever."
Dr. HARDING: "I am delighted with it . . . in every way a success . . . the best."
Similar Testimonials from the most distinguished Organists and Musicians.

Particulars free. Write or call.
1, WYNNE ROAD, BRIXTON, LONDON, S.W.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.
TWO GOLD MEDALS.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841.)
Specifications and Estimates sent free.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.
MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

CHURCH MUSIC
BY EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

ANTHEMS.

O Lord, Thou art my God (Advent). Four Voices	3d.
Arise, shine, for Thy light is come (Christmas)	3d.
" " " " Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
In the beginning (Christmas). Four Voices	3d.
O how amiable. Soprano Solo and Chorus	4d.

SERVICES.

Te Deum in E. Four Voices	3d.
Benedicite in E	2d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E	3d.
Cantate and Deus in E	3d.
Ave Maria. Soprano and Tenor Solo, with Chorus	6d.
Twenty-four Original Hymn Tunes	6d.

ORGAN.

	s.	d.
Largho in E flat net	1	0
Minuetto in D "	1	6
Twelve Short and Easy Pieces "	2	0
Three Short Pieces—
Larghetto in A flat major
Allegretto Pastorale in A major } In one Book "	2	0
Andante con moto in F major

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MAUNDER'S CHURCH MUSIC.

MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS.	Staff Notation.	Tonic Sol-fa.
Anthem—Christians, Awake	3d.	2d.
Carol—Once in Bethlehem	2d.	1d.
Two Christmas Carols	3d.	2d.
SERVICES.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C (partly Unison)	3d.	1½d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D	3d.	2d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G	3d.	2d.
Benedicite in A	1½d.
Benedicite in G	2d.
Benedicite in F	1½d.
Te Deum in Free Chant Form	3d.	2d.
Te Deum in B flat	3d.	2d.
Communion Service in G	8d.
Amen in G	1d.	1d.
ORGAN.
Voix Seraphique (for Recitals)	2s.
CHURCH CANTATA.
Penitence, Pardon, and Peace (for Advent, Lent, and General use)	1/6	1/-

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Specimens of Anthems and Services free on application to J. H. MAUNDER, Hill Top, Belmont Park, S.E.

"Well written."
CHURCH MUSIC
BY ARTHUR CARNALL,
Mus.B., Cantab.

No. 1.	Chant Te Deum in A. 3rd 1,000	4d
" 2.	Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F. 2nd 1,000	4d.
" 3.	Benedicite in G	2d.
" 4.	Vesper Hymn	1d.
" 5.	Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C	3d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.
N.B.—Sample copies, free, from A. CARNALL, Penge, S.E.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.
THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes, as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS
BY
T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.	Staff. s.	d.	Sol-fa. s.	d.
The Ancient Mariner	2	6	0	6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1	0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2	6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1	0
May Day	1	0	0	6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1	0	0	6
ANTHEMS, &c.
All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0	3	0	1
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0	2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0	3
There were shepherds (Christmas)	0	2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0	4
Six Kyries	0	2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0	3

ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries	3	6
Five Concluding Voluntaries	1	6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

PEACE CELEBRATIONS.

"HE MAKETH WARS TO CEASE."

The above effective ANTHEM for Bass Solo and Chorus, by Mr. HERBERT WESTERBY, L.Mus.T.C.L., A.R.C.O., late of Trinity Church, Kimberley, S. Africa, can be had from the COMPOSER, Southfield Cottage, Elgin, N.B. Price 3d. Sample copies can be had on application.

MUSIC
FOR THANKSGIVING SERVICES
AFTER WAR.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, &c.

	s.	d.
Barnby (in E)	0	4
Bridge, J. F. (in G)	0	4
Coleridge-Taylor, S. (in F)	0	4
*Elgar, E. (in F)	1	0
*Goss, J. (in D)	2	0
,, ,, 8vo	0	6
,, ,, Vocal Parts	2	0
Garrett, G. M. (in D)	0	3
Garrett, G. M. (in E)	0	4
Garrett, G. M. (in F)	0	4
*Handel ("Chandos")	1	0
,, ,, Vocal Parts 8vo, each	0	9
*Handel ("Dettingen")	5	0
,, ,, 8vo, paper cover	1	0
,, ,, Vocal Parts .. each	0	10½
*Handel (Jubilate)	5	0
,, ,, Edited by W. T. Best 8vo	1	0
,, ,, Vocal Parts	2	7½
Henschel, G. (Op. 52)	1	6
Hopkins, E. J. (in F)	0	6
Lemare, E. H. (in E flat)	0	9
Martin, G. C. (in C)	0	8
*Martin, G. C. (in A)	0	6
Mendelssohn (in A)	0	6
*Purcell (in D)	1	0
*Smart, H. (in F)	0	3
Stainer, J. (in A)	0	4
Stainer, J. (in B flat)	0	6
Stainer, J. (in E flat)	0	6
Stanford (in A)	0	4
Stanford (in B flat)	0	4
*Sullivan, A.	1	0
,, Vocal Parts	4	0
Sullivan, A. (in D)	0	3
Wesley, S. S. (in E)	0	6
*West, J. E. (in G)	0	3

MAGNIFICAT.

	s.	d.
*Alsop, J. R. (in E)	0	4
Attwood (in C)	0	4
*Barnby, J. (in E flat)	0	8
*Bennett, G. J. (in A)	0	6
*Blair, H. (in B flat)	0	6
*Brewer, A. H. (in C)	1	0
*Bridge, J. F. (in G)	0	6
*Calkin, J. B. (in G)	0	6
Cobb, G. F. (in G)	1	0
Coleridge-Taylor, S. (in F)	0	4
Cooke, B. (in G)	0	4
Elvey, S. (in A)	0	4
*Faning, Eaton (in C)	0	6
*Foster, Myles B. (in A)	0	6
Foster, M. B. (in C)	0	4
*Gadsby, H. (in C)	0	6
Garrett, G. M. (in D)	0	4
Garrett, G. M. (in E flat)	0	6
*Garrett, G. M. (in F)	0	6
*Haynes, B. (in G)	0	4
Hopkins, E. J. (in D)	0	6
Hopkins, E. J. (in F)	0	6
Lemare, E. H. (in A)	0	6
Lloyd, C. H. (in E flat)	0	6
*Lloyd, C. H. (in F)	0	6
*Martin, G. C. (in A)	0	6
*Martin, G. C. (in B flat)	0	6
*Martin, G. C. (in C)	0	6
*Martin, G. C. (in G)	0	6
Mendelssohn (in A)	0	8
Prout, E. (in F)	0	6
*Selby, B. L. (in A)	0	6
*Smart, H. (in B flat)	0	6
Smart, H. (in F)	0	6
Smart, H. (in G)	0	6
*Stainer, J. (in A)	0	6
*Stainer, J. (in B flat)	0	6
Stainer, J. (in E flat)	0	4
*Stanford, C. V. (in A)	0	6
Stanford, C. V. (in B flat)	0	4
*Steggall, R. (in C)	0	6
*Tours, B. (in F)	0	4
Walmisley (in D minor)	0	4
Wesley, S. S. (in E)	0	8
West, J. E. (in E flat)	0	6
*Williams, C. L. (in C)	0	6

CANTATE DOMINO.

	s.	d.
Attwood, T. (in D)	3	0
,, ,, Vocal Parts	2	6
Bayley, W. (in F)	0	6
Hopkins, E. J. (in A)	3	6

*Orchestral Parts can be had of those marked .

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MUSIC FOR THANKSGIVING SERVICES—continued.

ANTHEMS.

		s.	d.
Behold, God is great	E. W. Naylor	0	4
Behold, God is my salvation	F. C. Woods	0	4
Blessing, glory, wisdom and thanks	Tours	0	4
Fear not, O land	Goss	0	6
God is my salvation	C. F. Bowes	0	3
God is our hope and strength	Greene	0	6
*God is our refuge and strength	Hiles	0	6
*God save the Queen (with altered verse by the Dean of Rochester)	arr. by F. Bridge	0	2
*God save the Queen	arr. by Costa	0	3
*God save the Queen	arr. by Novello	0	3
God save the Queen (male voices)	arr. by Barnby	0	2
If the Lord Himself	T. A. Walmisley	2	6
In my distress	E. J. Hopkins	1	0
*In that day	Elvey	0	8
It came even to pass	Ouseley	0	4
I will give thanks unto Thee, O Lord	Croft	1	6
I will love Thee, O Lord, my strength	J. Clark	0	4
I will love Thee, O Lord, my strength	Ouseley	0	9
I will magnify Thee, O God	Boyce	1	9
I will sing of Thy power, O God	Greene	0	4
I will sing of Thy power, O God	Sullivan	0	1½
Let God arise	T. T. Trimnell	0	4
Let the righteous be glad	R. F. Lloyd	0	3
*Lord, Thou art God	J. Stainer	0	8
Lord, Thy arm hath been uplifted	Spohr	0	2
*Magnify His Name	Martin	0	4
Make a joyful noise	Mackenzie	0	6
O be joyful in God, all ye lands	Boyce	1	3
O be joyful in God, all ye lands	Croft	2	0
O be joyful in God, all ye lands	Elvey	4	0
O be joyful in the Lord, all ye lands	Prout	1	0
*O give thanks	Purcell	0	6
O give thanks to the Lord	Hiles	5	0
O give thanks to the Lord	H. J. King	0	3
O give thanks unto the Lord	Elvey	0	3
O give thanks unto the Lord	Greene	1	6
O give thanks unto the Lord	Boyce	2	0
O praise God in His holiness	Trimnell	0	4
O praise God in His holiness	Weldon	0	1½
O praise God in His holiness	Whitfeld	0	6
O praise the Lord, all ye heathen	Batten	0	6
O praise the Lord, all ye heathen	Croft	0	9
O praise the Lord, all ye heathen	Ouseley	0	3
O praise the Lord, all ye heathen	Wilton	0	1½
O praise the Lord, with one consent	Handel	1	0
Praise the Lord, call upon His Name	Benedict	0	8
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	Bliss	0	3
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	Hall	0	4
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. Hayes	0	4
Praise the Lord, O my soul	J. W. Elliott	0	3
Praise the Lord, ye servants	J. M. Crament	0	4
Praise ye the Lord	W. Jackson	0	6
Rejoice in the Lord, O ye righteous	Armes	0	6
Sing, O heavens	Mackenzie	0	6
Sing to the Lord a new made song	Mendelssohn	0	8
Sing unto God, and high affections raise	Handel	0	1½
Sing unto the Lord, and praise His Name	Croft	2	6
The King shall rejoice in Thy strength	Greene	1	9
The Lord is my strength	Goss	0	6
This is the day which the Lord hath made	Elvey	3	0
Thy way, O God, is holy	Purcell	1	6
We will rejoice in Thy salvation	Croft	0	4
Who is like unto Thee, O Lord	Sullivan	0	6

HYMNS.

		s.	d.
Now thank we all our God		0	1
O God, supreme Commander (Words, by Rev. Alfred A. Toms, 2s. 6d. per 100.)	F. Bridge	0	1
O God, supreme Commander (Words, by Rev. Alfred A. Toms, 2s. 6d. per 100.)	W. Creser	0	1
Onward, Christian soldiers (St. Gertrude) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	Sullivan	0	1
*Old 100th (Tune only) String Parts, 2s.; Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.	arr. by Battison Haynes
Praise the Lord (Words, by A. C. Ainger, 3s. per 100.)	Barnby	0	1
We march, we march to victory	Barnby	0	1½

CANTATAS.

F. H. COWEN.

	s.	d.
*A SONG OF THANKSGIVING	1	6

R. FRANZ.

PRAISE YE THE LORD	1	0

NIELS W. GADE.

*ZION. (Op. 49.) A Cantata for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra.	1	0
Vocal Parts 8vo, each	0	9

HANDEL.

*O PRAISE THE LORD WITH ONE CONSENT. Chandos Anthem, No. 6.	6	0
Ditto 8vo	1	0
Vocal Parts	3	0

F. HILLER.

*A SONG OF VICTORY. 125th Psalm. (Op. 60.	3	0
8vo	0	8

MENDELSSOHN.

*COME, LET US SING. 95th Psalm. (Op. 46.)	5	0
8vo, paper cover	1	0
Vocal Parts	2	10½
*HYMN OF PRAISE (Lobgesang). (Op. 52.)	10	6
8vo, paper cover	1	0
Ditto. Choruses only, without Accompt., 8vo, paper cover	0	6
Vocal Parts each	1	0
*LAUDA SION (Praise Jehovah). (Op. 73.) A Sacred Cantata. (Latin and English Words)	7	6
8vo, paper cover	2	0
Vocal Parts Ditto 8vo	2	8
*NOT UNTO US, O LORD. 115th Psalm. (Op. 31.) English Words 4to, paper cover	1	6
English and Latin Words 8vo	1	0
Vocal Parts	2	0

SCHUMANN.

*SONG OF MIRIAM, THE. (Op. 136.) A Cantata for Soprano Solo and Chorus. 8vo, paper cover	1	0
Vocal Parts 8vo, each	0	6
Book of Words (per 100)	5	0

SPOHR.

*GOD, THOU ART GREAT	1	0
Vocal Parts each	0	6

*Orchestral parts can be had of those marked .

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ANTHEMS FOR CHRISTMAS.

The word is made Incarnate	Thomas Adams	2d.
Unto us a Child is born	F. Adlam	4d.
*In the beginning	G. B. Allen	1½d.
Christians, be joyful	Bach	3d.
Come and thank Him	Bach	3d.
Glory be to God	Bach	3d.
Glory to God	Bach	2d.
Hear, King of Angels	Bach	1½d.
*That God doth love the world	Bach	3d.
*Behold, I bring you good tidings	J. Barnby	3d.
*Christians, awake	J. Barnby	3d.
Drop down, ye heavens	J. Barnby	1½d.
*Hail to the Christ (Carol-Anthem)	J. Barnby	3d.
*Like silver lamps	J. Barnby	1½d.
*Sing and rejoice	J. Barnby	1½d.
*The first Christmas (Words only, 3s. per 100)	J. Barnby	3d.
*The Grace of God which bringeth salvation	J. Barnby	1½d.
*While shepherds watched their flocks	J. Barnby	4d.
*While shepherds watched their flocks	W. T. Best	1½d.
*Behold my servant	Frederick Bridge	3d.
*Give the king Thy judgments, O Lord	A. H. Brown	1½d.
*Rejoice in the Lord	J. B. Calkin	3d.
Hail! thou that art highly favoured	Arthur Carnall	4d.
Break forth into joy	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
*Angels, from the realms of glory	F. H. Cowen	3d.
Behold, I bring you good tidings	J. M. Crament	4d.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings	Giovanni Croce	1½d.
Be peace on earth	W. Crotch	2d.
Lo, star-led chiefs	W. Crotch	2d.
*When Jesus was born in Bethlehem	W. A. C. Cruickshank	3d.
When Christ was born to earth	H. Walford Davies	4d.
*Arise, shine, for Thy light is come	Geo. Elvey	1½d.
*While shepherds watched	Geo. Elvey	3d.
*Let us now go even unto Bethlehem	J. T. Field	1½d.
*There were shepherds	Myles B. Foster	1½d.
Ditto (Two-part Anthem)	Myles B. Foster	3d.
Behold, a Star appeareth	Niels W. Gade	4d.
Sing, O daughter of Zion	H. Gadsby	1½d.
*Sing, O Heavens, and be joyful, O Earth	A. Gaul	1½d.
In this was manifested	F. E. Gladstone	3d.
Behold, how good and joyful	W. H. Gladstone	1s.
*Behold, I bring you good tidings	J. Goss	1½d.
*God so loved the world	J. Goss	1½d.
*O sing to God (Noël). (Female voices)	Ch. Gounod	6d.
*O sing to God (Noël). (Arranged for S.A.T.B.)	Ch. Gounod	1½d.
*The Word is Flesh become	Ch. Gounod	1s.
Behold, I bring	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Brightest and best	E. V. Hall	4d.
Hark! the glad sound	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Hark! the herald angels sing	E. V. Hall	3d.
*For unto us a Child is born	Handel	2d.
*Glory to God	Handel	1d.
How beautiful are the feet (Appendix to "The Messiah")	Handel	3d.
*O Thou that tellest	Handel	1½d.
*Now is come Salvation	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
*Lo, God, our God has come	Battison Haynes	3d.
*Christians, awake	H. M. Higgs	4d.
*Let us now go even unto Bethlehem	E. J. Hopkins	1½d.
Behold, all the earth lieth still	G. F. Huntley	4d.
O come hither	W. Jackson	3d.
O Zion, that bringest	W. Jackson	1s.
Sing, O heavens	W. Jackson	1s.
Sing, O heavens	Kent	4d.
While all things were in quiet silence	Henry J. King	3d.
Hallelujah! the light hath shined	Oliver King	3d.
Hark! what news the angels bring	Oliver King	3d.
Sing a song of praise	Oliver King	3d.
*The star that now is shining	Oliver King	1½d.
*While all things were in quiet silence	Oliver King	1½d.
*God so loved the world	M. Kingston	1½d.
Dawns the day, the natal day	Robin H. Legge	3d.
Fear not, we bring you good tidings	H. Leslie	1s.
He cometh forth	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
While all things were in quiet silence	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
Behold the Tabernacle (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
Unto us was born (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
Sing, O heavens	A. C. Mackenzie	6d.
*O, Holy Babe	A. C. Mackenzie	1½d.
*There shall come forth a Star	O. A. Mansfield	3d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel	The Earl of Mar	1½d.
God, Who at sundry times	J. H. Mee	4d.
Rejoice, O ye people	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Say, where is He born (Trio)	Mendelssohn	2d.
There shall a Star	Mendelssohn	6d.
*Hallelujah! for unto us a Child is born	W. H. Monk	1½d.
O Jerusalem! look about thee	E. W. Naylor	4d.
*Sing unto the Lord	Vincent Novello	1½d.
Before the Heavens were spread abroad	Horatio W. Parker	3d.
I will set His dominion in the sea	Horatio W. Parker	4d.
Glory to God in the highest	Pergolesi	1½d.
There were shepherds	Edgar Pettman	3d.
Behold, the name of the Lord	Percy Pitt	4d.
*Break forth into joy	T. Ridley Prentice	6d.
God so loved the world	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
The whole earth is at rest	J. Varley Roberts	4d.
The light hath shined	E. Silas	1½d.
*The Angel Gabriel was sent from God	H. Smart	1½d.
*Behold, I bring you glad tidings	C. W. Smith	1½d.
*God so loved the world	J. Stainer	1½d.
I desired wisdom	J. Stainer	6d.
*It came upon the midnight clear	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Mercy and truth are met together (Words, 3s. per 100)	J. Stainer	3d.
*O Zion, that bringest good tidings	J. Stainer	1½d.
*The hallowed day hath shined upon us	J. Stainer	1½d.
*The morning stars sang together	J. Stainer	6d.
*There was silence in Bethlehem's fields	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Ditto (Unison)	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Thus speaketh the Lord of Hosts	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Break forth into joy	Bruce Steane	3d.
In the beginning was the Word	E. H. Thorne	1½d.
*Sing, O heavens	B. Tours	1½d.
*There were shepherds	B. Tours	1½d.
In the beginning was the Word	F. Tozer	4d.
Sing, O heavens	T. T. Trimnell	4d.
This is the day which the Lord hath made	J. Turle	3d.
The light hath shined	C. G. Verrinder	1½d.
*There were shepherds	Charles Vincent	4d.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings	Vittoria	1½d.
There were shepherds	H. W. Wareing	3d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel	S. S. Wesley	1½d.
*O come, Redeemer of mankind	J. E. West	1½d.
*With all Thy Hosts	J. E. West	1½d.
*See amid the winter's snow	J. E. West	1½d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel	C. L. Williams	4d.
Jesu, Who from Thy Father's throne	F. C. Woods	3d.

*Anthems marked thus * may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 1½d., and 2d. each.*

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE HOLY CHILD

AN EASY CHRISTMAS CANTATA

FOR SOPRANO, TENOR, AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

THOMAS ADAMS.

Price One Shilling; Tonic Sol-fa, Sixpence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

SLEEP, BABY, SLEEP

CAROL-CHORUS FROM THE ABOVE.

Published separately, price 1½d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

CHRISTMAS SCENES

CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

CLIFTON BINGHAM

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

FREDERIC H. COWEN.

Price Two Shillings; Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

THE COMING OF THE KING

A SACRED CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES

SUITABLE FOR CHRISTMAS

WORDS BY

HELEN MARION BURNSIDE

MUSIC BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 8d.
Words only, 5s. per 100.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

YULE-TIDE

A CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

JULIA GODDARD

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

THOMAS ANDERTON.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Paper boards, 2s.; cloth, gilt, 3s.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS.

In the Press.

CALM AS THE LIST'NING EAR OF NIGHT

COMPOSED BY

HORATIO PARKER.

HARK! THE GLAD SOUND

COMPOSED BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

Recently Published.

IT CAME UPON THE MIDNIGHT CLEAR

COMPOSED BY

JOHN STAINER.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

BEHOLD THE NAME OF THE LORD COMETH FROM AFAR

COMPOSED BY

PERCY PITT.

Price Fourpence.

THE WORD IS MADE INCARNATE

CAROL-ANTHEM

COMPOSED BY

THOMAS ADAMS.

Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

ANGELS FROM THE REALMS OF GLORY

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

J. MONTGOMERY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

FREDERIC H. COWEN.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

WHEN CHRIST WAS BORN TO EARTH

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

WHITTIER

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

H. WALFORD DAVIES.

Price Fourpence.

SEE, AMID THE WINTER'S SNOW

CAROL-ANTHEM

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

REV. E. CASWALL, M.A.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.
Ditto, with Welsh words, Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

Laid out after the model of "The Story of the Cross."

THE

STORY OF THE ADVENT OF JESUS

WRITTEN BY

E. W. LEACHMAN

SET SO MUSIC BY

J. STAINER.

Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.
Words only, 3s. per 100.

PART I. The advent of Jesus before His Incarnation.—To create and to illuminate mankind.
PART II. The advent of Jesus at His Incarnation.—To save and to elevate mankind.
PART III. The advent of Jesus since His Incarnation.—To attract and to nourish mankind.
PART IV. The advent of Jesus to receive the Fruits of His Incarnation.—To Judge and to claim mankind.

N.B.—The Incarnation of Jesus means His taking upon Him our flesh, and being born as Man on Christmas Day.
This "Story" is told in the order above so that, whilst remembering our Lord's Coming as Man, and as Judge, we may not lose sight of His other Advents.
The Bible references given are those which suggested the form of this "Story."

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

THE

STORY OF BETHLEHEM

A SHORT SACRED CANTATA

FOR CHRISTMAS SERVICES, &c.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY

THE MUSIC FOR SOPRANO, TENOR, & BASS SOLI, CHORUS AND ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

A CHRISTMAS PASTORAL

ON THE INTROIT

HODIE CHRISTE NATUS EST

AND THE HYMNS

"CORDE NATUS" AND "ADESTE FIDELES"

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

B. LUARD SELBY.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

CHRISTMAS ALBUM

TWENTY-FOUR

PIANOFORTE PIECES FOR THE YOUNG

COMPOSED BY

P. TSCHAÏKOWSKY.

(Op. 39.)

EDITED AND REVISED BY

A. ROSENKRANZ.

IN THREE BOOKS.
Price One Shilling each.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

PRODUCED AT THE HEREFORD FESTIVAL, 1900.

A WANDERER'S PSALM

CANTUS PEREGRINUS

(Psalm 107)

SET TO MUSIC FOR SOLI, CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

BY

HORATIO PARKER.

(Op. 50.)

Vocal Score, Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Vocal Parts and String Parts (in the Press). Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.

THE TIMES.

The composer's skill in counterpoint is very great, and in point of workmanship many of the choruses and concerted numbers will stand the test of comparison with the best things of the kind in modern times. It seems as easy to Mr. Parker to handle eight parts as it is to other writers to undertake four, and, in one particular, the treatment of a solo quartet as against the full chorus, he has attained a very remarkable degree of success. . . . It is a pleasure to be able to give high commendation to many numbers, such as the first, with its excellent climax for solo quartet and chorus in combination; the second, a beautiful and really appropriate contralto solo, "They that sit in darkness," a broadly-treated a capella chorus, and the final number, in which the climax of the first recurs.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

The Yale Professor made a happy choice of subject and text. His purpose could not have been better served than by selection of the "Cantus Peregrinus," or "Wanderer's Psalm," a magnificent example of Hebrew poetry, dramatic in its intensity, sublime in the series of pictures which set forth human sin and suffering on the one hand, as against Divine compassion on the other. . . . What better could a bold composer desire? I say a bold composer, because no other would think of measuring his powers against such a theme or series of themes, calling, as it does, for loftiness of thought and utterance, for graphic force and versatile expression, for sustained elevation, and the masterful "grip" of a Michael Angelo. But Mr. Parker's music shows him as something more than bold. He has tried his strength and succeeded. . . . The "Tonus Peregrinus" meets our eye in the opening bars, it is our frequent companion as we travel through the composition, and in one of its protean forms it bows farewell at the end. "Protean forms"—the term is justified, for Mr. Parker early varies the primitive simplicity of the theme. Very prettily he does this. Around a rugged and age-stained tree-trunk, he throws the living grace of to-day's flowers, each off-shoot having its root in the past, and its fragrance borne on the breeze of the moment. The effect is singularly happy, the more because it does not appear as the creature of calculation, but as a natural and spontaneous product.

STANDARD.

Mr. Parker is essentially a conservative writer. He is not only well versed in the traditions of English oratorio, but he manifestly reverences them, and prefers to use long-accepted means rather than to strike out new paths.

MORNING POST.

The "Hora Novissima" was strong; the present composition is still stronger. . . . The finest movement in the whole work is undoubtedly the bass solo and chorus, "They that go down to the sea in ships." There are realistic touches in the music, but, with one or two exceptions, they are exceedingly effective. The opening solo for bass already displays rugged vigour, still further intensified by the answering phrase delivered by tenors and basses in unison. Then, as the words tell how "at His word the stormy wind ariseth," the music becomes strong and impressive; one has the feeling that here the composer felt specially inspired, thus giving vis vivida to his clever workmanship. At last the storm subsides, and after its last mutterings have been heard a new flowing theme is presented in the orchestra, as the solo voice sings of Him who "maketh the storm to cease." There is a highly impressive choral coda, in which the stately, chorale-like phrases well become the ideas of haven and rest expressed by the words. . . . The work, performed this morning in the Cathedral, was of course received in silence, otherwise the composer would doubtless have received an ovation. We have mentioned one or two fine points of colouring, but all through the varied and picturesque scoring shows ability of a high order. We notice with satisfaction that in the vocal score published by Messrs. Novello the tempo and expression marks are given in English. This is a move in the right direction.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

A rather elaborate instrumental introduction leads into an effective chorus, "O give thanks unto the Lord, for He is gracious," with passages for the ordinary quartet of principals. The first solo number is for contralto, "They that sit in darkness," the music of which is in agreement with the despondent tone of the text. . . . There is more than sufficient vigour in the accompaniment to the following chorus, "For He hath broken the gates of brass," and bass solo with chorus starting with "They that go down to the sea in ships." To these two numbers, with their illustrations of storm, retribution, and distress, the soprano air, "He turneth the floods into a wilderness" comes as a pleasant relief. This air has all the charm of sincerely devotional expression. In a similar vein is No. 6, a chorus a capella, "The righteous will consider this," neatly constructed and effective. It is quite likely that this piece will be heard by-and-by apart from its companions, as there is much in it that cannot fail to be appreciated by choral societies wishing to show their independence of instrumental accompaniment. The final number is a chorus and quartet of principals, "O give thanks unto the Lord," which is wholly satisfactory, the workmanship being both ingenious and interesting. The choral writing is excellent from first to last.

DAILY GRAPHIC.

In certain passages of the Psalm, notably in the contralto solo, "They that sit in darkness," and in the bass solo and chorus, "They that go down to the sea in ships," there are evidences of imaginative power which put the composer upon a loftier plane than that occupied by the ordinary purveyor of oratorios to provincial festivals. The power here displayed by Professor Parker is one which is shared by very few modern composers. It is a good thing to write scholarly counterpoint and to devise picturesque effects of orchestration, but the power of going behind the written word and translating into music the emotions which lie at the root of thought and feeling is a rarer and subtler faculty than either, and happy is the man who possesses it. . . . It may be urged that the contralto solo owes something to Handel's "The people that walked in darkness," and that the bass solo has an occasional suggestion of the "Flying Dutchman," but there is no question of imitation, and the fact remains that we are here in the presence of really imaginative work as contrasted with that which is merely fanciful and picturesque.

ECHO.

Mr. Parker divides his work into seven parts, and gives employment to the usual quartet of soloists, while the orchestral section is treated with elaborate completeness. His music teems with vigour and life, and there are moments when his excessive vitality is almost overpowering. Certainly Mr. Parker has a marked gift for building up an elaborate structure, and of keeping it moving with convincing directness. . . . The number which may be considered the most effective and the finest in the Psalm is undoubtedly the bass solo and chorus, "They that go down to the sea in ships," which had for its solo representative Mr. Andrew Black, who used his magnificent voice to wonderful advantage.

OBSERVER.

Mr. Parker's work is to be welcomed, if only as from America, concerning whose composers we should know more; but it has musicianly qualities to recommend it which excite esteem. It is thoroughly well written, with an appreciation of what is effective, and a sense of climax which will go far to ensure its acceptance. . . . In the number, "They that go down to the sea in ships," there is a breeziness which is decidedly inspiriting, and indicates yet undeveloped abilities in the composer.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited
AND
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CANTATAS.

*UNA

Sixth and Seventh Thousand.

PRODUCED AT THE NORWICH MUSICAL FESTIVAL, OCTOBER 4, 1893.

"'Una' is quite one of his best."—Musical Standard.

"The result, in the present case, leaves no doubt that into all the places which know his previous compositions 'Una' will find a way and become as much a favourite as its forerunners. . . . Mr. Gaul considers before all things the elegance and symmetry of his melodic phrases."—Musical Times.

"We believe that Mr. Gaul has attained greater popularity with small English provincial choral societies than any other composer, living or dead."—London Daily Graphic.

†THE TEN VIRGINS

Third Edition. Eleventh and Twelfth Thousand.
This Edition contains the additional Soprano air "Sun of my soul."

"The work will certainly go through Saxondom in the wake of its predecessors from the same pen."—London Daily Telegraph.

"Must attain popularity wherever heard. Infinitely superior to any previous effort of the composer."—Liverpool Daily Courier.

"A distinct advance upon any of its predecessors."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"That 'The Ten Virgins' is a much finer work than the everywhere favourite 'Holy City' we have no doubt whatever."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

PRODUCED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

*JOAN OF ARC

Staff Edition. Twenty-sixth to Thirtieth Thousand.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success, and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"—Western Times.

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description, and will doubtless soon be a favourite with choral societies."—Shields Daily News.

Seventh Thousand.

PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE, JULY 9, 1892.

†ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS

"The work was given under Mr. Gaul's own direction by some 3,000 singers, accompanied by the Palace orchestra. Mr. Gaul has presented in no previous work better characteristics or more successful efforts than are to be found in 'Israel in the Wilderness.' The popular composer was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance."—Musical News.

The above Cantatas have been specially planned to meet the requirements of Musical Societies, the greater portion being choral.

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Vocal Parts, each 1s. Words only, *7s. 6d.; †5s. per 100.
The loan of Orchestral Parts on application to the Composer

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE

MUSICAL DISCOVERY

OF THE

19TH CENTURY.

NEW VIOLINS VOICED.

OLD AND WORN VIOLINS REVOICED.

THE OLD CREMONA MASTERS' SECRET RECOVERED.

New or worn Violins can now be brought to their perfection without the aid of injurious processes, or alterations, additions to, or subtractions from the instrument. The setting up and stringing even untouched.

AN ASTOUNDING FACT.

A SENSATION FOR ALL VIOLINISTS.

First Edition of pamphlet, containing particulars of this wonderful recovery, now ready, and will be sent, post-free, on receipt of address.

CROWTHER AND RIGBY,
14, Prospect Park, Exeter.

IMPORTANT WORK FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.

BONNY KILMENY

CANTATA

Composed for Soprano, Tenor, and Baritone Soli, Chorus & Orchestra

BY

HAMISH MacCUNN.

Price 2s.; Choruses only (Staff Notation), with Accompaniment, 1s. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s.; Orchestral Parts (engraved), for Sale or Hire. Full Score, MS.

London: Paterson and Sons, 26, Castle Street, Berners Street, W.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

Nymphs of the Ocean	3d.	Under the Trees	2d.
The Skaters	3d.	The Oyster Dredgers	2d.
The Lake	3d.	Evening	2d.
*'Tis Morn	3d.	*Sweet to live (38th thou.)	2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal)	3d.	*Welcome, young Spring!	2d.
The River	3d.	*The Anglers (14th thou.)	2d.
Over the mountain side	3d.	The Dream of Home	2d.
Soul of living music	3d.	Summer and Winter	2d.
The Stormy Petrel	3d.	*Departed Joys	2d.
The Coral Grove	3d.	There's beauty in the deep	1½d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu	3d.	Soldier, rest!	1d.
Blow, Western Wind!	3d.	Woods in Winter	1d.
Stars of the Night	3d.	Autumn	1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men (76th thousand)	3d.	*Ben Bowlegs (Ed. Oxenford)	3d.
Three Children Sliding (12th thousand)	3d.	The Carrion Crow	3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste	4d.	Call John!	3d.
The Snow-white Doe	4d.	Three Merry Fishers	3d.
		The Cuckoo Clock (just published)	3d.

DESCRIPTIVE CHORUSES.

With Pianoforte or Orchestral Accompaniments.

The Iron Horse	4d.	The Ocean	3d.
Off to Sea	4d.	*The Ironfounders (36th thou.)	3d.
Jäger Chorus	3d.	The Cyclists	4d.
The Lifeboat	4d.

Orchestral Parts on application to the Composer, Elmham, Dereham.
Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked *.
London: Novello and Company, Limited

PRODUCED AT THE HEREFORD FESTIVAL, 1900.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS

SET TO MUSIC FOR

SOPRANO & BASS SOLI, CHORUS, & ORCHESTRA

BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

THE TIMES.

Sir Hubert Parry's setting of the Latin text of the Te Deum will hardly share the fate of the ordinary Festival novelties, to be given once and then heard of no more, for even among the splendid choral works that have come from the same hand there are few that surpass the new one in breadth, power, sincerity, or originality. It is not easy immediately after a first hearing of such a work, which must have moved every intelligent hearer deeply, to sum up in a suitably critical manner its surpassing beauties or even to enumerate its most striking passages.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

It bears throughout the stamp, broad and deep, of that which Art consecrates to highest purposes. So much might have been expected by all having knowledge of the composer, but there is more to be said of a nature personal to himself, and therefore of no small interest to those who have rightly gauged his capacity. Always progressive, Sir Hubert Parry has now reached a point where he can obtain his effects with the minimum of effort and of means. It would be too much, perhaps, to use the word "simplicity" in connection with the entire work, since there are in it passages marked by elaboration and fulness. But these are the exception rather than the rule. For the rest, we have solid contrapuntal music or broad, massive homophonic passages, full of the most intelligible expression, all doing their duty in the "argument" without extravagance on the one hand or niggardliness on the other. It is this precise adjustment of means to end which marks the ripe composer and signalises his highest work.

STANDARD.

As will be surmised by those acquainted with Sir Hubert's sacred music, its most prominent characteristic is a masterly blending of old and new styles. The idiom and virility of Bach are combined with modern design and harmonic treatment in a manner that testifies to consummate craftsmanship, and excites the highest esteem of the musician. It is music that commands the attention, and strengthens and exhilarates.

MORNING POST.

It represents its composer at his best. It opens with a theme bold and dignified, from which not only are other themes in the course of the work evolved, but which forms a connecting link between the various sections, and at the close is given out in stentorian tones and in augmentation. Outward unity is thus secured: the music, however, is of the same strong, stately character throughout, and the outward means are consequently intensified.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

His Te Deum is scholarly and replete with ingenious device, and yet its manly spirit and honest purpose forcibly appeal to the general public. Indeed, I am inclined to think that it will rank among Sir Hubert Parry's noblest compositions. It is as massive and imposing as it is bold and vigorous. . . . The latest Te Deum is a work that does credit, not only to Sir Hubert Parry, but to British musical art.

DAILY GRAPHIC.

It exhibits in the happiest manner the salient characteristics of the composer's style, his virile optimism of thought, and his thorough mastery of all the secrets of polyphonic writing. . . . Sir Hubert yields to none of his many predecessors in his power of expressing the human emotions of joy and thankfulness. There is a jubilant energy in his music, which sometimes almost descends to joviality, but can also rise to a high level of sonorous dignity. His Te Deum has many pages written in his best and noblest style, and it opened the festival in the most stirring fashion.

PALL MALL GAZETTE.

Sir Hubert Parry's Te Deum is, I do avowedly confess, the work in which he has, to my mind, reached a higher success, a greater elevation, a nobler spirit, than he has touched in any former composition of his with which I am at all intimately acquainted. It strikes the high festival note from the outset. It is, frankly, a barbaric song of triumph . . . It is as good an example of Parry at his best that we know. And that is a very good best indeed.

OBSERVER.

Sir Hubert Parry has been called the "English Bach," and his latest contribution to music still further justifies the appellation. The spirit of the old master seems to be re-incarnated in almost every page of the Te Deum. There is the same command of contrapuntal resource, a command not used to build up pedagogic complexities, but employed with masterly craftsmanship to secure forceable and moving expression. There is the same spirit of sturdy vigour in the jubilant passages, the same spirit of deep sentiment in portions treating of "hidden things." . . . The opening and closing choruses are magnificent examples of choral writing, to hear which is to be exhilarated, to understand which is to be strengthened.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED
AND
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Composed by request for the Gloucester Orpheus Society, and performed at the Hereford Triennial Musical Festival, September 14, 1900.

LOVE'S PHILOSOPHY

A FOUR-PART SONG FOR MEN'S VOICES

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

H. GODWIN CHANCE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

A. HERBERT BREWER.

Price Fourpence.

"Very pretty and expressive."—The Times.
"A very musicianly piece."—Daily Telegraph.
"Is of soft flowing character."—Morning Post.
"A very pleasant and refined part-song."—Yorkshire Post.
"The Gloucester Orpheus Society sang several part-songs with the greatest possible success, one of the best being 'Love's Philosophy,' a clever composition by the conductor."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.
"A very tasteful little composition."—Birmingham Daily Post.
"A charming piece."—Bristol Times and Mirror.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

SUNG AT A UNITED CHILDREN'S SERVICE IN EXETER CATHEDRAL, JUNE 28, A.D. 1900.

CHILDREN'S MISSIONARY HYMN

FOR

S.P.G. BICENTENARY CELEBRATIONS

BY

S. CHILDS-CLARKE

(Vicar of Thorverton, Devon)

MUSIC BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Penny. Words, 3s. per hundred.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Second Edition.

NARCISSUS AND ECHO

CANTATA FOR CHORUS, SOLI, AND ORCHESTRA

Price 3s.; Choral Parts, 1s. each. Also,

"GOD IS OUR REFUGE" (Ps. 46)

For Chorus, Soli, and Orchestra. Price 1s.

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN C. SUCH,

Mus. Bac., Cantab.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE CHURCH CATECHISM

IN METRICAL FORM, FOR SINGING AS HYMNS

BY THE

RIGHT REV. BISHOP JENNER & AMABEL JENNER.

Price 1d. each; in Packets of 50, 3s. 6d.

Edition with Music by MYLES B. FOSTER. Price 3d.

ALSO,

FAITH, DUTY AND PRAYER

An Abridged Version of above

BEING VERSES ON THESE ELEMENTARY CHRISTIAN VIRTUES

FOR THE USE OF CHILDREN IN SCHOOL, AT WORSHIP, OR IN THE HOME.

Price 1d. each; in Packets of 50, 3s. 6d.

Edition with Music by MYLES B. FOSTER. Price 2d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

WITHDRAWAL of SPECIAL PRICES.

MESSRS. NOVELLO & CO. beg leave to announce that by arrangement with Messrs. Macmillan & Co. the special prices hereunder mentioned will be withdrawn

ON FEBRUARY 1, 1901

on which day the price of the complete Dictionary, in Cloth binding, will be £4 4s. 0d.

Consequently no orders received after that date can be entertained at the reduced terms now offered.

GROVE'S DICTIONARY OF MUSIC

(1450-1889)

ILLUSTRATED, FOUR VOLUMES, WITH INDEX

BY

EMINENT WRITERS, ENGLISH AND FOREIGN

UNDER THE EDITORSHIP OF THE LATE

SIR GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

ASSISTED IN THE SUPPLEMENT

BY

J. A. FULLER MAITLAND.

PRICES OF THE FOUR VOLUMES

UNTIL FEBRUARY 1, 1901, ONLY.

Previously published, ONLY IN CLOTH, at £4 11s. 6d.

CLOTH BINDING, £2 0s. 0d. HALF MOROCCO, £3 0s. 0d. FULL MOROCCO, £4 0s. 0d.

Should the purchaser desire to take advantage of the instalment system, he can obtain the complete Book on payment of a deposit of 7s. (Cloth), 13*s.* (Half Morocco), or 24*s.* (Full Morocco); and must then complete the transaction by five monthly payments of 7*s.*, 10*s.*, or 12*s.* respectively, the first of which becomes due on receipt of the book.

 This Special Issue, it should be observed, is only of a temporary character, and it is not to be regarded as implying the early appearance of an entirely new edition of the Dictionary, which, as a matter of fact, Messrs. Novello and Co. are authorized to say that Messrs. Macmillan and Co. have not in preparation.

Copies of the book may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W., and 80 & 81, Queen Street, E.C. An explanatory pamphlet, giving a full description of Contents, a List of Contributors, and a Catalogue of the Articles contributed by each writer, with specimen pages and illustrations, and an order form will be sent Post-free on application.

[AN ORDER FORM WILL BE FOUND IN THIS PAPER.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., Cantab.

In Four Sets. Each Set, complete, One Shilling; or, in Single Numbers, One Penny.

Contents of First Set.

1. THE CAROLLERS.
2. THE STARS ARE SHINING BRIGHT AND CLEAR.
3. CAROL, SWEETLY CAROL.
4. CHRISTMAS BELLS.
5. A CHILD THIS DAY IS BORN.
6. HARK! WHAT MEAN THOSE HOLY VOICES?
7. THE ANGELS' CAROL.
8. WHILE SHEPHERDS WATCHED.
9. ANGELS FROM THE REALMS OF GLORY.
10. A CHRISTMAS CHIME.

Contents of Second Set.

1. AWAKE! AROUSE! YE CHRISTIAN BAND.
2. RING OUT, SWEET CHIMES.
3. BRIGHTEST AND BEST.
4. HAIL! HAPPY MORN.
5. O LET OUR VOICES.
6. CHRISTMAS EVE.
7. HARK! THE BELLS.
8. CHRISTMAS CAROL.
9. JOYFUL IS THE MORN.
10. NOËL.

Contents of Third Set.

1. O GLADSOME MORN.
2. HOW MARVELLOUS THY WAYS.
3. LET'S MERRY BE.
4. HARK! THE ANGELS, SINGING.
5. CHILDREN'S VOICES.
6. SONG OF THE SHEPHERDS.
7. A CHILD IS BORN.
8. O SAVIOUR DEAR.

Contents of Fourth Set.

1. LIFT YOUR GRATEFUL VOICES.
2. THE BRIGHTEST MORN.
3. CHIMES ACROSS THE SNOW.
4. THE ANGELS' SONG.
5. SONG OF THE FAITHFUL.
6. THE HERALD BELLS.
7. O DAY OF DAYS.
8. COME, YULETIDE GUESTS.
9. THY SERVANTS SING.
10. THE ANGEL'S TIDINGS.

Words of each Set, One Penny, and may be had of the Composer, Cathedral Close, Norwich.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TWELVE PIECES

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

J. STAINER.

BOOK 1.

1. Andante.
2. Prelude and Fughetta.
3. Adagio.
4. On a Bass.
5. Impromptu.
6. Reverie.

Just Published.

BOOK 2.

7. Andante Pathétique.
8. Præludium Pastorale.
9. A Church Prelude.
10. Introduction and Fughetta.
11. Fantasia.
12. Finale alla Marcia.

Price Four Shillings each.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

FIVE DUETS

FOR SOPRANO AND CONTRALTO

(Second Set)

COMPOSED BY

FREDERIC H. COWEN.

Contents.

1. CURFEW.
2. THE SUMMER'S CALL.
3. TO-DAY.
4. TO DAFFODILS.
5. BIRDS.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

WREATHS FOR OUR GRAVES

CHORAL SONG FOR S.S.A.T.T.B.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

L. F. MASSEY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

Price Sixpence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

INVENTIONS

IN

TWO AND THREE PARTS

FOR THE

CLAVIER

BY JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH.

EDITED, WITH A PREFACE, AND SHORT ANALYSIS OF THE SEVERAL PIECES BY JAMES HIGGS.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

LIE STILL, BELOVED, LIE STILL

FUNERAL HYMN

BY

ARTHUR C. BENSON

(Sung at the unveiling of the Monument to Archbishop Benson in Canterbury Cathedral)

MUSIC BY

C. H. LLOYD.

Price One Penny. Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

FUNERAL MARCHES

FOR THE

ORGAN.

THE VILLAGE ORGANIST.—Book 18.

1. Funeral March (Sonata, Op. 26) .. .. Beethoven.
2. Ditto (Sonata, Op. 35).. .. .. Chopin.
3. Dead March ("Saul") .. .. Handel.
4. Funeral March ("Story of Sayid") .. .. A. C. Mackenzie.
5. Ditto ("Lieder ohne Worte," No. 27) .. .. Mendelssohn.

Price One Shilling.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

TO BE PERFORMED AT THE

Birmingham Musical Festival,

OCTOBER 2, 3, 4, 5, 1900.

SCENES

FROM

THE SONG OF HIAWATHA

COMPOSED BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

(Op. 30.)

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.
Paper boards, 4s.; Cloth, gilt, 5s.
Tonic Sol-fa, 2s.
Full Scores: "Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast," 25s.; "The Death of Minnehaha," 25s.
"Hiawatha's Departure" (in the Press).

THE SPECTRE'S BRIDE

COMPOSED BY

ANTONÍN DVOŘÁK.

(Op. 69.)

Price Three Shillings.
Paper boards, 3s. 6d.; Cloth, gilt, 5s.
Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. 6d.
Full Score, £3 3s.

DE PROFUNDIS

(PSALM CXXX.)

COMPOSED BY

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Price Two Shillings.

A GERMAN REQUIEM

COMPOSED BY

JOHANNES BRAHMS.

Price Four Shillings.
Full Score (German words), 40s.

THE

PASSION OF OUR LORD

(ACCORDING TO ST. MATTHEW)

COMPOSED BY

J. S. BACH.

The English Translation and Adaptation by the REV. DR. TROUTBECK.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Paper boards, 3s.

MASS

FOR FIVE VOICES

BY

WILLIAM BYRD.

EDITED BY

WM. BARCLAY SQUIRE & RICHARD TERRY.

Price Three Shillings.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED
AND
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

PRODUCED AT THE HEREFORD FESTIVAL, 1900.

THE

SOUL'S EXPRESSION

FOUR SONNETS

BY

ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING.

1. THE SOUL'S EXPRESSION.
2. TEARS. 3. GRIEF. 4. COMFORT.

SET TO MUSIC FOR

CONTRALTO SOLO AND ORCHESTRA

BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

(Op. 42.)

Price Two Shillings.
String Parts (in the Press). Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

THE TIMES.

A new cycle of songs, for contralto and orchestra, by Mr. S. Coleridge-Taylor, was sung by Miss Marie Brema with great intensity and most artistic intelligence. They are set to four sonnets by Mrs. Browning, and are named from the first of the set, "The Soul's Expression." All are connected by the alternation of two chords, but beyond this the themes are independent, and emotionally all are more or less elegiac in tone, the last, "Speak low to me, my Saviour," being the most beautiful on a first hearing. The harmonic transitions at the close of the song are an exquisitely faithful reflection of the work, and it need not be said that all four songs are most cleverly and effectively orchestrated. The theme of the first is obviously suggested by the line "With octaves of a mystic depth and height," and perhaps this is the most impressive of the series.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

The songs are intensely serious, and some think at first sight more laboured in construction than eloquent in effect. But greater familiarity may tell a different tale, and Mr. Taylor, though a youthful composer, has a well-earned right to deliberate judgment. I will only add that for some time, at least, these grave examples of Mr. Taylor's weighty thoughts should be performed separately.

STANDARD.

The songs are a setting, for contralto voice and orchestra, of Elizabeth Barrett Browning's poems, severally named "The Soul's Expression," "Tears," "Grief," and "Comfort." Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's music is not only very clever, but it is beautiful. The orchestration is enchanting, and many of the melodic passages are full of deep feeling.

MORNING POST.

Mr. Coleridge-Taylor has written music of deep interest, highly emotional and free from all exaggeration and from any attempt to catch the public ear. The scoring is extremely refined.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

The voice part of these pieces is so delicate as to demand all the sympathetic art of so gifted a singer as Miss Marie Brema, to whom they were this evening entrusted. The rare talent of the composer is less emphatically proclaimed in the vocal element than in the instrumental. The accompaniments are replete with beautiful effects, invariably in perfect agreement with the sentiment of the words.

DAILY GRAPHIC.

Even in uncongenial surroundings the extraordinary passion and intensity of Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's music made themselves felt, and as sung by Miss Marie Brema with the most finished and exquisite expression conceivable, the songs must be set down as a great success of the festival.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED
AND
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

ORCHESTRAL MUSIC.

HAWKES & SON'S CONCERT EDITION, latest edition of Original Works (without alteration). Fine engraving and clear printing.

	Orchestra. s. d.	Extra Parts, each. s. d.
Wagner, R.—"Tannhäuser." Overture (Score, 6s.)	12 0	1 0
—— Selections from "Tannhäuser," arr. by Ch. Godfrey, Jun.	5 0	0 6
—— "Tannhäuser." Grand March, in B flat	4 0	0 4
—— Bridal Chorus and March from "Lohengrin"	3 4	0 4
—— Introduction to 3rd Act of "Lohengrin"	3 4	0 4
—— Selection from "Rienzi," arr. by E. W. Ritter	5 0	0 6
—— Selection from "The Flying Dutchman," arr. by Ch. Godfrey, Jun.	5 0	0 6
Bennett, Sir W. S.—"The Naiades." Overture	5 0	0 6
Thomas, A.—"Raymond." Overture	5 0	0 6
Wallace, V.—"Maritana." Overture	5 0	0 6
Mendelssohn, F.—"Peter Schmoll." Overture	3 4	0 4
Gounod, Ch.—"Reine de Saba." Selection from the Opera and Ballet	5 0	0 6
Puccini, G.—Selection from "The Bohemians," arr. by Ch. Godfrey, Jun.	5 0	0 6
Tschaïkowsky, P.—"Chant sans paroles"	2 8	0 4
—— Barcarolle	2 8	0 4
—— "Douce Rêverie and Petite Valse" (Strings)	1 6	0 4
Eilenberg, R.—"Coronation." Grand March	2 8	0 3
Fabiani, G.—"Le Lion de St. March." Ditto	2 0	0 3
Czibulka, A.—"Waldesflüstern." Idylle	3 4	0 4
—— Elegie	2 8	0 4
Peters, W.—"Whisperings by the Sea Shore"	4 0	0 4
Beethoven, L. van—Adagio, from the "Pathetic" Sonata	2 8	0 4
Lehar, F.—"Kukuska." Russian Dance	4 0	0 4
Jones, Sidney.—"Danse Espagnole"	3 4	0 4
Diaz, G.—"La Mariposa." Entr'acte	2 0	0 3
Godard, B.—"Berceuse de Jocelyn"	4 0	0 6
Thomé, F.—"Simple Aveu"	2 8	0 4
Sebek, G.—A Dervish Chorus in the Sudan	3 4	0 4
Rubinstein, A.—Melody in F	2 8	0 4
—— Romance	2 8	0 4
Mendelssohn, F.—Songs without Words:— No. 6, Book 5. Spring Song	2 8	0 4
No. 1, Book 4. Boating Song
No. 6, Book 6. Serenade	2 8	0 4
No. 4, Book 6. The Bee's Wedding"
Beethoven, L. van.—"Largo e Mesto"	2 8	0 4
Nesvada, J.—"Loreley." Paraphrase	2 8	0 4
Mendelssohn.—"Son and Stranger." Overture	4 0	0 4

ORCHESTRAL SUITES.

Matt, A. E.—"Rural Scenes":— 1. Pastorale—In the Meadows 2. Romance—Love Scenes 3. Scherzo—Village Revels (score on hire)	6 0	0 8
—— "An Evening Ramble." Orchestral Suite:— 1. March—The Departure 2. Nocturne—Castle Ruins by Moonlight 3. Caprice—Woodland Frolics	6 0	0 8
—— "Norwegian Scenes":— 1. Prelude—View of the Mountains 2. Intermezzo—Peasants' Dance 3. Scherzo—Sleigh Ride	6 0	0 8
Lardelli, G.—"Suite Enfantine":— 1. Aubade 2. Dance des Enfants 3. Danse des Galants 4. Dans des Filles	6 0	0 8

SELECTIONS FROM POPULAR OPERAS AND COMEDIES.

Jones, S.—"San Toy"	5 0	0 6
—— "The Greek Slave"	5 0	0 6
—— "The Geisha"	5 0	0 6
Stuart, L.—"Floradora"	5 0	0 6
Sullivan, Sir A.—"The Rose of Persia"	3 4	0 4
Caryll, T.—"The Messenger Boy"	3 4	0 4
—— "The Runaway Girl"	3 4	0 4

VARIOUS LIGHT INTERMEZZOS, &c.

De Reeder, L.—"Tarok Magyar." Hungarian March	2 0	0 3
Friedemann, C.—*"Kaiser Friederich." March	2 0	0 3
Starke, H.—*"With sword and lance"	2 0	0 3
Salabert, W.—*"Premier Bonheur." Gavotte	2 0	0 3
Clay, C. W.—*"Les Zouaves" March	2 0	0 3
Rosey, G.—*"Senegambrian Patrol"	2 0	0 3
Ziehrer, C. M.—*"Schonfeld" (Vive Paris). March	2 0	0 3
Eilenberg, R.—*"We play soldiers." Characteristic Piece	2 0	0 3
Latann, C.—*"Odeons Freuden." Galop	2 0	0 3
Drescher, C. W.—*"La Ritarata Italiana"	2 0	0 3
Bidgood, T.—*"Sons of the brave." March	2 0	0 3
Lassen, E.—*"All Souls' Day" (Allerseelen)	2 0	0 3
Czibulka, A.—*"Serenade Italienne"	2 0	0 3
Bucalossi, P.—*"A hunting scene"	3 4	0 4
Hume, J. O.—*"Aerial Intermezzo"	2 0	0 3
Perry, J.—*"The Warblers' Serenade"	2 0	0 3
Thony, C.—*"Sur le Lido." Barcarolle	2 0	0 3
Vollstedt, R.—*"Old love is never forgotten." Intermezzo	2 0	0 3
Le Thierè, C.—*"Danse Irlandaise"	2 0	0 3
—— *"Moonlight in the forest" and "Dance of the Nymphs"	2 0	0 3

ORCHESTRAL MUSIC—continued.

	s. d.	s. d.
Michalis, G.—"Adolphe." March	2 0	0 3
Mexican Dances:— 1. Aviles, J.—Rosias y abrojas 2. Viderique, A.—A Media Noche	2 8	0 3
Matt, A. E.—"Dawn." An Idyll	2 0	0 3
—— "Devotion Rustique." Angelus	2 0	0 3
—— "Sunset." Reverie	2 0	0 3
Nevin, E.—"Narcissus"	2 8	0 3
Matt, A. E.—"Coquetterie." Entr'acte	2 8	0 4
Wachs, P.—"Mutinerie" (Child's Waywardness) (Strings, Wood-Wind, and Horns.)	2 8	0 4

All Concert Edition except where otherwise marked *, which are octavo size.

Pianoforte copies published to nearly all the above publications, 2s. each. Ask for Special List, gratis on application.

London: Hawkes and Son, Denman Street, Piccadilly Circus, W.

FOR VICTORY AND PEACE.

SPECIAL THANKSGIVING MUSIC

Composed by CALEB SIMPER.

He maketh Peace. New Anthem. 3rd Edition	3d.
This Anthem contains portions for the Congregation to join in, and concludes with the National Anthem.
Thanksgiving Te Deum in D. New. 4th 1,000	4d.
Ascribe ye the power. New Anthem. 5th 1,000	3d.
Let God arise. 11th 1,000	3d.
Trust in Him always. 10th 1,000	4d.
An Organist writes:—"The success of your Anthem, "Trust in Him always," was so pronounced, and so heartily taken in hand by the Choir, that I have decided to take three dozen each of 'His works of Love' and 'Thou openest Thine Hand.'"

NEW CHRISTMAS MUSIC.

In the Press. Ready about October 10.

The morning stars sang together. Anthem	3d.
Six New Christmas Carols. (O.N. or Sol-fa) each	1d.
49. Lo! on Bethlehem's plains. 50. A sound of merry peals. 51. Sweet Carols raise. 52. Peace! Peace! on Earth. 53. He is our Emmanuel. 54. Sing! for Christ is Born.
Also, The "Kilbirnie" Series of Church Music:—
No. 1. Contains the above Six Carols. Complete	4d.
„ 2. Contains a New and Grand Quadruple Chant Te Deum, with New Chants for Venite, Benedictus, Jubilate, Magnificat, and Nunc dimittis; also, Two New Kyries, &c. Complete	2d.

A NEW AND FAVOURITE SACRED CANTATA

THE NATIVITY OF CHRIST.

3rd 1,000. Price 1s. 6d. Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.

Contents:—No. 1, The Prelude; No. 2, Carol, "On Christmas Day"; No. 3, Tenor or Baritone Recit., "And the Angel Gabriel"; No. 4, Chorus, "He shall be great"; No. 5, Bass and Soprano (or Tenor) Solo with Chorus, "My soul doth magnify"; No. 6, Carol, "Ring Merrily"; No. 7, Chorus, "Good Tidings"; No. 8, Carol, "The Wondrous Story"; No. 9, Tenor or Baritone Solo, "Arise, shine," and Chorus, "Cry out and shout"; No. 10, Carol, "The Star of Bethlehem"; No. 11, Solo and Chorus, "When Jesus was born"; No. 12, Carol, "Gold, frankincense, and myrrh"; No. 13, "Break forth into joy"; No. 14, Carol, "Ring out, O bells."

VERY POPULAR VOLUNTARY BOOKS.

Each contains Seventeen Pieces, including a capital March. On Two Staves for Organ, American Organ, or Harmonium. Book 1, 8th edit. Book 2, 5th edit.; Book 3 (new), 3rd edit. Price 1s. 6d. net each Book.

London: Weekes and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: Clayton F. Summy Co., 220, Wabash Avenue.

SUNG BY MR. HENRY BEAUMONT.

BRAVE HEARTS (E flat and F Editions ready.)

Patriotic Song. Music by JOHN J. JONES.

"This rattling rhythmical song suits words (Oxenford) that tell of determination and pluck."—Music Trades Review.

London: Weekes and Co. Price 2s.

NATIONAL TE DEUM—Music specially suitable for: F. Adlam in D, 3d.; D. Watkins in B flat, 3d.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Eleventh Edition. Price 2d.

THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME. Popular Negro Melody, with vocally-imitated Banjo Accompaniment. Arranged for T.T.B.B. (Tenor Solo), by T. Blackshaw.
London: Weekes and Co., 14, Hanover Street, W.

A NEW CHRISTMAS CANTATA.

THE ANGEL'S MESSAGE. By E. Vine Hall.

Suitable for Christmas Concerts; bright and easy. Price 1s. A specimen copy sent post-free for seven stamps. C. Evans and Co., High Street, Bromsgrove.

GUIDE to WAGNER'S NIBELUNGENRING

"THE EPIC OF SOUNDS"

By FREDA WINWORTH.

The Musical Times says: "Just the kind of résumé Wagnerian pilgrims should put into their pockets."

Third Edition. Price 3s. 6d.

London: Simpkin and Co., Limited, and Novello and Co., Limited.

WEBSTER'S CHILD'S PRIMER OF THE THEORY OF MUSIC.

One Shilling.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

CERIDWEN

A DRAMATIC CANTATA or ONE-ACT OPERA

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

JOSEPH PARRY, Mus. Doc., Cantab.,

University College, Cardiff.

Paper, 2s. 6d. net; Sol-fa, 1s. 6d.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

SHEET MUSIC.

A SPECIAL JOB LINE OF SONGS, PIECES, AND DANCES,

Chiefly 4s. and 3s. Copies, all clean and saleable,

250 mixed for 21s.; sample parcel of eight copies, Post-free, 1s.

WILLIAM LEA, 50 and 52, Church Street, Liverpool.

Methods and Tutors for all Instruments.

F. BERR'S CELEBRATED METHOD for the CLARINET. Published in English for the first time. In boards, 16s. 4d.; bound, 20s. 6d. Post-free.

A Subscription Edition is just issued at reduced price. Form on application.

CORNET.—Arban's Grand Method, 16s. 4d.; bound, 20s. 6d.

CLARINET.—Klose's Grand Method, 16s. 4d.; bound, 20s. 6d.

DOUBLE-BASS.—Bottesini's Grand Method, 16s. 4d.; bound, 20s. 6d.

OBOE.—Brod's Grand Method, 16s. 4d.; bound, 20s. 6d.

HAWKES AND SON'S PRACTICAL SERIES OF TUTORS

BY

OTTO LANGEY.

Prices Net, Post-free.

	s.	d.		s.	d.
Violin	2	9	Piccolo	4	3
Viola	4	3	French Horn	4	3
Violoncello	4	3	Euphonium	4	3
Double-Bass (3 strings)	4	3	Tenor Slide Trombone	4	3
Double-Bass (4 strings)	4	3	Cornet	4	3
Flute	4	3	Tenor Saxhorn	4	3
Clarinet	4	3	Baritone	4	3
Oboe	4	3	Side Drum	4	3
Bassoon	4	3

London: Hawkes and Son, Denman Street, Piccadilly Circus, W.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS. By A. B. Allen.

"Tom, the Piper's son." S.A.T.B. Price 3d.

"Dickory, dickory, dock." S.A.T.B. Price 4d.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

D'YE KEN JOHN PEEL. Part-Song. Arranged from the original hunting song by the Composer. Price 6d.

W. Metcalfe, 33, Chiswick Street, Carlisle.

Fourth Thousand.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in G. By Alfred J. Dye. Price 4d.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

TOILERS OF THE DEEP

CANTATA

FOR FEMALE VOICES

Verse by James Strang

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"A delightful work, replete with artistic workmanship, and, above all, melodious and expressive."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

Price Two Shillings.

Words, Five Shillings per hundred.

THE LEGEND OF THE WOOD

A JUVENILE OPERETTA

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price One Shilling.

Words, Four Shillings per hundred.

THE ELFIN HILL

AN OPERETTA FOR SCHOOL USE

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"'The Elfin Hill' is founded on one of Hans Andersen's charming stories, and the libretto has been written in dainty and graceful language by Miss Baldwick. The operetta opens with a short overture describing moonlight on the Dovrefeld Mountains, and Mr. Gaul has been particularly happy in infusing the Norse spirit into that portion of his music which deals with goblin life in Norway. When the goblins become visitors in fairyland, the character of the music changes; lightness is its predominant feature, perhaps the choicest fragment being a fairy dance. This latter, together with a very characteristic dance of elves and a shadow dance, were beautifully executed."—Birmingham Gazette.

Price Two Shillings.

Words, Seven Shillings and Sixpence per hundred.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published. 8vo, 3d.

THE CUCKOO CLOCK

HUMOROUS PART-SONG for S.A.T.B.

COMPOSED BY

W. W. PEARSON.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

OF THE UTMOST IMPORTANCE TO TENORS and to all whose voices have been misused or wrongly trained.

THE RIGHTLY-PRODUCED VOICE

BY

E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Price 1s. 6d.; or, bound in cloth, 2s. 6d., Post-free.

Contents.—The Fundamental Error in the Training of Men's Voices—True Nature of Falsetto—Secret of Voice-Production—Speaking Voice of Manhood—Chest Register in Women's and Boys' Voices—Decay of Voice in Singers; its unsuspected cause—The Old Masters and the Use of Head Voice, &c.

Extracts from the Press.—"Written in a convincing style, and is decidedly interesting."—The Times. "The last few pages are so replete with suggestions that they seem to come like a revelation."—The Musician (U.S.A.). "A book which all singers would do well to read and think over."—Manchester Guardian.

May be obtained from the Author, 28, Digby Road, Finsbury Park, N.; or, from Joseph Williams, 32, Great Portland Street, W.

IMPORTANT to TEACHERS. — Kindergarten Series of Elementary Musical Instruction Books. By Cyril Fairfield. Mandoline (two parts), Violin (two parts), Banjo.

PIANOFORTE.

Part 1. Duets for Teacher and Pupil; pupil's part, Treble clef.

" 2. " " " Bass.

" 3. Little pieces for both hands, moving differently.

(Part 3 is easier than the ordinary tutor.)

It is well known that all tutors are much too difficult, not sufficiently progressive, and that teachers have the greatest difficulty in teaching from them. This series of instruction books is intended to precede these. A specimen copy sent free of charge on receipt of post card. When ordering Pianoforte Tutor please state which book is required—Book 1 or 3.

H. G. Bensted and Sons, 13, High Street, Harlesden, London.

SCHOTT & CO.'S

NEW ORGAN MUSIC.

FAULKES, W. New Organ Pieces:—

No.	Net s. d.	No.	Net s. d.
18. Marche Religieuse in B minor	1 6	27. Scherzo in A	2 0
19. Elévation in B minor	1 0	28. Méditation in E flat	1 0
20. Pastorale in E	1 6	29. Grand Chœur in D	1 6
21. Toccata in D minor	2 0	30. March in C	2 0
22. Cantilène in A	1 6	31. Cantilène Pastorale in A minor	1 6
23. Offertoire in E minor	1 6	32. Caprice in B flat	1 6
24. Communion in C	1 0	33. Marriage Benediction in D flat	1 0
25. Andante affetuoso in B flat	1 6	34. Romance in D	1 0
26. Elégie in F minor	1 6	35. Offertoire in C minor	2 0

GREY, CHAS. J. Organ Pieces:—

1. Chant Triomphal	1 0	5. Berceuse	1 6
2. Hymne Céleste	1 0	6. Grand Chœur	1 6
3. Marche Solennelle	1 6	7. Cantilène Dramatique	1 6
4. Andante Pastorale	1 6	8. Sonata in G	2 0

HIGGS, H. M.

Cantilène Pastorale	1 6	Theme with Variations	2 0
Lento Religioso Offertoire	1 6

JEKYLL, C. S.

Prière 1 0

Transcriptions:—

1. Schumann, 4 Pieces. Op. 15	1 6	2. Wagner. Träume	1 6
		3. Onslow. Romance. Op. 7	1 6

LEMARE, EDWIN H. Popular Organ Arrangements:—

Dreyschock, F. Berceuse	2 0	Rubinstein, A. Rêve Angélique	2 0
Elgar, E. Salut d'Amour	2 0	Wagner, R. Siegfried Idyll	3 0
Goldmark, C. Rustic Symphony:—		Waldweben (Siegfried)	3 0
Im Garten	2 0	The Mastersingers. Prelude	2 6
Finale	2 0	Parsifal. Prelude Act I.	2 0
Humperdinck, E. Hansel and Gretel:—		Parsifal. Prelude Act III.	1 6
Prelude	2 0	Parsifal. Good Friday Music	2 0
Angel Scene	2 0	Lohengrin. Prelude to Act III. and Bridal Music	2 0
Kellie, L. The City of Night	1 6
Liszt, F. Sposalizio	2 0
Nevin, E. Slumber Song	2 0

SAINT-GEORGE, G.

Supplication	1 0	Angelus	1 0
Lamento	1 0	Offertoire in F	1 6

STEGGALL, R. Suite:—

1. Prélude	1 6	3. Cantilène	1 6
2. Romance	1 6	4. Toccata	2 0

WAREING, H. W. Organ Pieces:—

1. Angelus	1 0	4. Lento Espressivo	1 0
2. Siciliano	1 0	5. Marche Funèbre	1 0
3. Hornpipe	1 6

London: Schott and Co., 157-9, Regent Street, W.

CHAMBER AND ENTR'ACTE MUSIC.

	Orchestra.	Extra Parts.
Grunefeld, A.—Kleine Serenade. With Cello Solo	2/-	4d.
Bucalossi, E.—"I Studenti." Pizzicato Serenade	2/-	4d.
Praag, V. M.—Canto Religioso. Strings, Flute, and Clarinet	2/-	4d.
Langey, O.—Serenata Neapolitana. Strings and Flute	2/-	4d.
Myddleton, W. H.—"Eventide." Strings, Flute, Clarinet, and Harmonium	2/-	4d.

FOR STRINGS ONLY.

	Strings complete.	Piano Solo.	Extra Parts.
Allen, A.—Pizzicato in D. Quintet	1/4	2/-	4d.
Boccherini.—Minuet. The Edition as originally written. Quintet	1/4	6d.	4d.
Corri, W.—"Baby's Sweetheart." Pizzicato Quintet (score, 8d.)	1/6	2/-	4d.
Dunkler, E.—"Au Bord de la Mer." Reverie for Cello. Quartet	2/-	2/-	6d.
Eilenberg, R.—"Mandolinen." Spanish Serenade. Quintet	1/6	2/-	4d.
—— "Rêve du Bal." Valse Intermezzo. Quintet	1/6	2/-	4d.
Gowens, C.—Characteristique Caprice. Quintet	1/6	2/-	4d.
Langey, O. (Op 62).—"Two Little Comrades." (Landler). Two Solo Violins, with Quintet accompaniment	1/6	2/-	4d.
Latann, C.—"Herz an Herz." Pizzicato Gavotte	1/6	2/-	4d.
Ole Bull.—"Saterjentens Sontag." With another Norwegian melody, "Rabnabryllaup uti Kraakjalund." Solo Violin, 1st Violin, 2nd Violin, Viola, Cello, and Bass (including score)	1/6	—	4d.
Schumann, R.—"Schlummerlied." Arr. by E. W. Ritter (Harmonium acc., 6d.). Quintet	1/4	1/-	4d.
—— "Träumerei." Arr. by John Reynolds. Quartet	1/4	—	4d.
Tschaïkowsky.—Douce Rêverie et Petite Valse	1/6	2/-	4d.
Winterbottom, F.—Morceau Piquant. Quartet	1/6	2/-	4d.

London: Hawkes and Son, Denman Street, Piccadilly Circus, W.

MESSRS. NOVELLO having just published an Engraved Edition of the

FULL SCORE

OF

HIAWATHA'S WEDDING-FEAST

BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR

AT 25S. NET

Beg to offer the remaining Stock of the Auto-Lithographed Edition of the work (148 pp., large folio) at the reduced rate of

TEN SHILLINGS NET

(No discount to the Trade or Profession).

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

HIAWATHA'S WEDDING-FEAST

AND

THE DEATH OF MINNEHAHA

COMPOSED BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

FULL SCORES. Price 25s. each.

In the Press.

FULL SCORE of "HIAWATHA'S DEPARTURE."

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

FOR SCHOOL CONCERTS AND LADIES' CLASSES.

ZAMORA'S SPELL. Cantata, for Treble Voices. Words by Edward Oxenford. Music by P. Tottenham Lucas.

The Musical Times, Jan., 1900, says:—"The cantata begins with a gay and spirited hunting chorus. . . . The music contains pleasing solos and is bright and melodious."

The Queen, June, 1900, says:—"The vocal writing is smooth and singable. . . . A composition of some importance and considerable merit."

The Minim, Dec., 1899, says:—"A very acceptable cantata. It opens with a bright introduction, and is followed by solos and choruses of great merit. The latter are in two parts, and are melodious and effective throughout. Will be found very useful in schools, and is not too exacting for young voices."

The Music Student, Jan., 1900, says:—"A well conceived recitative. . . . An excellently written little solo. . . . A bright and stirring hunting chorus. . . . A charming little song and chorus of Naiads tells of the giving of the ring. . . . The wedding bells clang out the pleasing ending to a very interesting cantata. . . . The music is simple, suitable, and well written, and the work should form a very pleasing item for school concerts, while within the vocal powers of a well-trained class."

Published by Charles Vincent, 9, Berners Street, W., price 1s. 6d.

A specimen copy may be obtained for six stamps from the Composer, Yarlet Hall, Stafford. Specimen of Hunting Chorus (published separately) sent gratis by the Composer on application.

FESTIVAL SETTINGS

OF THE

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS

WITH ACCOMPANIMENTS FOR ORGAN AND ORCHESTRA

Barnby, J. (in E flat)	8d.	Selby, B. Luard (in A)	6d.
Bennett, G. J. (in A)	6d.	Stainer, Dr. (in A)	6d.
Bridge, Dr. J. F. (in G)	6d.	Stainer, Dr. (in B flat)	6d.
Calkin, J. Baptiste (in G)	6d.	Stanford, C. Villiers (in A)	6d.
Faning, Eaton (in C)	6d.	Steggall, Dr. (in C)	6d.
Gadsby, Henry (in C)	6d.	Tours, Berthold (in F)	4d.
Lloyd, C. H. (in F)	6d.	Tours, Berthold (in D)	6d.
Mann, A. H., Dr. (in E)	1s.	Williams, C. L. (in F major)	4d.
Martin, George C. (in C)	6d.	Wood, W. G. (in B flat)	6d.
Martin, George C. (in A)	6d.

Cantate and Deus (in C), Dr. Steggall, 6d.

The above may also be performed either with strings and organ accompaniment, or with organ only, when necessary.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Sixth Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat. By William S. Vinning, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d. London: Novello and Company, Limited.

BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL, 1900.

SECOND EDITION, JUST READY.

THE HISTORY
OF MENDELSSOHN'S ORATORIO
"ELIJAH"
BY
F. G. EDWARDS.

WITH AN INTRODUCTION BY SIR GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

And a number of Portraits, including a hitherto unpublished one of the COMPOSER.

"Another work of distinct value to musical historians. . . . The temptation to gossip over the incidents of the first peformance has been quite successfully resisted, and the author lets Mendelssohn's own letters tell the story for the most part. . . . There are several portraits of those who took part in the original performance, and one most interesting portrait of Mendelssohn from a drawing in the possession of Mrs. Victor Benecke. The work of compiling the necessary information has been excellently done, and the publication comes as a fitting celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the production of the work."—The Times, April 16, 1896.

"Mr. Edwards's book contains, of course, much that is familiar to students of Mendelssohn, and even to the casual readers of musical biography, but the author is able to set forth no little which fairly claims attention as new. There are, for example, various letters from the composer not heretofore made public, and full of interest for those to whom the details of a great work are attractive."—Daily Telegraph, April 15, 1896.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THIRD EDITION, REVISED.

BEETHOVEN
AND HIS NINE SYMPHONIES
BY GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

PRICE, CLOTH, GILT, SIX SHILLINGS.

"I recognise it, without the smallest hesitation, as one of the most important and valuable among recent contributions to musical literature. . . . The best informed of professional musicians may learn a great deal about the master-works of Beethoven from Sir George Grove, whose wide reading and acute perceptiveness have enabled him to marshal an astonishing array of facts, and whose intimate acquaintance with the spirit of the master has qualified him to throw light upon pages which, to many, are still obscure. . . . I must be satisfied with the remarks already made, earnestly recommending all who recognise Beethoven's greatness as shown in his immortal Symphonies to obtain Sir George Grove's volume, and walk in the luminous paths through which he is ready to conduct all who trust his guidance."—Daily Telegraph.

 The whole of Beethoven's Symphonies are being performed at the Queen's Hall Promenade Concerts (Conductor, Mr. Henry J. Wood) on successive Fridays, commencing August 31.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE RECITAL SERIES
OF
Transcriptions for the Organ
BY
EDWIN H. LEMARE.

WEBER, C. M. VON.—1. Overture to "Euryanthe." 2s.
HOFMANN, H.—2. Lied and Barcarolle. 1s.
—— 3. In the Arbour. 1s.
—— 4. Serenade. 1s.
MENDELSSOHN.—5. Overture, "Ruy Blas." 2s.
RACHMANINOFF, S.—6. Melodie in E. 1s. 6d.
ELGAR, EDWARD—7. Triumphal March ("Caractacus"). 2s.
TSCHAÏKOWSKY.—8. Chant sans Paroles. (Op. 2, No. 3.) 1s.
—— 9. Romance in F minor. (Op. 5.) 1s.
BEETHOVEN.—10. Overture to "Prometheus." 2s.
HOFMANN, H.—11. The Trumpeter's Greeting ("The Trumpeter of Säkkingen"). (Op. 50, No. 1.) 1s. 6d.
—— 12. Duet. ("The Trumpeter of Säkkingen.") (Op. 50, No. 3.) 1s. 6d.
—— 13. Farewell. ("The Trumpeter of Säkkingen.") (Op. 50, No. 4.) 1s.
—— 14. In Rome. ("The Trumpeter of Säkkingen.") (Op. 50, No. 5.) 1s. 6d.
—— 15. Wedding March. ("The Trumpeter of Säkkingen.") (Op. 50, No. 6.) 1s. 6d.
BEETHOVEN.—16. Overture to "Coriolan." 2s. 6d.
MOZART.—17. Overture to "Don Giovanni." 2s. 6d.
FLOTOW.—18. Overture to "Stradella." 2s. 6d.
TSCHAÏKOWSKY.—19. Chanson Triste. 1s.
SULLIVAN, A. S.—20. Overture in C ("In Memoriam"). 3s. Just Published.

To be continued.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

RECITAL SERIES
OF
Original Organ Compositions
COLLECTED AND EDITED BY
EDWIN H. LEMARE.

Nos. 1 to 6 and 7 to 12, in Two Vols. Each 12s. Or, separately:—

WEBBER, AMHURST.—1. Scherzo Sinfonico. 2s.
WOLSTENHOLME, W.—2. Canzona, Minuet, and Trio. 2s. 6d.
CAPOCCI, FILIPO.—3. Toccata in E flat major. 2s. 6d.
LEMARE, E. H.—4. Romance in D flat. 2s.
D'EVRY, E.—5. Concert-Overture in F. 2s. 6d.
BOSSI, M. E.—6. Second Sonata (Op. 71). 3s.
HOLLINS, ALFRED.—7. Andante in D. 2s.
—— 8. Grand Chœur. 2s. 6d.
WOLSTENHOLME, W.—9. Andantino and Finale in B flat. 2s. 6d.
WHEELDON, H. A.—10. (a) Cantilène; (b) Grand Chœur. 2s. 6d.
LEMARE, E. H.—11. Allegretto in B minor. 2s.
—— 12. Marche Solennelle. 2s. 6d.
D'EVRY, E.—13. (a) Meditation; (b) Toccata. 2s. 6d.
WOLSTENHOLME, W.—14. (a) The Seraph's Strain; (b) Le Carillon. 2s.
HOLLINS, ALFRED.—15. Concert-Overture in C minor. 2s.
WHEELDON, H. A.—16. Romance. 2s.
WOLSTENHOLME, W.—17. (a) Romanza; (b) Allegretto. 2s.
HOLLINS, ALFRED.—18. Concert Rondo. 2s. 6d. Just Published.

To be continued.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

EDWARD GERMAN'S THREE NEW DANCES, "NELL GWYN"

NOW READY.

PIANO SOLO .. .. 2s. od. net.

In the Press: Piano and Violin, 3s. net; Piano Duet, 3s. net; Full Score, Orchestral Parts, &c.

NEW CONCERT EDITION

OF

GOUNOD'S FAUST

With English and French Words, and containing the BALLET MUSIC.

Vocal Score (Paper) .. .. 3s. 6d. net.
Cloth, gilt .. .. .. 5s. od. ,,
Piano Solo (New Edition) .. 3s. od. ,,

Chorus Parts, Old Notation (in Score form), and Tonic Sol-fa can also be Hired from the Publishers.

For permission to perform this work, apply to Chappell and Co., Ltd.

BERLIOZ'S FAUST.

Paper .. .. 3s. 6d. net.
Cloth .. .. 5s. od. ,,
Sol-fa .. .. 2s. 6d. ,,

Chorus and Orchestral Parts may be Hired from the Publishers.

BEHNKE'S VOICE-TRAINING EXERCISES.

Paper .. .. 1s. 6d. net.
Cloth .. .. 3s. od. ,,

BEHNKE'S VOICE-TRAINING STUDIES.

Paper .. .. 1s. 6d. net.
Cloth .. .. 3s. od. ,,

NEW EDITION.

SULLIVAN'S MARTYR OF ANTIOCH

Paper .. .. 3s. 6d. net.
Cloth, gilt .. .. .. 5s. od. ,,
FULL ORCHESTRAL SCORE, £3 3s. net.

Chorus Parts, Old Notation (in Score form), and Tonic Sol-fa and Orchestral Parts may be Hired from the Publishers.

JACKDAW OF RHEIMS

COMIC CANTATA

BY

THOS. INGOLDSBY

AND

GEO. FOX.

Paper .. .. 2s. 6d. net.
,, (Sol-fa) .. .. .. 1s. 6d. ,,
Harmonium Part.. .. .. 1s. od. ,, Chorus Parts .. .. .. 6d. ,,
Orchestral Parts may be Hired from the Publishers.

BEHNKE'S VOICE-TRAINING PRIMER.

Paper .. .. 2s. net.
Cloth .. .. 3s. ,,

SANTLEY'S SINGING-MASTER.

Parts I. and II.

Each .. .. 4s. net.

UP TO DATE

OR,

THE CHILDREN OF THE 19TH CENTUREE

A CANTATA FOR CHILDREN

By W. H. SONLEY JOHNSON and REGINALD M. ATKINS.

Paper .. .. 1s. 6d. net.
,, (Sol-fa) .. .. 6d. ,,

CHAPPELL & CO., Ltd., 50, New Bond St., London.

Printed by Novello and Company, Ltd., at the Novello Works, Soho, and published at 1, Berners St. (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen St. (E.C.).
Sold also by Simpkin, Marshall, Hamilton, Kent and Co., Ltd., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Monday, October 1, 1900.

THE

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC

TENTERDEN STREET, HANOVER SQUARE.

INSTITUTED, 1822. INCORPORATED BY ROYAL CHARTER, 1830.

PATRONS:

HER MOST GRACIOUS MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES AND OTHER MEMBERS OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

PRINCIPAL—SIR ALEXANDER CAMPBELL MACKENZIE, Mus.D., F.R.A.M.

THE ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC offers to students of both sexes (whether amateur or professional) a thorough training in a l branches of music under the most able and distinguished Professors. In addition to receiving individual lessons in the various branches of the Curriculum, students have the advantage of attending the Orchestral, Choral, and Chamber Music Classes, and the weekly Lectures on music and musicians. Evidence of their progress is given at the Fortnightly and Public Concerts and by periodical Operatic and Dramatic Performances.

There are three Terms in the Academic year—viz., the Michaelmas Term, from Michaelmas to Christmas; the Lent Term, from early in January to Easter; and the Midsummer Term, from early in May until the end of July.

The Fee for the ordinary curriculum is 11 Guineas per Term.

A large number of Scholarships and Prizes are founded and are competed for periodically.

Students who show special merit and ability receive the distinction of being elected by the Directors Associates of the Institution, and are thereby entitled to the use after their names of the initials A.R.A.M. Students who distinguish themselves in the musical profession after quitting the Institution may be elected by the Directors Fellows of the Royal Academy of Music, and are thereupon entitled to the use after their names of the initials F.R.A.M.

Subscribers have the privilege of attending the Lectures and Public Concerts an of introducing friends in proportion to the amount of their subscriptions.

An examination of persons trained independently of the Academy is held twice a year—viz., during the Summer and Christmas vacations—successful candidates at which are elected Licentiates of the Academy, and are thereupon entitled to the use after their names of the initials L.R.A.M.

Prospectus, entry form, and all further information may be obtained on application.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD

OF THE

ROYAL ACADEMY of MUSIC & ROYAL COLLEGE of MUSIC

FOR

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

PRESIDENT:
H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

ASSOCIATED BOARD

THOMAS THRELFALL, Esq. (R.A.M.), Chairman.
HON. G. W. SPENCER LYTTELTON, C.B. (R.C.M.), Deputy-Chairman.
SIR ALEXANDER C. MACKENZIE, Mus. Doc., St. And., Cantab. et Edin., Principal of R.A.M.
SIR C. HUBERT H. PARRY, M.A., Mus. Doc., Cantab., Oxon., et Dubl., D.C.L., Director of R.C.M.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.
OSCAR BERINGER, Esq.
PROFESSOR JAMES DEWAR, F.R.S., &c.
WALTER MACFARREN, Esq.
EDMUND MACRORY, Esq., Q.C.
CAVE. ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.
SIR WALTER PARRATT, Mus. Doc., Oxon.
PROFESSOR C. VILLIERS STANFORD, D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc., Cantab. et Oxon.
SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN, Mus.D. Cantab. et Oxon.
FRANKLIN TAYLOR, Esq.

Honorary Treasurer: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq., M.P
Auditor: LESLEY C. PROBYN, Esq.
Secretary: JAMES MUIR, Esq.
Bankers: BANK OF ENGLAND, Western Branch, Burlington Gardens, London, W.

THE Board holds Examinations throughout the United Kingdom and in the Colonies in both Theoretical and Practical Music. The Examinations are of two kinds, "Local Centre" and "School." The Local Centre Examinations are carried out by two Examiners chosen almost exclusively from the Staffs of the Royal Academy of Music and of the Royal College of Music. The School Examinations are conducted by one Examiner.

The Subjects for Examination are comprised in the following list:—

ELEMENTS OF MUSIC.	PIANOFORTE.	DOUBLE BASS.
HARMONY AND GRAMMAR OF MUSIC.	ORGAN.	HARP.
COUNTERPOINT.	VIOLIN.	WIND INSTRUMENTS.
	VIOLA.	SINGING.
	VIOLONCELLO.

The Local Centre Examinations are held Annually, in March and April. Full particulars will be found in Syllabus A, which will be sent on application to the Secretary.

The School Examinations are held at three periods: (a) March—April, (b) June—July, (c) October—November. Candidates for these Examinations may be entered either by Heads of Schools or by individual Teachers. In the latter case, neither the Teacher nor the Candidate need necessarily be connected with a School. Full particulars of these Examinations, and also of the General School Examination and Class Singing Examination, will be found in Syllabus B, which will be sent on application to the Secretary.

Entries for the Oct.—Nov. period will be received not later than Oct. 13.

The Board gives annually six Exhibitions tenable for two years. These Exhibitions are limited to candidates under 20 years of age who fulfil certain conditions set forth in each Syllabus.

The attention of Teachers and Candidates is specially drawn to the important new regulations contained in Syllabus A and B for 1901, which are now ready.

TELEGRAPHIC ADDRESS:—"ASSOCIA, LONDON."

CENTRAL OFFICE: 32 MADDOX STREET, LONDON, W.

Printed by Novello and Company, Ltd., at the Novello Works, Soho, and published at 1, Berners St. (W.), and 80 and 81, Queen St. (E.C.). Sold also by Simpkin, Marshall, Hamilton, Kent and Co., Ltd., Paternoster Row (E.C.).—Monday, October 1, 1900.

No. 693

THE MUSICAL TIMES

Price 4d.

NOVEMBER 1, 1900

SOME OF THE GREATEST ENGLISH MUSICIANS HAVE TESTIFIED TO THE MERITS OF
THE "CHALLEN" PIANOS

Mr. FREDERIC H. COWEN
(Conductor of the London Philharmonic Society) writes—

"I have inspected the Pianofortes of Messrs. CHALLEN & SON, and have much pleasure in giving my unqualified approval of them. I consider that for purity of tone, touch, and good workmanship they will favourably compete with Pianos made by any other English firm, and superior to most of those of foreign manufacture.

(Signed) "FREDERIC H. COWEN."

CHALLEN & SON, 46, Oxford Street, London, W.
ESTABLISHED IN THE REIGN OF GEORGE III.

THE GENUINE
SCHIEDMAYER PIANOS

(Trade Mark:—SCHIEDMAYER PIANOFORTE FABRIK.)
(Formerly:—J. and P. SCHIEDMAYER.)

DR. HANS RICHTER writes on Sept. 21, 1900:—
"We unpacked the Schiedmayer Grand Pianoforte yesterday. I played on it all the evening, and am quite delighted with its perfection and exquisite quality of tone."

THE SCHIEDMAYER PIANOS
HAVE RECEIVED THE HIGHEST POSSIBLE AWARD, VIZ.: THE GRAND PRIX AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION, 1900.

ARCHIBALD RAMSDEN, Ltd.
(SOLE IMPORTER INTO GREAT BRITAIN),
103, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON; 12, PARK ROW, LEEDS.
And also at his Branch Establishments at SCARBORO', DARLINGTON, MIDDLESBRO', JARROW, BLYTHE, GATESHEAD, BISHOP AUCKLAND, CONSETT, WEST HARTLEPOOL, MORECAMBE, NEWARK, DONCASTER, HULL, & YORK.

These Instruments may be had from the Principal Dealers throughout the Kingdom.

PLEYEL PIANOFORTES.

Messrs. PLEYEL, WOLFF & CO.

desire to draw particular attention to the

NEW MODEL BIJOU GRAND

which, while possessing the power and sonority of a Concert Grand, is manufactured expressly to go in the SMALLEST FLAT and at about the price of a good upright instrument.

79 & 80, BAKER STREET, & 51, GEORGE STREET, PORTMAN SQ., W.

ESTEY ORGANS.

OVER 317,000 SOLD

Unrivalled in Tone and Quality, Beautiful in Model and Finish.

LARGEST ORGAN MANUFACTURERS IN THE WORLD.

WHOLESALE WAREHOUSE:

12, RATHBONE PLACE, OXFORD ST., W.

Paterson, Sons & Co., Sole Agents for Scotland. Thompson & Shackell, Ltd., Sole Agents for South Wales.

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE POST-FREE.

CHAPPELL PIANOS.

AMERICAN ORGANS (by Clough & Warren) from 6 Guineas.
HARMONIUMS (by Alexandre) . . . from 7 Guineas.

Their latest creations of high-class English Pianos are unquestionably the finest that have ever been produced either by an English or Continental maker. Pianinos, 25 Guineas; Full Cottages, 40 Guineas; Upright Grands, 50 Guineas; Horizontal Grands, 135 Guineas. Hire or Instalment system. Illustrated List Post-free. Established 1808.

CHAPPELL & CO., Ltd. { Pianoforte Manufacturers, } 50, New Bond St., London, W.

THE VIRGIL CLAVIER.

"The most useful and complete ally of the Piano in existence."

RECOMMENDED BY PADEREWSKI
ROSENTHAL
de PACHMANN JOSEFFY
von BÜLOW
AND
Hundreds of Pianoforte Artists and Teachers.

Send for Circular.

CLAVIER HALL, 12, Princes Street, Hanover Square, London, W. The Virgil Practice Clavier (British) Co., Ltd.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 693.—Vol. 41. NOVEMBER 1, 1900. Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.

Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

Conductor: Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus.D.

THURSDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 8, AT 8.

MENDELSSOHN'S "ELIJAH"

Artists:

Miss ELLA RUSSELL.
Miss MAGGIE PURVIS.
Miss CLARA BUTT.
Miss EDNA THORNTON,
Mr. LLOYD CHANDOS.
Mr. WILLIAM FELL.
Mr. ANDREW BLACK.
Mr. BERTRAM MILLS.

BAND AND CHORUS, ONE THOUSAND.

Organist: Mr. H. L. BALFOUR.

Prices: Stalls, 7s. 6d.; Arena, 6s.; Balcony (Reserved), 5s.; (Unreserved), 4s.; Gallery (Promenade), 1s.

Eight Concerts will be given during the season, seven being Subscription. Prices for the Subscription Series of seven Concerts: Stalls, £2 2s.; Arena, £1 15s.; Balcony (Reserved), £1 8s.

Subscribers' names can now be received, seats secured, and prospectuses obtained at the Royal Albert Hall and the usual Agents.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.

Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus. Doc.

Michaelmas Half-Term begins Monday, November 5. Entrance Examination, Thursday, November 1, at 3.

Lectures by E. F. Jacques, Esq., on "The Æsthetics of Music," Wednesdays, November 7, 14, and 21, at 3.15.

Lectures by J. A. Fuller Maitland, Esq., on "The Development of Pianoforte Technique in the XIX. Century," Wednesdays, November 28, December 5 and 12, at 3.15.

Chamber Concert, at St. James's Hall, Monday, November 19, at 3.

Prospectus, Entry Forms, and all information may be obtained from the Secretary.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The Christmas F.R.C.O. Examination commences on January 7, 1901. The solo-playing tests are: Con Moto in B flat, H. Smart, No. 1 of Five Organ Pieces in various styles (Ashdown). Fantasie and Fugue, No. 3, in D minor, J. Schneider (Breitkopf and Härtel, Novello and Co., Augener and Co.). Sonata for the Organ, No. 4, Op. 31, A. G. Ritter (Novello and Co; Augener and Co.).

The A.R.C.O. Examination commences on January 14.

The College Library is open daily from 10 to 5. On Saturdays the College is open from 10 to 1.

Members desiring practice on the College organ may obtain particulars on application.

The large Hall, and sundry smaller rooms, can be hired for Concerts, Meetings, &c.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.—Established by the Corporation of London, 1880—Principal: WILLIAM H. CUMMINGS, Esq., Mus.D., Dub., F.S.A. Lessons daily, from 8.30 a.m. to 8.30 p.m., in every branch of Vocal and Instrumental Music. Students trained for Opera and Drama in the new Theatre. Particulars on application.

By order of the Committee, HILTON CARTER, Secretary.

Victoria Embankment, E.C. (near Blackfriars Bridge).

HOLY TRINITY, Sloane Square.—MR. WALTER ALCOCK will resume his ORGAN RECITALS in the above Church on Saturdays, at 4 o'clock, commencing November 3.

MR. ROBERT

NEWMAN'S CONCERTS,

1900-1901,

QUEEN'S HALL,

LANGHAM PLACE, W.

ROBERT NEWMAN'S

QUEEN'S HALL ORCHESTRA.

CONDUCTOR:

MR. HENRY J. WOOD.

PRINCIPAL VIOLIN .. .. MR. ARTHUR W. PAYNE.
ACCOMPANIST .. .. MR. PERCY PITT.

PROMENADE CONCERTS

EVERY EVENING AT EIGHT

TILL NOVEMBER 10.

SYMPHONY CONCERTS.

QUEEN'S HALL.

1900—Nov. 10, 24; Dec. 8, at 3 p.m.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

1900—Nov. 3, at 3.30 p.m.

QUEEN'S HALL.

1901—Jan. 26; Feb. 9; March 2, 16, at 3 p.m.

THE SUNDAY CONCERT SOCIETY'S SUNDAY AFTERNOON CONCERTS

Every Sunday Afternoon at 3.30.

CHEVALIER'S RECITALS,

Daily at 3; Thursdays and Saturdays, 3 and 8.30.

YSAYE CONCERTS IN NOVEMBER.

November 14, at 8 .. .. Orchestral.
„ 19, at 8 .. .. „
„ 21, at 3 .. .. Violin Recitals.

BUSONI'S PIANOFORTE RECITAL,

November 27, at 3.

ST. ANDREW'S DAY CONCERT,

November 30, at 7.30.

CHRISTMAS DAY CONCERT,

December 25, 1900, at 3.30 p.m.

ASH WEDNESDAY CONCERT,

February 20, 1901, at 3 p.m.

GOOD FRIDAY CONCERTS,

April 5, 1901, at 3 and 7.30 p.m.

LONDON MUSICAL FESTIVAL, 1901,

April 29 to May 4.

Particulars of the above Concerts, when ready, may be obtained at MR. ROBERT NEWMAN'S BOX OFFICE, Queen's Hall, Langham Place, W.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in Durham in March and September.

For particulars, with copies of former Examination Papers, apply to the Secretary of Examinations, or to Dr. Armes, Durham.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

(Under the direction of The Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)

INCORPORATED 1891.

Hon. Patron: His Grace the Duke of Argyll.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L. (Principal).
George Prior, Mus. Doc., Oxon., F.R.C.O. (Registrar).
J. M. Bentley, Mus. Doc., Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M.
(Chairman of the Board).

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

Director of Studies: Churchill Sibley, Mus.D.

West-End Premises: 42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W.
First-class instruction in all musical subjects. Moderate terms.
Metropolitan Examination in all subjects, including the Diplomas of A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., and F.V.C.M., commencing December 6, 1900.
Local Theoretical Examinations, December 6, 1900.
Practical Examinations are now being held at the various centres.
Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for competition.
Local Secretaries required for towns not already represented.
All communications to be addressed as usual to the Central Office, 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS,

42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, London, W.

Patron: His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury.
President: The Very Rev. Francis Pigou, D.D., Dean of Bristol.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examination, in November and December, at the following Centres: London, Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Bristol, Leicester, Leeds, Glasgow, and Belfast.
Annual Membership Subscription, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.
The new Calendar is sent (Post-free) for six stamps.
Free register for Organists requiring appointments.
November 8, Annual Service.
For further particulars, apply to
Dr. LEWIS, Silvermead, Twickenham, S.W.

MUSICAL INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE,

Limited.

Principal: Edwin M. Lott, Mus. Doc.
Founded 1878. Incorporated 1893.
Central Office: 113, Great Portland Street, W.
Local Theoretical Examination, November 20, 1900.
Practical Examinations throughout the kingdom.

W. A. PHILPOTT, Mus. Doc., Secretary.

NATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC, Ltd.

Warden: Dr. Tindall, A.T.C.L.
Local Exams. and Teachers' Certificates (all Centres), December.
Diplomas (F.N.C.M., L.N.C.M., A.N.C.M.). Frequent Exams.
Special Exam. in London, Jan., 1901.
London Teachers, having Candidates, apply soon.
Members wanted, taking half-fees.

W. J. MOSS, Sec., 192, Sutherland Avenue, W.

By Permission of the Right Worshipful the Vice-Chancellor.

NEW THEATRE, CAMBRIDGE, Ltd.

Managing Director—W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.

THE AGAMEMNON OF ÆSCHYLUS

Will be acted in the Original Greek
BY MEMBERS OF THE UNIVERSITY

On Friday, 16th November, at 8.30 p.m.; Saturday, 17th November, at 2.30 p.m.; Saturday, 17th November, at 8.30 p.m.; Monday, 19th November, at 8.30 p.m.; Tuesday, 20th November, at 8.30 p.m.; Wednesday, 21st November, at 8.30 p.m.

The incidental music has been written by Sir Hubert Parry.

Prices of Admission:—Numbered and Reserved—Stalls, 7s. 6d.; Circle, 7s. 6d. and 5s. Private Box (to hold 5 persons), £2. Unreserved—Stalls, 3s.; Pit, 2s.; Amphitheatre, 2s.; Gallery, 2s.

Seats may be booked at the Box Office of the New Theatre, Cambridge, on and after Thursday, 1st November.

Letters and telegrams (which must be accompanied by cheque or postal order) should be addressed "Secretary of the Agamemnon Committee, Box Office, New Theatre, Cambridge."

WANTED, JAMES COWARD'S GLEES, two volumes. Also any old collections of Glees or Madrigals. Particulars to Mr. E. Branscombe, The Elms, Acton Hill, W.

MESSRS. AMBROSE ABBOTT & CO. beg to announce CHANGE of ADDRESS to 16, Hanway Street, London, W. (Close to corner of Oxford Street and Tottenham Court Road.)

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS ETHEL BARNARD (Soprano)
(R.A.M. Cert. and Prize-winner). Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
German Songs a specialty. Lessons given.
25, Upper Richmond Road, East Putney, S.W.

MADAME CONWAY (Soprano)
And Teacher of Singing.
444, Moss Lane East, Oxford Road, Manchester.

For recent Press Opinions see this column, M.T. for Oct.
MISS CHARLOTTE DICKENS (Soprano)
(Medalist, R.A.M., Med. Soc. Arts.) Concerts, Oratorio, Opera, &c.
Grove House, Prince of Wales Road, Battersea Park, S.W.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
"Messiah."—"Her voice is perfect."—Belfast News Letter.
"Martyr of Antioch."—"A very charming Margarita."—Norwich Press.
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 237, Katherine St., Ashton-under-Lyne.

MISS AMY FLETCHER (Soprano)
Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c.
45, Aberdeen Road, Highbury Grange, N.

MADAME GOODALL (Soprano)
Oratorios and Concerts.
Burley Road, Leeds.

MISS CORDELIA GRYLLS (Soprano)
"Delightful soprano voice . . . recalling that of Madame Melba."—Referee. 10, Swiss Terrace, N.W.

MISS AMY HARDING (Soprano)
(Of Crystal Palace, St. James's Hall, &c., Concerts).
Recommended by Sir George Grove, W. H. Cummings, Esq., &c.
For critiques, &c., address, 14, Palace Road, Norwood, S.E.

MADAME ANNIE HAYMAN (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Thorncliffe, Lowfield Road, Stockport.

MISS EDITH C. PATCHING (Soprano)
(Bronze and Silver Medals and Certificate of Merit, R.A.M.)
8, Dorset Square, N.W.

MISS LILIAN TURNBULL (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, At Homes, Banquets, &c.
Address, 10, Cecile Park, Crouch End, N.

MISS AGNES WALKER (Soprano)
147, Brockley Road, Brockley, S.E.

MISS KATE WELCH (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c.
Address, 4, Halliwell Street, Cheetham, Manchester.

MISS CONSTANCE YORKE (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Ballads, At Homes, &c.
For terms, apply, Sunnyside, Sycamore Rd., Smethwick, Birmingham.

MISS MARIE BISHOP (Contralto)
"Messiah."—"Whose voice is of an exquisitely rich quality and exceedingly powerful, gave splendid renderings of her solos, especially the beautiful and touching air, 'He was despised,' which was given with most sympathetic feeling."—Belfast News-Letter.
"Samson."—"An eminent and able soloist, performing up to the high standard expected, was a treat and success."—Galashiels Border Advertiser.
For Oratorios, Concerts, 31, Gt. Western St., Manchester; or, Forsyth's.

MISS BERYL CLIVE (Contralto)
Engaged Oct. 22, Highbury; 23, Kentish Town. Has few dates vacant for November and December.
Address, 14, Gladsmuir Road, Whitehall Park, N.

MISS LILIAN CLOSE (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
9, Hetley Road, Shepherd's Bush, W.

MADAME FLORENCE CROFT (Contralto)
MR. D'ARCY CLAYTON (Tenor)
Suffolk Villa, 142, Junction Road, N.

MADAME ANNIE GREW (Contralto)
(Medalist). For terms, apply, Waverley Road, Horton, Bradford; or, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London.

MISS LUCIE JOHNSTONE (Contralto)
13, Cromwell Grove, West Kensington Park, W.; or, the principal Agents.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY, I.S.M. (Contralto)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c.
Address, Miss Sweeney, Vocalist, Armley, Leeds.

MISS ALICE WOLSTENHOLME (Contralto)
Address, Radcliffe, Manchester.

MR. WALTER LE NEAVE
(Solo Alto, St. Paul's Church, Avenue Road, N.W.)
For Church Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, 61, Gayton Road, Hampstead, N.W.

MR. FOLEY BANKS, A.L.A.M. (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
44, St. George's Road, Forest Gate, E.

MR. WRIGHT BEAUMONT (Tenor).
"Mr. Beaumont is a tenor of decided promise."—Daily Telegraph.
"Mr. Beaumont is a most artistic singer."—Morning Leader.
"Mr. Beaumont is a tenor of great promise."—Musical Courier.
"Mr. Beaumont is the possessor of a fine voice."—Musical News.
"Mr. Wright Beaumont's splendid tenor voice was heard to the best possible advantage in the choicest of ballads."—The Era.
Address, 1, Dorothy Road, Lavender Hill, S.W.

MR. J. G. BLANCHARD
(Principal Tenor, Italian Church, Hatton Garden).
"Hiawatha."—"The solo, sung with good effect by Mr. J. G. Blanchard."—Daily Telegraph.
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 41, Savernake Road, N.W.

MR. WALTER DRIVER
(Pupil of William Shakespeare, Esq., London).
Principal Tenor, King's College Chapel, Cambridge.
For Concerts, &c.

MR. CHARLES ELLISON (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Concerts, Lessons. Can provide party.
42, Florence Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR. WILLS PAGE (Tenor)
Extensive répertoire—Oratorios, Ballads, &c.
Address, early, 24, Shardeloes Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS (Tenor)
(Of the Queen's Hall Choral Society Concerts).
Winner of Joseph Maas Memorial Prize, Goldberg Prize, Evill Prize, and Rutson Prize, at the Royal Academy of Music.
Of the Crystal Palace and St. James's Hall Concerts.
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts.
24, Lavender Gardens, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. BURFORD THORP (Tenor)
(Strong voice and exceptional compass).
Open for Concerts and Oratorios. Will accept a post as Soloist in good choir. Address, 13, Greville Road, Kilburn.

MR. H. WADSWORTH (Tenor)
(Two years at Milan. Great success.)
English, Italian, French. Equal quality of voice—not throaty.
Perfect enunciation. Satisfaction given or no fee accepted.
St. Ives, Huntingdon.

MR. EDWIN J. WILKINS (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c.
Whittier House, 136, Browning Road, Little Ilford, E.

HERBERT BROWN (Baritone)
Gold and Silver Medalist.
"28, Carlton Hill, N.W.,
"London, Feb., 1900.
"I am happy to say that I had an opportunity of hearing Mr. Herbert Brown sing the bass solos from my 'Ancient Mariner,' and was greatly struck by the beauty of tone and effective character of his voice, as well as his excellent style of singing. I feel sure that a most successful career is before him.
"John Francis Barnett."
For terms, apply, Oakworth, Keighley.

MR. GORDON HELLER (Baritone)
(A.R.C.M., Solo Singing and Teaching Singing).
For Concerts, &c. Address, 1, Craven Mansion, Lancaster Gate, W.

MR. CHARLES J. PHELPS (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
22, Nottingham Street, Nottingham Place, W.

MR. GEORGE UTTLEY (Baritone)
(Professional Pupil of Mr. Santley for over two years.)
"Mr. Santley . . . sent an excellent substitute in his pupil, Mr. George Uttley."—Yorkshire Post, Feb. 7, 1900.
Hampden House, Phœnix Street, N.W.

MR. EATON COOTER, A.R.C.M. (Bass)
St. George's Chapel Royal and Her Majesty's Private Chapel, Windsor Castle. Address, The Cloisters, Windsor.

MR. BERNARD FOUNTAIN (Bass)
(Pupil of Mr. Egbert Roberts).
Oratorios, Cantatas, Ballads, &c. For terms and dates, apply, Mentmore, Southwold Road, Upper Clapton, N.

MR. ARTHUR BASSON (Violinist)
For Concerts, &c., Solo or Orchestral; also Lessons.
Address, 35, Swaffield Road, Wandsworth, S.W.

MISS MARIAN JAY (Solo Violinist)
(Sauret Prize-winner, Bronze and Silver Medals, Certificate, R.A.M.).
Concerts, At Homes, Lessons.
26, Wigmore Street, W., and 5, Hollywood Road, South Kensington.

MISS FLORENCE J. PEGLAR (Violinist)
At Homes, Concerts, Lessons, &c.
41, Manor Road, Brockley, S.E.

MISS TONIE ZEIDLER (Solo Violinist)
(Medalist, Society of Arts).
Concerts, At Homes, &c. 50, Bridge Road, Hammersmith.

MR. JAS. RICHARDSON (Violoncellist)
Booking Engagements for Solos, Orchestral and Chamber Concerts.
56, Barton Street, Moss Side, Manchester.

MADAME CLARA NEIMAN, R.A.M.
(Pianist-pupil of Walter Macfarren).
Concerts, At Homes, Pupils, &c. Highest testimonials. 3, Tolmer Square, N.W.

MISS BLANCHE SHERRARD, L.R.A.M.
(R.A.M. Bronze and Silver Medals and Certificate).
Pianist and Accompanist for Concerts and At Homes, and lessons given.
For terms apply to Canbury Lodge, Kingston-on-Thames.

MISS ELSIE WILD (Flautist)
For Concerts, At Homes, &c. Solo or Orchestra.
For terms, address, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.; or, 204, Peckham Rye, S.E.

MR. AUGUSTUS TOOP
Director of the Music, St. Peter's Church, Vere Street, W.
Teacher of the Organ, Pianoforte, and Singing.
Accompanist (including Masonic work), Conductor, and Composer.
18, Berners Street, W.

MR. J. S. BINNIE (Lyric Author)
60, Cadder Street, Pollokshields, Glasgow.

BEATRICE E. KENT (Lyric Authoress)
Apply, 155, Rye Lane, Peckham, S.E.

MR. EDMUND ROGERS
Revises Musical Compositions. 45, Alma Square, N.W.

MR. WILLIAM WILD (Tenor), of the Sir Charles and Lady Hallé South African Concert tour, 1895 (pupil of Andrew Black, Esq.). Specially recommended by the late Sir Charles Hallé. Numerous re-engagements. Success everywhere. Address, Grosvenor Square, Stalybridge.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass). Oratorios, Concerts. Can provide Quartet. Lessons given. 45, Pentonville Road, London, N.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.
MISS
FANNY DE BOUFFLERS
(SOPRANO)
Of the Queen's Hall, St. James's Hall, Royal Albert Hall, and Crystal Palace "Classical" Concerts.
For Oratorio, Operatic, and Ballad Concerts, &c.
Address, 8, Southampton Street, Bloomsbury Square, London, W.C.; or, "The Round House," Vale Park, Liscard, Liverpool.

MISS LOUISE BURNS
(SOPRANO). Oratorios, &c.
Now booking for Winter Season.
Erin, Riffel Road, Willesden Green, N.W.

MISS EMILY DAVIES
(SOPRANO).
Oratorios, Operatic and Ballad Concerts, Banquets, At Homes.
Address, Severn House, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS HONEYBONE
(SOPRANO).
"Miss Honeybone is an artist who possesses a voice of exceptional range. Her rendering of song, 'O divine Redeemer' (Gounod), was a most artistic effort."—Ashton-under-Lyne, Oct., 1899.
41, Hampden Street, Nottingham.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.
MISS HELEN JAXON
4, Ashworth Mansions, Elgin Avenue, W.

MISS MAGGIE JAQUES
(SOPRANO)
Engagements booked:—Oct. 15, Heanor, Ballads; 16, Huddersfield Glee and Madrigal Society, Ballads; 20, Buxton, Ballads; 21, Hurst, Ballads; 28, Crewe, Ballads; 29, Oldham, Ballads; 30, Ilkley, Ballads; 31, Liverpool, Ballads; Nov. 1, Tunstall, Ballads; 3, Liverpool, Ballads; 4, Loughborough, Ballads; 6, Ashton-under-Lyne, "Swan and Skylark"; 13, Rochdale, Ballads; 14, Middlesbro, Ballads; 21, Luton, "Golden Legend"; 27, Brighouse, "Messiah"; Dec. 1, Manchester, Ballads; 4, Batley, "Swan and Skylark" and "Hymn of Praise"; 18, Sheffield, "St. Paul"; 25, Chesterfield, "Messiah" January 1, 1901, Workington, "Messiah"; Feb. 13, Leeds Choral Union, Dvorák's "Stabat Mater"; March 13, Cleckheaton, "St. Paul"; 21, Birmingham Festival Choral Society, Schumann's "Paradise and Peri"; 29, Aberdeen Choral Union, "St. Paul."
Terms, &c., 14, SPRING GARDENS,
BUXTON, DERBYSHIRE.

MADAME
CLARA LEIGHTON
(SOPRANO)
MR. WILLIAM DAVIES
(TENOR), St. Paul's Cathedral.
For terms, vacant dates, &c., address, 24, Canonbury Park, North, N.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

MISS WINIFRED MARWOOD
(Mrs. Montague Borwell—SOPRANO)
AND
MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL
(BARITONE)
Beg to announce their Change of Address to—56, Forburg Road, Stoke Newington, N.

MISS
KATHERINE NASH, G.S.M.
(SOPRANO).
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
"An excellent soprano vocalist. Has always given thorough satisfaction at the many engagements I have given her as a solo singer."—William H. Cummings, Esq.
Address, 9, Ruskin Road, Tottenham, N.

MADAME
ANNIE NORLEDGE
(SOPRANO)
23, Millgate, Newark-on-Trent.

MISS
BEATRICE PALLISTER
The new Yorkshire Soprano. Broxholme Lane, Doncaster.

MISS AMY SARGENT
A.R.A.M. (SOPRANO),
140, Marylebone Road, N.W.

MISS KATIE SMITH
(SOP.). Royal Albert Hall, Crystal Palace, & Queen's Hall Concerts.
Address, 108, Oxford and Cambridge Mansions, Hyde Park, W.

MRS. TILTMAN
(SOPRANO)
(Silver Medal and Certificate, Royal Academy of Music).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, Royal Academy of Music, Hanover Square, W.

MISS NELLIE WILLIS
(SOPRANO).
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Bentley Road, Doncaster.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

MADAME MARIE HOOTON
AND MR.
EDWARD BRANSCOMBE
Beg to announce their Change of Address to—
The Elms, Acton Hill, W.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

MADAME ADA KEMPTON
(CONTRALTO)
Medalist, Royal Academy of Music.
For Concerts, &c., in future, please address:—
95, Hamlet Mansions, Ravenscourt Park, W.

MR. HENRY BEAUMONT
(TENOR, I.S.M.) For Oratorio, &c.
Engaged: Sunderland, Newcastle, Darlington, Bishop Auckland, Blyth, Peebles, Galashiels, Bridge of Allan, Crieff, Dundee, Forfar, Inverness, Aberdeen, St. Andrew's, Kirkcaldy, Hartlepool, Stockton-on-Tees, Harrogate, Scarborough; City, Sunday League, London, E., "Golden Legend"; Hebden Bridge Choral, "Faust"; City; Newcastle; Todmorden Choral, "Hiawatha" (entire work); Bristol Festival, "Elijah," "Redemption," "Flying Dutchman," and Miscellaneous; Gloucester Choral, "Hiawatha" (complete); Reading, "Last Judgment" and Stabat Mater"; South London Choral, "Judas"; Portsmouth, "Hiawatha"; Bristol Choral, "Messiah"; Sowerby Bridge Choral, "Maritana"; Leicester Choral, Beethoven's Mass in C and "Engedi"; Finsbury Choral, "Faust"; Cardiff Festival Choral, "Hora Novissima," &c.

MR. HENRY BEAUMONT
Engaged: Bristol Festival, "Elijah," "Redemption," "Flying Dutchman," and Miscellaneous Concert.
For terms and Press notices, 83, Maida Vale, London, W.

MR. SADLEUR BROWNE
(PRINCIPAL TENOR)
St. Saviour's Collegiate Church, Southwark.
On emergency works taken at a few hours' notice.

MR. W. TREVOR EVANS
(TENOR).
Madame ADELINA PATTI states: "I am delighted with Mr. Trevor Evans' voice, which I consider charming, and I am especially pleased with the excellent way in which he sings."
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, 19, Lady Somerset Road, Kentish Town, N.W.

MR. OTTO DENE
(TENOR),
Ullswater Lodge, West Norwood, S.E.

MR. FRED. FALLAS
(TENOR),
Soloist, Scarboro' Musical Festival, 1899.
Permanent address, Horbury, Yorks.

MR. C. W. FREDERICKS
(TENOR VOCALIST)
(Of the Trocadero, Paris; Crystal Palace and St. James's Hall, London; Vicar-Choral of Lichfield Cathedral).

"Mr. Charles Fredericks has sung at my house. I find he possesses a charming tenor voice of good compass and pure quality, which he uses to great advantage, particularly in oratorio music.
"Charles Gounod."

"Crystal Palace Company, London, S.E.
"I was so favourably impressed by your highly artistic rendering of the pieces which you sang at the Concert here recently, that I have placed you on the list of those tenor vocalists whom I consider worthy of an occasional engagement at our very best class of concerts, and I hope that I may soon have a chance to hear you here again.
"August Manns, Musical Director."

"Mr. Fredericks' solos were, recit. and air, 'Deeper and deeper still' and 'Waft her, Angels' ('Jephtha'), 'Comfort ye' and 'Every valley' ('Messiah'). They were beautifully sung, both as regards voice and treatment, and were replete with devotional spirit."—Birmingham and Sutton Times, June 30, 1900.

"Mr. Fredericks was in excellent voice, and interpreted the solos with an artistic feeling and an attention to phrasing, evidencing a vocalist thoroughly experienced in Handelian oratorio."—Sutton Coldfield News, June 30, 1900.

"Messiah."—"Of Mr. C. W. Fredericks, as tenor, we need hardly speak. As on former occasions when he has appeared in Truro, he charmed his auditory by the cultured manner in which he uses a sweet, sympathetic voice. 'Thy rebuke,' 'Behold and see,' were given with a taste and feeling which were irresistible, while his spirited rendering of 'Thou shalt break them' was beyond praise."—Royal Cornwall Gazette, March 30, 1899.

"Mr. Fredericks was in excellent voice, and by his pathetic singing of the Passion music, and his stirring rendering of 'Thou shalt break them,' he gave convincing evidence of the 'all round' character of his abilities as a vocalist."—West Briton, March 30, 1899.

"St. Paul."—"Mr. Fredericks, whose reputation as a tenor had preceded him, at once established himself as a favourite. His performance was simply magnificent."—Newport Advertiser, Dec. 18, 1899.

"Judas Maccabæus."—Mr. Fredericks' recit., 'My arms,' and the air, 'Sound an alarm,' were a revelation to a Wirksworth audience."—High Peak News, March 24, 1900.

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., also "The Midland Concert Party," address, Mr. Fredericks, The Cathedral, Lichfield.

MR.
BEN JOHNSON
(TENOR).
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 64, Clovelly Rd., Ealing, W.; and usual Agents.

MR. BRIGHT JONES
(Principal Tenor, Moody-Manners Opera Company).
Terms, apply, Glenhurst, Bath; or, C. W. Sinkins, 63, Berners St., W.

MR.
JAMES LEYLAND
(TENOR),
106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.

MR. FRANK PEMBERTON
(TENOR).
Oratorios, Concerts, Recitals, &c.
Extensive répertoire.
212, Cornwall Road, London, W.

MR. JOS. REED
(PRINCIPAL TENOR, Trinity College, Cambridge).
On Tour with Mr. and Mrs. Kennerley Rumford (Madame Clara Butt).
Vacant dates in Nov. and Dec.: Nov 6, 28, 30; Dec. 3, 5, 7, 15, 18, 21, 22, 22, 26, 27, 29.
Terms, apply, 31, Chesterton Road, Cambridge.

THURGATE SIMPSON
(TENOR) (Solo Tenor, Manchester Cathedral).
Oratorios, Ballads, &c.
Address, The Cathedral; or, Collyhurst, Manchester.

MR. DAN BILLINGTON

THE CELEBRATED YORKSHIRE BARITONE (Vide Press)
(Soloist of the Leeds Festivals, Sir Chas. Hallé's and the Principal Provincial Concerts).
34, Hanover Square, Leeds.

MR. JOHN BROWNING

(BARITONE),
SOLOIST, LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVAL, 1898
(Principal Bass, Leeds Parish Church, &c.)
Address, Marlboro' Grove, Leeds.

MR. HENRY DOBSON

(Professional Diploma, Incorporated Society of Musicians)
(BARITONE).
Of the London, Provincial, and Scottish Concerts.
For terms and Press notices, address, 24, Station Road, Hucknall Torkard, Nottingham.

MR. DENNIS DREW

(BARITONE).
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes.
Ormefield, Church End, Finchley.

MR. WILLIAM DYOTT

(BARITONE). 1, Myrtle Crescent, Acton, W.

MR.
RANDALL HARGREAVES

(BARITONE). 151, Elgin Crescent, W.

MR. DAVID HUGHES

(BARITONE).

"MESSIAH."—CARDIFF FESTIVAL.—"Mr. David Hughes's delivery of 'Thus saith the Lord' was one of the finest examples of Handelian declamation within my experience. Not only every note, but, what is more important, every word told the story belonging to it. So in other parts of the work this singer had to do."—Daily Telegraph (Mr. Joseph Bennett).

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, 19, Lady Somerset Road, Kentish Town, N.W.

MR. CHARLES KNOWLES

(BARITONE),
Of the Leeds, London, Sheffield, and Chester Musical Festivals,
Queen's Hall Promenade and Symphony Concerts,
Crystal Palace and Principal Provincial Concerts.

CHESTER MUSICAL FESTIVAL, JULY 25, 26, 27, 1900.—"ZION" (Gade).—"The baritone solo was sung by Mr. Charles Knowles with much earnestness and effect."—Daily Telegraph, July 26, 1900.

"In which Mr. Charles Knowles sang the solo part very ably."—The Times, July 31, 1900.

"The solitary solo was powerfully sung by Mr. Charles Knowles."—Yorkshire Post, July 26, 1900.

"It is a somewhat trying solo, but in the hands of Mr. Charles Knowles, who made his first appearance at the Chester Festival, it received artistic treatment, and showed his fine voice off to advantage."—Chester Chronicle, July 28, 1900.

"FAUST" (Berlioz).—"With Mr. Charles Knowles, as an unusually powerful Brander."—The Times, July 31, 1900.

"Mr. Charles Knowles had in Brander a part peculiarly suited to his powers. In the closing cadence of the burlesque Amen Chorus his stentorian voice told against the whole body of men's voices with an effect quite unique."—Yorkshire Post, July 27, 1900.

"TRANSFIGURATION OF CHRIST" (Perosi).—"The soloists, Mr. Green and Mr. Charles Knowles (upon whom the bulk of the work fell), and Mr. Ditchburn, all did justice to their parts."—Manchester Guardian, July 28, 1900.

Now booking season 1900-1901. For terms and vacant dates, apply, 24, Acacia Road, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

"An exceptional Baritone."—Vide the late Madame Patey.
MR.
ALEXANDER MUSGROVE

Of the Covent Garden, Crystal Palace, and principal Concerts.
Address, 70, Berners Street, London, W.

MR. & MRS.
WALLIS A. WALLIS, I.S.M.

(Baritone and Soprano, Elocutionists).
Concerts, Resident and other Pupils. Sharon, Acton, W.

MR. CHARLES TREE

(BASS-BARITONE).
Among this season's engagements are:—
Before Princess Henry—Gounod's "Faust" (Mephisto).
Cardiff Choral Union—Gounod's "Faust" (Mephisto).
Newcastle Choral Union—"Golden Legend" (Lucifer)
(Mr. Edward Lloyd's farewell.)
Edinburgh Choral Union—"Messiah."
Blackburn—"Elijah." Bolton—"Messiah" (twice), &c., &c.
Address, 23, Clifton Road, Maida Vale, W.

MR. J. E. ROBERTS

(BASS-BARITONE).

HAYDN'S MASS, No. 3.—"Mr. Roberts sang the bass part most tastefully. His fine voice was also heard to great advantage in the offertorium, 'Confirma hoc, Deus' (Neukomm)."—Leigh Chronicle.

"STABAT MATER" (Rossini).—"Mr. Roberts sang splendidly throughout, he was recalled for his fine rendering of 'Pro Peccatis.'"—Walkden Observer.

"HOLY CITY" (Gaul).—"Mr. Roberts gave a conscientious rendering of the bass part. He has a well-trained voice, which he uses with artistic restraint."—Jarrow Guardian.

"MESSIAH."—"The bass soli received thorough treatment. Mr. Roberts is certainly an artist, 'Why do the nations' and 'The trumpet shall sound' were rendered magnificently."—Tyldesley Journal.

For Concerts, Oratorios, Recitals, &c., address, Astley, near Manchester; or, care of Sweetman's Agency, 163, Grove St., Liverpool.

MR. ARTHUR SEDGLEY

(PRINCIPAL BASS of the late Arthur Rousbey Opera Company).
For Oratorios, Opera, and Ballad Concerts.
For terms, Press notices, &c., address, 51, Worcester Street, Wolverhampton.

MR. FRED. WILLIAMS

(BASS)
Booked as follows for the Season 1900-1901:—
London, Liverpool, Manchester, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Worcester, Coventry, Bath, Tunbridge Wells, Bournemouth, Bedford, Glasgow, Greenock, Paisley, Dundee, Aberdeen, Perth, Peterhead, Elgin, Kirkcaldy, Brechin, Huntly, Selkirk, Edinburgh, Hawick, Beverley, Whitby, Barnsley, Durham, Ulverston, Bridgnorth, Whitehaven, Workington, Cockermouth, Chelmsford, Sudbury, Bishop Stortford, Stroud, Evesham, Stafford, Aylesbury, Leighton, Hamilton, &c.
Address, Green Bank, Bowness-on-Windermere.

MR. F. G. H. MOORE (A.R.A.M.)

(Walter Macfarren Gold Medalist, R.A.M.).
Solo Pianist and Accompanist, Concerts, At Homes, Lessons.
27, Lady Somerset Road, Highgate, N.W.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY

(VOCALIST AND HARPIST),
Doncaster.

THE MEISTER DUETTISTS

(TENOR AND BARITONE).
For Concerts, Banquets, and At Homes.
Address, 151, Elgin Crescent, London, W.

MISS ALICE MARY SMITH

(Mrs. Alfred Dymes)
Associate of the Royal College of Music,
HARPIST.
Care of Messrs. C. Holdernesse and Co., 105, New Oxford Street, W.C.

SOLO BOYS.

LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS,
POLYTECHNIC, REGENT ST., W.

PRESIDENT, MR. ALBERTO RANDEGGER.
PRINCIPAL, MR. JAMES BATES.

Thoroughly trained, experienced Solo Boys, holding positions as Solo Boys at twenty-four of the principal London Churches, can be strongly recommended for Church Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.

Over 100 excellent Chorus Boys also available for all kinds of concerted music.

A special branch for the preparation of scholars (resident or day) for Cathedral or other Choristerships has now been opened. Full particulars of Mr. Bates, as above; or, 7, Blomfield Crescent, Upper Westbourne Terr., Hyde Pk., W. Telegrams—"Musicomane, London."

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Boys, personally trained and thoroughly reliable, for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms, vacant dates, and further particulars, address, Mr. Henry J. Dutton, 17, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

SOLO BOYS.

MR. W. R. B. TANN begs to announce his CHANGE of ADDRESS to No. 55, Warwick Road, Maida Vale, W., where communications respecting Solo Boys for Church Festivals, Oratorios, Organ Recitals, &c., should in future be addressed. Mr. Tann's Solo and Chorus Boys may be heard by appointment.

THE EUTERPEAN VOCAL QUARTET.

Misses ANNIE SWINFEN, ANNIE WILSON.
Messrs. ALBERT CORNISH, MUSGROVE TUFNAIL.
Musgrove Tufnail, 24, Grove Road, Brixton, S.W.

QUARTET.
MR.
MONTAGUE BORWELL'S
ORATORIO QUARTET are now booking Engagements:—
Miss Winifred Marwood, Sop. | Miss Gertrude Macaulay, Con.
Mr. Henry Turnpenney, Tenor. | Mr. Montague Borwell, Bar.
For terms and vacant dates, 56, Forburg Road, Stoke Newington, N.; or, usual Agents.

THE LONDON ORATORIO QUARTET
Miss LOUISE BURNS. | Mr. D'ARCY CLAYTON.
Miss FLORENCE CROFT. | Mr. SAMUEL HEATH.
Now booking for Winter Season.
Address, Arch. E. Swanson (Manager), 5, East India Avenue, E.C.

"THE LIEDERSINGERS" MALE VOICE QUARTET.
Mr. Walter Le Neave, Alto. | Mr. Frank Buckland, Baritone.
" Percy Turner, Tenor. | " Ernest Sturman, Bass.
For particulars, apply to 4, Alexandra Road, South Hampstead.

HUGO GÖRLITZ,
NINE YEARS PRIVATE SECRETARY TO M. PADEREWSKI and Director of all Paderewski Tours in America, Mexico, Canada, Russia, Holland, and Germany, begs to announce that he has opened
A MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC AGENCY
At 119, New Bond Street, W.
Telephone, 4,013 Gerrard. Telegrams, "Hugonotas, London."

LONDON CONCERT & CHOIR AGENCY.

SOLOISTS and CHORUS VOICES for Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Glee and Madrigal Societies, At Homes, Banquets, &c.
Mr. James Bates, Polytechnic, Regent Street, W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. Eastfield House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., Mus. Bac., Dunelm, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 60, Berners Street, W Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities, Diplomas of L.R.A.M., A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O., and A.R.C.O.; Appointments at College and School of Music, and as English Cathedral and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of six hundred and fifty. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS.
Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus.T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Latest successes, Mus.Bac., Oxford and Durham, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., &c. Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; gives LESSONS, Personally or by Post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM and ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: OXFORD FINAL and FIRST MUS.BAC., May, 1900; MUS.BAC., DURHAM, 1900; A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music and Pianoforte Teaching), 1897, 1898, and 1899; L.R.A.M. (Composition and Pianoforte), 1900, 1899, and previous years; F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1900; CAMBRIDGE, LONDON, DURHAM, and DUBLIN, MUS. BAC. degrees in recent years; L.Mus. and A.Mus., L.C.M.; L.T.C.L. and A.T.C.L., and Special Certificates, 1899 and 1900; Senior Associated Board; Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Upwards of 550 Diplomas and Degrees and several Gold and Silver Medals gained by pupils. MSS. corrected for publication; Analysis of classical works for Examinations. Terms moderate. Address, 70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

PREPARATION by CORRESPONDENCE for ARTS, Preliminary for Durham Musical Degrees. E. J. Lewis, B.A., L.T., Ivy Cottage, Durham.

MR. A. MANGELSDORFF, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., Pianist, Coaches for DIPLOMAS in PIANOFORTE PLAYING and TEACHING. Paper work, postal. Address, Atherstone.

DR. MARCHANT, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O. (Author of "500 Fugue Subjects and Answers," Novello's Primers, No. 35), &c. PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Musical Examinations by Post. 29, Castle Street, Dumfries, N.B.

MR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus.B., desires to state that EIGHTEEN of his Pupils were SUCCESSFUL at the A.R.C.M. EXAM., 1900. Hazelwood, Dollis Road, Finchley, N.

SPECIAL COACHING for DIPLOMAS by Post. A.R.C.M., 1895-1900, FIFTY-SIX passes; L.R.A.M., 1897-1900, NINETEEN passes. Many successes in other Degrees. Lessons in all branches of Theory, Piano, Organ, and Singing. Address, Mr. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, MUS. BAC., F.R.C.O., Hazelwood, Dollis Road, Finchley, N.

MR. ARTHUR POLLITT, Mus.B., Durh., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., prepares CANDIDATES for University and other Examinations BY CORRESPONDENCE. Thorough individual attention. Recent successes. Address, Shaw, Lancs.

MISS POWELL teaches HARMONY, &c., personally or by correspondence. Testimonials. 3, Gledhow Terrace, South Kensington.

DR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, A.R.A.M., F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond., Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., Personally or by Correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and all other Examinations. Classes. 25, Palliser Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. BRUCE STEANE (Composer of "The Ascension," contributor to Novello's Octavo Anthems, &c.) prepares rapidly and systematically for MUSICAL EXAMS. in all subjects, Personally or by Post. MSS. corrected and revised for publication. Address, "Melrose," Eardley Road, Sevenoaks.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, L.Mus.T.C.L., COACHES and PREPARES CANDIDATES for all MUSICAL EXAMS. For terms, &c., address, 58, Comiston Road, Edinburgh.

DR. J. WARRINER can receive professional and, if desired, resident PUPILS for TRAINING and INTRODUCTION. Voice Culture, Keyboard or Theory. Postal or personal courses for all Exams. Favourable terms for real promise. De Crespigny Lodge, Denmark Hill, S.E.

THE VIRGIL CLAVIER PIANOFORTE METHOD.—Mr. STIEBLER COOK, A.R.A.M., gives LESSONS on the above system (recommended by Paderewski, Von Bülow, De Pachmann). The most rapid and certain means for acquiring a perfect technique. 17, Keppell St., Russell Sq., London, W.C.

THE TRAINING of ALTOS.—TUITION by MUNRO DAVISON, L.R.A.M. (Singing), F.R.C.O., L.T.C.L., Professor of Alto Singing, G.S.M. Solo Alto, Temple Church, 142, Stroud Green Road, N.

MR. ALLEN GILL, A.R.A.M., attends at 60, Berners Street, for LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION, SINGING, and for REPERTOIRE. For terms, apply to 21, Cathcart Hill, N.

RESIDENT PUPIL.—MR. HAROLD A. JEBOULT, F.R.C.O., A.R.C.M. (Org. and Ch.M., Parish Church, Taunton), has a VACANCY. Usual musical subjects, and preparation for R.C.O. (recent success). Fine (Willis) Organ and large choir. Cathedral Services, Recitals, &c. Comfortable home. Low fees to a talented youth. No premium required. 1, Belvedere Road, Taunton.

PUPIL REQUIRED, about nineteen years of age. Must be able to play an ordinary Parochial Service (for which a stipend will be given) and to act as ASSISTANT at the Cathedral. Premium or yearly payment required. Address, Dr. Arnold, Cathedral Organist, The Close, Winchester.

THE ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER of an important Abbey Church has VACANCIES for one or two ARTICLED PUPILS (resident). The course of study offers a complete preparation for the organists' profession. Fine four-manual organ and Cathedral services. Apply, by letter, A., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

TWO CHORAL SCHOLARSHIPS (£35 and £25) are OFFERED for COMPETITION on Dec. 13. School Fees, £75 per annum. For further particulars write to Organist, Trent College, R.S.O., Derbyshire.

CHOIR.—SOLO BOY WANTED, for St. George's, Perry Hill, Catford, S.E. Salary, £12 a year. Apply, personally, bringing music, any Friday evening, to Precentor, St. George's Vicarage, Perry Hill, S.E.

CHOIR BOYS in the American Church, Paris, receive FREE EDUCATION and board and the advantage of acquiring a practical knowledge of the French language. Requirements: good voice (essential) and choir experience. Apply, by letter, Mr. Augustus Toop, 18, Berners Street, W.

CHOIR BOYS at St. Peter's Church, Vere Street, W., receive FREE EDUCATION at the Polytechnic School after a short period of probation. Vacancies for boys between ten and eleven years of age. No previous experience necessary, but musical instinct desirable. Also vacancy for boy to train as soloist. Apply, by letter, Mr. Augustus Toop, 18, Berners Street, W.

LADY CONTRALTO WANTED, St. James's, Westmoreland Street, W. (Rev. H. R. Haweis). Good voice and reader. Salary, £20. Duties: Sunday, 11 and 7, and one rehearsal. Apply to Mr. W. de M. Sergison, Organist, &c., 20, Ovington Gardens, S.W.

PETERBOROUGH CATHEDRAL.—LAY CLERK WANTED; Tenor voice. The foundation stipend is £20 per annum, which sum is increased to £76 per annum during the pleasure of the Dean and Chapter. For particulars, apply to Mr. G. J. Gray, Chapter Clerk, Peterborough.

ST. ANNE'S, SOHO.—VACANCY for SOLO ALTO, December 4. Salary, £25. Precentor, 28, Soho Sq., W.

TENOR WANTED (£15), Kew Church. Good voice and reader. Apply, letter, E. Geere, 507, High Road, Chiswick.

TENOR WANTED, good reader, £12 per annum, for St. John's Presbyterian Church, Kensington. Apply, Harold Jenner, 309, Clapham Road.

BASS (not Baritone) WANTED, for the American Church in Paris. Cathedral Service (one service on week-days). Good voice, reliable reader, and thorough experience in Anglican Church music essential. Three years' engagement, subject to renewal. Salary, £110 first year, rising to £120. Single man preferred. Ample time available for study for anyone desiring Continental experience. The trial will be held in London early in November. Application to be made by letter, stating age, past training, and experience, together with three testimonials, to Mr. Augustus Toop, 18, Berners Street, W.

BROMPTON ORATORY.—Wanted, DEEP BASS (not Baritone). Salary, £25. Apply, Musical Director.

WANTED, in London or suburbs, an ENGAGEMENT in a Church Choir as SOLO VOCALIST (Contralto), Silver Medalist of the R.A.M. Address, Miss Ethel Meredith Holt, 68, King Edward Road, South Hackney, N.E.

CONTRALTO desires ENGAGEMENT in Quartet or Concert Party. Miss Rosalie Hurst, 37, Ramsden Road, Balham.

BARITONE VOCALIST would give SERVICES at high-class Concerts, &c. Moderate expenses. Elliott, 7, Favart Road, Poole Park, S.W.

VOLUNTARY ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER required, for Congregational Church. Modern two-manual organ. Musical Service. Apply, by letter, H. J. Faiers, 89, Gurney Rd., Stratford.

PARISH CHURCH, Littleborough, Manchester.—WANTED, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Stipend, £60. Willis Three-manual Organ. Address, Rev. Dr. Salts, Vicar.

ORGANIST WANTED, St. Mary's, Pembroke. Surpliced choir. Salary, £50. Must be good Choir-trainer. Apply, with testimonials, Rev. C. Hayward Phillips, St. Mary's Vicarage, Pembroke.

CHOIRMASTER (only) REQUIRED, for Central London Church, with attendance at two Sunday Services and Festivals. Tenor preferred. Salary, £20. Apply, by letter, with testimonials, to Vicar, 75, Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (Blind) desires APPOINTMENT on or about Christmas. Highest testimonials from influential clergy. Good tenor vocalist and pianoforte tuner. Address, W. Kinsley, King's Manor, York.

YOUNG ORGANIST desires APPOINTMENT in or near Brighton. Good knowledge of Service work. Small salary asked. Address, Lieblich, Novello & Co., Ltd. 1, Berners St., W.

WANTED, Organists and Choirmasters to know that Messrs. AMBROSE ABBOTT & CO. have CHANGED their ADDRESS to 16, Hanway Street, London, W.

WEST-END TEACHING CENTRE with appointment. LADY INSTRUMENTALIST REQUIRED, having some connection and able to contribute towards expenses. Position of prestige and opportunity. Write fully, Integrity, Willings, 162, Piccadilly.

PIANIST (dip. Leipzig Cons.) wishes to PURCHASE good TEACHING CONNECTION (Piano or Piano and Singing); or could offer comfortable, easy post in part-exchange. Particulars to Connection, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

EVERY MUSICIAN should send for DINHAM, BLYTH and CO.'S Specimens and Price Lists (free) for lithographing Songs, Anthems, Services, &c., from 24 copies and upwards, at trifling cost. 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

TUNER.—Duck, Son and Pinker, Bath, require a first-class TUNER, principally for country work. Applicants please state age, salary required, if married, give references, and enclose photo. The berth would be a comfortable and permanent one to a suitable man.

WANTED, A TUNER for Showrooms. Young, gentlemanly, and of good address; one capable of regulating and doing small repairs much preferred. A comfortable and permanent situation. Address, Turner and Phillips, Plymouth.

WANTED, a thoroughly good out-door PIANOFORTE TUNER and REPAIRER, with knowledge of Harmoniums, &c. Highest references required of both personal and practical nature. Send photo, references, and salary required. Permanency. White, Music Warehouse, Barnstaple.

WANTED, PIANOFORTE TUNER. Must be thoroughly competent and of gentlemanly appearance. Send photo and references to C. F. Hocking, 117, 118, Fore St., Devonport.

WANTED, a thoroughly good PIANOFORTE TUNER, REPAIRER, and REGULATOR. Permanent place for a steady, reliable man. Send photo, references, and salary required to W. H. Milne, 37, Halkett Place, Jersey.

GOOD PIANO TUNER WANTED. Young. Permanency. Salary and commission. Dale, Forty and Co., Birmingham.

TUNER seeks ENGAGEMENT. Good general knowledge of the Trade, steady and reliable, American Organs. Harmoniums, &c. Tuner, P. F., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER (certificated), from leading firm, desires BERTH with reliable house. Aged 26. B. C., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER (28) seeks ENGAGEMENT with good firm in London, or large town, where he would have an opportunity of increasing his experience. Apply, G. F. Grant, 6, North Parade, Froome-Selwood, Somerset.

WANTED, for the South of England, a MANAGER for a BRANCH, who understands the Pianoforte and Sheet Music Trade thoroughly. Must be pushing and energetic. Apply, Goulden and Wind, Ashford, Kent.

MUSIC ASSISTANT.—Duck, Son and Pinker, Bath, require, immediately, a Young Man who has a good knowledge of the Catalogues and is a smart salesman. State age, references, salary required, and enclose photograph.

REQUIRED, a gentlemanly Young Man, as SECOND ASSISTANT. If able to tune preferred. Frank Attwells' Pianoforte Warehouses, Reading.

MUSIC ASSISTANT WANTED, for South Africa. Must be well up in Sheet Music (Peters', Augener's, and Litolff Editions), required to play well at sight and have knowledge of small goods. Apply, in writing, with photograph, to Africa, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

ASSISTANT WANTED, as SALESMAN and BOOK-KEEPER. Knowledge of Tuning and Repairs to small goods desirable, though not essential. Permanent and comfortable berth to suitable man. Walter Jones, Piano Warehouse, Swadlincote, Derbyshire.

MANAGER'S BERTH REQUIRED. Advertiser has had over three and a half years' experience as Manager. Is a successful Salesman. Experienced Tuner. Abstainer. Apply for references and photograph to R. N., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St.

PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS.—For SALE, in a first-class South Coast Watering resort, a well-known old-established BUSINESS, situated in one of the best thoroughfares. Long lease. Moderate rent. Good hiring, tuning, and selling connection. The premises have been specially adapted for the business, and are replete with every modern appliance and convenience. For full particulars, apply, X., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

MUSIC ROOM (close to OXFORD CIRCUS), well furnished, TO LET, by day or hour. Moderate terms. Housekeeper, 25A, Argyll Street, W.

TO CHORAL and ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES.—Several CHORAL WORKS, PART-SONGS, and ORCHESTRAL WORKS for SALE. Applications for lists to Dr. Bunnett, Cathedral Close, Norwich.

TO CHOIRS and CHORAL SOCIETIES. About 50 copies Williams's BETHANY for SALE. What offers? Apply, E. Allen, 16, Creechurch Lane, London, E.C.

AUTHORS' WORKS Revised, Engraved, and Printed. Cheapest house for best work. Estimates free. MUSIC PUBLISHING COMPANY, 456, West Green Road, London, N.

PATENTS, Copyrights, Trade Marks, &c., secured. Elt & Co., Southampton Buildings, London. 40 years' experience.

REMOVAL.—MUSICAL OPINION and MUSIC TRADE REVIEW Office is now REMOVED (from Holborn Bars) to 35, Shoe Lane, Holborn, E.C.

ORGAN STUDIO.—3 manuals, C.O. pedals, 1s. hour. Willis, "Tower Organ Works," 2, Church Row, Aldgate, London, E.C. (Estd. 1827). Musical Instruments and Fittings.

ORGAN PRACTICE. Three manuals and pedals. One shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

CHURCH or CHAPEL ORGANS, new and second-hand, with 3 manuals, 24 stops, pneumatic pedals; would be constructed to suit building. Three Organs, 2 manuals, 12 stops; pedals, full compass, straight and concave. W. E. Richardson and Sons, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

Instituted 1872.

President:
The Right Hon. LORD COLERIDGE, M.A., Q.C.

Warden:
EDMUND H. TURPIN, Mus.D.

Director of Examinations:
JAMES HIGGS, Mus.B.

The HALF-TERM commences on Tuesday, November 6.

The Board will award this year the Bonavia Hunt Prize for Musical History. Subject: "The influence of the old dance forms on Modern Music." Only past and present students, Academic members, and pupils or Members of enrolled Institutions are eligible to compete. Last day for receiving MSS., December 1, 1900.

The Pianoforte Accompaniment Prize of Five Guineas will be awarded in January next. Last day of entry, December 1. Only present or past Pianoforte students of the College are eligible to compete.

HIGHER EXAMINATIONS.

December 8 is the Last Day of Entry for the fifty-fifth Half-yearly Examination for the Licentiate and Associate Diplomas, and the Higher Certificates of the College in Practical and Theoretical Musical Subjects.

The Examinations commence on January 7, 1901.

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS.

November 15 is the Last Day of Entry for the next Musical Knowledge (Theoretical) Examination, which takes place on Saturday, December 15.

The forthcoming Local Examinations in Instrumental and Vocal Music take place from November, 1900, to July, 1901, at the various Centres throughout the United Kingdom, and include pianoforte, organ, and violin playing, and solo singing.

The new Preparatory Examination in pianoforte and violin playing will be included.

Classes Prospectus and Examination Syllabuses, with list of Local Centres, on application.

By order,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.
Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

METROPOLITAN EXAMINATION, September, 1900.

The following CANDIDATES have PASSED:—

In Singing: As Teachers—Edith Alice Heel, Frederick Willtam Newrick.

As Performer—Bessie Woode.

Examiners: Messrs. Francis Korbay, William Shakespeare, Fred. Walker, and Alberto Randegger (chairman).

In Pianoforte Playing: As Performers and Teachers—John Christopher Bradshaw, Katie R. Carter, Edith Mason, Emily Trigger.

As Teachers—Amy M. Adams, William Arnold Barter, William Brierley, Elizabeth Burn, Flora May Challand, Olive Arnold Chataway, James Collinge, Mabel May Couch, Maud Anderson Cover, Marion Dobson, John Vincent Foley, Ada Mary Gruchy, Florence Mary Harvey, Lilian Alice Hayman, Florence Emily Horniblow, Ada Beatrice Elizabeth Isbister, Gertrude Mary Johnson, Emily Mary Johnston, Maggie Jones, Robert Brown Lloyd, Madeline Lombardini, Elizabeth Harriet Lumsden, Lizzie Ethel Mathews, Ethel Louise Webb Moore, Blanche Adelaide Morrell, Edith Annie Osgerby, Elsie Palmer, Annie May Roberts, Kathleen Rourke, Ivy May Borlase Stevens, Sara Tattersall, Robert Frederick Thomas, Millicent Tucker, Sophie Mary Watts.

As Performer—Nellie Louise Oldroyd.

Examiners: Messrs. Carlo Albanesi, Arthur O'Leary, Oscar Beringer (chairman): Messrs. H. R. Eyers, Ernest Kiver, Adolphe Schloesser (chairman).

In Organ Playing: Annie Balshaw, Alfred Chatfield, Herbert John Crumplin.

Examiners: Messrs. W. Stevenson Hoyte, Henry R. Rose, and C. Steggall (chairman).

In Violin Playing: As Performers and Teachers—Amy Robina Greenop, Joseph Colin Muston, Herbert Wynn Reeves.

As Teachers—John Thomas Collins, Alice Cecilia Hunt.

Examiners: Messrs. G. H. Betjemann, W. Frye Parker, Hans Wessely, and F. Corder (chairman).

BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND INSTITUTE.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Principal .. .. .. Granville Bantock.

The Session consists of Autumn Term (September 17—December 22), Winter Term (January 21—March 30), Summer Term (April 1—June 22).

Instruction in all branches of music. Students' Choir, Students' Orchestra, Fortnightly Rehearsals, Students' Concerts.

Prospectus and further information may be obtained from
ALFRED HAYES, Secretary.

BROADWOODS' (Estd. 1732)

NEW OVERSTRUNG PIANOFORTES
40 to 400 GUINEAS

GRAND PRIX (Highest possible Award)
PARIS EXHIBITION, 1900.

GREAT PULTENEY STREET, LONDON, W.

THE LONDON ORGAN SCHOOL

AND INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,
22, Princes Street, Cavendish Square, W.
Established 1865.
Principal: T. H. Yorke Trotter, M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon.

The London Organ School provides a thorough Musical Education in all its branches, either for amateur or professional students. Lessons may be commenced on any date, and students may take a single subject if desired. The School is open till 9 p.m. for those students who cannot attend during the day.

Private Lessons are given in the following subjects:—Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration and Composition; Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, Violin, Viola, Violoncello, Double Bass, Flute, Oboe, Clarinet, Bassoon, Horn, Trumpet and Cornet, Trombone, Harp, Mandoline and Guitar, Zither, Choir Training, Elocution and Stage Deportment, Modern Languages, &c.

The following are some of the Classes:—

HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, ORCHESTRATION, and MUSICAL DICTATION (Dr. Yorke Trotter).
QUARTET and ENSEMBLE PLAYING (Mr. Edward O'Brien and Mr. J. Edward Hambleton).
ELOCUTION and DRAMATIC ART (Mr. Charles Fry and Mr. Arthur Fayne).
CHORAL (Mr. Henry Beauchamp).
LADIES' CHORAL (Mr. J. Mewburn Levien).

The Full Orchestra, conducted by Dr. Yorke Trotter, and the String Orchestra, conducted by Mr. Edward O'Brien, meet weekly. There are three 3-manual Practice Organs.

Prospectus, on application, from the Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.
PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.

Telegraphic address—"Initiative, London."

President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.
Director: Sir C. Hubert H. Parry, D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.
Hon. Sec.: Charles Morley, Esq., M.P.

The Half-Term will commence on November 5.

The Next Examination for Associate (A.R.C.M.) will take place in April, 1901.

A Junior Department is now open, at Reduced Fees, for Students up to the age of 16.

Syllabus and Entry Forms may be obtained at the College.
FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

WITHDRAWAL OF SPECIAL PRICES.

The undermentioned special prices will be withdrawn on February 1, 1901.

GROVE'S DICTIONARY OF MUSIC

Illustrated, Four Volumes, with Index,
BY
EMINENT WRITERS, ENGLISH AND FOREIGN
UNDER THE EDITORSHIP OF THE LATE
SIR GEORGE GROVE
Assisted in the Supplement by J. Fuller Maitland.

PRICES OF THE FOUR VOLUMES
Until February 1, 1901, only.
Previously published, only in cloth, at £4 11s. 6d.

Cloth Binding	£2 0 0
Half Morocco	3 0 0
Full Morocco	4 0 0

For further particulars, see page 3 of cover.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

ORGAN RECITALS, St. James's, Marylebone (Rev. H. R. Haweis). Mr. W. de M. Sergison will resume his Recitals on the first Sunday in the month, after 7 p.m. Evensong, on Sunday, November 4.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

NOVEMBER 1, 1900.

Two extra Supplements are presented gratis with this number. A Portrait of the late Rev. Sir Frederick A. Gore Ouseley, Bart., at the age of sixty, from a Photograph taken by Messrs. T. Jones, Son and Harper, Photographers, Ludlow; and an Anthem for Christmas, entitled 'Hark the glad sound,' composed by Myles B. Foster.

A VISIT TO TENBURY.

ALTHOUGH Tenbury is an out-of-the-way place, it well repays a visit. Geographically speaking, it is of a somewhat hybrid nature—that is to say, it is situated in the north-west corner of Worcestershire, within a mile of where the three counties of Shropshire, Herefordshire, and Worcestershire meet at the junction of the rivers Teme and Ledwyche. The sleepy little town is served by a branch railway, whose trains are not always on their mettle in regard to punctuality. You may perchance plan your journey to join an express train at Birmingham for London; but a friendly guard will advise you to change at 'Kiddy'—railwayesque for Kidderminster—and to travel south viâ Worcester. The leisureliness of the trains will probably land you at Paddington an hour or so later than you anticipated on Saturday night, but is it not all in a Festival week's enjoyment?

To approach Tenbury from Hereford is quite an easy matter. And what could furnish a more delightful coda to a Three Choirs Festival than a visit to Ouseleyland, especially when the most distinguished of Tenbury ex-organists has expressed his desire to join you in the pilgrimage thereto? Thus it happened that, on a lovely September morning, I was met at Tenbury Station by a valued contributor to THE MUSICAL TIMES, in the person of Mr. J. F. R. Stainer, and outside the pleasant hostelry, bearing the sign of The Swan, it was equally pleasant to experience another hearty hand-shake in the warm greeting accorded to me by the ex-organist aforementioned—Sir John Stainer.

THE EARLY DAYS OF THE COLLEGE.

Bustle, even on a market day, does not seem to be a special characteristic of Tenbury. Easy-going to a degree, its chief attraction is a certain antiquatedness specially exampled in some picturesque old houses. It is true that there are some medicinal wells, but there does not appear to be a serious drain upon their resources, at least so far as the natives are concerned. 'Horrid stuff,' was the verdict passed in our hearing upon the waters of the wells by a Tenburyite, who, by the way, has a certain interest in the manufacture of cider! But our pilgrimage is to St. Michael's College, with which the name of Ouseley is inseparably associated. A delightful up-hill stroll of two miles in this fertile region brings us to an open breezy spot. From this pleasant table land may be seen in the distance the blue Clee Hill and the Ludlow Vinhalls. Here we are at the 'Old Wood' common. Adjacent thereto the late Rev. Sir Frederick Arthur Gore Ouseley, Bart., purchased, in June, 1852, some ten acres of land, in order to erect his celebrated College, and to bring into living actuality the dream of his life. The initial stage of St. Michael's College was at Lovehill House, Langley, Buckinghamshire, in 1851. Writing from Langley, Ouseley said: 'I must have daily choral Service: my choir must be a model choir: and I will not give up anything if I once commence.'

The foundation stone of the College was laid on May 3, 1854, and the finely-proportioned church, dedicated to St. Michael and All Angels, was consecrated on Michaelmas Day, 1856. As the clergy were forming into procession in the vestry, one was heard to whisper to another, 'This is the first Ecclesiastical Foundation of its kind since the Reformation.' At the consecration ceremony the trebles in the choir included C. J. Corfe, now Bishop in Korea, and Arthur Sullivan, then one of the Children of the Chapel Royal, who sang the treble part in the middle movement of Goss's anthem 'Praise the Lord.' Ouseley himself was one of the four altos, and the Rev. John Hampton, the present Warden, formed one of a dozen tenors. Elvey, of Windsor, was at the organ—a very fine instrument—and the service included Rogers in D, Boyce's 'I have surely built Thee an house,' Elvey's 'Praise the Lord of heaven,' and the Goss anthem already mentioned. A High Churchman of the old-fashioned sort, Ouseley had a touch of Mediævalism in the promptings of his nature which found its natural outlet in the foundation of this College. His practical belief in the scheme may be estimated so far as 'filthy lucre' is concerned at the amount of some £30,000—the cost of the buildings, plus an endowment of about the same sum. The Chapel, of which more anon, is also a Parish Church, and the deed of endowment is such that the Warden of the College is ipso facto vicar of the parish. Thus, independently of the choral services, there are two plain parochial services every Sunday. Soon after the church had been consecrated a worthy old Herefordshire dame gave her opinion on the eagle lectern, then a novelty in these parts, thus-wise: 'O yes,' she said, 'I got a good seat; right up anunst the turkey'!

THE ORGANISTS, AND ONE IN PARTICULAR.

As to the picturesque group of buildings—designed by the well known architect, Mr. Henry Woodyer—which form the church and college, the view given on the adjoining page will furnish a better idea of their attractiveness than any technical description. The beautifully designed church is Early Middle Pointed, it is 122 feet long with a very striking roof, seventy feet in height, and is rich in carved woodwork and stained glass. The fine four-manual organ, rebuilt and added to by Father Willis in 1873, occupies a raised position in the south transept. The following gentlemen have held the post of organist at Tenbury:—John Capel Hanbury (1856), John Stainer (1857), Langdon Colborne (1860), Alfred Alexander (1874), William Claxton (1877), Walter James Lancaster (1886), Allan Paterson (1889), James Lyon (1893), and Edgar C. Broadhurst, the present holder of the office.* In this organist connection the following interesting incidents in the early career of Sir John Stainer, as organist of St. Michael's, Tenbury (1857-59), may appropriately find a place.

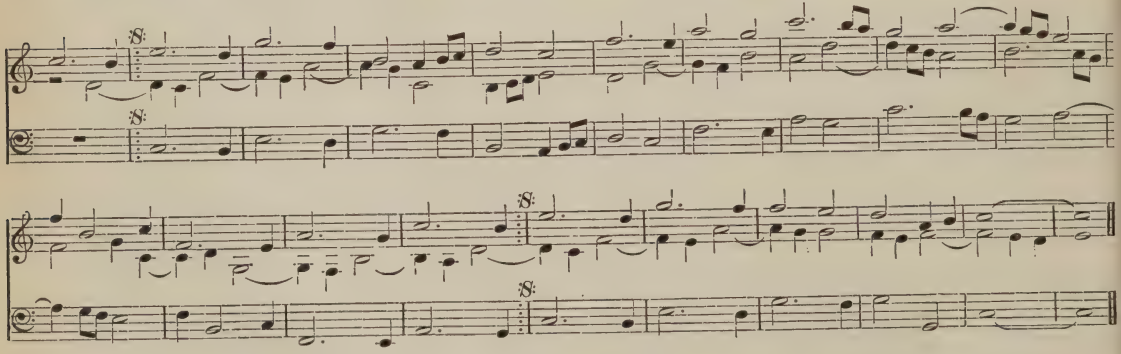
'It was soon after Ouseley's appointment as Professor that he came to examine the chorister boys of St. Paul's, of whom I was one. I shall never forget the nervousness with which I approached this musical and clerical dignitary when summoned to meet him in the drawing room of our master, the Rev. J. H. Coward. But I played a Prelude and Fugue by Bach, from the 'forty-eight,' by memory, and, at its conclusion, Sir Frederick gave me a few words of good advice and much kindly encouragement.

'The next interview I had with him was full of moment to me; it constituted a turning-point in my life. I was then between sixteen and seventeen years of age, and was playing the afternoon service at St. Paul's, both Goss and Cooper being absent for a few days. During the service Ouseley came quickly into the organ loft and, after greeting me, watched me closely as I accompanied the music from the old "scores." On the same evening I had a letter from him to say that the object of his visit to St. Paul's had been to find an organist for St. Michael's College, and he offered me the post. I must apologise for thus introducing myself into this paper,† but it explains why and how I came to know so much about the character and abilities of my patron and friend. In 1857 I found myself, after a railway journey to Worcester and then twenty miles on the top of a coach, settled in the charming building which he had raised at his own cost for the advancement of church music.'

OUSELEY'S CANONIC FACILITY.

Sir John Stainer bears testimony to the extraordinary facility with which Ouseley composed intricate canons. 'The Bart.,' as the Founder is still called at Tenbury, looked upon this occupation not only as a daily delight, but in the nature of a daily duty. By the kindness of Sir John we are enabled to give the following specimen:—

PERPETUAL CANON, 3 IN 1, AT THE UNDER-SEVENTH AND NINTH, AT THE BEAT, WITH CODA.



In sending it Sir John Stainer writes:—

'The above is one of the most ingenious Canons that I have ever seen. The problem is exceedingly difficult. Sir F. Ouseley wrote it in my presence in the year 1857, and his MS. contained only two or three erasures. When finished he clapped his hands for joy like a child. He did not sign it. I have a quantity of his canons.'

THE COLLEGE BUILDINGS.

To return to the College. The buildings consist of a hall, library, great schoolroom, a range of lofty dormitories with thirty-two cubicles, the Warden's house, &c., all of which are as well planned as they are architecturally pleasing. The grounds, covering some five acres, are most beautifully kept, and the view from the terrace is extensive and pleasant of vision. The fertility of the soil in these parts manifests itself in the verdant loveliness of the surroundings of Tenbury. The flowers strike one as being unusually brilliant of hue, and, speaking from a ripe experience, the apples in St. Michael's orchard are exceedingly good.

* 'Cathedral Organists, Past and Present.' By John E. West. (Novello and Co., Ltd.) p. 128.

† 'The character and influence of the late Sir Frederick Ouseley.' By Sir John Stainer. A paper read before the Musical Association, December 2, 1889.

St. Michael's College, Tenbury.

The atmosphere of the place is charged with an old-world serenity. Not the least interesting object of attention is the peaceful God's acre in which is the grave of the munificent founder of the College. Situated most fittingly beneath the east window of the church, and consisting of a Memorial recumbent cross of white marble placed on a block of polished red granite, it bears the following inscription:—

In loving memory of the Rev. Sir Frederick Arthur Gore Ouseley, Baronet:
Born the 12th day of August, 1825; died the 6th day of April, 1889:
Vicar of this Parish:
Founder of the Church and College of St. Michael's and All Angels:
This stone is laid on his grave by a number of his friends.

THE AIMS OF THE COLLEGE.

It is now time to record some of the impressions derived from a brief visit to St. Michael's College. First: the questions may be asked, what is the College? Is it a purely musical institution? And is it a knowledge-gaining ground for men or for boys? These questions may be answered in a sentence: the College is for the education of about thirty boys, the sons of gentlemen—in fact, it is practically a well-equipped preparatory seminary for the great public schools. There are, it is true, choral scholarships, but the majority of the boys are not trained to become professional musicians; in most instances they ultimately proceed to the Universities and distinguish themselves in other professions. Of former pupils, two hold Fellowships at the present time at Oxford, another obtained a scholarship at Clifton, and afterwards at Trinity College, Oxford, took a first class in 'Mods' and now holds a valuable college living. Two served as Cathedral organists abroad (at Hong Kong and Dunedin), and one (Dr. G. R. Sinclair) is the present organist of Hereford Cathedral. About twenty are or have been minor canons in English Cathedrals, and the revered Bishop Corfe, of Korea, was one of those who came to Tenbury from Langley at the commencement.

(From a Photograph by Messrs. T. Bennett and Sons, Worcester and Malvern.)

THE WARDEN.

The Warden of the College is the Rev. John Hampton, Ouseley's attached friend and former colleague, who has been connected with the Institution for nearly half-a-century—indeed, since its initiation. He is assisted by three masters—the Rev. E. Hinchliff, M.A., the Rev. C. E. Carnegie, M.A., Mons. de Vit for modern languages, and the organist, Mr. Edgar Broadhurst, who is the music-master. During all these long years the Warden, who is an excellent musician, has held the office of choirmaster. In fact, only the few surviving early friends of the late founder know how much the College owes to Mr. Hampton. If Ouseley showed the virtue of munificence, his co-worker possessed no less the necessary gift of business habits and sound common-sense. While, at the same time, his rare gifts as a choir-trainer, tenor singer, and his practical musical knowledge were invaluable to the College in the days of its growth. It is no secret that Mr. Hampton received from time to time many tempting offers of promotion in the church, all of which he refused out of sheer loyalty and attachment to his friend, Ouseley, the first Warden. It was only fitting and natural, therefore, that he should himself become head of the College which he had nurtured so lovingly, and also succeed his predecessor in the honourable post of Precentor of Hereford Cathedral. The Warden has a goodly infusion of geniality in his nature, and nothing could be heartier than his greeting of welcome accorded to us pilgrims.

THE MUSIC LIBRARY.

The chief point of interest to a trio of book-worms is the splendid music library of some 2,000 volumes, collected by Ouseley, the rareties of which are kept in a private room, formerly the sanctum of 'The Bart.' Here we are permitted to inspect the conducting score of Handel's 'Messiah,' partly in the composer's mighty caligraphy and partly in the hand-writing of his amanuensis, John Christopher Smith. This is the identical copy of the score from which Handel conducted his great oratorio in Dublin at its first performance in 1742, and which contains several important and interesting annotations. This music library is very rich in theoretical treatises by early French, Italian, and Spanish writers, all of which give evidence of having been read by Ouseley from his marginal notes to be found in the volumes. There is a very large collection of MS. Italian sacred music of the Palestrina schools, copied from the magnificent library of the Abbé Santini of Rome; all the treatises of Gafurius, including the earliest and rarest one, published in Naples in 1480; the rare 'Opus aureum musice castigatissimum de Gregoriana et Figurativa' of Nicholas Wollick, 1504; the 'Lilium musice plane Lassus, Benevoli, Blow, Croft, Bononcini, Travers, Boyce, Arnold, Mozart, Paganini, and Mendelssohn. Here is located the famous 'Organ Book' of Adrian Batten, organist and vicar-choral of Old St. Paul's (1621-37), also one of the seven known MS. scores of Tallis's motet in forty parts, and, of course, Ouseley's own compositions. Amongst the last-named is an instrumental tone-picture of a malady nature, composed when he was only seven years of age. This precocious and curious composition contains such thematic labellings as: 'Beginning to be ill. Now I'm very ill. Iller than ever. Blisters. A little better. Not quite well yet. Now I'm quite well.' Time, however, passes all too quickly in this fascinating chamber of treasures.*

THE HALL, ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE, TENBURY.

(From a Photograph taken specially for this article by the Rev. C. E. Carnegie, M.A.)

Michaelis Künspeck,' 1506; the old Palais Royal collection, with the French Royal Arms on the covers, consisting of scores of operas, motets, &c., by Lully, Colasse, Destouches, Lalande, Campra, and many other French composers now forgotten; and, until its recent acquisition by the British Museum, the only known copy in England of Eslava's important ecclesiastical work, entitled 'Lira Sacro-Hispaña,' in ten vols. (1869). Amongst the autographs may be mentioned a large collection of curious fugal music, original and selected, in the handwriting of Dr. Crotch, manuscripts in the handwriting of Orlando di

LIFE AT THE COLLEGE.

The hour of luncheon has arrived. This, like the other meals, is taken in common in Hall, which is stately in its proportions and is well lighted and imposing in its appointments. On the walls are portraits of the Founder at the age of thirty-two, of Dean Aldrich, Dr. Blow, and Dr. Philip Hayes. At the high table, placed as in other collegiate buildings on a daïs, sits the Warden in a great carved chair of black oak. The masters, who, like the Warden, are arrayed in academic garb, also have their places at this elevated board, as do the three pilgrims—the ex-organist, his son, and the present scribe. The boys, also in their gowns, occupy a table running down the length of the room. Quite an old-world feeling comes over one during the long responsive Latin grace, chanted, both before and after meat, by the Warden and boys alternately, and which concludes with a one-fold Amen sung in four-part harmony. This mid-day repast is attended with much pleasant intercourse and a true hospitality, free from that table-groaning superfluity of viands born of ostentation and tending to dyspepsia.

* Vide two papers read before the Musical Association by Sir Frederick Ouseley: (1) 'On the early Italian and Spanish Treatises on Counterpoint and Harmony' (March 3, 1879), and (2) 'On some Italian and Spanish Treatises on Music of the Seventeenth Century' (February 6, 1882).

opportunity to the Warden and Sir John for a chat on the old St. Michael's days of forty years ago. Inter alia, Mr. Hampton recalls a visit of the late Sir George Grove, when the energetic and mercurial 'G.' arrived at Tenbury late one night and took his departure early the next morning, after he and Ouseley had sat up the whole night transacting their business and probably a good deal else besides.

THE MISLAID DOUBLE-BASS.

Here is a Tenbury story of the days when a weekly instrumental practice was held, and in which most of the staff of St. Michael's were expected to take part. These practices were prolonged to a somewhat late hour, and the double-bass player, preferring his own fireside,

ST. MICHAEL AND ALL ANGELS' CHURCH (THE COLLEGE CHAPEL), TENBURY.

(From a Photograph taken specially for this article by the Rev. C. E. Carnegie, M.A.)

A stroll in the grounds and well tended kitchen garden, including an inspection of some promising pigs, is followed by a visit to the general library. This large room contains the splendid collection of books made by Ouseley and his father, Sir Gore Ouseley, distinguished as a Persian Ambassador and as an Oriental scholar. Here are many theological, French, and Oriental books, including not a few tomes of rare value, especially county histories. Thus the time passes in an interesting manner till 'afternoon tea,' which Mrs. Hampton dispenses on the lawn in her gay-flowered garden at the Vicarage. This function furnishes an became rather remiss in his attendance. Accordingly, he was asked one day why he had not been at a certain rehearsal. His answer was: 'Please, Sir Frederick, I am very sorry, but I have mislaid my double-bass'!

THE DAILY CHORAL SERVICE.

One of the most characteristic features of St. Michael's College is the full choral service which, except during the summer vacation, is held twice daily, at the hours of 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. The treble part of the choir is furnished by the boys, the adult portion by the Warden, the masters, and a few professional singers who find employment in the town. On the occasion of our visit the service is Kempton in B flat, and the anthem Ouseley's 'From the rising of the sun.' Monk and Ouseley's Psalter is used. It would, of course, be unfitting to criticise the manner of rendering the musical part of this service; but this may be said, that it is characterised by devotional feeling and maintains the Ouseley traditions—'my choir must be a model choir.' Mr. Edgar Broadhurst, the able organist and music-master of the College, plays as an outgoing voluntary an interesting concerto (unpublished) by Felton, transcribed from a manuscript in the College library. The excellent acoustic properties of the church add not a little to the general effect of the music, which has a charm all its own in this quiet corner of England on the occasion of this Evensong at Autumntide.

No better conclusion to this holiday chit-chat on Tenbury and its associations could be furnished than the following words of Sir John Stainer, contained in his interesting paper on Ouseley already referred to:—

'In these utilitarian days it would seem to many a great waste of resources that splendid musical services should regularly take place on week-days in a church, with no congregation to participate in them or enjoy them. But Ouseley never viewed it in this light. The services, he said, were for the glory of God, and the offering would be none the less acceptable to Him because it came from an out-of-the-way spot in a remote country district.'

The views of the Church and Hall are from photographs specially taken for this article by the Rev. C. E. Carnegie, M.A., second master at St. Michael's College. The portrait of the late Rev. Sir Frederick A. Gore Ouseley, Bart.—'at the age of about sixty'—which forms one of our extra supplements, is by Messrs. Jones, Son and Harper, of Ludlow.

F. G. E.

SNIPPETS.

"The craze to have everything served up in snippets, the desire to be fed on seasoned or sweetened tid-bits, may be deplored."—Contemporary Review.

I REMEMBER the time when, with great offence to the pride of childhood, my solid food was cut up for me. The snippets were considered to be good for digestion, and they made unnecessary the handling of anything more lethal than a spoon. So a careful mother persisted in exhibiting them till I had reached years of comparative discretion. It was a great event when I passed from the childish spoon to the manly knife and fork. Little did I suppose that, in time long after, my literary and artistic sustenance would be served up in the form of 'seasoned or sweetened tid-bits.' But so it is. We have all come down again to spoon meat, and our tables are set out with snippets. The reasonable inference is that the men and women of the present are, in regard of literature and art, mere children.

A conclusion such as that just stated may supply matter for interesting enquiry as to whether it be correct or an error. Here are some questions which suggest themselves. Have we so lost the faculty of sustained and patient effort that quick change and relief are needful? Especially has the power of attention and consecutive thought weakened so far as to set up a like and equal necessity? These queries can only be answered by particular observation, in the first place, of differences between the present and the past. As to this it will hardly be denied that, before the conditions of modern life were determined by what we fondly call a higher civilisation, people were less impatient of effort, less in a hurry, less volatile, and much less hungry and thirsty for the next thing. Surviving evidence of this condition is plentifully found in the ponderous volumes they read; the long concerts they sat out; the extended sermons they never thought of resenting—having, it is true, the alternative of going placidly to sleep—and the interminable speeches without which their Tapers and Tadpoles could not make axiomatic the fact that two and two are four. They sang songs of many verses, and anthems in many sections; they delighted in oratorios which were biographies set to music, and they played sonatas on the pianoforte for lack of anything longer. In a word, they took their literary and artistic provender in chunks, patiently to be masticated and deliberately to be digested. To what changes all these habits have succumbed the reader well knows, and I need not formulate them. But some discourse at large may serve a purpose.

What has wrought the revolution in temperament of which the changes above indicated are fruit? According to some, we must look to the United States as the source of the snippet movement and all that it involves. Of that restless, hurrying community, itself as much charged with electricity as the air it breathes, always on the alert for material wealth, and ever watching opportunity with the singleness and persistency of vision which a cat brings to bear upon a mouse-hole, the American newspaper is a significant outcome. Head-lines, by way of menu; morsels smothered in condiments for plats; and personalities for table gossip—this is, apparently, what our cousins would have. At any rate, it is what they get, and I have not heard that more than a small minority of cultured folk is dissatisfied. I remember how, many years ago, I made the acquaintance of a distinguished American singer. 'I don't admire your newspapers,' said she; whereupon I made bold to ask the reason. 'Well, it's this way,' replied my fair interlocutor; 'English journals are dull, and I want to smile; their articles are long and I can't get through them, and they tell me little or nothing in the way of gossip about people.' We have changed all that, have we not? Seriously, the Americanising of our institutions, once viewed with alarm in political circles, has since extended to many ramifications of social life. In some respects, no doubt, we act upon our estimable relatives — the Anglophile young man is a proof; but they influence us at all points, even to teaching our jockeys how winning horses should be ridden. But as seed does not germinate unless it fall upon soil fitted to receive it, we must conclude that the circumstances of modern English life, and the environment of those who live it, are primarily responsible for what is a grave as well as an obvious change. We spend our years in restless excitement, or in searching after it. The cry is, 'Who will show us something new?' Failing that: 'Who will, in some way, give a fresh and pungent flavour to the old?' We cry to the novelist: 'Let us walk with you upon the borders of vice, and descend with you into the pit of crime.' To the dramatist: 'Spice your work with a certain kind of suggestiveness, that we may feel what it is to play with fire.' To the journalist: 'Give us pungent morsels that we may tickle our palates with all manner of flavours. We don't want your leaders, because we have little time and less inclination for thinking. We don't ask you for reviews unless they are mainly exciting or gossiping extracts, full-flavoured, if possible.' With Danton, we would have what we want in three-fold intensity. He cried for audacity; we demand excitement, and are not very particular as to its kind or how it is obtained for us.

I have spoken generally, but not without regard to the many more than seven thousand in our Israel who do not bow the knee to the modern Baal. As to the majority, is it not true that the serious and sober elements which once prevailed in English life have sadly weakened; that, somehow, we have lost the stability of equilibrium; that, like a modern tramcar, we are propelled by a 'tricksy spirit,' less perfectly harnessed than in the case of the car? Is it not true that we have abandoned our old ideals, turned our Universities and Colleges into schools of athleticism, and centred the hopes and fears of England in, say, the field of cricket or football? The reader knows as well as I do that all this and much more (which he can supply) is very much a fact.

I am not here to make an exhaustive examination of all the results which our psychological revolution—if so it may be called—has brought about. Its consequences in the realm of music are those only which become these pages, and to them let me briefly address myself—briefly, because intelligent readers can follow up suggestions for themselves.

Developing equally, and side by side, with other changes may be noted a movement towards brevity which has already affected even the form of compositions. Of the tendency to short 'exercises' in music there can be no doubt at all. We have the short opera, a gift to us from the excitable South. Also has entered into our possession the short oratorio, which may be accounted a product of the land wherein it chiefly flourishes. Hardly could we find a composer who, however firm his assurance of adequate ability, would sit down to an oratorio or cantata designed to occupy an entire concert. Half-concert pieces are the rule of the day, but I recall a time when the works of this calibre in use could be counted on the fingers of one hand. Indeed, when it was considered desirable to perform the 'Hymn of Praise,' it became almost a necessity to fill up with Rossini's 'Stabat Mater.' Now there is ample choice, and the long oratorio, save a few examples of commanding importance, is falling more and more into desuetude. I am not saying whether this change is for the better or the worse—probably it is for the better in certain practical respects—I do no more than point out a fact, and even that is superfluous, seeing how it stands, 'gross as a mountain, open, palpable,' before all men's eyes. But the reason why? Is it to be found, I wonder, in the snippets of the miscellaneous second part? It may be said, 'but the orchestral symphony remains.' That is true, and some of the modern examples are as long as the sea-serpent. The symphony, however, is a group of more or less independent pieces, each calculated to act as relief by way of contrast, and already there is a tendency towards an increase in the number of pieces so as to make less onerous the achievement of that with which, as yet, symphony cannot dispense—development of theme. It is likely that before many years have passed the symphony will either be a dead, in the sense of an unproductive, form, or so changed as to have lost its historic characteristics. Here we should not forget that it has a rival in the so-called 'symphonic poem,' wherein the composer, free from the bondage of tradition, can play at will upon the weaknesses of his audience with more assurance of result than upon any qualities in which they happen to be strong.

But it is in pianoforte music—the form of the art which shares our homes with us—that we can see change most clearly and faithfully reflected. What has become of the Sonata, at one time played or attempted by everybody? Then it was almost as popular with our forefathers, and especially our foremothers, as were sets of Variations. Now, how small, by comparison, is the demonstration it receives, even at the hands of public performers, who find their account in playing selections from a multitude of short pieces—Studies, Nocturnes, Preludes, Dances, old and new, et hoc genus omne. To such works they listen with ever fresh delight, and very beautiful many of them doubtless are. I am not saying a word against the pianoforte snippet; the point is that to it larger and more solid works have been compelled to yield, in great measure, their pride of place. At the same time, there is, in quarters where the Sonata still retains a certain prestige, a disposition to lop it. Years have passed since a dead set was made against repetition of the first 'part' in sonata form, nor was the attack wholly unsuccessful. This was followed by suggestions aimed against the formal recapitulation of subjects which comes after the 'working-out.' So that, had the entire movement succeeded, sonata form, the most symmetrical, comprehensive, and educational of all musical models, would have been reduced to statement of themes, development, and coda—to the dimensions, that is to say, of a good-sized snippet.

At the root of all this is the impatience of steady effort, the craving for change, the passion for excitement, which are notes in the dominant chord of our age. Even as music is now administered—namely, with every regard for the humour of those who receive it, the public often show themselves scarcely tolerant. In the old days an audience paid music the compliment of listening to the end, or, at any rate, of seeming to do so. When they slept, as some did, it was said, 'See an illustration of the power of the divine art to soothe the weary brain of the worker!' Thus did John Ella account for the slumber of an aristocratic subscriber, and he may have been right, for I suppose that there is 'music such as charmeth sleep.' The art, I am sorry to say, does not soothe modern excitability. Every reader must have become familiar with the fact that a London audience is always coming and going. Some arrive late; some go early; and others balance matters, à la Charles Lamb, by doing both. So is even the time of the audience cut into snippets, that the 'next thing' may be enjoyed as soon as possible.

What point shall we ultimately reach under the impulse of all this? Heaven knows; but even mortals cannot fail to see that the movement, if persisted in, will land us in the realm of Chaos and old Night. Of course, it will not be persisted in to such an end. God may have forsaken the world, as now and then we hear. He has, however, left behind Him some sort of automatic brake which pulls the huge machine up at the right moment. Or is it that the universal movement is not an onward march, but an oscillation like that of a rocking-horse—change without progress? I have just been reading a review, by Henry Murray, of Havelock Ellis's book, 'The Nineteenth Century, a Dialogue in Utopia.' There I find the author of the work putting into the mouth of his Utopian oracle a bold argument against the very existence of what we call progress. The speaker is describing to a companion the social conditions of the century so soon to end, and points out that, 'in every community perpetual slight oscillations backwards and forwards are for ever taking place.' He goes on: 'These oscillations were always "progress," and there were always clever people who could give reasons in favour of the "progress," and rejoice over it, quite unaware that the "progress" could be in either direction, and was merely due to that perpetual slight novelty, the continuous rhythmic vibrations in which life consists. They never seem to understand that because the change occurred they called it "progress"; they thought that the change occurred because they called it "progress." Consequently there were always a few clever, wordy, very solemn people who talked a great deal about "progress," and believed that "progress" depended upon their eloquence.'

The oscillation theory is very comforting, and, by the way, there is much to be said in support of it. 'To me,' writes Mr. Norman, 'it seems that the familiar old simile—used a thousand times before in this connection—which compares the motions of humanity with the tides of the sea, is as close and exact an image as could be found.' It may be that some reader exclaims, 'Hold! we have got from the snippet to the "motions of humanity." Where is the connection?' Cannot a tiny floating leaflet show the set of the current? I hold by the snippet as the symbol of all that is hysterical, frivolous, and unreasonable in modern life, and I want to believe in oscillation because of its assurance that, by and by, we shall swing back to the point whence we started, and begin afresh with firmer nerves, higher resolves, and purer ideals.

Joseph Bennett.

A HUMOROUS SKETCH BY MENDELSSOHN.

Apropos of the Birmingham Musical Festival held last month, we are very glad to have the privilege of furnishing our readers with an interesting relic of the great Music-meeting of sixty years ago. This unique memento takes the form of a humorous pen-and-ink sketch made by Mendelssohn in the year 1840 for the album of the late Mrs. Ignaz Moscheles, but now in the possession of her son and Mendelssohn's godson, Mr. Felix Moscheles, by whose kind permission we are enabled to reproduce it in facsimile, and practically full size, on page 723.

At the Birmingham Festival of 1840, whither he was accompanied by his attached friend and old master, Ignaz Moscheles, Mendelssohn conducted his 'Hymn of Praise' and 114th Psalm ('When Israel out of Egypt came')—then called a 'grand double chorus'—both for the first time in this country. He also played, between the parts of 'Israel in Egypt,' Bach's great Prelude and Fugue in A minor on the organ in the Town Hall, in addition to two private extemporaneous performances on the same instrument; moreover, he conducted his 'Midsummer Night's Dream' overture and played his G minor pianoforte concerto—the latter between the performances of two operas at the Theatre Royal, but which formed part of the Birmingham Festival scheme three score years ago.

On his return to London, and as a parting gift to Mrs. Moscheles, Mendelssohn drew this humorous sketch for his friend's album. The key to its comicalities is as follows. On the left is the Stork Hotel, Birmingham, where Moscheles had 'put up.' To the right of that old hostelry is a pair of scissors, purchased by Mendelssohn for Mrs. Moscheles, and which he has depicted as a stork stalking along from the Stork to the Town Hall, but with its bill above the building in order to show the superior importance of that sharpened gift over the Town Hall and the Festival. Next is a bread and butter pudding—a favourite dish of Mendelssohn's during his visits to England—with a recipe for the making of it, which he is going to take with him to Germany, and a portion of its ingredients as shown by the bunch of currants, which forms a part of the grouping. Then we have the steamer at anchor off Dover, with Mendelssohn and his two travelling companions—Moscheles and Chorley, the musical critic of the Athenæum—standing on the fore deck. Under the steamer is the cravat which Mrs. Moscheles has given him. As Mr. Felix Moscheles says: 'He was in the habit of protesting that he had never been able to master the art of adjusting his cravat, and that not until Mrs. Moscheles pronounced the magic words—"pin it up"—was a flood of light thrown upon the subject.' The lower section of the drawing is a certain umbrella, belonging to Moscheles, which Mendelssohn had unfortunately lost, and the luggage—all of which is humorously disproportionate to the mail coach which is to convey the three travellers to Dover. The artist's inscription, signed 'F.M.B.,' and dated 'London, 2 October, '40,' speaks for itself.

Ignaz Moscheles furnishes an equally amusing sequel to this sketch in relating the following incident which happened during the journey to Dover. The coach started from London at midnight with the three inside travellers, but unfortunately there was a fourth occupant, a stranger, who, however, was happily fast asleep. One of the musical trio of passengers said: 'What shall we do with him when he wakes up?' 'Kill him, that's the only way,' replied another. At that moment the somnolent one awaked! Great alarm took possession of the three merry men, as they feared that the stranger must have heard their murderous threat. But with admirable presence of mind Moscheles solemnly remarked: 'And then she declared she never would marry that man!'

PIANOFORTE TEACHING

SOME PRACTICAL HINTS BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

(Concluded from page 652.)

PHRASING AND EXPRESSION.

PHRASING is best described to the pupil as the necessity for dividing the music into separate sentences, and as being analogous to supplying marks of punctuation to a literary composition from which they have been omitted. Since every phrase ends with a cadence of some kind, it will be a great help to the pupil if he possesses a fair knowledge of harmony, but even without this knowledge an attentive pupil will be able, by careful listening, to discover the separation of the phrases, and in the endeavour will be doing much towards the cultivation of his ear.

When this separation into sentences or phrases has been accomplished, the next thing will be to give to each phrase its appropriate variations of force, and the pupil must be taught to observe that there are three possible ways of treating a phrase, ways which may conveniently be expressed by the signs , , and , and that each separate sentence requires to be treated in one of the three. In the absence of any special indications the pupil should begin his experiments by trying the first and second forms, and comparing results. In the majority of cases the first will prove to be the most suitable, the third form being seldom required, and indeed being usually marked definitely by the composer. In describing the first of these forms I do not mean to imply that the strongest part of the phrase always occurs exactly in the middle; the proper effect would often be more accurately indicated by or . The general character of the phrase will of course determine this.

With regard to the amount of variety in phrasing, I have always noticed that the playing of even intelligent pupils is inclined to err on the side of monotony, and I believe that, as a matter of fact, all variety, whether of tone, as in cres. or dimin., or of pace, as in accel., ritard., or the duration of a pause, appears greater to the player than to the listener; I therefore always recommend my pupils to exaggerate in such matters, until they find out for themselves the limits beyond which the effect would become grotesque, and I have often been amused to observe the efforts they have to make before they arrive at anything worth calling variety at all.

Another cause of monotony which is very generally noticeable in the playing of pupils, and indeed not of pupils alone, is deficiency of accent. I have heard it advanced that the reason of the unrhythmical quality of the playing of English pianists as compared with those of other nationalities lies in the fact that English children do not dance at an early age nearly as much as French, German, or Facsimile of a pen-and-ink sketch by Mendelssohn in the possession of Mr. Felix Moscheles, and reproduced by his kind permission.

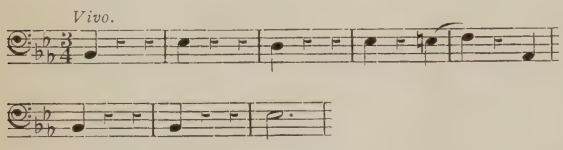
Austrian. How this may be I do not know; perhaps it is because they have but a weak sense of rhythm that they are less given to dancing. In any case, the cultivation of a feeling for accent and rhythm is a subject which requires the constant attention of a teacher, and a great deal will depend on the choice of the music given out for study. I should say, avoid all 'Moonlight Reveries' and 'Rippling Waves' and give plenty of well-marked rhythmical pieces in March, Gavotte, or Waltz form, together with movements (generally the first and last) of the Sonatas and Sonatinas of Haydn, Mozart, Clementi, &c.

One of the most common defects in the playing of even advanced pupils is feebleness of the left hand, and this I think arises less from physical disability than from the fact that the player's ear is too much engaged in following the doings of the right hand, where the melody is to be found, to be able to afford much attention to the left. Pupils should therefore be encouraged to play the bass part of their music alone (not necessarily the whole of the part for the left hand) in order to accustom the ear to its melody, so that when playing the work complete they are playing two melodies which fit together perfectly, and are playing them with equal intention (though probably with different degrees of force), instead of playing with the right hand and accompanying, more or less negligently, with the left. The pupil should learn to take as much interest, for instance, in the following melody, which is the bass of Chopin's Waltz in E flat (Op. 18), as he does in the more elaborate melody to which it serves as support.



Likewise, in studying polyphonic music, such as Bach's three-part Inventions, the pupil should begin by playing each part separately, not only to learn the melody of each, but in order to recognise the frequent imitations and entrances of the theme, all of which will require prominence when the parts are afterwards combined. And in learning a piece in cantabile style, the melody must be studied and practised by itself, for the sake of the phrasing and expression. A singer does not need constant accompaniment in order to improve his rendering of the song.

It would be both possible and pleasant to write much more on the subject of phrasing, but want of space forbids. Those who desire further information may be referred to my book, 'Technique and Expression,'* in which the matter is discussed at greater length.

* Novello and Co., Ltd.

READING AT SIGHT.

Sight-reading is a highly important and too often neglected branch of musical study, and can scarcely be begun too early, provided the pupil's technique is sufficiently advanced to enable him to play with a certain moderate degree of facility. The best material to begin with is to be found in very easy arrangements of popular tunes, such as those contained in Peters' Albums of 'Volks und Studenten Lieder,' 'Opern-Melodien,' &c., and each movement should be played through three times, in approximately correct tempo, without stopping to correct mistakes. Later, albums of Gavottes, Marches, Minuets, &c., are serviceable, and for players who are competent to deal with quick chromatic changes of harmony, Chopin's Mazurkas afford admirable material.

The chief cause of the difficulty experienced lies in the reader's giving his whole attention to the note he is playing, instead of realising beforehand what he has to play next; but it is not difficult to make a pupil see that if he were asked to read aloud a piece of English prose, he would not look steadfastly at each syllable as he pronounced it, but would, as a matter of course, be always reading two or three words in advance, otherwise he would soon hesitate, or, at any rate, read very slowly. And it is quite the same in reading music, though it takes time to acquire the habit of reading in advance, because the sense of music is less definite and less readily grasped than that of language. The only way in which the teacher can help a beginner is by slowly moving a pencil along the line, about a bar in advance of the playing, so as to lead the pupil's eye onward, at the same time giving occasional verbal directions in very few words, such as 'change to G major,' 'observe tied notes,' and so forth, by which means the pupil will be taught the kind of thing he has to look out for.

A knowledge of harmony is a great advantage in sight-reading, as in most things musical, but even this will not dispense with the necessity for looking ahead; indeed, if relied on too confidently, it has its dangers, tempting the reader to play harmonic progressions and resolutions as he expects to find them, instead of as they happen to be written.

THEORY.

It is difficult to say how much theory is necessary for the pianoforte pupil. In a general sense, no doubt, the more knowledge the better, but, considered particularly, there are two points which seem to stand out as absolutely indispensable. First, the pupil must be taught the construction of the scale and the formation of common chords and chords of the seventh; and secondly, he must learn enough of the principles of modulation to be able to tell in what key he is playing at any part of his piece. As soon as the elementary principles of key-relationship are understood, and the order of appearance of the sharps and flats—F, C, G, D, A, E, B, and B, E, A, D, G, C, F—has been committed to memory, the pupil is in a position to analyse simple compositions for modulation, and I will try to describe briefly the method which I generally use with my own pupils. I first explain that by the expression 'in the key of so and so' we mean that the composition consists of the notes of a certain scale exclusively, and that if no extra sharp, flat, or natural occurs at all, the piece remains in the same key throughout. The analysis then begins by seeking out the first chromatic sign to be found, and I show that if it is a modulating sharp it occurs on the seventh degree of the new scale, if a flat, on the fourth,* and if a natural on the seventh or fourth, depending on whether it cancels a flat or a sharp in the scale just quitted. The note situated one semitone above the sharp, or one semitone and two tones below the flat, may then be assumed to be the keynote, and if it is a true modulation, it will be immediately followed by the chord of the new tonic. If this expected chord does not appear at once it is not an essential change, but merely an accidental, probably an auxiliary note, the nature of which I then take the opportunity to explain. It is also necessary to show that when two or more sharps or flats occur at the same moment, it is the most advanced in the 'order of appearance' which must be taken for investigation. The term accidental as applied in the Instruction Books to all sharps, &c., which do not belong to the signature is illogical and misleading, and this fact also must be made clear to the pupil.

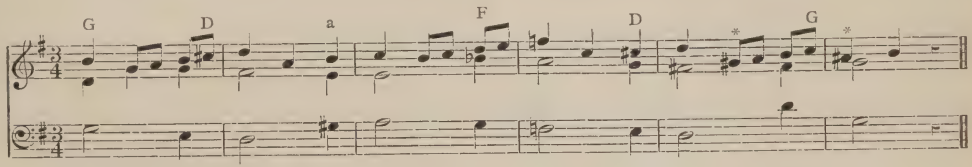
By way of proving that the pupil understands his analysis, as also of affording opportunity to point out mistakes, I require him to mark his piece in the manner of the following example, in which the new keys are shown by a capital letter if major, and a small one if minor, while the true accidentals are marked with an asterisk—



It must be admitted that this is but a rough and ready method, and can only apply to simple and direct modulations, but I have always found it useful, and at any rate it serves to make the pupil aware that modulations do take place in most compositions, a fact of which the average pupil is often entirely ignorant.

Many pianoforte students now attend harmony classes, and learn to write from figured basses, and the knowledge they gain should be of great value to them, but I am afraid that for the majority their work only exists upon paper, and has little or no musical meaning—indeed, I frequently meet with quite advanced players who are yet incapable of playing three consecutive chords in correct progression on the keyboard. To remedy this unhappy state of things, all pupils should be made to play their harmony exercises through several times (after they have been corrected!) that they may learn through the ear as well as the eye. And, at the least, as a very small step towards a possible future power of extemporising, all pupils should be able to play the prepared authentic cadence in every key.

CHOICE OF MUSIC FOR STUDY.

I do not think it would be well to attempt to give in this place anything like a catalogue of teaching pieces, because all good teachers will be familiar with the standard works as a matter of course, and as for lighter music, of the kind which is in demand for the making of a 'little music in the evening,' there is now such an abundance to be found in the Albums and other collections of all the chief publishers, English and foreign, that the difficulty of selecting suitable pieces is infinitely less than was the case twenty years ago. But I should like to emphasize the importance, in all educational matters, of progressive order, in the advantages of which I firmly believe, and which I myself have carried out in the arrangement of the various books of my collection of 'Progressive Studies,'* as also in a Pianoforte Tutor† for beginners compiled by me some years ago, in which no single detail of notation—whether rest, dot, tie, &c.—is introduced without the explanation being given at the moment of its introduction.

The composers whose works appear to me the most valuable for teaching purposes are, in the earlier stages, Clementi, Dussek, Bach (there are some quite easy movements to be found in the 'Supplement' to Peters' Edition), Burgmüller, some Kullak, Reinecke, and Kuhlau. The works of the last-named are often particularly useful, as the use of the sign 8*va* is generally avoided, the higher notes being written on leger-lines, and thus the pupil is obliged to learn to read notes written in the higher registers, an accomplishment often present to a very limited extent only. For more advanced pupils we have Mozart, Heller

* The alliteration, Sharp Seventh and Flat Fourth, helps to fix this in the pupil's memory.

* Novello and Co., Ltd. † Enoch and Sons.

(almost indispensable for teaching the elements of phrasing), Haydn (often undertaken too early, before the pupil's technique is equal to the execution of the numerous trills and other ornaments), Bach again, easy Mendelssohn and Beethoven, and, farther on, as the general technical progress justifies it, Hummel (extremely valuable, and too often neglected by teachers), Mendelssohn, yet more Bach (probably the Fugues by this time), Schubert, and a few of Moscheles' compositions. Chopin, Schumann, and most of Beethoven should be left until the pupil is able to understand as well as execute them, or he will lose all the pleasure which is experienced by every student who is capable of undertaking them successfully.

Studies, by which I mean for the moment studies of technique only, not of interpretation, occupy an intermediate position between finger-exercises and musical compositions. They are compositions, in the sense that they have a beginning and ending, and conform to the rules of musical grammar, but they are not compositions, in so far that they do not aim at expressing any musical thought, their object being simply the furtherance of technique. Studies of this kind should always be chosen with a view to the pupil's improvement in some particular branch of technique, and, as a rule, should follow when the pupil has become fairly capable in that particular branch. Thus, so soon as the scales can be played in moderate tempo without difficulty, the teacher should give a series of scale-studies, by which means the pupil learns to apply to actual compositions the work done in technical exercises.

From this point of view, the best studies are those in which one particular progression or figure is reiterated throughout in varied positions, as in the studies of Czerny, Cramer, Mayer, Loeschhorn, &c., and I have no liking for the form generally adopted by Kalkbrenner and others, in which there appears to be a striving after musical effect, together with a too great variety of technical figuration. Of course, these remarks do not apply to studies of phrasing and performance, "Vortragsstudien," as the Germans call them, such as those by Heller, Moscheles, Chopin, Liszt, and many others. For our practical purpose these differ in no respect from pieces otherwise designated.

In choosing music for pupils now-a-days the teacher has to take into consideration not only the composer, but the editor. I think there can be no question that the idea, excellent in itself, of training the player in the way he should go by supplying a sufficient number of marks of expression and phrasing has of late been very much overdone, and with by no means satisfactory results. I have seen modern editions of works with which I am perfectly familiar, but which I was yet positively unable to recognise at the first glance! Time-signatures are changed, sometimes a double time-signature is given, such as C 12-8 (the meaning being that triplets occur in some of the bars), sometimes bar-lines are drawn through each stave separately and then across both (intended to indicate a certain variety in the phrasing), and finally the whole thing is decorated with a mass of curved lines, horizontal lines, dotted lines, abbreviations and initials (generally unintelligible without frequent reference to the preface), to say nothing of weird signs which look like designs for railway signals! And all this even in quite simple music, intended for pupils who have barely passed the elementary stage, and who surely have enough to do if they attend to the comparatively few directions which the composer has deemed sufficient. The result is that this overwhelming mass of instructions defeats its own end, and nothing is attended to.

Moreover, this over-anxiety on the part of editors to instruct the player as to every little detail is often actively mischievous. A long experience of examination in pianoforte playing has taught me more of the results of different methods of teaching than I could possibly have learnt otherwise, and I do not hesitate to say that a rigid insistence on attention to marks and signs on the part of the teacher, and a slavish observance of them on that of the student, dulls the pupil's musical perception, and prevents him from properly cultivating and exercising his judgment. For instance, one of the earliest ideas of the editors, long before the highly variegated editions of to-day came into existence, was to join together the ends of all slurs during the continuance of an unbroken legato, and to leave them disconnected at points where a break would be necessary or allowable. At first sight this would appear to be an innocuous and even desirable arrangement, but the result is that pupils accustomed to this method, and unaware that composers, as a rule, did not trouble themselves about such minute details, consider the break at the end of every slur a necessity, and when they play from a copy which has not received the attentions of the editor turn such a phrase as—

Original marking.

into—

Indeed, the careful and conscientious pupil is in such matters as the above often in worse case than the careless, especially if the latter possesses a certain amount of musical sense.

In conclusion, I may perhaps be permitted to add a word of warning against the too prevalent practice of allowing the pupil to learn pieces of a difficulty far in advance of his technical powers. Young and inexperienced teachers are the most frequent sinners in this respect. Beginners in teaching (I have been a beginner myself, and I know) have just finished their own education at some great School of Music or elsewhere, they have their favourite composers or special compositions, and they are keenly anxious to make their pupils play them like they do themselves! Or they are tempted to seek relief from continually hearing music of a more or less childish standard, and prefer to listen to compositions which interest them, however imperfectly rendered. All this by way of excuse, but that the practice is a mischievous one I have no doubt whatever.

OCCASIONAL NOTES.

Amongst the musical visitors to the Birmingham Festival were Professor Julius Buths, of Düsseldorf, and Herr Otto Lessman, Editor of the Allgemeine Musik-Zeitung and one of the most distinguished critics in Germany. Professor Buths, who was born in 1851, has, for the past eleven years, been musical director at Düsseldorf, an important post in Germany and one formerly held by Mendelssohn. Music is not, however, his only interest, pictures being a favourite hobby. Moreover, he took an intelligent delight in visiting with a few friends the splendid Free Library of the Birmingham and Midland Institute, appropriately situated in Paradise Street. The fine Shakespeare collection there specially attracted his attention, and, by the courtesy of the Librarian, he was permitted to examine a First Folio and other rare treasures that are carefully preserved in the strong-room of that splendid Institution. The Professor subsequently payed a flying visit to Stratford-on-Avon before returning to Düsseldorf, thus making a pilgrimage which formed an interesting finish to his Festival experiences at Birmingham.

Professor Buths intends, we understand, to perform at Düsseldorf during the coming season a Symphony in G minor, 'quite Mozartean in character,' by John Christian Bach, the manuscript of which is in the possesssion of Dr. Erich Prieger, of Bonn. The eleventh son of the great Leipzig Cantor, John Christian was known as 'the English Bach,' by reason of his residence in London during the last twenty years of his life, where he ranked as one of the chief musicians of the day. He died in London on New Year's Day, 1782, and is buried in the Roman Catholic portion of Old St. Pancras Churchyard. No stone marks the spot of the interment, and it would be impossible to point to the exact location of his remains. The burial register of the parish of St. Pancras records his name as John Christian Back.

At some future time we hope to give a few biographical particulars of 'the English Bach.'

Here is enthusiasm in matters choral in Greater Britain. Lady Mary Lygon, who went out to Australia with her brother, Earl Beauchamp, Governor of New South Wales, has successfully initiated a musical competition in Sydney. In a private letter to Dr. McNaught, Lady Mary writes: 'We had entries in all the twenty-five classes; and one choir (the Grafton Cathedral Choir and Choral Society) came 500 or 600 miles—two days' journey by sea!—to compete in the last two classes.' Advance, Australia, in the great Commonwealth of music.

The Yorkshire Post of the 17th ult. contains, in its 'Music and Art' column the following paragraph from the pen of its erudite musical critic:—

'Answers to correspondents' often furnish excellent material for the imaginative mind; they are in their suggestiveness something like the one-sided conversation heard when a friend is operating on the telephone. Thus, when we find in the October Musical Times a querist answered thus:—'Taking into consideration all your circumstances, the concertina seems the most promising of the three instruments you name'—we are at once launched upon a sea of conjecture. What were the circumstances, and what could be the instruments that yield priority to the concertina? For our own part, we should take the one to be a desert island, the others the Jew's harp and comb.

While we are very glad to hear from time to time of the usefulness of the 'Answers to Correspondents' section of this journal, it is an additional source of gratification to find that it furnishes material for some amusing 'copy' in so important a newspaper as the Yorkshire Post. Travellers to desert islands will in future know the kind of instruments best suited to those 'circumstances.'

So much has been said upon the shortcomings of the chorus at the recent Festival, especially in Mr. Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius,' that any further comment is unnecessary. Their achievements in some of the other works, in justice be it recorded, gave better evidence of that high attainment which we naturally expect at Birmingham with all its splendid Festival traditions. But any defects in a first-rate festival choir once more point to the great need of a general levelling-up of choral technique in this country. Richter has done wonders for us in regard to the performance of orchestral music, and we want a number of English Richters up and down the country to galvanise choral singing into new life. The days of the stodgy four-in-a-bar conductor and the mechanical chorus singer are no more. There must be a spirituality in the interpretation of choral music—a spirituality that cannot be expressed by so many crotchets and quavers or even dynamic signs, but which must be felt. The music must come from the heart or it will not touch the heart. Choral singing is a glorious heritage of this fair land of ours, and its supremacy must be maintained by a determination to reach the highest ideals of soul-stirring interpretation.

A special Thanksgiving Service was announced to be held in St. Paul's Cathedral, on the 27th ult., for the safe return from the war in South Africa of the City Imperial Volunteers. The music selected included Professor Stanford's Te Deum in B flat, special Psalms, three hymns—'Praise, my soul, the King of heaven,' 'Now thank we all our God,' and 'All people that on earth do dwell'—in addition to the National Anthem to be sung at the close of the service. Sir George Martin composed a special Antiphon for the occasion. This, which was to be sung before and after the Psalms, is a setting of the words: 'O Lord God, Thou strength of my life: Thou hast covered my head in the day of battle.' It was arranged that the organ should be supplemented by the band of the Royal Military School of Music (Kneller Hall), that Mr. Charles Macpherson, sub-organist of St. Paul's, should officiate at the organ, and Sir George Martin conduct this most memorable service in the Mother Church of the City of London.

The interesting Sunday Chamber music concerts given at the Passmore Edwards Settlement, Tavistock Place, every fortnight, were resumed on Sunday, the 7th ult. The programme of each concert, which begins at 8.30 p.m., contains at least one masterpiece in the domain of chamber music. The past performances of various well-known executants have been excellent and are sure to be maintained under the régime of Mr. Richard H. Walthew, who is the able musical director of the Institute.

Owing to the lamented death of Dr. Swinnerton Heap, which occurred during the progress of the choral rehearsals for the recent Birmingham Festival, Mr. W. C. Stockley kindly undertook to discharge the duties of chorus-master at the recent meeting. His connection with the Festival in that capacity began in 1858 and continued till that of 1894, when he was succeeded by Dr. Heap. Mr. Stockley, who was born in 1830, has been the recipient of many testimonials of personal regard and in acknowledgment of his long and valued services to the cause of music in Birmingham. We give a photograph of the veteran and genial musician, whose features recall those of Charles Dickens.

(From a Photograph by Mr. H. Roland White, 359, Moseley Road, Birmingham.)

The University of Cambridge has announced its intention of conferring the Honorary Degrees of Doctor of Music upon Mr. Frederic H. Cowen and Mr. Edward Elgar. 'Honour to whom honour is due' is fully exemplified in the action of the University, and the natural sequence is a chorus of congratulation to the two distinguished musicians, in which The Musical Times vociferously takes a part.

Dr. Henry Watson has followed up the splendid gift of his fine music library to the city of Manchester by an equally generous benefaction to the Royal College of Music (Manchester). This most recent instance of his public-spirited generosity has taken the form of presenting his interesting collection of antique musical instruments to the College—a gift which we are by no means surprised to hear that the Council has gratefully accepted. In sending the information Dr. Watson writes as follows in a private letter, dated October 18, from which we venture to quote a sentence or two:—

> 'You will see that I have "broken out in a fresh place." I hope the attack won't be serious and that I may soon recover. It must be the time of the year that has something to do with it, for it was exactly twelve months yesterday since I parted with my Library. I am delighted to find that it is being considerably utilised, and it will be more so, no doubt, when it is settled in its permanent home. The Library, however, remains with me at present and will do so until it is catalogued and the books bound. I have just added a nearly complete set of Wagner's operas in full score, and several other very important books. . . . I am thinking of writing a short history of the Manchester Gentlemen's Glee Club (established in 1830), but this must be done in my spare moments.'

Whatever 'the time of the year' may have had to do with Dr. Watson's self-denying generosity, his gift is exceedingly timely, and the Royal College of Music (Manchester) is to be warmly congratulated thereupon. Here is a list of the said 'old and curious musical instruments' presented by Dr. Watson:—

ENGLISH.

Viols, Treble and Tenor—Viol da Gamba, six strings, by Barak Norman—Cittern, 18th century—Keyed Cittern—Dancing Master's Kit and Pocket Fiddle—Zither (old)—Bassoon, five keys, c. 1780—Oboe, six keys—Pitch Pipe, c. 1700—Two Panpipes—Picco Pipe.

INDIAN.

Two Turhi (Brass Trumpets)—Pungi (Snake Charmer's Pipe)—Two Bin-Baja (pipes used at weddings)—Small and Large Sitars—Dotara (Guitar)—Vina (the national instrument of India)—Manjeera (Brass Cymbals), three sets—Kangari (Tambourine)—Two Dolah (Tom-Toms)—Dhol (Drums)—Sarangi (Fiddle), two large and one small, with bows—Debrubba—Hindoo Fiddle, made of Tortoiseshell—Tabla (small Drum).

CHINESE.

Urheen (Violin and Bow)—San Hsien (Banjo)—Hiuen tchung (large Bell).

JAPANESE.

Koto—and a representative set of Japanese instruments now on their way to England.

AFRICAN.

Marimba (Zulu Harmonicon)—large and small Igedegbo, &c.

PIANOFORTE FAMILY.

Dulcimer—Virginal, 1570—Clavichord (German), 1700—Spinet (English), 1773—Harpsichord (English), 1780—Square Piano (English), 1791.

The collection also includes an Egyptian harp and a nose-flute from the Savage Islands. The use of the last-named instrument in civilised countries rather suggests a pocket-handkerchief obbligato!

Dr. W. G. McNaught has retired from the conductorship of the Bow and Bromley Choir. This appointment he has held with much distinction to himself and benefit to the cause of music in the East End of London for a quarter of a century.

Frederick A. Gore Ouseley

Mr. Edward Elgar invited three ladies—teachers of the French, German, and English languages at a school in which he is interested—to the full rehearsal of his 'Dream of Gerontius' at Birmingham. Notwithstanding his injunction that they were not to thank him for the privilege, the trio of fair instructresses sent him the following epistle, in form of expression somewhat Tower of Babelish:—

Sept. 28, 1900.

My cher Herr!

We sommes so full de Dankbarkeit and débordante Entzücken and sentons so weak et demütig that la Kraft of une Sprache seems insuffisante auszüdrücken our sentiments. Deshalb we unissons unsere powers et versuchen to express en Englisch, French, and Allemand das for que wir feel n'importe quelle Sprache to be insuffisante. Wie can nous beschreiben our accablante Freude and surprise! Wir do pas wissen which nous schätzen most: notre Vergnügen to-morrow, ou die fact, que von all gens Sie thought à uns.

We sommes alle three fières und happy, et danken you de ganz our cœur.

(Signed by the three ladies aforesaid.)

Giuseppe Verdi attained the patriarchal age of eighty-seven on the 10th ult. The event not only was an occasion for hearty congratulation, but it more than ever justified his title to that of 'the grand old man of music.' The veteran composer's first visit to England took place fifty-three years ago. He came hither for the production of his opera 'I Masnadieri,' the libretto founded on Schiller's 'The Robbers,' first performed at Her Majesty's Theatre, July 22, 1847. The cast included Jenny Lind and Lablache, and the performance was honoured by the presence of the Queen and the Prince Consort. Verdi, who conducted, had a magnificent reception. Lumley, the impresario, made him a liberal offer to conduct Italian opera at Her Majesty's for three years, an offer which Verdi felt strongly inclined to accept, but which was rendered impossible by the existing agreements with his Italian publisher. Had he settled down to the business of an operatic conductor it is possible that 'Rigoletto,' 'Trovatore,' and 'Traviata' might never have been written. Verdi again visited these shores in 1862, and also in 1875, on the latter occasion for the memorable performances of his 'Requiem' at the Royal Albert Hall, when he was received with great enthusiasm. The year of Verdi's birth (1813) is also that of other good men and true who, having served well the art of music, now rest from their labours. Here are their names in the order of the dates of their birth. Curiously enough, they fall alphabetically:—

Otto Jahn	Died 1869
Francesco Lamperti	„ 1892
George Alexander Macfarren	„ 1887
Prosper Phillippe Catherine Sainton	„ 1890
Henry Smart	„ 1879
Wilhelm Richard Wagner	„ 1883

Professor Karl Klindworth celebrated his seventieth birthday on September 25, too late for notice in our October issue. But although this note of congratulation to the veteran musician on so interesting an event comes somewhat 'after the beat,' it may be credited with a good sforzando to emphasise its sincerity. The distinguished pianist and teacher of the pianoforte, the friend of Wagner, the editor of Chopin and other classical composers for the household instrument, has friends not a few in England who wish him all happiness in the eventide of his long and useful life.

Mr. Charles William Perkins, organist to the Corporation of Birmingham and of the Musical Festivals, is a native of that city, having been born there on October 4, 1855. He studied the organ under Mr. Andrew Deakin and pianoforte and composition under the late Dr. Swinnerton Heap. After holding the appointment of organist at Wretham Road Church, Handsworth, till 1884, Mr. Perkins came to London as assistant to Sir Frederick Bridge at Westminster Abbey. During his residence in London he held successively the organistships of Immanuel Church, Streatham Common, and St. Michael's Church, Paddington; and he owes much to the kind advice and guidance of Sir John Stainer during the last years of the latter's organistship of St. Paul's. In June, 1888, he was elected organist of the Birmingham Town Hall, a post which he worthily holds in addition to that of the Musical Festivals. It is no wonder that the services of Mr. Perkins are in great request for recitals at organ inaugurations. In The Musical Times of May last (p. 315) we gave some particulars of his weekly performances in the Town Hall of Birmingham. Mr. Perkins is the right man in the right place, which happens to be his native place.

(From a Photograph by Mr. J. A. Draycott, Birmingham.)

Charles William Perkins

Sir Frederick Bridge took the following as the subjects of his Gresham Lectures, delivered on the 23rd, 24th, 25th, and 26th ult.:—

Lawes's 'Comus' music and songs.
Orchestral study (IV.)—The Flute.
Orchestral study (V.)—The Cor Anglais.
Purcell and the Italians.

Mr. E. Silas writes as follows, under date 'October 12, 1900':—

Would you kindly correct the answer to 'Exon' in your next issue as the one in the last number is not quite correct. I have written an Adagio in E, for eight concertinas; a Quintet in D, for concertina, violin, viola, violoncello, and pianoforte; a Quartet in B flat, for concertina, viola, violoncello, and pianoforte; four Trios, for concertina, viola, and pianoforte; three Trios, for concertina, violoncello, and pianoforte; two Sonatas, for concertina and pianoforte; besides a great number of pieces for concertina and pianoforte. The Trios for concertina, violin, and pianoforte, mentioned in the reply to 'Exon,' have not been written by me.

While we gladly insert the authoritative information kindly supplied by Mr. Silas, we may add that we supplied the answer to our correspondent's question from a source which we considered trustworthy.

Mr. Frederic H. Cowen will be entertained at dinner by the Glasgow Society of Musicians on the 30th inst. We understand that his 'Idyllic' Symphony (No. 6, in E) is to be performed during the coming season by the Liverpool Philharmonic Society, at Glasgow, Edinburgh, and Bournemouth, and that it will also find a place in the scheme of the Philharmonic Society's concerts in London.

The 'Agamemnon of Æschylus,' in the original Greek, is announced to be performed, in the New Theatre, Cambridge, on the 16th, 17th, 19th, 20th, and 21st. The incidental music for the play has been specially composed by Sir Hubert Parry.

Additional patronymics of English musicians duly foreignised:—

H. Schlüsselklang.
Le François.
F. Listigschinken Wälder.
P. Chevreuil.
Heinrich Holz.
Edoardo Tedesco.
Herr Alangrau.
Erneste Gué.

A contributor, during a recent visit to a friend in Leicestershire who is a composer and a follower of the Quorn, suggested to his host that he should compose a 'Hunting' symphony, of which the first subject should be given out by the Quorno Inglese! He is no longer a guest.

The following fugitive lines were recently picked up in the neighbourhood of Queen's Hall:

There was a young man of Portugal
Who played very well on the bugle.
He blew, and he blew,
And he tried all he knew,
But he could not play works that were fugal!

Mr. Arthur Payne, leader of the Queen's Hall Orchestra, has been appointed music director of the Llandudno Pier Concerts.

Thomas Attwood will form the subject of the biographical sketch in our December issue. In addition to a special portrait, reproduced for the first time, of Mozart's only English pupil, the article will contain some fresh information concerning the old musician from family papers. Of special interest will be some facsimiles of the theoretical exercises worked by Attwood while studying under Mozart, with the master's comments thereupon. These will be reproduced from the originals in the possession of Sir Frederick Bridge and by his kind permission. Somewhat of a sequel to the above-mentioned proposal will be an illustrated article, entitled 'The sisters of two great composers'—(1) Nannerl Mozart and (2) Fanny Mendelssohn. We may take this opportunity to announce a new departure in regard to our Foreign News. Two distinguished writers on music in Berlin and Vienna—Herr Otto Lessmann, editor of the Allgemeine Musik-Zeitung, of the former city, and an eminent critic residing in the city of Beethoven and Schubert—have kindly consented to furnish our readers, month by month, with letters giving a resumé of the musical doings in their respective centres. Mr. H. E. Krehbiel, the well-known musical critic of New York, has resumed his letters in the present issue, and will continue to do so during the season. In the December issue we may have something to say concerning prospective intentions for the first year of the New Century.

THE BIRMINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(By our Special Correspondents.)

The thirty-ninth great music-meeting in the Midland capital has come and gone, leaving its lights and shadows behind. Inaugurated in 1768, the Festival has been held triennially since 1834. In that year the Town Hall, then newly erected, was used for the first time. This noble building was due to the enthusiastic enterprise of the late Mr. Joseph Moore (1766-1851), whose name should be kept in reverent remembrance as being the father of the Festivals in their present world-wide importance. It was Mr. Moore who induced Mendelssohn to conduct his own works at the Festivals of 1837 and 1840; moreover, it was at his instigation that 'Elijah' was produced at Birmingham, under the composer's direction, on August 26, 1846—a red-letter day in the history of their Festivals of which Birmingham folk are not a little proud.

October 2, 3, 4, and 5 were the days on which the recent Festival was held, under the conductorship of Dr. Hans Richter, who has held the post since 1885. The band consisted of 123 performers, of whom 87 were 'strings.' The chorus totalled 351 voices, distributed thus:

Sopranos.	Contraltos.	Tenors.	Basses.
107	80	76	88

EXIT MALE ALTOS!

For the first time in the history of the Festival there were no male altos in the chorus. In Mendelssohn's time (1846) the alto part was sung entirely by men—'bearded altos,' as he called them. Since the meeting of 1867 there has been a steady decrease in the number of these gentlemen altos. They dwindled down to nine at the last Festival, and now they have disappeared altogether. It may not be without interest to mention that the employment of lady singers in the alto section of the Festival chorus was due to Costa, who first introduced them at the Festival of 1849—the occasion of his initial conductorship—in the proportion of 17 of the fair sex to 59 of the hirsute-adorned species. In 1846 (the 'Elijah' year) 62 of the 271 chorus singers went down from London, now the choir is entirely local, and very properly so, in its constitution.

'ELIJAH' AND ITS PANEGYRIC.

After the National Anthem (Costa's arrangement), the Festival began on Tuesday morning (the 2nd ult.) with Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,' which oratorio, with the exception of its production in 1846 and the Festival of 1864, has always opened this feast of music. The work received, on the whole, a very satisfactory performance. It is sufficient to name the principal vocalists to record that full justice was done to the solos: Madame Albani, Miss Esther Palliser, Miss Ada Crossley, Miss Clara Butt, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Mr. Andrew Black. For the first time the double quartet ('For He shall give His angels') was sung entirely by principals engaged for the Festival. The hall was crowded in every part, standing places being sold easily at a guinea each. The coup d'œil, especially during a gleam of brilliant sunshine, furnished a striking feature in an event which was deeply impressive—no less in its associations than in a general all-round excellence of interpretation.

A protest must, however, be made against the ultra-fulsome panegyric of the oratorio printed in the programme book. This unnecessary laudation was, we believe, written by a late distinguished musical critic at the request of the late Mr. J. Oliver Mason, who had much to do with engineering former Festivals. It first appeared in 1858 and contains such ridiculous expressions as 'There is nothing in music more impressive than this hymn' ('For He, the Lord our God'), and 'This is one of the most remarkable examples of vocal part-writing of which the art can boast' ('For He shall give His angels'), and so on ad nauseam. Is it not time that such absurd puffery should be suppressed? The old mistakes (in two places) of printing 'Ecclesiastes' instead of 'Ecclesiasticus,' in the scriptural references, were repeated in this word-book, which needs to be thoroughly revised before another Festival.

SIR HUBERT PARRY AND OTHERS.

The programme of the Tuesday evening performance was as follows:—

PART I.

Overture—'Genoveva' .. .. Schumann.
Psalm (12 parts)—'De Profundis' .. .. Sir Hubert Parry.
(Conducted by the Composer.)
Soloist—Miss Evangeline Florence.

PART II.

Orchestral Song—'The Soldier's Tent' .. Sir Hubert Parry.
(From 'The Bard of Dimbovitza,' by Carmen Sylva.)
(Written specially for this Festival and conducted by the Composer.)
Mr. Plunket Greene.

Symphony in C ('Jupiter') .. .. Mozart.

Songs from the Cycle—'Sea Pictures' .. .. Edward Elgar.
I. Sea-slumber Song. | IV. Where corals lie.
II. In Haven. | V. The Swimmer.
(Conducted by the Composer.)
Miss Clara Butt.

Overture—'Romeo and Juliet' .. .. .. Tschaïkowsky.

Ballade—'Die Vätergruft' (Uhland) .. .. Peter Cornelius.
Mr. Plunket Greene and Chorus.

Overture—'Tannhäuser' .. .. Wagner.

The manner of the performance of this programme does not call for detailed remark. It may be taken for granted that the orchestral numbers were played with all possible excellence under Dr. Richter's conductorship. The 'Jupiter' would have sounded more Mozartean if only half the strings in the band had been employed, though no such limitations could be thought of in connection with the 'Tannhäuser' overture—that 'old chestnut,' as a distinguished composer called it—which was played with all possible fire and crispness. Tschaïkowsky's overture, in spite of its cleverness, gave one the impression of being rather more cymbalical than symbolical. Sir Hubert Parry's fine setting of the 'De Profundis' (soloist, Miss Evangeline Florence) was not adequately rendered by the choir. The division into '12 parts' and the Latin words doubtless militated against a proper interpretation of music that needs to be thoroughly mastered before full justice can be done to it. Miss Clara Butt repeated her former successes in her inimitable interpretation of Mr. Elgar's delightful 'Sea Pictures,' especially in the charming lyric (the words by Mrs. Elgar), entitled 'In Haven' (Capri), a song which is worthy of Schubert at his best. Mr. Plunket Greene gave quite a sepulchral touch to his singing of the solo in 'Die Vätergruft' of Peter Cornelius, and the 'Spirit voices' of the chorus (unaccompanied) again proved the effectiveness of this graphic setting of Uhland's words. The 'orchestral song'—what is an 'orchestral song'?—by Sir Hubert Parry, one of the two novelties of the Festival, was also well sung by his son-in-law, Mr. Plunket Greene, for whom it was written. Perhaps its most effective portion, on a first hearing, was the orchestral prelude illustrating the words (unsung):—

Across the mountain the mist hath drawn
A cov'ring of bridal white;
The plains afar make lament, and mourn
That the flutt'ring veil of the mist-wreaths born
Hath hidden the mountains from sight.

'THE DREAM OF GERONTIUS.'

The production of Mr. Edward Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius' at the Wednesday morning performance was the great event of the Festival and the feature which will be the best remembered. Unfortunately the memories will not all be as pleasant as they should be, owing to the shortcomings of the chorus. But I do not wish to do more than mention them—particularly as the whole question is discussed elsewhere. One point, however, seems to call for consideration in this place. The defects alluded to may have been due to specific accidental causes. But even granting that it was so, the fact that such accidents are possible in our best regulated Festival is a serious one. My own feeling was, however, that it was no accident; that the indifferent singing was due to the nature of the choral writing. Not that it was exceptionally difficult, but the difficulties were of a kind to which choralists are not yet accustomed.

'The Dream of Gerontius' is a work of great originality, beauty, and power; and, above all, of the completest sincerity. It is not desirable, of course, to introduce theological notions into the discussion of a composition; but it is necessary to refer to the fact that no one but a Catholic could approach Cardinal Newman's poem in the right spirit. Moreover, there are many—even Catholics—to whom the insistence on what may be called the physical aspects of the Last Judgment in the poem is extremely distasteful. This may or may not be heterodox theology and inferior literature, but there is no doubt that these very features are what give a composer his best opportunities—more particularly a composer of Mr. Elgar's temperament. He makes Gerontius a man of every-day weakness and, we must suppose, sinfulness. This conception conditions the whole work; and his utterances on earth can by this means be brought into sharp contact with the ecstasies of his soul in Heaven, and thus a great deal is gained for the total artistic effect. In his treatment of the choruses Mr. Elgar is frankly dramatic, especially in the chorus of the dispossessed Demons. The chorus of praise and thanksgiving, 'Praise to the Holiest,' is perhaps the most elaborate choral movement Mr. Elgar has written and its working up to a musical and emotional climax is nobly conceived and carried out with mastery. But, to judge from one performance, it is not the most successful number in the work. The most beautiful numbers are the spiritually exalted Prelude, which ought soon to find its way into all our concert-rooms; the exquisite air of the Guardian Angel, 'My work is done'—the gem of the whole—and the scene with Gerontius which succeeds it. The orchestral interlude which depicts the wafting of the Soul though space is also of rare and tranquil beauty, while Gerontius's last words on earth, 'Sanctus, fortis,' are very striking.

In all respects I am disposed to consider 'Gerontius' an advance on Mr. Elgar's earlier works. His use of Leitmotives is subtler and more suggestive; his orchestration, while as beautiful and skilful as ever, suffers less from the over-elaboration which sometimes obscured his main drift; his writing for the solo voices is immeasurably more grateful, without, however, any hint of concession to mere facility or banality; and of the choral writing I have already spoken. But the chief merit of all is the 'atmosphere' which the work creates. The boldness with which Mr. Elgar has throughout shaken himself free from all conventionality is most admirable, since it is the outcome of conviction—not of a desperate desire to be different from other people at all costs.

In regard to the performance, Mr. Edward Lloyd—whose last Festival 'creation' this was—sang the music of Gerontius very finely, though a little more dramatic intensity might not have been amiss here and there; Miss Marie Brema's singing of the music of the Angel was superb in its grasp of the true meaning of the music and the poem, and Mr. Plunket Greene sang the music of the Priest and of the Angel of the Agony with all his usual earnestness. The orchestra had a hard task, and discharged it most ably, under Dr. Richter, for Mr. Elgar had decided not to conduct his own work, but to entrust it to the conductor in chief of the Festival. 'The Dream of Gerontius' is a work which requires to be known; but still it impresses deeply at a first hearing, as was shown by its enthusiastic reception on this its first performance.

Schubert's so-called 'Unfinished' Symphony opened the second part of the morning's performance. It is hardly necessary to say that the beautiful work received a very finished rendering by the orchestra, under Dr. Richter's skilful guidance. A selection from 'Israel in Egypt,' somewhat perfunctorily performed, followed. The soloists were Miss Esther Palliser, Miss Marie Brema, Mr. William Green, Mr. Andrew Black, and Mr. Plunket Greene—the two last-named vocalists duetting, somewhat frolicsomely, 'The Lord is a man of war.' A special word of praise should be meted out to the rising and conscientious young tenor, Mr. William Green, for his singing of 'The enemy said.'

THE TRIUMPHS OF HIAWATHA!

The attendance at the Festival reached its high-water mark at the performance of 'Hiawatha' by clever young Coleridge-Taylor. In regard to the wave of its popularity, the tide remains at the flood, and in all probability the cantata will leave its foot-prints on the sands of time. The human element in the trilogy is a very strong factor in sustaining its interest. When to this can be added music that is grateful to sing, is melodiously attractive and understandable to the man in the street, then a long march along the road that leads to success is accomplished. As a distinguished composer remarked to me during the interval, 'The music goes to your heart,' and there were moments during the 'Death of Minnehaha' section when one could not help experiencing that throat lumpiness which is an indication of the moving power of music over the emotions. It is no wonder that the work has taken such a high position in so short a time; in fact, it would not be very difficult to compile a list of choral societies that are not going to perform this 'Hiawatha' music during the coming season. All this must be very gratifying to Mr. Coleridge-Taylor, no less than the hearty reception he met with at the close of the Birmingham performance. In regard to the interpretation, the choir sang their tuneful strains remarkably well and the soloists—Madame Albani, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Mr. Andrew Black—fully sustained their reputations. Dr. Richter, who conducted at the composer's request, took some of the choral movements too slowly, with some loss to the vivacious rhythmic-charged music; but the whole performance proved to be a very enjoyable feature in the music-making of a memorable day.

Much has been said as to the advantages of an experienced conductor over the composer in piloting a new work. But is it an unmixed advantage? Are not the few inefficiencies—should they be in evidence—of the inexperienced conductor-composer preferable to the expertness of the eminent orchestral-chief, who may not be in full sympathy with the music placed in his charge? One thing is certain, if the composer himself conduct, one would naturally expect, and would probably experience, a truer spiritual interpretation, which, if less technically excellent, would have compensating advantages over the other conditions.

THE 'ST. MATTHEW' PASSION.

Thursday morning brought with it Bach's 'St. Matthew' Passion and a reminiscence of 'Elijah' in an abundance of rain. The proper environment for the great Cantor's wonderful tone-picture is undoubtedly the church and not the concert-room; but, under the circumstances, no fault could be found with the managers of the Festival for selecting so worthy an art creation for performance at their Festival. It may not be generally known that the earliest performance in this country of any portion of the 'St. Matthew' Passion took place in this very Town Hall of Birmingham, at the Festival of 1837. The selection performed on that occasion (September 22, 1837)—the duet and chorus, 'My Saviour Jesus now is taken'—was due to Mendelssohn, who conducted his 'St. Paul' and played Bach's Organ Prelude and Fugue at that Festival. Tradition says that the performance was vile! A sapient local critic sitting in judgment on the Festival doings delivered himself thus: 'The duet from Bach's Passion is a laboured production, unvocal and unfit for the words; and the singers evidently felt it so.' Poor scribe! we feel for you. To return to the present performance. The interpretation was unfortunately very unequal. While the chorus sang the chorales (unaccompanied) with fine tone and refinement, they failed to fathom the hidden depths of Bach's devotional strains, and, as on the previous day, their intonation was not always faultless. A number of chorister boys, selected from various church choirs in the city, were retained to sing the chorales in the first part; but as these young gentlemen took it into their heads to sing sharp, the effect was not altogether pleasant to one's auditory nerves. Some unfortunate discrepancies, which must have been due to insufficient rehearsal, were painfully evident in the matter of rendering those ornaments which are so characteristic a feature of Bach's music—the solo vocalist making the appoggiaturas long and the flautist making them short, when both voice and instrument should have been exactly together! Mr. C. W. Perkins, who, unlike a good many organists, is also an artist, exercised commendable restraint in the use of the organ; and thus it was that the fortissimo entry of the great instrument, over which Mr. Perkins so ably presides, on the F sharp major chord in the mighty 'lightning and thunder' chorus proved to be in the highest degree effective and legitimate in its thrillingness. Mr. A. J. Cotton, the excellent choral accompanist to the Festival, was at the pianoforte for the recitatives.

THE ENGLISH TEXT OF THE PASSION MUSIC.

Special mention must be made of the English text used on this occasion—that made by the late Dr. Troutbeck. This version has the supreme advantage of retaining the notes exactly as Bach wrote them, more especially in the recitatives. The translator of the earlier English text altered the notes to fit her translation, whereas Dr. Troutbeck most carefully constructed his version in order that Bach's notation should be religiously preserved. Unfortunately, Mr. Edward Lloyd sang from the earlier edition, with the result that not only were there considerable variants with Bach's original setting of the recitatives, but the tenor soloist's utterances disagreed with the words printed in the programme book. The other principals, in addition to Mr. Lloyd, were Miss Esther Palliser, Miss Ada Crossley, Mr. William Green, Mr. Andrew Black, Mr. Plunket Greene, and Mr. Bispham.

It was exceedingly fitting that Mr. Edward Lloyd should take his farewell of the Birmingham Musical Festival in Bach's "St. Matthew" Passion. It was in this noble work that Mr. Lloyd first made his mark as an oratorio singer of the first rank, nearly thirty years ago, at the Gloucester Festival of 1871, conducted by the late Dr. S. S. Wesley. A special call for the distinguished tenor at the close of the performance was as fully justified as it was richly deserved.

Dvorák's 'Spectre's Bride,' specially composed for the Festival of 1885, formed the main feature of the evening concert. In this connection it may not be without interest to recall the verdict of Professor Prout upon the work, which he recorded in the columns of the Athenæum immediately after its production, fifteen years ago. 'Of the music it is quite impossible in words to convey any adequate idea. Whatever we may say will appear weak to those who have heard the work, and exaggerated to those who have not. . . . That he [Dvorák] has been able throughout a cantata lasting more than an hour and a half in performance to keep the attention of the audience at the highest stretch, without inducing the slightest feeling of weariness or monotony, is an achievement of which he may well feel proud.' To return to the present Festival, Dvorák's dramatic and picturesquely orchestrated work was performed with much verve and enthusiasm by both band and choir, and the solo portions were in the safe keeping of Madame Albani (who was in splendid voice), Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Bispham. The remainder of the programme consisted of Berlioz's 'King Lear' overture and the final scene from 'Götterdämmerung' (superbly sung by that consummate artist, Miss Marie Brema). Glazounow's richly scored and melodious Sixth Symphony—how charmingly beautiful its variations and Intermezzo sections—brought the concert to a triumphant termination.

BRAHMS, BYRD, AND BEETHOVEN.

If there is any charm in variety it was furnished by the bill of fare for the Friday morning's performance, the last day of the Festival. First we had the ever-welcome 'German Requiem' of Brahms. Every rehearing of this masterpiece confirms one's impressions that the master has therein reached the heights of sublimity and fathomed the depths of devotional expression in music. The chorus did their work well, and the beautiful orchestration, which is so marked a feature of the Requiem, was well revealed under Dr. Richter's careful conductorship. The soloists were Miss Evangeline Florence and Mr. Bispham. 'Twas a far cry from Johannes Brahms to our own William Byrd, who was born some three hundred years earlier. Byrd was represented on this occasion by a selection—Credo, Sanctus, Benedictus, and Agnus Dei—from his Mass for five voices. The archaic nature of this old-world music fell strangely upon the ear after the modern harmonies and current tonality of the previous days, and, moreover, the unecclesiastical surroundings were against a proper appreciation of the antiquated music. Its revival was most interesting, and thanks are due to Mr. W. Barclay Squire and Mr. R. R. Terry for furnishing the excellent edition from which the work was performed. The soloists in the Mass were the same as in Brahms's Requiem, with the addition of Miss Ada Crossley, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. William Green. Nothing could be greater than the contrast between the sixteenth century composition of Mr. Byrd and the 'Parsifal' Vorspiel which followed, and which, with Beethoven's refreshing Seventh Symphony, was played, as of old, with all due effect by Dr. Richter's orchestra.

The meeting was brought to a fitting conclusion by a performance of Handel's 'Messiah,' without which no English Festival would seem complete. There was a first-rate cast of soloists in Madame Albani, Miss Clara Butt, Mr. Ben Davies (who specially distinguished himself in the Passion music), and Mr. Andrew Black, who deserves to be highly commended for the attention he gives to the pronunciation of his words—an all-important feature of vocal art that is far too much neglected, not only by soloists, but by chorus singers. Dr. Richter unfortunately took several of the numbers too slowly—this was especially noticeable in 'And with His stripes,' which the singers could not phrase properly at so leisurely a rate of speed.

CHORAL MATTERS.

In a general retrospect of the Festival doings the gloomy character of the scheme was noticeable, so many of the works being associated with death or of a non-festal nature. Greater relief from this sad element would have been welcome. Dr. Richter conducted the instrumental and Wagnerian selections with all the skill and greatness that have made him unapproachable as a conductor of orchestral music.

But more than this is surely required at an English Festival where choral music holds a pre-eminent place. There is something wrong in a system which allows a foreign conductor to take up the reins from an English-speaking chorus-master at the eleventh hour, and which recalls the old adage of swapping horses while crossing the stream. Moreover, there are certain deep-rooted traditions connected with our oratorio singing which Dr. Richter, with all his masterfulness, cannot be expected to grasp. The managers of this and other Festivals will doubtless take it into their serious consideration whether, in the case of a non-native conductor-in-chief, some, at least, of the choral works should not be conducted by the chorus-master, who, apart from the consideration of language, has the advantage of being more in touch with his choir and its personnel.

The attendances and receipts, shown by the following comparative table, were most satisfactory, and it is expected that a sum of about £5,000 will be available for the treasury of the General Hospital.

AGGREGATE RETURN.

Attendance.			Receipts, Donations, &c.
	1900.	1897.		1900.	1897.
Total (four days) ..	13,218	12,392	£14,670 17 2 ..		£13,722 9 11
Attendance increase, 826.			Receipts increase, £948 7 3

In conclusion, full acknowledgment must be made of the unfailing courtesy of the Lord Mayor of Birmingham (Alderman C. G. Beale), Councillor G. H. Johnstone (Chairman of the Orchestral Committee), and the Stewards in carrying out the seating arrangements of the large audiences assembled day by day.

POSTSCRIPT.

Dr. Richter conducted the selection from 'Israel in Egypt' from a vocal score. We understand that the great conductor did not see the full score of Mr. Elgar's 'Dream of Gerontius' till the evening before he conducted its first orchestral rehearsal at Queen's Hall. This full score contains, at the end, the signatures of every member of the Festival band. The title-page, in addition to several interesting signatures, bears the following characteristic inscription in the handwriting of the Festival conductor:—

Let drop the chorus,
Let drop everybody;
But let not drop the wings of your original genius.

Hans Richter.

As some wrong impressions have been formed in regard to the tardy appearance of Mr. Elgar to acknowledge the plaudits of the audience after the performance of his 'Dream of Gerontius,' it may not be without interest to state the actual facts of the case. Previous to the performance Mr. Elgar was informed, and the statement was printed in the programme-book, that 'no applause would be allowed at the morning performances.' Therefore, the composer seated himself far back in the end gallery to hear the performance of his new work. When he discovered that he was 'wanted'—though not by the constabulary—he found himself hopelessly thwarted in making his way to the orchestra. In spite of many beckonings by Dr. Richter, Mr. Elgar's progress up the stairs was barred by the broad back of a burly Birminghamite who was applauding vigorously. Mr. Elgar modestly said: 'Will you kindly allow me to pass?' 'Now, just wait a minute or two,' replied the applauder, 'we want Elgar up and mean to have him!' At last the composer made bold to say: 'I think it would really expedite the matter if you will allow me to go on the orchestra,' which he then did, and Mr. Elgar made his acknowledgment of the applause of the audience.

The fine appearance of the Birmingham police attracted general attention, especially the mounted members of the force, who charged along the streets calling up carriages with all the dash of the Light Brigade! How different the conditions of present-day preservation of law and order compared with those of a hundred years ago. It is recorded [at the Festival of 1799] that, for the special benefit of the light-fingered gentry, who were so troublesome in 1796, the task of preserving order was entrusted to the 'Loyal Birmingham Association of Infantry,' who, notwithstanding very bad weather, manfully remained at their posts from morning until after midnight, 'and effectually preserved order, and protected the pockets of those of his Majesty's subjects who came to attend the Festival.'

Two veterans present at the Festival deserve 'honourable mention' for long service. Mr. Thomas Harrison, a worthy citizen of Birmingham, and one of the noble army of courteous stewards, has attended every Festival since 1846. May that just passed be by no means his last appearance at the great music-making in Hardwareopolis. Equally veteranish is Mr. William Pountney, who has been a chorus singer at every Festival (except that of 1849, when he was absent from Birmingham) since 1846. He is not only the doyen of the chorus, but at the recent meeting sang amongst the basses with a hearty enthusiasm worthy of all emulation. He by no means owed his place in the Festival chorus of 1900 by reason of his long service, but passed the examination with honours, singing a scale from low D to high F sharp—two octaves and a third! Bravo! William Pountney!

Portraits of Mr. W. C. Stockley and Mr. C. W. Perkins, chorus-master and organist respectively of the Festival, will be found in another column.

A NEW ENGLISH COMPOSER.

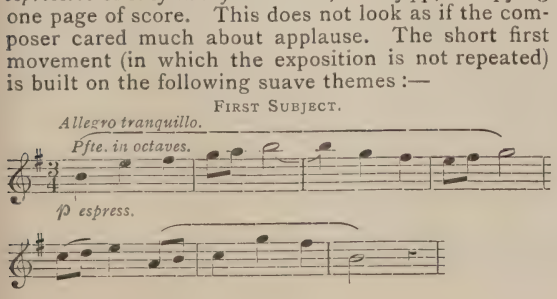
Dr. H. Walford Davies is not unknown to our readers. Since his student days at the Royal College of Music this journal has frequently, and in no uncertain manner, drawn attention to his creative gifts whenever one of his works has been produced. As long ago as December, 1896, we referred to his second Violin Sonata, in D minor—then played for the first time in public, from manuscript—as 'showing noble endeavour in every bar, and the "lion's claw" of something very like genius in its finest moments.' This remark may well be applied to a number of his compositions which have just been published and which we are about to discuss, for they do not contain one bar that falls below the highest standard which an artist, taking his art most seriously, could set himself, while there are passages which seem to flash the precious light of inspiration upon us. We have studied the works carefully, but no re-reading can convince us that our first strong impression was too favourable. On the contrary, Dr. Davies's music is not only never written ad captandum, but greater familiarity with its secrets breeds but greater love and admiration for it. The more elaborate and serious efforts show the composer's creative gifts at their best: the higher his aims, the nobler the results. This is as it should be, and it is well. It causes us to look upon Dr. Davies more than ever as a composer with whom the nearest future of English music will have to reckon. He has not rushed into print with unripe, ill-digested works. Some of them have been in existence for several years. They must have been put aside time after time for reconsideration and revision. The result is a batch of the sanest, wholesomest, and, what is more to the point, most beautiful compositions it has been our good fortune to see for a long time. The workmanship appears perfect. Padding there is none.

Every note seems in its right place, and there are neither too few nor too many. The critic does not question the raison d'être of this phrase or the advisability of that passage. Everything occurs as of a logical necessity. This does not mean that the music is not often full of delightful surprises. But when it has become familiar, no other way than the composer's suggests itself as possible. This is his triumph, the result of a strong intellectuality, of masterly workmanship, of a well applied capacity for taking immense pains. A young heart from which flow warmth and enthusiasm is ruled and kept in check by a cool head. The consequences are a rare conciseness, and an utter absence of 'passion,' as the term is understood in these days. There is no ranting, no hair-tearing or heart-twisting in Dr. Davies's music. Those to whom Tschaïkowsky's 'Pathetic' Symphony represents the summit of all musical art will be disappointed that our young friend has not been influenced in the least by the fashionable pessimism and sensuousness à la Russe. For this we give him heartfelt thanks. But those who value the sanity and dignity, the serenity and nobility of Brahms's art—and there are more such than are dreamt of in our concert-givers' philosophy—will consider Dr. Davies's two violin and pianoforte sonatas, the scena 'Prospice,' and the anthem 'God created man,' treasures of no common kind.

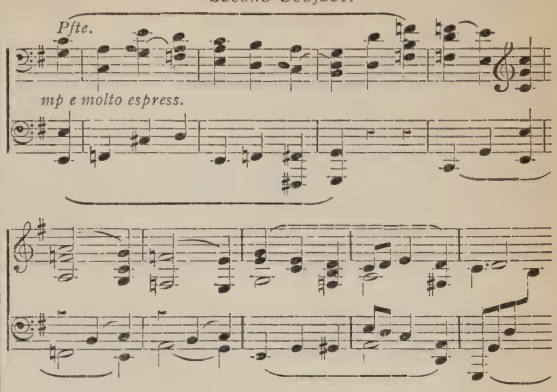
And this brings us to the point where our readers will ask: 'How about your composer's originality?' Some people prize 'originality' above everything else. 'So new, so characteristic,' they will say, and feel happy even with the wildest, ugliest effusions. We would be on the side of the angels and confess that originality has no charm for us if it be not accompanied by beauty. On the other hand, we can see beauty in music even if it does occasionally reflect the influence of another, stronger individuality than the composer's. There are not a few works amongst the world's recognised masterpieces, and quite a large number of the great masters' early efforts which do in places shine thus with reflected light. When the sun has set, we gladly welcome the moon's soft splendour. Dr. Davies's music is influenced by Brahms, but only in the general way in which the youthful Brahms was influenced by Beethoven. To him Brahms represents the latest and farthest development in Chamber music; he builds on the strong and broad foundations securely laid by the great masters, and broadened and strengthened by the latest of their glorious line. We can dismiss this question and leave to the reminiscence hunters their favourite task of discovering what may perchance 'remind them of something.' Our young composer has sufficient individuality and strength to produce masterly works—masterly, that is, in technique and invention. Let us look at them a little more closely.

The first sonata, in E minor (Op. 5), is a remarkably concise yet beautifully finished work. It presents an unusual feature in that the Finale consists of an Adagio espressivo of only thirty-four bars, mostly pp, occupying one page of score. This does not look as if the composer cared much about applause. The short first movement (in which the exposition is not repeated) is built on the following suave themes:—

First Subject.



Second Subject.



Their gentle beauty indicates the happy, contented feeling of the whole. This is music to soothe and charm, rather than astonish and excite. Rarely only does it rise to a forte, and only once, for four bars, to a fortissimo. But its refined sentiment and unaffected simplicity leave a wholly pleasant impression behind. Very different in character is the subsequent Presto. Full of bustling energy and vigorous life, the music rushes along over numberless busy semiquavers with delightful abandon. We must quote the opening subject (violin part only) and its very rhythmical and tuneful counterpart, which is assigned to the pianoforte.

A most excellent Scherzo this, which should suffice to make the success of the sonata. The Finale, already referred to, is a pathetic Song, dying away, after a momentary outburst of deep feeling, with a few gentle sighs.

The second sonata, in D minor (Op. 7), announces in its opening subject—that we have before us a work of different calibre from its companion in E minor. If the latter could be called Dr. Davies's idyllic sonata, then we might call this 'Appassionata' or 'Eroica.' In subject-matter, workmanship, style, scope, and effect it challenges comparison with the best sonatas of recent years, and we hail it, as we did in 1896, an admirable work, and a real honour to English art. Strength and dignity are its chief characteristics. They are well exemplified in the above first subject, in this second part thereof—and in the opening phrase of the second section proper—

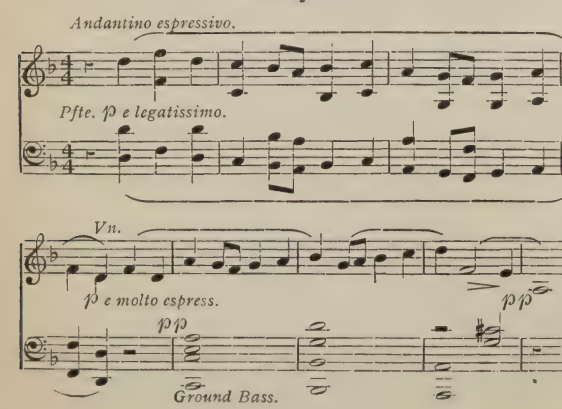
These subjects and the gentler second subject, tranquillo e legato, are treated with rare amplitude, yet without once degenerating into mere loquaciousness. The interest of the movement grows as it proceeds, and a bold, powerful, and impressive Coda, in which most effective use is made of the rhythmic peculiarity of the first subject, crowns this noble and virile piece. Noteworthy features are the brevity of the orthodox development section and the entire omission of the return of the first subject. The themes are so treated in the course of the exposition and recapitulation that this departure from rule only becomes evident when the construction of the movement is subjected to careful analysis.

The second movement, in Aria form, is a delightful Allegretto semplice of such haunting tunefulness and rhythmical charm that it will be welcomed by all sorts and conditions of listeners. We can only quote a few bars of the melody—

The slow movement is entitled 'A Burden,' an excellent English definition, which has ancient usage to recommend it, and may well be incorporated henceforth into all dictionaries as a modern musical term. In form it resembles a Passacaglia—at least, as regards its first part. After an impressive subject, given out by the pianoforte in octaves, the ground bass, C, B♭, A, is heard from the keyed instrument, while the violin announces, molto espressivo, a new strain which seems to come from a heavy-laden heart—



After a while, however, this ground bass is allowed to drop out of the scheme, and the opening phrase assumes greater and greater importance. The movement rises with a gradual and masterly crescendo to heights of great force and pathos. But it is the pathos of dignity, not of despair, of Beethoven's Sonata (Op. 13) rather than Tschaïkowsky's Symphony. The pp ending, suddenly introducing, for a few bars, the key of D major, is a poetic and very effective touch.

The Finale, Allegro tranquillo, is as graceful and genial as the preceding 'Burden' is solemn, soulful, and severe. This charming, open-air first subject—must be the last of our quotations. Enough that this Finale is a worthy companion in every respect to what has gone before, and most effectively ends a beautiful piece of abstract music, coming doubly welcome after the surfeit of programme pieces with which we have of late years been regaled. We recommend it most warmly to all good violinists.

(To be continued.)

ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH MUSIC IN ENGLAND.*

(Concluded from page 598.)

In my first notice of these sacred compositions, I touched briefly upon the universally acknowledged need of a classical school of English Roman Catholic Church music, of the first impetus towards the creation of such a school having been given by Vincent Novello early in this century, and, finally, of the appearance of these first-fruits, if one may so speak, of the present generation of Roman Catholic composers.

And before I turn to speak particularly of these writers and their works, I want to set down one word of caution to the general public as to their inexperience in this matter. Nothing is more common than to pick up a Roman Catholic biography or a Roman Catholic journal and to find a heated controversy going on as to what is the only right style of Church music, the only correct form of plain chant, or the only true interpretation of the pronouncements of the Holy See respecting ecclesiastical music. Most excellent, well-meaning enthusiasts, knowing little of the science and less of the history of the art, are quite prepared, like Mr. Ambrose de Lisle, to talk about 'the figured compositions of Haydn and Mozart,' and in the end to do more harm than good to the cause they hope to benefit. Others find virtues in the dullest music of the German St. Cecilia school, which even the Germans themselves are astonished at, and when they have done praising these, spend much time in detecting divisions of syllables in Latin words of which they do not approve, or repetitions of words, or other petty details.

Another group of critics write to the Tablet, or other Roman Catholic journals, and tie the subject into so many knots that it takes years to unravel the tangles.

* Cantiones Sacræ. Musical settings of the Roman Liturgy. Edited by Dom Samuel Gregory Ould, Monk of the Order of Saint Benedict. (Novello and Co., Ltd.)

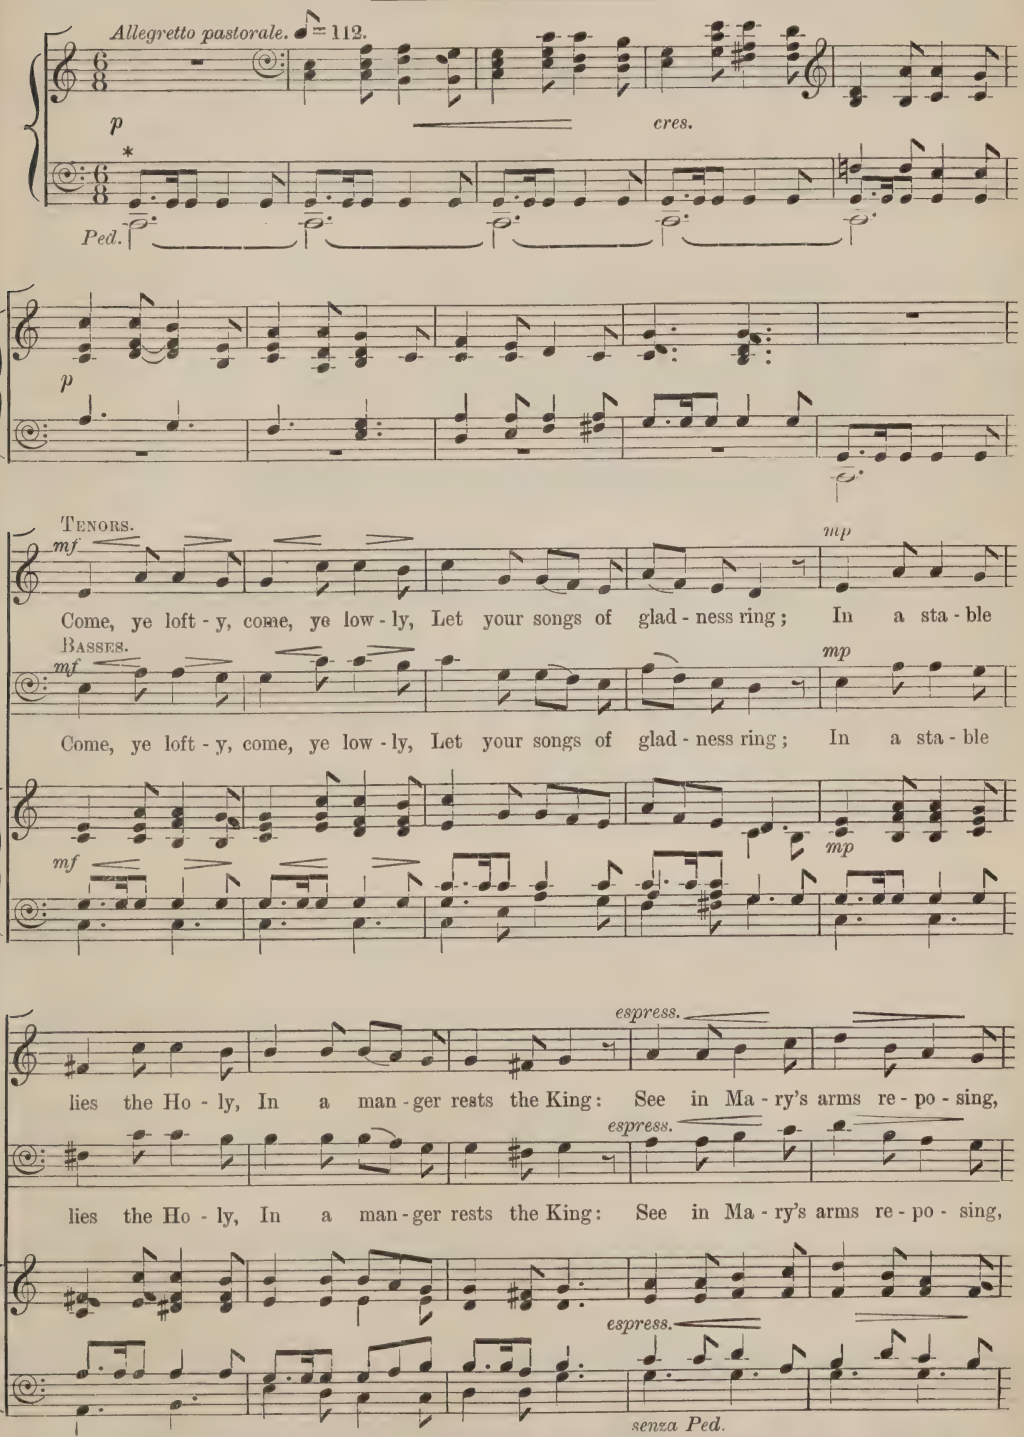
The Musical Times. November 1, 1900.

Come, ye lofty.

CAROL-ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS.

Words by the Rev. ARCHER GURNEY. Composed by H. ELLIOT BUTTON.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.



Allegretto pastorale. ♩= 112.
p
cres.
Ped.
p Tenors.
mf
mp
Come, ye loft - y, come, ye low - ly, Let your songs of glad - ness ring; In a sta - ble Basses.
mf
mp
Come, ye loft - y, come, ye low - ly, Let your songs of glad - ness ring; In a sta - ble
mf
mp
espress.
lies the Ho - ly, In a man - ger rests the King: See in Ma - ry's arms re - po - sing,
espress.
lies the Ho - ly, In a man - ger rests the King: See in Ma - ry's arms re - po - sing, espress.
senza Ped.

* This figure may, when preferred, be played on a separate Manual or in Octaves.

Copyright, 1900, by Novello and Company, Limited.

f
dim.
Christ by high-est Hea'vn a-dor'd : Come, your cir - cle round Him clo - sing, Pi - ous hearts that
f
dim.
Christ by high-est Heav'n a-dor'd : Come, your cir - cle round Him clo - sing, Pi - ous hearts that mf
dim.
love the Lord.
love the Lord.
p
cres.
Ped.
p
Sopranos.
mf
Come, ye poor, no pomp of sta - tion Robes the Child your hearts a-dore : He, the Lord of senza Ped.
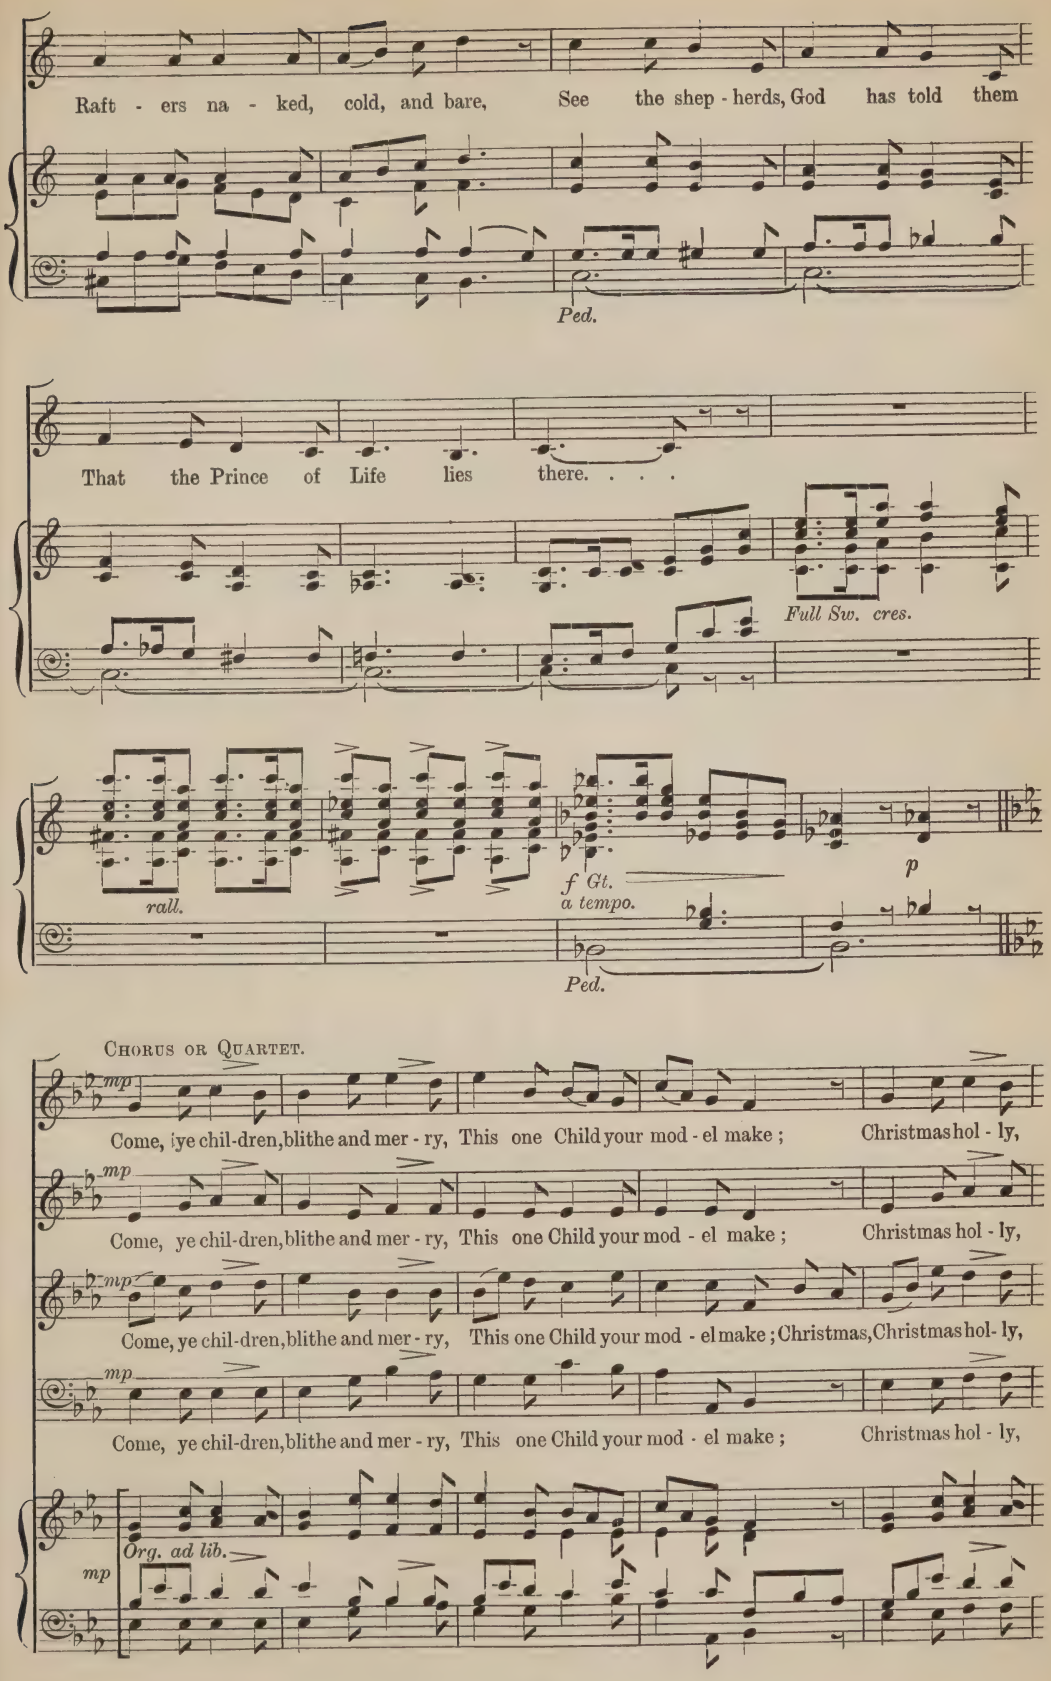
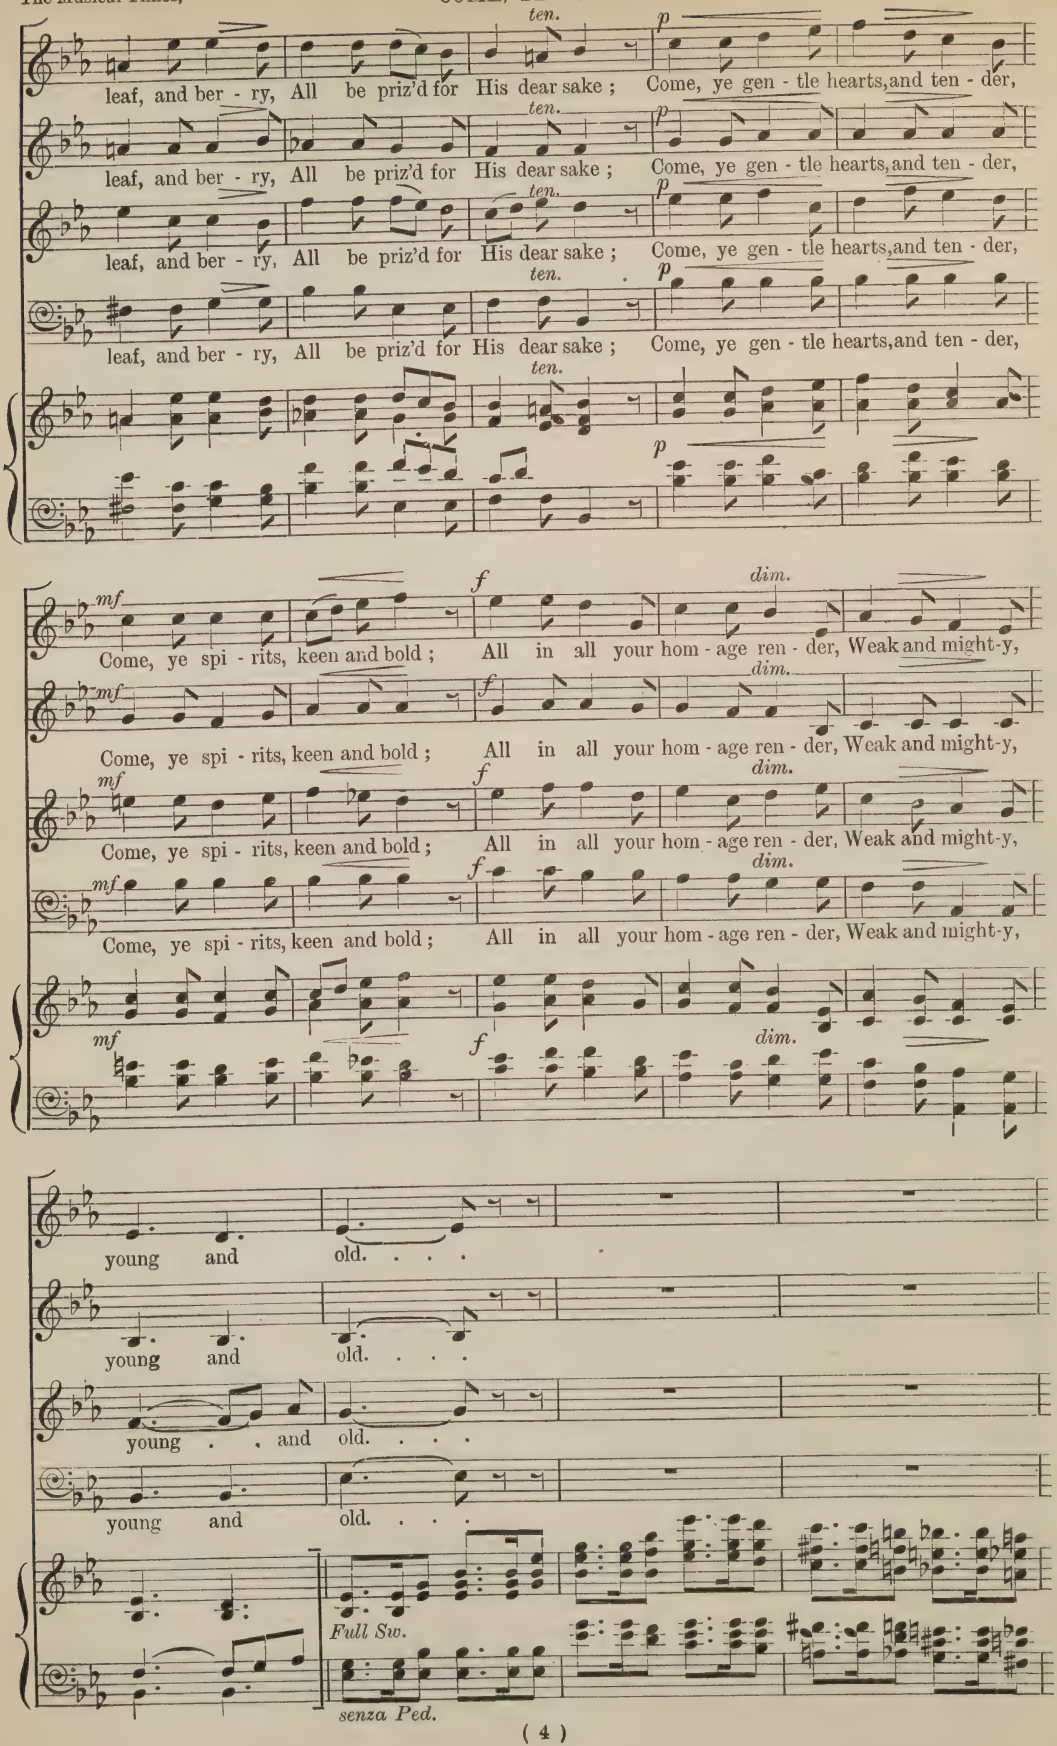
dim.
p
mf
all sal - va-tion, Shares your want, is weak and poor : Ox - en, round a - bout be-hold them ;
mf



Raft - ers na - ked, cold, and bare, See the shep - herds, God has told them
Ped.
That the Prince of Life lies there. . . .
Full Sw. cres.
rall.
f Gt.
a tempo.
p
Ped.
Chorus or Quartet.
mp
Come, ye chil-dren, blithe and mer - ry, This one Child your mod - el make ; Christmas hol - ly,
Come, ye chil-dren, blithe and mer - ry, This one Child your mod - el make ; Christmas hol - ly,
Come, ye chil-dren, blithe and mer - ry, This one Child your mod - el make ; Christmas, Christmas hol - ly,
Come, ye chil-dren, blithe and mer - ry, This one Child your mod - el make ; Christmas hol - ly,
Org. ad lib.
mp



ten.
p leaf, and ber - ry, All be priz'd for His dear sake ; Come, ye gen - tle hearts, and ten - der,
mf
f
dim.
Come, ye spi - rits, keen and bold ; All in all your hom - age ren - der, Weak and might-y, young and old. . . .
young . . and old. . . .
Full Sw.
senza Ped.

The Musical Times, EXTRA SUPPLEMENT. November 1, 1900.

No. 681. NOVELLO'S OCTAVO ANTHEMS. Price 3*d.*

HARK THE GLAD SOUND

SHORT FULL ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMASTIDE

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY DR. P. DODDRIDGE (1702—1751)

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Allegro con gioja.
Soprano.
Alto.
Tenor.
Bass.
f
Hark the glad sound, the
Hark the glad sound, the Hark, . . . the
Hark the glad sound, the
Allegro con gioja. ♩ = 138.
Sa - viour comes, The Sa - viour prom - ised long; . . Let ev - 'ry
Sa - viour comes, The Sa - viour prom - ised long; . . Let ev - 'ry
Sa - viour comes, The Sa - viour prom - ised long; . . Let ev - 'ry
Sa - viour comes, The Sa - viour prom - ised long; . . Let ev - 'ry

Copyright, 1900, by Novello and Company, Limited.

cres.
heart pre - pare a throne, And ev - 'ry voice a song,
heart pre - pare a throne, And ev - 'ry voice a song, heart pre - pare a throne, And ev - 'ry voice a song, Let ev - 'ry heart pre - pare a throne, And ev - 'ry voice a song, Let
mf
and ev - 'ry voice pre - pare, . . . pre - pare a song. . . .
and ev - 'ry voice pre - pare, pre - pare a song. . . .
heart pre - pare a throne, And ev - 'ry voice pre - pare a song. . . .
ev - 'ry heart pre - pare a throne, And voice pre - pare a song. . . .
f sempre f
ff
. . Hark the glad sound, the Sa - viour comes, the Sa - - viour
. . Hark the glad sound, the Sa - viour comes, the Sa - viour
. . Hark the glad sound, the Sa - viour comes, the Sa - - viour
. . Hark the glad sound, the Sa - viour comes, the Sa - viour comes. . .

comes. . .
comes. . .
comes. . .
ff
Andante marziale.
Tenors.
f
He comes, the pris - on-ers to re - lease, In Basses.
f
He comes, the pris - on-ers to re - lease, In Andante marziale.
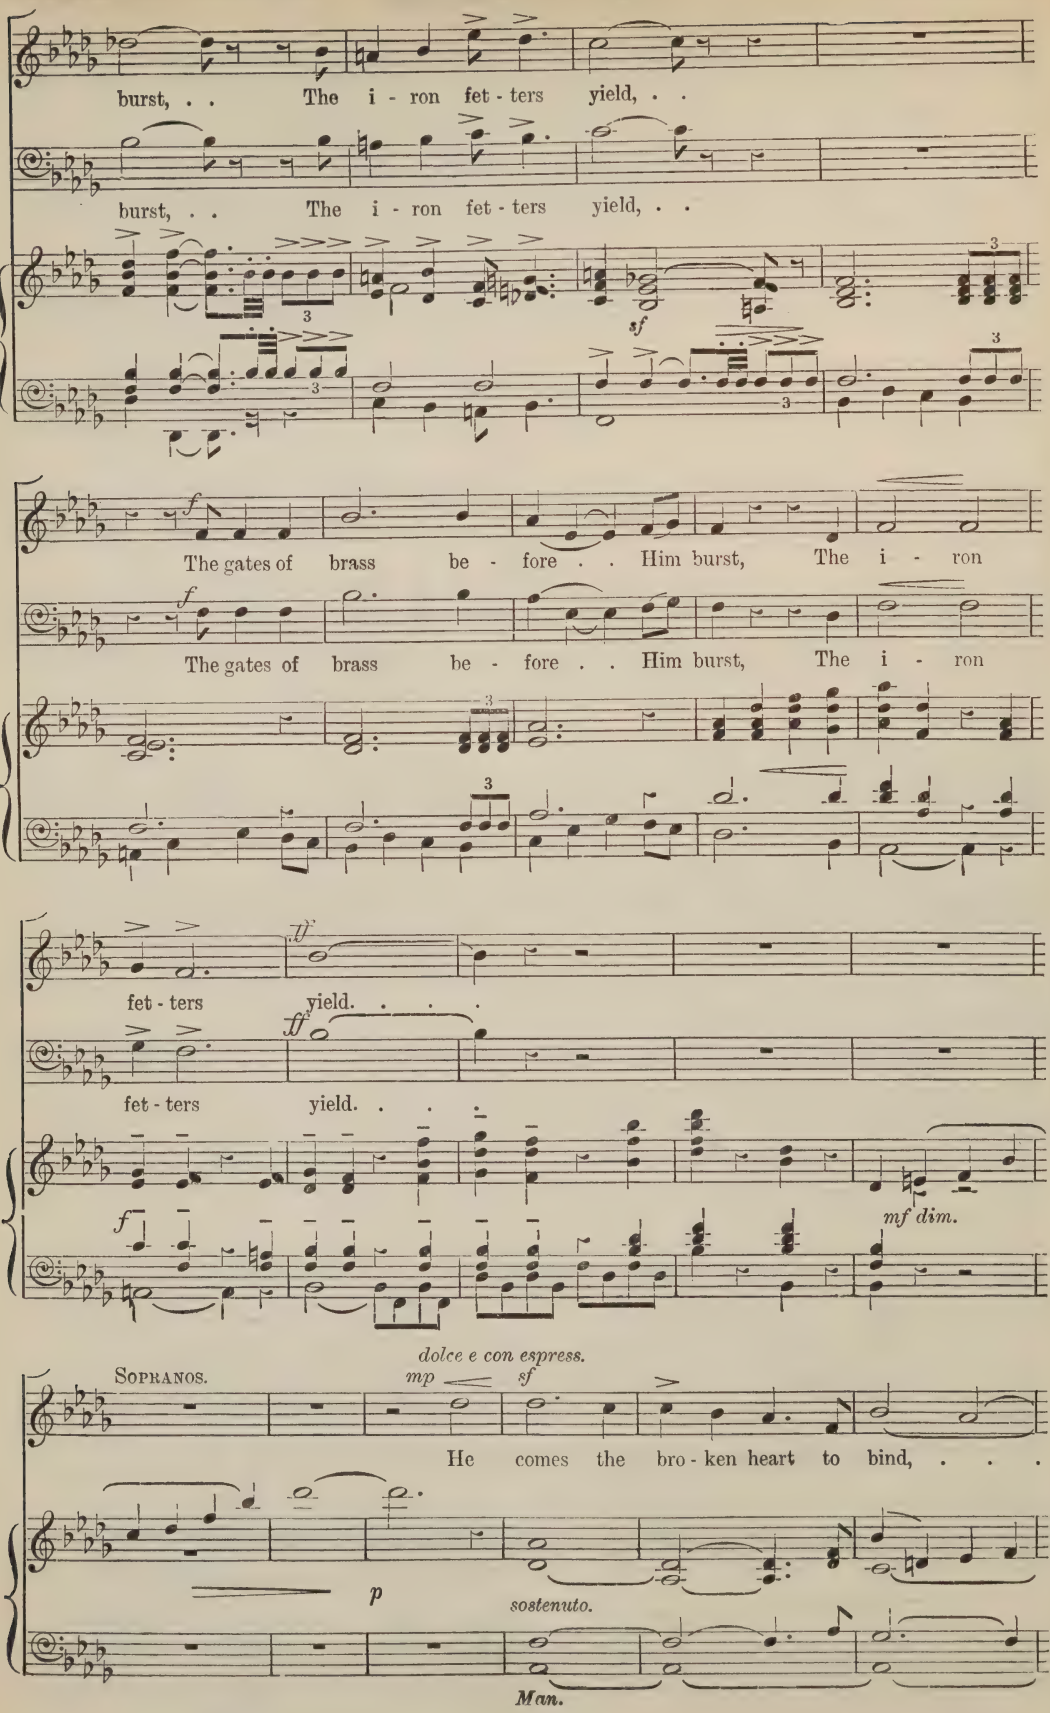
f
mf
Ped. leggiero.
Sa - tan's bondage held; The gates of brass be - fore Him burst, . .
Sa - tan's bondage held; The gates of brass be - fore Him burst, . .
f
3
3



burst, . . The i - ron fet - ters yield, . .
burst, . . The i - ron fet - ters yield, . .
sf
The gates of brass be - fore . . Him burst, The i - ron
The gates of brass be - fore . . Him burst, The i - ron fet - ters yield. . . .
fet - ters yield. . . .
mf dim.
dolce e con espress.
Sopranos. mp
sf
He comes the bro - ken heart to bind, . . .
p sostenuto.
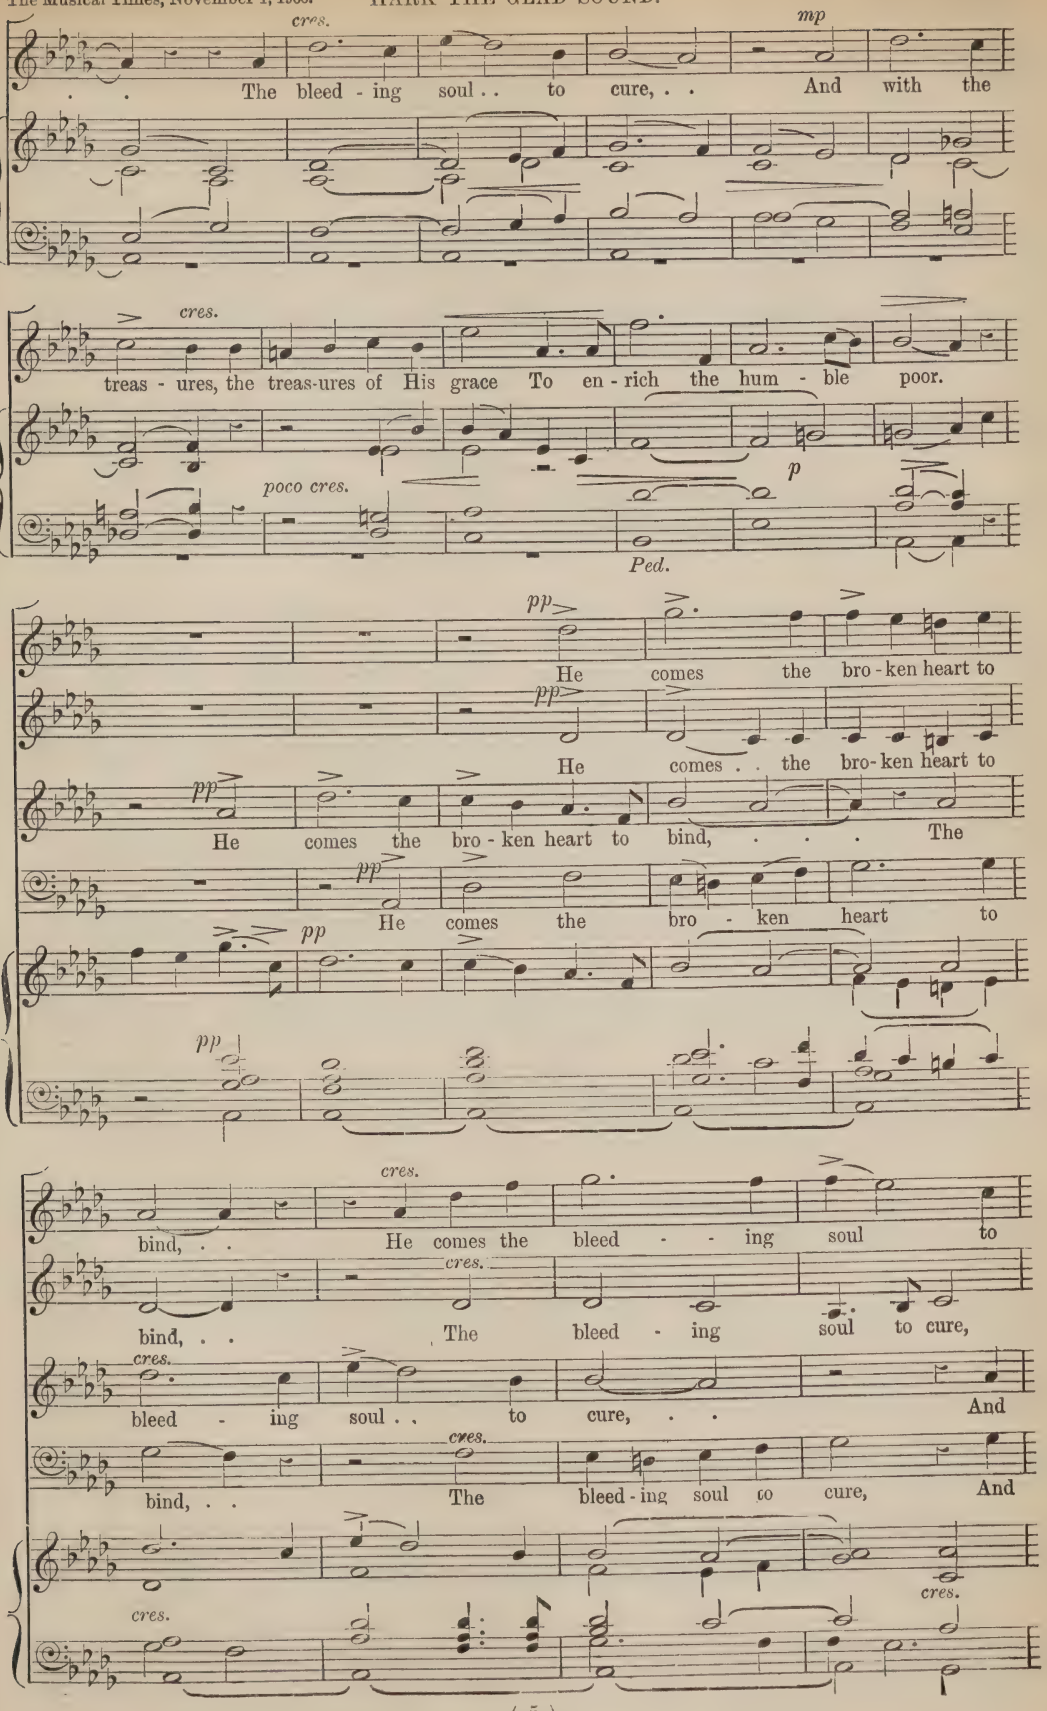
Man.



cres.
mp
. . The bleed - ing soul . . to cure, . . And with the cres.
treas - ures, the treas-ures of His grace To en - rich the hum - ble poor.
poco cres.
p
Ped.
pp
He comes the bro - ken heart to
He comes . . the bro - ken heart to
He comes the bro - ken heart to bind, . . . The
He comes the bro - ken heart to
pp bind, . . He comes the bleed - - ing soul to
cres.
bind, . . The bleed - ing soul to cure, bleed - ing soul . . to cure, . . And bind, . . The bleed - ing soul to cure, And cure, . . And with the treas-ures of His grace To en -

And with the treas - ures of His grace To en -
cres.
with the treas - ures of . . . His grace To en - rich . . .
cres.
with the treas - ures' of . . . His grace To en - rich . . .
f
mf
- rich . . the hum - ble . . poor, . . . the hum - - ble poor.
- rich, . . en - rich . . . the hum - ble poor, the hum - - ble poor.
. . . . the hum - - ble poor, the hum - - ble poor.
. . the hum - ble . . poor, . . . the hum - - ble poor.
rall.
a tempo.
pp
p poco accel. e cres. molto . . al . .

Tempo 1mo.
Our glad Ho - san - nas, Prince of Peace, Thy wel - come
Our glad Ho - san - nas, Prince of Peace, Thy wel - come
Our glad Ho - san - nas, Prince of Peace, Thy wel - come
Our glad Ho - san - nas, Prince of Peace, Thy wel - come
Tempo 1mo.
shall pro - claim, . .
shall pro - claim, . .
shall pro - claim, . . And heav - en's e - ter - nal arch - es shall pro - claim, . . And heav - en's e -
And heav-en's e - ter - nal
And heav-en's e - ter - nal arch - es ring, and heav-en's e - ter - nal
- ring, heav - - - en's arch - es ring, and heaven's e - ter - nal
- ter - nal arch - es ring, its arch - es ring, and, heaven's e - ter - nal

dim.
cres.
arch - es ring With Thy be - lov - ed Name, . . . with Thy be - arch - es ring With Thy be - lov - ed Name, with Thy be - lov - -
arch - es ring With Thy be - lov - ed Name, with Thy be - lov - -
arch - es ring With Thy be - lov - ed Name, with Thy be - lov - - poco a poco rall. molto.
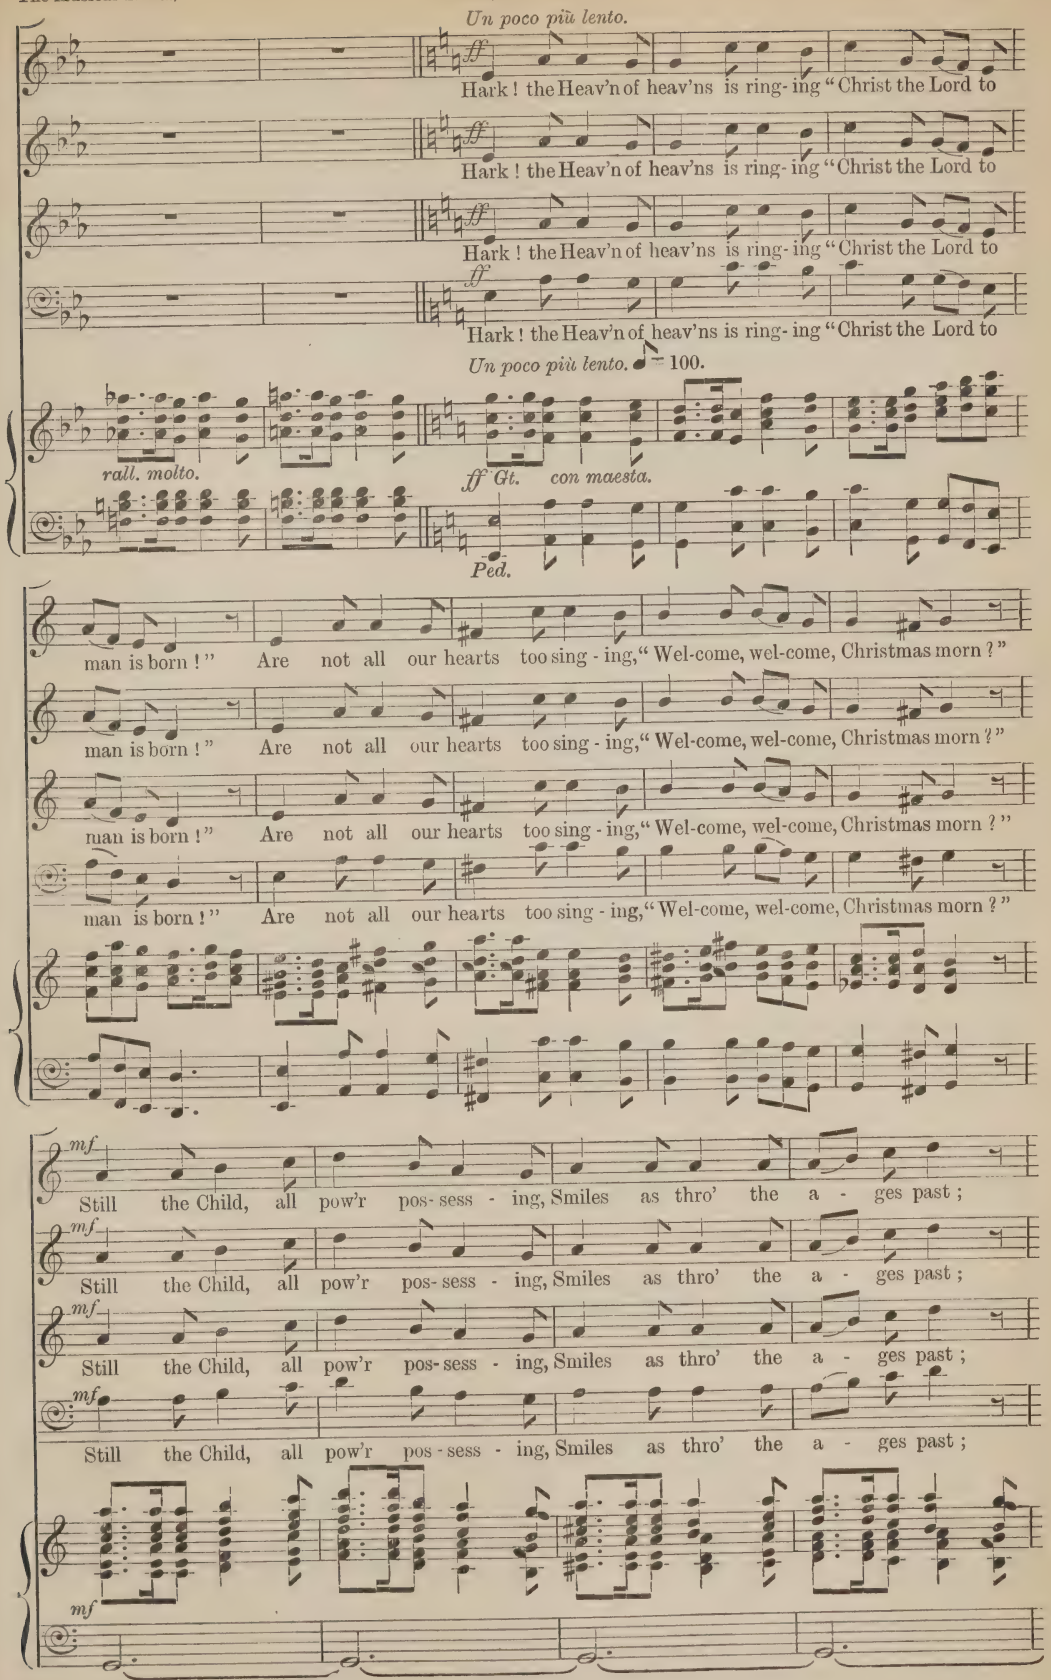
Tempo 1mo.
- lov - ed, Thy be - lov - ed Name. Ho - san - na, Ho - san - -
- ed, Thy be - lov - ed Name. Ho - san - na, Ho - san - -
- ed, Thy be - lov - ed Name. Ho - san - na, Ho -
- - ed, Thy be - lov - ed Name. Ho - san - na, Ho -
- - - - na ! A - - - men. . . .
- - na, Ho - san - na ! A - - - men. . . .
- san - na, Ho - san - na ! A - - - men. . . .
- san - na, Ho - san - na ! A - - - men. . . .

Also published in Novello's Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 1157, price 1½d.



Un poco più lento.
ff
Hark! the Heav'n of heav'ns is ring-ing "Christ the Lord to Hark! the Heav'n of heav'ns is ring-ing "Christ the Lord to Hark! the Heav'n of heav'ns is ring-ing "Christ the Lord to Hark! the Heav'n of heav'ns is ring-ing "Christ the Lord to Un poco più lento. ♩ = 100. rall. molto.
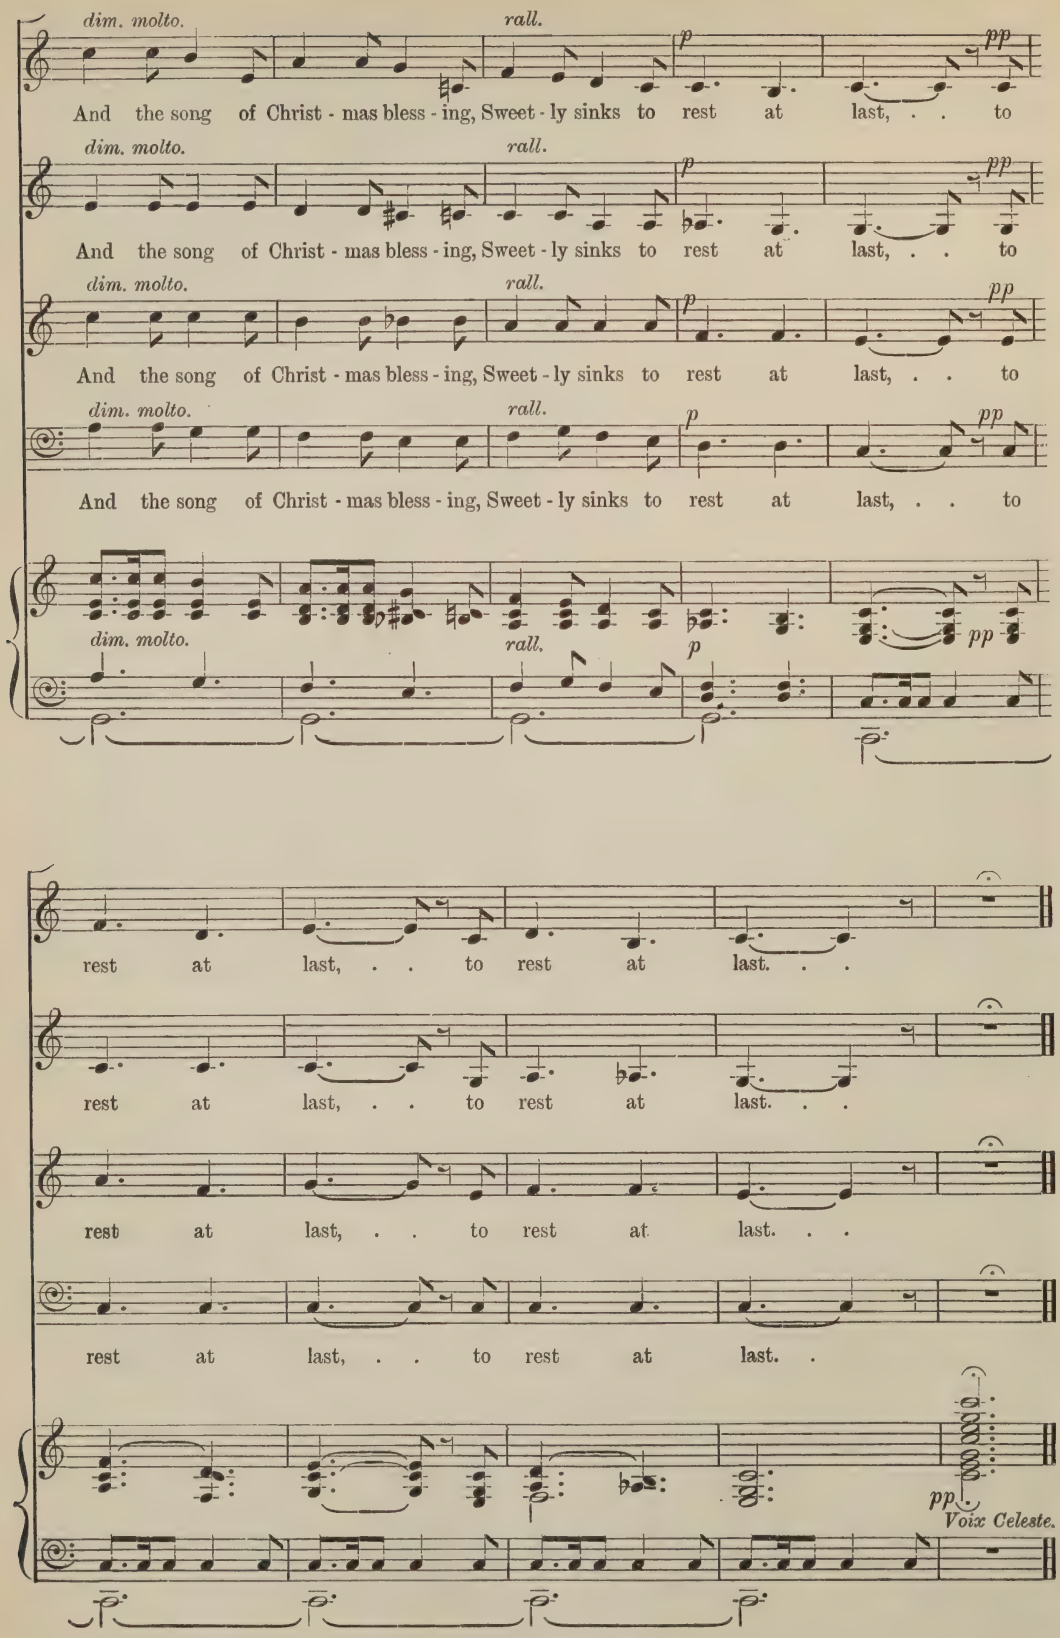
ff Gt. con maesta.
Ped.
man is born!" Are not all our hearts too sing-ing, "Wel-come, wel-come, Christmas morn?"
man is born!" Are not all our hearts too sing-ing, "Wel-come, wel-come, Christmas morn?"
man is born!" Are not all our hearts too sing-ing, "Wel-come, wel-come, Christmas morn?"
man is born!" Are not all our hearts too sing-ing, "Wel-come, wel-come, Christmas morn?"
mf
Still the Child, all pow'r pos-sess-ing, Smiles as thro' the a-ges past;
Still the Child, all pow'r pos-sess-ing, Smiles as thro' the a-ges past;
Still the Child, all pow'r pos-sess-ing, Smiles as thro' the a-ges past;
Still the Child, all pow'r pos-sess-ing, Smiles as thro' the a-ges past;
mf



dim. molto.
rall.
p
pp
And the song of Christ - mas bless - ing, Sweet - ly sinks to rest at last, . . to rest at last, . . to rest at last. . .
rest at last, . . to rest at last. . .
rest at last, . . to rest at last. .
pp
Voix Celeste.

Also published in Novello's Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 1156, price 1*d.*

And the non-musical intelligent Roman Catholic public look on and say, very naturally, 'Well, if the whole subject of Church music is liable to this eternal wrangle and quarrel, then it is only a question of individual taste and there is no finality, and why do anything to help on an unseemly argument?' Meanwhile, from age to age, the art of music goes on its way, neither stranded in shallows nor shut up in narrow creeks. What the intelligent public ought to aim at is to trust, and give authority to, the first composers of their time, who maintain the best traditions of the schools of Palestrina and Cherubini.

With these few words of caution to the public at large, I pass on to say that, in criticising such compositions as these Cantiones Sacræ, the reviewer and the public ought to take a general and a generous view of these works and their age. Such musical settings ought to be viewed in relation to what has gone before, to the needs, tastes, and capacities of the choirs for whom they have been written, to the talent and training of their composers, and not be taken simply in comparison with the works of the great masters.

We have here, for example, no less than nine compositions by Dr. Francis Edward Gladstone. Dr. Gladstone is professor of harmony in the Royal College of Music. All his work is characterised by scholarly excellence of workmanship, though it never surprises one by its original beauty and picturesque freedom like the compositions of S. S. Wesley. One is not haunted by his melodies as one is after hearing 'The Wilderness' or 'Blessed be the God and Father.' But then again Dr. Gladstone has a real religious tone running through all his work and a strong sense of writing fitly and effectively for voices. If his music is compared with the large mass of second-rate late eighteenth and early nineteenth century Church compositions, which are to be found in the choir cupboards of the older Roman Catholic churches, it will be admitted that Dr. Gladstone is leading his co-religionists altogether in a better direction. There is good voice writing, good fugue writing, and all that is implied in the word scholarship, as applied to music. His most important work in this series is No. 23, a Magnificat in A. This has been scored for full orchestra, but only an organ accompaniment is given in the octavo edition. It is an elaborate work, suited for a well-trained choir, and would sound most effective if really well performed. But with regard to all Dr. Gladstone's compositions the Roman Catholic choirmaster must remember this: they are not written to suit the slap-dash, showy style of performance to which the choirs of the Carmelite Church at Kensington treat their congregation. 'In choirs and places where' vocal fireworks and the hop-skip-and-jump organ accompaniment are still in vogue, these productions of the newer and better school of English Roman Catholic composers would find no place.

Besides these works by Dr. Gladstone there are four Antiphons by Mr. William Sewell. His work is not so strong, and partakes rather of the character of modern four-part glee writing. His melodies do not flow so gracefully as to astonish one. Take for example the melody given to the 'Regina Cœli' in G, No. 8 in the series; it is a difficult melody. But the part-writing in Mr. Sewell's works is effective, and there are plenty of choirmasters who rather lean towards an ecclesiastical style that is not too severe.

In my own opinion by far the finest piece of work in this series is the 'Salve, Regina,' by Mr. S. P. Waddington. The technical limitations of a first-rate academical training, such as Mr. Waddington enjoyed, are here given a wide range, and the work is inspired with a thoroughly free spirit from beginning to end. It is a beautiful piece of music, admirably arranged for a trained choir. It is to be hoped that in days to come wider and greater opportunities will be found for a Roman Catholic composer of this calibre to serve his faith and his race. Of the rest of the series a few words remain to be said. Dr. C. W. Pearce contributes a motet to the words 'Adoremus in Æternum.' It is a melodious setting in E major, with a middle section fugato, in C, to the words 'Laudate Dominum.'

Dom. S. G. Ould, the Editor of this series of Cantiones Sacræ, publishes in No. 14 a series of harmonised responses for the Mass and the public offices of the church, which is an exceedingly useful thing to do, and would be more useful still if printed on cards, and less subject to the wear and tear of a choir gallery. Mr. John E. West contributes a Benediction Service, for unison singing, which is simple and useful enough for the most modest performers. Such also is a similar Benediction Service by Dom. S. G. Ould (No. 6).

Besides the compositions already noticed, which are the work of living English composers, there are four others by well-known musicians of past days which well deserve the attention of the choirmaster. The first is a 'Hodie Sanctus Benedictus,' by Peter Philips (1612). It is an antiphon for the Feast of St. Benedict, in five parts, admirably written in the early style, the last two pages being quite splendid work of their kind. It is edited by Mr. William Barclay Squire of the British Museum, to whom every lover and student of old English music owes a debt of gratitude. The second is a Motet for S.A.T.B. by Mozart, to the words 'Adoramas Te, Christe, et benedicimus Tibi, quia per sanctam crucem Tuam redemisti mundum.' This pathetic, short movement in C minor is exceedingly beautiful. It will have no success among those choirs in which each singer is trying to get a more prominent part than his or her neighbour, because everything here is sacrificed to the blending of voices subordinated to a contrapuntal scheme, admirably adapted to the exquisite words. The third is a 'Salve, Regina,' by Franz Schubert, which is pitched rather high for an ordinary choir, but is religious in character and not difficult. The fourth is a charming 'Salve, Regina,' by R. L. de Pearsall, for four voices, and well within the compass and grasp of any trained choir. De Pearsall's sacred music is too little known in England. The Roman Catholic community do not seem to have grasped the fact that De Pearsall was a convert to their faith, and wrote several very beautiful sacred pieces. One can only express here the very strong hope that Messrs. Novello may be sufficiently encouraged by the Roman Catholic public to issue in cheap reprints some of the choice works which lie buried in the public museums of England and Europe, and carry on the great work begun by the wonderful founder of their firm. The more one contemplates his ceaseless energy, and the colossal amount of work he accomplished, in days when the musical public of England was a mere hatful of souls compared with what it is now, the more astonished one is. If any public monument ought to be put up in the new Roman Catholic Cathedral at Westminster, assuredly it ought to be one to Vincent Novello.

And now one word may be said in conclusion to the Roman Catholics of taste and education in this country, to the episcopate, to the heads of colleges and of convent-schools, and to the clergy, secular and regular:—If at any time a sense of despair comes over you who have to contend against the dead-weight of old traditions, against the prejudices of venerable colleagues, against the personal vanity of singers, against the obligations engendered by voluntary services, and all the ills that musical flesh and blood is heir to—be patient. Very little has yet been done to raise the standard of musical education in your great colleges, and still less in your convents. Very little has been done to cultivate public opinion. Be patient, and be industrious. Set your house in order. Put your efforts alongside those made by the Established Church in this country, and see if you are raising the standard of sacred music with equal taste and vigour, allowing, of course, for a difference in ways and means. Are the boys in your colleges listening at High Mass to Byrd, Tallis, Palestrina, Cherubini, and Mozart, and the works of the great masters, or are you feeding them on late second-rate compositions? Does music form a part of your educational curriculum, so that those who are gifted in this art may find time to cultivate it; not time stolen from their recreation hours, but time boldly taken from other studies, from history or mathematics? If these things are done, if the Roman Catholic musical youth of England is educated as well in music as it is in history and geography, and if it is accustomed from its youth up to hear intellectual music of a solid kind as well as the emotional froth which ought really to be skimmed from the pot—then you will see a great transformation. The hymn-tunes adapted from street songs, the trashy, mock-operatic offertory, the melodramatic Mass music will all fade away, and the intellectual achievements of the great masters will form the natural staple food of a well-educated community.

It is impossible to believe that the Roman Catholic Church in England is going to fail in this part of her mission. It is what the nations expect of her, in music, architecture, painting, and sculpture, that she shall preserve what is great out of the past, create what is ennobling in the present, and hand down what is inspiring to the future. Z.

CHURCH AND ORGAN MUSIC.

SIR JOHN STAINER ON HYMN-TUNES.

'Hymn-Tunes composed by J. Stainer' is the modest title of an attractively printed book which Messrs. Novello have recently published. Within its covers are no less than 158 hymn-tunes composed by Sir John Stainer, the majority of which he has contributed to various Hymnals during the last thirty years. A novel feature of the collection is to be found under the heading 'Processionals,' in regard to which the composer says: 'A larger supply of Processionals seems to be required by clergy and choirmasters, so I have added several, and amongst them will be found a few of an entirely new type, as far as I know.' This 'new type' consists of a theme—which may be accompanied, in unison, by a brass instrument—sung by men only, which is followed by the remainder of the verse of the hymn, sung in harmony, with the initiatory theme in the treble. To this succeeds an 'Alleluiatic stanza' in four-part harmony, with the original intonation, so to speak, in the bass, accompanied by a brass instrument when such is available. The effectiveness of this form of the Processional, of which there are four in the collection, goes without saying. The book also contains several carols and is arranged according to the usual plan—viz., that of the Church's Year. Its comprehensiveness is shown in a hymn, the words by Dean Hole, 'For a service for working men,' in addition to nineteen hymns for children, in which Sir John Stainer has succeeded in obtaining results that are of the happiest nature in the field of child-song.

The Preface to the book is especially interesting by reason of its autobiographical nature in regard to our author's hymntuneology—if this definition will be allowed. Here is the opening paragraph:—

I hope it will be distinctly understood that this little book is a collection of hymn-tunes, and not in any sense a Hymnal. The only object in printing the words to the tunes is to show the general character of the thoughts which suggested their musical setting. A hymn-tune is, or ought to be, essentially a vehicle of the spirit of the words; it is unfair, therefore, to judge of its worth when divorced from them. In nearly every case the tunes are here associated with the words to which they were originally set.

After referring to the share he had in the preparation of the enlarged edition of 'Hymns Ancient and Modern' (1872-75), Sir John pays a high tribute to the labours in the hymn-tune field of the late Dr. J. B. Dykes and Dr. W. H. Monk. He then goes on to say:—

Encouraged by the kindly words of two such musicians, I confess that I plunged deeply into the fascinating study of hymnody, and have lost no opportunity of employing myself as a humble labourer in a sphere congenial and dear to me from the time of my childhood.

In regard to the 'epithets hurled against' modern hymn-tunes, he remarks:—

No doubt many tunes that are over-sweet may, after twenty-five years' use, begin to cloy. But it must not be forgotten that the critics of hymn-tunes nearly always fall into the insidious snare of judging of the old by the best specimens, and of the modern by the worst. Out of the many hundreds of those early English tunes which composers are often urged to imitate, probably not more than a score are familiar to us, and these have been carefully selected by a long succession of admirers who have sifted every available source; and yet these are held up as proofs of the general merit of the heap of worthless rubbish from which they have been extracted; moreover, it must not be forgotten that of these choice examples probably not half-a-dozen are given in their original form.

The following is excellent:—

The true estimate of a hymn-tune cannot be found by principles of abstract criticism, or by any internal evidence that it exhibits an artist's handicraft. There is a something, indefinable and intangible, which can render a hymn-tune, not only a winning musical melody, but also a most powerful evangeliser.

The peroration speaks for itself:—

Bearing in mind the small proportion of tunes which survive any particular period, I cannot hope that many of this collection are destined to enjoy a long existence; but I can honestly say, that if any single one of my tunes should for a few centuries float along the ever-gathering stream of sacred song, even unlabelled with my name, I shall not have lived in vain.

Sir John Stainer pays a well merited tribute to the researchful labours of that veritable hymntuneologist,

Mr. Henry King, in tracing out the sources of many of the tunes comprised in this interesting volume of sacred song.

HARVEST FESTIVAL AT ST. ANNE'S, SOHO.

The Harvest Thanksgiving services at this historic church are deserving of special mention by reason of the music that was performed. On Thursday evening, the 11th ult., Attwood's Cantate Domino and Deus Misereatur in D were sung, as was Mr. E. H. Thorne's fine anthem 'I was glad,' written for the re-opening of Chichester Cathedral after the re-building of the spire (in 1867), when its composer was organist of that venerable fane. The choir of St. Anne's was reinforced by the choir of St. Jude's, South Kensington. The above music was repeated on the following Sunday evening, and at the morning service the Te Deum and Jubilate were Croft in A and Goss's 'Fear not, O land,' was the anthem. The organ voluntaries played by Mr. E. H. Thorne, organist and director of the choir of St. Anne's, were Wesley's Choral Song and Fugue and Best's 'Allegro festivo.'

MATINS AT ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE, TENBURY.

(From a Prize Photograph taken by Dr. G. R. Sinclair, Organist of Hereford Cathedral.)

ORGAN RECITALS.

Organ recitals have recently been given by the following organists in the churches and other places named. The pieces mentioned are those which appear to us as being specially worthy of notice by reason of their unhackneyed nature. This plan will be followed month by month.

Sir Frederick Bridge, Congregational Church, Barnet, who played the Andante and Fugue from his own organ sonata. Mr. Edwin H. Lemare, St. Margaret's, Westminster: Nocturne in B minor and Melodie (both composed by the recitalist), and a Fantasie de Concert by E. d'Evry, all for the first time. Mr. C. W. Perkins, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Eastbourne, re-opening of enlarged and re-built organ: Toccata, Tombelle. Mr. G. Bernard Gilbert (Borough organist of West Ham), Town Hall, Stratford: Fantasie in E flat, Best, and two short pieces—Romanza and Allegretto—by W. Wolstenholme. Mr. Fred. Gostelow, the Old Parish Church of St. Martin's, Ashton-upon-Mersey (re-opening of church and organ): Overture, No. 1, in C, Hollins. Mr. R. Sharpe, Pear Tree Church, Southampton, dedication of new organ. Mr. Arthur S. James, St. Peter's, Rickmansworth. Mr. R. E. Parker, Oswestry Parish Church: Suite Gothique, Boëllmann. Mr. W. F. Kingdon, Barnet Parish Church: Rhapsodie in E, Saint-Saëns. Mr. Percy Ramsey, St. Michael and All Angels', Portsmouth. Mr. R. W. Strickland, College Street Chapel, Northampton: Sonata in the style of Handel, W. Wolstenholme. Mr. W. A. Macduff, St. Oswald's Church, Edinburgh, opening of new organ built by Messrs. Morgan and Smith, of Brighton. Mr. George T. Pinches, Holy Innocents', Hammersmith. Mr. F. G. Mitford Ogbourne, Trinity College, London. Mr. H. J. Davis, Christ Church, Bath: Dr. Alan Gray's Fourth Organ Sonata, in C. Mr. Charles E. Tendall, Christchurch Cathedral, New Zealand: Overture, 'Athaliah,' Handel. Mr. William Boylett, Queen's Park Congregational Church, Bayswater.

A Cathedral organist's hobby is exemplified in the above prize photograph taken by Dr. Sinclair.

Two interesting series of organ recitals will be in progress on Saturdays during the current month: (1) at Holy Trinity Church, Sloane Street, by Mr. Walter Alcock, at 4 p.m., and (2) at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, by Mr. E. H. Lemare, at 5.30 p.m.

A WREN CHURCH AND A HARRIS ORGAN.

The well-known city church, St. Lawrence Jewry, built by Sir Christopher Wren after the great fire of London in 1666, has had its organ entirely re-built and brought up to date by Messrs. Norman and Beard, Ltd. The following is the specification of the instrument as drawn up by the organist of the church, Mr. W. F. Kingdon :—

GREAT (10 stops).

1. Double Diapason	16 feet	6. Principal	4 feet
2. Open Diapason ..	8 ,,	7. Quint	2⅔ ,,
3. Open Diapason ..	8 ,,	8. Super Octave ..	2 ,,
4. Claribel Flute ..	8 ,,	9. Mixture	5 ranks
5. Harmonic Flute ..	4 ,,	10. Trumpet	8 feet

SWELL (11 stops).

11. Bourdon	16 feet	17. Principal	4 feet
12. Open Diapason ..	8 ,,	18. Mixture	5 ranks
13. Gamba	8 ,,	19. Cornopean ..	8 feet
14. Rohr Flöte ..	8 ,,	20. Oboe	8 ,,
15. Salicional	8 ,,	21. Clarion	4 ,,
16. Voix Célestes ..	8 ,,

CHOIR (7 stops).

22. Lieblich Bourdon	16 feet	26. Suabe Flute ..	4 feet
23. Violin Diapason ..	8 ,,	27. Harmonic Piccolo	2 ,,
24. Lieblich Gedact ..	8 ,,	28. Clarinet	8 ,,
25. Echo Dulciana ..	8 ,,

PEDAL (6 stops).

29. Open Diapason..	16 feet	32. Violoncello ..	8 feet
30. Violone	16 ,,	33. Flute	8 ,,
31. Bourdon ..	16 ,,	34. Trombone ..	16 ,,

COUPLERS.

Swell to Great.	Great to Pedal.
Swell Octave.	Swell to Pedal.
Swell to Choir.	Choir to Pedal.

The fine old carved oak case (like the other carving in the church) is the work of the celebrated Grinling Gibbons, and has not been interfered with. This is a matter for thankfulness.

The organ was originally built by Renatus Harris, in 1685, and subsequently went through the hands of England. It is stated that at the time Harris was trying to secure the order to build the original organ he was in great straits, and in fact that he was living on the 'King's Bounty.' The cause of his difficulties is supposed to have been the loss which he sustained over the celebrated erection of the Temple Church organ. The following interesting notes relating to Mr. Harris and Father Smith have been gleaned from the Parish Minute Book, by the vicar, the Rev. J. Stephen Barrass :—

March 14, 1683 :—

The Committee having seen the drafts and proposals of Mr. Harris and Mr. Smith for the Organ and how it should be made, and being satisfied that they are both good workmen, it was put to the vote whether of them should make the Organ, and it was carried that Mr. Harris should make the same, which was ordered to be done by Mr. Harris accordingly. After Mr. Harris was ordered to be the maker of the Organ as by the order above, it was agreed by Mr. Harris that he would make the same according to his proposals that he would not expect any money till the Organ is finished and approved by the Parish. If the same was not approved he would take it away, and that he would finish the Organ within three months after the Carver and Joiner should finish their works.

In 1685 there is a Minute which relates to the 'proceedings' of the organist and his salary :—

Ordered that Mr. Browne shall proceed in playing the Organ in the Parish Church and be Organist for one whole year from the time he began to play the Organ, he having for his salary left himself to the goodwill of the Parish.

Mr. Browne was, however, at a later meeting given a salary of £20 a year.

The next Minute, literally of financial interest, is dated June 4, 1686, and reads thus :—

This Vestry proceeded to consider what to pay Mr. Harris for the Church Organ, and at what times, and came to this resolution: that Mr. Harris be paid by the Churchwardens the sum of £300—viz., £100 thereof within the space of one week now next ensuing, and £200 residue of the said £300 within the space of two months after, Mr. Harris first giving bond to keep the said Organ in repair and tune for the time and space of three whole years to begin and commence from Christmas now last past gratis, and if the £200 should not be paid within the said two months then the Parish to allow lawful interest for the same until it shall be paid, and Mr. Harris being called into the Vestry and informed by the Churchwardens of the Vestry order above he consented and agreed to the same.

Sir Walter Parratt is announced to re-open the re-built organ on the 6th inst., at 1.15 p.m.

ORGANIST AND CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. H. C. J. Churchill, Poplar Wesleyan Church.

Mr. Ralph H. Davison, St. Andrew's Parish Church, Deptford, Sunderland.

Mr. A. Dimsdale, St. Andrew's Parish Church, Kilmarnock.

Mrs. Raymond Pitts, St. Barnabas' Church, Tunbridge Wells.

Mr. C. Elvey Cope, the Parish Church, Catsfield, Sussex.

Mr. R. F. Virgoe, Turner's Hill Church, Sussex.

Mr. Arthur W. Youens, St. Chad's Church, Stafford.

Mr. Fred. W. Norcup (tenor) to New College, Oxford.

REVIEWS.

A NEW HYMNAL.

The Baptist Church Hymnal. Hymns, chants, anthems, with music.

[London: Psalms and Hymns Trust.]

The Baptist church is the last of the great Nonconformist denominations to issue an authorised Hymnal having words and music combined, therefore any such aid to an improved service of praise deserves attention and should be welcomed. The book before us is of a three-fold nature, its sections being designated: (1) Hymns with Tunes, (2) The Chant Book, and (3) The Anthem Book. No fault can be found with its comprehensiveness, as the volume contains no fewer than 1,362 pages. Its chief feature is, of course, the hymnal section. This has been compiled on a modification of the fixed tune system, whereby, for instance, four hymns may interchangeably be sung to four tunes, the whole material, words and music, being furnished on the same opening of the book. The hymnal portion contains 716 different tunes! The work of a reviewer is, however, considerably lightened by the fact that the great majority of these tunes have already appeared in previous collections. The new specimens number fifty-five, of which twenty-eight have been contributed by the musical editor of the work, Mr. Rowland Briant. Some of these new productions appear to us to be predestined to failure, so far as congregational practicability, the chief purport of a hymn-tune, is concerned. Such, for example, are the new and unsingable settings of 'The Son of God goes forth to war'—a chromatic tune appropriately named 'Hardknott!'—and of Charlotte Elliott's familiar words, 'Just as I am, without one plea.' Fortunately, however, congregations will not be deprived of singing these favourite hymns, as suitable melodic and unchromatic tunes—e.g., the two-century old 'St. Anne's'—are provided as alternatives.

In regard to the older tunes in the book, we are sorry to find that time-honoured 'Helmsley' (to 'Lo! He comes') has been displaced in favour of an 'Ancient Jewish Melody.' (By the way, should this tune, No. 178, begin with a chord containing only a bare fifth, without any third?) Kocher's bright tune (to 'As with gladness, men of old') is robbed of its characteristic dot on the upper E. Why? Sullivan's 'St. Gertrude' is printed in the key of E and not associated with Baring Gould's martial words, and Dr. Gilbert's tune 'Maidstone' appears with a time signature of six-four. Why is that typically fine old-world tune 'Bedford' printed in its 'tinkered' quadruple rhythm instead of in its original and more stately triple form? The mating of words and music seems to have been satisfactorily done; here and there, however, we find some shortcomings in this respect, as, for instance, the unsympathetic settings to Cowper's penitential words, 'Oh! for a closer walk with God,' which craves a tune that has tears in its melody. The 'childhood and youth' division, which contains nearly seventy hymns, is unusually comprehensive, but not too large. We should have preferred to have seen a larger number of unison tunes in this portion—more childlike melodies with simple chordal accompaniments, such, for instance, as Sir John Stainer has written to 'Jesus, tender Shepherd, hear me'—rather than so many tunes too suggestive of grown-upness.

But the foregoing remarks by no means reflect upon the general excellence of the book. The committee entrusted with its compilation—but whose names are not given—may be sincerely congratulated upon the result of their labours. The hymns and tunes section of the Baptist Hymnal is a distinct advance upon anything that the denomination has already produced. We give it a hearty welcome and trust that it will meet with all the success it undoubtedly deserves.

The chant section is somewhat in the nature of an olla podrida, as it comprises: Metrical litanies, Psalms, &c. (for chanting), Sanctuses, Responses to Commandments, Baptismal sentences, Offertory sentences, Benediction hymns, and Amens. Its chief feature is that implied by the generic title—the chants and the pointing of the Psalms. In regard to the former, the selection is, on the whole, good, having largely been made from old and tried diatonic specimens. And then as to the system of pointing adopted, the typographical arrangement of the words—for which, by the way, the printer is not responsible—not only destroys the poetic form of the Hebrew Parallels, but tends to mechanicalise, so to speak, the rendering of these noble songs of the sanctuary. A specimen of the method employed, selected from the twenty-third Psalm, will enable our readers to form their own opinion upon the system of pointing adopted:—

The Lórd	is my	shepherd;
I	shall —	not —	want.
Yea, * though I walk through the vălley . . . . . of the	shadow . of	death,
Thou hast anointed my head with óil; . . . . . my	cup —	run-neth	over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall fóllow me . . . . . all the	days . of my	life:

The chief difficulty in the matter of pointing is in passing over the bridge which connects the unmeasured recitation with the rhythmic cadence. Whether this system of typography (see especially the last verse in the above example) helps the singer in minimising that difficulty is open to question. We do not think it conduces to that consummation.

The anthem section is one that will doubtless furnish a full outlet for the capabilities of choirs, rather than for the worship-song of congregations, though such simple anthems as 'Lord, for Thy tender mercies' sake,' may be sung by a mass of worshippers without offending artistic feeling, which is the twin sister of devotion. The Hymnal is printed in crotchet notation. While the type is clear enough at the ordinary range of vision, it might very well be taken into consideration whether a larger sized edition, printed in minim notes, should not be prepared for use at the organ desk, where the book must of necessity be at an abnormal distance from the eyes of the player. But this is a practical suggestion which does not affect the merits of the Hymnal as a whole. It may be regarded as a valuable contribution to the Service of Song in the House of the Lord.

CHURCH MUSIC.

Novello's Anthem Book. Book I.
[Novello and Company, Limited.]

The sub-title of this publication reads: 'A collection of popular anthems for festival and general use throughout the year.' The said collection consists of twelve anthems (in each book), and its popularity may be estimated by such anthems, in the initial book under notice, as 'Come, Holy Ghost' (Attwood), and 'The Lord is loving unto every man' (Garrett). The cost of each book, comprising about fifty pages, is one shilling, which works out at the modest sum of one penny per anthem! In the words of the preface: 'It is anticipated that in churches where an elaborate musical service is not possible, this publication will find acceptance. In such cases the advantage of having, in one book, twelve standard anthems, which more than cover the church's year, is obvious.' No further comment is necessary in drawing attention to a new departure of such practical usefulness. We understand that several other books of the series are in a forward state of preparation.

The Story of Bethlehem. Cantata. Written by Shapcott Wensley. Composed by John E. West.
[Novello and Company, Limited.]

This work is designed for Christmas services, for which it is admirably suited. The text, by Mr. Wensley, may be described as a devotional meditation on the story of the Nativity. It is written in flowing verse, and the inclusion of the familiar Adeste Fideles will interest congregations in the progress of the work. Mr. West's music is laid out for soprano, tenor, and bass solos, four-part chorus, and organ accompaniment. It is very melodious, bright, and effective, and, while the commonplace has been avoided, the capabilities of the majority of church choirs have been steadily and successfully kept in view.

SONGS.

A Song of Dawn. Written by Ellis Walton. Composed by Frances Allitsen.
A Cavalier's Song. Written by William Motherwell. Composed by Frances Allitsen.
Why was Cupid a Boy? Written by William Blake. Composed by Maud Valérie White.
[Metzler and Co.]

Many of Miss Frances Allitsen's songs have achieved considerable popularity. That they should do so is satisfactory, for they are well written and avoid the commonplace. 'The Song of Dawn' is a good example of her style. The voice part is graceful and grateful to sing. The accompaniment is interesting and picturesque, and the music is worked up to a most effective climax at the close. It is suitable for a soprano or tenor voice.

'A Cavalier's Song' is becomingly spirited. The poet endeavours to show that the most desirable possessions in life are 'A steed of matchless speed, A sword of metal keen,' and that 'Our bus'ness is like men to fight, And hero-like to die.' Vocalists who are wont to get into this Indian-on-the-war-path frame of mind will find in this song a convenient medium for the expression of their feelings. The music is stirring and well designed to secure the desired purpose. It is dedicated to Mr. David Bispham.

Those who may wish to know 'Why was Cupid a boy?' will find a satisfactory answer in William Blake's lines. Miss White is very successful in her settings of what may be termed allegorical poetry, and in this instance her music runs on with a complacency equal to that of the poet, and the union is passing happy.

Douze Poesies Galantes d'Auteurs Anciens. Mises en musique, pour M. Victor Maurel, par Leon Schlesinger.
[Hachette et Cie.]

This is a delightful little album of songs, remarkable as much for its variety as for its charm. Its merit is sufficiently attested by the fact that the eminent French baritone, Victor Maurel, has written a preface to it and has sung the songs in Paris. Cultured vocalists will assuredly welcome the little volume. The poems are by writers who flourished between the fourteenth and eighteenth centuries, and their old-world flavour is cleverly reflected in Mr. Schlesinger's music.

JUVENILE PIANOFORTE MUSIC.

Christmas Album (Op. 39). Twenty-four Pianoforte Pieces for the Young. In three books. By P. Tschaïkowsky.
Kinderleben (Op. 62 and 81). Twenty-four Pianoforte Pieces for the Young. In four books. By Th. Kullak.
Edited by A. Rosenkranz.
[Novello and Company, Limited.]

Conscientious teachers—and there are many such—are often confronted with the difficulty of finding suitable recreative pieces for their junior pupils. Sonatinas,

Rondos, and similar compositions of the classical school are not only well known, but they are generally safe. In the matter of lighter fare, however, there is so much trash in the output of pianoforte music that the teacher has to be very wary in prescribing for pupils. The importance of this lighter fare in the pupil's training cannot be over-estimated. It assists the teacher to develop the poetic side of the juvenile pupil's nature, to foster the sense of rhythm, to cultivate the all-important faculty of phrasing—in fact, it greatly helps little players to become musicians, instead of remaining soulless strummers or thumping technicians. But the music must be good. Such a sine qua non is met in the forty-eight pieces contained in these seven books. Each one has a descriptive title, and each composition is short—no slight recommendation—as well as tuneful. The generic title to Tschaïkowsky's album is, perhaps, a little unfortunate, as tending to limit the use of his charming miniature tone-pictures to the season of Christmas, but that is a comparatively small matter. More important is that of the editing of these pieces. This Mr. Rosenkranz has done most conscientiously and skilfully. Fingering, phrasing, signs of expression, and so on are carefully indicated throughout. In regard to that much abused part of the pianoforte, the pedal, how literally a pupil, old as well as young, too often 'puts her foot into it'! In Kullak's 'Sunday Morning' and 'Dreaming of Angels' Mr. Rosenkranz adopts the method proposed by Hans Schmitt (of Vienna) in his 'Das Pedal des Claviers' (1875). This is indicated by a special pedal line being printed under the bass stave—e.g., 'Sunday Morning,' the first seven bars :—

A foot-note says: 'The notes on this line show exactly where the pedal is to be depressed; they also give the exact duration of each depression of the pedal.' Thus we have endeavoured to point out salient features of an excellent edition of pieces that should not only give many juvenile pupils pleasure, but help them a good way along the road which leads towards poetic musicianship.

CRYSTAL PALACE MUSIC EXHIBITION.

MR. JACQUES ON KEYBOARD INSTRUMENTS.

In connection with the Music Exhibition at the Crystal Palace, a series of lectures was commenced on the 17th ult., of interesting and instructive character. The first was delivered by Mr. Edgar F. Jacques on 'Keyboard Instruments.' This subject he divided into three sections—organ, harpsichord, and pianoforte. The salient features of the construction and development of each were explained, and comments made on the most notable composers who have written for these instruments, examples being played by Herr J. H. Bonawitz. The first excerpt was from the 'Fundamentum Organisandi,' by Conrad Paumann (sometimes misspelt Paulmann), which, with the exception of a little MS. book of organ pieces by Adam Ileborgh, a fifteenth century organist, is the earliest music that has survived, written for a key-board instrument. Paumann died at Munich in 1473, and the 'Fundamentum Organisandi' is contained in the same volume as the celebrated 'Lochheimer Liederbuch,' which is dated 1452. Other little known organ pieces were selected from P. Hofhaimer (1459-1537), A. de Cabeçon (1500-1566), and Palestrina. Owing to there being in the Exhibition a square pianoforte in excellent preservation, dated 1780, by Erard, Mr. Jacques was able to show that at that period the tone of the pianoforte differed from that of the harpsichord in far less degree than might be imagined. It was, indeed, scarcely as powerful, but it was cleaner and less buzzy, owing to the sharper action of the dampers. A scale passage played on this instrument succeeded by another on a modern Broadwood grand afforded a striking object lesson in development. The harpsichord used was one by Tschudi—founder of the house of Broadwood.

DR. CUMMINGS ON 'HISTORIC SONGS,' &c.

The second discourse, given by Dr. W. H. Cummings, treated of 'Historic Songs, Glees, and Part-songs,' a subject which, from his long professional experience and antiquarian knowledge, the lecturer was peculiarly able to speak. Dr. Cummings, after lamenting how little music-lovers commonly knew of the literature of their art, attributed the greater number of concerted vocal and instrumental pieces found in the programmes at the beginning of this century to the hurry-scurry of modern life, which rendered it difficult to arrange rehearsals.

Haydn had been called the father of the string quartet, and he might also be said to occupy a like parental position to English songs. He wrote many for English tastes, which he succeeded in pleasing. 'She never told her love' was perhaps one of the best known now. John Rowley Bishop had a remarkable gift for song writing, and there were more fine examples of his talent unknown than known to-day. 'Tell me, my heart,' was probably written for the celebrated Miss Stevens, who afterwards became the Countess of Essex. The melody of 'Home, sweet home,' was undoubtedly composed by Bishop. William Shield chiefly devoted himself to incidental music to melodramas, but some of his songs, such as 'The Wolf,' were still occasionally sung. Charles Dibdin was said to have written over three thousand songs. The best were those referring to the sea. These had such an animating influence in the re-manning of our navy at a critical period of our history that the Government, in recognition, granted him a pension of £200 per annum, and although the next party in power withdrew it, the annuity was subsequently renewed and half of it continued to his widow. Some of his songs, notably that entitled 'True Courage,' might well be revived. 'Kathleen Mavourneen' was first published in 1840. Five years later its composer, Frederick Crouch, went to America. He was severely wounded in the Civil War and died in 1896 at Baltimore. One of the first native composers to follow Schubert's model as a song composer was John Liptrot Hatton. Of songs by living composers which merited special mention were the settings of 'I rise from dreams of thee,' by Charles Salaman, born 1814, and 'The Message' and 'The Requital,' by Jacques Blumenthal.

Dr. Cummings also spoke of madrigals, glees, and part-songs, and expressed regret that the two first-named were now so much neglected. The musical illustrations to the lecture were admirably sung by students of the Guildhall School of Music.

RICHTER CONCERTS.

The autumn season of the Richter Concerts began on the 22nd ult., when, at St. James's Hall, a more or less familiar programme was presented. There is nothing fresh to say in regard to Beethoven's great 'Leonora' Overture, the Introduction to Act III. of 'Die Meistersinger,' Berlioz's 'Le Carnaval Romain' Overture, and Brahms's noble Symphony (No. 3) in F, especially when they are so well interpreted under Dr. Hans Richter's magic wand. The quasi-novelty of the evening was Liszt's rarely heard Symphonic Poem 'The Battle of the Huns' ('Hunnenschlacht') after Kaulbach's celebrated picture. This characteristic composition of the great pianist's was first brought to a hearing in this country by Mr. Manns—how much is due to the worthy veteran at Sydenham for his labours in the cause of music!—on May 17, 1879. There can be no two opinions upon the earnestness with which Liszt, in this picturesque Symphonic Poem, has striven to musically reflect his own impressions of 'the shield, the sword, and the battle.'

Notice of the second concert, announced for the 29th ult., must be reserved till next month.

Royal Academy of Music.—The Anonymous Exhibition for organ playing has been awarded to Jessie Barrett Handley (a native of London). The examiners were Mr. F. Corder and Sir. A. C. Mackenzie. The Liszt Scholarship has been awarded to Winifred Christie (a native of London). The examiners were Mr. Edward Dannreuther, Sir A. C. Mackenzie, and Mr. August Manns.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

SIR A. C. MACKENZIE'S LECTURES.

The first four lectures of the Michaelmas Term were delivered by Sir A. C. Mackenzie, on September 26 and the 3rd, 10th, and 17th ult. The genial and learned Principal took for his subject the growth of music during the earlier epochs of the Christian Era. He began by urging students to acquaint themselves with these first attempts to build musical sounds into an art, and sketched in a masterly way, and often with considerable humour, the drift of musical history from Ambrose to Palestrina. The chief influences which had operated and the most prominent of the men associated with them were mentioned, the resulting artistic effects described, and some of them exemplified by musical illustrations. Among the subjects dealt with were the work of the Bards, Minnesingers, Troubadours, Minstrels, Trouvères, and Meistersingers; the scholastic improvements effected by Hucbald, Guido d'Arezzo, Franco, and others; the growth of musical notation; the dawn of harmony, counterpoint, and measured music; the origin of the motet, the madrigal, &c.; the beginnings of instrumentation. In his fourth lecture Sir Alexander paid a warm tribute of admiration to the genius of Palestrina and Orlando di Lassus, some of whose music was sung by a small choir of Royal Academy of Music students.

PROMENADE CONCERTS.

Mr. Robert Newman in the past month has chiefly relied on well known masterpieces to attract audiences to his remarkable Promenade concerts at the Queen's Hall, and it must be admitted that results have justified the policy. The large attendances on Friday evenings, when Beethoven's symphonies are being consecutively played, have proved specially satisfactory as indicating appreciation of the best in art. On the 12th ult., in addition to the Seventh Symphony, there were given the three 'Leonora' Overtures, in the order of their composition—viz., that commonly known as 'No. 2,' but written for the original production of the opera at Vienna in 1805; 'No. 3,' the glorified version of the preceding for the revival of the work the following year; and 'No. 1,' based on entirely different themes to the others, composed for the reproduction of the opera in 1807.

The two 'Tschaïkowsky' nights attracted large audiences, and the Fifth Symphony in E minor, performed at the first, was repeated, 'by desire,' at the second, on the 17th ult. The other notable performances on this evening were the 'Romeo and Juliet' and 'Francesca da Rimini' Fantasias, characteristic works by Tschaïkowsky, interpreted in an equally characteristic manner by Mr. Henry J. Wood.

Concerning the novelties introduced, it is difficult to see why some of them were brought forward. Of such were the overture to Mr. Edgar Tinel's sacred music-drama 'Godoleva,' heard for the first time in England on September 27 last, and the Intermezzo from Signor Spinelli's lurid opera 'A Basso Porto,' inserted in the programme for the 11th ult. Neither of these excerpts could have attracted listeners, and certainly they gave little pleasure to those who listened. M. Rachmaninoff's Pianoforte Concerto (Op. 1), the solo part of which was admirably rendered by Miss Evelyn Suart, proved more acceptable on the 4th ult. Its opening movement is vigorous and well knit, the slow movement charming, and the Finale peculiarly interesting, owing to its unusual form. It commences with a Scherzo, which, after being developed with much bustle, is succeeded by a short episode in slow tempo. The Scherzo re-enters and the Finale is built up with the theme of the slow episode. The music shows the healthy influence of the West, and the work will probably add to the reputation in this country of the young composer, who is already widely known by his Prelude in C sharp minor (Op. 3) and his Trio 'Élégiaque' in D minor.

Another pleasing work was the second suite from Edward Lalo's ballet 'Namouna,' introduced on the 9th ult. This consists of five movements, all of which are thoroughly French in conception and scoring, the latter being most picturesque. The several numbers consist of (1) 'Moorish Dances,' in which the characteristic intervals of Eastern scales are deftly used; (2) 'Mazurka,' a pompous movement with a quaint and somewhat surprising episode suggestive of an Irish jig; (3) 'La Siesta,' a fascinatingly delicate number; (4) 'Pas de cymbales,' really a slow walk; and (5) a 'Presto,' which seems to come to an untimely end, or perhaps we should say stoppage, with unexpected abruptness.

Mention should also be made of a Turkish March, entitled 'Bag and Baggage,' by Mr. Algernon Ashton, played for the first time in London, on the 18th ult., and a second Suite by Herr Mottl, consisting of melodies from Gluck's operas, performed for the first time in England on the 20th ult. The former is a jeu d'esprit, and its chief theme is made of the notes B, A, G, a(n)d B, A, G, G, A, G, E; why did not Mr. Ashton introduce the notes, C, A, B, as representing the vehicle conveying his baggage? The latter consists of three movements: (1) March from 'Alceste' and Minuet from 'Iphigenia in Aulis'; (2) Grazioso from 'Paris and Helena'; (3) Slavonic dance from 'Iphigenia in Aulis.' The melodies are effectively orchestrated in modern style, but without doing violence to their old-world character, and the second movement is particularly graceful.

The only new vocalist of exceptional promise who has appeared is Miss Florence Schmidt. This lady is an Australian, and possesses a soprano voice of beautiful quality, which, combined with an easy production, excellent articulation, and a manifest musical temperament, secured her immediate acceptance by an appreciative audience on the 16th ult.

CRYSTAL PALACE CONCERTS.

The new departure at the long established Saturday afternoon concerts was inaugurated on the 13th ult., when the performance was given by Mr. Robert Newman's band, under the conductorship of Mr. Henry J. Wood. The experiment would seem to promise to be successful, for on this occasion and on the following Saturday, when Mr. Newman's orchestra was also engaged, there were large audiences. The familiar programmes do not call for criticism. But magnificent interpretations of Tschaïkowsky's Sixth and Beethoven's Fifth Symphonies must be recorded.

LONDON CONCERTS.

Herr Reisenauer, first professor at the Leipzig Conservatorium, made a re-appearance at St. James's Hall, on the 18th ult., when he gave the first of three pianoforte recitals. He seems to have studiously avoided divergence from the stereotyped programmes of pianists, and his first selection consisted of Beethoven's Sonata in C (Op. 53), Mendelssohn's 'Variations Sérieuses' (Op. 54), Schumann's 'Carnaval,' and pieces by Schubert, Field, Weber, and Chopin.

A highly creditable performance of Coleridge-Taylor's 'Scenes from the Song of Hiawatha' (complete) was given at the National Sunday League concert of the 20th ult., at the Queen's Hall. The choir and orchestra, numbering over 300, carried out their difficult task with a considerable amount of success, which reflected much credit on the able conductor, Mr. Allen Gill. Madame Medora Henson, Mr. Whitworth Mitton, and Mr. Charles Knowles were successful interpreters of the solo parts.

Miss Aubrey and Miss Grace Wonnacott gave a vocal, dramatic, and pianoforte recital at Horniman Hall, Croydon, on the 10th ult., before a large and appreciative audience. Miss Aubrey sang Senta's ballad from 'The Flying Dutchman' and songs by Schubert, Brahms, Grieg, and Liza Lehmann, besides reciting two scenes from Longfellow's 'The Courtship of Miles Standish.' Miss Wonnacott contributed selections by Liszt, Chopin, and others, being particularly successful in a gavotte by Eugene d'Albert. Mr. Leonard Fowles was an efficient accompanist.

MISS MARIE BREMA'S RECITAL.

The first performance in London of Mr. S. Coleridge-Taylor's song cycle 'The Soul's Expression' took place at St. James's Hall, on the 23rd ult., when it was sung by Miss Marie Brema, for whom, it will be remembered, it was composed for production at the recent Birmingham Festival. Only three out of the four songs were rendered, 'Tears' being omitted, and they were given to the composer's pianoforte arrangement of the orchestral accompaniment. Since Mr. Taylor was at the pianoforte, it may be presumed that full justice was done to this portion of the music; but even under these conditions the songs, with the exception of the last, entitled 'Comfort,' lost much of their effectiveness. They were, however, magnificently sung and manifestly made a favourable impression. Miss Brema also gave beautiful interpretations of Schumann's 'Frauenliebe und Leben,' Purcell's 'Mad Bess,' and several other fine songs.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(By our Special Correspondent.)

New York, October 9.

THE WORCESTER (MASS.) FESTIVAL.

The forty-third annual festival of the Worcester County (Massachusetts) Musical Association occupied the attention of New England's music-lovers during the last week of September. As usual, four evening and three afternoon concerts were given, three of the former being devoted to choral works exclusively and one to the exploitation of the solo singers. This sop to Cerberus is a relic of the old régime which the present progressive management has not yet succeeded in sloughing off. Under Mr. George W. Chadwick's direction, however, much is doing to raise the festivals to a thoroughly dignified plane, and though reformatory ambition o'erleaped itself at this meeting, the accomplishment was yet so noble as to make fault-finding seem churlish. Four choral works were performed, and three of them were new to the choir. They were Brahms's 'German Requiem,' César Franck's 'Beatitudes,' and Verdi's 'Te Deum' for double chorus and orchestra. The performance would have benefited much had either the 'Requiem' or the 'Beatitudes' been omitted and a familiar work substituted; as it was, the choir had to study everything, except 'The Golden Legend,' ab initio, as the lawyers say.

You have had so much discussion concerning the merits of Brahms's 'Requiem' that no one will begrudge me a dispensation of silence on the main proposition. The divergence of opinion among the critics in attendance on the festival was quite as great as amongst the English critics when the work was performed last year at your own Worcester Festival—in fact, those who said 'It is naught' did so with the same inflections of voice and the same bumptious air of superiority that marked the utterances of the English cavilliers. There was disagreement about the other composition also, though the Brahmins were beatific in their attitude toward the Frenchman compared with the bearing of the Franconians toward the German. It was the first performance of 'Les Béatitudes' in English, and the second of the work in the United States. Last March the German Liederkranz gave a performance of it in German, under Dr. Klingel, who had brought it forward for the first time in Leipzig. The Worcester performance was looked forward to with apprehension, as that of the 'Requiem' had also been; but the enthusiasm of the occasion saved both works from the dreaded fiasco. There were moments, indeed, in both performances in which it was possible to feel the spirit and power of the compositions, though the skill of the singers was severely put to it, as a rule, to do half justice to the notes. The solos in the 'German Requiem' were in the hands of Miss Sara Anderson and Mr. Gwylym Miles; those of 'The Beatitudes' were sung by Miss Anderson, Miss Gertrude May Stein, Miss Jean Foss, Mr. Evan Williams, Mr. E. C. Towne, Mr. Miles, and Mr. Julian Walker. Miss Blauvelt, Miss Stein, Mr. Van Yorx, Mr. Miles, and Mr. Walker held the solo parts in 'The Golden Legend.' Madame Schumann-Heink and Signor Campanari sang solos at the popular concerts, as did some of the other singers; and Miss Augusta Cottlow, who came out of the West some years ago, appeared as a pianistic prodigy, and then wisely went to Europe to ripen into an artist, played Tschaïkowsky's Concerto in B flat minor very acceptably. The choir numbered nearly 400 singers and the orchestra sixty men, which will look disproportionate to English eyes; but it must be borne in mind that, where the choral element is wholly amateur, all are not singers who sit in serried ranks on the platform. The attendance was better than it has been for some years—a circumstance which brought much comfort to the managers, who have often been told that departure from old methods meant ruin.

ENGLISH OPERA.

The experiment of giving opera in English, which has been carried on successfully for some years at cheap prices in not wholly fashionable theatres, has adopted antic airs and is parading itself, since the 1st inst., somewhat ostentatiously at the Metropolitan Opera House. Mr. Grau has associated himself, at least nominally, with Colonel Savage, who made cheap opera a financial success; and an effort is being made to raise the standard of performance. From all over the world singers, more or less capable of singing in the vernacular, have flocked to New York, believing that the Metropolitan English Opera Company might be to them a stepping-stone to the proud tri-lingual establishment directed by Mr. Grau. Among them are a few not unknown to Great Britain, thanks to the apprenticeships served with the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company. The leading members of the troupe are Rita Elandi, Grace Golden, Phœbe Strakosch, Minnie Tracey, Zelie de Lussan, Ingeborg Ballstrom, Elsa Marny, Louise Meisslinger, Philip Brozel, Joseph F. Sheehan, Barron Berthald, Lloyd d'Aubigné, William Pauli, Lemprière Pringle, and Clarence Whitehill. Richard Eckhold, formerly of the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company, is conductor of the Wagnerian operas, and A. Seppilli of the others. All concerned in the enterprize take themselves very seriously, but incompetence and inexperience are apparent in every department, and there is little expectation among the cognoscenti that the undertaking will contribute in any way to the solution of the operatic problem. Mr. Savage's plans contemplate nightly performances on week-days, and two matinées every week, from October 1 till December 15. Three operas are to be brought forward each week. Thus far we have had 'Faust,' 'Tannhäuser,' 'Mignon,' and 'Carmen.'

THE SEASON'S PROSPECTS.

The season can not yet be said to be open, but, as is evident from what has been said, notes of performance are already blending with notes of preparation. Boston is glorying in a new Music Hall, which, under the name of Symphony Hall, will be the home of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and succeed to the dignities and glories which clustered around the old Music Hall for nearly half-a-century. The new hall, which with the ground upon which it stands cost in the vicinity of £150,000, will be opened on the 15th inst. with a performance of Beethoven's great Mass in D, under the direction of Herr Wilhelm Gericke. Symphony Hall is a noble building and will be consecrated to art exclusively. There is no danger that it will ever become degraded, as the old hall now is, to the level of an ordinary show house. Boston is also to have an extra series of concerts this year. The Worcester Festival chorus will visit the capital of New England and sing Franck's 'Beatitudes,' and another choir will bring forward Professor Parker's 'Wanderer's Psalm.' This, one of Hereford's novelties, will also be performed at the Albany Festival next spring, under the direction of Mr. Autun Mees. In New York the Oratorio Society will add Dr. Dvorák's 'Requiem' to its active list. This will be for its Spring concert; before then it will perform Bach's B minor Mass and Handel's 'Messiah,' the latter twice.

H. E. Krehbiel.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Moody-Manners Opera Company was at the Theatre Royal during the week ending September 29. The operas given were 'Carmen,' 'Tannhäuser,' 'Lohengrin,' 'Faust,' and 'The Jewess.' Good houses were the rule and the brief season was very successful.

The D'Oyly Carte Company paid a return visit to the Prince of Wales's Theatre on the 15th ult., with Sullivan's 'The Rose of Persia,' the cast being the same as on the occasion of the production of the work in June last. The concert season was inaugurated by the City Choral Society on the 17th ult, when the Town Hall was well filled. The principal item in the programme was Stanford's setting of Tennyson's Ballad of the Fleet, 'The Revenge.' This was in the main well rendered. The chorus numbers about 300 and promises to be a most useful factor in the musical work of this city. A copious selection from 'Carmen' afforded scope for band, chorus, and the vocal principals, Miss Agnes Nicholls, Madame Kirkby Lunn, and Mr. Robert Cunningham. The success of Miss Nicholls was most marked and the others did exceedingly well. Mr. F. W. Beard conducted.

On the 22nd ult. the first of the Harrison concerts took place in the Town Hall. Madame Patti was the star of the evening, and her selections included the brillant 'O Luce di quest' anima' and Mozart's 'Deh! vieni.' With Madame Patti were associated Miss Gertrude Calvert, Mr. Ben Johnson, and Mr. Santley. Miss Vera Margolies was the solo pianist, Miss Alice Liebmann, violinist, and Mr. Montague Pollack, violoncellist, the last-named making a successful début at these concerts.

The musical matinées at the Autumn Exhibition of the Birmingham Royal Society of Artists began on the 6th ult., under the direction of Mr. Oscar Pollack. A number of young local performers have been heard and the attendance has been good.

The Saturday Evening concerts in the Town Hall commenced on the 13th ult., when the Midland Musical Society, conducted by Mr. H. M. Stevenson, gave a performance of 'Judas Maccabæus.' The vocal principals were Miss Aimée Wathen, Miss Carrie James, Mr. J. T. Birch, and Mr. William Evans. There was an efficient orchestra and a large audience. Mr. C. W. Perkins presided at the organ.

The annual Festival of the Birmingham Sunday School Union was held in the Town Hall, on the 18th ult. and three days following. A choir of 600 voices, with Mr. Thomas Facer as conductor, rendered a number of vocal pieces, including some amusing action songs.

At the inaugural rehearsal of the season, on the 17th ult., Dr. Sinclair, the new conductor, was formally introduced to the members of the Festival Choral Society and met with a cordial reception. Mr. A. J. Colton has been appointed assistant chorus-master and Miss Gittings accompanist.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The second series of Clifton Subscription Chamber concerts commenced on the 8th ult., in All Saints' Hall. The Kruse Quartet appeared and gratified a large audience by its excellent interpretation of Beethoven's Quartet in B flat (Op. 18) and Mr. D'Albert's Quartet in E flat (Op. 11). Madame Bertha Moore was the vocalist and Dr. Buck accompanied.

After considerable enlargement the organ at Temple or Holy Cross Church was, on the 10th ult., re-opened, Mr. Fothergill giving a recital.

On the 12th ult. Miss Mary Lock gave the first of her Chamber concerts for the season at the Victoria Rooms. In addition to herself at the pianoforte, the executants were Messrs. Duys (first violin), Schöttler (second violin), Wetten (viola), and Lewis (violoncello). Miss Olive Harcourt sang at intervals and was accompanied by Miss Elsie Bennett.

A series of Orchestral concerts at the Victoria Rooms commenced on the 13th ult., a band of about seventy performers from Bristol and the neighbourhood being conducted by Mr. F. W. Rootham. Beethoven's C minor Symphony and other compositions were creditably given. Mr. Lloyd Chandos, the vocalist, was much applauded for the taste and expression with which he rendered the Prize Song from the 'Meistersinger' and 'Onaway! awake, beloved!' from Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast.' The latter was redemanded.

St. Mary's Church Choral Society has outgrown its parochial character and now includes members from all parts of Bristol. At a recent general meeting it was decided to change the name to the Clifton Choral Society. Under Mr. F. W. Rootham the works now in rehearsal are Berlioz's 'Faust,' Professor Villiers Stanford's 'Last Post,' and the Finale to Act I. of Wagner's 'Parsifal.'

The members of the Bristol Madrigal Society (conductor, Mr. D. W. Rootham), Bristol Royal Orpheus Glee Society (conductor, Mr. George Riseley), and the Society of Gleemen (conductor, Mr. W. J. Kidner) have each accepted the invitation of the directors of the Colston Hall Company to be present at the opening of the building. Each choir will sing two pieces.

The societies which are under the conductorship of Mr. Edward Cook are preparing for their winter concerts. The Weston-super-Mare Philharmonic Society is rehearsing 'Elijah,' the Clevedon Philharmonic Society the 'Hymn of Praise' and Spohr's 'God, Thou art great'; and the Portishead Choral Society 'The Hymn of Praise.' The Bristol and Clifton Philharmonic Society has taken for rehearsal Sir Arthur Sullivan's 'Martyr of Antioch.' At Hanham Mr. F. A. Wilshire's choir is practising Rossini's 'Stabat Mater' and Mendelssohn's 'Hear my Prayer.'

MUSIC IN CUMBERLAND.

FORTHCOMING EVENTS.

The county of Cumberland has not hitherto been generally considered strongly 'musical,' but evidences of increasing interest in musical life are not wanting, as may be gathered from the subjoined announcements of local musical societies, kindly contributed by a correspondent. The Carlisle Choral Society (which, by the way, has been established between forty and fifty years) is preparing Sullivan's 'Golden Legend' and Handel's 'Acis and Galatea' for performance on December 26; and the Stanwix Choral Society, established only a few years since, is rehearsing Sterndale Bennett's 'May Queen.' The Carlisle Orchestral Union, numbering nearly fifty playing members, is in a flourishing condition, and usually gives two concerts during the season, at one of which an orchestral piece, not previously performed in the city, is included. This orchestra is the largest and most efficient in the county and is frequently in request to assist choral societies in this locality.

The Penrith Musical Society is preparing 'The Messiah' for performance at Christmas.

A good concert hall and organ is much needed in Carlisle, and the provision of such a desideratum would, no doubt, contribute largely to an increase in musical activity here.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. Joseph O'Mara at his two recent concerts showed himself, what we already knew him to be, a clever and capable artist, Miss Violet Simpson pleased everyone by her charming rendering of 'Che Faro,' and Madame Duma made a genuine effect in 'Softly sighs.' A young violinist, Mr. Ditmar Dressel, played De Beriot's Ninth Concerto really finely, and it was a pleasure to hear the double-stopping in Wilhelmj's brilliant 'Polonaise.' Herr George Liebling played two Liszt pieces, Chopin's G minor Ballade and F minor Fantasia. Miss M. Perceval Allen revealed a charming voice in the 'Shadow Song' from 'Dinorah,' and Mr. A. Archdeacon sang several songs in a most finished and artistic manner. Liza Lehmann's setting of Edward Fitzgerald's translation of the quatrains of Omar Khayyam was sung at the second concert, a work in which Mr. O'Mara made a really good impression. The accompaniments were unusually well played by Mr. Thos. Chapman.

The Royal Dublin Society has departed from its usual programme of afternoon instrumental recitals, and has announced two organ recitals by Dr. A. L. Peace, of Liverpool. The London Wind Quintet have also been engaged by the Society for two concerts in November. The experiment will be watched with interest.

A controversy on Roman Catholic church music is taking place in a new Irish weekly called the Leader. Opinion is divided as to the respective merits of the Palestrina and the modern schools, and the use and abuse of ladies' voices in Roman Catholic church choirs.

MUSIC IN EAST ANGLIA.

(From our own Correspondent.)

In regard to the prospects of the coming season, Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' is selected for performance by no less than four societies—viz., the Beccles Choral Society, in combination with the church choir, in the Parish Church, conducted by Mr. W. Warden Harvey; the Diss Choral Society, conducted by Mr. T. M. Pullen; the Lynn Musical Society and the Hunstanton Choral Society, both the latter being under the conductorship of Mr. A. H. Cross.

Later in the season 'The Messiah' will be given at Beccles, and at Lynn and Hunstanton Beethoven's Choral Fantasia will probably be heard.

The Bungay Choral Society is hoping to present J. F. Barnett's 'Ancient Mariner' early next year.

At Great Yarmouth the Musical Society is preparing Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul,' while the Orchestral Society has commenced its session by rehearsing Haydn's 'Military' Symphony, among other orchestral works. In the neighbouring town of Lowestoft the Choral and Orchestral Society, under Mr. H. D. Flowers, proposes to include in its programmes Schumann's Advent Hymn, Stanford's 'Last Post,' and Graun's Passion Music.

The Norwich Philharmonic Society has appointed Dr. Bates, the Cathedral organist, as its conductor in place of the late Dr. Horace Hill, whose lamented death we recorded early in the year. This Society will most likely provide the accompaniment to Parry's 'Judith,' which will be given at the Festival Committee's first interim concert next February, while for its own concert Beethoven's Symphony (No. 1), Mendelssohn's 'Hebrides' Overture, and two compositions by Edward Elgar are in rehearsal.

The Norwich Orchestral Society, conducted by Mr. Ernest Harcourt, will include that gentleman's cantata, 'An Autumn Legend,' in its first concert.

The Loddon Choral Society propose to give a selection from 'The Messiah' at its first concert in the coming season.

Mr. Kingston Rudd has accepted the position of conductor to the North Walsham Musical Society in succession to the late Dr. H. Hill.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The principal musical organisation in the West, the Glasgow Choral and Orchestral Union, has demonstrated its vitality by advertising a full series of concerts for the coming season, which, so far as it is concerned, will commence on the 29th inst. It has again engaged a band of eighty performers, which will play at nine classical orchestral concerts in Glasgow and at least an equal number of popular concerts, besides performing in Edinburgh and elsewhere in Scotland. With its collaboration the Glasgow Choral Union, under the same scheme, will give four concerts, at which it will present—as in previous years under Mr. Joseph Bradley's conductorship—Mr. Elgar's 'Caractacus,' 'The Messiah,' 'Elijah,' and 'Judas Maccabæus.'

A new conductor comes this season to the Scottish Orchestra, as the band of the Choral and Orchestral Union continues to be called. Mr. Frederic H. Cowen has been engaged, in place of Mr. Wilhelm Bruch, of Strassburg, who, like his predecessors, Mr. Henschel and Mr. Willem Kes (now of Moscow), served two seasons in Glasgow; and as Mr. Cowen cannot, on account of English engagements, be present at all the concerts, he has been given a colleague in the person of Mr. Maurice Sons, who has been orchestral leader for many years and has had some experience in conducting this band. Among instrumental soloists engaged are Lady Hallé, M. Ysaye, and Miss Fanny Davies; and the vocalists include Madame Ella Russell, Miss Lillian Blauvelt, Madame Lucille Hill, Madame Brema, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Andrew Black.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL AND DISTRICT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Liverpool Philharmonic Society began its sixty-second winter series on the 9th ult. with a really admirable concert, at which Madame Carreño achieved quite a triumph in Tschaïkowsky's Pianoforte Concerto in B flat (Op. 23). Beethoven's Seventh Symphony was also played, and the chorus earned distinction in Bach's 'O Light Everlasting.' The Liverpool Orchestral Sociey owes its success chiefly to the extraordinary energy of Mr. A. E. Rodewald, who, after successfully bringing to a conclusion the Sunday concerts at New Brighton Tower after Mr. Granville Bantock's resignation, has now undertaken the conductorship of the Liverpool Sunday Society, retaining at the same time his position as director of the Orchestral Society. As an amateur combination, the 'band' of this latter Society is probably not excelled—at any rate, in this country. The Society's programme for the ensuing season is most ambitious, and the initial concert at the Philharmonic Hall, on the 13th ult., included Tschaïkowsky's First Symphony ('Winter Dreams'), played in Liverpool for the first time; several important selections from Wagner, and Mr. Cuthbert Hawley's symphonic poem, 'The Story of the Faithful Soul,' which the composer himself conducted. Miss Marie Brema sang the final scene from 'Götterdämmerung.'

The choral societies on both sides of the Mersey endeavour to keep well to the front, but financial losses resulting from the attempts to introduce new and interesting works have hitherto proved a serious discouragement. The rivalry, however, is good for the art. Mention must be made of the good beginning made this season by the old Società Armonica, which Mr. Vasco Akeroyd continues to direct with marked success.

On the 18th ult. Mr. C. Meir Scott, a pianist who possesses remarkable dynamic force, and who, though trained in Germany, is a Liverpool man, gave his first public recital in the Small Concert Room at St. George's Hall. He had a favourable hearing from a distinctly fashionable audience, and made a good impression as a performer of great promise.

Mr. Isidor Cohn, who has joined the staff of the Liverpool College of Music in succession to Mr. Steudner Welsing, gave a recital, on the 15th ult., to a large and appreciative audience of students. He is a distinct acquisition to the professorial staff of what is, locally, the most important teaching institution for music in this city.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Our musical season was really inaugurated by the visit of the Albani party on the 15th ult., when a great stimulus was given to the popularity of afternoon concerts by the almost crowding of the large Free Trade Hall. Hitherto, only very sparse audiences have been attracted to any daylight performances here, and afternoon recitals have met with small encouragement; but fashion is changing, and the excellent singing of the prima donna, of Miss Ada Crossley, and of Messrs. Santley and Douglas Powell met with enthusiastic appreciation. Nothing in the whole programme so pleased as the refined rendering of Beethoven's 'Adelaïde,' by Mr. Ben Davies, and the wonderfully brilliant and sympathetic pianoforte playing of Mr. Frederick Dawson. Madame Albani sang 'The spring had come,' from Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Departure,' and Sir Alexander Mackenzie's charming setting of Tennyson's 'What does little birdie say?' Dr. Henry Watson's Vocal Society commenced its thirty-fourth season by some of the polished part-singing so frequently heard in the Athenæum Hall in past years, and Dr. Pyne has resumed his Saturday Evening organ recitals at the Town Hall; so that our winter enjoyments have commenced in good earnest.

Dr. Richter was sure to receive an enthusiastic welcome on the 18th ult., as being now a Manchester citizen (for some years, at least) and because of his unquestioned merit as a great conductor. The band under his control has been to some extent reconstituted, the wind has been doubled, and Dvorák's Symphonic Variations, at any rate, served admirably to show the qualifications of those who may be called the soloists of the orchestral staff—the chiefs of the wood-wind section. Probably, too, the 'Vorspiel' to 'Die Meistersinger' was chosen as the opening piece with a somewhat similar design to exhibit the merits of the different departments. Madame Blanche Marchesi also aided in drawing together a densely thronged audience; and our great Subscription concerts commenced the campaign under most encouraging auspices, as the programme for the second meeting included Schumann's Symphony in E flat and the names of Miss Fanny Davies and Mr. Andrew Black, as solo pianist and vocalist.

What a rich week it was, musically, which closed on the Saturday evening, as the friends of Mr. Carl Fuchs gathered round him at the Schiller-Anstalt to listen to some of his admirable performances of chamber music. Schubert's Octet in F and Beethoven's Pianoforte Quartet in E flat were separated by the violin performance of Mr. Briggs and a pianoforte solo by Mrs. J. S. Bridge.

At the first of Mr. Brodsky's Chamber concerts the newly appointed teacher of the pianoforte, Miss Webster, is confidently expected thoroughly to justify the training she has received from Mr. Dayas; but criticism of her performance must be withheld till next month.

Considerable interest is felt concerning the union of Nonconformist choirs recently formed here under the guidance of Mr. Granville E. Humphreys. The first performance, in the Free Trade Hall, on the 20th ult., was very successful. Why do not the best church choirs of the city similarly band together?

MUSIC IN NOTTINGHAM AND DISTRICT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The concert season has not yet fairly commenced, but some work has been done in the direction of choral music by Mr. Marshall-Ward, whose choir, augmented for the occasion, gave the first and second parts of Haydn's 'Creation,' at Wesley Chapel, Broad Street, on September 30.

On the 10th ult. Miss Nellie Smith (pianist) and Miss Kate Chaplin (violin) gave a very interesting performance of classical chamber music. Miss Smith was heard to advantage in Beethoven's Rondo in G and Chopin's Polonaise Brillante. Miss Chaplin selected Handel's Sonata in G minor for her solo, and played, in conjunction with Miss Smith, Brahms's Sonata in A major, and, later, Schumann's in A minor. Mr. Ford Waltham was the vocalist and rendered songs by Lehmann, Salmond, and Vogrich. The concert was very well supported and several encores were given.

On the 12th ult. Dr. Horner gave a very interesting lecture on Beethoven to a crowded house. He treated his subject in a very able and popular style and was supported by Mr. George Sands (tenor) and Miss Maud Clements, who furnished the vocal illustrations.

Mr. Marshall-Ward has recently started a choral society, Brahms's Requiem being put into rehearsal. There is room for another choral body in the town, and we heartily congratulate Mr. Ward on this new departure.

In Derby the Choral Union is rehearsing 'Judas Maccabæus' with a view to its performance at the first concert, on November 6.

A select choir, devoted entirely to the performance of part-songs, and drawn to a large extent from local professional talent, has been formed by Mr. Arthur Walker. As there is no Society devoted to this class of music in Nottingham, Mr. Walker's efforts should prove very acceptable.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

At the opening concert of Miss Foxon's series Mr. David Bispham sang Stanford's 'Cavalier' songs, with a male chorus of forty voices conducted by Dr. Coward. Mr. Bispham is popular in Sheffield and his appearance was cordially welcomed. Miss Fanny Davies and Miss Maud Powell played pianoforte and violin solos, and Mr. H. Bird accompanied.

'Elijah' was performed in St. Mary's Church, Sheffield, on the 15th ult., under Mr. J. A. Rodgers. The large church was filled to overflowing, and a fine performance was listened to with rapt attention. The chorus numbered 140 voices and the principals were Miss Margaret Cooper, Master Eddie Unwin, Mr. J. E. Varley, Mr. W. H. Burrows, and Mr. J. Lycett. The movement to popularise oratorio and sacred works in the Church is spreading, admirable performances being given from time to time at St. John's (Ranmoor), under Mr. J. C. V. Stacey, and at St. Jude's (Eldon), under Mr. A. Bagshaw.

MUSIC IN STAFFORDSHIRE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

St. Mary's Collegiate Church Choir, Stafford, gave an admirable rendering of Dr. Garrett's Harvest cantata, on the 7th ult., when Dr. Taylor presided at the organ. On the 17th ult. the choir of the church sang Mendelssohn's 'Festgesang' in a most creditable manner, the attack in the rather difficult chorus, 'Let there be light,' being specially noticeable. Dr. Taylor conducted.

The twelfth season of the Meakin Popular concerts was opened, on the 8th ult., in the Victoria Hall, Hanley. The artists on the occasion were Madame Amy Sherwin, Madame Marian McKenzie, Mr. Cunliffe, Señor Rubio (violoncello), Mr. B. Booth (violin), and Mr. G. Booth (pianoforte).

A concert was given in the National Hall, Hanley, on the same evening, by the Potteries and District Choral Society, the winners of the first prize at the recent National Eisteddfod at Liverpool. The programme included the test pieces by which the prize was obtained—viz., 'The vale of rest' and 'Why, my soul, art thou so vexed?' (Mendelssohn), and the double chorus, 'How the giant winds do wrestle' (Stephens). There was a large attendance and the proceeds are to be devoted towards a testimonial to Mr. J. Garner, the conductor.

MUSIC IN YORKSHIRE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The prospects of music during the coming season are particularly good so far as concerns the town of Leeds, where the programmes of the Philharmonic and Subscription concerts, now amalgamated in one series, together with those of the more recently established Choral Union, present together a musical scheme which, for an English provincial town, must be pronounced satisfactory. There is an unfortunate overlapping caused by the fact that each society deems it necessary to include a Christmas 'Messiah' performance in its programme, otherwise each series supplements the other very happily. The Philharmonic Society is preparing Brahms's 'Triumphlied,' Beethoven's Choral Symphony, Stanford's 'Elegiac Ode'—which well deserves resuscitation—the prologue to Boïto's 'Mefistofele,' and some Wagner extracts, in addition to 'St. Paul' and 'Messiah.' The Hallé Orchestra will take part in both choral and orchestral concerts, in the one case under Dr. Stanford, in the other under Dr. Richter. The orchestral pieces to be given include, among others, Beethoven's Fifth and Ninth and Schubert's Ninth Symphonies. A leading feature of the Choral Union's season will be the production of the whole of Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha' trilogy, under the composer's direction. Brahms's 'Rinaldo,' Dvorák's 'Te Deum,' and Sir Frederick Bridge's 'Flag of England' will also be new to the town; but the inclusion of Sullivan's 'Golden Legend' and Handel's 'Messiah' will reconcile a public not enamoured of novelty to the programme. Concert-goers of lighter tastes are provided for by Messrs. Haddock's 'Musical Evenings,' which are on the usual attractive lines. Depending, as they do, more upon the reputation of the performers than the interest of the music, only one composition is mentioned in the prospectus, the now famous song cycle, 'In a Persian Garden.' Chamber music at Leeds is provided chiefly by private enterprise, but the Brodsky Quartet is to appear at one of the Subscription series of concerts.

The Bradford Subscription concerts will follow the usual lines. Mr. Edward Lloyd made his farewell at a specially arranged concert last season, but he is to be accorded the opportunity of some 'more last words' at a performance of 'Messiah.' The other choral work announced is Mr. Elgar's 'Caractacus.' Mr. Cowen will conduct the choral concerts, Dr. Richter the orchestral ones, and there is to be a goodly array of eminent soloists. The Bradford Permanent Orchestra, under Mr. Cowen's conductorship, has done some excellent work, and promises to at least maintain its efficiency during the coming series of six concerts, at one of which Mr. Elgar will conduct a programme of his own compositions The Bradford Old Choral Society promises Handel's 'Messiah' and Haydn's 'Seasons,' in addition to a strong miscellaneous concert, and the Bradford Festival Choral Society, in addition to supplying a chorus at the Subscription concerts, is giving 'Elijah' and Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha' trilogy.

At Huddersfield the Choral Society, which, so far as material goes, is the strongest in the West Riding, contents itself with a very safe programme, and, though 'Messiah,' 'Israel in Egypt,' and 'St. Paul' may not indicate a spirit of enterprise, experience shows that the Society is wise in avoiding modern music. The Subscription concerts furnish, as usual, a remarkably diversified entertainment. Here again, however, though a long list of popular performers is submitted, there is no mention of the works to be given, so that criticism is impossible.

The Halifax Society is almost equally cautious in its movements, 'The Messiah' and the 'Hymn of Praise' being the principal works announced; but the production of a cantata, 'The Blind Girl of Castel Cuillé,' by a local musician, Mr. H. Van Dyk, will give a certain interest to the scheme. The Subscription concerts at Halifax, though not numerous, are conducted on thoroughly artistic lines, and a series of three Chamber concerts has been planned for the coming season.

The Harrogate Choral Society, which, under Mr. C. L. Naylor's direction, has made a distinct advance in efficiency, will give during the coming season 'The Golden Legend' and 'Elijah.' At Dewsbury the Choral Society, which has paid the penalty of being somewhat in advance of the musical culture of Dewsbury, will this year confine itself to a single choral concert, at which 'The Golden Legend' and 'Walpurgis Night' are to be given, a second programme being of chamber music, but including Schubert's 'Miriam's Song,' sung, of course, to the original pianoforte accompaniment.

The retrospective part of my record of music in Yorkshire is necessarily a brief one, for at the time of writing nothing of importance has been done. Huddersfield has been busy in musical matters, two of the Subscription concerts having taken place, the Meister Glee Singers appearing at one and Mr. Edward Lloyd paying a 'farewell' at the other. The Choral Society, on the 19th ult., gave a creditable performance, under Mr. John Bowling, of Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul.' Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Edna Thornton, Mr. Reginald Brophy, and Mr. Watkin Mills were the soloists. The chorus-singing was very fine, for force and weight of tone was unsurpassable, but the orchestra was not correspondingly good. The Glee and Madrigal Society, which Mr. Ibeson conducts, gave a good miscellaneous concert on the 16th ult., the programme including a well-chosen assortment of such music as the Society's title indicates; and in the neighbouring village of Almondbury, the plucky effort of the 'Woodsome' Choral Society deserves notice, 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast' being given with much efficiency under an enthusiastic amateur, Lady Frances Legge. At the first of the Halifax Subscription concerts, on the 8th ult., Mr. Bispham sang Liza Lehmann's 'In Memoriam' song cycle most impressively, anticipating by four days its introduction to Leeds, it being sung very artistically by Mr. Charles Phillips at an interesting vocal recital given by a local singer, Madame Jenny Eddison.

The Bradford Permanent Orchestra began its operations for the season on the 20th ult., when Mr. Cowen directed a generally efficient performance of Beethoven's Eighth Symphony. Lady Hallé played, with all her accustomed perfection of technique and artistic finish, Vieuxtemps's Concerto in E, and Miss Louise Dale was the vocalist.

FOREIGN NOTES.

Berlin.—Herr C. van Humalda, of Leipzig, one of the most gifted young tenors in Germany, gave a Beethoven song recital on the 6th ult., in the Beethoven-Saal. His programme was admirably selected and enabled his audience to form a true estimate of the great master's importance as a song writer, in which capacity he is generally less appreciated than he should be. Herr van Humalda was excellently accompanied by a young English musician, Mr. Harold L. Brooke, of London. The local press speaks in terms of warm praise of the singer's resonant and sympathetic voice and highly developed interpretative powers, while his able accompanist is also included in the critic's commendations.——The Symphony concerts of the Royal Orchestra, under Herr Weingartner's direction, were resumed on September 29, the performances comprising Bach's Suite in B minor for string orchestra, with flute obbligato, Beethoven's C major Symphony, and Berlioz's symphony 'Harold in Italy.' The first Philharmonic concert of the season, under Herr Nikisch's direction, took place on the 8th ult., when a new work by Max Schillings—viz., a symphonic prologue to 'Œdipus Rex'—was produced for the first time and most favourably received.——The vacant conductorship of the Singakademie has been conferred upon Herr Georg Schumann, an able musician and composer of some note, lately of Bremen. Another old-established Berlin choral society, the Erk'sche Maennergesang Verein, has received a new conductor in the person of Professor Siegfried Ochs, the well-known musical director of the Philharmonic Choir.

Bayonne.—'Thrilling' effects were produced by the performance last month of Bizet's 'Carmen,' when the prevailing popular taste for realism was gratified by the introduction in the fourth act of a genuine bull-fight. Needless to add the baritone representative of the part of Escamillo was replaced by a professional toreador, when it came to the sanguinary part of the performance, which elicited 'a perfect storm of applause.'

Bayreuth.—Dr. Muck, of Berlin, has been engaged to conduct the 'Parsifal' performances at next year's 'Festspiele,' when the tenor Van Dyck will be the interpreter of the titular part and Herr Friedrichs that of Amfortas.

Budapest.—Dr. Hans Richter has agreed to conduct a series of performances at the Royal Opera during the coming winter. The distinguished musician, it may be remembered, held the post of conductor at this Institution from 1871 to 1875.

Frankfort-on-Main.—At a recent private concert Dr. Bernhard Scholz, assisted by Professors Heermann, Hugo Becker, and Johannes Hegur, introduced several new chamber compositions from his pen, amongst which a sonata for violoncello and pianoforte and a pianoforte trio attracted special attention.

Lemberg.—The newly-erected Polish National Theatre was opened, on the 4th ult., with artistically arranged ceremonies, culminating in the first production of Wladislaw Zelenski's opera 'Janek,' which, under the direction of M. Celansky, created storms of applause.

Munich.—In connection with the inauguration, last month, of the new National Museum, an interesting historical concert was given, the programme of which (compiled by the University Professor of Music, Dr. Sandberger) contained an excerpt from the 'Lochheimer Liederbuch,' a ten-part hymn by Orlando di Lassus, a gavotte by Felice dell' Aburo, a chorus from Handel's 'Judas Maccabæus,' the overture to Mozart's 'La finta giardiniera,' and 'Weihnachts Lieder,' by Prætorius and Michael Haydn.

Paris.—The last of the official concerts in connection with the Great Exhibition took place on the 3rd ult., and included among its most interesting numbers a new Concertstück for pianoforte and orchestra, by M. Raoul Pugno, the Overture to 'Much Ado about Nothing' of M. Paul Puget, and the Prelude to No. 8 of the late César Franck's oratorio 'Les Béatitudes.'——At the Opéra Comique, Alfred Bruneau's 'Le Rêve' was revived with great success last month.——The monument erected in the Luxembourg Gardens to the memory of Chopin was unveiled on the 17th ult., the fiftieth anniversary of the composer's death. It consists of a column of white stone, surmounted by an admirable bust, the work of the sculptor, Georges Dubois, and is placed in a retired corner of the gardens, near the bust of Saint-Beuve.

St. Petersburg.—The Rubinstein Museum at the Imperial Conservatoire will be opened on the 21st inst., the sixth anniversary of the pianist-composer's death. It contains a number of autographs and other personalia relating to the master's life and works.

Ulm.—A highly interesting series of historical organ recitals was given recently, at the Cathedral, by the organist, Herr Beringer. The performances comprised some fifty important compositions by classical and modern composers for the 'King of Instruments,' ranging over the past four centuries, one entire recital being devoted to the works of Bach.

Vienna.—The performance at the Imperial Opera, last month, of Mozart's 'Così fan tutte,' when the newly adopted plan of reducing the proportions of the stage came into operation for the first time, was a complete success. ——Court-Capellmeister Rudolph Bibl, the highly esteemed organist of St. Stephen's and of the Imperial Chapel, a friend of Brahms, celebrated last month the fiftieth anniversary of his organistship.——Edward Strauss, with his orchestra of forty-two members, has started upon an extensive concert tour in the United States of America.

OBITUARY.

At Handsworth, near Birmingham, died, on the 2nd ult., William Glydon, who, though not a professional musician, was for many years a prominent figure in the musical life of Birmingham. He had a fine bass voice and was long associated with the choir of the Church of the Saviour, where George Dawson was the minister. For years he was a member of the stock company of the Theatre Royal, and in 'Macbeth' his Hecate was of more than local celebrity. He frequently sang at the concerts of the Festival Choral Society in the fifties, and when the Music Hall in Broad Street (now the Prince of Wales Theatre) was opened in 1856, Mr. Glydon, with a partner, carried on a series of weekly vocal and instrumental concerts. His artistic jubilee was celebrated by a benefit performance at the Theatre Royal, July 6, 1891. For some time he had been in failing health, but his death came as a shock to a large circle of friends. He was in his eighty-second year.

The death of William Beatty-Kingston took place, we regret to say, on the 4th ult., under peculiarly sad circumstances. He was returning from a holiday in the Bordeaux country, and when on board the steamer Albatross, coming up the Thames, the unyielding messenger summoned him to his last long sleep. Born in the year 1837, Mr. Beatty-Kingston was for thirty-four years a brilliant journalist on the staff of the Daily Telegraph. His chief claim to notice in these columns is, however, his literary work in connection with music, as exampled in his 'Music and Manners' (1887) and his contributions to The Lute when under the editorship of Mr. Joseph Bennett, one of his colleagues on the Daily Telegraph. Mr. Bennett speaks of his departed friend as an excellent pianist and an unusually good sight reader, and as one who might 'have distinguished himself as a musical critic.' The remains of Mr. Beatty-Kingston were laid to rest in the Marylebone Cemetery at East Finchley.

The death of Zdenko Fibich, which was announced on the 10th ult., at Prague, signifies a severe loss to Czech national music, whereof, with Antonin Dvorák, he was a leading representative.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Prospectuses for the 'Coming Season' of the following Choral Societies have reached us since our last issue:—

The Streatham Choral Society, conducted by Mr. Stewart Macpherson, will perform Mendelssohn's 'Walpurgis Night,' Mr. Macpherson's Mass in D, and 'The Messiah.'

The Lewisham Choral Society will give Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast' and 'Death of Minnehaha,' and Mendelssohn's 'Elijah.' Mr. Frank Idle is the conductor.

The St. Peter's Choral Society, Brockley, announces Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast,' Bridge's 'Flag of England,' the 'Creation,' Sullivan's 'Martyr of Antioch,' and Gaul's 'Holy City.' Conductor, Dr. C. J. Frost.

The Morecambe Musical Festival and Competition will be held on May 1, 2, 3, 4, 1901. Sir Frederick Bridge, Dr. McNaught, and Herr Adolf Brodsky are to be the adjudicators. Besides the numerous competitions there will be a performance of 'Phaudrig Crohoore' (Villiers Stanford). A prize of £10 (with a possible addition of £5) is offered for the best part-song, the words for which can be obtained from the Secretary, Mr. H. Powell, Festival Offices, Morecambe.

Special services were held on the 14th and 15th ult. at St. Paul's Church, Harringay, in connection with the dedication festival. On the second evening Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' was sung, the solos in which were excellently given by members of the choir, and the choruses were rendered with great efficiency, reflecting much credit on Mr. Kemshead, the organist and choirmaster of the church, who conducted, Mr. Titterton presiding at the organ.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE GRAVE OF DR. S. S. WESLEY.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

Sir,—I observe in the September number of The Musical Times that a correspondent informs you, in reference to the grave of Dr. S. S. Wesley in the Old Cemetery at Exeter:—

(1) That it was only after a prolonged search 'that he at last discovered the grave.'

(2) That the 'stone is in great need of being cleaned.'

(3) That 'the inscription requires to be re-cut and freshly painted.'

As to (1)—My father selected the position of the grave, for his daughter. It is close to the most frequently used entrance of the cemetery. I should have called the position conspicuous.

(2) Personally I should consider it an act of vandalism to clean a stone which age has made to harmonize with its surroundings. In all essentials the stone is, with the exception of the part of the inscription which refers to my father, as he placed it. My brother, the Rev. Charles Wesley, who also has recently seen the grave, considers that the stone is in perfect preservation, and points out that the operation of cleaning and renovating the stone would be a vain one.

(3) We, neither of us, think that as yet 'the inscription requires to be re-cut and freshly painted.'

But if your correspondent's complaints were well founded, they would not justify the implication contained in his question, 'Is it not a pity that the grave of so distinguished a musician should be suffered to fall into such a state of decay?', an implication practically contradicted by his next sentence, 'I believe that the stone could be thoroughly renovated at a very small cost.'

The renovation he appears to contemplate I should object to at any cost. Something that I did consider advisable I have directed to be done. I should think the repair has already been carried out. It is, however, nothing in the nature of renovating the stone.

I am, yours faithfully,
F. G. Wesley.

Durham, September 24, 1900.

[The above letter, from the Rev. F. G. Wesley, reached us too late for insertion in our October number.—Ed., M.T.]

MR. EDWARD ELGAR'S BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

Sir,—I have read with much interest the account of Mr. Edward Elgar's career given in your October number, but I am somewhat surprised to find no reference made therein to the assistance rendered by the late Dr. Swinnerton Heap to Mr. Elgar in bringing some of his works prominently before the public.

For some years I held the office of Secretary to the Wolverhampton Festival Choral Society, and was in close contact with Dr. Heap, through whose influence the cantata 'The Black Knight' was performed at Wolverhampton, on February 26, 1895, being, I believe, the first occasion of its performance with full orchestral accompaniment.

It was also on Dr. Heap's recommendation that Mr. Elgar received his commission to compose 'King Olaf,' produced at the North Staffordshire Festival in October, 1896, which was also performed the following season by the Birmingham and Wolverhampton Societies, to both of which Dr. Heap was conductor. At that time Mr. Elgar spoke to me of his great obligation to Dr. Heap, and it may further be observed that his oratorio 'The Light of Life,' produced at the Three Choirs Festival at Worcester, in September, 1896, is dedicated 'To C. Swinnerton Heap, Esq., Mus. Doc., with sincere regard.'

I am, yours faithfully,
Henry Vale.

16, Darlington Street, Wolverhampton,
October 15, 1900.

EXTEMPORE ORGAN PLAYING OF THE PERIOD.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

Sir,—Can any notice be taken about the growing evil of 'extempore' organ playing as an accompaniment of the public services of the Church of England? Not only are we troubled with this complaint in our suburban churches wherever there is a big organ, and a 'fine' player, but the evil is spreading to the more important and representative churches and Cathedrals. The modus operandi of the extempore player of the period is about the same in most cases: As the choir and clergy file out of the chancel the organ is played very softly. After a short period the sound gradually increases, stops being pulled out in groups, till, as a final effort, the tubas, &c., are drawn, and then, with a dreadful scream and bang, the 'music' suddenly ceases—literally 'sound and fury signifying nothing'!

To anyone who can remember the extempore playing of such men as Thomas Adams, Samuel Sebastian Wesley, Henry Smart, and many others of their generation, such an exhibition as this is very sad. Many of these modern men are deserving of the greatest praise for the wonderful skill they display in getting about their instruments with their hands and feet; but where is their music? If they would use their admirable technical skill to interpret for us the beautiful (often difficult) organ music left on record by the gifted men who have gone before, they would receive (and well deserve) the respectful gratitude of all who listen to them.

A Lover of Organ Music.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY AND COLONIAL NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Ashburton.—Harvest thanksgiving services were held at the Parish Church on September 30. The music performed included West's Te Deum in B flat, Gadsby's Evening Service in C, and West's new anthem 'The woods and every sweet-smelling tree.' The 'Harvest Festival Book' published by Messrs. Novello was used. Organists will find this book exceedingly useful for such festivals, as the music required is conveniently brought under one cover. Mr. Harold O. Jones, the organist of the church, played Guilmant's 'Grand Chœur' in D at the end of the service.

Ashton-under-Lyne.—The annual services in aid of the choir funds of Albion Congregational Church were held on September 23. Special music was sung at each service, the anthems in the morning being 'Lift up your heads' (Hopkins), and Handel's 'I know that my Redeemer liveth,' sung by Madame Emily Squire; and in the evening Elvey's 'This is the day.' In the afternoon Dr. H. Hiles's sacred cantata 'The Crusaders' was sung. The choruses are very dramatic and were rendered with spirit by the choir, which gave ample evidence of the excellent training by the conductor, Mr. T. Keighley, organist and choirmaster of the church. The solos were admirably sung by Madame Emily Squire and Mr. William Green, and the service concluded with the 'Hallelujah' chorus from 'The Messiah.' Mr. Frank Radcliffe presided successfully at the organ.

Auckland (N.Z.).—Mr. C. Lee Williams's cantata 'Gethsemane' was performed here for the first time in the Primitive Methodist Church, Alexander Street, on August 20. The choir of the church, augmented to fifty voices, sang with spirit, the male voices especially doing well. The solos were well rendered by Mrs. Coates, Miss Bradbury, Messrs. W. Trenwith and J. W. Ryan. Mr. A. Trenwith, the conductor, deserved much credit for his care in training the choir. The cantata was to be repeated in the Franklin Road Church, on September 6.

Basingstoke.—The Harmonic Society gave its first concert (of the eighteenth season) on the 8th ult., with an excellent performance of Smart's 'Bride of Dunkerron.' The solos were taken by Miss Winifred Marwood, Mr. G. D. Dawson, and Mr. Graham Smart. Mr. J. S. Liddle led the orchestra and Mr. A. D. Arnott accompanied. The conductor was Mr. W. H. Liddle, who, in the miscellaneous second part, received an encore for the performance of a Tarantella for the pianoforte of his own composition.

Brentwood.—A most successful patriotic concert was given, under the auspices of the Brentwood Choral and Orchestral Society, on the 4th ult., in the Town Hall. The programme included a well rendered pianoforte solo by Madame Upton-Dene, songs by Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Ethel Bevans, Mr. Henry Franckiss, Mr. Ivor Foster, Mr. Edgar Shelton, and Mr. George Baker, all of which were heartily appreciated. Mr. Ferdinand Weist-Hill contributed two violin solos, for which he received quite an ovation, and Mr. Walter Churcher was the reciter of the evening.

Bromley.—An organ recital and service of sacred music was given at St. Luke's Church, Bromley Common, on September 30, under the direction of Mr. Walter E. Stark, organist and choirmaster. Violin solos were played by Mr. Handley Davies. Mr. Otto Dene sang, in good style, 'My hope is in the everlasting,' from 'The Daughter of Jairus' (Stainer); 'In splendour bright' and 'In native worth,' from Haydn's 'Creation.'

Coventry.—The Holy Trinity Festival Choir gave its first performance of the season on the 18th ult. The works selected were J. S. Bach's 'Sleepers, wake!' Sir Hubert Parry's 'Blest Pair of Sirens,' Brahms's 'How lovely is Thy dwelling-place,' and Gounod's 'By Babylon's wave.' Analytical programmes were provided, and capital renderings of the selected works were given, under the direction of the organist of the church, Mr. C. H. Moody. Miss Gertrude Lyons (soprano), Mr. Turner (tenor), and Mr. Bantock Pierpoint (bass) ably sustained the solo parts, and the organ accompaniments were safe in the hands of Dr. H. P. Allen, organist of Ely Cathedral. Spohr's 'Last Judgment' and Blair's 'Blessed are they who watch' are to be given in Advent.

Catford.—On Sunday, the 14th ult., at St. Lawrence Church, Haydn's 'Creation' (Parts 1 and 2) was sung at the special afternoon service. The choir of over sixty voices deserve all praise for the excellent attack and vigorous treatment of the choruses, notably in 'Despairing, cursing rage,' 'The marvellous work,' and 'The heavens are telling.' The soloists were Madame Carlotta Ide, Mr. Wilfrid Pepper, and Mr. Arthur Walenn. Mr. F. J. Francis presided at the organ and Mr. Herbert Gisby at the pianoforte. The oratorio was ably conducted by Mr. Charles W. Wilkes, organist and choirmaster of the church.

Grimsby. — Harvest festival services were held at George Street Wesleyan Chapel, on the 7th ult. At the evening service the choir, numbering sixty voices, gave a very careful rendering of Myles B. Foster's anthem 'O God, who is like unto Thee.' Mr. James Bennett presided at the organ and Mr. C. H. Dawson conducted.

Tewkesbury.—The annual Choral Festival was held in the Abbey, on September 20, when Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' was performed, under the direction of Mr. A. W. V. Vine (the organist and choirmaster of the Abbey), who should be congratulated on the excellent training of his forces. The choirs, consisting of singers gathered from Gloucester, Worcester, and Tewkesbury, numbered 200, and sang with much spirit, and the orchestra was led by Mr. E. G. Woodward, Mr. A. Herbert Brewer presiding at the organ. The principal vocalists were Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Muriel Foster, Mr. James Leyland, and Mr. Henry Sunman, assisted by Miss Margaret Hicks-Beach, Miss Fluck, Mr. Ricketts, and Mr. Gray, all of whom contributed to a highly successful performance.

Towcester.—The Choral Society will perform Gaul's 'Joan of Arc' at its first concert of the season, to be given next month. Conductor, Mr. Percy W. Taylor.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

E. F. D.—(1) There is no special agent in London for the house of Fr. Kistner, of Leipzig. The publications of the firm may be obtained from Messrs. Novello. (2) The tune you mention is by Barnby. It is named 'Holy Trinity,' and is No. 13 of his 'Hymn Tunes.' (3) The opus number of the 'Two Songs' by Lassen is Op. 85, No. 3. The best English version is that published by Messrs. Stanley Lucas, Weber and Co. (4) Gade is pronounced 'Garthe,' two syllables, the a as in father, with the accent on the first syllable.

W. H. C.—The words of the anthem, of which you send us the first phrase, 'Is there not an appointed time upon earth?' have been set by Dr. Chard and Samuel Matthews. But your extract does not agree with the former composition, and the latter does not seem to have been printed. Perhaps some of our readers can furnish some further information on this matter. (The anthem is in G minor and the opening theme is in triple rhythm—three minims in a bar.)

Sub-Organist.—You ought not to experience much difficulty in learning to play chants from memory, as they certainly do not make so much demand upon the retentive faculties as do sonatas, fugues, &c. Think of the progression of the chords, and if you have not a knowledge of harmony, your best plan will be to set to work at once to acquire it, as this will greatly help you in your difficulty of memorizing.

E. S. L.—Dr. Basil Harwood has kindly supplied, specially for our correspondent, the following metronomic rates for his Organ Sonata in C sharp minor:—First movement, crotchet = 88, quickening at p. 5 to 100. Andante, crotchet = 60. Con moto, minim = 72, quickening at p. 18 to 84. Dr. Harwood, however, adds: 'But really the time changes so frequently that the speed is best left to the player's own feeling.'

J. B.—Beethoven's overture 'Namensfeier' may be played at these rates of speed: Maestoso, quaver = 88; Allegro assai vivace, dotted crotchet = 126.

Musicus.—'Softly sighs' (Weber's 'Der Freischütz') may be sung at these rates of speed: Adagio, quaver = 88; Andante, crotchet = 92; and Vivace, minim = 132. 'Thou monstrous fiend' (Beethoven's 'Fidelio'): Allegro agitato, crotchet = 138; Poco sostenuto, dotted crotchet = 66; Adagio, quaver = 72; Allegro con brio, crotchet = 144.

C. A.—The edition of Handel's 'Esther' published by Wright, which you possess, is stated by Rockstro to be 'complete and very valuable.' The date of its publication can be approximately determined by the name of one of the subscribers to the work—i.e., 'Mr. Greatorex, Carlisle Cathedral,' who held that organistship from 1781 to 1784.

B. H.—The upper note of the second Pralltriller (not Mordent) should be E flat, not E natural, so as to avoid the anticipation of the modulation to the dominant which takes place at the end of the bar. (Beethoven's Pianoforte Sonata in B flat, Op. 22, first movement, complete bar 10.)

Perplexed. — Nothing worse than a printer's error in dividing the syllables. It should, of course, be printed 'Phil-o-mel,' and pronounced like the shortened form of the name 'Philip,' and not akin to an ironmonger's tool of the raspy species. (Stevens's glee, 'Ye spotted snakes.')

A. B. C.—(1) We are very sorry, but we are colour blind in the matter of the hue of hoods 'which may be worn of the various examinations and associations.' (2) Apply to the Secretary, Royal College of Organists, Hart Street, Bloomsbury, London.

J. W.—The two ballads by Balfe, about which you enquire, are apparently detached songs and did not form part of an opera. The words of 'The Sweet Guitar' are by Charles Wood Chapman, and of 'Don't let the roses listen' by Jessica Rankin.

Enquirer.—The information concerning Dr. Croft's tunes given in the September issue of The Musical Times is all that is known about them, and therefore it may be accepted as accurate.

C. C.—John Hullah does not seem to have carried out his intention of printing an edition of Ravenscroft's tunes in score.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., Limited.

BACH, J. S.—A Selection from the Passion of our Lord (according to St. Matthew). Abridged edition. Paper boards. 2s.

BAVIN, J. T.—"The Elements of Singing." An Introduction to Voice and Choir-Training, and Sight-Singing. 2s.

DAVIES, H. WALFORD—"The Three Jovial Huntsmen." Op. 11. Old Song set as a Cantata for Chorus and Orchestra (or for small Chorus, Violin, and Pianoforte). 1s. 6d.

GOODHART, A. M.—"Founder's Day." A secular Ode on the ninth Jubilee of Eton College. For Chorus and Orchestra. The poetry by Robert Bridges. Paper boards, 1s. 6d.

NOVELLO'S ANTHEM BOOK. A Collection of Popular Anthems for Festival and General Use throughout the Year. Books II. and III. 1s. each.

PARKER, HORATIO—"A Wanderer's Psalm" (Cantus Peregrinus). (Op. 50.) 1st Violin, 2s. 6d.; 2nd Violin, 2s. 6d.; Viola, 2s. 6d.; Violoncello, 2s. 6d.; Basso, 2s.

PARRY, C. HUBERT H.—Te Deum laudamus. 1st Violin, 2s.; 2nd Violin, 2s.; Viola, 2s.; Violoncello, 2s.; Basso, 1s. 6d.

SIX CLASSICAL PIECES. For Church Use. Selected and arranged for Small Military Band by Thomas Brown. 3s.

SULLIVAN, ARTHUR. — "Onward, Christian Soldiers" (St. Gertrude"). Arranged for Military Band by Dan Godfrey, Jun. 2s. 6d.

BRIDGE, J. F.—The Apostles' Creed and The Lord's Prayer. Monotoned on F. (No. 527. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1½d.

LEMARE, EDWIN H.—(in B flat). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 525. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 6d.

STABLES, Rev. W. HOWARD—(in D). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (Nos. 7 and 8 of A Morning and Evening Service in D.) 4d.

WEEDEN, E. St. C. (in C).—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 4d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

BUTTON, H. ELLIOT.—"Come, ye lofty." Carol-Anthem for Christmas. (No. 693. The Musical Times.) 1½d

COLLINSON, T. H.—"They who seek the Lord." Anthem. For Tenor Solo and Chorus. 6d.

FOSTER, MYLES B.—"Hark! the glad sound." Anthem for Christmas. (No. 681. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

PARKER, HORATIO.—"Calm on the list'ning ear of night." A Christmas Anthem. (No. 680. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

WEST, JOHN E.—"O tarry thou the Lord's leisure." Anthem for A.T.B.B. (No. 53. Novello's Services, Anthems, &c., for Men's Voices.) 2d.

BATTENBERG, H.R.H. PRINCESS HENRY OF.—"Hear, Holy Father." Baptismal Hymn. (No. 520. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1d.

HYMNS FOR THANKSGIVING AFTER WAR:—

No. 1. Praise the Lord. (No. 513. Novello's Parish Choir Book) .. .. J. Barnby 1d.
„ 2. Thanks be to God. (No. 526. Novello's Parish Choir Book) .. .. G. C. Martin 1d.
„ 3. The trumpet notes are sounding .. J. F. Bridge 1d.
„ 4. Lord of Hosts Who hast endued us. (No. 529. Novello's Parish Choir Book) Walter Parratt 1d.
„ 5. The rocks were rent, the mountains stirred G. C. Martin 1d.

(Words only, each 2s. 6d. per 100.)

KRUSE, C. W. E.—Harvest Hymn: "See the valleys thick are standing." Words only, 2s. per 100.

RUBINSTEIN, A.—"Song of the summer birds." (No. 112. Novello's Octavo Edition of Two-part Songs.) 3d.

WEST, JOHN E.—"The Fisher Boy." Four-part Song. (No. 846. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—"Spring had come." From "Scenes from the Song of Hiawatha." For Soprano. English and German words. 2s.

CUMMINGS, W. H.—"A Welcome to the C.I.V." Song. The words by Dean Hole. No. 1, in D. For Soprano or Tenor. No. 2, in B flat. For Contralto or Baritone. 2s. each.

LENNARD, LADY BARRETT.—"Haunted." Song. For Contralto or Baritone. 2s.

—— "Christmas Dawn." Song. For Contralto or Baritone. 2s.

OAKLEY, ROLAND—"The Triumph of Hope." Song. For Contralto or Baritone. 2s.

CRACKEL, H.—Jubilant March. For the Organ. 2s.

HANDEL, G. F.—Overture to "Samson." (No. 15. A Modern School for the Violin. By August Wilhelmj and James Brown.) 2s.

PITT, PERCY.—"Air de Ballet" (Op. 1, No. 1). Arranged for Pianoforte Solo by the Composer. 1s. 6d.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS.—Edited by W. G. McNaught. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo size; B. Voice Parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation. A. B.

Book 105. Six Two-part Songs. From The School Music Review. .. .. — 3d.
—— 106. Six Two-part Songs. From The School Music Review .. .. — 3d.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 101. Contains the following Music in both Notations: "Beautiful World." Unison Song. Composed by John E. West. "Swinging." Junior Unison Song. Composed by Adela Medley. 1½d.

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Edited by W. G. McNaught.

No. 1154. Persevere .. .. .. Hermann Goetz 1d.

REDUCED PRICE.

BENNETT, STERNDALE.—"The May Queen." 1s. Paper boards, 1s. 6d.; Cloth, 2s. 6d. Choruses only, 8d. Tonic Sol-fa, 6d.

MISS MILLIE OLIVER (Contralto)
Concerts, Oratorios, &c.
Address, Lothian Road, West Hartlepool.

ALTO WANTED. Salary, £10. Apply, by letter, Choirmaster, St. Mary's Church House, Hammersmith Rd., W.

PIANO TUNER REQUIRED, immediately, in Town District, for two or three days a week. Must be able to do ordinary repairs. Address full particulars, with references, to Harmonic, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

APPRENTICE WANTED, in Pianoforte and Music Warehouse, to learn the trade generally, also be taught bookkeeping. Apply, by letter only, to Alfred Phillips, Ltd., 70, High Road, Kilburn, N.W.

ASSISTANT WANTED, for Sheet Music department (aged 18 to 21). One acquainted with French and German languages preferred. Good handwriting indispensable. Send photo, stating experience, and salary required. A. Phillips, Ltd., Music Warehouse, Ealing.

CONTENTS.

	Page
A Visit to Tenbury (Illustrated)	713
Snippets. By Joseph Bennett	719
A Humorous Sketch by Mendelssohn (with facsimile Illustration)	721
Pianoforte Teaching. By Franklin Taylor (concluded)	722
Occasional Notes (with Portraits)	727
The Birmingham Musical Festival	730
A New English Composer—Dr. H. Walford Davies	734
Roman Catholic Church Music in England	736
Church and Organ Music (Illustrated)	744
Reviews	746
Richter Concerts	748
Crystal Palace Music Exhibition	748
Royal Academy of Music	749
Promenade Concerts	749
Crystal Palace Concerts	749
London Concerts	749
Miss Marie Brema's Recitals	750
Music in America	750
„ Birmingham	751
„ Bristol	751
„ Cumberland	751
„ Dublin	751
„ East Anglia	752
„ Glasgow	752
„ Liverpool and District	752
„ Manchester	752
„ Nottingham	753
„ Sheffield and District	753
„ Staffordshire	753
„ Yorkshire	753
Foreign Notes	754
Obituary	755
Miscellaneous	755
Correspondence	755
Brief Summary of Country and Colonial News	756
Answers to Correspondents	757
Music published during the last Month	757
Anthem for Christmas—"Come, ye lofty."—H. Elliot Button	737
Anthem for Christmas—"Hark the glad sound."—Myles B. Foster.—(Extra Supplement.)

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.
A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in proper position Advertisements for the next issue should reach the Office NOT LATER THAN THE EIGHTEENTH of this Month.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

Published on the 1st of every Month. Price 1½d. Annual Subscription, including Postage, 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW for NOVEMBER contains:—

General Notes, &c.
Class Singing: Some Practical Hints. By Dr. W. G. McNaught.
School Sight Singing. From an American Standpoint.
School Sight Singing Reader—Both Notations.
Theory Questions.
A French Hymn for Children. By J. Stainer.
Musical Competitions at Sydney, N.S.W.
Answers to Theory Questions.
Review.
Miscellaneous Items.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

The NOVEMBER number contains the following music:—

"The Twilight Star." Two-part Song. By J. Barnby.
"The Flowers o' the Forest." Unison Song, with Two-part Chorus. Scotch Air.
The Junior School Music Course.
Also, Extra Supplement, containing "Dancing Leaves." Action Song. By Myles B. Foster. (Novello's School Songs, No. 533.) Price 1½d.

The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

TO VIOLINISTS.—An experienced Accompanist (Lady) wishes to PLAY concerted music with a VIOLINIST of repute. Mutual benefit only. Could practise daily. Address, M., 131, Elgin Crescent, Bayswater, W.

MR. HENRY SUNMAN

(BASS)

(Licentiate (artist) of the Royal Academy of Music).
Of the Gloucester and Cheltenham Festivals, &c.

"Elijah."—Tewkesbury Abbey Choral Festival.—"The Elijah of Mr. Sunman deserves a special word of praise. His singing all through was of a high order, and, notwithstanding the arduous work, his voice was equal to the task."—Birmingham Daily Post, September 21, 1900.

For terms, Press notices, &c., please address, Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford; or, usual Agents.

MR. HERBERT WALENN

(SOLO VIOLONCELLIST).

Engaged on Nov. 4, Berlin; 6, Frankfort-on-Main; 13, Liverpool; 15, St. James's Hall (afternoon), Hampstead (evening); 16, Steinway Hall; 18, Brighton; 19, Taunton; 20, Bristol; 22, Steinway Hall; 24, Oxford; 26, York; 27, Dundee; 28, St. Andrew's; Dec. 3, Crystal Palace; 4, Oxford; 6, Steinway Hall; 11, Ashton-under-Lyne; 12, Edinburgh.

Address: 5, Wellington Place, London, N.W.

ALTO VOICE, of fair quality, and good reader, REQUIRED, immediately. Choral Service, Sundays, 11 and 7, Good Friday, and Christmas Day. Full choir practice, Friday, 8 p.m. Salary, £10 per annum. Candidates heard by appointment. A. Z., 12, Bishop's Road, Paddington.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (Mus. Bac.) desires APPOINTMENT. Long and successful experience as choir-trainer. Accustomed to full choral service and large organ. Highest references. M. B., 63, Birdhurst Rise, S. Croydon.

THE ORGANIST of Christ Church, Doncaster, has VACANCY for PUPIL. Exceptional advantages and sound musical instruction. Full Catholic Service. Apply as above.

WANTED, immediately, for service under the Municipality of Shanghai (China), a BANDMASTER to take charge of the Public Band, consisting of thirty Manila men. First agreement, for three years, renewable if satisfactory. Passage to China provided. The Bandmaster is allowed to combine his work with private tuition, &c. Good opportunity offers for efficient musician. Candidates are required to be able to orchestrate, play Violin and Piano, and should be able to conduct Rehearsals for musical stage work (amateur). Applications, stating qualifications, references, and salary required, to be forwarded, in the first instance, to C., Box 200, General Post Office, Manchester, from whom further information may be obtained.

LADY desires SITUATION in Music Business. Thoroughly capable; long experience; good references. Sight reader. A., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

SITUATION WANTED, as SALESMAN or BRANCH MANAGER in Music Warehouse. Highest references. Address, Y. Z., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIPE ORGANS for SALE. One-manual, 4 stops, £38 10s.; two-manual, 18 stops, £175. Both really good instruments. Seen by appointment. Payment arranged, if desired. Stoneham's, 52, Hazlewood Crescent, Westbourne Park Station, London.

ORGANS (Pipe) for SALE or HIRE. 2 manuals; in perfect condition. Full compass of pedals. W. B., 9, Burdett Road, London, E.

FOR SALE, small TWO-MANUAL and PEDAL ORGAN, at present in a London Church. Suitable for Mission Room or Small Church. Bedwell and Son, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

COTTAGE PIANO, full compass, with Organ Pedal Attachment. C.O. scale. W. B., 9, Burdett Road, London, E.

NOW READY.

Cloth, Royal Octavo. Price Four Shillings and Sixpence.

HYMN TUNES

COMPOSED BY

J. STAINER

COLLECTED FROM VARIOUS SOURCES.

These Tunes, 161 in number, which the Composer has during the last thirty years contributed to various hymnals, or written for Choral Festivals or the use of friends, are here brought together for the first time. Many among them are new, including some Processionals of an original form.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

BURTON-ON-TRENT PARISH CHURCH.

Whereas certain PIPES have been STOLEN from the Hope-Jones Organ recently erected, the Vicar and Churchwardens will suitably REWARD any person giving such information as may lead to the recovery of the pipes or the conviction of the thief.

Apply, S. Briggs, Station Street, Burton-on-Trent.

MORECAMBE MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITION.

A PRIZE of £10 is offered (with an additional £5 for the copyright should the Composition be adjudged worthy of publication) for the best ORIGINAL SETTING as a PART-SONG of verses which will be supplied on application to the Secretary. Stamped envelope must be enclosed.

H. POWELL, Festival Offices, Morecambe.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

Nymphs of the Ocean	3d.	Under the Trees	2d.
The Skaters	3d.	The Oyster Dredgers	2d.
The Lake	3d.	Evening	2d.
*'Tis Morn	3d.	*Sweet to live (38th thou.)	2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal)	3d.	*Welcome, young Spring!	2d.
The River	3d.	*The Anglers (14th thou.)	2d.
Over the mountain side	3d.	The Dream of Home	2d.
Soul of living music	3d.	Summer and Winter	2d.
The Stormy Petrel	3d.	*Departed Joys	2d.
The Coral Grove	3d.	There's beauty in the deep	1½d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu	3d.	Soldier, rest!	1d.
Blow, Western Wind!	3d.	Woods in Winter	1d.
Stars of the Night	3d.	Autumn	1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men (76th thousand)	3d.	*Ben Bowlegs (Ed. Oxenford)	3d.
Three Children Sliding (12th thousand)	3d.	The Carrion Crow	3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste	4d.	Call John!	3d.
The Snow-white Doe	4d.	Three Merry Fishers	3d.
		The Cuckoo Clock (just published)

DESCRIPTIVE CHORUSES.

With Pianoforte or Orchestral Accompaniments.

The Iron Horse	4d.	The Ocean	3d.
Off to Sea	4d.	*The Ironfounders (36th thou.)	3d.
Jäger Chorus	3d.	The Cyclists	4d.
The Lifeboat	4d.

Orchestral Parts on application to the Composer, Elmham, Dereham. Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked *.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

TO CHORUS MASTERS & CONDUCTORS.

The following COLLECTION of CHORUS and BAND PARTS, the property of the late Dr. SWINNERTON HEAP, are for SALE at the following prices. The copies are mostly in good condition and can be guaranteed to be worth considerably more than the price required, an immediate sale being desired. The Chorus Parts and most of the Band Parts are bound in strong paper binding. Terms, cash in advance, to H. Taylor and Son, Music Warehouse, Bridge Street, Walsall.

BAND PARTS.

	£ s. d.
Bach's "Passion," Part I. Strings, 28; Wind, &c., 13. Total, 41 (nearly new)	1 10 0
"Acis and Galatea." Handel. Strings, 6, 4, 3, 5; Wind, 5. Total, 23 (new)	1 10 0
"St. Paul." Mendelssohn. Strings, 4, 4, 3, 4; Wind, 12. Total, 27	1 10 0
"St. Paul." Mendelssohn (2nd set). Strings, 3, 3, 2, 3; Wind, 12. Total, 23	1 5 0

CHORUS PARTS.

"Elijah." 41, 33, 42, 49. Total, 165	2 0 0
"Judas Maccabæus." 45, 30, 45, 56. Total, 176	2 10 0
"The Song of Victory." Hiller. 48, 30, 40, 50. Total, 168, and two vocal scores	1 10 0
"Blessed be the God of Israel." C. S. Heap. 150 (6d. net)	1 1 0
"Many blessings shower" ("Lohengrin"), new. (2d. net) 100 copies	0 5 0
Part-song—"Hush'd in Death." H. Hiles. 180 copies. (6d. net)	1 5 0
" "Summer is but fleeting." S. Stratton. 150 copies (3d. net)	0 10 0
" "To Mary in heaven." Macfarren. 161 copies (6d. net)	1 0 0
" "Who is Sylvia?" C. S. Heap. 175 copies (3d. net)	0 12 6
" "Even Song." C. S. Heap. 123 copies (3d. net). Rather soiled	0 7 6
" "The Poet's Daughter." C. S. Heap. 150 copies (3d. net)	0 10 0
"Paternoster." Meyerbeer. Parts (folio), 27, 12, 9, 23. Total, 71	0 6 0
"The Lord is my Shepherd." Schubert. 74 copies (4d. net)	0 6 0

NOVELLO'S ANTHEM BOOK

A COLLECTION OF POPULAR ANTHEMS

FOR

FESTIVAL AND GENERAL USE THROUGHOUT THE YEAR.

Each book of this series contains twelve anthems: some for Festival occasions—e.g., Christmas, Easter, Harvest—and others which may be used at any time. Great care has been taken in making the selections, in order that suitable variety may be secured and practical needs supplied.

It is therefore anticipated that in churches where an elaborate musical service is not possible, this publication will find acceptance. In such cases the advantage of having, in one book, twelve standard anthems which more than cover the requirements of the Church's year is obvious.

Book 1.

Advent	O King and Desire of all Nations	Stainer.
Christmas	Arise, shine, for thy light is come	Elvey.
Lent	Lord, for Thy tender mercies' sake	Farrant.
,,	Enter not into judgment	Attwood.
,,	O ye that love the Lord	Coleridge-Taylor.
Easter	O give thanks	Goss.
Whitsuntide	Come, Holy Ghost	Attwood.
Harvest	The Lord is loving unto every man	Garrett.
General	O love the Lord	Sullivan.
,,	The day Thou gavest, Lord, is ended	Woodward.
,,	Blessed are they that dwell in Thy house	Tours.
,,	Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace	Lee Williams.

Book 2.

Advent	Hosanna in the Highest	Stainer.
Christmas	Sing and rejoice	Barnby.
Lent	O Saviour of the World	Goss.
,,	Teach me, O Lord	Attwood.
,,	Jesu, Word of God Incarnate	Gounod.
Easter	Christ is risen	Elvey.
Harvest	Great is the Lord	Steane.
General	What are these?	Stainer.
,,	O how amiable	West.
,,	O taste and see	Sullivan.
,,	The Lord is my Shepherd	Macfarren.
,,	God that madest earth and heaven	Fisher.

Book 3.

Advent	Far from their home	Woodward.
Christmas	Four Christmas Carols	Various.
Lent	Turn Thy Face from my sins	Sullivan.
,,	O Lord, my God	Wesley.
,,	Jesu, Word of God Incarnate	Mozart.
Easter	Break forth into joy	Barnby.
Harvest	O Lord, how manifold	Barnby.
General	Seek ye the Lord	Roberts.
,,	I was glad	Elvey.
,,	The radiant morn	Woodward.
,,	O praise God in His holiness	Weldon.
,,	Doth not wisdom cry	Haking.

(To be continued.)

ONE SHILLING EACH BOOK.

Tonic Sol-fa, One Shilling each Book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited

AND

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE, from £20, with pedals. Instruments for Church, Chapel, and College, built on the most modern principles, at Bedwell and Sons', Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

TWO-MANUAL PEDAL ORGAN, by SNELL, 25 guineas; also three others, by MASON and HAMLIN, ESTEY, BELL; several large Harmoniums, by ALEXANDRE, DEBAIN, &c. Bargains. Stagg and Sons, 56, Red Lion St., Holborn, London, W.C.

9 GUINEAS.—AMERICAN ORGAN (list price, 20 guineas), 11 stops, including two knee-stops and the beautiful solo stops, voix celeste and vox humana; two octave couplers, handsome high case; in use about four months; ten years' warranty; easy terms arranged. Packing and carriage free. Approval. Full price paid will be allowed within three years if exchanged for a higher-class instrument. D'Almaine and Co. (established 115 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

ORGANS for SALE or HIRE, or payable in five years.—Seven new Organs, 11 to 30 stops; three second-hand 2-manual and one 1-manual. These organs are built and constructed on the most improved principles, with the most valuable selection of high-class stops and most durable work, at reasonable prices. Tubular pneumatic actions. Repairs and additions. Tuners sent to all parts of the kingdom. Alfred Monk's Organ Works, 556, Holloway Road, London, N.

ORGAN for SALE (New). Two-manuals, 12 stops, pedals and bourdons. Repairs and Tuning in town or country. R. Cope, 74, Asylum Road, Peckham, S.E.

CHURCH ORGANS (new), 2 manuals and C.O. pedals, 19 stops, tubular pneumatic throughout; 2 manuals and C.O. pedals, 16 stops; second-hand, 2 manuals and pedals, 12 stops. R., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

VALUABLE THREE-MANUAL ORGAN; handsome mahogany case. The property of gentleman, deceased. W. E. Richardson & Sons, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester

ORGAN (Three-manual) for SALE. Under 11 ft. high. 15 manual stops, 2 doubles, 2 pedal stops, 2 swells, 6 couplers, 2 T. and 5 composition. Yendis, Novello & Co., Ltd., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

MODERN-BUILT ORGANS for SALE. Two manuals and pedals, 15 stops; an excellent instrument; £150. Also One-manual, £60. Full particulars, EUSTACE INGRAM, Organ Builder, only address, 361, Liverpool Road, London, N. Specifications and estimates for new Organs, &c., free.

15 GUINEAS.—PIANO ("Empress" Model), solid iron frame upright grand (list price, 35 guineas); full compass, full trichord, French check action, &c.; in handsomely carved walnut wood case, four feet two inches in height; in use only six months; sent on approval, carriage free, to any part of the United Kingdom; ten years' warranty; easy terms arranged; full price paid will be allowed if exchanged for a higher class instrument within three years. D'Almaine and Co. (established 115 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus and price list free. Apply to Norman and Beard, Ltd., 24, Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

ORGANISTS, &c.

RUMMENS'
Organ Pedal Attachment to Pianofortes
FOR HOME PRACTICE OF ORGAN MUSIC.
STRAIGHT AND CONCAVE, RADIATING AND CONCAVE
Or any other form of Pedal Board.

UNRIVALLED FOR TOUCH, APPEARANCE, DURABILITY, AND PRICE.

Sir JOHN STAINER: "I can confidently recommend it . . . nothing more valuable."
Sir FRED. BRIDGE: "I have tested it . . . successful . . . will give satisfaction."
Sir GEO. MARTIN: "I think very highly of it . . . clever."
Dr. HARDING: "I am delighted with it . . . in every way a success . . . the best."
Similar Testimonials from the most distinguished Organists and Musicians.

Particulars free. Write or call.
1, WYNNE ROAD, BRIXTON, LONDON, S.W.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841.)
Specifications and Estimates sent free.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.
TWO GOLD MEDALS.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.
MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

MAUNDER'S CHURCH
MUSIC.

MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS.	Staff Notation.	Tonic Sol-fa.
Anthem—Christians, Awake	3d.	2d.
Carol—Once in Bethlehem	2d.	1d.
Two Christmas Carols	3d.	2d.
SERVICES.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C (partly Unison)	3d.	1½d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D	3d.	2d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G	3d.	2d.
Benedicite in A	1½d.
Benedicite in G	2d.
Benedicite in F	1½d.
Te Deum in Free Chant Form	3d.	2d.
Te Deum in B flat	3d.	2d.
Communion Service in G	8d.
Amen in G	1d.	1d.
ORGAN.
Voix Seraphique (for Recitals)	2s.
CHURCH CANTATA.
Penitence, Pardon, and Peace (for Advent, Lent, and General use)	1/6	1/-

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Specimens of Anthems and Services free on application to J. H. MAUNDER, Hill Top, Belmont Park, S.E.

CHURCH MUSIC
BY EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

ANTHEMS.
O Lord, Thou art my God (Advent). Four Voices		3d.
Arise, shine, for Thy light is come (Christmas)		3d.
" " "	Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
In the beginning (Christmas). Four Voices		3d.
O how amiable. Soprano Solo and Chorus		4d.
SERVICES.
Te Deum in E. Four Voices		3d.
Benedicite in E		2d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E		3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E		3d.
Cantate and Deus in E		3d.
Ave Maria. Soprano and Tenor Solo, with Chorus		6d.
Twenty-four Original Hymn Tunes		6d.
ORGAN.		s. d.
Largo in E flat	net	1 0
Minuetto in D	"	1 6
Twelve Short and Easy Pieces	"	2 0
Three Short Pieces— Larghetto in A flat major; Allegretto Pastorale in A major; Andante con moto in F major	In one Book "	2 0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

WINCHESTER'S Anthems and Services FOR CHRISTMAS.

ANTHEM—"Let us now go even unto Bethlehem" .. .. 3d.
ANTHEM—"There were shepherds" .. .. 3d.
TE DEUM. Service in F (No. 25 of Series) .. .. .. 3d.
TE DEUM. Five Easy Settings (Nos. 3, 4, 32, 36, and 46) each 2d.
BENEDICITE. Three Settings (Nos. 8, 35, and 42) .. each 2d.
BENEDICTUS. No. 9, in F, 2d.; also, No. 10, in G .. .. 1½d.
JUBILATE. Service in F .. .. 1½d.
COMMUNION SERVICE in F (No. 44) .. .. 4d.
KYRIE ELEISON (Two Settings). DOXOLOGIES and NICENE CREED (No. 49) .. .. 2d.
AGNUS DEI (No. 27) .. .. 1½d.
BENEDICTUS QUI VENIT (No. 28) .. .. 1½d.
OFFERTORY SENTENCES (Ten Settings) .. .. .. 3d.
OFFERTORY ANTHEM—"Be merciful" .. .. .. 1½d.
TALLIS'S FESTIVAL RESPONSES .. .. 1½d.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. Service in F.. .. 3d.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. Service in G.. .. 3d.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. In B flat (No. 17) .. 3d.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. In A (No. 48) .. 3d.

ORGAN MUSIC.
Grand Festival March, 1s. 6d. Three Soft Voluntaries, 1s.
Ten Original Compositions, 4s.

BOUND VOLUME OF
WINCHESTER'S CHURCH-MUSIC SERIES.
Nos. 1 to 50, bound in cloth, gilt, 4s.

London: HART AND Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

TWO NEW CAROLS.

CLEAR AND COLD THE STARS WERE SHINING
AWAKE! AWAKE! 'TIS CHRISTMAS-TIME
BY H. ERNEST NICHOL, MUS. BAC., OXON.
Price 2d. each; 1s. 6d. per doz.; words, 1s. per 100.
Specimen copies sent, gratis and Post-free, to any Choirmaster, from the COMPOSER, 4A, Baker Street, Hull.

THE BABE OF BETHLEHEM. A Short and Easy CAROL-CANTATA for Christmas and Epiphany. The words selected and the music composed by FRANK ADLAM.

SYNOPSIS: Part I.—1. ORGAN INTRODUCTION—"Midnight at Bethlehem" (Pastorale). 2. CAROL—"Come, hear a song." 3. RECIT. AND AIR (Tenor and Soprano)—"There were shepherds." 4. CAROL—"While shepherds watched." 5. RECIT. (Tenor and Chorus)—"And suddenly." 6. CAROL—"Hark! the Herald-Angels sing." 7. RECIT. (Tenor and Chorus)—"And it came to pass." 8. CAROL—"O shepherds, whither wend ye?" 9. RECIT. (Tenor)—"And they came with haste." 10. DUET (Tenor and Bass)—"Song of the shepherds."

Part II.—11. ORGAN INTERMEZZO—"The Manger Cradle" (Judæan Lullaby). 12. CAROL—"Angels bright, their pinions folding." 13. RECIT. (Baritone)—"Now when Jesus was born." 14. CAROL—"Brightest and best of the sons." 15. AIR (Soprano)—"O may we keep." 16. CAROL—"O that Birth for ever blessed."

Octavo Edition (Words and Music) .. .. Price One Shilling.
Words only .. .. Price 6s. per 100.
The Carols with Music (printed separately).. Price 1d. each.

With a view to bringing the use of Carols into closer connection with the service of the Church, Mr. ADLAM has produced his Carol-Cantata, in which the story of the Nativity is interspersed with Carols—enlarging upon and descriptive of the Bible narrative. The music has purposely been made simple and easy, as seems necessary in a work of this kind; and, given the assistance of two or three soloists, the Cantata can be rendered by any choir capable of singing ordinary hymn tunes. Short addresses or readings may be introduced into the work if required; and if there be added a few prayers, and possibly one or two appropriate hymns or carols, it could be expanded into a complete Service of Song. Where it is not possible to obtain soloists, the recitatives may be recited by a reader, and the carols sung alone. Several of the carols will be found suitable for out-door singing.

SPECIMEN COPY SENT FOR THREEPENCE.

London: HART AND Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

CHRISTMAS ANTHEM
"AWAKE! PUT ON THY STRENGTH"
BY
F. R. GREENISH, MUS. DOC., OXON.
8th 1,000. Price 4d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

Has won golden opinions everywhere. Free from difficulties yet full of variety. Sung at Haverfordwest (500 voices), Wellingboro' (750 voices), Longwood Church, Huddersfield, and Centenary Hall, Sydney, Australia (both with Orchestra).
Very highly spoken of by the Musical Press.
Orchestral Parts can be had from the COMPOSER, St. Mary's, Haverfordwest.
Also, by the same COMPOSER:
O GOD, MY SOUL THIRSTETH. 11th 1,000. Price 3d.
Immensely popular wherever heard. Very easy, with expressive Solo for Soprano or Tenor.
Quartet—AND GOD SHALL WIPE AWAY ALL TEARS. Price 3d.
From the Cantata "The Church Triumphant."
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in D. Price 3d.
SIX KYRIES. Price 2d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

A BEAUTIFUL LITTLE ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS.
THE PRINCE OF PEACE.
COMPOSED BY
EDWYN A. CLARE.
8th 1,000. Price 3d.

Also the following favourite Anthems by the same Composer. Easy, attractive, and effective:—
WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR. 9th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
A SAVIOUR, CHRIST THE LORD. 5th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
BEHOLD, I BRING. 12th 1,000. SING, O HEAVENS. 9th 1,000. Each 3d.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in D. 12th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
(Sung at a Choral Fest. in New S. Wales. A favourite Service.)
PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 23rd 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
(Quite easy, yet very attractive. Suitable for "Peace" Services.)
THE LORD REIGNETH. 6th 1,000. (Sol-fa, 2d.) .. .. .. 3d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHRISTMAS BELLS. Words by M. J. C. Music by A. E. HUTCHINGS. A pretty and suitable Carol for Children. Key, C. 6d. per copy. Refrain: "Merrily ring while children sing, For unto us is born a King." Published by A. E. HUTCHINGS, 177, Kettering Road, Northampton, where copies may be obtained.

A NEW CHRISTMAS CANTATA.
THE ANGEL'S MESSAGE. By E. VINE HALL.
Suitable for Christmas Concerts; bright and easy. Price 1s.
A specimen copy sent post-free for seven stamps. C. EVANS and Co., High Street, Bromsgrove.

"Well written."
CHURCH MUSIC
BY ARTHUR CARNALL,
Mus.B., Cantab.

No. 1. Chant Te Deum in A. 3rd 1,000 .. .. 4d.
,, 2. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F. 2nd 1,000 .. .. 4d.
,, 3. Benedicite in G .. .. 2d.
,, 4. Vesper Hymn .. .. 1d.
,, 5. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C .. .. 3d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.
N.B.—Sample copies, free, from A. CARNALL, Penge, S.E.

COMPOSITIONS
BY
T. MEE PATTISON.

	Staff. s. d.	Sol-fa. s. d.
CANTATAS.
The Ancient Mariner	2 6	0 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
May Day	1 0	0 6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1 0	0 6
ANTHEMS, &c.
All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0 3	0 1
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0 2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0 3
There were shepherds (Christmas)	0 2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4
Six Kyries	0 2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0 3
ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.
Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries		3 6
Five Concluding Voluntaries		1 6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., Cantab.

In Four Sets. Each Set, complete, One Shilling; or, in Single Numbers, One Penny.

Contents of First Set.

1. THE CAROLLERS.
2. THE STARS ARE SHINING BRIGHT AND CLEAR.
3. CAROL, SWEETLY CAROL.
4. CHRISTMAS BELLS.
5. A CHILD THIS DAY IS BORN.
6. HARK! WHAT MEAN THOSE HOLY VOICES
7. THE ANGELS' CAROL.
8. WHILE SHEPHERDS WATCHED.
9. ANGELS FROM THE REALMS OF GLORY.
10. A CHRISTMAS CHIME.

Contents of Second Set.

1. AWAKE! AROUSE! YE CHRISTIAN BAND.
2. RING OUT, SWEET CHIMES.
3. BRIGHTEST AND BEST.
4. HAIL! HAPPY MORN.
5. O LET OUR VOICES.
6. CHRISTMAS EVE.
7. HARK! THE BELLS.
8. CHRISTMAS CAROL.
9. JOYFUL IS THE MORN.
10. NOËL.

Contents of Third Set.

1. O GLADSOME MORN.
2. HOW MARVELLOUS THY WAYS.
3. LET'S MERRY BE.
4. HARK! THE ANGELS, SINGING.
5. CHILDREN'S VOICES.
6. SONG OF THE SHEPHERDS.
7. A CHILD IS BORN.
8. O SAVIOUR DEAR.

Contents of Fourth Set.

1. LIFT YOUR GRATEFUL VOICES.
2. THE BRIGHTEST MORN.
3. CHIMES ACROSS THE SNOW.
4. THE ANGELS' SONG.
5. SONG OF THE FAITHFUL.
6. THE HERALD BELLS.
7. O DAY OF DAYS.
8. COME, YULETIDE GUESTS.
9. THY SERVANTS SING.
10. THE ANGEL'S TIDINGS.

Words of each Set, One Penny, and may be had of the Composer, Cathedral Close, Norwich.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE RECITAL SERIES

OF

Transcriptions for the Organ

BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

WEBER, C. M. von.—1. Overture to "Euryanthe." 2s.
HOFMANN, H.—2. Lied and Barcarolle. 1s.
—— 3. In the Arbour. 1s.
—— 4. Serenade. 1s.
MENDELSSOHN.—5. Overture, "Ruy Blas." 2s.
RACHMANINOFF, S.—6. Melodie in E. 1s. 6d.
ELGAR, EDWARD—7. Triumphal March ("Caractacus"). 2s.
TSCHAÏKOWSKY.—8. Chant sans Paroles. (Op. 2, No. 3.) 1s.
—— 9. Romance in F minor. (Op. 5.) 1s.
BEETHOVEN.—10. Overture to "Prometheus." 2s.
HOFMANN, H.—11. The Trumpeter's Greeting ("The Trumpeter of Säkkingen"). (Op. 50, No. 1.) 1s. 6d.
—— 12. Duet. ("The Trumpeter of Säkkingen.") (Op. 50, No. 3.) 1s. 6d.
—— 13. Farewell. ("The Trumpeter of Säkkingen.") (Op. 50, No. 4.) 1s.
—— 14. In Rome. ("The Trumpeter of Säkkingen.") (Op. 50, No. 5.) 1s. 6d.
—— 15. Wedding March. ("The Trumpeter of Säkkingen.") (Op. 50, No. 6.) 1s. 6d.
BEETHOVEN.—16. Overture to "Coriolan." 2s. 6d.
MOZART.—17. Overture to "Don Giovanni." 2s. 6d.
FLOTOW.—18. Overture to "Stradella." 2s. 6d.
TSCHAÏKOWSKY.—19. Chanson Triste. 1s.
SULLIVAN, A. S.—20. Overture in C ("In Memoriam"). 3s. Just Published.

To be continued.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

RECITAL SERIES

OF

Original Organ Compositions

COLLECTED AND EDITED BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

Nos. 1 to 6 and 7 to 12, in Two Vols. Each 12s. Or, separately:—

WEBBER, AMHURST.—1. Scherzo Sinfonico. 2s.
WOLSTENHOLME, W.—2. Canzona, Minuet, and Trio. 2s. 6d.
CAPOCCI, FILIPO.—3. Toccata in E flat major. 2s. 6d.
LEMARE, E. H.—4. Romance in D flat. 2s.
D'EVRY, E.—5. Concert-Overture in F. 2s. 6d.
BOSSI, M. E.—6. Second Sonata (Op. 71). 3s.
HOLLINS, ALFRED.—7. Andante in D. 2s.
—— 8. Grand Chœur. 2s. 6d.
WOLSTENHOLME, W.—9. Andantino and Finale in B flat. 2s. 6d.
WHEELDON, H. A.—10. (a) Cantilène; (b) Grand Chœur. 2s. 6d.
LEMARE, E. H.—11. Allegretto in B minor. 2s.
—— 12. Marche Solennelle. 2s. 6d.
D'EVRY, E.—13. (a) Meditation; (b) Toccata. 2s. 6d.
WOLSTENHOLME, W.—14. (a) The Seraph's Strain; (b) Le Carillon. 2s.
HOLLINS, ALFRED.—15. Concert-Overture in C minor. 2s.
WHEELDON, H. A.—16. Romance. 2s.
WOLSTENHOLME, W.—17. (a) Romanza; (b) Allegretto. 2s.
HOLLINS, ALFRED.—18. Concert Rondo. 2s. 6d. Just Published.

To be continued.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

NOVELLO'S CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

BRAMLEY, Rev. H. R. / STAINER, JOHN } Christmas Carols, New and Old.

FIRST SERIES. One Penny each.

1.	God rest you merry, gentlemen	Traditional.
2.	The Manger Throne	C. Steggall.
3.	A Virgin unspotted	Traditional.
4.	Come, ye lofty	Elvey.
5.	Come, tune your hearts	Ouseley.
6.	The First Nowell	Traditional.
7.	Jesu, hail	J. Stainer.
8.	Good Christian men	Old German.
9.	Sleep, holy Babe	Dykes.
10.	Good King Wenceslas	Traditional.
11.	When I view the Mother	J. Barnby.
12.	The seven joys of Mary	Traditional.
13.	On the Birthday of the Lord	Dykes.
14.	What Child is this?	Old English.
15.	Glorious, beauteous, golden-bright	Maria Tiddeman.
16.	Waken! Christian Children } 1d.	S. C. Hammerton.
17.	A Child this day is born } 1d.	Traditional.
18.	Carol for Christmas Eve	Ouseley.
19.	When Christ was born	A. H. Brown.
20.	Christmas Morning Hymn	J. Barnby.

Tonic Sol-fa, complete, 1s.; separate numbers, 1d. each.

SECOND SERIES. One Penny each.

*21.	Carol for Christmas Eve	Traditional.
22.	Jesus in the Manger	H. Smart.
*23.	The Holly and the Ivy } 1d.	Old French.
24.	The Moon shines bright } 1d.	Traditional.
*25.	The Virgin and Child	C. Steggall.
26.	The Incarnation	Traditional.
*27.	Christmas Day	J. Stainer.
28.	The Cherry-Tree Carol	Traditional.
29.	God's dear Son	Traditional.
*30.	Christmas Hymn	Goss.
31.	The Babe of Bethlehem	Traditional.
32.	In Bethlehem, that noble place	Ouseley.
*33.	A Cradle Song of the Blessed Virgin	J. Barnby.
34.	Christmas Song	Dykes.
35.	Jacob's Ladder	Traditional.
36.	The Story of the Shepherd	J. Barnby.
*37.	The Wassail Song	Traditional.
*38.	In terrâ pax	Dykes.
39.	Dives and Lazarus	Traditional.
*40.	From far away	Dykes.
*41.	Carol for Christmas Day	A. Sullivan.
42.	The Child Jesus in the Garden	J. Stainer.

THIRD SERIES. One Penny each.

43.	What soul-inspiring music	Har. by J. S.
44.	In the country nigh to Bethlehem	G. Hine.
45.	We three Kings of Orient are	Har. by J. S.
46.	Emmanuel, God with us	H. Gadsby.
47.	New Prince, new pomp } 1d.	C. Steggall.
48.	A Babe is born } 1d.	Har. by J. S.
49.	Come let us all sweet Carols sing	F. Champneys.
50.	Let music break on this blest morn	J. B. Calkin.
51.	Carol for New Year's Day	A. H. Brown.
52.	The Angel Gabriel	Har. by J. S.
53.	The Shepherds amazed	A. H. Brown.
54.	Noel! Noel!	Har. by J. S.
55.	I sing the birth	G. C. Martin.
56.	Christmas Night	A. H. Brown.
57.	The Christmas Celebration	E. Prout.
58.	Arise and hail the Sacred Day	A. H. Brown.
59.	The Holy Well	Har. by J. S.
60.	The Angel and the Shepherds	E. H. Thorne.
61.	The Coventry Carol	Har. by J. S.
62.	The Morning Star	J. F. Bridge.
63.	The Shepherds went their hasty way	J. F. Barnett.
64.	I saw three ships	Har. by J. S.
65.	Mountains, bow your heads	W. H. Cummings.
66.	Luther's Carol	J. Higgs.
67.	The Boy's Dream	W. H. Monk.
68.	Legends of the Infancy	J. F. Bridge.
69.	Let Christians all (The Black Decree) } 1d.	Traditional.
70.	Immortal Babe (for Christmas Day) } 1d.

	s.	d.
The above 70 Carols, complete, cloth, gilt	4	0
Library Edition, with Historical Preface, Roxburgh binding	7	6
Illustrated Edition, 1st and 2nd Series	7	6
Three Series (cloth, gilt, 2s.) each	1	0
Words only, complete (cloth, 6d.)	0	4
Words, each Series	0	1½

HELMORE, Rev. T. / NEALE, Rev. J. M. } Carols for Christmastide. Set to Ancient Melodies. One Penny each.

71.	Here is joy for every age.
72.	Earthly friends will change.
73.	Gabriel's message.
74.	Christ was born on Christmas Day.
75.	Earth to-day rejoices.
76.	Good Christian men, rejoice.
77.	From church to church.
78.	In the ending of the year.
79.	Royal day that chasest gloom.
80.	O'er the hill and o'er the vale.
81.	Good King Wenceslas.
82.	Toll! toll! because there ends.

	s.	d.
The above 12 Carols, complete	1	0
Folio, with pianoforte accompaniment	4	6
Treble part	0	6
Words only	0	1½

WENSLEY, SHAPCOTT.—Twelve new Carols for Christmastide. Three-Halfpence each.

83.	O holy star	J. Stainer.
84.	The shepherds	Eaton Faning.
85.	Hymn of the angels	G. M. Garrett.
*86.	The anthem of peace	J. Barnby.
87.	The Desert	Emma Mundella.
88.	Bethlehem	Myles B. Foster.
89.	Daybreak	Berthold Tours.
90.	In the manger	J. Barnby.
91.	The Mother and Child	Myles B. Foster.
92.	Christ is born	J. F. Bridge.
93.	Christmas Day	Battison Haynes.
94.	Sweet Christmas Bells	J. Stainer.

Complete, 1s. Tonic Sol-fa, 8d. Words only, 2d.

TEN CHRISTMAS CAROLS. Three-Halfpence each.

95.	Now join we all with holy mirth	J. Stainer.
96.	Softly the night	J. M. Crament.
97.	Sleep, Holy Babe	J. T. Field.
98.	Now dies in David's City	J. Swire.
99.	There dwelt in Old Judea	R. Jackson.
100.	Good people, give ear	J. Swire.
101.	Carol for Christmas Day	J. T. Field.
102.	Ye stars of night	J. Swire.
103.	Ring out, ye bells	J. H. Wallis.
104.	Two thousand troubled years	J. F. Bridge.

Complete, 1s. Tonic Sol-fa, 8d. Words only, 2d.

STAINER, JOHN (Adapted and arranged by).—Twelve Old Carols. One Penny each.

*105.	Shepherds! shake off your drowsy sleep.
106.	Come, shepherds, come! shake off your sleep.
107.	Now sing we all full sweetly.
108.	The good men all of Chastres.
109.	Whence comes this rush of wings afar?
110.	Come with us, sweet flowers, and worship. / Infant so gentle, so pure, and so sweet! } 1d.
111.	O Night, peaceful and blest!
112.	Of the Father's love begotten.
113.	We saw a light shine out afar.
114.	Christmas hath made an end.
115.	Now farewell, good Christmas.

Complete, 1s. Tonic Sol-fa, 6d. Words only, 1d.

MARTIN, G. C. (Harmonised by). — Christmastide Carols. One Penny each.

PART I. (Old Breton Melodies)

116.	Hail! Christmas Bells.
117.	O'er her Child the Virgin weeps. / The stars are bright. } 1d.
118.	On this day was born.
119.	Glad hymns, with one accord.
120.	Outside the city gates.
121.	On Asia Minor's sunny shore.
*122.	Across the desert sands by night.

Complete, 6d. Words only, 1d.

PART II. (Old French Melodies).

123.	The Shepherds glad.
124.	Merrily ring the Christmas bells.
125.	The sombre shadows darker fall.
126.	Poising bright on golden wing.
127.	Round the Virgin gently sleeping.
128.	The Circumcision.
129.	In the golden lands afar.
130.	A Legend of the Flight.

Complete, 6d. Words only, 1d.

 The Carols marked thus * may be had in Tonic Sol-fa.

Novello's Christmas Carols—continued.

Bramley, Rev. H. R. } Christmas Carols, New and Old.
Stainer, John } Arranged for Men's Voices.

Three-Halfpence each.

131. A Virgin unspotted ... ... Traditional.
132. The Manger Throne ... ... C. Steggall.
133. Sleep, Holy Babe ... ... Dykes.
134. Good Christian men, rejoice ... ... Old German.
135. 'Twas in the winter cold ... ... J. Barnby.
136. Good King Wenceslas... ... ... Helmore's Carols.
137. Come! ye lofty ... ... Elvey.
138. God rest you merry, gentlemen ... ... Traditional.
139. Listen, Lordings ... ... Ouseley.
140. The First Nowell ... ... Traditional.
141. When Christ was born ... ... Arthur H. Brown.
142. Jesu, hail! O God most holy ... ... J. Stainer.
143. The seven joys of Mary ... ... Traditional.
144. What Child is this? ... ... Old English.
145. The Waits' Song (The moon shines bright) ... Traditional.
146. The Virgin and Child ... ... C. Steggall.
147. The Holly and Ivy ... ... Old French.
148. The Lord at first ... ... Traditional.
149. The Incarnation ... ... Traditional.
150. The Cherry-Tree Carol ... ... Traditional.
151. A Cradle-song of the Blessed Virgin ... ...J. Barnby.
152. Jacob's Ladder ... ... Traditional.
153. Dives and Lazarus ... ... Traditional.
154. The Wassail Song ... ... Traditional.

Complete, 2s. Words only, 2d.

Bramley, Rev. H. R. } Christmas Carols, New and Old.
Stainer, John } Arranged for Two-part Singing by W. G. McNaught.

Three-Halfpence each.

155. Good King Wenceslas.
156. Good Christian men, rejoice.
157. Christmas hath made an end.
158. God rest you merry, gentlemen.
159. The First Nowell.
160. A Virgin unspotted.
161. The Wassail Song.
162. { I hear along our street. / The Boar's Head Carol. } 1½d.
163. The seven joys of Mary.
164. Hark! how sweetly the bells.
165. The Holly and the Ivy.

Complete, 1s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 6d. Words only, 1½d.

Fox, George—Carols for Christmastide. Set to Music for Little Singers.

Three-Halfpence each.

166. Good King Wenceslas.
167. I hear along our street.
168. Brightly shone the Eastern star.
169. As Joseph was a-walking.
170. Hark! what mean those holy voices.
171. The Holy Well.
172. While Shepherds watched.
173. God rest you merry, gentlemen.
174. Hark! how sweetly the bells.
175. A little robin.
176. As I sat on a sunny bank.
177. Why in tones so sweet and tender.
178. { The moon shone bright. / All you that in this house. } 1½d.
179. Clearly in the East it shone.
180. { Shepherds at the Grange. / These good people. } 1½d.
181. { Nuns in frigid cells. / Washerwomen old. } 1½d.
182. The Holly and the Ivy.
183. { How grand and how bright. / Hosanna to the living Lord. } 1½d.
184. { Lo! a heavenly form appearing. / The Boar's Head Carol. / In excelsis gloria. } 1½d.

Complete, 2s. 6d.

Legge, Robin H.—Twelve New Christmas Carols. For Unison Singing. Words by E. A. Alston.

Three-Halfpence each.

185. Praeludium.
186. The Midnight Masse.
187. The bells of Christmas.
188. Pastor Bonus.
189. Rejoice! Christen men.
190. A Children's Carol.
191. Caraula Pastorum.
192. Wassail Song.
193. Kings of Orient.
194. Good Christians all.
195. Cometh the day.
196. Ye Angelus Bell.

Complete, 1s. Tonic Sol-fa, 8d. Words only, 2d.

---

*197. { The Anthem of Peace (O sweet the enchanting anthem) ... ...J. Barnby. / On Christmas Morn ... ... A. C. Mackenzie. / Across the desert sands by night ... G. C. Martin. / Shepherds! shake off your drowsy sleep ...J. Stainer. } 1½d.
(Words only, 3s. per 100.)

*198. { O Babe! in manger lying ... ... / The Virgin is hushing ... ... / What Child is this? ... ... / Darkness fell on the weary earth ... } ... J. Barnby. 1½d. Words only, 3s. per 100.)

199. Holy night! peaceful night! ... ...J. Barnby. 2d.
200. In excelsis gloria ... ... J. M. Crament. 1½d.
201. When Christ was born ... ... J. T. Field. 1½d.
202. What Child is this? ... ... J. T. Field. 1½d.
203. { There were whisperings ... ... J. T. Cooper. / Shades of silent night ... ... S. Gee. } 1½d.
*204. The Legend of Good Saint Christopher... F. J. Sawyer. 1½d.
205. I hear along our street ... ... E. Silas. 4d.
*206. In dulci Jubilo ... ... Pearsall. 3d.
207. Caput apri defero ... ... Pearsall. 3d.
*208. Holly berries ... ... Westbrook. 1½d.
209. A New Year's Carol ... ... J. Shaw. 1½d.
210. { There was silence (Unison) ... ...J. Stainer. / The star in the East (Unison) ... ...H. Leslie. } 1½d.
211. A Christmas Carol (Two Parts) ... ... C. Reinecke. 2d.
212. Glad Christmastide ... ...J. Barnby. 1½d.
213. All things were in silence ... ...J. Barnby. 1½d.
214. This is the month ... ... Hugh Blair. 1½d.
215. How peaceful was the night ... ... Hugh Blair. 1½d.
216. There came a little child ... ... R. Jackson. 1½d.
217. As with gladness ... ... C. V. Stanford. 1½d.
218. One night as I was sleeping ... ... J. Swire. 1½d.
219. The Golden Crown ... ... J. Stainer. 1½d.
220. Joy fills our inmost heart ... ... A. C. Mackenzie. 1½d.
221. Who is this that lies all lowly ... ...Myles B. Foster. 1½d.
222. See, the Morning Star ... ... E. G. Monk. 1d.
223. Carol, carol, Christians ... ... Victoria Grosvenor. 1½d.
*224. On Christmas Morn ... ... A. C. Mackenzie. 1d.
225. In the ages past ... ... F. A. J. Hervey. 1½d
226. We sing a song of gladness... ... ... J. Swire. 1½d.
227. The morn, the blessed morn is nigh Victoria Grosvenor. 3d.
228. Carol, carol, Christians ... ... Mrs. J. W. Bliss. 3d.
229. O was not Christ our Saviour? ... ... J. Shaw. 1½d.
230. Carol, Christian children ... ... A. Moffat. 1½d.
*231. There was silence in Bethlehem's fields (S.A.T.B.) J. Stainer. 1½d.
232. Come, all ye Christian men, rejoice Hamilton Clarke. 1½d.
233. Shepherds in the fields abiding ... Hamilton Clarke. 1½d.
234. Come and sing the wondrous story J. Varley Roberts. 1½d.
235. The Christmas bells ring loud and clear J. Varley Roberts. 1½d.
236. Bethlehem ... ... J. Varley Roberts. 1½d.
237. The birth ever new ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
238. The old news ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
239. Christmas Eve ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
240. The Christmas vision ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
241. The Shepherds' Carol... ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
242. Mary's Cradle Song ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
243. The Angels' Carol ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
244. Children's Chorus ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
245. The Holy Quest ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
246. The Five Kings ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
247. Praise we now the Holy light ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
248. Nazareth town in slumber lay ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
249. An ode on the birth of our Saviour ... C. H. Lloyd. 1½d.
250. See, the morning star is dwelling ... A. Herbert Brewer. 1½d.
251. Christ was born on Christmas Day A. Herbert Brewer. 1½d.
252. Christmas Morn ... ... H. C. Havergal. 2d.
253. The Kings of the East... ... ... H. C. Havergal. 2d.
254. The Star ... ... H. C. Havergal. 2d
255. The Angels' song ... ... H. C. Havergal. 2d.
256. The Holy birth ... ... H. C. Havergal. 2d.
257. The Humiliation ... ... H. C. Havergal. 2d.
258. Rejoice, O daughter ... ...C. Macpherson. 1½d.
259. The Virgin and Child (This winter's night) C. Macpherson. 1½d.
260. The Annunciation ... ... J. Barnby. 1½d.
261. The Message to the Shepherds ... ... J. Barnby. 1½d.
262. Cradle Song of the Blessed Virgin... ... J. Barnby. 1½d.
263. Gloria in excelsis ... ... J. Barnby. 1½d.
(Nos. 260 to 263 published together. Octavo Anthems, 448, "The First Christmas," 3d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.)
264. Sing the Holy Child-Christ... ... Myles B. Foster. 1½d.
*265. Sleep, baby, sleep ... ... Thos. Adams. 1½d.
266. Noël ... ...A. M. Goodhart. 1½d.
267. What sudden blaze of song ... ... Cuthbert Harris. 1d.
268. What sudden blaze of song ... ... J. F. Bridge. 1d.
269. Shepherds, leave your flocks ... ... J. V. Roberts. 1d.
270. Heavenly music, clearly ringing ... ... J. V. Roberts. 1d.
271. Silent night, holiest night ... ... J. V. Roberts. 1d.
272. Angels singing ... ...J. H. Mee. 1d.
273. Little children ... ...J. H. Mee. 1d.
274. Blessed Babe ... ...H. W. Wareing. 1d.
275. Ring the bells ... ... J. Barnby. 1½d.
*276. Sweeter than songs of summer ... ... J. F. Bridge. 2d.
(Words only, 3s. per 100.)
277. The night in solemn stillness hung ... J. G. Smith. 1½d.

---

278. The Son of Mary, Christ the King ... Thomas Adams. 1d.
279. Hark! all around ... ... W. A. C. Cruickshank. 1d.
280. It is the day ... ... W. A. C. Cruickshank. 1d.
281. Mortals, awake ... ... W. A. C. Cruickshank. 1½d.
282. In the fields with their flocks abiding ... ...J. E. West. 1½d.
283. It came upon the midnight clear ... ...Battison Haynes. 1d.
284. Royal Bethlehem ... ... W. Montgomery. 1½d.
285. I hear along our street ... ... S. H. Nicholson. 1d.
286. The Child Jesus in the Garden (2nd setting) J. Stainer. 1d.
287. The Prince of Peace... ... ... A. Herbert Brewer. 1d.
288. Remember God's goodnesse ... Ravenscroft-Bridge. 1½d.
289. Christmas Tree Carol ... ... H. Davan Wetton. 1d.

 The Carols marked thus * may be had in Tonic Sol-fa.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

ANTHEMS FOR CHRISTMAS.

The word is made Incarnate	Thomas Adams	2d.
*Unto us a Child is born	F. Adlam	4d.
In the beginning	G. B. Allen	1½d.
Christians, be joyful	Bach	3d.
Come and thank Him	Bach	3d.
Glory be to God	Bach	3d.
Glory to God	Bach	2d.
*Hear, King of Angels	Bach	1½d.
*That God doth love the world	Bach	3d.
*Behold, I bring you good tidings	J. Barnby	3d.
Christians, awake	J. Barnby	3d.
*Drop down, ye heavens	J. Barnby	1½d.
*Hail to the Christ (Carol-Anthem)	J. Barnby	3d.
*Like silver lamps	J. Barnby	1½d.
*Sing and rejoice	J. Barnby	1½d.
*The first Christmas (Words only, 3s. per 100)	J. Barnby	3d.
*The Grace of God which bringeth salvation	J. Barnby	1½d.
*While shepherds watched their flocks	J. Barnby	4d.
*While shepherds watched their flocks	W. T. Best	1½d.
*Behold my servant	Frederick Bridge	3d.
*Give the king Thy judgments, O Lord	A. H. Brown	1½d.
The Angel said unto them (Two-part Anthem—Sop. and Bass)	H. Brown	1d.
*Come, ye lofty	H. Elliot Button	1½d.
Rejoice in the Lord	J. B. Calkin	3d.
Hail! thou that art highly favoured	Arthur Carnall	4d.
*Break forth into joy	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
Angels, from the realms of glory	F. H. Cowen	3d.
Behold, I bring you good tidings	J. M. Crament	4d.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings	Giovanni Croce	1½d.
Be peace on earth	W. Crotch	2d.
Lo, star-led chiefs	W. Crotch	2d.
*When Jesus was born in Bethlehem	W. A. C. Cruickshank	3d.
When Christ was born to earth	H. Walford Davies	4d.
*Arise, shine, for Thy light is come	Geo. Elvey	1½d.
*While shepherds watched	Geo. Elvey	3d.
*Let us now go even unto Bethlehem	J. T. Field	1½d.
*There were shepherds	Myles B. Foster	1½d.
Ditto (Two-part Anthem)	Myles B. Foster	3d.
*Hark the glad sound	Myles B. Foster	3d.
Behold, a Star appeareth	Niels W. Gade	4d.
Sing, O daughter of Zion	H. Gadsby	1½d.
*Sing, O Heavens, and be joyful, O Earth	A. Gaul	1½d.
In this was manifested	F. E. Gladstone	3d.
Behold, how good and joyful	W. H. Gladstone	1s.
*Behold, I bring you good tidings	J. Goss	1½d.
*God so loved the world	J. Goss	1½d.
*O sing to God (Noël). (Female voices)	Ch. Gounod	6d.
*O sing to God (Noël). (Arranged for S.A.T.B.)	Ch. Gounod	1½d.
*The Word is Flesh become	Ch. Gounod	1s.
Behold, I bring	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Brightest and best	E. V. Hall	4d.
Hark! the glad sound	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Hark! the herald angels sing	E. V. Hall	3d.
*For unto us a Child is born	Handel	2d.
*Glory to God	Handel	1d.
How beautiful are the feet (Appendix to "The Messiah")	Handel	3d.
*O Thou that tellest	Handel	1½d.
*Now is come Salvation	Cuthbert Harris	3d.
*Lo, God, our God has come	Battison Haynes	3d.
*Christians, awake	H. M. Higgs	4d.
*Let us now go even unto Bethlehem	E. J. Hopkins	1½d.
Behold, all the earth lieth still	G. F. Huntley	4d.
O come hither	W. Jackson	3d.
O Zion, that bringest	W. Jackson	1s.
Sing, O heavens	W. Jackson	1s.
Sing, O heavens	Kent	4d.
While all things were in quiet silence	Henry J. King	3d.
Hallelujah! the light hath shined	Oliver King	3d.
Hark! what news the angels bring	Oliver King	3d.
Sing a song of praise	Oliver King	3d.
*The star that now is shining	Oliver King	1½d.
*While all things were in quiet silence	Oliver King	1½d.
*God so loved the world	M. Kingston	1½d.
Dawns the day, the natal day	Robin H. Legge	3d.
Fear not, we bring you good tidings	H. Leslie	1s.
He cometh forth	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
While all things were in quiet silence	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
Behold the Tabernacle (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
Unto us was born (Two-part Anthem)	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
Sing, O heavens	A. C. Mackenzie	6d.
*O, Holy Babe	A. C. Mackenzie	1½d.
*There shall come forth a Star	O. A. Mansfield	3d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel	The Earl of Mar	1½d.
God, Who at sundry times	J. H. Mee	4d.
Rejoice, O ye people	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Say, where is He born (Trio)	Mendelssohn	2d.
There shall a Star	Mendelssohn	6d.
*Hallelujah! for unto us a Child is born	W. H. Monk	1½d.
O Jerusalem! look about thee	E. W. Naylor	4d.
*Sing unto the Lord	Vincent Novello	1½d.
Before the Heavens were spread abroad	Horatio W. Parker	3d.
I will set His dominion in the sea	Horatio W. Parker	4d.
*Calm as the list'ning ear of night	Horatio W. Parker	3d.
Glory to God in the highest	Pergolesi	1½d.
There were shepherds	Edgar Pettman	3d.
Behold, the name of the Lord	Percy Pitt	4d.
*Break forth into joy	T. Ridley Prentice	6d.
God so loved the world	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
The whole earth is at rest	J. Varley Roberts	4d.
The light hath shined	E. Silas	1½d.
*The Angel Gabriel was sent from God	H. Smart	1½d.
*Behold, I bring you glad tidings	C. W. Smith	1½d.
*God so loved the world	J. Stainer	1½d
I desired wisdom	J. Stainer	6d.
*It came upon the midnight clear	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Mercy and truth are met together (Words, 3s. per 100)	J. Stainer	3d.
*O Zion, that bringest good tidings	J. Stainer	1½d.
*The hallowed day hath shined upon us	J. Stainer	1½d.
*The morning stars sang together	J. Stainer	6d.
*There was silence in Bethlehem's fields	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Ditto (Unison)	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Thus speaketh the Lord of Hosts	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Break forth into joy	Bruce Steane	3d.
In the beginning was the Word	E. H. Thorne	1½d.
*Sing, O heavens	B. Tours	1½d.
*There were shepherds	B. Tours	1½d.
In the beginning was the Word	F. Tozer	4d.
Sing, O heavens	T. T. Trimnell	4d.
This is the day which the Lord hath made	J. Turle	3d.
The light hath shined	C. G. Verrinder	1½d.
*There were shepherds	Charles Vincent	4d.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings	Vittoria	1½d.
There were shepherds	H. W. Wareing	3d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel	S. S. Wesley	1½d.
*O come, Redeemer of mankind	J. E. West	1½d.
*With all Thy Hosts	J. E. West	1½d.
*See amid the winter's snow	J. E. West	1½d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel	C. L. Williams	4d.
Jesu, Who from Thy Father's throne	F. C. Woods	3d.

*Anthems marked thus * may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 1½d., and 2d. each.*

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE HOLY CHILD

AN EASY CHRISTMAS CANTATA

FOR SOPRANO, TENOR, AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

THOMAS ADAMS.

Price One Shilling; Tonic Sol-fa, Sixpence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

SLEEP, BABY, SLEEP

CAROL-CHORUS FROM THE ABOVE.

Published separately, price 1½d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHRISTMAS SCENES

CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

CLIFTON BINGHAM

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

FREDERIC H. COWEN.

Price Two Shillings; Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE COMING OF THE KING

A SACRED CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES

SUITABLE FOR CHRISTMAS

WORDS BY

HELEN MARION BURNSIDE

MUSIC BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 8d.
Words only, 5s. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

YULE-TIDE

A CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

JULIA GODDARD

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

THOMAS ANDERTON.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Paper boards, 2s.; cloth, gilt, 3s.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS.

Just Published.

COME, YE LOFTY

COMPOSED BY

H. ELLIOT BUTTON.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

CALM AS THE LIST'NING EAR OF NIGHT

COMPOSED BY

HORATIO W. PARKER.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

HARK THE GLAD SOUND

COMPOSED BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

In the Press.

THE ANGEL SAID UNTO THEM

COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR HENRY BROWN.

(Two-part Anthem—Soprano and Bass.)

Recently Published.

IT CAME UPON THE MIDNIGHT CLEAR

COMPOSED BY

JOHN STAINER.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

BEHOLD THE NAME OF THE LORD COMETH FROM AFAR

COMPOSED BY

PERCY PITT.

Price Fourpence.

THE WORD IS MADE INCARNATE

CAROL-ANTHEM

COMPOSED BY

THOMAS ADAMS.

Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

WHEN CHRIST WAS BORN TO EARTH

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

WHITTIER

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

H. WALFORD DAVIES.

Price Fourpence.

SEE, AMID THE WINTER'S SNOW

CAROL-ANTHEM

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

REV. E. CASWALL, M.A.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.
Ditto, with Welsh words, Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

Laid out after the model of "The Story of the Cross."

THE STORY OF THE ADVENT OF JESUS

WRITTEN BY

E. W. LEACHMAN

SET TO MUSIC BY

J. STAINER.

Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.
Words only, 3s. per 100.

PART I. The advent of Jesus before His Incarnation.—To create and to illuminate mankind.
PART II. The advent of Jesus at His Incarnation.—To save and to elevate mankind.
PART III. The advent of Jesus since His Incarnation.—To attract and to nourish mankind.
PART IV. The advent of Jesus to receive the Fruits of His Incarnation.—To Judge and to claim mankind.

N.B.—The Incarnation of Jesus means His taking upon Him our flesh, and being born as Man on Christmas Day.
This "Story" is told in the order above so that, whilst remembering our Lord's Coming as Man, and as Judge, we may not lose sight of His other Advents.
The Bible references given are those which suggested the form of this "Story."

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE STORY OF BETHLEHEM

A SHORT SACRED CANTATA

FOR CHRISTMAS SERVICES, &c.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY

THE MUSIC FOR SOPRANO, TENOR, & BASS SOLI, CHORUS AND ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

A CHRISTMAS PASTORAL

ON THE INTROIT

HODIE CHRISTE NATUS EST

AND THE HYMNS

"CORDE NATUS" AND "ADESTE FIDELES"

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

B. LUARD SELBY.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHRISTMAS ALBUM

TWENTY-FOUR

PIANOFORTE PIECES FOR THE YOUNG

COMPOSED BY

P. TSCHAÏKOWSKY.

(Op. 39.)

EDITED AND REVISED BY

A. ROSENKRANZ.

IN THREE BOOKS.
Price One Shilling each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

HYMNS FOR THANKSGIVING AFTER WAR.

1. PRAISE THE LORD
WORDS BY A. C. AINGER. MUSIC BY J. BARNBY.

2. THANKS BE TO GOD
WORDS BY REV. S. CHILDS CLARKE. MUSIC BY GEO. C. MARTIN.

3. THE TRUMPET NOTES ARE SOUNDING
WORDS BY T. DISNEY. MUSIC BY J. F. BRIDGE.

4. LORD OF HOSTS, WHO HAST ENDUED US
WORDS BY A. C. BENSON. MUSIC BY WALTER PARRATT.

5. THE ROCKS WERE RENT
WORDS BY REV. CANON H. D. RAWNSLEY. MUSIC BY GEO. C. MARTIN.

PRICE ONE PENNY EACH. Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

Other Hymns suitable for Thanksgiving Services after War :—

Now thank we all our God .. .. 1d.
O God, supreme Commander .. ..J. F. Bridge 1d.
(Words, by Rev. Alfred A. Toms, 2s. 6d. per 100.)
O God, supreme Commander .. .. W. Creser 1d.
(Words, by Rev. Alfred A. Toms, 2s. 6d. per 100.)
Onward, Christian soldiers (St. Gertrude) .. Arthur Sullivan 1d.
(Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)
Old 100th (Tune only) .. .. Arranged by Battison Haynes
String Parts, 2s.; Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.
We march, we march to victory .. .. .. J. Barnby 1½d.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC by CALEB SIMPER.

Over 2,500,000 copies of this favourite Composer's Works now sold.

ANTHEMS AND SERVICES.

*THE MORNING STARS SANG TOGETHER. New .. .. .. 3d.
Very pretty, artistic, and effective.
*HE MAKETH PEACE. New. 7th edition .. .. 3d.
Special Thanksgiving Anthem for Victory and Peace.
*THANKSGIVING TE DEUM in D. New. 5th 1,000 .. .. .. 4d.
*TIDINGS OF GREAT JOY. New. 8th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Contains a splendid Bass Solo and fine Choruses.
*GLAD TIDINGS (moderate). From "Nativity." 6th 1,000 .. 4d.
*WHEN JESUS WAS BORN (easy). From "Nativity." 8th 1,000 .. 3d.
*HIS NAME SHALL BE CALLED WONDERFUL. 9th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
*IN THE BEGINNING WAS THE WORD (mod. easy). 7th 1,000 .. 4d.
*PEACE ON EARTH. A favourite. 11th 1,000.. .. .. .. 4d.
*UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN (easy). 9th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
"Both most useful and exceedingly beautiful."
*WORSHIP HIM AND SING OF HIM. 15th 1,000 .. .. .. 4d.
Short Bass Solo, Chorus, expressive Soprano (or Tenor) Solo, soft Chorus, and a short Full brilliant Final Chorus.
*BE JOYFUL, O EARTH (moderately easy). 8th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
*THE GLORY OF THE LORD. Very popular. 16th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
*REJOICE GREATLY. 10th 1,000. HE SHALL REIGN. 19th 1,000 each 3d.
*BREAK FORTH INTO JOY. 31st 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Sung at Choral Festivals in Downpatrick and St. Asaph's Cathedrals.
*THE HEAVENS ARE TELLING (quite easy). 10th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
*BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD. Very effective. 22nd edition .. 4d.
LET US NOW GO EVEN TO BETHLEHEM. Partly unis. 10th 1,000 3d.
WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR. Extremely popular. 42nd edition .. 4d.
SING, O HEAVENS. 27th 1,000. GLORY TO GOD. 24th ed. each 3d.
THERE WERE SHEPHERDS. 24th ed. BEHOLD, I BRING. 55th ed. 3d.
Recent Services; very popular:—
*MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIM. in C (moderate). New. 6th 1,000 4d.
A very interesting and effective Service. From the "Nativity."
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIM. (No. 6). 12th edit. Sol-fa, 2d. O.N. 4d.
An easy Service. Mostly in unison.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIM. in D. 19th edit. Sol-fa, 2d. O.N. 4d.
Sung by the North Connor Choral Association, and included in last year's Service Book of the Peterborough Diocesan Choral Association.
CELEBRATED MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in F. 95th edit. 4d.
Sung at numerous Choral Festivals.
FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIM. in E flat. 35th edit.. 4d.
Sung at Three Choral Festivals.
POPULAR MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in G. 14th edition 4d.
FESTAL MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIM. in B flat. 4th 1,000 .. 4d.
EASY COMMUNION SERVICE in E flat. Complete. 19th 1,000 .. 4d.
COMMUNION SERVICE in F. Complete. 14th edition .. .. 6d.
*EASY COMMUNION SERVICE in G. Complete. 8th 1,000 .. 4d.
NEW EASY TE DEUM and JUBILATE in E flat. 18th ed. .. each 3d.
TE DEUM in G. 21st edition. 4d. TE DEUM in F. 42nd edition 3d.
NEW BENEDICTUS in F. 4th 1,000 .. .. 3d.

VERY POPULAR VOLUNTARY BOOKS.

Each contains Seventeen Pieces, including a capital March. On Two Staves for Organ, American Organ, or Harmonium. Book 1, 8th edit.; Book 2, 5th edit.; Book 3 (new), 3rd edit. Price 1s. 6d. net each Book.

CANTATAS.

"THE NATIVITY OF CHRIST."

Price 1s. 6d. Sol-fa, 1s. Third Thousand.

Contains Solos and Choruses, interspersed with Carols, and occupies about forty minutes in performance.

A Clergyman writes: "The 'Nativity' was such a great success last year that it is to be adopted by all the Choirs and Bands of Hope in the town" (Five different Choirs).

"THE ROLLING SEASONS."

9th 1,000. Price 1s. 6d. Sol-fa, 1s.

This very favourite Cantata occupies about thirty-five minutes in performance.

An Organist writes: "Send forty-two copies. I am delighted with Cantata, and consider it a most suitable work for a Church Choir to take up for study. It possesses such variety, and is so melodious from beginning to end, that it cannot fail to interest the members, and at the same time gives ample scope for careful study and expression."

*POPULAR CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

337th 1,000. Price 1d. each. Nos. 49 to 54 just published.

*1. CAROL SWEETLY.
*2. O LOVELY STAR.
*3. WHAT SAY THESE BELLS?
*4. COME, HAIL THE DAY.
*5. GOOD NEWS WE BRING.
*6. SWEETEST MUSIC.
*7. AWAKE, AWAKE.
*8. O SO SWEETLY.
*9. HAPPY MORNING.
*10. SWEET ANGELS, EVER BRIGHT.
*11. OH, CHRISTMAS BELLS.
*12. BETHLEHEM'S PEACEFUL HILL.
*13. SWEET CHRISTMAS DAY.
*14. RING, BELLS, RING.
*15. FAIR EDEN'S GATES.
*16. SONGS OF RAPTURE.
*17. ALL HAIL! WE SING.
*18. SILVERY STARS.
*19. GLAD HEAVEN REJOICES.
*20. GOLD, FRANKINCENSE, &C.
*21. SEE THE JOYFUL DAY.
*22. THE ANGEL'S SONG OF LOVE.
*23. NIGHT OF GLORY.
*24. JESUS, THE LORD, IS BORN.
*25. ANGELIC VOICES.
*26. THE ROYAL CHILD.
*27. SWEETLY CHIMING BELLS.
*28. WELCOME, CHRISTMAS MORN.
*29. RING OUT, O BELLS.
*30. GLORY TO GOD ON HIGH.
*31. O BETHLEHEM FAIR.
*32. EMMANUEL! SWEET NAME.
*33. SING WE GLORY.
*34. HARP, AWAKE.
*35. COME YE TO BETHLEHEM.
*36. ANGELS BRIGHT.
*37. REJOICE WITH ALLELUIAS.
*38. THE WONDROUS STORY.
*39. LOUD HOSANNAS.
*40. THE CHILD OF PEACE.
*41. ON CHRISTMAS DAY.
*42. THE STARRY PORTALS.
*43. ANGELS WERE SINGING.
*44. RING ON, O BELLS.
*45. THE HYMN OF CHRISTMAS.
*46. THE LIGHT OF HOPE.
*47. GOOD NEWS FROM HEAVEN.
*48. HARK! FROM THE SKIES.
*49. LO! ON BETHLEHEM'S PLAINS.
*50. A SOUND OF MERRY PEALS.
*51. SWEET CAROLS RAISE.
*52. PEACE! PEACE! ON EARTH.
*53. HE IS OUR EMMANUEL.
*54. SING! FOR CHRIST IS BORN.

Also Carols Nos. 1 to 48 may be had in Two Books (24 in each), 1s. each Book; also, in One Bound Volume, 3s. 6d.

London: WEEKES AND CO., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.; Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY, 220, Wabash Avenue.

* The Composer, Barnstaple, will send Special Specimen Copies as follows:—Cantatas, 6d. each; Carols (one of each), 1s.; All the Anthems, 2s.; All the Services, 2s. 6d.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CANTATAS.

*UNA

SIXTH AND SEVENTH THOUSAND.

PRODUCED AT THE NORWICH MUSICAL FESTIVAL, OCTOBER 4, 1893.

"'Una' is quite one of his best."—Musical Standard.

"The result, in the present case, leaves no doubt that into all the places which know his previous compositions 'Una' will find a way and become as much a favourite as its forerunners. . . . Mr. Gaul considers before all things the elegance and symmetry of his melodic phrases."—Musical Times.

"We believe that Mr. Gaul has attained greater popularity with small English provincial choral societies than any other composer, living or dead."—London Daily Graphic.

†THE TEN VIRGINS

Third Edition. Eleventh and Twelfth Thousand.
This Edition contains the additional Soprano air "Sun of my soul."

"The work will certainly go through Saxondom in the wake of its predecessors from the same pen."—London Daily Telegraph.

"Must attain popularity wherever heard. Infinitely superior to any previous effort of the composer."—Liverpool Daily Courier.

"A distinct advance upon any of its predecessors."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"That 'The Ten Virgins' is a much finer work than the everywhere favourite 'Holy City' we have no doubt whatever."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

PRODUCED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY

*JOAN OF ARC

Staff Edition. Twenty-sixth to Thirtieth Thousand.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success, and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"—Western Times.

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description, and will doubtless soon be a favourite with choral societies."—Shields Daily News.

SEVENTH THOUSAND.

PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE, JULY 9, 1892.

†ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS

"The work was given under Mr. Gaul's own direction by some 3,000 singers, accompanied by the Palace orchestra. Mr. Gaul has presented in no previous work better characteristics or more successful efforts than are to be found in 'Israel in the Wilderness.' The popular composer was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance."—Musical News.

The above Cantatas have been specially planned to meet the equirements of Musical Societies, the greater portion being choral.

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Vocal Parts, each 1s. Words only, *7s. 6d.; †5s. per 100. The loan of Orchestral Parts on application to the Composer.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

SCHOTT & CO.'S

NEW ORGAN MUSIC.

FAULKES, W. New Organ Pieces:—

No.	Net s.	d.	No.	Net s.	d.
18. Marche Religieuse in B minor	1	6	27. Scherzo in A	2	0
19. Elévation in B minor	1	0	28. Méditation in E flat	1	0
20. Pastorale in E	1	6	29. Grand Chœur in D	1	6
21. Toccata in D minor	2	0	30. March in C	2	0
22. Cantilène in A	1	6	31. Cantilène Pastorale in A minor	1	6
23. Offertoire in E minor	1	6	32. Caprice in B flat	1	6
24. Communion in C	1	0	33. Marriage Benediction in D flat	1	0
25. Andante affetuoso in B flat	1	6	34. Romance in D	1	0
26. Elégie in F minor	1	6	35. Offertoire in C minor	2	0

GREY, CHAS. J. Organ Pieces:—

1. Chant Triomphal	1	0	5. Berceuse	1	6
2. Hymne Céleste	1	0	6. Grand Chœur	1	6
3. Marche Solennelle	1	6	7. Cantilène Dramatique	1	6
4. Andante Pastorale	1	6	8. Sonata in G	2	0

HIGGS, H. M.

Cantilène Pastorale	1	6	Theme with Variations	2	0
Lento Religioso Offertoire	1	6

JEKYLL, C. S.

Prière 1 0

Transcriptions:—

1. Schumann, 4 Pieces. Op. 15	1	6	2. Wagner. Träume	1	6
			3. Onslow. Romance Op. 7	1	6

LEMARE, EDWIN H. Popular Organ Arrangements:—

Dreyschock, F. Berceuse	2	0	Rubinstein, A. Rêve Angélique	2	0
Elgar, E. Salut d'Amour	2	0	Wagner, R. Siegfried Idyll	3	0
Goldmark, C. Rustic Symphony:—			Waldweben (Siegfried)	3	0
Im Garten	2	0	The Mastersingers. Prelude	2	6
Finale	2	0	Parsifal. Prelude Act I.	2	0
Humperdinck, E. Hansel and Gretel:—			Parsifal. Prelude Act III.	1	6
Prelude	2	0	Parsifal. Good Friday Music	2	0
Angel Scene	2	0	Lohengrin. Prelude to Act III. and Bridal Music	2	0
Kellie, L. The City of Night	1	6
Liszt, F. Sposalizio	2	0
Nevin, E. Slumber Song	2	0

SAINT-GEORGE, G.

Supplication	1	0	Angelus	1	0
Lamento	1	0	Offertoire in F	1	6

STEGGALL, R. Suite:—

1. Prélude	1	6	3. Cantilène	1	6
2. Romance	1	6	4. Toccata	2	0

WAREING, H. W. Organ Pieces:—

1. Angelus	1	0	4. Lento Espressivo	1	0
2. Siciliano	1	0	5. Marche Funèbre	1	0
3. Hornpipe	1	6

London: SCHOTT AND CO., 157-9, Regent Street, W.

F. WEBER'S GUIDES TO HARMONY AND COUNTERPOINT.
THE PIANIST'S PRACTICAL GUIDE TO HARMONY AND COMPOSITION. 4th Edition. Price 4s. net.
COMPREHENSIVE COUNTERPOINT (in Pianoforte Exercises) for Amateurs and Professionals. Price 5s. net.
Dr. E. H. TURPIN says: "Mr. Weber's book should be used in all our public teaching institutions and placed in the hands of all earnest students."
NOVELLO AND CO., Ltd. SCHOTT AND CO.

EBENEZER PROUT'S Works. Bound, each net 5s.
HARMONY: Its Theory and Practice. Twelfth Edition.
COUNTERPOINT: Strict and Free. Sixth Edition.
DOUBLE COUNTERPOINT and CANON. Third Edition.
FUGUE. Fourth Edition.
FUGAL ANALYSIS. Second Edition.
MUSICAL FORM. Third Edition.
APPLIED FORMS. Third Edition.
THE ORCHESTRA: Vol. I. "Technique of the Instruments." Second Edition.
" Vol. II. "Orchestral Combination."
London: AUGENER AND CO., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

Sung with great success by Messrs. Henry Beaumont, Bernard Fountain, W. L. Cockburn, Alan Clyde, Arthur Mass, Oldbury Brough, &c.

BRAVE HEARTS (E flat and F Editions ready.)

PATRIOTIC SONG. MUSIC BY JOHN J. JONES.
"A spirited setting to stirring lines by Oxenford."—Musical News.
London: WEEKES AND CO. Price 2s.

Just Published.

OUR HERO "BOBS"

A Patriotic Song.
Written and composed by ANNIE A. ODELL. Price 2s. net.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MUSIC
FOR THANKSGIVING SERVICES
AFTER WAR.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, &c.

	s.	d.
Barnby (in E)	0	4
Bridge, J. F. (in G)	0	4
Coleridge-Taylor, S. (in F)	0	4
*Elgar, E. (in F)	1	0
*Goss, J. (in D)	2	0
,, ,, 8vo	0	6
,, ,, Vocal Parts	2	0
Garrett, G. M. (in D)	0	3
Garrett, G. M. (in E)	0	4
Garrett, G. M. (in F). (Sol-fa, 1½d.)	0	4
*Handel ("Chandos")	1	0
,, ,, Vocal Parts 8vo, each	0	9
*Handel ("Dettingen")	5	0
,, ,, 8vo, paper cover	1	0
,, ,, Vocal Parts .. each	0	10½
*Handel (Jubilate)	5	0
,, ,, Edited by W. T. Best 8vo	1	0
,, ,, Vocal Parts	2	7½
Henschel, G. (Op. 52)	1	6
Hopkins, E. J. (in F)	0	6
Lemare, E. H. (in E flat)	0	9
Martin, G. C. (in C)	0	8
*Martin, G. C. (in A)	0	6
Mendelssohn (in A)	0	6
*Purcell (in D)	1	0
*Smart, H. (in F). (Sol-fa, 1½d.)	0	3
Stainer, J. (in A). (Sol-fa, 2d.)	0	4
Stainer, J. (in B flat). (Sol-fa, 2d.)	0	6
Stainer, J. (in E flat). (Sol-fa, 2d.)	0	6
Stanford (in A)	0	4
Stanford (in B flat). (Sol-fa, 1½d.	0	4
*Sullivan, A.	1	0
,, Vocal Parts	4	0
Sullivan, A. (in D)	0	3
Wesley, S. S. (in E)	0	6
*West, J. E. (in G)	0	3

MAGNIFICAT.

	s.	d.
*Alsop, J. R. (in E)	0	4
Attwood (in C)	0	4
*Barnby, J. (in E flat)	0	8
*Bennett, G. J. (in A)	0	6
*Blair, H. (in B flat)	0	6
*Brewer, A. H. (in C)	1	0
*Bridge, J. F. (in G)	0	6
*Calkin, J. B. (in G)	0	6
Cobb, G. F. (in G)	1	0
Coleridge-Taylor, S. (in F)	0	4
Cooke, B. (in G)	0	4
Elvey, S. (in A)	0	4
*Faning, Eaton (in C). (Sol-fa, 3d.)	0	6
*Foster, Myles B. (in A)	0	6
Foster, Myles B. (in C)	0	4
*Gadsby, H. (in C)	0	6
Garrett, G. M. (in D). (Sol-fa, 2d.)	0	4
Garrett, G. M. (in E flat). (Sol-fa, 2d.)	0	6
*Garrett, G. M. (in F)	0	6
*Haynes, B. (in G)	0	4
Hopkins, E. J. (in D)	0	6
Hopkins, E. J. (in F). (Sol-fa. 2d.)	0	6
Lemare, E. H. (in A)	0	6
Lloyd, C. H. (in E flat)	0	6
*Lloyd, C. H. (in F)	0	6
*Martin, G. C. (in A)	0	6
*Martin, G. C. (in B flat)	0	6
*Martin, G. C. (in C)	0	6
*Martin, G. C. (in G)	0	6
Mendelssohn (in A)	0	8
Prout, E. (in F)	0	6
*Selby, B. L. (in A). (Sol-fa, 2d.)	0	6
*Smart, H. (in B flat)	0	6
Smart, H. (in F). (Sol-fa, 3d.)	0	6
Smart, H. (in G)	0	6
*Stainer, J. (in A)	0	6
*Stainer, J. (in B flat)	0	6
Stainer, J. (in E flat)	0	4
*Stanford, C. V. (in A)	0	6
Stanford, C. V. (in B flat). (Sol-fa, 1½d.)	0	4
*Steggall, R. (in C)	0	6
*Tours, B. (in F). (Sol-fa, 2d.)	0	4
Walmisley (in D minor)	0	4
Wesley, S. S. (in E)	0	8
West, J. E. (in E flat)	0	6
*Williams, C. L. (in C)	0	6

CANTATE DOMINO.

	s.	d.
Attwood, T. (in D)	3	0
,, ,, Vocal Parts	2	6
Bayley, W. (in F)	0	6
Hopkins, E. J. (in A)	3	6

*Orchestral Parts can be had of those marked .

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

MUSIC FOR THANKSGIVING SERVICES—continued.

ANTHEMS.

Those marked † can be had in Tonic Sol-fa.

		s.	d.
Behold, God is great	E. W. Naylor	0	4
Behold, God is my salvation	F. C. Woods	0	4
Blessing, glory, wisdom and thanks†	Tours	0	4
Fear not, O land†	Goss	0	6
God is my salvation†	C. F. Bowes	0	3
God is our hope and strength	Greene	0	6
*God is our refuge and strength	Hiles	0	6
*God save the Queen (with altered verse by the Dean of Rochester)†	arr. by F. Bridge	0	2
*God save the Queen†	arr. by Costa	0	3
*God save the Queen†	arr. by Novello	0	3
God save the Queen (male voices)†	arr. by Barnby	0	2
If the Lord Himself	T. A. Walmisley	2	6
In my distress	E. J. Hopkins	1	0
*In that day	Elvey	0	8
It came even to pass	Ouseley	0	4
I will love Thee, O Lord, my strength	J. Clark	0	4
I will love Thee, O Lord, my strength	Ouseley	0	9
I will magnify Thee, O God	Boyce	1	9
I will sing of Thy power, O God	Greene	0	4
I will sing of Thy power, O God†	Sullivan	0	1½
Let God arise	T. T. Trimnell	0	4
Let the righteous be glad†	R. F. Lloyd	0	3
*Lord, Thou art God	J. Stainer	0	8
Lord, Thy arm hath been uplifted†	Spohr	0	2
*Magnify His Name	Martin	0	4
Make a joyful noise†	Mackenzie	0	6
O be joyful in God, all ye lands	Boyce	1	3
O be joyful in God, all ye lands	Croft	2	0
O be joyful in God, all ye lands	Elvey	4	0
O be joyful in the Lord, all ye lands	Prout	1	0
*O give thanks	Purcell	0	6
O give thanks to the Lord	Hiles	5	0
O give thanks to the Lord	H. J. King	0	3
O give thanks unto the Lord†	Elvey	0	3
O give thanks unto the Lord	Greene	1	6
O give thanks unto the Lord	Boyce	2	0
O praise God in His holiness†	Trimnell	0	4
O praise God in His holiness†	Weldon	0	1½
O praise God in His holiness	Clarke-Whitfeld	0	6
O praise the Lord, all ye heathen	Batten	0	6
O praise the Lord, all ye heathen	Croft	0	9
O praise the Lord, all ye heathen	Ouseley	0	3
O praise the Lord, all ye heathen†	Wilton	0	1½
O praise the Lord, with one consent	Handel	1	0
Praise the Lord, and call upon His Name†	Elvey	0	4
Praise the Lord, call upon His Name	Benedict	0	8
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem†	Bliss	0	3
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem†	Hall	0	4
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. Hayes	0	4
Praise the Lord, O my soul	J. W. Elliott	0	3
Praise the Lord, ye servants	J. M. Crament	0	4
Praise ye the Lord	W. Jackson	0	6
Rejoice in the Lord, O ye righteous	Armes	0	6
Sing, O heavens	Mackenzie	0	6
Sing to the Lord a new made song	Mendelssohn	0	8
Sing unto God, and high affections raise†	Handel	0	1½
Sing unto the Lord, and praise His Name	Croft	2	6
The King shall rejoice in Thy strength	Greene	1	9
The Lord is my strength	Goss	0	6
This is the day which the Lord hath made	Elvey	3	0
Thy way, O God, is holy	Purcell	1	6
We will rejoice in Thy salvation	Croft	0	4
Who is like unto Thee, O Lord†	Sullivan	0	6

HYMNS.

		s.	d.
Lord of Hosts, Who hast endued us (Words, by A. C. Benson, 2s. 6d. per 100.)	W. Parratt	0	1
Now thank we all our God		0	1
O God, supreme Commander (Words, by Rev. Alfred A. Toms, 2s. 6d. per 100.)	J. F. Bridge	0	1
O God, supreme Commander (Words, by Rev. Alfred A. Toms, 2s. 6d. per 100.)	W. Creser	0	1
Onward, Christian soldiers (St. Gertrude) (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	Sullivan	0	1
*Old 100th (Tune only)	arr. by Battison Haynes
String Parts, 2s.; Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.
Praise the Lord (Words, by A. C. Ainger, 2s. 6d. per 100.)	Barnby	0	1
Thanks be to God	G. C. Martin	0	1
(Words, by Rev. S. Childs Clarke, 2s. 6d. per 100)
The rocks were rent	G. C. Martin	0	1
(Words, by Rev. H. D. Rawnsley, 2s. 6d. per 100.)
The trumpet-notes are sounding (Words, by T. Disney, 2s. 6d. per 100.)	J. F. Bridge	0	1
We march, we march to victory	Barnby	0	1½

CANTATAS.

F. H. COWEN.

	s.	d.
*A SONG OF THANKSGIVING	1	6

R. FRANZ.

PRAISE YE THE LORD	1	0

NIELS W. GADE.

*ZION. (Op. 49.) A Cantata for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra	1	0
Vocal Parts, 8vo, each	0	9

HANDEL.

*O PRAISE THE LORD WITH ONE CONSENT. Chandos Anthem, No. 6.	6	0
Ditto, 8vo	1	0
Vocal Parts	3	0

F. HILLER.

*A SONG OF VICTORY. 125th Psalm. (Op. 60)	3	0
(Sol-fa, 9d.) 8vo	0	8

MENDELSSOHN.

*COME, LET US SING. 95th Psalm. (Op. 46)	5	0
(Sol-fa, 6d.) 8vo, paper cover	1	0
Vocal Parts	2	10½
*HYMN OF PRAISE (Lobgesang). (Op. 52.)	10	6
(Sol-fa, 1s.) 8vo, paper cover	1	0
Ditto. Choruses only, without Accompt., 8vo, paper cover	0	6
Vocal Parts, each	1	0
*LAUDA SION (Praise Jehovah). (Op. 73.) A Sacred Cantata. (Latin and English Words)	7	6
(Sol-fa, 9d.) 8vo, paper cover	2	0
Vocal Parts Ditto 8vo	2	8
*NOT UNTO US, O LORD. 115th Psalm. (Op. 31.) English Words 4to, paper cover	1	6
English and Latin Words 8vo	1	0
Vocal Parts	2	0

SCHUBERT.

*SONG OF MIRIAM, THE. (Op. 136.) A Cantata for Soprano Solo and Chorus.
(Sol-fa, 6d.) 8vo, paper cover	1	0
Vocal Parts, 8vo, each	0	6
Book of Words (per 100)	5	0

SPOHR.

*GOD, THOU ART GREAT. (Sol-fa, 6d.)	1	0
Vocal Parts, each	0	6

*Orchestral parts can be had of those marked .

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

A LIST OF SELECTED CHORAL WORKS PUBLISHED BY

BREITKOPF AND HÄRTEL

London: 54, Great Marlborough Street, W.

EUGEN D'ALBERT.

MAN AND LIFE.

A Short Choral Work for two Soprani, Contralto, Tenor, and two Bassi, with Orchestral or Organ Accompaniment.

Vocal Score, 2s. | Orchestral Parts, 9s. 4d.
Full Orchestral Score, 5s. | Extra Parts, each, 4d.

ALBERT BECKER.

LORD, HOW LONG?

Cantata, based upon the words of the 13th Psalm, ending with the Chorale "In God will I confide." For Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Bass Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra.

Vocal Score, 3s. | Orchestral Parts, 6s. 8d.
Full Orchestral Score, 9s. | Extra Parts, each, 4d.
Organ Part, 1s. 6d.

ALBERT BECKER.

SACRED DIALOGUE FROM THE 16TH CENTURY.

For Contralto Solo, Chorus, and Organ.

Vocal Score, 1s.

ALBERT BECKER.

HALLELUJAH! PRAISE YE THE LORD.

A Thanksgiving Cantata, for Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Bass Solo, Chorus and Orchestra.

Vocal Score, 3s. 6d. | Orchestral Parts, 8s. 4d.
Full Orchestral Score, 9s. | Extra Parts, each, 4d.
Organ Part, 1s. 6d.

L. V. BEETHOVEN.

CHORAL SYMPHONY.

New English Version by the Rev. W. T. Southward.

Vocal Score, 2s. | Orchestral Parts, 18s.
Full Orchestral Score, 12s. | Extra Parts, each, 8d.

As performed at the Hereford Festival, 1900.

London Musical Courier: "... Certainly the new translation by the Rev. W. T. Southward of Schiller's 'Hymn to gladness' may be pronounced an improvement on that formerly in use, in that it is an abler exposition of the poet's lofty thoughts, and more singable."

H. BERLIOZ.

FAUST.

New English Version by John Bernhoff.

Vocal Score (in preparation) | Orchestral Parts, 52s.
Full Orchestral Score, 40s. | Extra Parts, each, 1s. 4d.

H. BERLIOZ.

REQUIEM

(Grande Messe des Morts).

Vocal Score (Latin words), 3s. (Edited by P. Scharwenka) | Orchestral Parts, 20s. 8d.
Full Orchestral Score, 15s. | Extra Parts, each, 8d.

MAX BRUCH.

THE LAY OF THE NORSEMEN.

A Cantata for Baritone Solo and Male Voices, with Orchestral Accompaniment.

English Version by Dr. Robert P. White.

Vocal Score, 1s. 6d. | Orchestral Parts, 7s. 8d.
Full Orchestral Score, 4s. | Extra Parts, each, 4d.

WILLIAM BYRD.

MASS IN D MINOR.

For Soprano, Contralto, two Tenors, and Bass.
Edited by W. Barclay Squire and William Terry.
Vocal Score (Latin words), 3s. net.
Performed at the Birmingham Festival, 1900, with great success.

M. ESPOSITO.

DEIRDRE.

Prize Cantata, for Soprano, Tenor, and Baritone Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra.

Vocal Score, 3s.
Full Score and Orchestral Parts on hire.

CESAR FRANCK.

THE ONE HUNDRED & FIFTIETH PSALM.

An Anthem for Chorus, Orchestra, and Organ.

Vocal Score, 1s. 6d. | Orchestral Parts, 8s. 4d.
Full Orchestral Score, 4s. | Extra Parts, each, 4d.
Organ Part, 1s. 6d.

AUG. HAMERICK.

HARVEST DANCE.

A Cantata for Female Voices, with Orchestral Accompaniment.

Vocal Score, 3s. | Orchestral Parts, 5s. 4d.
Full Orchestral Score, 6s. | Extra Parts, each, 4d.

HEINRICH HOFMANN.

BLESSED ARE THE DEAD.

A Sacred Cantata for Contralto Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra.

Vocal Score, 4s. | Orchestral Parts, 7s. 8d.
Full Orchestral Score, 9s. | Extra Parts, each, 4d.
Organ Part, 1s. 6d.

L. NICODÉ.

THE SEA.

An Ode for Tenor Solo, Male Chorus, and Orchestra.

Vocal Score, 6s. | Orchestral Parts, 37s.
Full Orchestral Score, 24s. | Extra Parts, each, 1s.

F. SCHUBERT.

MIRIAM'S SONG OF TRIUMPH.

For Soprano Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra.
New English Version by Olga L. Sturm.
Orchestration by Felix Mottl.

Vocal Score, 1s. | Orchestral Parts, 11s. 8d.
Full Orchestral Score, 6s. | Extra Parts, each, 4d.

As performed at the Chester Festival, 1900.

EDGAR TINEL.

FRANCISCUS.

An Oratorio for Solo Voices, Chorus, Organ, and Orchestra.

Vocal Score, 16s. | Full Orchestral Score, 60s.
Vocal Parts, each, 1s. 6d. | String Parts, each, 6s.
Wind Parts, on hire.

Complete Catalogues of Orchestral Music, Choral Works, Songs, Organ and Chamber Music, Pianoforte and Instrumental Music, Popular Edition, &c., sent Post-Free on application.

Breitkopf and Härtel have been awarded the GRAND PRIX (Highest Possible Award) at the PARIS EXHIBITION, 1900.

VALUABLE VIOLINS.

MESSRS. PUTTICK & SIMPSON'S

NEXT SALE

OF

VALUABLE VIOLINS, VIOLAS, VIOLONCELLOS, all of which are guaranteed genuine as described in catalogue

WILL TAKE PLACE

THE LAST WEEK IN NOVEMBER.

Amateurs and others having Instruments they wish to dispose of are requested to communicate with the Auctioneers,

MESSRS. PUTTICK & SIMPSON,

THE REYNOLDS GALLERIES,

47, LEICESTER SQUARE, LONDON.

TOILERS OF THE DEEP

CANTATA

FOR FEMALE VOICES

Verse by JAMES STRANG

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"A delightful work, replete with artistic workmanship, and, above all, melodious and expressive."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

Price Two Shillings.
Words, Five Shillings per hundred.

THE LEGEND OF THE WOOD

A JUVENILE OPERETTA

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price One Shilling.
Words, Four Shillings per hundred.

THE ELFIN HILL

AN OPERETTA FOR SCHOOL USE

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"'The Elfin Hill' is founded on one of Hans Andersen's charming stories, and the libretto has been written in dainty and graceful language by Miss Baldwick. The operetta opens with a short overture describing moonlight on the Dovrefeld Mountains, and Mr. Gaul has been particularly happy in infusing the Norse spirit into that portion of his music which deals with goblin life in Norway. When the goblins become visitors in fairyland, the character of the music changes; lightness is its predominant feature, perhaps the choicest fragment being a fairy dance. This latter, together with a very characteristic dance of elves and a shadow dance, were beautifully executed."—Birmingham Gazette.

Price Two Shillings.
Words, Seven Shillings and Sixpence per hundred.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE

MUSICAL DISCOVERY

OF THE

19TH CENTURY.

NEW VIOLINS VOICED.
OLD AND WORN VIOLINS REVOICED.

THE OLD CREMONA MASTERS' SECRET RECOVERED.

New or worn Violins can now be brought to their perfection without the aid of injurious processes, or alterations, additions to, or subtractions from the instrument. The setting up and stringing even untouched.

AN ASTOUNDING FACT.

A SENSATION FOR ALL VIOLINISTS.

First Edition of pamphlet, containing particulars of this wonderful recovery, now ready, and will be sent, post-free, on receipt of address.

CROWTHER AND RIGBY,

14, PROSPECT PARK, EXETER.

Sole London Agent: E. WITHERS, 22, Wardour Street, London.
Wanted, Agents in the North of England, Scotland, and Ireland.

MESSRS. NOVELLO having just published an Engraved Edition of the

FULL SCORE

OF

HIAWATHA'S WEDDING-FEAST

BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR

AT 25S. NET

Beg to offer the remaining Stock of the Auto-Lithographed Edition of the work (148 pp., large folio) at the reduced rate of

TEN SHILLINGS NET

(No discount to the Trade or Profession).

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

HIAWATHA'S WEDDING-FEAST

AND

THE DEATH OF MINNEHAHA

COMPOSED BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

FULL SCORES. Price 25s. each.

In the Press.

FULL SCORE of "HIAWATHA'S DEPARTURE."

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Composed by request for the Gloucester Orpheus Society, and performed at the Hereford Triennial Musical Festival, September 14, 1900.

LOVE'S PHILOSOPHY

A FOUR-PART SONG FOR MEN'S VOICES

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

H. GODWIN CHANCE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

A. HERBERT BREWER.

Price Fourpence.

"Very pretty and expressive."—The Times.
"A very musicianly piece."—Daily Telegraph.
"Is of soft flowing character."—Morning Post.
"Refined rendering of Part-songs by the Gloucester Orpheus Society, under the careful direction of Mr. A. Herbert Brewer, whose smooth flowing 'Love's Philosophy' was composed expressly for the occasion."—The Athenæum.
"A very pleasant and refined part-song."—Yorkshire Post.
"The Gloucester Orpheus Society sang several part-songs with the greatest possible success, one of the best being 'Love's Philosophy,' a clever composition by the conductor."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.
"A very tasteful little composition."—Birmingham Daily Post.
"A charming piece."—Bristol Times and Mirror.
"An effective new part-song, 'Love's Philosophy,' composed by the conductor, Mr. A. Herbert Brewer."—The Queen.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME. Popular Negro Melody, with vocally-imitated Banjo Accompaniment. Arranged for T.T.B.B. (Tenor Solo), by T. B. BLACKSHAW. Eleventh Edition. Price 2d. London: WEEKES AND CO., 14, Hanover Street, W.

Sixth Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat. By WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d. London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ROMANCE IN G

FOR

VIOLIN SOLO AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

(Op. 39.)

ARRANGED FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE BY

THEOPHIL WENDT.

Price Two Shillings.
String Parts, Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Played by the Queen's Hall Orchestra, London.
Conductor, Mr. HENRY J. WOOD.

AIR DE BALLET

FOR

STRING ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

PERCY PITT.

FULL SCORE.
Price Two Shillings.
Orchestral Parts, Sixpence each; Three Shillings the set.
Arrangement for VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE,
Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Arrangement for PIANOFORTE SOLO,
Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TWELVE PIECES

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

J. STAINER.

BOOK 1.

1. Andante.
2. Prelude and Fughetta.
3. Adagio.
4. On a Bass.
5. Impromptu.
6. Reverie.

JUST PUBLISHED.

BOOK 2.

7. Andante Pathétique.
8. Præludium Pastorale.
9. A Church Prelude.
10. Introduction and Fughetta.
11. Fantasia.
12. Finale alla Marcia.

Price Four Shillings each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SCHOOL MARCHES

ARRANGED FOR

PIANOFORTE SOLO.

BOOK I.—CONTENTS.

Bridal March from the Opera "Lohengrin" (Wagner).
British Grenadiers, The.
Cock o' the North, The.
Cornelius March (Mendelssohn).
Empire March (National Tunes, arranged).
Huntsmen's Chorus, from "Der Freischütz" (Weber).
Let the hills resound (Richards).
March from "Masaniello" (Auber).
March of the Men of Harlech.
March from the "Occasional" Oratorio (Handel).
March from the Opera "Scipio" (Handel).
Onward, Christian soldiers (Sullivan).
Rákoczy March.
Victoria, our Queen (Barnby).
Yankee Doodle.

Price One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

GUIDE to WAGNER'S NIBELUNGENRING

"THE EPIC OF SOUNDS"

By FREDA WINWORTH.

The Musical Times says: "Just the kind of résumé Wagnerian pilgrims should put into their pockets."

Third Edition. Price 3s. 6d.

London: Simpkin and Co., Limited, and Novello and Co., Limited.

WEBSTER'S CHILD'S PRIMER OF THE THEORY OF MUSIC.

One Shilling.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Second Edition.

NARCISSUS AND ECHO

CANTATA FOR CHORUS, SOLI, AND ORCHESTRA

Price 3s.; Choral Parts, 1s. each. Also,

"GOD IS OUR REFUGE" (Ps. 46)

For Chorus, Soli, and Orchestra. Price 1s.

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN C. SUCH,

Mus. Bac., Cantab.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

SHEET MUSIC.

A SPECIAL JOB LINE OF SONGS, PIECES, AND DANCES, Chiefly 4s. and 3s. Copies, all clean and saleable, 250 mixed for 21s.; sample parcel of eight copies, Post-free, 1s.

WILLIAM LEA, 50 and 52, Church Street, Liverpool.

Just Published.

THE

BRITISH AFRICAN GAVOTTE

Allegretto, Scherzando, e Staccato

PIANOFORTE SOLO

ALSO

ORCHESTRAL PARTS

COMPOSED BY

G. JENNINGS-BURNETT.

INSCRIBED TO THE

British Columbian Fifth Regiment Artillery Volunteers for the Transvaal War, who fought so bravely at Paardeberg, &c.

Vide Press:—"Replete with delightful staccato strains, a very melodious piano solo, also an effective organ recital number."—The Times.

". . . Its airy allegressimo passages are bright, catchy, and extremely pleasing; somewhat reminiscent in parts to the popular gavotte Mignon.'"

Price Two Shillings net.

London: Weekes and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: Clayton F. Summy Co., 220, Wabash Avenue.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS. By A. B. Allen.
"Tom, the Piper's son." S.A.T.B. Price 3d.
"Dickory, dickory, dock." S.A.T.B. Price 4d.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

D'YE KEN JOHN PEEL. Part-Song. Arranged from the original hunting song by the Composer. Price 6d.
W. Metcalfe, 33, Chiswick Street, Carlisle.

Fourth Thousand.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in G. By Alfred J. Dye. Price 4d.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

DEDICATED TO THE RIGHT HON. THE LORD MAYOR, SIR ALFRED J. NEWTON, BART.

Just Published.

A

WELCOME TO THE C.I.V.

SONG

With Chorus, S.A.T.B., ad lib.

WORDS BY

DEAN HOLE

MUSIC BY

W. H. CUMMINGS,

Mus. Doc., Principal of the Guildhall School of Music.

In D and B flat.
Price Two Shillings each.
String Parts (in the Press); Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published.

Sung by Madame Albani, Madame Lilian Blauvelt, Miss Evangeline Florence, and Miss Helen Jaxon.

SPRING HAD COME

SONG

(With English and German Words)

FROM THE SONG OF HIAWATHA

By H. W. Longfellow

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

Price Two Shillings.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

SUNG AT A UNITED CHILDREN'S SERVICE IN EXETER CATHEDRAL, June 28, A.D. 1900.

CHILDREN'S MISSIONARY HYMN

FOR

S.P.G. BICENTENARY CELEBRATIONS

BY

S. CHILDS-CLARKE

(Vicar of Thorverton, Devon)

MUSIC BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Penny. Words, 3s. per hundred.
London: Novello and Company, Limited.

THE BRITISH GRENADIERS

HARMONIZED AS A

PART-SONG FOR MALE VOICES.

Price Threepence.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Just Published. 8vo, 3d.

THE CUCKOO CLOCK

HUMOROUS PART-SONG FOR S.A.T.B.

COMPOSED BY

W. W. PEARSON.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes, as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London: Novello and Company, Limited.

NEW ANTHEM, by Sir Herbert Oakeley, in reference to approaching CLOSE of the WAR, "Sing, O Daughter of Zion." London: Schott and Co.; or, from the Composer, Dover. Octavo, 1s.

PRODUCED AT THE BIRMINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL, OCTOBER 3, 1900

THE DREAM OF GERONTIUS

BY

CARDINAL NEWMAN

SET TO MUSIC FOR

MEZZO-SOPRANO, TENOR, AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

Paper boards, 4s.; cloth, gilt, 5s. Vocal Parts, 1s. 6d. each. String Parts (in the Press).
Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

THE TIMES.

In a work so elaborately disposed for voices and orchestra it is impossible to do more than point out certain parts that call for special commendation. The choir is divided into semi-chorus and full chorus, and some of the concerted numbers in which these are used antiphonally or together are in the highest degree successful. A kind of litany sung by the "assistants" at the death-bed, with the lovely recurrence of "Amen," is beautiful and impressive, and the commentatory utterance of the priest, "Proficiscere, anima Christiana," is worked up into a really splendid climax.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

"The Dream of Gerontius" advances its composer's claim to rank amongst the musicians of whom the country should be proudest.

STANDARD.

The design and scoring of this Prelude are singularly clear and rational, and its effect is most impressive. . . . The second portion opens with a short but beautiful movement intended to suggest the peace of the Soul as it is borne through space. The next few pages of the score are occupied by music of fascinating grace and tranquillity, in which the Soul and its Guardian Angel converse on their way to the Judgment. . . . The conclusion of the work soon follows, and consists of a beautiful and finely-written chorus, with super-imposed solo part for the Angel, expressive of the serenity of the Blessed.

MORNING POST.

"The Dream of Gerontius" is a composition in which are revealed very great qualities, imagination and poetical feeling, besides a remarkable capacity in dealing with the resources of the orchestra.

DAILY NEWS.

That "Gerontius" shows Mr. Elgar in a stronger light as a musician and a thinker than anything he has before done will be generally admitted. Sometimes, indeed, the work reveals real genius. . . . From first to last it is stamped with sincerity, with true religious fervour.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

"The Dream of Gerontius" presents Mr. Elgar as a musician whose power of expression is equal to his faculty of imagination. There are passages in the work, particularly at the beginning of the second part, that whether as regards endeavour to suggest the mysteries of a future state or mastery of the technical attributes of the highest form of music would reflect credit upon the greatest composers of the past. . . . The end is worthy the beginning. Higher commendation could not be bestowed upon this musical embellishment of one of the most thoughtful poems published during the century.

DAILY GRAPHIC.

Mr. Elgar has dealt with his lofty theme in a thoroughly legitimate and artistic manner. For the most part he has avoided anything like an attempt to depict the actual scenes through which the soul of Gerontius passes. He suggests rather than illustrates. He appeals to the imagination rather than to the senses of his hearers. Herein he shows a true appreciation of the limitations of art, and his discretion has carried him securely through difficulties which at first sight might seem insurmountable. . . . The "Dream of Gerontius" has a right to be called a masterpiece. Such passages as the solo of The Angel of the Agony and the whole of the closing scene—to mention only two of the many noble passages in the work—bear the indisputable stamp of genius. Here we find a lofty inspiration allied with technical ability to a degree such as is within the powers of very few living composers.

WESTMINSTER GAZETTE.

The finest example of the modern British school. . . . His choruses are effective and some of them quite genius-like in their sincerity. His orchestra discourses eloquently, and his themes are striking. To the full he has carried out the realism of Newman's poem; to the full he has conveyed the tenderness underlying it. . . . In its way, it is certainly a masterpiece.

ATHENÆUM.

The great chorus and semi-chorus of female voices, "Praise to the Holiest in the height," in which there are some magnificent moments, such as the section "Glory to Him," and after the più mosso, which is worked up with great intensity, the massive burst of sound when all voices and instruments unite in a pæan of praise to the Holiest. . . . The concluding Andante tranquillo, for solo (the Angel), chorus and semi-chorus of Angelicals, and chorus of Souls, is a marvel of beauty, tenderness, and serenity. . . . A work into which a composer has put his whole strength of heart and head; it is one, indeed, that deserves and demands many hearings.

MORNING LEADER.

We heard enough of his work to appreciate it as the finest achievement of British music.

GLOBE.

There can be no question that the work is one of great power, full of beauty. . . . Especially beautiful is the final scene of the entrance of the soul of Gerontius into Purgatory. The solo of the Angel, "Softly and gently, dearly-ransomed soul," with its accompaniment of whispered chorus of souls in Purgatory, and its echoes of the Angelical Hymn, is admirably conceived and carried out with consummate art. If it was only for these pages the "Dream of Gerontius" would entitle its composer to a very high place among contemporary musicians. Their exquisite pathos is alone sufficient to make the present Festival memorable.

PALL MALL GAZETTE.

I am about to speak words which may seem exuberant and enthusiastic; but I have thought over them carefully before setting them down for the public eye, and I will venture to say that, since the death of Wagner, no finer composition (I am quite remembering Tschaïkowsky and his great Symphonies) has been given to the world. I am proud that Mr. Elgar is an Englishman, for he has justified Purcell's early career; in a word, he has produced a genuine masterpiece.

GUARDIAN.

The many points of interest and beauty with which the work abounds will secure for it a place among the most remarkable productions of English music. The chorus "Be merciful, be gracious," is the first which displays the composer's fine sense of choral effect and his notable skill in part-writing; but more remarkable still is the elaborate passage which occurs just before the death of Gerontius. . . . Then follows the noble commendation of the departing soul by the priest, which is taken up fortissimo by the whole chorus at the words, "Go, in the name of Angels," with thrilling effect, and gradually worked up to a solemn and impressive climax. . . . At the words of the Angel, "Softly and gently, dearly ransomed soul," a melody of haunting loveliness is introduced, enriched with fine harmonies and delicate orchestration. Soon the chorus enter with a softly breathed chant in unison, which, gradually gathering in volume and intensity, ascends to a climax of the noblest beauty.

YORKSHIRE POST.

There can be no doubt that it is the most powerful and profound utterance of one of the most individual composers. . . . It is a noble work, and in nearly every respect indicates an advance on all Mr. Elgar has done before. . . . The simple touching beauty of the actual departure of Gerontius is quite incapable of description; as of the highest efforts of art, it can only be said that it is just right; how or why one neither knows nor cares. . . . The last passage to which attention must be called is among the most beautiful in the whole work. It is that in which the Angel plunges the soul of Gerontius into the waters of Purgatory, and is instinct with a tender and serene beauty that is incapable of analysis, but carries immediate conviction.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited
AND
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Printed by Novello and Company, Ltd., at the Novello Works, Soho, and published at 1, Berners St. (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen St. (E.C.).
Sold also by Simpkin, Marshall, Hamilton, Kent and Co., Ltd., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Thursday, November 1, 1900.

WITHDRAWAL of SPECIAL PRICES.

MESSRS. NOVELLO & CO. beg leave to announce that by arrangement with Messrs. Macmillan & Co. the special prices hereunder mentioned will be withdrawn

ON FEBRUARY 1, 1901

on which day the price of the complete Dictionary, in Cloth binding, will be £4 4s. 0d.

Consequently no orders received after that date can be entertained at the reduced terms now offered.

GROVE'S DICTIONARY OF MUSIC

(1450-1889)

ILLUSTRATED, FOUR VOLUMES, WITH INDEX

BY

EMINENT WRITERS, ENGLISH AND FOREIGN

UNDER THE EDITORSHIP OF THE LATE

SIR GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

ASSISTED IN THE SUPPLEMENT

BY

J. A. FULLER MAITLAND.

PRICES OF THE FOUR VOLUMES

UNTIL FEBRUARY 1, 1901, ONLY.

Previously published, ONLY IN CLOTH, at £4 11s. 6d.

CLOTH BINDING, £2 0s. 0d. HALF MOROCCO, £3 0s. 0d. FULL MOROCCO, £4 0s. 0d.

Should the purchaser desire to take advantage of the instalment system, he can obtain the complete Book on payment of a deposit of 7s. (Cloth), 13s. (Half Morocco), or 24s. (Full Morocco); and must then complete the transaction by five monthly payments of 7s., 10s., or 12s. respectively, the first of which becomes due on receipt of the book.

 This Special Issue, it should be observed, is only of a temporary character, and it is not to be regarded as implying the early appearance of an entirely new edition of the Dictionary, which, as a matter of fact, Messrs. Novello and Co. are authorized to say that Messrs. Macmillan and Co. have not in preparation.

Copies of the book may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W., and 80 & 81, Queen Street, E.C. An explanatory pamphlet, giving a full description of Contents, a List of Contributors, and a Catalogue of the Articles contributed by each writer, with specimen pages and illustrations, and an order form will be sent Post-free on application.

[AN ORDER FORM WILL BE FOUND IN THIS PAPER.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

C. BECHSTEIN

PIANOFORTE MANUFACTURER

BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN,
H.M. THE EMPEROR OF GERMANY,
H.M. THE CZAR OF RUSSIA,
H.M. THE KING OF SPAIN,
H.R.H. THE PRINCESS LOUISE,
H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG-GOTHA,
ETC. ETC.

The World's Greatest Pianists prefer the Bechstein Piano to any other.

LISZT writes:..... "For twenty-eight years I have now used your Pianos, and they have maintained their superiority. Your Instruments are perfect."

RUBINSTEIN writes: ..... "At my Concerts I use BECHSTEIN'S Pianos almost exclusively. C. BECHSTEIN has attained the utmost degree of perfection in the art of instrument making."

VON BÜLOW writes: ..... "C. BECHSTEIN'S Instruments are distinguished by their superior quality in every branch of Pianoforte manufacture."

CARL TAUSIG writes: ..... "I play in public everywhere only on Mr. BECHSTEIN'S Pianofortes, because I regard them as the very best Instruments I know."

LESCHETIZKY writes:..... "The BECHSTEIN Piano is of the same importance to the pianist as a Stradivarius is to the violinist."

MOSZKOWSKI writes: ..... "By BECHSTEIN the last word in Pianoforte manufacture has been said."

EUGEN D'ALBERT writes: "My best teachers and dearest friends are the BECHSTEIN Grands."

SOPHIE MENTER writes: "BECHSTEIN, the King of all Pianoforte Manufacturers."

STAVENHAGEN writes: ... "I do not know of any other Pianoforte besides yours which, in tone and touch, affords the player facilities so exquisite and ideal."

JOSEF HOFMANN writes: "The BECHSTEIN Piano possesses greater poetry of tone, and resembles the human voice more than any other instrument. It is the realisation of my ideal of a Piano, and the only one on which I can express all I feel."

VLADIMIR DE PACHMANN writes: "To me it is the height of joy to play on these Instruments, then alone can I become one with the Piano and revel in pure music and poetry. The beauty of tone of a 'BECHSTEIN' Piano I can only compare with that of a Stradivarius String Quartet."

BUSONI writes: ..... "Your Pianos are as regards beauty of tone and evenness, precision and delicacy of touch the acme of what can be produced in this art."

BECHSTEIN PIANOS

40, WIGMORE STREET, LONDON, W.

Printed by NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Ltd., at the Novello Works, Soho, and published at 1, Berners St. (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen St. (E.C.). Sold also by SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, HAMILTON, KENT AND CO., Ltd., Paternoster Row (E.C.).—Thursday, November 1, 1900.

No. 694

THE MUSICAL TIMES

Price 4d.

DECEMBER 1, 1900.

The Best English Upright Pianos are

THE

"CHALLEN" PIANOS

Testimonials from the Greatest English Musicians, including:—

SIR JOHN STAINER, SIR GEORGE MARTIN,
FRANKLIN TAYLOR, C. HARFORD LLOYD,
FREDERIC H. COWEN, ALFRED GILBERT,
JOHN FRANCIS BARNETT, FREDERIC LAMOND,
FREDERIC CLIFFE, W. H. CUMMINGS,

And other Eminent Members of the Musical World.

HIGHEST INTERNATIONAL AWARDS, 1862, 1877, 1878, 1881, 1886, 1895, 1897.

CHALLEN & SON, 46, Oxford Street, London, W.

ESTABLISHED 1804.

NOTICE OF REMOVAL.

J. & J. HOPKINSON, Ltd.,

PIANOFORTE MANUFACTURERS

(Established 1835),

Have Removed from Margaret St., Cavendish Square to

84, NEW BOND ST., and 325, OXFORD ST., W.,

Where a Large and Varied Stock of their World-Famed Pianofortes may be seen.

J. & J. Hopkinson's Retail Show-Rooms are—

84, New Bond Street, W.;
325, Oxford Street, W.;
102, Brompton Road, S.W.;
241, High Road, Kilburn, N.W.

Rooms for Practice at all the above Establishments. Terms on application.

Factory and Registered Office: FITZROY ROAD, PRIMROSE HILL, N.W.

Messrs. BEARE AND SON,

34, RATHBONE PLACE,
LONDON, W.,

INVITE AN INSPECTION OF THEIR UNRIVALLED COLLECTION OF OLD VIOLINS, TENORS, CELLOS, AND DOUBLE BASSES.

Sole Wholesale Agents for JAMES TUBBS'S celebrated Bows.

TOY INSTRUMENTS AND MUSIC

for the performance of Toy Symphonies, from 18s. 6d. per set, including Music. Lists sent on application.

HARPS

bought, sold, or taken in exchange.

REPAIRS of every kind of Musical Instrument executed promptly by experienced workmen.

Newly Revised and Illustrated Catalogue free.

MERCHANTS, SHIPPERS, AND THE TRADE SUPPLIED.

BEARE AND SON,
34, RATHBONE PLACE, LONDON, W.

Messrs. PLEYEL, WOLFF, LYON & CO.

DESIRE TO ANNOUNCE

THEY HAVE NOW SUCCEEDED IN CONSTRUCTING

THE

PLEYEL REVERSED PIANO

A SHORT GRAND

With the BENT side to the LEFT of the INSTRUMENT

THUS ENABLING A GRAND TO BE PLACED AGAINST EITHER WALL OF A ROOM, WITH THE KEYBOARD FACING EITHER WAY.

79 & 80, BAKER STREET,
AND
51, GEORGE ST., PORTMAN SQUARE, W.

CHAPPELL PIANOS.

AMERICAN ORGANS (by Clough & Warren) from 6 Guineas.
HARMONIUMS (by Alexandre) . . . from 7 Guineas.

Their latest creations of high-class English Pianos are unquestionably the finest that have ever been produced either by an English or Continental maker. Pianinos, 25 Guineas; Full Cottages, 40 Guineas; Upright Grands, 50 Guineas; Horizontal Grands, 135 Guineas. Hire or Instalment system. Illustrated List Post-free. Established 1808.

CHAPPELL & CO., Ltd. { Pianoforte Manufacturers, } 50, New Bond St., London, W.

THE TEACHERS' CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY SESSION
OF THE
VIRGIL PIANO SCHOOL WILL BE HELD DURING JANUARY, 1901,
AT CLAVIER HALL, HANOVER SQUARE, LONDON, W.
CIRCULAR FREE FROM SECRETARY.

N.B.—Term begins Monday, January 7, 1901. Closes, Saturday, January 19.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 694.—Vol. 41. Registered for transmission abroad. DECEMBER 1, 1900. Price 4*d.*; Postage, 1½*d.* Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5*s.*

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,
ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

Conductor: Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus.D.

THURSDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 6, AT 8.
HANDEL'S
"JUDAS MACCABÆUS"

Artists:
Miss ESTHER PALLISER.
Miss MAGGIE PURVIS.
Madame BELLE COLE.
Mr. CHARLES SAUNDERS.
Mr. WILLIAM FELL.
Mr. WATKIN MILLS.

BAND AND CHORUS, ONE THOUSAND.

Organist: Mr. H. L. BALFOUR.

HANDEL'S "MESSIAH"
(With Handel's Original Accompaniments)
ON TUESDAY, JANUARY 1, 1901, AT 8.
Artists:
Madame ALBANI.
Madame BELLE COLE.
Mr. WILLIAM GREEN.
Mr. WATKIN MILLS.

Prices: Stalls, 7s. 6d.; Arena, 6s.; Balcony (Reserved), 5s.; (Unreserved), 4s.; Gallery (Promenade), 1s.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,
TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.

Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus. Doc., F.R.A.M.

Lent Term begins Monday, January 7. Entrance, January 3, at 2.
Lectures by J. A. Fuller Maitland, Esq., on "The Development of Pianoforte Technique in the XIX. Century," Wednesdays, December 5 and 12, at 3.15.
Orchestral Concert, at Queen's Hall, Thursday, December 13, at 3.
George Mence Smith Scholarship for Male Vocalists. Last day for entry, December 14.
Prospectus, Entry Forms, and all information may be obtained from the Secretary.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The Christmas F.R.C.O. Examination commences on January 7, 1901. The solo-playing tests are: Con Moto in B flat, H. Smart, No. 1 of Five Organ Pieces in various styles (Ashdown). Fantasie and Fugue, No. 3, in D minor, J. Schneider (Breitkopf and Härtel, Novello and Co., Augener and Co.). Sonata for the Organ, No. 4, Op. 31, A. G. Ritter (Novello and Co; Augener and Co.).
The A.R.C.O. Examination commences on January 14.
All candidates, including those claiming exemption from fee, must send in their names for FELLOWSHIP by December 21, for ASSOCIATESHIP by December 29. In the case of new Members, proposal forms, duly filled up, must be sent in before December 21. No names will be entered after the dates hereby announced.
The College Library is open daily from 10 to 5. On Saturdays the College is open from 10 to 1.
Members desiring practice on the College organ may obtain particulars on application.
The large Hall, and sundry smaller rooms, can be hired for Concerts, Meetings, &c.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

ST. ANNE, Soho.—BACH RECITALS.—E. H. Thorne, Saturdays, December 1 and 8, 3.30 p.m.

MR. ROBERT
NEWMAN'S CONCERTS,
1900-1901,
QUEEN'S HALL,
LANGHAM PLACE, W.

ROBERT NEWMAN'S
QUEEN'S HALL ORCHESTRA.

CONDUCTOR:
MR. HENRY J. WOOD.

PRINCIPAL VIOLIN .. .. MR. ARTHUR W. PAYNE.
ACCOMPANIST .. .. MR. PERCY PITT.

SYMPHONY CONCERTS.
QUEEN'S HALL.
1900—Dec. 8, at 3 p.m.
QUEEN'S HALL.
1901—Jan. 26; Feb. 9; March 2, 16, at 3 p.m.

THE SUNDAY CONCERT SOCIETY'S
SUNDAY AFTERNOON CONCERTS
Every Sunday Afternoon at 3.30.

CHEVALIER'S RECITALS,
Daily at 3; Thursdays and Saturdays, 3 and 8.30.

CHRISTMAS DAY CONCERT,
December 25, 1900, at 3.30 p.m.

ASH WEDNESDAY CONCERT,
February 20, 1901, at 3 p.m.

GOOD FRIDAY CONCERTS,
April 5, 1901, at 3 and 7.30 p.m.

LONDON MUSICAL FESTIVAL, 1901,
April 29 to May 4.

Particulars of the above Concerts, when ready, may be obtained at
MR. ROBERT NEWMAN'S BOX OFFICE,
Queen's Hall, Langham Place, W.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.—

Estab. by the Corporation of London, 1880.—Principal: William H. Cummings, Esq., Mus.D., Dub., F.S.A. Lessons daily, 8.30 a.m. to 8.30 p.m. Every branch of Vocal and Instrumental Music. Students trained for Opera and Drama in the new Theatre. Prospectus on application. By order of the Committee, HILTON CARTER, Secretary.
Victoria Embankment, E.C. (near Blackfriars Bridge).

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in Durham in March and September.
For particulars, with copies of former Examination Papers, apply to the Secretary of Examinations, or to Dr. Armes, Durham.

BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND INSTITUTE.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Principal .. .. .. Granville Bantock.

The Session consists of Autumn Term (September 17—December 22); Winter Term (January 21—March 30); Summer Term (April 1—June 22).
Instruction in all branches of music. Students' Choir, Students' Orchestra, Fortnightly Rehearsals, Students' Concerts.
Prospectus and further information may be obtained from
ALFRED HAYES, Secretary.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

(Under the direction of The Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.)

INCORPORATED 1891.

Hon. Patron: His Grace the Duke of Argyll.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L. (Principal).
George Prior, Mus. Doc., Oxon., F.R.C.O. (Registrar).
J. M. Bentley, Mus. Doc., Cantab., Hon. F.R.A.M.
(Chairman of the Board).

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

Director of Studies: Churchill Sibley, Mus.D.

West-End Premises: 42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W.
First-class instruction in all musical subjects. Moderate terms.
Metropolitan Examination in all subjects, including the Diplomas of A.V.C.M., L.V.C.M., and F.V.C.M., commencing December 6, 1900.
Local Theoretical Examinations, December 6, 1900.
Practical Examinations are now being held at the various centres.
Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals are offered for competition.
Local Secretaries required for towns not already represented.
All communications to be addressed as usual to the Central Office, 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.
GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS,

42, Berners Street, Oxford Street, London, W.

Patron: His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury.
President: The Very Rev. Francis Pigou, D.D., Dean of Bristol.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examination, in November and December, at the following Centres: London, Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Bristol, Leicester, Leeds, Glasgow, and Belfast.
Annual Membership Subscription, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.
The new Calendar is sent (Post-free) for six stamps.
Free register for Organists requiring appointments.
Annual Banquet and Conference, January 28, 1901.
For further particulars, apply to
Dr. LEWIS, Silvermead, Twickenham, S.W.

NATIONAL CONSERVATOIRE

MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS.

Established 1895.] [Incorporated 1900.
Under the direction of the National Conservatoire of Music, Limited.
Warden: Professor ALEXANDER PHIPPS, Mus. Bac.
Local Examinations in Pianoforte, Singing, Violin, and all Instruments, and in Theory, Harmony, and Counterpoint will be held in London and Principal Cities, commencing December 10. Fees, 6s. to One Guinea. The Council annually award Gold, Silver, and Bronze Medals. The following and other Examiners will visit the various Centres:—Signor Tito Mattei, Mons. Jacques Haakman, and Professor Alexander Phipps, Mus. Bac. Local Representatives are invited for New Centres. Diplomas of Associate, Licentiate, and Fellowship are granted after Examination. Apply, Secretaries, 5, Hardman Street, Liverpool; Victoria Hall, Withington, Manchester; Victoria Hall, Archer Street, London. Educational Department:—Musical Students are received for Tuition in all subjects.

THE NATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

Warden: Dr. Tindall, A.T.C.L. [Ltd.
Local Exams. (four grades), Jan. next; also Diplomas (A.N.C.M., L.N.C.M., F.N.C.M.) and Medals. Last date of entry, Dec. 31.
Educational Department under distinguished Professors.
London Members wanted taking half-fees.
W. J. MOSS, Sec., 192, Sutherland Avenue, W.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS ETHEL BARNARD (Soprano)
(R.A.M. Cert. and Prize-winner). Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
German Songs a specialty. Lessons given.
25, Upper Richmond Road, East Putney, S.W.

MADAME CONWAY (Soprano)
And Teacher of Singing.
444, Moss Lane East, Oxford Road, Manchester.

For recent Press Opinions see this column, M.T. for Oct.
MISS CHARLOTTE DICKENS (Soprano)
(Medalist, R.A.M., Med. Soc. Arts.) Concerts, Oratorio, Opera, &c.
Grove House, Prince of Wales Road, Battersea Park, S.W.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 237, Katherine St., Ashton-under-Lyne; or, care of Miss Joseph, 7A, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

MADAME GOODALL (Soprano)
Oratorios and Concerts.
Burley Road, Leeds.

MISS AMY HARDING (Soprano)
(Of Crystal Palace, St. James's Hall, &c., Concerts).
Recommended by Sir George Grove, W. H. Cummings, Esq., &c.
For critiques, &c., address, 14, Palace Road, Norwood, S.E.

MADAME ANNIE HAYMAN (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Thorncliffe, Lowfield Road, Stockport.

MISS MURIEL LANGSFORD (Soprano)
195, Algernon Road, Lewisham, S.E.

MISS LILIAN TURNBULL (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, At Homes, Banquets, &c.
Address, 10, Cecile Park, Crouch End, N.

MISS KATE WELCH (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c.
Address, 4, Halliwell Street, Cheetham, Manchester.

MISS LILIAN CLOSE (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
9, Hetley Road, Shepherd's Bush, W.

MADAME FLORENCE CROFT (Contralto)
MR. D'ARCY CLAYTON (Tenor)
Suffolk Villa, 142, Junction Road, N.

MISS LUCIE JOHNSTONE (Contralto)
13, Cromwell Grove, West Kensington Park, W.; or, the principal Agents.

MISS ADELAIDE LAMBE (Contralto)
Principal, Peterboro' Triennial Festival, 1898; Sheffield Subscription Concerts, Queen's Hall, Crystal Palace, &c.
For terms and dates, address, 18, Earl's Court Square, S.W.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY, I.S.M. (Contralto)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c.
Address, Miss Sweeney, Vocalist, Armley, Leeds.

MISS ALICE WOLSTENHOLME (Contralto)
Address, Radcliffe, Manchester.

MR. WALTER LE NEAVE
(Solo Alto, St. Paul's Church, Avenue Road, N.W.)
For Church Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, 61, Gayton Road, Hampstead, N.W.

MR. FOLEY BANKS, A.L.A.M. (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
44, St. George's Road, Forest Gate, E.

MR. WRIGHT BEAUMONT (Tenor).
"Mr. Beaumont is a tenor of decided promise."—Daily Telegraph.
"Mr. Beaumont is a most artistic singer."—Morning Leader.
"Mr. Beaumont is a tenor of great promise."—Musical Courier.
"Mr. Beaumont is the possessor of a fine voice."—Musical News.
"Mr. Wright Beaumont's splendid tenor voice was heard to the best possible advantage in the choicest of ballads."—The Era.
Address, 1, Dorothy Road, Lavender Hill, S.W.

MR. J. G. BLANCHARD
(Principal Tenor, Italian Church, Hatton Garden).
"Hiawatha."—"The solo, sung with good effect by Mr. J. G. Blanchard."—Daily Telegraph.
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 41, Savernake Road, N.W.

MR. WALTER DRIVER
(Pupil of William Shakespeare, Esq., London).
Principal Tenor, King's College Chapel, Cambridge.
For Concerts, &c.

MR. CHARLES ELLISON (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Concerts, Lessons. Can provide party.
42, Florence Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS (Tenor)
(Of the Queen's Hall Choral Society Concerts).
Winner of Joseph Maas Memorial Prize, Goldberg Prize, Evill Prize, and Rutson Prize, at the Royal Academy of Music.
Of the Crystal Palace and St. James's Hall Concerts.
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts.
24, Lavender Gardens, Clapham Common, S.W.

MR. PEARCE ROBINSON (Tenor)
Now at liberty for Oratorios, Concerts, and At Homes.
Address, 31, Rathcoole Avenue, Hornsey, N.

MR. BURFORD THORP (Tenor)
(Of St. James's Hall and Queen's Hall Concerts, &c.).
Powerful voice and exceptional compass.
Open for Oratorios and Concerts. 13, Greville Road, Kilburn, N.W.

MR. H. WADSWORTH (Tenor)
(Two years at Milan. Great success.)
English, Italian, French. Equal quality of voice—not throaty.
Perfect enunciation. Satisfaction given or no fee accepted.
St. Ives, Huntingdon.

HERBERT BROWN (Baritone)
Gold and Silver Medalist.
"28, Carlton Hill, N.W.,
"London, Feb., 1900.
"I am happy to say that I had an opportunity of hearing Mr. Herbert Brown sing the bass solos from my 'Ancient Mariner,' and was greatly struck by the beauty of tone and effective character of his voice, as well as his excellent style of singing. I feel sure that a most successful career is before him.
"John Francis Barnett."
For terms, apply, Oakworth, Keighley.

MR. GORDON HELLER (Baritone)
(A.R.C.M., Solo Singing and Teaching Singing).
For Concerts, &c. Address, 1, Craven Mansion, Lancaster Gate, W.

MR. WALTER HELLIWELL (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, 54, King Street, East Rochdale.

MR. GEORGE UTTLEY (Baritone)
(Professional Pupil of Mr. Santley for over two years.)
"Mr. Santley . . . sent an excellent substitute in his pupil, Mr. George Uttley."—Yorkshire Post, Feb. 7, 1900.
Hampden House, Phœnix Street, N.W.

MR. EATON COOTER, A.R.C.M. (Bass)
St. George's Chapel Royal and Her Majesty's Private Chapel, Windsor Castle. Address, The Cloisters, Windsor.

MADAME CLARA NEIMAN, R.A.M.
(Former Pupil of Walter Macfarren).
Concerts, At Homes, &c. Good sight-reader. Lessons.
Highest testimonials. 3, Tolmers Square, N.W.

MISS MARIAN JAY (Solo Violinist)
(Sauret Prize-winner, Bronze and Silver Medals, Certificate, R.A.M.).
Concerts, At Homes, Lessons.
26, Wigmore Street, W., and 5, Hollywood Road, South Kensington.

MISS MARY THYNNE (Violin)
(Pupil of Mr. Alfred Gibson and Professor Wilhelmj)
MISS ANNE THYNNE (Violoncello)
(Pupil of Mr. Whitehouse and Mr. Herbert Walenn)
Give Lessons at 36, Chelsea Gardens and at pupils' residences.
Accept Engagements for At Homes, Solos, and Instrumental Trios.
An ensemble class held weekly.

MISS FLORENCE BROCKBANK (Accompanist)
(Certificated, Guildhall School of Music and Trinity College).
Bandersnatch, 19, Carlisle Road, West Brighton.

MR. J. S. BINNIE (Lyric Author)
60, Cadder Street, Pollokshields, Glasgow.

BEATRICE E. KENT (Lyric Authoress)
Apply, 155, Rye Lane, Peckham, S.E.

MR. EDMUND ROGERS
Revises Musical Compositions. 45, Alma Square, N.W.

NOTE CHANGE OF ADDRESS.
MR. SAMUEL MASTERS (Tenor), from Surbiton, to 54, Alexandra Road, Wimbledon.

MR. WILLIAM WILD (Tenor), of the Sir Charles and Lady Hallé South African Concert tour, 1895 (pupil of Andrew Black, Esq.). Specially recommended by the late Sir Charles Hallé. Numerous re-engagements. Success everywhere. Address, Grosvenor Square, Stalybridge.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass). Oratorios, Concerts. Can provide Quartet. Lessons given. 45, Pentonville Road, London, N.

SIGNOR MATINI (Solo Mandolinist) begs to inform the public that he is open for Concerts, At Homes, &c. Lessons also given. Address, 12, Minford Gardens Mansions, West Kensington.

MISS EMILY DAVIES
(SOPRANO).
Oratorios, Operatic and Ballad Concerts, Banquets, At Homes.
Address, Severn House, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS HONEYBONE
(SOPRANO).
"Miss Honeybone is an artist who possesses a voice of exceptional range. Her rendering of song, 'O divine Redeemer' (Gounod), was a most artistic effort."—Ashton-under-Lyne, Oct., 1899.
41, Hampden Street, Nottingham.

MISS MAGGIE JAQUES
(SOPRANO)
Dec., &c., Engagements:—Dec. 1, Manchester, Ballads; 4, Batley, "Swan and Skylark" and "Hymn of Praise"; 9, Burnley, Rossini's "Stabat Mater"; 10, Wednesbury, "Elijah"; 11, Kilmarnock, Ballads; 13, Pontefract, "Judas"; 18, Sheffield, "St. Paul"; 19, Luton, "Hymn of Praise"; 25, Chesterfield, "Messiah." JAN. 1, 1901, WORKINGTON FESTIVAL, "MESSIAH"; 10, Coventry, "Elijah"; 17, Staleybridge, "Hear my Prayer." FEB. 13, LEEDS CHORAL UNION, DVORÁK'S "STABAT MATER"; 14, Darlington, "Judas." March 13, Cleckheaton, "St. Paul"; 21, BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY, SCHUMANN'S "PARADISE AND PERI"; 29, ABERDEEN CHORAL UNION, "ST. PAUL."
Terms, &c., address, 14, SPRING GARDENS,
BUXTON, DERBYSHIRE.

MADAME ADA LOARING
(SOPRANO)
Pupil of Mr. Sims Reeves and Mr. Albert Visetti.
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts.
18, Halesworth Road, Lewisham, S.E.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.
MISS WINIFRED MARWOOD
(Mrs. Montague Borwell—SOPRANO)
AND
MR. MONTAGUE BORWELL
(BARITONE)
Beg to announce their Change of Address to—56, Forburg Road, Stoke Newington, N.

MISS
KATHERINE NASH, G.S.M.
(SOPRANO).
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
"An excellent soprano vocalist. Has always given thorough satisfaction at the many engagements I have given her as a solo singer."—William H. Cummings, Esq.
Address, 9, Ruskin Road, Tottenham, N.

MADAME
ANNIE NORLEDGE
(SOPRANO)
23, Millgate, Newark-on-Trent.

MISS
BEATRICE PALLISTER
THE NEW YORKSHIRE SOPRANO.
Oratorio, Operatic, and Ballad Concerts.
Miss Pallister is now booking Engagements for the Autumn. Extracts from Press notices referring to 1898-99 can be had on application to—Broxholme Lane,
Doncaster.

MISS AMY SARGENT
A.R.A.M. (SOPRANO),
140, Marylebone Road, N.W.

MISS KATIE SMITH

(SOP.). Royal Albert Hall, Crystal Palace, & Queen's Hall Concerts.
Address, 10E, Oxford and Cambridge Mansions, Hyde Park, W.

MRS. TILTMAN

(SOPRANO)
(Silver Medal and Certificate, Royal Academy of Music).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, Royal Academy of Music, Hanover Square, W.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

MADAME MARIE HOOTON

AND MR.

EDWARD BRANSCOMBE

Beg to announce their Change of Address to—
The Elms, Acton Hill, W.

MISS MILLIE OLIVER

(CONTRALTO).

"Miss Oliver, who made her début here, is a contralto of great promise."—Daily Mail.

"Miss Oliver was a most welcome vocalist, and an undoubted success."—Northern Guardian.

"Miss Oliver used her rich contralto voice with splendid effect."—Echo.

"Miss Oliver, the contralto, delighted the audience by her refined and artistic manner."—Weekly Advertiser.

"Undoubtedly, Miss Oliver was the favourite of the evening."—North Star.

"Miss Oliver, a contralto of decided promise."—Newcastle Leader.

"Miss Oliver, a charming contralto, was most successful."—Chronicle.

Concerts, Oratorios, &c. Lothian Road, West Hartlepool.

MR. SADLEUR BROWNE

(PRINCIPAL TENOR),
St. Saviour's Collegiate Church, Southwark.
On emergency works taken at a few hours' notice.

MR. OTTO DENE

(TENOR),
Ullswater Lodge, West Norwood, S.E.

MR. W. TREVOR EVANS

(TENOR).

Baroness Patti-Cederstrom (Madame Adelina Patti) states:—"I am delighted with his voice, which I consider charming."

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, 19, Lady Somerset Road, Kentish Town, London, N.W.

MR. FRED. FALLAS

(TENOR),
Soloist, Scarboro' Musical Festival, 1899.
Permanent address, Horbury, Yorks.

MR. BEN JOHNSON

(TENOR).

Just returned from most successful Tour with Madame Patti, Oct.-Nov., 1900.

Press Notices.

"Mr. Ben Johnson is gifted with a sweet voice and sings admirably. His rendering of Handel's 'Love sounds the alarm' was given with splendid accent and phrasing."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

"Mr. Ben Johnson is an acquisition to the concert platform in an age when tenors worth anything are remarkably scarce. Both his voice and method stood the crucial test of Handel's 'Love sounds the alarm,' for which he was warmly applauded."—Newcastle Daily Leader.

"Mr. Johnson's tenor voice rang out with telling power both in the declamatory portion and in the aria itself. His notes possess a clearness and resonance most pleasing to the ear. As an encore Mr. Johnson contributed 'I'll sing thee songs of Araby.'"—Aberdeen Journal.

Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c.
Terms and vacant dates, address, 64, Clovelly Rd., Ealing, London, W.

MR.

JAMES LEYLAND

(TENOR),
106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.

MR. FRANK PEMBERTON

(TENOR).
Oratorios, Concerts, Recitals, &c.
Extensive répertoire.
212, Cornwall Road, London, W.

MR. JOS. REED

(PRINCIPAL TENOR, Trinity College, Cambridge).
On Tour with Mr. and Mrs. Kennerley Rumford (Madame Clara Butt).

Vacant dates in Dec.: 5, 7, 15, 18, 22, 26, 29.
Terms, apply, 31, Chesterton Road, Cambridge.

MR. DAN BILLINGTON

THE CELEBRATED YORKSHIRE BARITONE (Vide Press)
(Soloist of the Leeds Festivals, Sir Chas. Hallé's and the Principal Provincial Concerts).
34, Hanover Square, Leeds.

MR. JOHN BROWNING

(BARITONE),
SOLOIST, LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVAL, 1898
(Principal Bass, Leeds Parish Church, &c.)

"Mr. John Browning, who is now well known to Selkirk audiences, was in splendid voice. All his solos were executed in a masterly style and further enhanced his reputation as a basso of the first order."—Southern (Scotland) Reporter, Nov. 8, 1900.

"The Creation," Rochdale Town Hall.—"The bass solos were delivered in fine style by Mr. Browning, who sang throughout with the skill of one who had completely mastered the music of the rôle. 'Rolling in foaming billows' and 'Now Heaven in fullest glory' were deservedly well received."—Rochdale Observer, Nov. 10, 1900.

Address, Marlboro' Grove, Leeds.

MR. HENRY DOBSON

(Professional Diploma, Incorporated Society of Musicians)
(BARITONE).
Of the London, Provincial, and Scottish Concerts.
For terms and Press notices, address, 24, Station Road, Hucknall Torkard, Nottingham.

MR. DENNIS DREW

(BARITONE).
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes.
Ormefield, Church End, Finchley.

MR. WILLIAM DYOTT

(BARITONE). 1, Myrtle Crescent, Acton, W.

RANDALL HARGREAVES

(BARITONE).

"A voice of considerable beauty."—The Times, Feb. 26, 1898.

"Some delightful vocal music was given by Mr. Randall Hargreaves."—Gentlewoman, Sept. 23, 1899.

"Mr. Randall Hargreaves displayed a fine baritone voice."—Standard, Sept. 15, 1899.

For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, address, 151, Elgin Crescent, W.

MR. ROLAND HOYLE

(BARITONE).

"Mr. Hoyle has a baritone voice of musical and expressive quality, and he is a careful, neat, and musicianly singer. This was abundantly proved by his admirable musical elocutionary rendering of the difficult Prologue to 'Pagliacci,' in his dramatic interpretation of 'Hear the wild wind blow,' and in his bright and spirited singing of 'A Soldier's Song.'"—Huddersfield Examiner, Oct. 15, 1900.

Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Errwood Range, Levensholme, Manchester.

MR. DAVID HUGHES

(BARITONE).

"Messiah."—Cardiff Festival.—"Mr. David Hughes's delivery of 'Thus saith the Lord' was one of the finest examples of Handelian declamation within my experience. Not only every note, but, what is more important, every word told the story belonging to it. So in other parts of the work this singer had to do."—Daily Telegraph (Mr. Joseph Bennett).

Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, 19, Lady Somerset Road, Kentish Town, N.W.

MR. CHARLES KNOWLES

(BARITONE),
Of the Leeds, London, Sheffield, and Chester Musical Festivals,
Queen's Hall Promenade and Symphony Concerts,
Crystal Palace and Principal Provincial Concerts.

Sheffield Orchestra.—"It was a happy coincidence that Mr. Charles Knowles, the rapidly developing bass vocalist, followed the orchestral depicting of autumn with a fine rendering of Coleridge-Taylor's setting of Longfellow's 'Vision of Hiawatha,' which also tells something of the cloud-rack of an autumn's tempest. Mr. Knowles's admirable rendering was made all the more enjoyable by the skilfully played accompaniments. . . . Mr. Knowles gave a finished and expressive interpretation of Clutsom's 'Wake me a song,' and his fine voice was still more enjoyable in Allitsen's 'The Norseman's Song.' We were pleased to find a deviation from the programme in Mr. Knowles's last item, 'Brothers in Arms' being dropped in favour of Handel's 'Droop not, young lover.' This was sung with such consummate ability as to command an encore, Maud Valérie White's 'Devout Lover.'"—Sheffield Independent, Nov. 16, 1900.

Queen's Hall.—"Hiawatha" Trilogy.—"Madame Henson, Mr. Mitton, and Mr. Charles Knowles sang the several solos with distinction, and every sign of appreciation was evidenced by the audience."—Standard, Oct. 22, 1900.

West Bromwich Choral Society.—"It is only necessary to allude as examples more than usually pleasant of . . . and the dramatic fervour and pure enunciation of Mr. Charles Knowles's rendering of Schumann's 'Two Grenadiers.'"—Birmingham Gazette, Nov. 15, 1900.

For terms and vacant dates, apply, 24, Acacia Road, St. John's Wood, London, N.W.

"An exceptional Baritone."—Vide the late Madame Patey.

MR.
ALEXANDER MUSGROVE
Of the Covent Garden, Crystal Palace, and principal Concerts.
Address, 70, Berners Street, London, W.

MR. & MRS.
WALLIS A. WALLIS, I.S.M.
(Baritone and Soprano, Elocutionists).
Concerts, Resident and other Pupils. Sharon, Acton, W.

MR. BERNARD FOUNTAIN
(BASS-BARITONE).
Oratorios, Cantatas, Ballads, &c. Mentmore, Southwold Road, Upper Clapton, N.

MR. BAYARD HADDOCK
(BASS-BARITONE).

ULSTER HALL, BELFAST.—"Possesses a pure and delightful bass voice."—News Letter, Oct. 9, 1897.

SOUTHPORT.—"Gave a magnificent rendering of 'She alone charmeth my sadness' (Gounod)."—Southport Guardian, Dec. 9, 1897.

WIDNES, "MESSIAH."—"Mr. Haddock won golden opinions by his masterly interpretation of the bass solos. His execution in 'Why do the nations' was splendid, and it was one of the treats of the evening. It was a masterly performance and fully merited the vociferous applause it secured."—Weekly News, Dec. 23, 1899.

Sweetman's Agency, Grove Street, Liverpool; or, Garston, near Liverpool.

MR. J. E. ROBERTS
(BASS-BARITONE).

HAYDN'S MASS, No. 3.—"Mr. Roberts sang the bass part most tastefully. His fine voice was also heard to great advantage in the offertorium, 'Confirma hoc, Deus' (Neukomm)."—Leigh Chronicle.

"STABAT MATER" (Rossini).—"Mr. Roberts sang splendidly throughout, he was recalled for his fine rendering of 'Pro Peccatis.'"—Walkden Observer.

"HOLY CITY" (Gaul).—"Mr. Roberts gave a conscientious rendering of the bass part. He has a well-trained voice, which he uses with artistic restraint."—Jarrow Guardian.

"MESSIAH."—"The bass soli received thorough treatment. Mr. Roberts is certainly an artist, 'Why do the nations' and 'The trumpet shall sound' were rendered magnificently."—Tyldesley Journal.

For Concerts, Oratorios, Recitals, &c., address, Astley, near Manchester; or, care of Sweetman's Agency, 163, Grove St., Liverpool.

MR.
WILLIAM LLEWELLYN
(Principal Bass, Royal Choral Society's Concerts, Albert Hall; Royal Opera House, Covent Garden; Crystal Palace Concerts (Oratorio, Operatic, and Promenade); St. James's Hall and Queen's Hall Concerts, &c.)

Bookings for Season include: Leeds, "Persian Garden"; Sunderland, "Spectre's Bride"; Exeter, "Messiah" and "Ascension"; Sittingbourne, Ballads; Guernsey, "Elijah"; Shifnal, Ballads; Wolverhampton, Classical Concert; Ledbury, Ballads; Liverpool, "Messiah"; St. James's Hall (London), Ballads; Wolverhampton Festival Choral, "Lohengrin" (The King) and Bach's Magnificat, &c.

Address, Principal Agents; or, 13, Margaret Street, Cavendish Square, London, W.

MR. ARTHUR SEDGLEY
(PRINCIPAL BASS of the late Arthur Rousbey Opera Company).
For Oratorios, Opera, and Ballad Concerts.
For terms, Press notices, &c., address, 51, Worcester Street, Wolverhampton.

MR. HENRY SUNMAN
(BASS)
(Licentiate (artist) of the Royal Academy of Music).
Of the Gloucester and Cheltenham Festivals, &c.

"ELIJAH."—TEWKESBURY ABBEY CHORAL FESTIVAL.—"The Elijah of Mr. Sunman deserves a special word of praise. His singing all through was of a high order, and, notwithstanding the arduous work, his voice was equal to the task."—Birmingham Daily Post, September 21, 1900.

For terms, Press notices, &c., please address, Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford; or, usual Agents.

MR. F. G. H. MOORE (A.R.A.M.)
(Walter Macfarren Gold Medalist, R.A.M.).
Solo Pianist and Accompanist, Concerts, At Homes, Lessons.
27, Lady Somerset Road, Highgate, N.W.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY
(VOCALIST AND HARPIST),
Doncaster.

MISS ALICE MARY SMITH
(Mrs. Alfred Dymes)
Associate of the Royal College of Music,
HARPIST.
Care of Messrs. C. Holdernesse and Co., 105, New Oxford Street, W.C.

SOLO BOYS.
LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS,
POLYTECHNIC, REGENT ST., W.

PRESIDENT, MR. ALBERTO RANDEGGER.
PRINCIPAL, MR. JAMES BATES.

Thoroughly trained, experienced Solo Boys, holding positions as Solo Boys at twenty-four of the principal London Churches, can be strongly recommended for Church Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.

Over 100 excellent Chorus Boys also available for all kinds of concerted music.

A special branch for the preparation of scholars (resident or day) for Cathedral or other Choristerships has now been opened. Full particulars of Mr. Bates, as above; or, 7, Blomfield Crescent, Upper Westbourne Terr., Hyde Pk., W. Telegrams—"Musicomane, London."

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Boys, personally trained and thoroughly reliable, for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms, vacant dates, and further particulars, address, Mr. Henry J. Dutton, 17, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

SOLO BOYS.
MR. W. R. B. TANN begs to announce his CHANGE of ADDRESS to No. 55, Warwick Road, Maida Vale, W., where communications respecting Solo Boys for Church Festivals, Oratorios, Organ Recitals, &c., should in future be addressed. Mr. Tann's Solo and Chorus Boys may be heard by appointment.

QUARTET.
MR.
MONTAGUE BORWELL'S
ORATORIO QUARTET are now booking Engagements:—
Miss WINIFRED MARWOOD, Sop. | Miss GERTRUDE MACAULAY, Con.
Mr. HENRY TURNPENNEY, Tenor. | Mr. MONTAGUE BORWELL, Bar.
For terms and vacant dates, 56, Forburg Road, Stoke Newington, N. or, usual Agents.

THE EUTERPEAN VOCAL QUARTET.
Misses ANNIE SWINFEN, ANNIE WILSON.
Messrs. ALBERT CORNISH, MUSGROVE TUFNAIL.
Musgrove Tufnail, 24, Grove Road, Brixton, S.W.

THE HAMPSTEAD GLEE SINGERS.
Alto, Mr. SYDNEY CRAVEN. | 2nd Tenor, Mr. ARNOLD CLIFFE.
1st Tenor, Mr. PERCY CRAVEN. | Bass, Mr. HARRY LONG.
For terms, &c., Mr. S. Craven, 30, Maygrove Rd., Brondesbury, N.W.

"THE LIEDERSINGERS" MALE VOICE QUARTET.
Mr. WALTER LE NEAVE, Alto. | Mr. FRANK BUCKLAND, Baritone.
Mr. PERCY TURNER, Tenor. | Mr. ERNEST STURMAN, Bass.
For particulars, apply to 4, Alexandra Road, South Hampstead.

MALE QUARTET
(LANCASTER CENTENARY)
FIRST PRIZE-WINNERS WELSH NATIONAL EISTEDDFOD, LIVERPOOL, 1900
Address, R. T. Grosse, 42, Dale Street, Lancaster.

THE MINNESINGERS
(QUARTET). "Sharon," Acton, W.

MR. STEDMAN'S MUSICAL AGENCY
(Established 1877).
Artists for Opera, Theatre, Oratorio, At Homes, Banquets, &c.
Choruses, Choir Boys and Girls.
Singing Lessons and Coaching.
58, Berners Street, W.

LONDON CONCERT & CHOIR AGENCY.

SOLOISTS and CHORUS VOICES for Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Glee and Madrigal Societies, At Homes, Banquets, &c.
Mr. JAMES BATES, Polytechnic, Regent Street, W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. Eastfield House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., Mus. Bac., Dunelm, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 60, Berners Street, W. Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham Universities, Diplomas of L.R.A.M., A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O., and A.R.C.O.; Appointments at College and School of Music, and as English Cathedral and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of six hundred and fifty. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS. Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D., 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus.T.C.L., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., and prepares CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Latest successes, Mus. Bac., Oxford and Durham, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O., &c. Sheppard Street, Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; gives LESSONS, Personally or by Post, in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, FORM and ANALYSIS, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: OXFORD FINAL and FIRST MUS. BAC., May, 1900; MUS. BAC., DURHAM, 1900; A.R.C.M. (Theory of Music and Pianoforte Teaching), 1897, 1898, and 1899; L.R.A.M. (Composition and Pianoforte), 1900, 1899, and previous years; F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1900; CAMBRIDGE, LONDON, DURHAM, and DUBLIN, MUS. BAC. degrees in recent years; L.Mus. and A.Mus., L.C.M.; L.T.C.L. and A.T.C.L., and Special Certificates, 1899 and 1900; Senior Associated Board; Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Upwards of 550 Diplomas and Degrees and several Gold and Silver Medals gained by pupils. MSS. corrected for publication; Analysis of classical works for Examinations. Terms moderate. Address, 70, Parkhill Road, London, N.W.

PREPARATION by CORRESPONDENCE for ARTS, Preliminary for Durham Musical Degrees. E. J. Lewis, B.A., L.T., Ivy Cottage, Durham.

MR. A. MANGELSDORFF, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., Pianist, Coaches for DIPLOMAS in PIANOFORTE PLAYING and TEACHING. Paper work, postal. Address, Atherstone.

DR. MARCHANT, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O. (Author of "500 Fugue Subjects and Answers," Novello's Primers, No. 35), &c. PREPARES CANDIDATES for all Musical Examinations by Post. 29, Castle Street, Dumfries, N.B.

MR. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, Mus.B., desires to state that EIGHTEEN of his Pupils were SUCCESSFUL at the A.R.C.M. EXAM., 1900. Hazelwood, Dollis Road, Finchley, N.

SPECIAL COACHING for DIPLOMAS by Post. A.R.C.M., 1895-1900, FIFTY-SIX passes; L.R.A.M., 1897-1900, NINETEEN passes. Many successes in other Degrees. Lessons in all branches of Theory, Piano, Organ, and Singing. Address, Mr. H. H. L. MIDDLETON, MUS. BAC., F.R.C.O., Hazelwood, Dollis Road, Finchley, N.

MR. ARTHUR POLLITT, Mus.B., Durh., L.R.A.M., A.R.C.M., prepares CANDIDATES for University and other Examinations BY CORRESPONDENCE. Thorough individual attention. Recent successes. Address, Shaw, Lancs.

DR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Doc., Dunelm, A.R.A.M., F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond., Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., Personally or by Correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and all other Examinations. Classes. 25, Palliser Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. WILLIAM H. SPEER, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.R.C.O., gives LESSONS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, and the Pianoforte, at pupil's residence, or at 10, Swiss Terrace, Belsize Road, N.W. (opposite Swiss Cottage Station). Apply to above address.

MR. BRUCE STEANE (Composer of "The Ascension," contributor to Novello's Octavo Anthems, &c.) prepares rapidly and systematically for MUSICAL EXAMS. in all subjects, Personally or by Post. MSS. corrected and revised for publication. Address, "Melrose," Eardley Road, Sevenoaks.

MR. STRETTON SWANN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., gives LESSONS or prepares for EXAMINATIONS, personally or by post.
New Hydraulic Organ, seven minutes from London Bridge, 181, Longley Road, Tooting, S.W.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, L.Mus.T.C.L., COACHES and PREPARES CANDIDATES for all MUSICAL EXAMS. For terms, &c., address, 58, Comiston Road, Edinburgh.

DR. J. WARRINER can receive professional and, if desired, resident PUPILS for TRAINING and INTRODUCTION. Voice Culture, Keyboard or Theory. Postal or personal courses for all Exams. Favourable terms for real promise. De Crespigny Lodge, Denmark Hill, S.E.

THE VIRGIL CLAVIER PIANOFORTE METHOD.—Mr. STIEBLER COOK, A.R.A.M., gives LESSONS on the above system (recommended by Paderewski, Von Bülow, De Pachmann). The most rapid and certain means for acquiring a perfect technique. 17, Keppell St., Russell Sq., London, W.C.

THE TRAINING of ALTOS.—TUITION by MUNRO DAVISON, L.R.A.M. (Singing), F.R.C.O., L.T.C.L., Professor of Alto Singing, G.S.M. Solo Alto, Temple Church, 142, Stroud Green Road, N.

TRAINING of TENORS.—Mr. E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives LESSONS at his residence and at the West-End. For terms, &c., address, 28, Digby Road, Finsbury Park, N. The principles on which Mr. Davidson Palmer's Method is based are fully explained in his book, "THE RIGHTLY-PRODUCED VOICE," which contains information of the utmost importance to tenors. Price 1s. 6d.; or, bound in cloth, 2s. 6d., Post-free, from the Author.

CHOIR-TRAINING.—Mr. AUGUSTUS TOOP (Director of the Music at St. Peter's Ch., Vere St., W.) makes this a specialty, and can undertake the sole training and responsibility of Church Choirs in London. Mr. Toop will be happy to arrange for any of the clergy to hear his Choir at St. Peter's Ch., Vere St., on any Friday evening by appointment. (Mr. Toop had the sole training of Mr. Stedman's Choir Boys for nearly ten years.) Address, 18, Berners Street, W.

MR. ALLEN GILL, A.R.A.M., attends at 60, Berners Street, for LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION, SINGING, and for RÉPERTOIRE. For terms, apply to 21, Cathcart Hill, N.

MISS PAVIOUR, L.R.A.M., teaches PIANOFORTE and SINGING. Vacancy after Christmas. Engagements accepted for concerted music. Arundel House, Soho Hill, Handsworth, Birmingham.

DR. CROW, Organist of Ripon Cathedral, has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL.

PUPIL REQUIRED, about nineteen years of age. Must be able to play an ordinary Parochial Service (for which a stipend will be given) and to act as ASSISTANT at the Cathedral. Premium or yearly payment required. Address, Dr. Arnold, Cathedral Organist, The Close, Winchester.

TWO CHORAL SCHOLARSHIPS (£35 and £25) are OFFERED for COMPETITION on Dec. 13. School Fees, £75 per annum. For further particulars write to Organist, Trent College, R.S.O., Derbyshire.

TENISON'S GRAMMAR SCHOOL, Leicester Square, W.C.
The choir boys of Lincoln's Inn Chapel, &c., are educated at this school.
There are at present a few vacant choral scholarships, which provide free education with money payment.
The names of candidates should, in the first instance, be sent to the Headmaster.

CHORISTERS. — Trained Boys REQUIRED, thoroughly competent to lead Church of England choir. Apply, Waverley Park Mission, Inverton Road, Nunhead, Fridays, 7.20; or Wednesdays, 9 p.m. Salary, 10s. per quarter.

CHOIR BOYS.—Two LEADING BOYS are WANTED, at St. Simon's Church, Upper Chelsea. Salary, £6. Apply, J. Woodger, 16, Oakley Crescent, Chelsea, S.W.

WANTED, BOY (aged 12), for Country Choir. Good voice, knowledge of sight-reading indispensable. Offered, board, lodging, education (good Nat. school), 5s. a week. Rector, Boothby, Grantham.

ALTO REQUIRED, for All Saints', Margaret Street, W. A good reader indispensable. Salary, £25. One month's vacation in August. Apply, by letter, to Mr. W. S. Hoyte, 68, Boundary Road, N.W.

ALTO (£15) and TENOR (£10) WANTED, for St. Paul's, Grove Park, Chiswick. Duties: Sunday, 11 and 6.30; and Friday, 8, rehearsal. Apply to Organist, 5, Summerfield Avenue, North Kensington, W.

ST. JAMES'S, Sussex Gardens.—ALTO (£12) and TENOR (£10) WANTED. Light duties. Friday practice. H. D., 14, Kilburn Priory, N.W.

SOLO TENOR WANTED, St. James's, West Hampstead. Good reader. Stipend, £15. Apply, W. E. Sanderson, Mus. Bac., 24, Sherriff Road, West Hampstead.

ST. ANNE'S, Soho.—VACANCY for TENOR. Salary, about £20. Good reader and singer. Also for a Bass. Precentor, 28, Soho Square, W.

WANTED, for West-End Church, BASS, TENOR, ALTO. Apply, stating full particulars, A. B., c/o Dixon's, 195, Oxford Street, W.

WANTED, LEADING BASS. Sundays and one practice. Salary, £6 per ann. Apply, Christ Church, Endell Street, W.C., Thursday, 8 o'clock.

BASS WANTED, for St. Peter's Ch., Vere St., W. Good singer and reader indispensable. Salary, £20. Three weeks' holiday in August. Write, stating age and past experience, to Mr. Augustus Toop, 18, Berners Street, W. Vacancy also for good voluntary Tenor.

ALTO desires CHURCH APPOINTMENT, Sunday Evenings. At liberty also for Glee Club or Quartet. G., 64, Windsor Road, Holloway, N.

NODDFA BAPTIST CHAPEL, Treorchy.—WANTED, an ORGANIST, for above Chapel. Applications, with qualifications, testimonials, terms, &c., to be sent to Mr. John Samuel, 35, High Street, Treorchy, on or before December 11, 1900.

WANTED, Organist and Choirmaster at Porthrue Church. £25 a year. Apply, Churchwardens, Porthrue, Devizes.

PARISH CHURCH, Ealing, W.—ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED. Apply, by letter, with references, to the Vicar.

ORGANIST, Parish Church, Wangford, Suffolk, offers to TRAIN musical boy in return (free) for help. Splendid chance. Fine organ. Choral services. Enclose stamp.

ORGANIST, or Org. and Choirmaster, seeks ENGAGEMENT. Accustomed to full Choral Service. Highest refs. London or suburbs only. C. S., Novello & Co., Ltd., Queen St., E.C.

OXFORD M.A., formerly Organist of his College, seeks POST as ORGANIST IN ORDERS. Highest references. H., 14, Harwood Road, S.W.

WANTED, Organists and Choirmasters to know that Messrs. AMBROSE ABBOTT & CO. have CHANGED their ADDRESS to 16, Hanway Street, London, W.

RESIDENT MUSIC-MASTER REQUIRED, Truro College (Wesleyan), January next. Apply, with refs. and copies of testimonials, stating salary, to Chas. Bryant, Camborne, Sec.

A LADY, Professor of Pianoforte and Harmony, L.R.A.M., has a VACANCY for one School in or near London. M. S., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

VIOLINIST (Lady) desires PUPILS at own residences or in Schools; also Engagements for Concerts, At Homes, &c. Address, V., Henderson's Library, Sandringham Rd., N.E.

PIANO.—A Gentleman, living in Knightsbridge, would like to hear of a few PUPILS desiring thorough instruction in above. He is a diplomé of the Leipsic Conservatorium, and afterwards of Hermann Scholtz. Terms moderate; work and interest chief object. References kindly permitted to the Countess of Carnwath, 15, Cromwell Place, S.W. Write, in first instance, to Piano, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

SINGING.—PIANO.—Splendid opening for clever Lady (must have honours and be resident) in West-End School of Music. Wallis, Sharon, Acton, W.

ENGLISH CONCERTINA and ÆOLA.—To players of these interesting instruments.—Viola, Cello, or Bassoon parts taken and played on Wheatstone's new Baritone. Very effective in chamber music. A. Clarke, 28, Elm Grove, Hammersmith.

EVERY MUSICIAN should send for DINHAM, BLYTH and CO.'S Specimens and Price Lists (free) for lithographing Songs, Anthems, Services, &c., from 24 copies and upwards, at trifling cost. 27, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

WANTED, first-class TUNER and REGULATOR, gentlemanly appearance, pianist, and salesman, for London Show-rooms. None but men of first-class experience and ability need apply. Apply, with photo, stating age, experience, and references, X. A. Z., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, a thoroughly experienced PIANOFORTE TUNER and REPAIRER, for a large town in Lancashire. One with a knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums preferred. Apply, enclosing references and photo, and state salary required, to J. H. L., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED. Apply, stating experience, references, and wages. Enclose photo, to J. Marr Wood and Co., Ltd., 183, Union Street, Aberdeen.

WANTED, a TUNER for Show-rooms. Young, gentlemanly, and of good address; one capable of regulating and doing small repairs much preferred. A comfortable and permanent situation. Address, Turner and Phillips, Plymouth.

PIANOFORTE TUNER and REPAIRER seeks SITUATION. Six years' experience. Three years London factory. Wanstall, Rubinstein, Margate.

TUNER, practical, steady, and reliable, desires BERTH. Fair knowledge American Organs, Harmoniums, &c. Refs. good. P. E. H., Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners St., W.

TUNER and REPAIRER, well up in his business, and for some years in trade for himself, wishes a SITUATION. Good salesman, &c., and highest references. Address, R., Music Depôt, 113, Tullow Street, Carlow.

MUSIC ASSISTANT.—Duck, Son and Pinker, Bath, require, immediately, a Young Man who has a good knowledge of the Catalogues and is a smart salesman. State age, references, salary required, and enclose photograph.

ASSISTANT WANTED, in Music Stores. State age, nature of experience, and salary required. Address, Business, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, COUNTER ASSISTANT, with previous experience. Must be a smart business man. Provincial house. Apply, Clavier, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC ASSISTANT WANTED, for South Africa. Must be well up in Sheet Music (Peters', Augener's, and Litolff Editions), required to play well at sight and have knowledge of small goods. Apply, in writing, with photograph, to Africa, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, YOUNG LADY, for Music Saloon, with thorough knowledge of the Music Trade. Send references and photo, with particulars of experience, to Seaside, Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, W.

MANAGER requires ENGAGEMENT. Is a thoroughly experienced tuner and successful salesman; nearly 4 years' experience as manager. Ex. tests. E. O., Novello & Co., Ltd.

YOUNG MAN (21) requires SITUATION in Music Publishing firm. Previous experience in retail music trade. Good references. T. D. Maunder, 317, Norwood Rd., Herne Hill, S.E.

ORGAN PRACTICE. Three manuals and pedals. One shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

ORGAN STUDIO.—3 manuals, C.O. pedals, 1s. hour. Willis, "Tower Organ Works," 2, Church Row, Aldgate, London, E.C. (Estd. 1827). Musical Instruments and Fittings.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

CHURCH or CHAPEL ORGANS, new and second-hand, with 3 manuals, 24 stops, pneumatic pedals; would be constructed to suit building. Three Organs, 2 manuals, 12 stops; pedals, full compass, straight and concave. W. E. Richardson and Sons, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

LARGE ORGAN (by Bryceson Bros.) for SALE. 22 ft. high, 13 wide, 9 deep. Three Consoles. Provision for 22 stops. Swell complete, most of Great also. 16 ft. pedal pipe. For particulars, apply to Mr. J., Emerson Cottage, Brampton, Huntingdon.

ORGAN for SALE. Fine two manuals, pedal bourdon (pneumatics), 10 stops. Nearly new. Suitable for drawing-room, small church. 15, Lune Street, Preston.

ORGAN, SALE, CC to G. 12 stops, 2 manuals, pedals and bourdons. Organs tuned and repaired in town or country. R. Cope, 74, Asylum Road, Peckham, S.E.

TWO-MANUAL PIPE ORGAN. £50. Mahogany Case; 8 ft. 6 in. high; 8 stops; good order and tone. Ditto, 18 stops £175. 1-manual, £35. Stoneham's, 52, Hazlewood Crescent, Westbourne Park Station, London. Seen by appointment. Evenings preferred.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE, from £20, with pedals. Instruments for Church, Chapel, and College, built on the most modern principles, at Bedwell and Sons', Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

9 GUINEAS.—AMERICAN ORGAN (list price, 20 guineas), 11 stops, including two knee-stops and the beautiful solo stops, voix celeste and vox humana; two octave couplers, handsome high case; in use about four months; ten years' warranty; easy terms arranged. Packing and carriage free. Approval. Full price paid will be allowed within three years if exchanged for a higher-class instrument. D'Almaine and Co. (established 115 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

INSTITUTED 1872.)
MANDEVILLE PLACE, MANCHESTER SQUARE, W.

President:
The Right Hon. LORD COLERIDGE, M.A., Q.C.
Warden:
EDMUND H. TURPIN, Mus.D.
Director of Examinations:
JAMES HIGGS, Mus.B.
Registrar:
J. GORDON SAUNDERS, Mus.D.

HIGHER EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

THE LATEST TIME FOR ENTERING IS DECEMBER 8 for the FIFTY-FIFTH HALF-YEARLY EXAMINATIONS as under, taking place at the College in Mandeville Place, from January 7 to 15.

The Higher (Professional) Examinations are open to all Persons (whether students of the College or not).

DIPLOMA OF ASSOCIATE IN MUSIC (A.Mus. T.C.L.).

Candidates are required to pass the Matriculation Examination, or an equivalent, and to satisfy the Examiners in the following subjects: Harmony (up to four parts), Counterpoint (three parts), Musical History, and either Choir Training, or Vocal and Aural Physiology, or Elementary Acoustics.

DIPLOMA OF LICENTIATE IN MUSIC (L.Mus. T.C.L.).

Candidates, except in the case of a Graduate in Music of a British University, must previously have obtained the Grade of Associate in Music. The Examination will include the following subjects: Harmony (five parts), Counterpoint (five parts), Double Counterpoint, Imitation, Canon and Fugue, Form and Instrumentation.

HIGHER CERTIFICATES, PRACTICAL DIVISION.

Candidates for the Higher Certificates (Practical or Theoretical) are not required to pass the Matriculation Examination. The subjects of Examination are:—

i. Pianoforte Playing, with the titles of Associate Pianist (A.T.C.L. Pianist) and Certificated Pianist.
ii. Organ Playing, with the titles of Organ-Associate (A.T.C.L. Organist) and Certificated Organist.
iii. Solo-Singing, with the titles of Associate-Vocalist (A.T.C.L. Vocalist) and Certificated Vocalist.
iv. Orchestral Instruments, with the titles of Associate-Violinist (A.T.C.L. Violinist), &c., &c.

A Prize of the value of Five Guineas, presented by Dr. Thomas J. Colman, Chairman of the Bristol Centre for Local Examinations, is awarded annually, in July, to the Candidate gaining the highest number of marks of the YEAR in Pianoforte Playing at the Higher Examinations.

HIGHER CERTIFICATES, THEORETICAL DIVISION.

Subjects: Harmony, Counterpoint, Instrumentation, &c., &c.

PRACTICAL LICENTIATESHIP.

Candidates are required to pass (1) a Practical Examination of Associate Standard, and (2) Examinations in Harmony and Counterpoint, in not more than four parts.

Regulations and forms of application may be had from the undersigned.

By order of the Board,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

HOLY TRINITY, Sloane Square.—Mr. WALTER ALCOCK is giving ORGAN RECITALS in the above Church on Saturdays at 4 o'clock. The doors are closed during the performance of each number on the programme.

NOW READY.

Cloth, Royal Octavo. Price Four Shillings and Sixpence.

HYMN TUNES

COMPOSED BY

J. STAINER

COLLECTED FROM VARIOUS SOURCES.

These Tunes, 161 in number, which the Composer has during the last thirty years contributed to various hymnals, or written for Choral Festivals or the use of friends, are here brought together for the first time. Many among them are new, including some Processionals of an original form.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

BROADWOODS' (ESTD. 1732)

NEW OVERSTRUNG PIANOFORTES
40 to 400 GUINEAS

GRAND PRIX (HIGHEST POSSIBLE AWARD)
PARIS EXHIBITION, 1900.

GREAT PULTENEY STREET, LONDON, W.

THE LONDON ORGAN SCHOOL

AND INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,
22, PRINCES STREET, CAVENDISH SQUARE, W.
Established 1865.
Principal: T. H. YORKE TROTTER, M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon.

The London Organ School provides a thorough Musical Education in all its branches, either for amateur or professional students. Lessons may be commenced on any date, and students may take a single subject if desired. The School is open till 9 p.m. for those students who cannot attend during the day.

Private Lessons are given in the following subjects:—Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration and Composition; Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, Violin, Viola, Violoncello, Double Bass, Flute, Oboe, Clarinet, Bassoon, Horn, Trumpet and Cornet, Trombone, Harp, Mandoline and Guitar, Zither, Choir Training, Elocution and Stage Deportment, Modern Languages, &c.

The following are some of the Classes:—

HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, ORCHESTRATION, and MUSICAL DICTATION (Dr. Yorke Trotter).
QUARTET and ENSEMBLE PLAYING (Mr. Edward O'Brien and Mr. J. Edward Hambleton).
ELOCUTION and DRAMATIC ART (Mr. Charles Fry and Mr. Arthur Fayne).
CHORAL (Mr. Henry Beauchamp).
LADIES' CHORAL (Mr. J. Mewburn Levien).

The Full Orchestra, conducted by Dr. Yorke Trotter, and the String Orchestra, conducted by Mr. Edward O'Brien, meet weekly. There are three 3-manual Practice Organs.

Prospectus, on application, from the Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.
Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.
Director: Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.
Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq., M.P.

Telegraphic address—"Initiative, London."

The Next Term will commence on Monday, January 7, 1901.

Sixteen FREE OPEN SCHOLARSHIPS will be competed for in January next. Last day for receiving official entry forms, accompanied by stamped certificate of birth, is December 31.

The Next Examination for ASSOCIATESHIP (A.R.C.M.) will take place in April, 1901.

A JUNIOR DEPARTMENT is now open for Pupils up to 16 years of age at Reduced Fees.

Syllabus and official entry forms may be obtained from—
FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

WITHDRAWAL OF SPECIAL PRICES.

The undermentioned special prices will be withdrawn on February 1, 1901.

GROVE'S DICTIONARY OF MUSIC

ILLUSTRATED, FOUR VOLUMES, WITH INDEX,
BY
EMINENT WRITERS, ENGLISH AND FOREIGN
UNDER THE EDITORSHIP OF THE LATE
SIR GEORGE GROVE
Assisted in the Supplement by J. FULLER MAITLAND.

PRICES OF THE FOUR VOLUMES
Until February 1, 1901, only.
Previously published, only in cloth, at £4 11s. 6d.

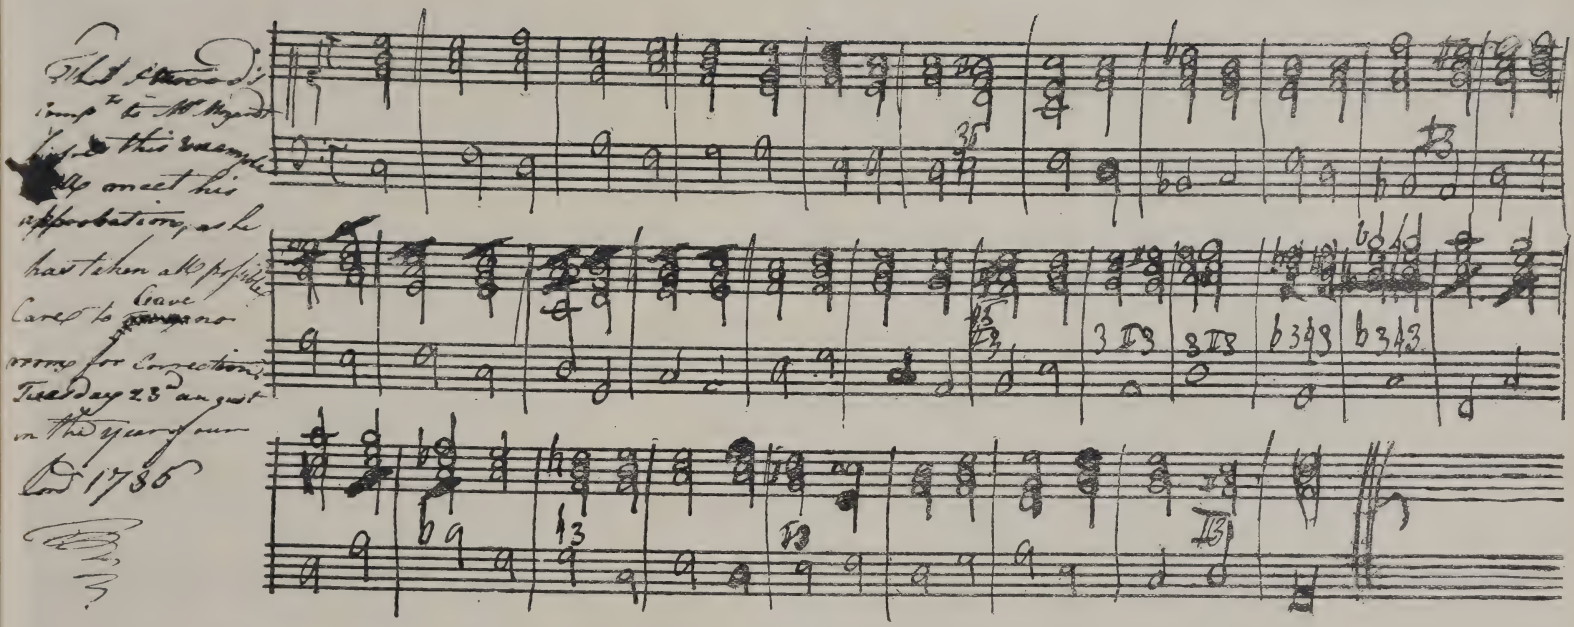
Cloth Binding	£2 0 0
Half Morocco	3 0 0
Full Morocco	4 0 0

For further particulars, see page 846.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ARTHUR SULLIVAN.



FACSIMILE OF A HARMONY EXERCISE WORKED BY THOMAS ATTWOOD DURING HIS PUPILAGE WITH MOZART.

Reproduced, full size, from the original in the possession of Sir Frederick Bridge, and by his kind permission. (See p. 789.)

Attwood
This afternoon I am not at home, therefore I beg you to come to Morrios at three o'clock. Mozart ½ a half.
Half tone a[illegible]
Similtuono

FACSIMILE OF A HARMONY EXERCISE WORKED BY THOMAS ATTWOOD DURING HIS PUPILAGE WITH MOZART.

Reproduced, full size, from the original in the possession of Sir Frederick Bridge, and by his kind permission. (See p. 789.)

FIVE Extra Supplements are presented gratis with this number. (1) A Portrait of Sir Arthur Sullivan, from a Photograph by Alfred Ellis and Walery, Baker Street; (2) A Portrait of Thomas Attwood, reproduced from the original oil painting in the Royal College of Music, by kind permission of the Director, Sir Hubert Parry; (3) two examples of Attwood's harmony exercises worked during his pupilage with Mozart, reproduced from the originals in the possession of Sir Frederick Bridge; (4) an Anthem for Christmas and Epiphany-tide, 'Crown Him the Virgin's Son,' composed by Mr. Bertram Luard Selby, organist of Rochester Cathedral; and (5) a Funeral Hymn, 'We are but strangers here,' composed by Arthur Sullivan.

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
DECEMBER 1, 1900.

ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

The first footfall of death strikes within us a chord of sorrow for the loss of one who has been summoned by the inevitable Visitor. We involuntarily exclaim—especially if he has been a benefactor of the race—'Ah! what a loss it will be!' This is very true and perfectly natural. But as every cloud has its silver lining, so the death of a great man should prompt a joyous note of thanksgiving for the work he has been able to accomplish while he was permitted to draw the breath of life: for his personality, his gifts, it may be his genius. So must such a note be sounded—clear and strong—in recording the loss which our art has sustained in the removal of that great master of English music, Arthur Sullivan. His health had long been precarious, and on the morning of the 22nd ult., at his residence in Victoria Street, he entered upon his last long sleep.

Arthur Seymour Sullivan was born in London, May 13, 1842. His father, an Irishman, was bandmaster at the Royal Military College, Sandhurst, and subsequently a professor of the clarinet at Kneller Hall. His mother claimed descent from an ancient Italian family. The boy was reared in an atmosphere of music. At an early age he greatly longed to become a chorister. His father demurred, till one day Arthur pathetically exclaimed: 'Father, Purcell was a Chapel Royal boy.' Father and son sought the advice of Sir George Smart, who gave them the address of the Rev. Thomas Helmore, Master of the Children of the Chapel Royal. But it was an old address and the house was shut up. That seemed to settle the matter in the mind of Mr. Sullivan, but not so in that of his son. 'They must have eaten while here,' said Master Arthur, 'let us ask at the butcher's shop.' The butcher gave the new address of the Master, with the result that when he heard the boy sing 'With verdure clad' (accompanied by himself) he at once accepted him as one of the children, and two days later—on Maundy Thursday, 1854—he took part in the service by singing the solo in Nares's anthem 'Blessed is he that considereth the poor and needy.' 'His voice was very sweet,' records Helmore, 'and his style of singing far more sympathetic than that of most boys.' During his choristership Sullivan wrote several anthems, one of which was sung at a Chapel Royal service, and so pleased the Dean (also Bishop of London) that he sent for the youthful composer to come into the vestry, and rewarded him with a pat on his curly black head to the accompaniment of half-a-sovereign. His earliest published composition—a song, entitled 'O Israel'—was issued by Messrs. Novello in 1855. One of the friends of his boyhood was little Johnnie Stainer, a chorister of St. Paul's Cathedral. The two lads, when off duty, were wont to delight in penny trips taken together on Thames steamboats, their enjoyment of those water excursions being considerably enhanced by a copious consumption of nuts and oranges.

The great event in Sullivan's early life came to him in 1856. He was then fourteen, and, in competition with nineteen others, he succeeded in obtaining the Mendelssohn Scholarship, then recently established. He had a foeman worthy of his steel in Joseph Barnby—in fact, the two boys ran a neck and neck race, and the result was a tie! In the final heat, however, Sullivan became victorious, and thus carried off this important musical prize. While still holding his choristership he entered the Royal Academy of Music. His professors at Tenterden Street were Sterndale Bennett and Mr. Arthur O'Leary for the pianoforte, and John Goss for harmony. A MS. composition by him—a duet and chorus setting of 'It was a lover and his lass'—was performed at an Academy concert in July, 1857, and an Overture in July, 1858. The latter was praised by the leading musical journal of the day for its cleverness 'and an independent way of thinking, which in one so young as the Mendelssohn Scholar looks well.'

In the autumn of 1858, under the terms of the Scholarship, he went to Leipzig and entered the Conservatorium, where he studied under Hauptmann, Julius Rietz, Moscheles, and Plaidy. Among his fellow-students at Leipzig were Walter Bache, John Francis Barnett, Carl Rosa, and Franklin Taylor. Sullivan and Franklin Taylor were members of a Christy Minstrel Troupe. Sullivan had such a shock of curly hair that a nigger wig was quite in the nature of a superfluity. Mr. Franklin Taylor lent Sullivan a copy of Shakespeare's 'Tempest,' which was put to a good use when the young Mendelssohn Scholar composed his delightful music to that delightful play—some of the best music he ever composed. The 'Tempest' music was his exit opus from the Conservatorium. He brought it with him to England on his return, when it was played at the Crystal Palace on April 5, 1862, and repeated on the following Saturday. Charles Dickens was amongst the audience on the former occasion, and shaking the young composer by the hand, said: 'I don't profess to know anything about music, but I do know that I have listened to a very beautiful work.' Dickens was not very far wrong, and the work caused a great sensation in musical circles.

Although the 'Tempest' music at once stamped its composer as a man of mark, it did not supply him with bread and butter. In fact, Sullivan, like many other young musicians, had plenty of brains but not overmuch money. He had to go through the mill of teaching, as the following advertisement from the Musical World of May 11, 1861, duly records :—

> Mr. Arthur S. Sullivan begs to inform his friends that he has returned from Germany.
>
> All communications respecting Pupils, etc., to be addressed to his Residence, 3, Ponsonby Street, Pimlico, S.W.

He also held two organ appointments, first at St. Michael's, Chester Square, in 1867, and afterwards at St. Peter's, Cranley Gardens. To this church period belong his anthems, which have become so widely popular. Doubtless through the influence of his friend, Sir George Grove—Sullivan was one of 'Grove's young men'—he became a professor of the 'pianoforte and ballad singing' at the Crystal Palace School of Art, and, later on, in the spring of 1870, he gave, at the South Kensington Museum, a course of twelve lectures (illustrated by part-singing) on the 'Theory and practice of music' in connection with 'Instruction in science and art for women.' While thus doing the work which is the daily routine of a rank and file professional man, Sullivan was not idle with his pen. His first great success as a song-writer was his setting of 'Orpheus with his Lute,' which he sold for five pounds! The extraordinary popularity of his setting of 'The Lost Chord' is known and read of all men. Later on came a part-song of equal popularity, his setting of 'Oh! hush thee, my babie,' first sung at one of Henry Leslie's concerts, and by his choir, on February 13, 1868.

More serious work, however, claimed his attention. His first Festival appearance was at Birmingham in 1864, when a cantata, entitled 'Kenilworth'—the libretto by his early friend and encourager, H. F. Chorley, of the Athenæum—was produced. Then came his Symphony in E (Crystal Palace, March, 1866) and the 'In Memoriam' Overture, on the death of his father (Norwich Festival, 1866). 'The Prodigal Son' (with Sims Reeves in the title part) was first heard at the Worcester Festival of 1869, and the 'Light of the World' at Birmingham in 1873. To complete the list of his serious works on a large scale, there must be added the Festival Te Deum, composed to celebrate the recovery of the Prince of Wales, and performed at the Crystal Palace, in 1872; the 'Martyr of Antioch' (Leeds Festival, 1880) and his masterly setting of Longfellow's 'Golden Legend' (Leeds, 1886), and the grand opera of 'Ivanhoe' (1891).

It is now time to refer to that remarkable series of comic operas that have made the name of Arthur Sullivan so famous. This species of production was hit upon in the oddest way. The death of a Punch artist, and the pecuniary straits of his widow and family, were the cause of a 'benefit' for which Mr. F. C. Burnand and Sullivan promised to collaborate in a musical piece. Time passed, till within a week of the performance it occurred to the collaborators, as they were walking to church one Sunday, that they had collaborated nothing. 'Let us,' suddenly said the author of 'Happy Thoughts,' 'set "Box and Cox" to music.' 'Book it,' said Sullivan; and in seven days the work was written, learned, rehearsed, and performed by George Du Maurier, Harold Power, and Arthur Cecil, at Moray Lodge, Kensington (Mr. Arthur Lewis's), on April 27, 1867. Transferred to the German Reed entertainments, 'Cox and Box' ran for five hundred nights. In this connection, although somewhat in the nature of a digression, we are able to quote from a letter written by Sullivan to a friendly critic on some '5ths' she had discovered in one of his compositions. He wrote on February 14, 1871, as follows :—

With pleasure I enclose the little bit of the 'Lullaby'* as a tribute of respect to one who has every right to claim it from a young musician. With regard to the phrase you quote, I am of opinion that it is one of those cases in which a rule must be broken for the sake of the effect gained, for after all, rules in music are but the means to an end, not the end itself; and although I should be the last to transgress wantonly (indeed, I am sometimes taunted with being too much of a purist), yet a slavish adherence to a rule is not less open to stricture, than a reckless disregard of it.

The melody and bass are each moving independently in a sort of fixed progression ; if 5ths turn up it doesn't matter, so long as there is no offence to the ear, and I confess that the phrase you quote doesn't hurt me.

Yours very truly,
Arthur S. Sullivan.

* Hush-a-bye, bacon, on the coal top,
Till I awaken, there you must stop.—(Cox and Box.)

The vein thus opened in this casual way proved to be a veritable Klondyke to Sullivan, especially when he joined Mr. W. S. Gilbert in that remarkable partnership which resulted in 'Trial by Jury,' 'H.M.S. Pinafore,' and others equally popular. Here is a list of Sullivan's dramatic works :—

'Cox and Box' and 'The Contrabandista' (1867), afterwards enlarged as 'The Chieftain' (1894); 'Thespis' (1871); 'Trial by Jury' and 'The Zoo' (1875); 'The Sorcerer' (1877); 'H.M.S. Pinafore' (1878); 'Pirates of Penzance' (1880); 'Patience' (1881); 'Iolanthe' (1882); 'Princess Ida' (1884); 'The Mikado' (1885); 'Ruddigore' (1887); 'The Yeomen of the Guard' (1888); 'Gondoliers' (1889); 'Ivanhoe' (1891); 'Haddon Hall' (1892); 'Utopia' (1893); 'The Grand Duke' (1896); 'The Beauty Stone' (1898); and 'The Rose of Persia' (1899).

His other important works are :—

Incidental Music.

'The Tempest' (1862); 'Merchant of Venice' (1873); 'Merry Wives of Windsor' (1874); 'Henry VIII.' (1878); 'The Foresters' (1892); and 'King Arthur' (1894).

Oratorios, Cantatas, and Other Orchestral Works.

Procession March (1863); Princess of Wales March (1863); 'Kenilworth' Cantata (1864); 'L'Ile Enchantée' Ballet (1864); 'The Sapphire Necklace' Overture (1864); Symphony in E (1866); Concertino for Violoncello (1866); 'In Memoriam' Overture (1866); Overtures, 'Marmion' (1867) and 'Di Ballo' (1870); 'The Prodigal Son' (1869); 'On Shore and Sea' (1871); 'Festival Te Deum' (1872); 'The Light of the World' (1873); 'The Martyr of Antioch' (1880); 'The Golden Legend' (1886); 'Exhibition Ode' (1886); 'Imperial Institute Ode' (1887); 'Imperial March' (1893); and 'Victoria' Ballet (1897).

The appointments held by Sir Arthur Sullivan were as numerous as they were important. He conducted the Glasgow Choral Union concerts, 1875-77, the Leeds Musical Festivals, in succession to Costa, from 1880 to the present time, and the Philharmonic Society, 1885-87. He was for some time Professor of Composition at his alma mater, the Royal Academy of Music, of which he was a Fellow; and Principal of the National Training School for Music, 1876-81. The honours that fell to him included the degrees of Doctor in Music, honoris causâ, by the Universities of Cambridge (1876) and Oxford (1879); Chevalier, Legion of Honour, France, 1878; there were bestowed upon him the Order of the Medjidieh, by the Sultan of Turkey, 1888; the Order of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, and he was a Member of the Royal Victoria Order. On May 22, 1883, he received the honour of Knighthood at the hands of Her Majesty the Queen.

It may be asserted, without fear of contradiction, that Sullivan was a most successful composer. One of the chief secrets of his success was his great and natural gift of melody. But in connection with his wonderful creative faculty, we cannot do better than quote the words of his friend the late Sir George Grove:

> 'Form and symmetry he seems to possess by instinct; rhythm and melody clothe everything he touches; the music shows not only sympathetic genius, but sense, judgment, proportion, and a complete absence of pedantry and pretension; while the orchestration is distinguished by a happy and original beauty hardly surpassed by the greatest masters.'

The last words may be devoted to his church music, in which, as in his many songs and part-songs, his early upbringing in the school of English church music was of the greatest value to him in after years. His anthems are characterised by pure melody and dignified harmony. The same may be said, even in a more marked degree, of his hymn-tunes, which are sung by worshippers of all denominations wherever the English language is spoken. Of these, perhaps, the most popular is his fine martial setting of 'Onward, Christian Soldiers.' And this recalls an anecdote related to the present writer by an American clergyman, who was a fellow passenger with the composer on an Atlantic liner during a voyage to America. It was a Sunday evening in mid-ocean. Hymn-singing was going on in the drawing-room, when someone remarked, 'Let us have "Onward, Christian Soldiers!"' The composer was asked to accompany the tune on the pianoforte. He shyly responded to the invitation. Like a young lady, he was led to the instrument and heartily entered into the spirit of that quiet hour of sacred song on the great waters of the rolling Atlantic.

Now Arthur Sullivan has left the storm-tossed sea of this life, and has passed that bourn from which no traveller returns.

THOMAS ATTWOOD.

(1765—1838.)

The only English pupil of Mozart, and the composer of one of the most devotional anthems in the English Church service, are the primary claims of Thomas Attwood for admittance into the portrait gallery of The Musical Times. But are there not other considerations that justify a biographical sketch of this worthy old musician? We shall see.

Thomas Attwood was born in London, November 23, 1765, and baptized in the Church of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields. His father, also named Thomas Attwood, seems originally to have been a coal merchant. The records of the Royal Society of Musicians—of which he became a Member in 1782—state, however, that Thomas Attwood (Senior) 'performs on the tenor and horn at several private concerts, is one of his Majesty's Band of Musicians and Page to his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, a very sober, discreet man, and not likely to become chargeable to this Society, and has practised music more than seven years.' Like so many distinguished church musicians, Thomas Attwood, the younger, who forms the subject of this sketch, became one of the Children of the Chapel Royal at the age of nine. He therefore received his early musical education under Dr. James Nares and Dr. Edmund Ayrton, the two Masters of the Children during young Attwood's choristership. At about the age of eighteen Attwood performed on the harpsichord at Buckingham House (now Buckingham Palace), when the Prince of Wales, afterwards King George IV., fortunately happened to be present. The Prince was so struck by the talent exhibited by the youth on that occasion that he offered to send the ex-chorister to Italy in order further to pursue his musical studies. The offer was gladly accepted, and for this purpose his Royal Highness assigned to Attwood a sum of money from his private purse.

A PUPIL OF MOZART'S.

In 1783 Attwood left London for Naples. He studied first under Fillipo Cinque, and afterwards received instruction, 'of a more valuable kind,' from Gaetano Latilla, a composer of eminence in his day. But, in the excellent words of Attwood's first biographer, 'perceiving the decline of the Italian School, and foreseeing the ascendancy of that of Germany, he [Attwood] proceeded to Vienna, and immediately became a pupil of Mozart, with whom he soon formed a close intimacy and learnt from him not only the general principles of modern composition, but also those secrets of his art which seldom are, or can be, imparted, but at the favouring opportunities which daily intercourse and friendly conversation afford.' Attwood arrived in Vienna in 1785, where he became Mozart's only English pupil. 'By a singular coincidence,' says Otto Jahn, 'also the English [? Irish] tenor, Michael Kelly, and the English Prima Donna, Nancy Storace, were engaged at the Italian opera.' The genial Irish singer has fortunately placed on record ('Reminiscences of Michael Kelly,' i., 225) an interesting side-light on Mozart's English pupil, which must be quoted:—

> My friend Attwood (a worthy man, and an ornament to the musical world) was Mozart's favourite scholar, and it gives me great pleasure to record what Mozart said to me about him; his words were, 'Attwood is a young man for whom I have a sincere affection and esteem; he conducts himself with great propriety, and I feel much pleasure in telling you, that he partakes more of my style than any scholar I ever had; and I predict, that he will prove a sound musician.' Mozart was very liberal in giving praise to those who deserved it; but felt a thorough contempt for insolent mediocrity.

Not only was Attwood a pupil of the composer of the G minor Symphony, but we are glad to be able to furnish proof that our English musician formed one of the domestic circle in Mozart's family. Here is a letter from Madame Nissen, the composer's widow, to her former husband's old pupil, written thirty-four years after Attwood had left Vienna. This most interesting and curiously expressed epistle has never before been made public.

A LETTER FROM MOZART'S WIDOW TO ATTWOOD.

Mrs. Nissen once Mozart, is truly happy to hear from her old friend Mr. Attwood. The sensible satisfaction she invariably felt in reminding their former amiable acquaintance, which often has been a particular topick of discourse with her present husband (a Dane) gets a new strength by the glad information she owes to the obligingness of Mr. Swaine, of the kind interest that Mr. Attwood not leaves to grant to her past name and of his zeal in promoting its glorification.

Her elder son which Mr. Attwood will recollect to have born in his arms, has left the foot steps of his father, and is employed in his Sovereign's Civil Service at Milano: The younger one seeks those foot steps and as he is not deprived of talents and genius meets with esteem and applause in a travel he has undertaken through Germany. His mother cannot but desire that their English friend might judge convenient to encourage him to a journey to London.

Mrs. Nissen begs Mr. Attwood to receive her warmest thanks for the constancy of his friendship and her eager wishes for his felicity.

Altona, Feby the 5th, 1821.
Constance Nissen.

The subscribed shares the feelings of his wife. Nissen.

Answer if it may be hoped to be directed to

N. The Kings of Denmark actual Counsellor of State, Knight of the Royal order of Danebrog.

ATTWOOD'S HARMONY EXERCISES.

In regard to Attwood's theoretical studies with Mozart, we give two interesting specimens of the young Englishman's exercises and his great master's corrections. These, and many other similar examples, which were formerly in the possession of the late Sir John Goss, now belong to Sir Frederick Bridge, by whose kindness we are enabled to place them before our readers in the form of an Extra Supplement. The first contains a specimen of Mozart's English and his signature. The words '& a half' are apparently in Attwood's writing, in correction of Mozart's 'demy,' so far as can be deciphered under the erasure. The 'bad har.,' in line 2, is a comment of the master which speaks for itself. The second specimen is highly amusing by reason of young Attwood's presumption in assuming that his exercise left 'no room for correction,' and of Mozart's subtle commentary thereupon in the plentiful 'corrections' he has made!

Attwood's departure from Vienna is thus recorded by Michael Kelly :—

> In the first week of February, 1787, I quitted it with a heart full of grief and gratitude. Storace, her mother, her brother, Attwood, and myself, not forgetting Signora Storace's lap-dog, filled the travelling carriage, and with four horses we started for England Ho!

At Munich, on their way home, they visited the beautiful gardens of the Niemptenburg Palace. 'In one of the avenues,' says Kelly, 'I remember Attwood and myself ran a race, and I won it!'

Most of the biographers state that, upon his return to England, Attwood became organist of the Church of St. George the Martyr, Queen Square. But his name is not to be found in the records of the church, and therefore he may have only deputised there for F. C. Reinhold, who held the post from 1772 till after 1809, and probably till his death in 1815. Curiously enough, however, at that time there was a curate at St. George the Martyr named Attwood.*

PAGE OF THE PRESENCE TO THE PRINCE.

Royalty continued to smile on the young man. He conducted a concert at the Duchess of York's, December 6, 1791, and on the 17th of the same month the Morning Chronicle recorded that 'Thomas Attwood, Junr., is appointed Music Master' to Her Royal Highness. In the 'Universal British Directory' of 1793—a kind of 'Whitaker's Almanack' of that day—'T. Attwood, Junr.,' is named as one of the 'Pages of the Presence' in the Household of the Prince of Wales, his former patron. In the same year he was married to Mary, only child of Matthew Denton, Esq., of Stotfold, Bedfordshire; but the marriage took place (August 9, 1793) at St. John's Church, Wapping, and the registers record that both the bridegroom and bride were 'of this parish.'

ORGANIST OF ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

In 1796 Thomas Attwood became organist of St. Paul's Cathedral in succession to John Jones, deceased, whose single achievement is a double chant. He held this important post till his death in 1838, a period of forty-two years. In the same year (1796) he was appointed composer to the Chapel Royal. Both ecclesiastical offices furnished him with fine opportunities for the exercise of his creative faculty in the realm of English church music. Although Attwood died sixty-two years ago, that juvenile veteran, Dr. E. J. Hopkins, remembers him perfectly. In the early thirties Dr. Hopkins was one of the Children of the Chapel Royal. As he had a good voice and was an excellent reader, his master, William Hawes (who was also Almoner of the St. Paul's boys), made young Hopkins do double duty by singing at St. Paul's Cathedral as well as at the Chapel Royal. In this connection he was often brought into personal contact with 'dear old Attwood.' The honorary organist of the Temple Church has therefore very kindly acceded to our request by sending the following personal recollections of the old St. Paul's organist.

DR. E. J. HOPKINS'S RECOLLECTIONS.

> Seventy years ago the idea of neatly printed Services, to be obtained for a few pence per Canticle, had not been even so much as dreamt of, and therefore Attwood was wont to make transcripts of the separate voice parts of his compositions with his own hand. Being 'Composer to His Majesty's Chapel Royal, St. James's,' as well as organist of St. Paul's Cathedral, he would get matters so arranged that a Service of his would be appointed to be sung at both places on the same day. Attwood would then bring up with him on the Sunday morning from Norwood the necessary organ score and single voice parts, carefully wrapped up in brown paper and tied with red tape. These he would entrust to my care before the morning service at St. Paul's; and if I returned them to him safely after the evening service at 'the Chapel,' he would give me sixpence, which addition to my frugal allowance of pocket money was always most welcome.

A COMPOSER OF MUSIC FOR THE THEATRE.

It seems strange, but it is nevertheless true, that Attwood, in his day, gained much distinction as a composer for the stage, and, moreover, at the same time that he held the organistship of St. Paul's Cathedral. The following is an attempt at a complete list of theatrical pieces for the music of which he was responsible, either alone or in collaboration with other composers; one or two of the dates may, however, be considered as approximate. The wide range of subjects covered by this full

* I owe this to the kindness of Mr. J. L. Miller, Superintendent of the Newspaper Room, British Museum, who has been good enough to make the necessary research.

score of musical pieces, comic and otherwise, will not escape attention :—

The Prisoner. (A musical romance) (Non più andrai occurs in this.)	1792
The Mariners. (Musical entertainment)	1793
Carnarvon Castle, or the birth of the Prince of Wales	1793
The Adopted Child	1795
The Poor Sailor, or Little Ben and Little Bob	1795
The Smugglers. (Musical drama)	1796
The Mouth of the Nile. (Musical entertainment) (Nelson's victory at the Nile, Oct. 25, 1798.)	1798
The Devil of a Lover	1798
The Castle of Sorrento. (Comic)	1799
The Red Cross Knights	1799
The Old Cloathsman	1799
A Day at Rome	1799
The Magic Oak, or Harlequin Woodcutter. (Pantomime.) Words by T. Dibdin	1799
True Friends. (A new musical farce.) Words by T. Dibdin	1800
The Domination of Fancy	1800
St. David's Day. (A favourite comic opera.) Words by T. Dibdin	1800
The Escapes, or The Water Carrier (partly from Cherubini)	1801
Il Bondocani, or the Spanish Robber. Words by T. Dibdin	1802
Adrian and Orilla. (An operatic play)	1806
The Curfew	1807

According to Messrs. Broadwood's books (which have been searched at the kind instigation of Mr. A. J. Hipkins), Attwood and his father lived for several years in the same house at 5, Eaton Street, Pimlico. The first mention of the Norwood villa, where the younger Thomas resided (and of which more anon), appears in the year 1814.

Thomas Attwood was one of the original members of the Philharmonic Society upon its formation in 1813. He was its treasurer during the season of 1820, and, at various times, he conducted—that is, 'at the pianoforte'—eighteen of the Society's concerts. Upon the opening of the Royal Academy of Music, in 1823, he formed one of the Board of Professors at that Institution.

The King, George IV., who in the meantime had ascended the throne, did not forget his former protégé. The First Gentleman in Europe appointed Attwood to the organistship of the Private Chapel of the Royal Pavilion at Brighton. The St. Paul's organist, with one or two of the best boys of the Chapel Royal choir, used to post down to Brighton for the week-end in order to assist in performing the musical service before the king. The Morning Post of that time had a very effusive correspondent at Brighton. Here is a specimen of his high-flown style :—

> The harmonious part of the service was sublime. The King's Band was on duty. Mr. Attwood presided at the Organ. Master [S. S.] Wesley, from His Majesty's choir at the Royal Chapel, St. James's, took the soprano and leading parts in the anthem, &c., and with sweet and divine effect. The voluntary, at the close of the service, instead, as designed, to mark the retiring of the assemblage, had the effect of keeping the congregation together, the countenance of each silent auditor appearing to express 'Who can withdraw from such heavenly sounds?' and had not Mr. Attwood desisted, it is impossible to say at what period the Chapel would have been left.—(Morning Post, March 11, 1823.)

FRIENDSHIP WITH MENDELSSOHN.

Not the least interesting feature in the life of Attwood is the fact that the English musician formed a personal connecting link between Mozart and one of that master's devoted disciples, Mendelssohn. When Mendelssohn first visited these shores in 1829, he, curiously enough, journeyed hither in a steamer named 'The Attwood'! A warm friendship soon sprang up between 'dear Mr. Attwood,' then aged sixty-four, and the youthful Mendelssohn of some twenty summers. It found an outlet for its practical expression upon the occasion of a somewhat serious accident which befell the latter in September, 1829, when he was thrown out of a carriage in London. During the weary period of suffering in his lonely London lodgings, Mendelssohn was very kindly treated by his English friends, but by none more so than the Attwoods. He writes to his family in Berlin :—

> Yesterday a great hamper arrived from Mr. Attwood in Surrey; on the top there were splendid flowers, which are now smelling deliciously round my fireside. Under the flowers lay a large pheasant; under the pheasant, a quantity of apples for pies, &c.

A little later—in November—he passed a period of convalescence as the guest of Attwood at his Norwood villa. Here are some extracts from Mendelssohn's home letters. The first is dated 'November 15, 1829' (a Sunday) :—

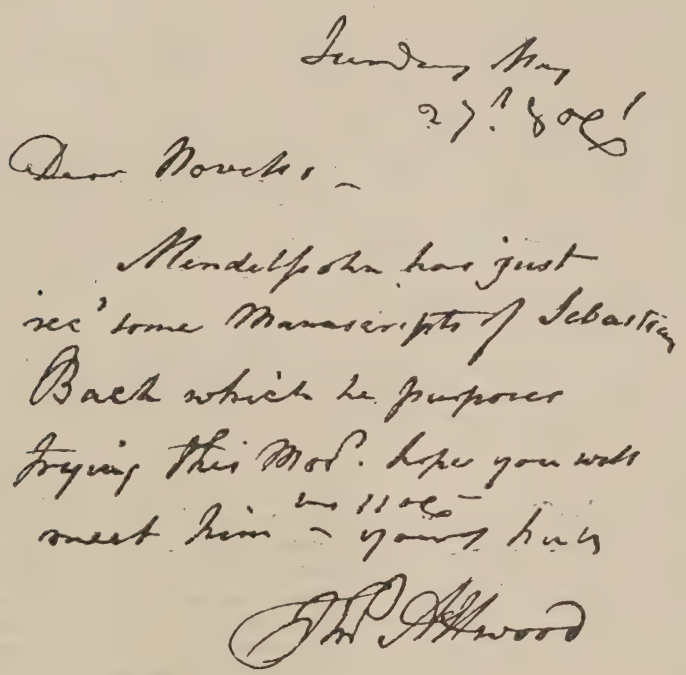
> By the gods, not in vain shall the Attwoods have put this paper on my table, with sealing-wax, pens, and all. . . . I must above all things describe the place. This is Norwood, famous for good air, for it lies on a hill as high as the cross on St. Paul's—so say the Londoners—and I am sitting late at night in my own little room, with the wind howling wildly outside my window, whilst the chimney fire burns very quietly. . . .
>
> In my bedroom luckily stands old Attwood's music-cupboard, with the key in it; so I rummage among the music-books; and after finding the other day no end of Te Deums by Croft, and twenty anthems of Boyce's, and Purcell's psalms, what should meet my eyes in three big volumes but 'Euryanthe: Score'! That was a find! Now I am reading it through very carefully and enjoying it. The old gentleman ordered it over from Germany to get better acquainted with it than from the [vocal score] arrangement. I shall copy one passage from it, as it is very curious; it is the one in G flat, 'Der du die Unschuld kennst.' You know, Fanny, how I always maintained that that passage sounded more like brass than anything else. And what do I find? M. de Weber scores it for three trombones, trumpets, two horns in E flat, and—two horns in D flat!!! Is not that mad? And sweet flutes everywhere! It is lovely music, and it seems strange to me that I should get so well acquainted with Weber's favourite work here in England. . . . Cherubini's Requiem I have found too, and other things, and so the time passes very agreeably.

Is it not peculiarly interesting that a German musician should make his first acquaintance of the score of his fellow countryman's opera in the cupboard of an English organist?

Attwood possessed a white donkey—according to Klingemann, 'one of the most distinguished donkeys that ever ate thistles (but he lives entirely on corn), a plump, milk-white animal, full of vivacity and talent, appointed to draw a very diminutive four-wheeled vehicle.' It was in this donkey-drawn carriage that Mendelssohn derived much health-restoring benefit in various 'processions' and 'caravans' along the highways and byeways of Norwood. It may not be without interest to add that the manuscript of Mendelssohn's familiar pianoforte piece, the Capriccio in E minor (Op. 16), is dated 'Norwood, Surrey, Nov. 18, 1829.' It is also quite possible that his G minor Pianoforte Concerto received some finishing touches in Attwood's villa.

ORGAN PLAYING AT ST. PAUL'S.

Mendelssohn frequently played on Father Smith's fine old organ in St. Paul's Cathedral during his various visits to London. On one occasion he upset the steady-going routine of the vergers by playing so long after one of the services that the words 'Pass out, please,' availed nothing. Thereupon the vergers withdrew the blowers from the scene of their operations, with the result that the organ became windless while Mendelssohn was in the middle of one of Bach's Fugues. We are enabled to re-produce in facsimile an interesting little note, written by Attwood to Vincent Novello—then residing at 67, Frith Street, Soho—on a Sunday morning in May, 1832. This communication was evidently sent from Norwood by hand to Novello, so anxious was Attwood that his friend should be present at St. Paul's Cathedral to hear the new Bach pieces played by Mendelssohn.



Sunday May 27th 1832

Dear Novello,—

Mendelssohn has just rec'd some Manuscripts of Sebastian Bach which he proposes trying this Morg. hope you will meet him at 11 o'c—

yours truly

T. Attwood

FACSIMILE OF A NOTE FROM
THOMAS ATTWOOD TO VINCENT NOVELLO
(MAY 27, 1832).

In one of his letters to Attwood, Mendelssohn encloses a Prelude of J. S. Bach's 'with your favourite fugue [probably the little E minor], and with that other wonderfull piece which I played every Sunday on your organ, and which produced a good effect with your diapasons.' In another letter he says: 'I take the liberty of sending to you two Fugues for the organ which I composed lately, and arranged them as a Duet for two performers, as I think you told me once that you wanted something in that way. The subject of the first Fugue is one which I played extempore one morning on your magnificent organ at St. Paul's, which occurred again to my memory when I thought of the pleasures which I enjoy'd there so often by your kindness and friendship for me.' (On p. 795 we give a view of Father Smith's organ in St. Paul's, as it appeared during Attwood's organistship, with some particulars regarding this fine old instrument.)

Attwood's Letters to Mendelssohn.

Through the kindness of Mrs. Wach, Mendelssohn's only surviving child, we are enabled to give some extracts from the letters written by Attwood to Mendelssohn, the originals of which are included in the 'twenty-seven large thick green volumes' now preserved in the family archives at Leipzig. We may add that these extracts have not hitherto been published:—

Norwood, Surrey,
Nov. 5, 1832.

Dear Mendelssohn,

I am just returned from the Annual meeting of the Philharmonic Society, and though the clock has just struck 12—I cannot go to bed without communicating to you, how truly gratified I have been with the result of this our first meeting since the concerts last season. The first motion made, after the officers were elected, was, that you be requested to compose a Symphonic Overture, and vocal piece—either song, duet, trio, or quartett—for the ensuing season for the Philharmonic concerts; for which they beg to offer you—not as a remuneration, but to prove their esteem and admiration of you both as a man and a highly talented musician—one hundred guineas. You will be gratified to know that if Novello had not been too quick for John Cramer, he would have seconded the motion, as he was much pleased with the proposal and gave it his warmest support; and in justice to all the members present, I have the pleasure to state that the motion passed unanimously.

I trust that not only the aforesaid request may be complied with, but that it will induce you to revisit this country, and that you will bring out the new works under your immediate direction. You know well there are few that will be more happy to see you again than the writer of this epistle. . . .

It grows late, therefore trust you will excuse this hurried scrawl. In the mean time,

Believe me, with united kind regards of all my family,
Yours very sincerely,
Thos. Attwood.

The rivalry between Vincent Novello and John Cramer—'glorious John' of 'Pianoforte Study' fame—to second the motion is very interesting. Who was the proposer? Perhaps Dr. Cummings can enlighten us.

17, Cheyne Walk, Chelsea.
Febr. 9th, 1835.

My dear Mendelssohn, we omit 'Mr.' in England.

I was greatly delighted with the sight of your hand, and could only have a greater pleasure by shaking it. I however hope the time will soon arrive, when I shall have that gratifying opportunity. And now, my kind friend, how shall I sufficiently thank you for your two delightful fugues,* which are truly charming, the pleasure you feel in affording enjoyment to others is the best reward I can offer. I cannot but be proud indeed to find my name in public united with Mendelssohn's, and I assure you that I truly appreciate this distinguished mark of your friendship. This particular instance only confirms the opinion I have always formed of myself; i.e. that I am more indebted for any celebrity to the kindness of my friend than any merit of my own.

You will see by my address that I have changed my residence, with which I am greatly delighted. It fronts the river, and the view reminds one of Cowes in the Isle of Wight. Thank God! my health is greatly improved; and my fatigue in travelling being so much lessened, I enjoy myself much more than I did at Norwood. . . .

We have recently had a new establishment here, which is called the 'Society of British Musicians,' in the hope of bringing forward native talent. I hardly need add that [Sterndale] Bennett stands pre-eminent. I, however, wish you would look at your cloak, or great-coat, lest you should have had a bit cut out of it; for there is a young man of the name of Hatton, who seems to have got a little bit of it, indeed he seems more to assimilate to your style, without plagiary, than any one I have met with. I conclude you know the history of 'Elijah's mantle' in the Bible.

Is it not possible that this cloak reference of Attwood's to the subject of 'Elijah' became the first germ in Mendelssohn's mind of his great oratorio?

Attwood continues:—

I am delighted to find that you are writing an Oratorio on so noble a subject as 'St. Paul,' and have no doubt that you will gratify your friends on this occasion as much as in your former works. I shall be most anxious to hear it.

Feb. 13th.

I saw many of your old friends last night which I shall not pretend to enumerate, as that would fill a sheet. I can only add that they all were anxious in their enquiries about you, and will be equally gratified with the pleasure of seeing you again in England, as well as,

My Dear Mendelssohn,
Yours very sincerely,
Thos. Attwood.

You need not apologise about writing an English letter, as without compliment, I think your's is an excellent one, and not very easy to mend. We say 'long since,' instead of 'since long.' There is little else that I could presume to alter.

It is well known that Mendelssohn dedicated to Thomas Attwood his Three Preludes and Fugues for the organ (Op. 37). But it is not so well known that the title-page of the original German edition records the fact that they were dedicated to the old English organist 'with reverence and gratitude' (mit Verehrung und Dankbarkeit). Until quite recently, this interesting addition to the dedication has never appeared on the English editions!

The Closing Scene of a Good Life.

The remaining incidents of Attwood's career may be briefly told. In 1836, in succession to Stafford Smith, he became one of the organists of the Chapel Royal, St. James's, but he did not live long to enjoy this honourable office. We learn that 'shortly after Christmas (1837) he was attacked by a malady which required prompt treatment; but unhappily for his family and friends, his predilection for a new system of medicine prevented his having recourse to sanctioned remedies, till his disease had attained the mastery and his case had become hopeless.' He died at his residence,

* The Preludes and Fugues for the Organ (Op. 37), dedicated by Mendelssohn to Attwood.

17, Cheyne Walk, Chelsea, on March 24, 1838, aged seventy-two. His remains were deposited in the crypt of St. Paul's, under the organ he loved so well and in the great Cathedral where he had held the office of 'chief musician' for nearly half-a-century. A large congregation was present to do honour to one who was so highly respected and beloved. His own beautiful Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F, and Greene's pathetic anthem, 'Lord! let me know mine end,' were sung at his funeral. One of the chorister boys who took part on that mournful occasion was Master Walter Macfarren, who five months before had officiated in a similar capacity at the interment of Samuel Wesley. The following inscription was placed on the tombstone—which has recently been restored by Mr. John S. Bumpus and Mr. John E. West:—

Under this stone | lie the | mortal remains of
Thomas Attwood
who was appointed | organist of | this Cathedral, 1796.
He departed this life | the 24th March, 1838, in the 73rd year of his age.

Among the pupils of Attwood were the violinist, George Augustus Polgreen Bridgetower — which establishes a link between Beethoven and Attwood — Cipriani Potter, John Ella, H. Hugo Pierson, the Walmisleys (father and son), and John Goss, the last-named being his successor in the organistship of St. Paul's Cathedral.

A PIONEER OF ENGLISH CHURCH MUSIC.

The fame of Attwood as a composer will be preserved in his church music, which, however, he did not begin to write until comparatively late in life. In many respects he may be regarded as the father of modern church music. As Sir John Stainer says: 'Attwood deserves an important place in any sketch of the history of Services for the bold attempt to attach to the words music which should vary as to their character. This had, of course, been done to some extent before his time, but nearly always with a polite leaning to the conventionalities of the past. Attwood struck out a fresh path.' The same remarks may be applied to his melodious anthems.

COMPOSITIONS.

The following is a skeleton list of Attwood's compositions, excluding the dramatic works, a list of which has been given on p. 790:—

Services: Morning and Evening in F (1796); in A (1825); in C (1832); in D (1831 and 1832); and in B flat (unpublished).

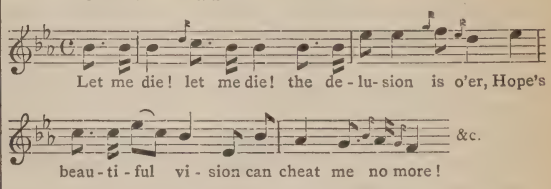
Several settings of the Sanctus and Kyrie in various keys, amongst the latter being a setting with different music for each repetition of the words, after the example of Matthew Lock.

Anthems: Nineteen (probably more), some of which still remain in manuscript.

Secular Vocal Music: Numerous glees and songs—of the former the best known are 'In peace Love tunes the shepherd's reed' and 'To all that breathe the air of Heaven'; and of the latter, 'The Soldier's tear,' which long maintained its popularity.

Pianoforte Music: Many sonatas and lessons.

The following song was composed by Attwood some twenty years before Horn's 'Cherry Ripe' appeared:—



THE CORONATION ANTHEMS.

Of Attwood's anthems the most important, in regard to scope, are the two he composed for the Coronations of George IV., in 1821, and William IV., in 1830. Both these works—'I was glad' (sung also at the Coronations of William IV. and Queen Victoria) and 'O Lord, grant the King a long life'—were written with full orchestral accompaniment. As Ouseley somewhat quaintly says: 'It was not for nothing that he [Attwood] had been the disciple of the greatest orchestral composer the world had yet seen. The influence of Mozart's teaching was unmistakeably seen in Attwood's compositions for the orchestra. As examples of this we would refer to his two magnificent coronation anthems for full orchestra and chorus. . . . These are indeed, both of them, works of the highest merit.' In his setting of 'O Lord, grant the King a long life,' Attwood played a pretty compliment to the Sailor King (William IV.) by introducing 'Rule, Britannia,' into the instrumental introduction of the anthem. This preludial movement (Allegro maestoso, thirty-five bars long) is first given without the nautical theme, but on its repetition, played softly, the trumpet and horn give out Dr. Arne's fine old tune forte, which must have had a thrilling effect in Westminster Abbey. Why should not this fine work be performed at a Festival? Attwood also composed a second anthem (in addition to 'I was glad') for the coronation of his patron, George IV.; this has not been published. He was also, again in his official capacity, engaged upon a similar work for the Coronation of our beloved Queen, when the hand of death stilled that of the genial old composer. What has become of the manuscript? It may be interesting to mention that the setting of 'They that go down to the sea in ships' was composed by him when he was in his seventieth year. The familiar short anthems, 'Turn Thy face from my sins' and 'Enter not into judgment' made their first appearance in a publication, issued by Parker in 1834-35, entitled:—

Sacred Minstrelsy: A Collection of Sacred Music by the Great Masters of all ages and nations, consisting of Anthems, Solos, Duets, Trios, &c., with Accompaniment for Piano and Organ.

'COME, HOLY GHOST.'

One of the best known anthems by Thomas Attwood, and certainly one of the most devotional in the whole range of English church music, is his simple setting of the words 'Come, Holy Ghost, our souls inspire.' There is a very interesting anecdote concerning its composition which Mr. John S. Bumpus relates as part of a conversation he once had with the late Mr. John George Boardman, the well-known organist, who died July 2, 1898. Boardman, as a chorister of St. Paul's seventy years ago, was the first to sing the solo in Attwood's 'Come, Holy Ghost.' The composer was specially requested by Bishop Blomfield to furnish a new setting of Bishop Cosin's translation. This was on the eve of his Trinity ordination in 1831. The finishing touches were only put to the composition by Attwood whilst he was driving in his gig from Norwood to St. Paul's. On his way to the Cathedral he 'picked up' young Boardman, who lived at Brixton, and told him to look over the manuscript of the treble solo, as he intended him to sing it at that very service.'

The anthem was published in December, 1831, by J. Alfred Novello, with the following modest title :—

Come, Holy Ghost | a Hymn for four voices | with an accompaniment for the | organ or piano forte | composed by | Thomas Attwood | organist of St. Paul's Cathedral. London | Published (for the composer) by Jos. Alfred Novello, 67, Frith Street, Soho Square, | where may be had the Sanctus and Responses in G and the Coronation Anthem in D by the same composer.

PERSONALITY.

Thomas Attwood was a musician of rare gifts and a man of an attractive personality. He was greatly beloved by all who knew him, and, as one of his biographers has said : 'He was no less to be valued as a member of society than as an artist who did honour to the country of his birth.' The Dean of St. Paul's at the time of Attwood's death (Dean Copplestone, who was also Bishop of Llandaff), in a letter of condolence to one of the old organist's sons,* said : 'It will not be easy to supply his place, either in point of musical talent, or of moral worth. He was a sincerely religious and conscientious man ; and this consideration ought soon to reconcile his family to their loss—for he is doubtless gone to his reward.'

Mr. Arthur Walmisley (brother of the late Thomas Attwood Walmisley), in a letter to the present writer, says: 'Mr. Thomas Attwood was much beloved by me, and I was walking with him a week before he died, seeing him home to Cheyne Walk, Chelsea. He was full of anecdote and wit, which he principally gained from his friend Sidney Smith, Canon of St. Paul's, after service was over, in the Combination Room.' Would that those Combination Room witticisms had been recorded!

Finally, Mendelssohn bears beautiful tribute to the affection he felt for his venerable English friend in the following extracts from letters to Karl Klingemann :—

'Some fellows are old at 14, but there are men who are young at 70. Attwood is such an one.'

Again, after the visit of the inexorable Messenger to Cheyne Walk :—

'Please write soon and tell me something of our dear Attwood. I heard of his death through an English paper, and then a letter of [Sterndale] Bennett's confirmed the sad news. I deeply deplore his loss. Tell me if you know any details. I know for certain that I shall not meet again in this life so kind an artist, so benevolent and amiable a character.'

F. G. E.

FATHER SMITH'S ORGAN IN ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

As a sequel to the foregoing biographical sketch of Thomas Attwood, we give a full-page view of the organ in St. Paul's as it appeared in his day. This view is reproduced from an engraving dated 1819, when the organ stood on the choir screen, and where it remained till the screen was removed in 1860. Bernard Schmidt—or, as he was subsequently called, 'Father Smith'—came from Germany to this country in 1660. The St. Paul's organ was the thirteenth (!) instrument built by him in England. Sir George Martin has unearthed some very interesting particulars from the Cathedral records in regard to the building of the old organ, from which we cannot do better than quote.

The first entry appears in the account book between November 1, 1695, and the last day of the same month, and it reads thus :—

ffor Iron work for a new sledge to bring ye Organ Pipes to ye Church, wt. 1 c. 2 qrs. 12 lbs. at 4d. per lb... .. .. .. 03 : 05 : 00
ffor Carriage of Organ Pipes from Suffolk Street to ye Church with one teame, 2 days 01 : 04 : 00

Between July, 1700, and the last day of September following, there is found a very important entry :—

To Bernard Smith, Organ Maker, being paid at severall times as per vouchers in ye acquittance book in part for the Organ in the Choire at St. Pauls' Church .. .. 1600 : 00 : 00

The following was the Specification :—

THE FIRST LIST.

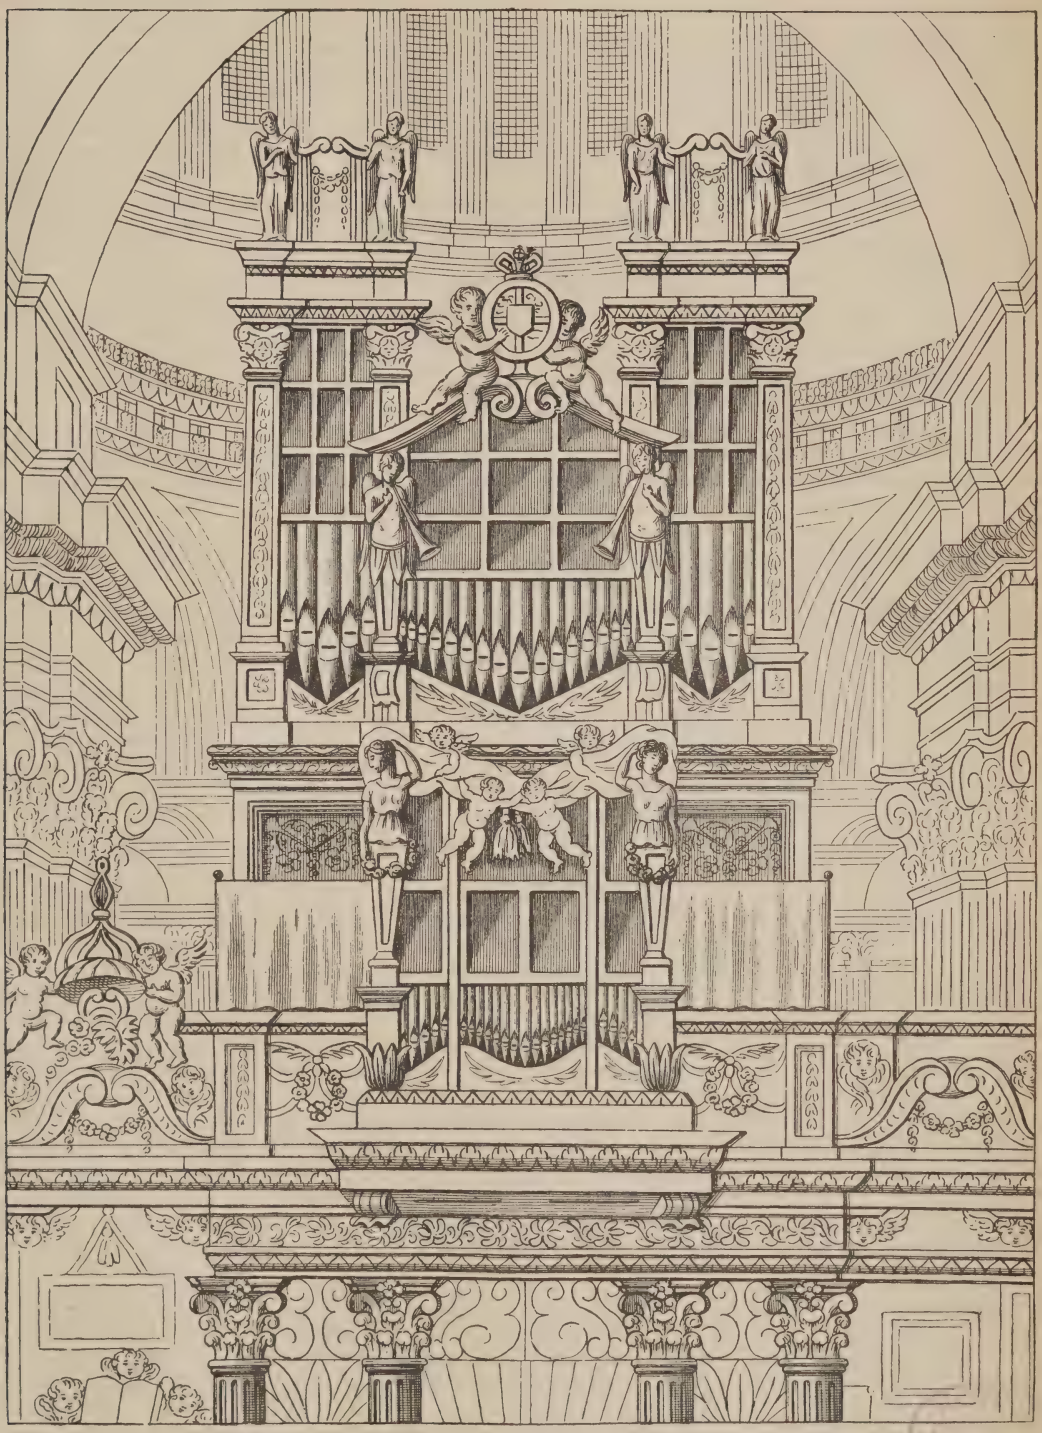
(To be ready September 25th, 1695.)

Stops in the Great Organ.

Two open diapasons.*	Cornet.
Stop diapason.	Mixtures.
Principall.	Sesquialtera.
Great twelfth.	Trumpet.
Fifteenth.

* The Rev. George Attwood, M.A., late Fellow of Pembroke College, Cambridge, who died at the Rectory, Framlingham, July 22, 1884, aged eighty-nine, after having held that living for forty-seven years.

* 'Front pipes' and 'Back pipes'—i.e., one open diapason facing the dome, the other on the Choir or keyboard side of the case.



FATHER SMITH'S ORGAN IN ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

(Specification—Continued.)

Stops in the Chayre Organ.

Principall.	Voice humane.
Stop diapason.	Crum horne.
Hol fleut.

Echoes or Halfe Stops.

Diapason.	Cornet.
Principall.	Trumpet.

THE SECOND LIST.

(To be ready by Lady Day, 1696.)

Stops in the Great Organ.

Hol fleut.	Small twelfths.

Stops in the Chayre Organ.

Quinta dena diapason.	Fifteenth.
Great twelfth.	Cimball.

Echoes or Halfe Stops.

Fifteenth.	Nason.

'Extras' were not unknown to organ builders, nor to those who had to pay them, even two centuries ago. One disbursement, in September, 1696, was—

For the Frame within ye case to support ye Pipes and Sound Boardes .. .. .. 40 : 00 : 00

Later on there were two payments of £90 and £66 10s. respectively for 'guilding ye Organ Pipes.' Among numerous odds and ends in the way of charges was one of £16 8s. for 'Charcoale and old coale for Mr. Smith'! Considering the value of money in those days as compared with that of our own, it cannot be said that this organ-building transaction, which amounted to £2,000, was an unprofitable one to Father Smith; but, as Sir George Martin rightly says, 'he was a Stradivarius in organ building,' and, moreover, 'a fine old artist who worked conscientiously.'

The engraving shows a curious feature in this old instrument—the glazed windows in front of the pipes. These odd-looking appurtenances were intended to keep out the dust and were drawn down when the organ was not in use. They could never have fulfilled their object, and they cost a considerable sum of money. First, Mr Charles Hopson, joiner, made the frames at £31 10s.; secondly, Grinling Gibbons carved them for £8 18s. 8d.; and then Mr. John Oliver supplied the glass—eighty-nine panes 'for the incredible sum of £117 14s.' But, as Sir George Martin slyly remarks, 'we must not forget that the glass was Christalle.' The eight statue angels—about 5 feet 6 inches in height, and carved in oak—on the top of the organ, cost £20 each, and

The Drapery and whole Boys, and two halfe Boys .. .. £25 : 00 : 00

These young gentlemen—whole and semi-juveniles—adorn the central panel of pipes in the Chayre Organ, above where the organist sits. In regard to the case, Mr. Charles Hopson was paid the sum of £339 15s. 10d. for his joinery work, while Grinling Gibbons received £610 18s. 2d. for his masterly carving—'an inheritance that can never be replaced.'

The case was designed by Sir Christopher Wren. But when Father Smith came to put in his large open diapason pipes (the lowest was CCC) they appeared 'through the top nearly a foot in length, and spoiled the appearance entirely.' Smith then entertained hopes of an entirely new case, so as to enable him to get in three stops that had been necessarily omitted; but 'Sir Christopher, who previously would not suffer any ornaments on the top, was now obliged to add several feet, or else alter the case, which vexed him exceedingly.' Thereupon the angels on the top of each of the side-tiers were added to hide the tops of the projecting pipes. The case—a double one, of course—was the same back and front, and when the divided organ plan was adopted by Father Willis forty years ago, the old case was merely divided and made into the two cases which now form such prominent features on the north and south sides of the Choir.

Even in Attwood's day Father Smith's organ underwent some changes. Crang changed the 'Echoes' into a swell (tenor C compass), and Bishop added an octave of pedal pipes in 1826, previous to which the pedals—two octaves—merely pulled down the great organ keys.

A very remarkable feature of this old organ was its sixteen feet manual ompass, to CCC, the lower notes of which reverberated in the great Cathedral with magnificent effect. In this connection a Sidney Smith story may be related, although it refers to the organistship of Sir John Goss, Attwood's successor. A regular worshipper in the Cathedral was Miss Maria Hackett, the choristers' friend. Whenever there were any references to 'storms and tempests' in the Psalms for the day, the organ, through the instrumentality of the organist, would give forth a deep thunderous 'roll,' to the great delight of dear Miss Hackett, who would look up at the instrument with a smile of intense satisfaction.

On one occasion, when the Psalms for the day had been unusually charged with atmospheric disturbances, and the organ had been exceedingly tempestuously inclined, the good lady's countenance beamed almost incessantly. At the conclusion of the service Sidney Smith (who was Canon in residence) said to the organist: 'Mr. Goss, I don't know whether you have ever observed the remarkable phenomenon, that whenever your organ thunders, Miss Hackett's face lightens!'

FUTURE-MUSIC.

The future does not come from before to meet us, but comes streaming up from behind, over our heads.

Rahel.

Whoever lists can hear the feet of a new era at the door, and the present issue of The Musical Times is this journal's final contribution to the records of the nineteenth century. We all, of course, know the beginning or end of an age as a purely artificial point in the unbroken and indivisible stream of time. Yet those of us who can turn our minds from the petty concerns of the moment do not approach it without grave thoughts and an impression of awe, largely due to the ever-present and, under such circumstances, profoundly touching mystery of the future. Not many philosophers and poets who have faced that mystery have turned cheerfully away. One tells us that we shall discover the future to be 'a desert waste; in the centre, a stagnant and Lethean lake, over which wheel and shriek the dark-winged birds, the embodied memories of the past.' And the greatest of all poets declares:

> O if this were seen,
> The happiest youth—viewing his progress through,
> What perils past, what crosses to ensue,
> Would shut the book, and sit him down and die.

It is in the dark that imagination conjures up shapes of greatest terror, and before the thick curtain that hides from us what is to be, the baffled pride of intellect, and the working of apprehension, raise the forms of depression and fear.

But we are not left without some guide. At the head of this article stands a pregnant sentence, which, in a powerful figure, asserts the essential continuity of events. 'The future does not come from before to meet us.' It is no product of new and alien forces, which will impose upon us conditions and influences unexampled in the history of our race. The future 'comes streaming up from behind over our heads.' I have called this a powerful figure, and truly does it not appeal to the imagination with tremendous strength? We see the march of man into the unknown; the break-up of that which he has left behind, and its more rapid flight to a point where it waits to surround him with the influences, to animate him with the motives, and to assert the immutability of the fundamental conditions which have attended him from birth. Thus does the future grow out of the past; this is why history repeats itself, and there is nothing new under the sun.

One has only to consider the matter propounded by the philosopher in order to lessen natural anxiety as regards the future. Apart from surface conditions, the days to come will be even as those that have gone, governed by the same determining forces, and having over all the same God—Him whose word is 'I change not.' How do all these considerations bear upon the subject of Music? They indicate, to begin with, that the signs of its future must be gathered from the past. The present is of small avail. It is but a point between two immensities.

> Lo, on a narrow neck of land,
> 'Twixt two unbounded seas I stand.

The lines of Wesley's hymn offer an exact parallel. From the present we can get no data as a help to conclusions, and it is valueless unless linked to the past and, by a sort of violence, incorporated with it.

Music is sometimes called the youngest of the arts, but its story covers space enough for whatever observation is necessary to determine the principles by which it is governed, and by which our judgment should be guided. But it is needful, first of all, to clear the vision from exaggerated impressions made upon it by the events and circumstances of the present. This step is a preliminary essential to any exercise of the historic sense. 'That which is nearest us touches us most,' but its real value is only ascertained when we have it in a perspective view of the past. We read now, with amused wonder, how the musical world was rent in twain, a few generations ago, by the quarrels of Gluckists and Piccinists. The contestants fought as though the existence of the art depended upon the issue. They flooded town and country with argument and invective. They let their angry passions rise—an error which Isaac Watts forbids even to children, and, with their loud cries and weapon-clashing, they disturbed the atmosphere of a nation. Looking back upon the struggle across the intervening years, it seems to us no more important than the battles of kites and crows to which Milton compared the wars of the Saxon Heptarchy. It settled nothing; it did not even affect the course of music, for Gluck's reforms would in any case have given to the art, as a permanent possession, all in themselves which was worth preserving. Let us hope that the authors of so much sound and fury lived long enough to adopt Puck's estimate of quarrelling humanity, crying from their hearts, 'Lord, what fools these mortals be'! This should teach us not to carry into our study of history the exaggerations of the present. The student of the past is best equipped when to him belongs the passionless mood of a scientific investigator. In the eyes of such an one how does the course of music appear? Has the art changed in any way or in any degree which can be called fundamental? That its manifestations have varied, even as they will always vary, is a fact too obvious to need demonstration; but if these be examined it will be found that they are the product, not of transformation in things essential, but of circumstances more or less adventitious. New instruments are invented, and old ones improved; musical forms wear out and are replaced by others of another pattern; a particular generation suffers from an excess of emotionalism, or is neurotic and morbid; a powerful genius arises and, like some new planet, draws towards himself the whole system of which he is a member. These and other influences come into operation, have their day, and make room for successors. But, just as beneath the surface waters of a storm-swept sea lies an eternal calm, so the 'bed-rock' of music remains changeless amid eternal change. That which composers say now has been said before under different conditions. It is the old story. The tooth of time gnaws, and leaves its mark, but cannot consume. Music, as a thoughtful writer has said of life, 'like Penelope of old, is ever weaving and unweaving the same web.' And the reason is that music is more intimately allied than any other art with the humanity which is now as it was in the beginning, and ever will be. Music is the speech of human nature. It has many dialects, determined by physical environment and racial temperament; but it is ever true to its source in the heart of man.

Looking back upon the course of music through the dying century, the calm observer is struck by its freedom from sudden deviations, and disconcerting changes of level. Yet those who have lived through a majority of the hundred years are conscious of surprise as they turn and gaze upon the way they have come. So the traveller who has reached a commanding summit after wandering among foot-hills is astonished to find that the broken country he has traversed looks like a plain, all its local inequalities lost in the general perspective. This, in the case of music, is not merely an appearance. Let the aforesaid calm observer compare the music of the century's beginning with the product of its closing days and say how much the one really differs from the other, and in what degree the later utterances reveal things which the earlier did not anticipate. Take especially the romantic element in our art, now the more particularly cited because it is regarded as a product of, so to speak, the day before yesterday. But, in truth, have we gone beyond the romanticism of Beethoven, who, a hundred years ago, was pluming his wings for the eagle flight which carried him above the ken of his generation, and even of the generation which came after him. Yet it may be said that even the romanticism of Beethoven was not new. Its spirit, and much of its expression, may be found in the opening movement of Mozart's Fantasia-Sonata in C minor, where we recognise a manifest art revelation. But let us not go behind our own century.

That the romanticism of the moment is more general than was that of the passing era's early decades is of course obvious, and its growth may be traced to the force of example, to the ease of a beaten path, and the quickened susceptibilities of the age. It is also more pronounced and emphatic, less scrupulous in choice of subjects, and more free in the use of means—conditions which, perhaps, are not entirely to be counted among advantages, or considered as evidence of real progress. Yet, in spite of all, the great early-century romanticist continues to hold the field. Among descriptive works is no serious rival of the 'Pastoral' Symphony, nor in the sublimated region of pure music—of poetry without words—can anything be compared to the Symphonies in C minor and A major. Of progress, in the sense of radical change, little can be discerned. We must not confound variety with advance, however grateful we may be for it; however strong our sense of an indebtedness which is actually past all counting. Truly, the variety is immense. Nations which were silent when the century was young have since lifted up their voices with all the force and energy in which consciousness of newly-acquired power delights. Nor is this all. These juveniles of the art have enriched it with the products of before unproductive temperaments. They have given us a wealth of fresh feeling and expression, often crude, boisterous, exaggerated, but good material for shaping by the classical taste which is ever working for the survival of the fittest, as well as the destruction of the unfit.

As in the case of romantic music, so with other forms of the art. What of progress, genuine, unmistakable progress, has the century shown in oratorio? True, the latest variation is represented by a distinct movement towards the continuity of modern opera. But this is not a creation; it is purely imitative; and, as a change, more apparent than real. We have abandoned the formal division into 'numbers,' each having a full close and each, from a constructive point of view, standing alone. But, as a matter of fact, more or less obvious in a large majority of cases, the 'numbers' still remain, the chief difference being that they are linked together by an orchestral connection and by, in most instances, the avoidance of full closes. Beyond this, and greater freedom of dramatic expression, oratorio remains very much as it was in the early years of the century. It is true that our composers have almost entirely ceased to write works of the kind, or, if not, prefer a shortened form, in dimensions no greater than the regulation cantata. Few will venture to say that, as facts stand, the end of the century compares favourably with the splendidly productive first half, which gave us the 'Creation,' the 'Last Judgment,' 'St. Paul,' and 'Elijah.' In the department of chamber music, the sub-division of pianoforte compositions excepted, we are still mainly dependent upon the classics, the form of which sturdily maintains itself, even in the works of our greatest moderns, and the beauty of which remains unapproached. We might extend our purview through other departments, and still find that, while details have varied, nothing of fundamental importance has suffered radical change. Of eccentricity there is abundance, but this the Zeitgeist sooner or later flicks away with a housemaid's duster.

Thus taking stock of the past, there is not much reason for concern with regard to the future. Doubtless the twentieth century will be subject to the same law as its predecessors—the law of change without revolution; of development without dislocation; of the continued life of that which deserves to live, and the extinction of whatever is worthy to die. I, for one, see no reason to anticipate any other issue. The same conditions are operative now as before, and from them spring the same influences, while human nature, upon which all depends, is certainly the same. What is the lesson? What but this—that we should not be unduly apprehensive when, as it seems to us, dangerous heresies abound, and heresiarchs, like Will-o'-the-Wisp, are waving their lanterns on the verge of swamps and bogs; that the confidence inspired by knowledge of the past should have its outcome in calm judgment of whatever threatens to shake it; that we are not advancing to points where the radically new and strange will meet us to perplex, and, may-hap, destroy, but in the direction of others where the dominant conditions of the past, having flown over our heads, have settled down, and wait to greet us as tried and proven friends. Under such circumstances, we, who are concerned for music, who are jealous for its purity, and champions, in our small way, of its distinction, may easily follow Longfellow in going forth to meet the future, 'without fear and with a manly heart.' Armed with such faith we can step without shrinking over the border line of the century.

Joseph Bennett.

OCCASIONAL NOTES.

Hans von Bülow could write a very amusing letter even in English. Here is a specimen epistle, written to an unknown correspondent in the land o' cakes, and which, appropriately enough, concludes in a somewhat culinary vein:—

Glasgow,
Nov. 28 [1877].

Dear Sir,

Miss Arnim will sing 'To Mary in Heaven,' lament by Burns. I have arranged the music for her. I shall accompany her—nay, 'the pipers,' if the audience were to ask for an encore.

Instead of Ouv. Masaniello, I think it better to play Weber's Jubelouverture (with the 'God save'). I trust you have the music.

Hoping to meet with you to-night, as there are many other Haddocks in our kitchen waiting for being fried.

Yours truly,
H. v. Bülow.

Colonel F. O. Barrington Foote, half-pay, Royal Artillery, has been appointed Commandant of the Royal Military School of Music, Kneller Hall, from the 10th inst., succeeding Colonel Farquhar Glennie, whose time then expires.

Dr. H. A. Harding (of Bedford) has been appointed External Examiner in Music at Victoria University (Manchester) for the next three years, in succession to the late Dr. Swinnerton Heap.

Dr. Hugh Percy Allen, organist of Ely Cathedral, succeeds the late Dr. James Taylor in the organistship of New College, Oxford.

Those who are interested in the study of acoustics may turn with interest to the letter of our Special correspondent in America, Mr. H. E. Krehbiel, in another column. While on the subject of Foreign Correspondence, we may call special attention to the letters from our new Special Correspondents in Berlin and Vienna, as inaugurating a feature which we hope will prove to be acceptable to our readers. The names of the writers of these interesting communications are a sufficient guarantee of their fitness for the duties they have kindly undertaken.

(From a Photograph by Aimé Dupont, New York.)

M. Eugène Ysaye.

The eminent violinist, whose portrait we give above, was born at Liège, July 16, 1858. He entered the Conservatoire of his native city, and subsequently studied with Vieuxtemps at Brussels. He passed through the rank and file stage of a violinist as leader in Bilse's orchestra in Berlin. From 1881 he made a great reputation by his concert tours, and in 1886 he was appointed professor of the violin at the Brussels Conservatoire. M. Ysaye has composed half-a-dozen violin concertos and variations on a theme by Paganini; but all his music, with the exception of a few small pieces, as yet remains in manuscript. Concerning M. Ysaye's genius as a violinist of the first rank it is hardly necessary to speak. Testimony to his great conducting gifts will be found in another column. The facsimile signature on the following page, which the genial violinist-conductor has been kind enough to write specially for The Musical Times, may be accepted as his reply to the charge made against him by some of the London critics, who stated that, as an orchestral conductor, he is prone to favour the tempo rubato.

Mod^to
Etude Poème n:o 6
La Mesure n'est pas la Vie dans la Musique. — La Vie C'est le Rythme — et le Rythme est la Négation de la Mesure

M. YSAYE'S CONTRIBUTION TO 'THE MUSICAL TIMES' (IN FACSIMILE).

(See previous page.)

Curiously enough, and quite in the nature of additional side-lights to the article on Thomas Attwood in another column, Messrs. Sotheby sold, on the 23rd ult., thirteen letters from Mendelssohn to Thomas Attwood and two to his eldest son, the Rev. George Attwood, which, previous to the sale, were in the possession of the old organist's grandson, Mr. G. Carew Reynell Attwood. (By the way, Messrs. Sotheby's cataloguer refers to him as the 'grandson of Sir Thomas Attwood'; but Attwood was never knighted, though his three distinguished successors in the organistship of St. Paul's Cathedral, Sir John Goss, Sir John Stainer, and Sir George Martin, have been the recipients of that honour at the hands of the Queen.) These letters, which are all written in English, cover the period between July 16, 1829, and September 11, 1837. In one, dated 'Berlin, Jan. 15, 1833,' Mendelssohn writes:—

I hope to see you in some months and to make music with you, to come down to Norwood, to compose in the cottage, to enjoy you and your family more quietly than I did last year, and all that pleasure I shall owe entirely to you.

Writing on the following 10th of February, and referring to 'a disagreeable accident' which had befallen Attwood, he says:—

It is to you I owe many happy moments during the illness that kept me so long in my room. . . . When I shall see you I hope you will have forgotten all about it [the accident], and write and play the organ and fence (if ever you did that), as well as before.

Again, in the same letter:—

We had here the other day a kind of musical festival. There was Mozart's birthday, and they celebrated it with the favourite enjoyments of my countrymen: music and a supper. They performed his symphony in G minor, some vocal pieces from his operas, and the Quintetto in G minor. I played the Concerto in C minor, and at the end of the concert there was a chorus from Titus with words adapted to the occasion. The music went so so, but the supper went the better for it, and at midnight they were all drunk, except Spontini and some ladies.

Then follows a more sober reference:—

I thought I should write an overture to another play of Shakespeare and bring it over with me.

Our last extract is from a letter, dated 'Düsseldorf, 28 May, 1836,' in high praise of Sterndale Bennett, whom Attwood seems to have introduced to Mendelssohn. The Festival referred to was that of the Lower Rhine Musical Festival, held in 1836, at Düsseldorf, when Mendelssohn's 'St. Paul' was first performed.

I cannot avail myself of Mr. Bennett's departure for London to send you these lines, and to tell you how grateful I am to you for having procured me his acquaintance, I know it is owing to your advice that he went to visit the festival, and therefore it is to you that I ought to address my thanks, for all the pleasure he gave me by his compositions and his playing. I think him the most promising musician I know, not only in your country but also here, and I am convinced if he does not become a very great musician it is not God's will, but his own. His Concerto and Symphony are so well written, the thoughts so well developed and so natural, that I was highly gratified when I looked over them yesterday; but when he played this morning his six studies and the sketches, I was quite delighted, and so were all my musical friends who heard him.

Mr. Stewart Macpherson, who left England in June last on an examining tour for the Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music in the British Colonies, is on his way home, with an examination call at Colombo en route. Mr. Macpherson expects to arrive in England during the present month, and to resume his London engagements at the beginning of the New Year.

CROWN HIM THE VIRGIN'S SON

A PASTORAL ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS AND EPIPHANY-TIDE

Words from H. A. & M., No. 304. COMPOSED BY

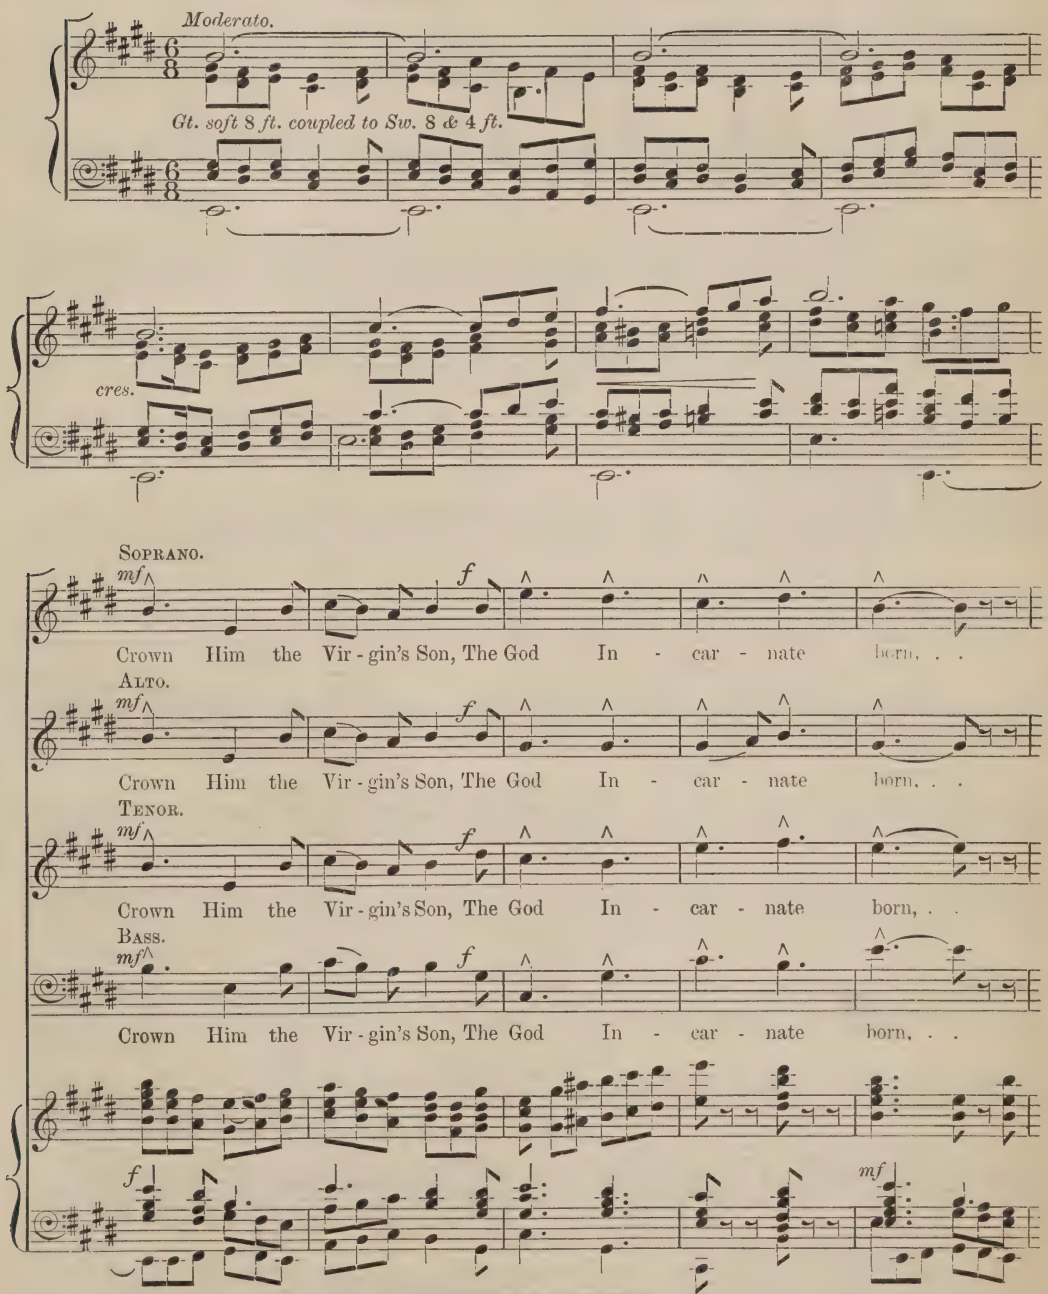
BERTRAM LUARD SELBY.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.



Moderato.
Gt. soft 8 ft. coupled to Sw. 8 & 4 ft.
cres.
SOPRANO.
mf
f
Crown Him the Vir - gin's Son, The God In - car - nate born, . .
ALTO.
Crown Him the Vir - gin's Son, The God In - car - nate born, . .
TENOR.
Crown Him the Vir - gin's Son, The God In - car - nate born, . .
BASS.
Crown Him the Vir - gin's Son, The God In - car - nate born, . .
f
mf

Copyright, 1900, by Novello and Company, Limited.

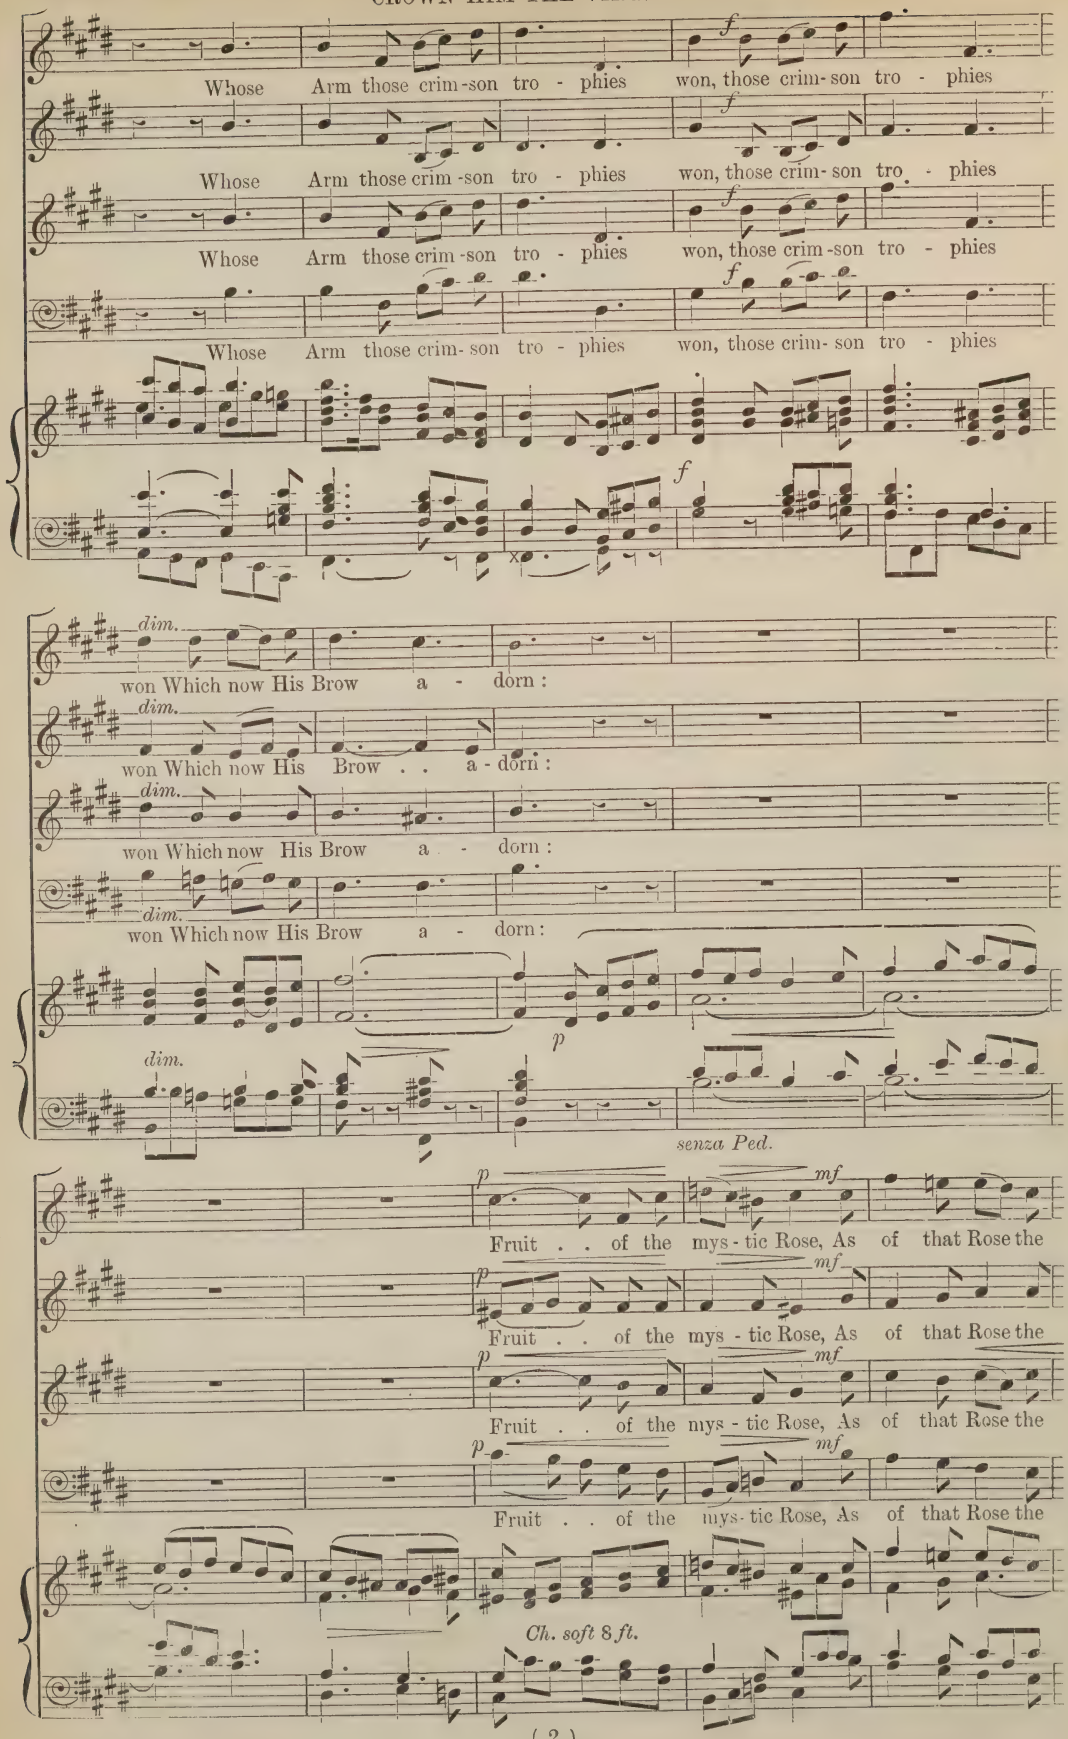
CROWN HIM THE VIRGIN'S SON.



Whose Arm those crim-son tro - phies won, those crim-son tro - phies
Whose Arm those crim-son tro - phies won, those crim-son tro - phies
Whose Arm those crim-son tro - phies won, those crim-son tro - phies
Whose Arm those crim-son tro - phies won, those crim-son tro - phies
dim.
won Which now His Brow a - dorn :
dim.
won Which now His Brow . . a - dorn :
dim.
won Which now His Brow a - dorn :
dim.
won Which now His Brow a - dorn :
dim.
senza Ped.
Fruit . . of the mys - tic Rose, As of that Rose the Fruit . . of the mys - tic Rose, As of that Rose the Fruit . . of the mys - tic Rose, As of that Rose the Fruit . . of the mys - tic Rose, As of that Rose the Ch. soft 8 ft.

p
cres.
Stem ; . . The Root whence mer - cy ev - er flows, the Root whence mer - cy ev - er flows, The Horn
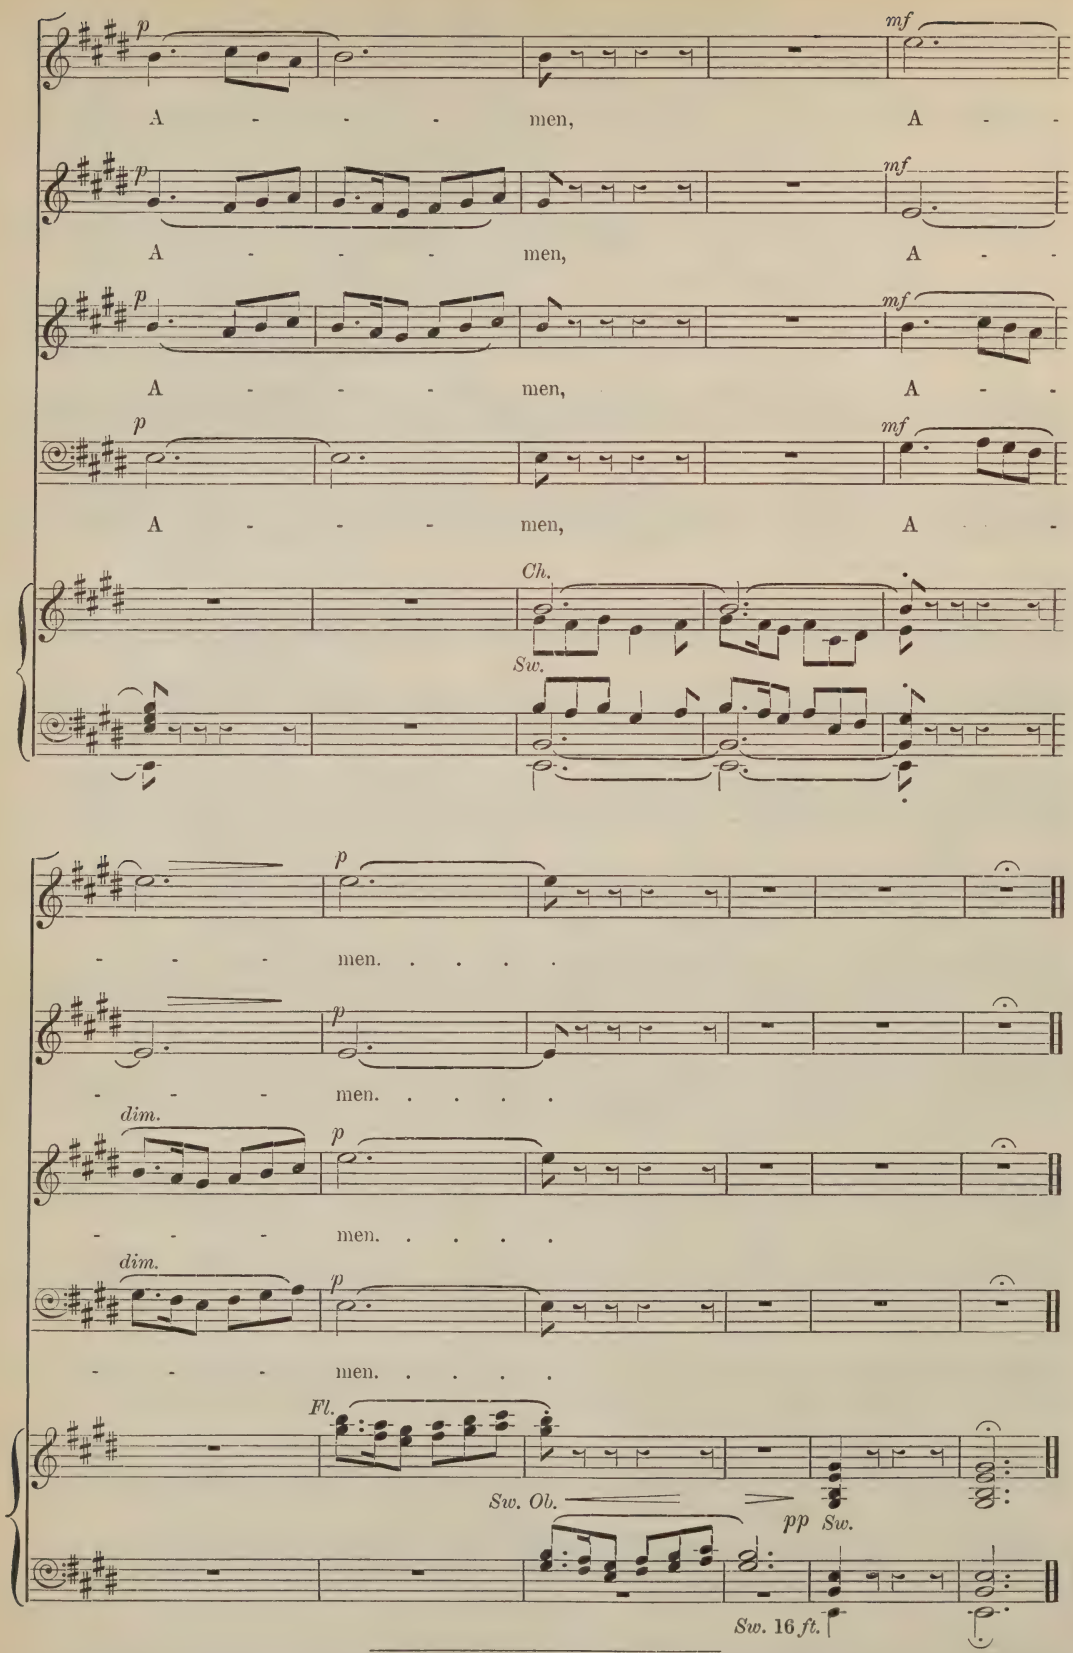
Sw.
Ch.
pp
Babe of Beth - le - hem, the Babe of
Babe of . . Beth - le - hem, the Babe . . of . .
Gt. p
Ped.
rall.
Beth - le - hem.
Gt. or Ch. 8 ft. Flute.
Sw. Oboe & 4 ft. Flute.
Sw. to Ped. only.



Also published in Novello's Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 1167, price 1*d.*

PROFESSOR NIECKS is continuing, with unabated zeal, the good work at Edinburgh which has characterised his occupancy of the Reid Chair during the past nine years. He is by no means a dry-bones Professor, steeped in academical profundity, but one who is fully alive to his responsibilities and makes a practical use—and, moreover, the best possible use—of his opportunities. Here is the programme of the first of his 'Four Historical Concerts,' given in the University Class Room, Edinburgh, on the 4th ult., illustrating 'Early Symphonies by Haydn, and Predecessors and Contemporaries of Haydn':—

1 Symphony in G major, by Giovanni Battista Sammartini, or San Martini (an Italian who flourished at Milan about 1730 to 1770. Twenty-four symphonies printed).

2. 'Ah! rendimi quel core,' aria from the opera 'Mitrane,' by Francesco Rossi (1686).

3. Symphony in G major, by Johann Stamitz (a Bohemian, 1717-1761; lived at Mannheim from 1745. Twelve symphonies printed).

4. Two Songs. (a). Abendempfindung, by Mozart. (b). Wiegenlied, 'Schlafe mein Prinzchen,' by (Mozart) Fliess.

5. Symphony in G minor, by Pierre van Maldere (a Belgian who lived at Brussels, 1724-68. Eighteen symphonies, the first six of which were of 1759).

6. Symphony in F major, by Francois Joseph Gossec (a Belgian who lived at Paris, 1734-1829. Twenty-six symphonies, of which three are for wind instruments).

7. Aria from the opera 'Rinaldo,' by G. F. Handel.

8. Symphony in B flat major, by Joseph Haydn (a German, 1732-1809).

In his preface to the above programme Professor Niecks remarked:—

Haydn is often called the Father of the Symphony, but the Symphony has many fathers. It is well known that Gossec published several symphonies in 1754, five years before Haydn composed his first one; and when Mysliweczek, the Bohemian composer, visited Milan and heard at a concert some of Sammartini's old symphonies, he exclaimed: 'I have found the father of Haydn's style.' If, however, Haydn was not the father of the Symphony, he contributed more to the development of this kind of composition, and brought to its production greater genius, than any other of the early masters. Besides Sammartini (whose first symphony was performed in 1734), Johann Stamitz, Pierre van Maldre, Gossec, of whom works will be heard to-night, many other more or less forgotten worthies deserve to be remembered in connection with the rise of the modern symphony. Some of them will be represented in the programme of the concert on the 14th of February. It should be noted that the composers of the first four symphonies to be played to-night were all born before Haydn. Most of the early symphonies (also called overtures), not excepting Haydn's early ones, are scored for the usual strings, two oboes, and two horns; and are in three movements, the minuet and the scherzo having not yet been introduced. Sammartini's symphony, which, like the other four, is written for eight parts, will be played only by the strings. This will show the little individual importance of the wind instrument parts.

The illustrations were performed by a small orchestra—consisting of stringed instruments, oboe, and two horns—led by Mr. H. Dambmann and conducted by Professor Niecks; Madame Waller (vocalist), and Mr. A. Scott Jupp (accompanist). It is no wonder to learn that the audience were as delighted as they were surprised at the beauty of these forgotten old-world compositions.

SIR JOHN STAINER has been elected Master of the Worshipful Company of Musicians. This ancient corporation was established by letters patent under the great seal of England, on April 24, 147$\frac{2}{3}$, in the ninth year of the reign of King Edward IV.

THE Proceedings of the twenty-sixth session of the Musical Association (1899-1900) have recently been issued. The volume contains the following interesting and learned papers, with the discussions thereupon:—

The Philosophy of the Higher Beauty of Music — Mr. Joseph Goddard.
The Psychology of Sight-Singing — Dr. W. G. McNaught.
The Development of National Opera in Russia — Mrs. Henry Newmarch.
Irish Church Composers and the Irish Cathedrals .. .. — Mr. John S. Bumpus.
The Teaching of Musical History — Professor Niecks.
A Clear Coupler for the Organ — Mr. John W. Warman.
Organ Accompaniments in England in the 16th and 17th Centuries .. — Dr. W. H. Cummings.
The History of Mensurable Music — Mr. J. F. R. Stainer.

The Secretary of the Musical Association (of which Sir John Stainer is the President) is Mr. J. Percy Baker, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

A BRAHMS Museum has been instituted at the 'Villa Aichholz,' at Gmunden, where the master had resided in the summer months during the last few years of his life. The owner, Dr. Miller von Aichholz, has set apart two rooms in the villa in which autographs (including a number of letters), facsimiles of scores, books and newspaper articles relating to the composer, and other Brahmsiana are exhibited, forming a most interesting collection, which the present owner hopes to increase considerably in the course of time.

BANDMASTER C. H. HASSELL, of the 4th King's Royal Rifle Corps, has been appointed Bandmaster of the newly formed Royal Irish Guards.

AT a Congregation held at the Senate House, Cambridge, on the 22nd ult., the degree of Doctor of Music (honoris causâ) was conferred on Mr. Frederick Hymen Cowen and Mr. Edward William Elgar. In presenting the two distinguished musicians, the Public Orator, Dr. Sandys, referred to the 'happy coincidence' that they were about to receive their degrees on the day dedicated to St. Cecilia.

A DIGEST of the valuable and erudite paper by Sir John Stainer, 'On the Metrical Introductions found in certain metrical psalters,' read before the Musical Association on the 13th ult., is unavoidably and regretfully held over by reason of the unusual demands upon our space. From the same cause the promised article on 'The sisters of two great composers' is also postponed.

CHURCH AND ORGAN MUSIC.

MUSIC AT HOLY TRINITY CHURCH, SLOANE STREET.

IF it were possible for Bishop Blomfield (of London) to re-visit the scene of his former labours, he would, doubtless, gaze with astonishment at the musical proclivities of the churches in his old diocese. For did not this worthy prelate issue his episcopal interdict against 'an organ performance' announced to be given by Messrs. Samuel Wesley, Thomas Adams, and George Cooper (the elder) at St. Sepulchre's Church, in the year 1829, notwithstanding the fact that it was to be given 'for a charitable purpose'? What would the eminent divine say upon making a visitation at the present time to Holy Trinity Church, at the south end of the street named after Sir Hans Sloane? To begin with, he would certainly find a stately sanctuary, containing a magnificent four-manual organ, built by Messrs. J. W. Walker and Sons—one of the finest modern instruments erected by that old-established firm—which has cost no less than £4,000. Here is the specification, which speaks for itself:—

GREAT (14 stops).

	feet		feet
Double Diapason	16	Principal	4
Open Diapason, No. 1	8	Twelfth	2⅔
" " No. 2	8	Fifteenth	2
" " No. 3	8	Mixture, 3 ranks	—
" " No. 4	8	Double Trumpet	16
Wald Flute	8	Trumpet	8
Harmonic Flute	4	Clarion Mixture, 3 ranks	—

SWELL (14 stops).

	feet		feet
Double Diapason	16	Principal	4
Open Diapason	8	Fifteenth	2
Horn Diapason	8	Mixture, 4 ranks	—
Stopped Diapason	8	Double Trumpet	1
Echo Gamba	8	Horn
Voix Célestes (Tenor C)	8	Oboe	8
Flute	4	Clarion Mixture, 3 ranks	—

CHOIR (7 stops).

	feet		feet
Open Diapason	8	Gemshorn	4
Lieblich Gedact	8	Flute	4
Dulciana	8	Harmonic Gemshorn	2
Gamba	8

SOLO (9 stops).
(In separate Swell Box, except Tuba.)

	feet		feet
Echo Dulciana	8	Orchestral Oboe	8
Vox Angelica (Tenor C)	8	Clarinet
Harmonic Flute	8	Vox Humana	8
Lieblich Flute	4	Tuba	8
Harmonic Piccolo	2

PEDAL (6 stops).
(With an extra octave of pipes to each, acted upon by Super-Octave Coupler.)

	feet		feet
Double Open Diapason, wood	32	Bourdon, wood	16
Open Diapason, wood	16	Violoncello, metal	8
" " metal	16	Trombone, metal	16

COUPLERS AND ACCESSORIES.

Choir to Pedal.	Sub-Octave to Swell.
Great to Pedal.	Super-Octave to Solo.
Swell to Pedal.	Sub-Octave to Solo.
Solo to Pedal.	Super-Octave to Pedal.
Swell to Great.	Great Pistons to Pedal Compositions.
Swell to Choir.	Tremulant to Swell.
Solo to Great.	Tremulant to Solo.
Super-Oct. to Swell.

Five Pneumatic Pistons to Great.
Four " " Solo.
Four " " Swell.
Four Composition Pedals to Swell.

The Organ is blown by six hydraulic engines, constructed by Messrs. Watkins and Watson, Islington.

But a noble instrument like this availeth little unless it can claim an organist worthy of its capabilities. Such an one the church is fortunate to possess in Mr. Walter Galpin Alcock, who, in addition to being organist and choirmaster of Holy Trinity, holds the important post of official deputy-organist of Westminster Abbey. Mr. Alcock was a Society of Arts scholar at the National Training School for Music from 1876 to 1881, where he studied under Sir John Stainer, Sir Frederick Bridge, Mr. J. F. Barnett, Dr. Prout, Dr. Eaton Faning, the late Dr. W. H. Monk, and the late Sir Arthur Sullivan. Moreover, he is a Bachelor in Music of Durham University, an Associate of the Royal College of Music, a Fellow of the Royal College of Organists, and a Professor of the organ at the Royal College of Music. His hobby is the building of model railway engines, a specimen of which, with a portrait of Mr. Alcock, appeared in our issue of July, 1899.

Every Saturday afternoon, during certain months of the year, Mr. Alcock gives an organ recital at Holy Trinity. The performance on the 10th ult., which we had the pleasure of attending, consisted of the following selection:—

1. Fantasia and Fugue in G minor .. .. .. J. S. Bach.
2. Two Studies for Pedal Pianoforte (Op. 56, Nos. 3 and 5) Schumann.
3. 'How lovely is Thy dwelling-place' (Requiem) .. Brahms. The Choir of Holy Trinity.
4. March Funèbre et Chant Séraphique .. .. Guilmant.
5. Rêverie in E flat (in $\frac{6}{4}$ time) .. .. Lemare.
6. 'Virgo, virginum præclara' (Stabat Mater) .. Dvorák. The Choir of Holy Trinity.
7. Siegfried Idyll .. .. Wagner.
8. Toccata in C (Sonata, Op. 165) .. .. Rheinberger.

A commendable feature of Mr. Alcock's organ playing is its neatness and the attention he gives to phrasing—the latter a matter of supreme importance too often neglected by organists, but which comes naturally to one who is also a good pianist, like Mr. Alcock. To discuss in detail the manner in which the above programme was performed is hardly necessary, even were space not a consideration. But this may be said, whether in the Bach masterpiece or in Mr. Lemare's delicate 'Rêverie'—most daintily played—Mr. Alcock proved himself to be an organist of high attainment.

The two vocal pieces for which the choir were responsible were tastefully and devotionally sung, the richly mellowed, velvety quality of the boys' voices being particularly noticeable and proving that their training was in excellent hands. The choir at Holy Trinity consists of thirty-eight boys (with Stanley Smith, trained by Mr. James Bates, as solo boy), four altos, five tenors, and five basses. The music in general use comprises some twenty Communion services (including Beethoven in C and others of similar calibre), forty morning and evening services, and 100 anthems. In addition to the foregoing the choir performs annually 'The Messiah,' Brahms's Requiem, Dvorák's 'Stabat Mater,' 'Elijah' (selection), 'Hymn of Praise,' and other works—all without a conductor and with organ accompaniment only. All these works are prepared by Mr. Alcock in addition to the daily duties of choir-training, which he personally discharges. When to this immense amount of preparation are added the Sunday duties of a choral celebration at 10.15, morning prayer at 11.30, evening prayer at 7, and daily evening prayer at 6, no one will admit that the post of organist and choirmaster in these latter days is anything in the nature of a sinecure. Mr. Alcock, we are glad to state, receives hearty and loyal co-operation from the Precentor, the Rev. W. M. Le Patourel, and also from his Rector, the Rev. Prebendary H. E. J. Bevan, who is very musical and takes a great interest in the choir.

THE twenty-seventh annual Festival of the London Church Choir Association was held in St. Paul's Cathedral, on the 15th ult., when the united choirs, from fifty-four churches, numbered upwards of 1,000 voices. The chief features of the service were a setting of the Evening Canticles in the key of B flat, by Mr. Edwin H. Lemare, and an anthem, 'The right hand of the Lord,' by Mr. Myles B. Foster, both works being composed especially for the occasion. Sir George Martin conducted and Mr. Charles Macpherson presided at the organ.

THE Presbyterian Church of England Association of North London Choirs held its annual Service of Praise, in St. John's Wood Presbyterian Church, on the 20th ult., under the conductorship of Mr. J. S. Waddell. Wesley's 'Blessed be the God and Father' was the principal anthem, but perhaps the most striking feature of a successful service was the chanting, which reached a very high level of excellence.

A RUSSELL 'VOLUNTARY.'

Sir Walter Parratt played the following selection at the re-opening of the organ in the Church of St. Lawrence Jewry, Gresham Street, on the 6th ult.:—

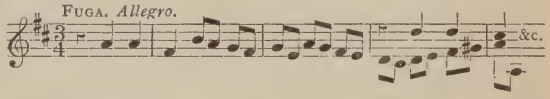
1. Imperial March .. .. Elgar.
(To commemorate the return of the City Imperial Volunteers.)
2. Variations on an air by Schumann .. .. .. Brahms.
3. Voluntary in D minor and D major .. .. .. Russell.
4. Funeral March from the 'Songs without Words,' Mendelssohn.
(In Memory of those who have fallen in the war.)
5. Basso Ostinato .. .. Arensky.
6. Fantasia in G major .. .. Bach.

The Voluntary in the above programme is contained in the following publication (oblong folio):—

Twelve Voluntaries for the organ or pianoforte, composed by William Russell, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Book 2d.

London: Printed by Clementi and Compy. 1812.

It is said that Russell (1777-1813) was the first English composer to write organ music in three staves, and, moreover, that it was in this identical collection of pieces the pedal part was so written. But only two of Russell's 'Twelve Voluntaries, Book 2d.,' are favoured with a separate stave for the pedal part—No. 2, in C, and No. 11, in D. The latter 'Voluntary,' however, has not a third stave throughout, as the pedal stave does not make its appearance till towards the end of the 'Fuga.' Thus these pieces, by a former organist of the Foundling, furnish the point of transition from the old two-stave English organ music to that with which we are so familiar. This, we find, was in 1812, as, fortunately, the book is dated—a circumstance all too rare in musical publications. The alternative 'or pianoforte' on the title-page will not escape notice: it was doubtless added to help the sale of the Voluntaries. Russell died in the year following their publication and the British Museum copy bears the signature of his widow, 'M. A. Russell.' The subject of the Fugue in D (No. 11), played by Sir Walter Parratt, may be quoted for its tuneful spontaneity:—



HOLY TRINITY CHURCH, SLOANE STREET.

(From a Photograph taken by Mr. Walter G. Alcock, Organist of the Church.)

THE BARBADOS ORGAN OF 1699.

The Barbados Agricultural Reporter of September 29 last has reprinted the discovery made known in our issue of the same month. It read thus:—

A new Organ is set up in the Banquetting-house Chappel, with a Dial in the middle of it, this being the first of that make; the other is packt up in Boxes there, in order to be sent to Barbadoes. (London Post, October 2-4, 1699.)

The seed which we then dropped has taken root in the columns of our agricultural contemporary, whose Editor says: 'We have had the opportunity of examining some of the old official records of St. Michael's parish, from which the following facts are gathered:—

1699. An Organ was ordered by the Vestry of S. Michael, Bridgetown, Barbados, between the years 1697 and 1698. This organ was made to order by Messrs. Bernard and Smith and shipped by William Brook, merchant, of London, and arrived here late in the year 1699. Mr. Edward Jordan was at the time Organist of S. Michael. The instrument appears to have been paid for by subscription.

For at a meeting of the Vestry, held on 1st August 1700, that body ordered that 'John Miller Esq. late Comptroller of His Ma. Customs, in ye Island, have his name inscribed in gold on the Organ, he having given £350 sterling towards the same.'

1752. Fifty-two years later the then Organist, Mr. Thomas Pierce, made a report on the Organ which led to its being sent Home for repairs, the stops, vox humana, and trumpet being in very bad condition.

1785. In this year the present organ of S. Michael's Cathedral was ordered. In 1780 the island was visited by a hurricane and earthquakes and the Cathedral was partially destroyed. Hence the inference that the organ in use at the time was so much injured as to render necessary the above-mentioned order of 1785. On the hypothesis then that the organ referred to by the London Post was intended for S. Michael's Cathedral and was actually shipped hereto,—and, as has been seen, an organ was received at the Cathedral in 1699—there would appear to be sufficient grounds to warrant the conclusion that the organ ruined in 1780 was the organ imported in 1699 and the one referred to by the London Post.

The death took place, at the Charterhouse, on the 19th ult., in his sixty-second year, of the Rev. Samuel John Stone, author of the well-known hymns, 'The Church's One foundation' and 'Weary of earth, and laden with my sin.'

ORGAN RECITALS.

Mr. G. G. Beale, Llandaff Cathedral, dedication of new Hope-Jones organ (Merkel's Fantasia in C minor). Mr. James Tomlinson, new Public Hall, Preston (Merkel's Fantasia in D minor). Mr. Edwin H. Lemare, St. Margaret's, Westminster (D'Evry's Cantilène and Lemare's Contemplation, both for the first time), and Parish Church, Sutton (Wolstenholme's new Fantasia in E major). Mr. W. Cary Bliss, St. Mary's, Oatlands Park. Mr. Cyril B. Rootham, Christ Church, Hampstead. Mr. Alan Biggs, Albert Hall, Sheffield. Mr. A. W. Connor, St. Thomas's, Kingsbridge. Mr. F. G. H. Moore, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Ealing. Mr. C. J. Brennan, Parish Church, Strabane (Hoyte's Scherzo). Mr. Alfred H. Allen, St. Clement's, Ilford. Mr. Fred. Gostelow, Parish Church, Luton (Hollins's Second Overture). Mr. H. D. Flowers, Baptist Church, Lowestoft (W. G. Wood's Toccata in D minor). Mr. R. E. Parker, Parish Church, Wilmslow (Tours's Fantasia in C). Mr. R. W. Strickland, College Street Chapel, Northampton (Guilmant's Fourth Sonata). Mr. Frederic Fertel, Parish Church, Bromley (Lemare's Marche Solennelle). Mr. Harold O. Jones, Parish Church, Ashburton (Rea's Andante con Variazioni in A). Mr. Ernest H. Smith, St. Bede's, Liverpool. Mr. J. A. Crapper, Bathgate Parish Church. Mr. Thos. J. Crawford, St. Paul's, Camden Square. Mr. Allan Paterson, St. Paul's, Greenock (Rheinberger's Sonata, No. 14). Mr. A. Thompson, St. Martin's, Bedford (D'Evry's Meditation and Toccata). Mr. R. J. Forbes, St. Anne's Parish Church, Sale. Mr. W. Handel Hall, Congregational Church, Rothwell. Mr. J. W. Cheadle, St. Michael's, Dumfries (Handel's 'Cuckoo and Nightingale' Concerto). Mr. Robert Hetherington, Free Church, Bridge of Allan. Mr. Arthur S. James, St. Peter's, Rickmansworth. The Rev. E. Muirhead Evans, Thorpe Arnold Church, Melton Mowbray (dedication of new organ). Mr. Fountain Meen, Wood Green Wesleyan Church (re-opening of organ). Mr. J. W. G. Hathaway, Tonbridge Parish Church. Mr. B. G. Thorne, Sherborne School Mr. W. W. Starmer, St. Michael and All Angels', Withyham. Mr. Sydney Crookes, Cupar Parish Church (entirely of M. Guilmant's compositions). Mr. F. G. H. Moore, St. Andrew's, Ealing. Mr. George Rathbone, St. Mary's, Ulverstone. Mr. W. Wolstenholme, Royal Technical Institute, Salford (who played his Serenata in A).

Mr. J. T. Bavin is giving a series of organ recitals in Berkhamsted School Chapel, at which he will play Mendelssohn's six Sonatas. Two novel features of these recitals may be recorded, (1) analytical notes, with music type illustrations, on the Sonatas, and (2) that each Sonata is repeated at the end of the programme, 'so that those who wish to hear it a second time may have the opportunity.'

ORGANIST AND CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. John H. McCann, Parish Church, Sleaford, Lincoln.
Mr. A. Barnacle, St. Mary's Parish Church, Eastbourne.
Mr. Henry John Coates, St. Philip's Church, Buckingham Palace Road.
Mr. H. D. Keigwin, Organ Scholarship, Peterhouse, Cambridge.
Mr. Christie Green, Blackburn Parish Church.
Mr. Eugene Wyatt, Parish Church, Wallington, Surrey.
Mr. Arthur Pollitt, Organist and Music Master, School for the Blind, Liverpool.
Mr. John C. Bradshaw, All Saints' Church, Scarborough.
Mr. Arthur J. Hopper, St. Andrew's Church, Willesden Green.
Mr. J. Frank Proudman, Presbyterian Church, Kimberley, South Africa.
Mr. Richard W. Higgins, St. Columba's College, Dublin.
Mr. Arthur Brooks, Acock's Green Congregational Church, Birmingham.
Mr. Frank Wrigley, St. Augustine's Church, Grove Park, Lee.
Mr. J. H. Smethurst, Bass, Ely Cathedral.
Mr. A. E. Haigh, Bass, Ely Cathedral.
Mr. A. Winterbottom, Bass, Peterborough Cathedral.
Mr. Harry Elliott, Bass, Bristol Cathedral.

A NEW ENGLISH COMPOSER.

(Concluded from page 736.)

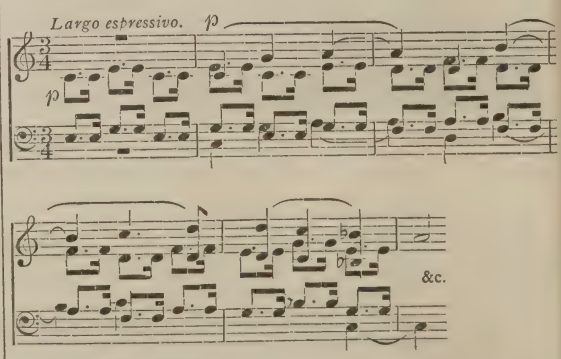
The high artistic level of the D minor Sonata is maintained, and even surpassed in the setting for baritone solo and string quartet of Browning's 'Prospice' (Op. 6). As this is, perhaps, not one of the great poet's best known poems, it may be necessary to remind our readers that the words are put into the mouth of one fearlessly anticipating death; one preparing to fight his 'one fight more, the best and the last,' and to be re-united to his life's beloved companion. The music, necessarily solemn and sombre, begins with an extended Largo, in C major, the melody being at first assigned to violin 1° and violoncello in octaves, while from violin 2° and viola (both con sordini) is heard a persistent rhythmical figure of a dotted quaver and semiquaver. This largely helps to produce the effect of a stately Funeral March—



Gradually rising to a climax, both of expression and dynamic force, the music with rapid scale passages and strongly accentuated groups, each of two semiquaver chords, prepares for the entry of the voice. This is managed with splendid effect thus:—

The music continues with powerfully declaimed vocal phrases, largely against tremolos in the strings, until at this noteworthy point—a return is made to the opening theme, which thus is seen to be connected with the idea of Death. The climax of this part of the work is reached at the words:

> For the journery is done and the summit attained,
> And the barriers fall,
> Though a battle's to fight ere the guerdon be gained,
> The reward of it all.

The melodic figure of the voice part set to the last line of the above quotation assumes great importance—for it becomes the leading figure of accompaniment in the very dramatic Allegro molto which follows. Here we have a beautiful vocal passage deserving quotation as a specimen of Dr. Davies's forcible declamation; a passionate, yet most dignified outburst, which can show off its beauty without any accompaniment—

Allegro.
I would hate . . that death ban - daged my eyes, and . . for - bore,
And bade me creep . . . past.
allarg.
a tempo.
No! let me taste . . the whole of it,

As the end approaches, the accompaniment becomes more subdued. Peaceful, gently waving triplet figures for second violin and viola between long-drawn moaning cantabile phrases sung, in canonical imitation, by first violin and violoncello, suggest the time when 'the fiend-voices that rave shall dwindle, shall blend,' &c. The finest passage in the work occurs with the last sentence of the poem. It is too beautiful not to quote—

The poetic and suggestive change to C major at the return to the opening Largo, and the heart-moving outburst at the words 'O thou soul of my soul!' seem worthy of almost any master. After the last words, 'And with God be the rest!' sung pp, second violin and viola resume their mutes, and with a return to the solemn largo Introduction, the work ends most impressively pp, possibly as if to suggest the peace and silence of death.

Here is a beautiful poem by one of England's greatest poets, wedded to equally beautiful music by one of the youngest and most gifted of her many gifted young musicians. We know it has been sung in public, but we fear its rare merits have not been fully recognised. Who will be the first to sing it with an orchestral complement of stringed instruments? It would prove effective beyond the common under such conditions, while the combination would be novel and likely to let a good dramatic baritone voice stand out well.

The anthem, 'God created man for incorruption,' is an elaborate and important contribution to English sacred art. Laid out for soli (treble and tenor) and double chorus, with an organ accompaniment of more than usual fulness and significance, it is one of the longest anthems in Anglican music. It seems also one of the strongest and most impressive, and, as such, should appeal to all organists and choirmasters who have at heart purity of style, dignity, and elevation in church music. The words, from the Book of Wisdom, are so superlatively fine that only a composer having full faith in his own powers could have dared to set them. When we express the opinion that, within the limits of an anthem for church use, Dr. Davies has done justice to them, we mean to speak that which shall be high praise indeed. The work displays a mastery in writing for the chorus which augurs well for such more elaborate choral works as the Temple organist may have in his portfolio, awaiting the 'open sesame' of some wide-awake musical festival committee to be brought forth.

Dr. Davies's recently issued compositions include, in addition to the above, four charmingly simple 'Songs of Innocence' (words by W. Blake), set as duets or trios for female or boys' voices with pianoforte accompaniment (Op. 4). They are full of refined tune and artistic artlessness such as should recommend them to children and adults alike. A very melodious and smoothly-flowing setting for tenor solo, violin, and pianoforte of Psalm xxiii. deserves a detailed notice, for which, however, we cannot find space. It rises in parts to something akin to rhapsodical exaltation, and in the hands of a capable singer should produce an excellent effect, especially if accompanied by the unconventional combination of string quartet and harp originally provided for it. The last work before us consists of two love songs (Op. 10), 'Of a' the airts' and 'Mally,' beautifully written compositions which well reflect the spirit of Burns's lyrics, the first being as full of manly sentiment as the second is of sprightliness and humour. Moreover, they possess the advantage of being eminently vocal.

Here we must leave our 'new composer' for the present. That the future may bring many occasions on which to turn with increased interest to fresh and even more important work from his pen will be the hope of all lovers of our native art. Meanwhile, here is a gifted young English composer who seems to be nobly fulfilling the bright promise of his student days. Lend him your ear.

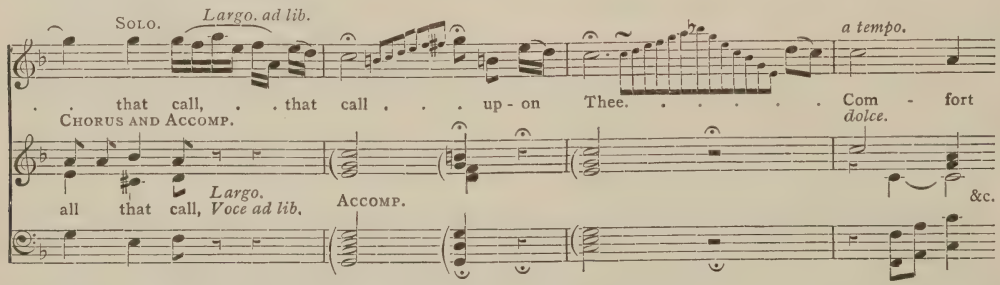
THE MUSIC IN THE PRESENT ISSUE OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

The place of honour in this, our 694th number, is accorded to a practically unknown anthem by Thomas Attwood. So far as can be ascertained, this anthem —which is a setting of the words, 'Bow down Thine ear, O Lord,' for soprano solo and chorus—has not been reprinted since its first publication, about sixty-seven years ago. Its original title reads as follows:—

Bow down Thine ear, solo anthem, composed and inscribed to Miss Clara Novello by Thomas Attwood, composer to his Majesty's Chapels Royal, &c., &c.

London: Publish'd (for the Author) by J. Alfred Novello, 67, Frith Street, Soho.

As Thomas Attwood was organist of St. Paul's at the beginning of the century, what could be more appropriate than that the organist of the great Cathedral at the end of the century should edit this anthem to make it available for present-day requirements? No one could discharge this duty with greater reverence to the memory of his distinguished predecessor than Sir George Martin, and the result of his editorial restraint is highly satisfactory. Sir George has wisely removed the cadenza which stood thus in the original edition, twenty-four bars from the end:—



Solo.
Largo, ad lib.
a tempo.
. . that call, . . that call . . . up - on Thee. . . . . Com - fort Chorus and Accomp.
dolce.
Largo.
all that call, Voce ad lib.
Accomp.
&c.

As the original title-page states, the anthem was dedicated by Attwood to Miss Clara Novello (now the Countess Gigliucci). Hence it may be taken for granted the above fioriture furnish evidence of the young singer's remarkable vocal skill, even as a girl, for she was only fifteen years of age when the anthem was first published.

In a notice of the work which appeared in the Harmonicon of April, 1833, the reviewer said:—

The whole composition is evidently the production of an accomplished musician, but the first movement will gain most suffrages; the clearness of the phraseology or rhythm, and the richness of the harmony—full, but not affectedly crowded—cannot fail to please all who possess a cultivated taste.

It may be assumed that not a few will be in full accord with the critic of long ago when they 'try over' these melodious strains of Mozart's English pupil.

The remaining music pages, in the form of two Extra Supplements, consist of an anthem for Christmas and Epiphany-tide, 'Crown Him the Virgin's Son,' composed by Mr. B. Luard Selby, the newly appointed organist of Rochester Cathedral, and a funeral hymn, 'We are but strangers here,' by the late Sir Arthur Sullivan.

JOHN SIMS REEVES.

At Worthing, on October 25, Sims Reeves drew his last breath, and that magnificent voice which has thrilled thousands of hearers was hushed in death. According to the baptismal registers of Woolwich Parish Church, the great tenor was born at Woolwich on September 26, 1818, and was christened John Reeves. He received his early musical education from his father (whose profession is recorded as 'Musician in the Royal Artillery') and he subsequently studied under W. H. Callcott for harmony and John Cramer for pianoforte. As a boy of fourteen he became organist of North Cray Church, Kent, and gained a knowledge of the oboe, bassoon, violin, and violoncello, 'all of which instruments he played pretty well.' None of his recent biographers refer to the fact that Sims Reeves studied for the medical profession for a year. A freak of some of his fellow-students, whereby they induced a skeleton to embrace the future tenor, so alarmed him that he gave up walking the hospital and took to walking the stage instead. He greatly indulged in private theatricals, and after taking further lessons in singing from Hobbs and Tom Cooke, he made his first public appearance in 1839, according to his own account, as the Gipsy Boy in 'Guy Mannering.' If this be so, he would have had to sing the soprano solo in 'The Chough and Crow' at the age of twenty-one! He subsequently played at Edinburgh, Glasgow, Norwich, Belfast, Dublin, and elsewhere, 'progressing but slowly as an actor and singer.'

In 1842 he returned to London, and, after appearing at the Grecian Theatre, under the name of 'Mr. Johnson,' he joined Macready's company at Drury Lane Theatre. The playbills show that he was the First Shepherd in 'Acis and Galatea' (produced with Stanfield's 'scenic illustrations'), as one of the Minstrels in the 'Two Gentlemen of Verona,' the First Warrior in Purcell's 'King Arthur,' and other minor parts. His voice at this time was baritone. He then went to Paris, where he studied under Bordogni, and subsequently to Milan. Here, after a course of valuable study under Mazzucato, he made his début at La Scala as Edgardo in 'Lucia di Lammermoor' with marked success.

Most of the biographers are in error in stating that Sims Reeves made his re-appearance in London after his Italian triumphs, in December, 1847. As a matter of fact, he re-appeared, but as a fully fledged tenor, at a 'Grand Concert Monstre' for the benefit of Vincent Wallace, given at Drury Lane Theatre, May 16, 1847, the playbills announcing him as 'Mr. J. S. Reeves.' Moreover, he appeared as a concert vocalist at the Ancient Concert of June 23 in the same year, when his name in the programme is plain 'Mr. Reeves,' and sang Mozart's 'Davidde Penitente,' and in a quartet from Méhul's 'Joseph.' But it was not till the 6th of the following December that he came into the full blaze of publicity, when, under Jullien's management and the conductorship of Hector Berlioz, who paid a high tribute to his capabilities, he made that memorable appearance as Edgardo, in Donizetti's familiar 'Lucia.' (By the way, it may not be generally known that he was always subsequently called 'Gardy,' a contraction of Edgardo, in his home circle.) Not only did he at once make his reputation as a tenor of the first water, but he possessed remarkable histrionic gifts. The English Opera playbills of that time—Drury Lane, December, 1847—show the metamorphosis of his name: first as 'Mr. S. Reeves,' and later, Mr. 'Sims Reeves.' The 'Sims' addition was suggested by Madame Puzzi as being a very euphonious prefix to Reeves.

It was at the Norwich Festival of 1848 that Reeves first set his feet on the oratorio pathway where he was to gain such well-merited renown. Those who were fortunate enough to hear him in his prime will not readily forget that rich mellow voice, so perfectly natural and absolutely free from any artificiality. And the power and the pathos of that voice! How exquisitely beautiful the phrasing and the poetry which attended every strain! 'The enemy said'—with what thrilling forcefulness he would glorify that noble song; not, mark you, as though it were a matter of merely pursuing, but of overtaking. And then the sigh in his delivery of the initial word in 'Oh! that I knew where I might find Him.' Again, the worked up agony in the Watchman scene ('Hymn of Praise'). 'Thrilling' is hardly the word for it, for in spite of the knowledge of what was coming, his interpretation of that reiterated enquiry was such as to make one feel cold down one's back. And, yet again, the tears in his voice as he gave utterance to 'Deeper and deeper still' and 'Tom Bowling.' Yes, Sims Reeves was a consummate artist, and in the retrospect of one's musical experiences the charm of his lovely voice and the spell of his ideally poetic interpretations will not easily fade from the memory.

Mr. Adolph Pollitzer, Director of the London Academy of Music, and well known as a teacher of the violin and a former leader of several London orchestras, died, after a very short illness, at 43, Hamilton Terrace, on the 14th ult., aged sixty-eight.

During the winter months it has been arranged to give on every third Sunday a special Musical Service at Rectory Road Congregational Church, Stoke Newington. Works such as Schubert's 'Song of Miriam,' Mendelssohn's 13th Psalm, 'Lauda Sion,' and 'Hear my Prayer,' and Stainer's 'Crucifixion,' form part of the répertoire. Mendelssohn's 'Lauda Sion' has already been given.

REVIEWS.

CHURCH MUSIC.

The Office of the Holy Communion in G. By James Shaw.

Lift high the Cross. By J. Lionel Bennett.

Benedicite, omnia Opera. Settings by C. W. Smith, C. E. Miller, F. Iliffe, H. B. C., J. Stainer, F. Champneys, C. H. Lloyd, George J. Bennett, Arthur E. Godfrey, and Edwin H. Lemare.

(Novello's Parish Choir Book.)

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

Mr. James Shaw's music for the Communion Service is manifestly designed for choirs of average means. Two settings of the Kyrie, which might be used alternately, are provided. The Nicene Creed is chiefly set for the choir in unison, but at the words 'And sitteth on the right hand of the Father,' the music bursts into five-part harmony, the sopranos being divided. The succeeding phrase is given to basses only. The next sentence is sung by the tenors, altos, and sopranos in four parts, and unisonal singing is not resumed until the closing words. By these means monotony is avoided and impressiveness secured. Two sopranos are required in the Sanctus. The opening of the Benedictus, laid out for tenor solo, makes little demand on the vocalist, the highest note being E flat, and the music is melodious and sympathetic. The Agnus Dei, too, is deeply devotional. The Gloria, vigorously written, is in solid four-part vocal harmony until the Amen is reached, when the composer has indulged in four bars of effective counterpoint. The organ accompaniment, though possessing considerable independence, is admirably designed to support and assist the voices.

'Lift high the Cross' is a hymn, originally written by the Very Rev. G. W. Kitchen, Dean of Durham, for a Festival of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, held in Winchester Cathedral. Its musical setting, by Mr. J. Lionel Bennett, is simple but effective, and thus it would form an admirable processional.

The ten settings of the 'Song of the Three Children' present a variety that can scarcely fail to meet every requirement of church choirs. It is unnecessary to do more than to point out certain features of some of the arrangements. Mr. C. W. Smith's, in C, is laid out in five vocal parts, those of the tenor being doubled; but a version in four parts only is added in the same number. Mr. C. E. Miller's, in E flat, consists of three double chants. The setting in D, by Dr. G. J. Bennett, is written out at length for voices in unison with varied harmonies in the organ accompaniment. Mr. Arthur E. Godfrey has composed a double quadruple chant in C of melodious and flowing character. The feature of Mr. Edwin H. Lemare's music in B flat is the effective contrasts produced by the varied employment of the voices.

Six Classical Pieces for Church use. Arranged for small military band. By Thomas Brown.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

'Church Parade' has a peculiar fascination for visitors to a garrison town, and so has also the subsequent military service when the regimental band supplies the instrumental music. It is for such occasions that Mr. Thomas Brown has arranged these 'Six classical pieces,' for use as voluntaries at 'Church Parade Services.' The score is set out for flute, solo clarinets in B flat, 2nd and 3rd clarinets in B flat, 1st and 2nd Bassoons, 1st and 2nd horns in E flat, 1st and 2nd cornets in B flat, euphonium and trombone, and basses, in addition to a part (in compressed score) for the conductor or organist. The six pieces consist of Handel's March from 'Scipio,' Schumann's 'Träumerei,' Mendelssohn's 'O rest in the Lord,' a movement from Gluck's 'Orpheus,' Spohr's 'Blest are the departed,' and Haydn's Gloria from his first Mass. It is only necessary to add that the selection and the arrangements go hand in hand in regard to utility and effectiveness.

The Angel's Message. Christmas Cantata. Words by Paul Gerhardt. Composed by E. Vine Hall.

His Name shall endure for ever. His only begotten Son. Christmas Anthems. By George Belcher.

[Weekes and Co.]

Mr. Vine Hall's church music is too well known to choirmasters to justify detailed notice of the above cantata, but it should be said that it consists of three choruses in solid four-part harmony, a tenor and a soprano solo, and that the music is simple and melodious in style.

Mr. Belcher has taken the words of his anthems from Holy Writ and set them in a straightforward and unpretentious manner which will appeal to the majority of church choirs. In 'His Name shall endure' opportunities are offered for a bass, tenor, or alto soloist and a quartet; and in 'His only begotten Son' provision is made for soprano, alto, and bass soloists and a quartet of singers.

The Morning and Evening Service, together with the Office for the Holy Communion. Set to music in the key of D. By the Rev. W. Howard Stables.

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

The increasing number of clergymen who, in more or less degree, submit themselves to musical training is one of the most satisfactory features of modern church progress. The vicar who is not a musical ignoramus will be able to appreciate a good organist and will no longer be influenced by the undesirable suggestions for inappropriate music too often made by well-meaning but sentimentally minded members of congregations. Mr. Stables has manifestly studied music with earnestness and to good purpose. He writes with certainty and with perception of the needs and abilities of well-trained church choirs. We say 'well-trained' advisedly, for although the music presents no exceptional difficulties it demands precision and intelligence from its exponents. We are glad to note that the composer has set the Jubilate, a canticle that is too often neglected in the present day. There is no necessity to describe the music in detail, but it should be said that variety is obtained by sections in verse and passages for solo voices and that each number is published separately.

VOCAL PART-MUSIC.

What ho! are all on board asleep? Composed by Henry Leslie.

Each season bringeth pleasure. Composed by T. Palmer.

It is the hour. Composed by Charles H. Fogg.

Which is the properest day to sing? Composed by Dr. Arne.

Saw ye not the pallid Angel? Composed by F. Mendelssohn-Bartholdy.

Gather ye rosebuds. Composed by George Rathbone.

Creation's Hymn. Beethoven. Arranged by E. Sachs. (Novello's Part-Song Book.)

[Novello and Company, Limited.]

'What ho! are all on board asleep?' is an arrangement from Henry Leslie's 'Syrens'' duet. It makes an effective part-song and is worthy of favour.

The author's name of the text of 'Each season bringeth pleasure' is omitted, but the optimistic verses have been set to pleasing and appropriately unpretentious music by Mr. T. Palmer, and the composition will certainly give pleasure in whatever season it is sung.

'It is the hour' is yet another setting of Byron's lines, and one, be it added, that will recommend itself to musicians and that well merits the attention of choral societies. It requires careful reading and expressive singing; but when it receives these attentions the music will be found to happily echo the poetical sentiment of the lines.

No description is necessary of Dr. Arne's glee 'Which is the properest day to sing?' Saving Sunday, perhaps, the glee would be 'properest' on any day, and certainly it would make the day in which it was sung merrier withal.

Mendelssohn's 'Saw ye not the pallid Angel?' is also well known to choristers. Its inclusion in this series greatly adds to the value of this estimable issue.

Herrick's excellent and gracefully given advice contained in his lines, 'Gather ye rosebuds while ye may,' has been set in a light-hearted but musicianly manner by Mr. George Rathbone. The entrances in imitation are admirably designed, and, crisply sung, would be most effective.

Beethoven's 'Creation's Hymn,' as arranged for mixed voices in four parts by Mr. E. Sachs, forms an imposing choral piece specially suitable to a large choir.

THE 'AGAMEMNON' AT CAMBRIDGE.

(By our Special Correspondent.)

Eighteen years have passed since the first performance of Greek plays took place at Cambridge. This excellent feature of higher University life owes its initiation to Professor C. Waldstein and Mr. J. W. Clark, who still take an active part in the management of the representations. It may not be without interest to past and present Cambridge men if I give a complete list of the plays that have been performed, together with the names of those who have specially composed music for these interesting productions:—

YEAR.	PLAY.	COMPOSER.
1882	The Ajax of Sophocles	G. A. Macfarren.
1883	The Birds of Aristophanes ..	Hubert Parry.
1885	The Eumenides of Æschylus ..	C. Villiers Stanford.
1887	The Œdipus Tyrannus of Sophocles	C. Villiers Stanford.
1890	The Ion of Euripides	Charles Wood.
1894	The Iphigenia in Tauris	Charles Wood.
1897	The Wasps	T. Tertius Noble.
1900	The Agamemnon of Æschylus ..	Hubert Parry.

The choice of the 'Agamemnon of Æschylus' (in the original Greek) for performance this year was as happy a thought as the selection of Sir Hubert Parry to compose the music. Six representations took place, 'by the members of the University,' at the New Theatre, Cambridge, on the 16th, 17th (twice), 19th, 20th, and 21st ult., and, let me add at the outset, with unqualified success. The cast was as follows:—

Agamemnon	Mr. H. H. King, Pembroke College.
Clytaemnestra	Mr. F. H. Lucas, Trinity College.
Cassandra	Mr. J. F. Crace, King's College.
Aegisthus	Mr. I. G. Back, Trinity Hall.
A Watchman	Mr. E. S. Montagu, Trinity College.
A Herald	Mr. E. L. Watt, Trinity Hall.
Leader of the Chorus ..	Mr. F. Sidgwick, Trinity College.

A very marked feature of the performances, and one calling for special commendation, was the clear enunciation of the text, not only in the spoken parts, but in those that were sung. If one were hypercritically inclined, the action appeared to be now and then a little stiff; but in the face of such an all-roundness of excellence, this perambulating shortcoming may be placed in the category of spots on the sun.

Of the chief performers special mention is the just due of Mr. J. F. Crace, who gave a very powerful impersonation of Cassandra; the dramatic utterance and tragic intensity with which this gentleman played his part call for expressions of the highest praise. Hardly less successful was Mr. F. Sidgwick as Leader of the Chorus, whose elocutionary gifts deserve full commendation. The stage arrangements were excellent. A new scene had been painted by Mr. W. T. Hemsley; and the effect in Act i. of the beacon-fire on the hill in the distance was only one of several features of the good stage management, for which that indefatigable factotum of the Greek Play Committée, Mr. J. W. Clark, was responsible, he being treasurer, secretary, and (with Mr. H. J. Edwards) stage manager. A special edition of the play had been prepared, with the verse translation by Miss Anna Swanwick; a most admirable translation of the choruses was also made specially to fit the music by Mr. H. J. Edwards, and printed in the vocal score of the music.

It is now time to turn to the music which Sir Hubert Parry specially composed for this production of 'Agamemnon.' First of all, it is written for a small orchestra—and, by the way, a very good small orchestra those twenty-six players, mostly old Royal College of Music students, proved to be. The score stands thus: flute, oboe, two clarinets, two bassoons, two horns, trumpet, drums, harp, and strings. The result is a proof of what can be obtained from Bow down Thine ear.

ANTHEM FOR SOPRANO SOLO AND CHORUS

COMPOSED BY

THOMAS ATTWOOD

ORGANIST OF ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL FROM 1796 to 1838

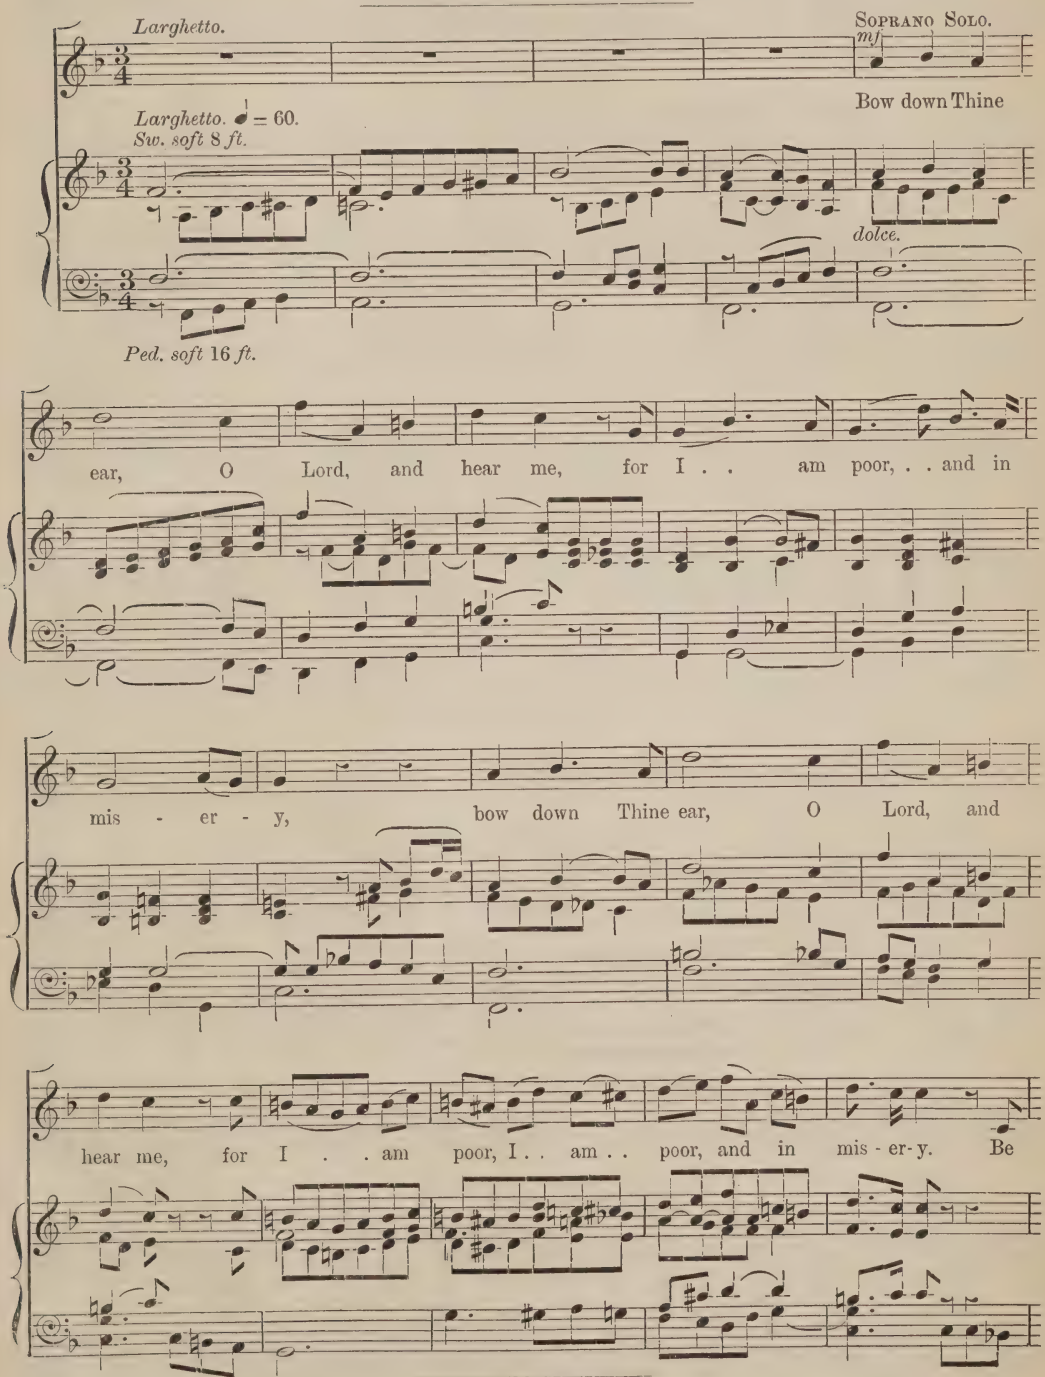
EDITED BY

GEORGE C. MARTIN

ORGANIST OF ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

Psalm lxxxvi. 1, 3—5.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED; AND NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.



Larghetto.
Soprano Solo.
mf
Bow down Thine
Larghetto. ♩ = 60.
Sw. soft 8 ft.
dolce.
Ped. soft 16 ft.
ear, O Lord, and hear me, for I . . am poor, . . and in mis - er - y, bow down Thine ear, O Lord, and hear me, for I . . am poor, I . . am . . poor, and in mis - er - y. Be Copyright, 1900, by Novello and Company, Limited.

mer - ci-ful, be mer - ci-ful un - to me, O Lord, for I will call, will call dai - ly up - on . . Thee, I . . will call . . .
Ch.
rit.
dai - ly up - on Thee, . . . will call up - on Thee, . . up-on Thee, . . up-on Sw.
rit.
Thee.
Soft Gt. or Ch.
a tempo.
Moderato.
dolce.
Com - fort the soul, the soul of Thy ser - vant, for un - to Moderato. ♩ = 88.
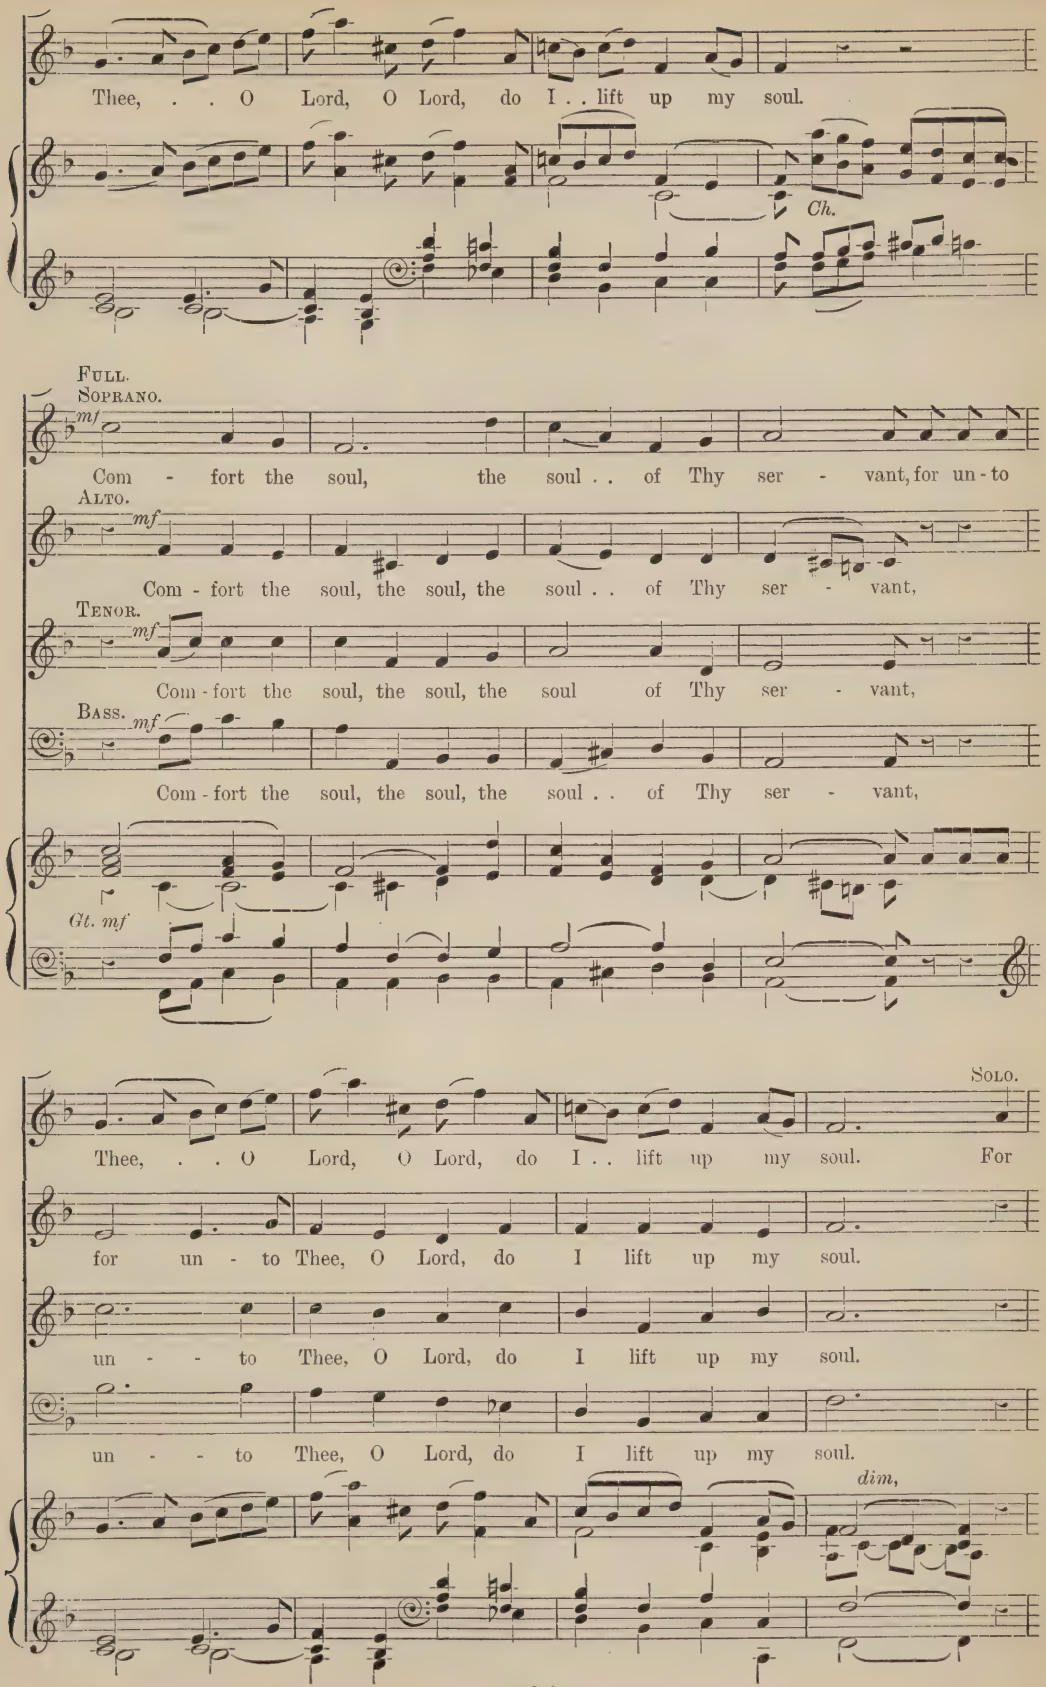
Sw.
dolce.



Thee, . . O Lord, O Lord, do I . . lift up my soul.
Ch.
Full.
Soprano.
mf
Com - fort the soul, the soul . . of Thy ser - vant, for un - to Alto.
mf
Com - fort the soul, the soul, the soul . . of Thy ser - vant,
Tenor.
mf
Com - fort the soul, the soul, the soul of Thy ser - vant,
Bass.
mf
Com - fort the soul, the soul, the soul . . of Thy ser - vant,
Gt. mf
Solo.
Thee, . . O Lord, O Lord, do I . . lift up my soul. For for un - to Thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul.
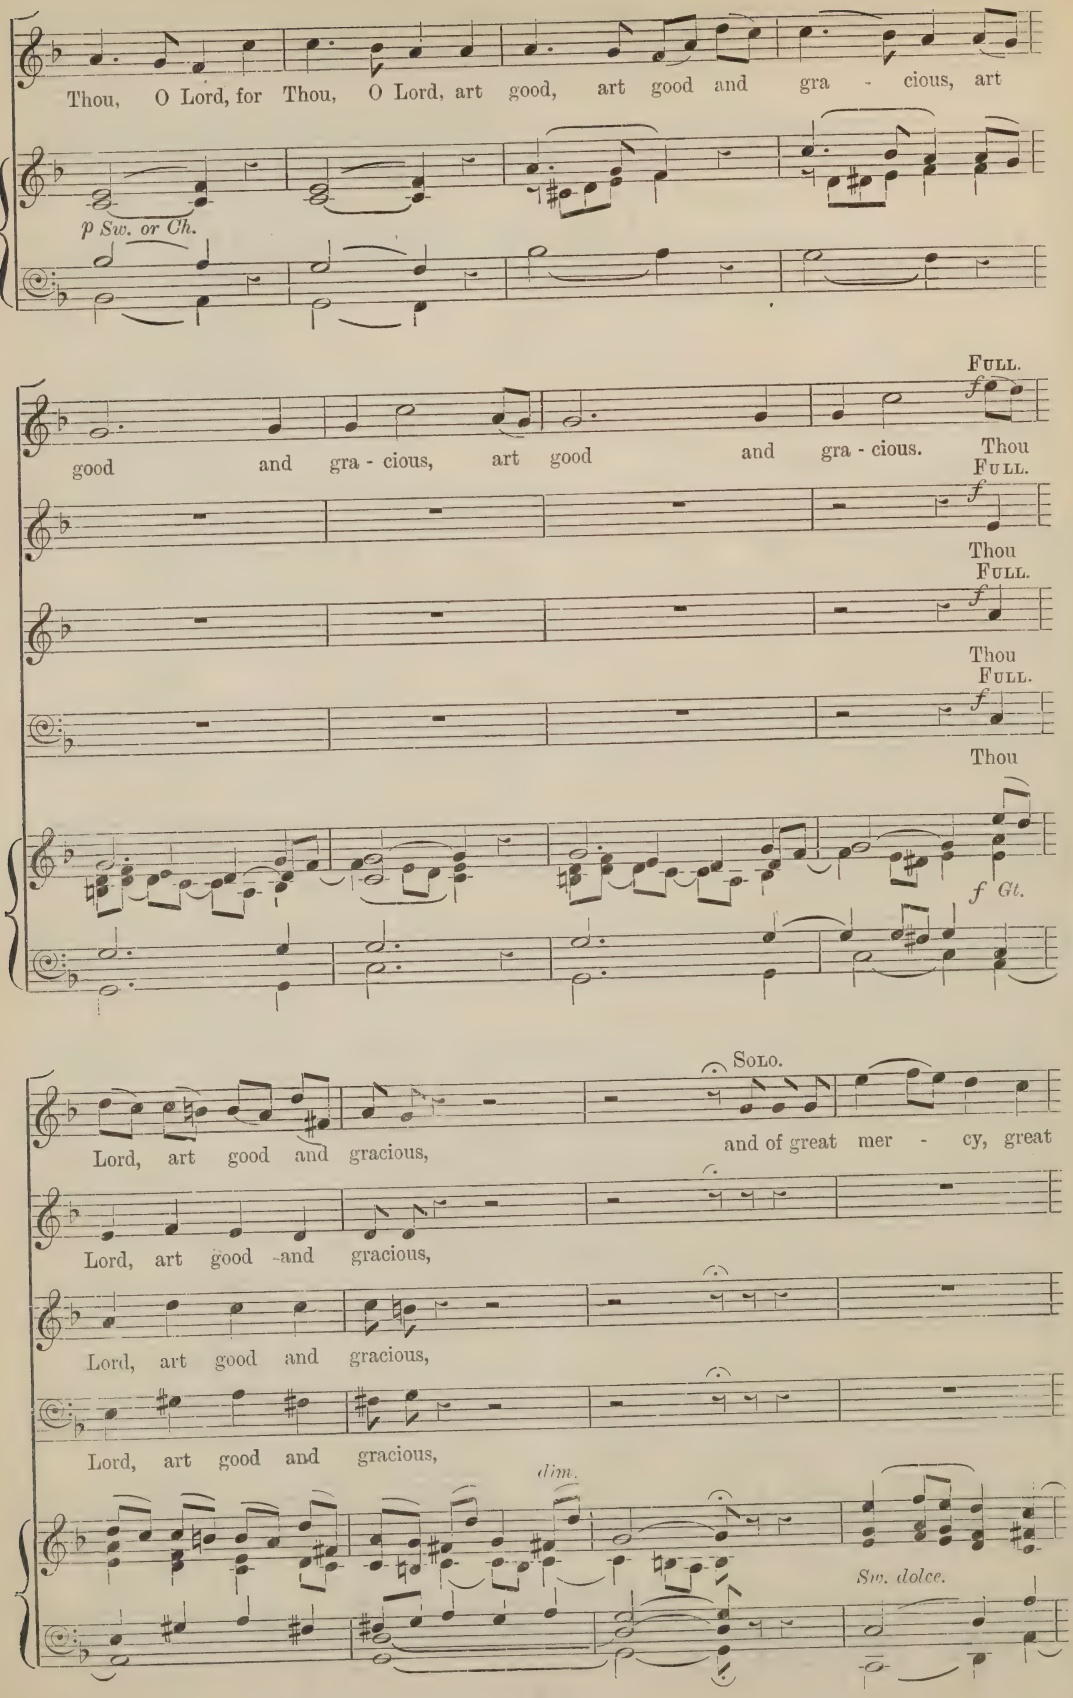
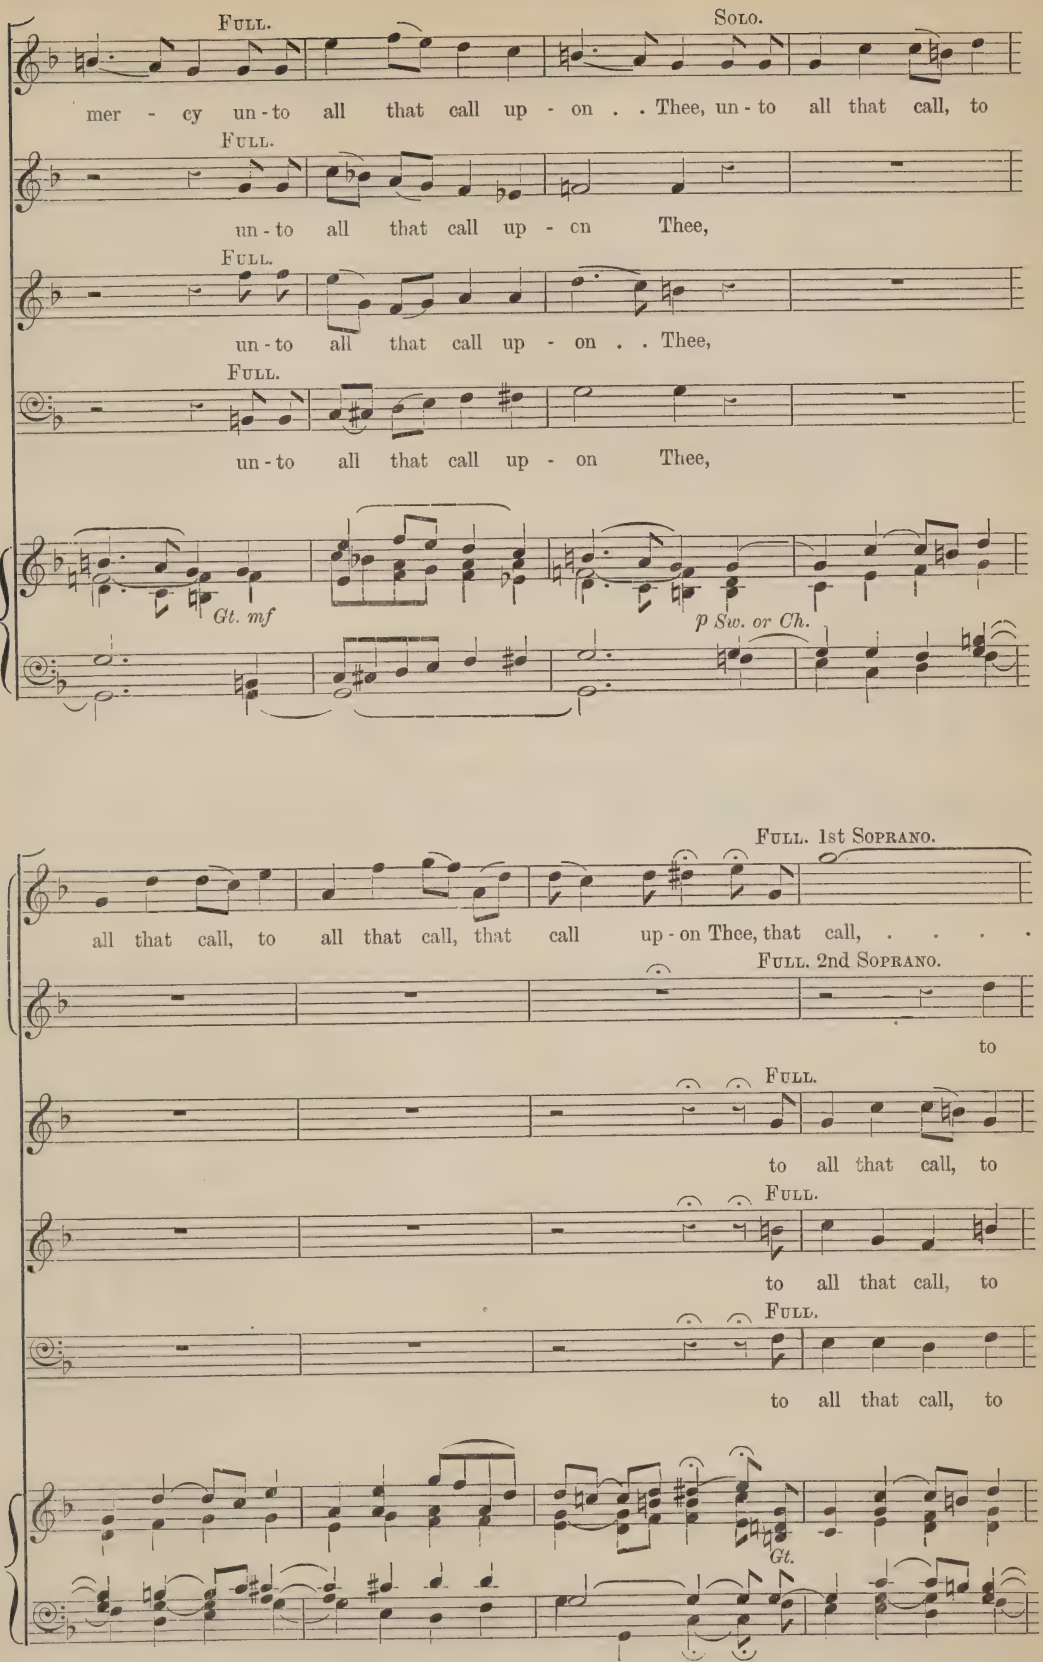
un - - - to Thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul.
un - - - to Thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul.
dim,



Thou, O Lord, for Thou, O Lord, art good, art good and gra - cious, art
p Sw. or Ch.
Full.
f
good and gra - cious, art good and gra - cious. Thou
Full.
f
Thou
Full.
f
Thou
Full.
f
Thou
f Gt.
Solo.
Lord, art good and gracious, and of great mer - cy, great
Lord, art good and gracious,
Lord, art good and gracious,
Lord, art good and gracious,
dim.
Sw. dolce.



Full.
Solo.
mer - cy un - to all that call up - on . . Thee, un - to all that call, to
Full.
un - to all that call up - on Thee,
Full.
un - to all that call up - on . . Thee,
Full.
un - to all that call up - on Thee,
Gt. mf
p Sw. or Ch.
Full. 1st Soprano.
all that call, to all that call, that call up - on Thee, that call, ...
Full. 2nd Soprano. to
Full. to all that call, to
Full. to all that call, to
Full. to all that call, to
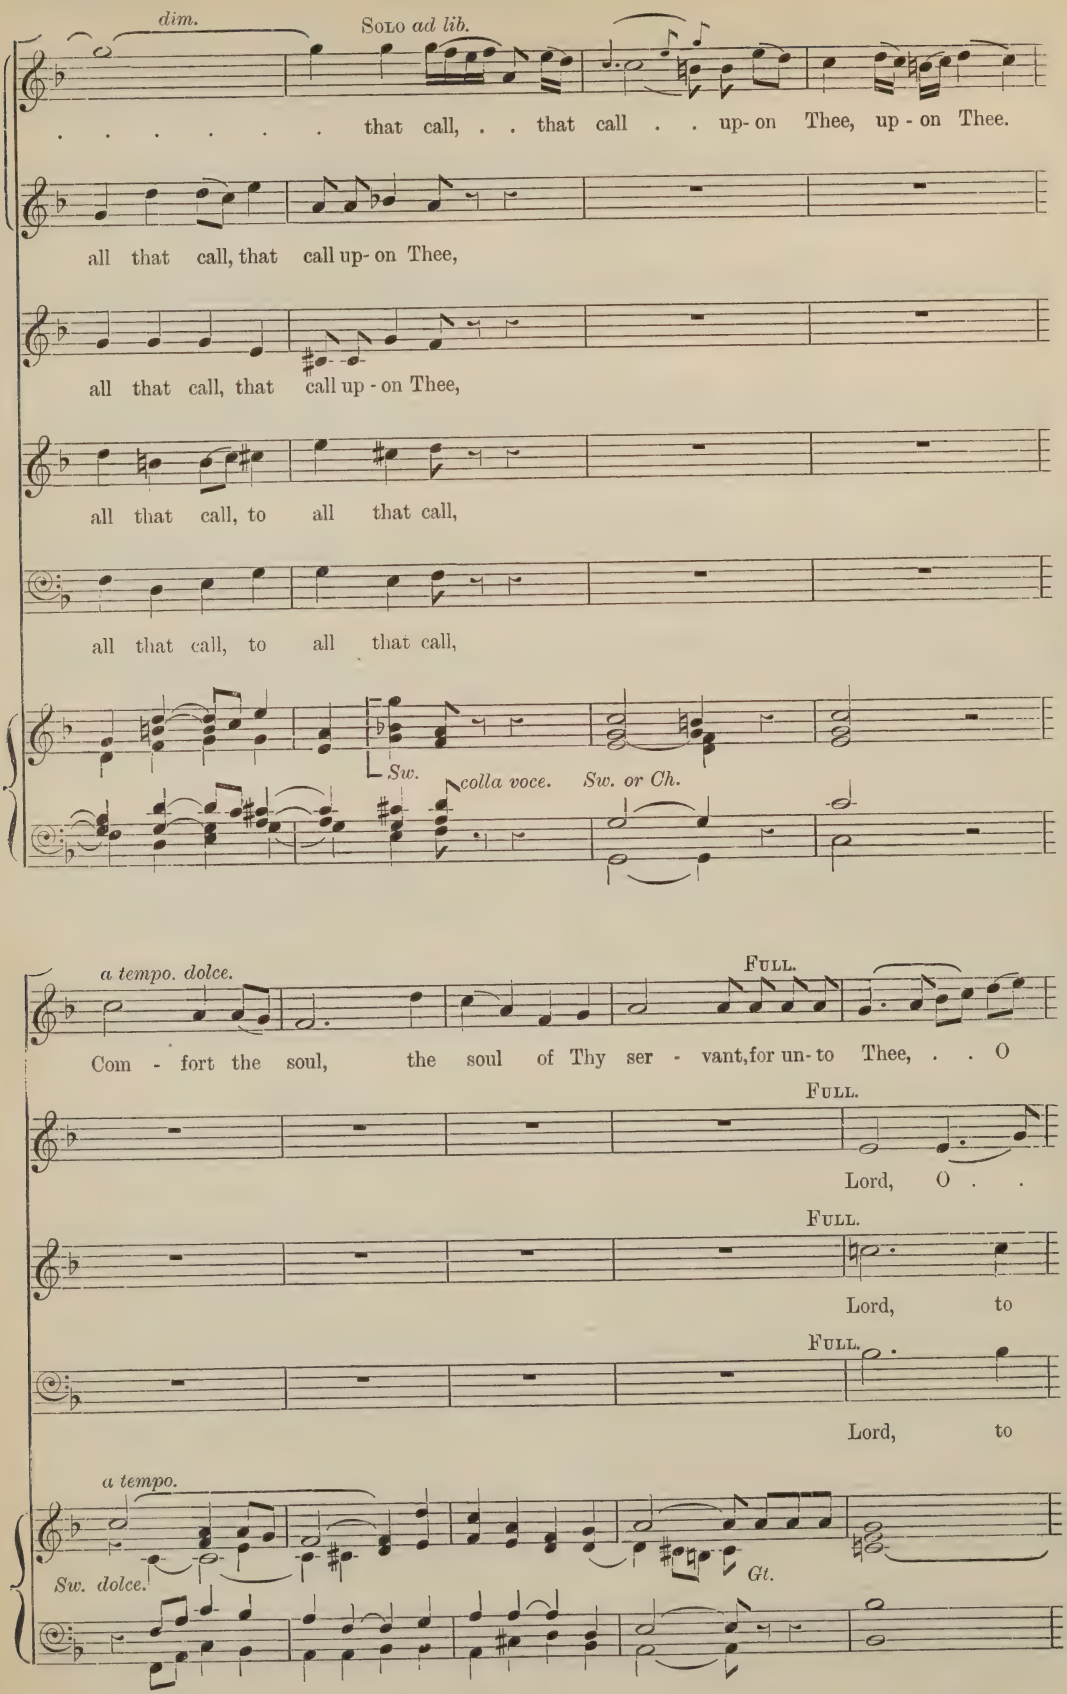
Gt.



dim.
Solo ad lib.
. . . . . that call, . . that call . . up- on Thee, up - on Thee.
all that call, that call up- on Thee,
all that call, that call up - on Thee,
all that call, to all that call,
all that call, to all that call,
Sw.
colla voce.
Sw. or Ch.
a tempo. dolce.
Full.
Com - fort the soul, the soul of Thy ser - vant, for un- to Thee, . . O
Full.
Lord, O . .
Full.
Lord, to
Full.
Lord, to a tempo.
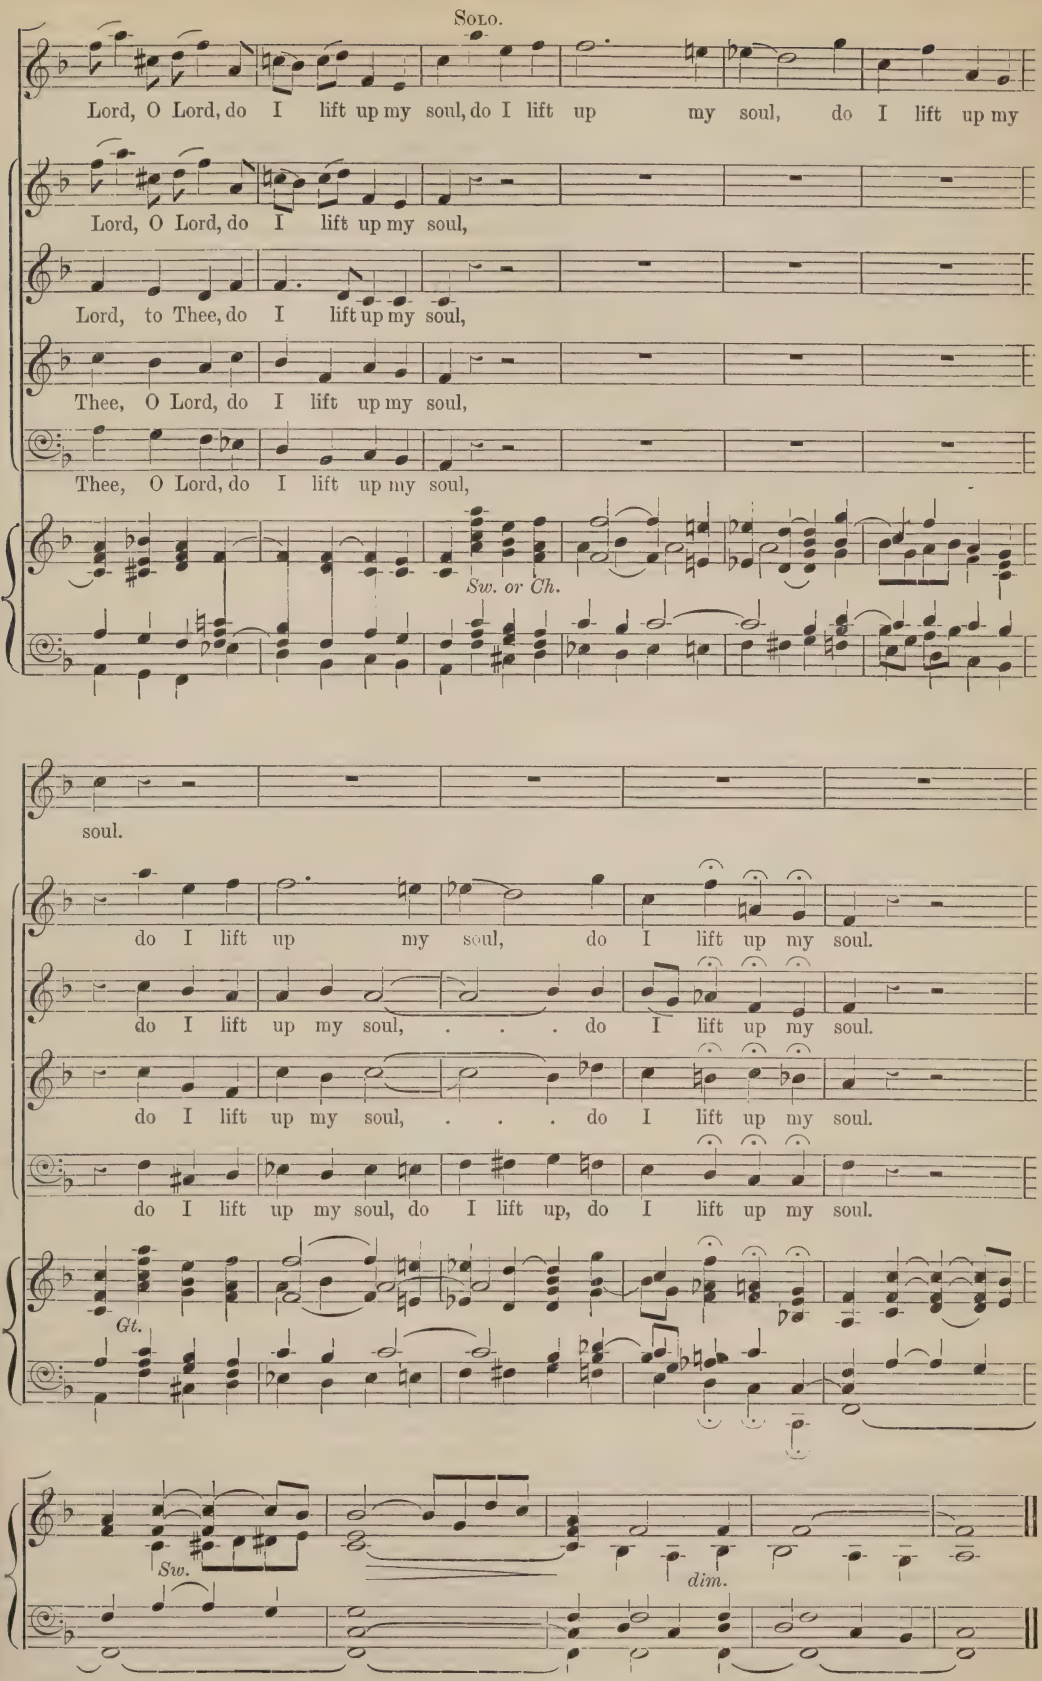
Sw. dolce.
Gt.



Solo.
Lord, O Lord, do I lift up my soul, do I lift up my soul, do I lift up my Lord, O Lord, do I lift up my soul,
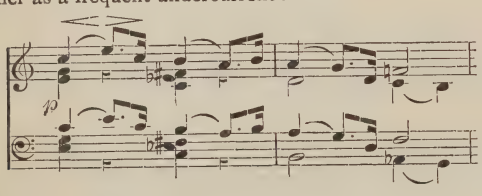
Lord, to Thee, do I lift up my soul,
Thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul,
Thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul,
Sw. or Ch.
soul.
do I lift up my soul, do I lift up my soul.
do I lift up my soul, . . . do I lift up my soul.
do I lift up my soul, . . . do I lift up my soul.
do I lift up my soul, do I lift up, do I lift up my soul.
Gt.
Sw.
dim.

simple means when a master-hand tries the experiment. A less artistically-minded man than the Director of the Royal College of Music might have put on the garb of the ultra-archaic in writing music for an ancient play. But that is an ill-fitting raiment that is not very becoming, even if the proper cut of the garments could be ascertained. That Sir Hubert is also a practical composer is evidenced in his distribution of the music between the tenors and basses, in order to relieve them of having so much to learn—perhaps, I may add in a stage whisper, in a short time! This was doubtless his reason for giving the Strophes to one class of voice and the Antistrophes to another almost throughout—and, be it recorded, with excellent effect. Moreover, this method lent itself naturally to variety. For example, the Anti-strophe had always to be at a different pitch from the Strophe—bass to tenor, or vice versâ; and then full advantage was taken of making the Antistrophe a variation of the Strophe in every case—sometimes turning the accompaniment upside down (e.g., pp. 65 and 67 of the vocal score) and sometimes, when the words of the Strophes and Antistrophes conveyed a different sentiment, the same tune, or something akin to it, was accompanied by quite different figures. Still further instances of these artistic subtleties may be found in the contrasted orchestration—e.g., Strophe β' in the first chorus is accompanied by strings, and Antistrophe β' altogether by low wind. Sir Hubert probably does not regard Leitmotiv as an all-sufficing means of artistic organization, but no one will deny the perfectly legitimate use of many such devices as subordinate elements of coherence. For example: the idea of Helen's being the ultimate cause of all the mischief probably influenced the composer in giving the first reference to her as a frequent undercurrent:—



Again, the music to the burden of the first chorus—runs through the whole, especially the 'good shall triumph' figure, which in the Coda comes as a sort of pathetic mockery.

The accompaniment figure in No. 6—is used in the Coda, and for the lament over Agamemnon, because it is associated first with the words 'at ev'ry hour haunting fear round my soul, foreboding evil, hovers.' The Clytaemnestra figure—which appears when the chorus first addresses her, recurs when anything ominous is suggested.

The Agamemnon theme—is constantly in evidence, from the overture to the Coda, and so on. All this contributes to the remarkable effectiveness of the music—an effectiveness which largely results from the composer's not merely striving after effect, but seriously working out the dictates of his artistic conscience. It is sufficient to say that Sir Hubert Parry's music to 'Agamemnon' shows the mind of the original thinker and the hand of the master musician.

The performance of the music was quite first-rate. I have already referred to the attainments of the band, but the chorus are deserving of equal praise. They sang so well, and so intelligently, that their names deserve to be recorded. Here they are: Messrs. A. Goodliffe, W. E. F. Macmillan, R. J. W. H. Potter, W. B. Stone, G. W. Daisley, R. G. Elwell, E. A. Martell, E. B. Crampton, W. Greer, A. H. Groom, H. M. de P. P. Leite, G. T. Shaw, C. H. Woodman, F. M. Rushmore, P. Stanley, B. C. Johns, H. G. Harrison, and R. H. Hobday.

Sir Hubert Parry conducted the initial and final representations (on the 16th and 21st ult.), but the rest of the performances were under the able direction of Dr. Charles Wood, who had most efficiently trained the chorus.

YSAYE AS A CONDUCTOR.

If curiosity is a sign of a low stage of development, then the British public must have reached giddy heights indeed. It is apparently quite devoid of any desire to know of anything even comparatively new, and so there is some comfort to be derived even from the emptiness of Queen's Hall when M. Ysaye made his first appearance as conductor among us. It has taken us, as a people, years to discover that M. Ysaye is a great violinist—but now the fact is fairly common knowledge. But even that knowledge did not suffice to arouse interest. The audience at the second concert was larger, though the programme was less attractive, and from this there would seem to be some ground for hoping that M. Ysaye will be known as a conductor before his hair grows grey and his eye loses its fire.

M. Ysaye boldly introduced some new and some almost new works at each concert—and all of the French school, though one was composed by a Belgian and one by a Swiss—and with still greater boldness he put M. Jaques-Dalcroze's Overture to 'Sancho' at the head of his first concert, on the 14th ult. A new work does not afford a critic much opportunity of judging a new conductor's methods and capabilities, but one could see at once that he is a conductor who knows his own mind, and that he can make the band express it.

Some people were apparently very much surprised at the excellence of his interpretation of the Fifth Symphony of Beethoven and at the skill with which he made the Queen's Hall band accompany Signor Busoni in the 'Emperor' Concerto. But why one should expect an artist who can so convincingly express the dignity no less than the poetry and beauty of the Violin Concerto to be feeble or eccentric in the Fifth Symphony, it is hard to see. The reading of the symphony, then, was finely dignified, though it had a hint of impetuosity which was distinctly stimulating. It had an elasticity—without any distortion of the main rhythmic outline, which, indeed, was magnificently emphasised: it was simply delightful. And above all it gave an impression of strength. The slow movement was phrased most exquisitely—with a true instinct for beauty. There were rubatos indeed, but none which can justly be said to have done any violence to the composer's intention. The atmosphere of the Scherzo was convincingly right, and the Finale went with extraordinary dash and vigour. Without any piling of Pelion on Ossa it went from strength to strength, as it were, naturally and inevitably. To give this impression of inevitableness is the highest triumph of interpretation, and since one of M. Ysaye's great virtues as a soloist is that he does give it, one ought not to have wondered at it here. At the second concert, on the 19th ult., the symphony was Schumann's in C, and of this we had really a memorable performance. It has become almost a commonplace of criticism that Schumann's scoring is heavy and muddy and that his symphonies sound like orchestral arrangements of pianoforte music. Perhaps the greatest tribute that can be paid to M. Ysaye's conducting is to say that the performance made one wonder why anyone had ever thought so. In matter of phrasing and tempi it was all above reproach. The crispness and delicacy of the rushing violin passages in the Scherzo were as delightful as the cantabile in the slow movement. These two symphonies, with Tschaïkowsky's 'Romeo and Juliet' and Saint-Saëns's 'Jeunesse d'Hercule,' were the only well-known orchestral works included in the two programmes, except, of course, the 'Emperor' Concerto.

Of the French works the most striking was undoubtedly César Franck's 'Chasseur Maudit,' which ended the first concert. It is wonderfully picturesque, and wonderfully picturesque was the way in which it was played. Vincent d'Indy also appeared twice in the programme of the 14th. His clever but lugubrious Prelude to 'Fervaal' and his symphonic variations, 'Istar,' tended to increase one's admiration for his great skill, but also to deepen one's doubts whether any great good can come out of so strong an infusion of Wagnerian blood into French veins. A peculiarity of 'Istar'—conditioned by the story of the maiden who had to disrobe by degrees before she could reach and rescue her lover—is that we have variations first and theme last of all. M. Ysaye conducted these in a most masterly way, and they were played with wonderful clearness of detail. M. Duparo's symphonic poem 'Lénore,' founded on Bürger's ballad, is also well scored, shows some lack of dramatic grip, and is more melodious than most modern French music. But a good third of it is pure Wagner. M. Jaques-Dalcroze's 'Sancho' is a genial and attractive work, showing some sense of humour and a leaning towards polyphony and thematic development, which is rare in works of that school. It is not without significance that all the French composers in this list have been pupils of César Franck, who must have enjoyed something very like a monopoly in his lifetime.

M. Ysaye's conducting of all these modern things was excellent and showed how wide his sympathies are. He reproduced the right atmosphere in these things as skilfully as that of the classical works, and the same sense of proportion which distinguishes his solo playing marked the interpretations of these. When M. Ysaye returns to conduct here, which will be soon, it may be hoped, his treatment of the violins should be closely watched. He is, not unnaturally, very attentive to them, and causes them to play with a tone that is in itself distinctive, and with a finish of phrasing that even M. Lamoureux might have envied. He manages to impart to them some of his own secret of concentrated and continuous tone.

Under M. Ysaye the band accompanies admirably. Signor Busoni played at both concerts—at the first, the 'Emperor' Concerto, and at the second, Rubinstein's Concerto in E flat. His playing of the first has only very recently been discussed, and it was instinct with nobility and poetry. It was not worth while to disinter the dreary Rubinstein Concerto, even though it gave Signor Busoni a chance for a perfectly astonishing display of dazzling virtuosity and irresistible élan. But he is so much more than a mere virtuoso. As an encore he played a Rhapsody by Liszt. Miss Florence Schmidt sang at the first concert and Miss Jessie Goldsack at the second.

It must not be forgotten, in conclusion, that M. Ysaye enjoyed an advantage, hitherto denied to all conductors who have come over to England, except M. Lamoureux. He had under under him a band perfectly trained and used to playing together. He himself would be the first to admit how much of his success is due to Mr. Henry J. Wood.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

The thirtieth season of the Royal Choral Society was commenced on the 8th ult., at the Royal Albert Hall, with Mendelssohn's 'Elijah.' It is a significant comment on the opinions recently expressed in certain quarters, that Mendelssohn's music was 'played out,' that there have of late been exceptionally large audiences whenever this oratorio has been performed by notable choral bodies. The attendance at the Hereford Festival was unprecedented; at the Birmingham Festival the accommodation of the Town Hall proved inadequate to the applications for admission, and at the Albert Hall there was an exceptionally large gathering. This continued, and, it may be added, increasing popularity is pre-eminently satisfactory and to be encouraged by fine performances of the oratorio. The latest, given under the direction of Sir Frederick Bridge, will certainly conduce to this desirable result. An exceptionally capable body of choristers has been secured for the present season, and they sang with magnificent precision, clearness of articulation, and superb quality of vocal tone. In regard to the soloists, Miss Ella Russell and Miss Clara Butt sang very finely, and a decided success was achieved by Miss Edna Thornton, a new-comer at these concerts, whose singing of 'Woe unto them' showed exceptional ability. Miss Maggie Purvis also deserves mention for her admirable delivery of the words of the Youth. Mr. Andrew Black gave a most impressive reading of the Prophet, and the other male parts were excellently sung by Mr. Lloyd Chandos, Mr. William Fell, and Mr. Bertram Mills.

PROMENADE CONCERTS.

SOME FIRST PERFORMANCES.

It may unhesitatingly be said that the series of Promenade concerts concluded on the 10th ult., at the Queen's Hall, is the most important ever given in this country. Towards the close of the season Mr. Robert Newman's magnificent orchestra, from constantly playing under Mr. Henry J. Wood's direction, acquired a oneness in attack and expression and a perfect responsiveness to Mr. Wood's gestures that caused many performances of master-works to become memorable.

Although not a new work, mention is due of the performance, on October 27, of Mr. Arthur Hervey's 'Dramatic Overture,' for it is a clever, significant, and scholarly composition, and has too seldom been heard since its original production in November, 1890, at a concert given by Señor Albeniz. The same evening a bright and stirring 'Yeomanry Patrol,' by Mr. W. H. Squire, was played and much appreciated.

On the 1st ult. the first performance in England was given of M. Alexandre Glazounoff's ballet music 'Ruses d'Amour' (Wiles of Love), which proved a work of considerable musical interest and dimension. The first of its five sections consists of an Introduction, first scene, Gavotte and Musette, Sarabande, and Farandole. The Introduction is based on the old French folk-song 'J'ai du bon tabac,' and the other numbers suggest a scenario of French courtliness of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. The second section of the suite is a 'Grande Valse' in Western style; but this is followed by the 'Dances of the Male and Female Peasantry,' in which the music assumes a distinctly Russian character. The fourth movement, described as 'Grand Dance of the affianced lovers,' is remarkable for the elaborate nature of a part for solo violin, and responsive passages for solo violoncello, these instruments presumably representing the 'affianced' ones. In the Finale, entitled 'La Fricassée,' a return is made to the style of the Introduction and melodies in old dance rhythms. It should be added that the work is most picturesquely scored, and that it is one of M. Glazounoff's latest compositions.

A Suite de Ballet, by Mr. Landon Roland, of very different but equally pleasing character, was performed for the first time on the 3rd ult. This Suite is Mr. Roland's first orchestral effort for the concert-room, but it is so tersely knit, bright, and effectively scored that he may be bidden to further increase our none too large repertory of artistic, light music. It comprises six movements, the character of which may be gathered from the following headings: 'Danse caractéristique,' 'Air de ballet,' 'Valse caprice,' 'Danse des Morts,' 'Fête champêtre,' 'Introduction,' and 'Danse Bacchanale.'

The Fantasia, entitled 'The Boy and the Butterfly,' for solo flute, bassoon obbligato, and orchestra, by Mr. George Fox, produced on the 6th ult., is an amusing jeu d'esprit, the solo parts in which were admirably rendered by Mr. Albert Fransella and Mr. E. F. James. The same night was heard for the first time in England the Serenade in E flat (Op. 7), for wood-wind and four horns, by Herr Richard Strauss, a melodious and clearly designed work in one movement.

A work of remarkable cleverness, consisting of Variations for orchestra on the old English air 'Three Blind Mice' (Op. 48), by Mr. Josef Holbrooke, was brought to a hearing for the first time on the 8th ult. Very remarkable is the mastery of contrapuntal resource and facility shown in the variations. They are twenty in number, and some of them are very humorous—a life-saving attribute in a young composer. More should be heard of Mr. Holbrooke—and at the Queen's Hall. Only one more piece calls for record, the first performance in England of a Duet in G for two flutes, by Beethoven. This little work—performed, we believe, at the instigation of Mr. J. S. Shedlock—consists of an Allegro con brio, Minuet, and Trio, and is aptly described by Dr. Deiters in his translation of Thayer's biography of Beethoven as a 'neat, unpretentious pièce d'occasion.' It was written for Beethoven's friend Degenhart, and the date on the autograph is August 28, 1792, two months before Beethoven's departure from Vienna.

CRYSTAL PALACE CONCERTS.

The forty-fifth annual series of the Saturday afternoon Orchestral concerts presumably came to an end on the 17th ult. We say presumably, because no announcement in the programme book was made concerning the continuance of the series in the spring. Whether the concerts will be resumed or not, this may be said in all forcefulness, that Mr. Manns has done noble work at Sydenham during his long régime of nearly half-a-century. He has made us intimate with the masterpieces of Schubert and Schumann, and persisted in well doing in the face of scant encouragement. So to speak, he planted the seed of the taste for orchestral music which has developed into a flourishing tree to-day, and it seems almost like ingratitude that its fruit should not fall on his ground. The four last performances do not call for detailed criticism. Those on October 27 and the 10th ult. were conducted by Mr. Manns; that on the 3rd ult. by Mr. Henry J. Wood, in command of Mr. Robert Newman's orchestra, and that on the 17th ult. by Dr. Richter. The last concert directed by Mr. Manns was distinguished by including the Prelude to Mr. Edward Elgar's sacred cantata 'The Dream of Gerontius,' produced at the recent Birmingham Festival. The lofty and impressive music was admirably played, and the piece is so complete in itself that it should be no stranger in our concert-rooms. It should be added that this concert concluded with a fine interpretation of Schubert's great Symphony in C (No. 9), a very appropriate work on this occasion, for it was first introduced to England by Mr. Manns—in two instalments, be it noted—at the Saturday concerts, on April 5 and 12, 1856.

The chief features of the performance, on the 3rd ult., were Tschaïkowsky's Fifth Symphony in E minor and his Overture '1812.' Dr. Richter's programme consisted of familiar excerpts from works by Wagner, and Beethoven's Seventh Symphony in A.

ANOTHER NEW ENGLISH COMPOSER.

MR. D. F. TOVEY.

At some future day Mr. Donald Francis Tovey may look over the programmes of the concerts which he gave at St. James's Hall towards the close of the nineteenth century and wonder how he had the temerity to 'hurl' his works at the public, and at the critics, in the way he has done. He is clever—in fact, highly gifted—and if he bide his time may make a name for himself; for the present, however, he is in the imitative stage, and his powers of imitation are strong. There are themes and developments in his chamber music which sound almost like Beethoven or Brahms, but an attentive listener finds that he has only shadow, not substance; that it is pseudo-Beethoven, pseudo-Brahms. If Mr. Tovey's music were a bad imitation of these masters little harm would be done, but as it is most cleverly formed and fashioned, it may lead many—and among them the composer himself—to accept it as really great. We do not say that the composer lacks originality; for the present, however, it is hid under a Beethoven-Brahms bushel.

A word or two must be said about the analytical programmes, or 'essays,' as they were named after the third concert. They were offered 'in the full knowledge that their use must seem doubtful to many persons.' In the musical quotations the author has given 'the largest number of essential points—and of those, by preference, such as are likely to be missed.' The 'essential points' in the works of Mozart, Beethoven, and Schumann, which were fully discussed, stand out clearly and require little analytical assistance, and if in Mr. Tovey's compositions they are 'likely to be missed,' it does not say much for their strength or interest. The quotations Mr. Tovey intended for use 'during the actual performance'; the letterpress to be read 'at leisure.' There are clever and thoughtful remarks in them, yet we fear that many, Festus-like, will put off the reading to a convenient season. The good things in them are mixed up with much that is trite and occasionally trivial.

The compositions of Mr. Tovey which were performed at his first and third concerts, on the 1st and 15th ult., consisted of a Trio in C minor, for pianoforte, clarinet, and horn, and a Quintet in C, for pianoforte, two violins, viola, and violoncello. The artists who ably co-operated with him were Messrs. Kruse, Schilsky, A. E. Ferir, and H. Walenn. Mr. Tovey, at his second concert, played Beethoven's Sonata (Op. 81A), the Brahms Variations on a Paganini theme, and other pieces, and proved himself a pianist of exceptional ability. Miss Fillunger was the vocalist. Her songs included Schubert's 'Viola' of 'heavenly' length and Bach's fine cantata for soprano solo, 'Jauchzet Gott in allen Landen.'

MR. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR'S INCIDENTAL MUSIC TO 'HEROD.'

The time is past when incidental music at our theatres was a reproach. It no longer consists of snippets more or less intelligently pieced together by the conductor, with an arrangement of a waltz or a royalty ballad between the acts. Our managers now employ our best composers to write the music, and some of the best of recent English work owes its origin indirectly to men like Sir Henry Irving, Mr. Alexander, and Mr. Beerbohm Tree. Mr. Tree has had the music of 'Herod' at Her Majesty's composed by Mr. Coleridge-Taylor, whose record, on first principles, would have seemed to make him the man most fitted to illustrate a semi-barbaric subject. But Mr. Taylor's barbarism is Western—'Herod' is Eastern. Perhaps it was consciousness of this that has made Mr. Taylor write perhaps the most civilised music that has come from his pen. It is all very European—rather Slavonic—except a dance in the first act, which somehow suggests Dvorák's 'New World' Symphony. There is a motive illustrating the love of Herod for Mariamne which is full of poignant expressiveness, and there is a great deal of life in the overture and the entr'actes; but the impression gathered from hearing the music in the theatre is that it shows less of that originality and maturity which have made most of Mr. Taylor's compositions so remarkable. But it is the fate of such good incidental music that the theatre is the worst place to hear it in. It is always more or less an accompaniment to conversation, and it is not improbable that when heard in the concert-room the music (though it is very well played under Mr. Levey) will create quite a different impression.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

Convincing proofs of excellent training were manifest at the Students' concert of the Royal Academy of Music, held on the 19th ult., at St. James's Hall. Misses Lillian M. D. Kent, Rose E. Wheeler, and Jeannie Bateman, and Mr. Gale Gardner sang with taste and discretion, and considerable skill on the violin was shown by Miss Lulu Barlet. Three pianists were heard, the most finished being Mr. Robert B. Lloyd, who played Tschaïkowsky's 'Thème et Variations' with notable intelligence. Mr. Alfred Amy attacked Beethoven's Sonata in C sharp minor with some success, and Mr. Felix Swinstead played with neatness the solo part of Bach's Clavier Concerto in D minor, being admirably supported by his fellow-student string players, under the direction of Mr. Frederick Corder. Two well-written movements from a MS. sonata for violin and pianoforte, by Mr. Alfred H. Barley, were effectively rendered by Miss Margaret Forster and Mr. York Bowen, and the afternoon concluded in a brilliant manner with the performance of two movements from Klengel's Serenade in F (Op. 24), for strings, which were excellently rendered by the ensemble class, under the direction of Mr. Emile Sauret.

MUSICAL COMPETITIONS.

STOWMARKET.—THE 'HENNIKER' COMPETITION.

Among the now happily numerous gatherings of its class held in many parts of the country, the 'Henniker Musical Competition' deserves especial mention.

This institution was founded four years ago by the Hon. Alice Henniker with a view to stimulate musical studies in Suffolk, a county with which the Henniker family has long been connected. It is one of the features of the scheme that the meetings are to be held in turn at various populous centres in the district. Last year's competitions were held at Bury and this year's were held, on October 29 and 30, at Stowmarket. Remarkable progress has been made since the scheme was started. This year the proceedings filled out two whole days, and notwithstanding that for many hours two of the three adjudicators were working in separate places concurrently, it was with the greatest difficulty that arrangements could be made to hear all the aspirants. Miss Henniker and the local committee, which comprised a strong representation of the gentry, clergy and ministers of various denominations, may well congratulate themselves on the fruitfulness of their labours.

The numerous classifications of the competitions included pianoforte playing, violin playing, juvenile school choirs, female voice choirs, mixed voice choirs of the church and choral society type, and solo singing for every kind of voice. Besides the purely musical sections, there were elocutionary classes, the intimate connection between good singing and clear articulation and expressive emphasis being thus duly and properly recognised. Of the musical results attained it is possible to speak very highly, especially with regard to the school and the female voice choral society sections. Seventeen school choirs competed. In one section, in which the test piece was 'In Mary's Garden' (Ethel Boyce), there were several performances of remarkable merit, the first prize being awarded to the Shrimpling School (Mr. C. T. Wells), and in another section, St. Mary's, Bury St. Edmund's (girls), gained the first position by a remarkably perfect performance of Schumann's 'Pluck ye roses,' a by no means easy duet, the Wherstead (Ipswich) School coming only one mark behind. In the female voice choir section, the Ipswich Nonconformist Choir Union, under Mr. Hayward, gained nearly full marks for a chaste rendering of 'Flow down, cold rivulet' (Selby), and Mr. Dalby's choir was very little behind. None of the mixed voice choirs reached so high a standard. The Ipswich choir did very well in one section and gained a prize, and in another Mr. Shann's choir came out first. The adjudicators were Dr. McNaught (choral and instrumental), Mr. Douglas Powell (solo singing), Mr. Charles Fry (elocution), and Mr. Alston (plain-song).

The proceedings closed on the evening of the second day with a concert, in which the combined choirs and some of the prize-winners took part. The prizes were distributed by His Highness Prince Frederick Dhuleep Singh, who had been an attentive auditor during the competition. Miss Henniker (who is an artist of considerable attainments), Miss Whitbread (a locally well-known and accomplished singer with a fine contralto voice), Mr. Douglas Powell, and Mr. Ernest Hodgson sang, Miss Noverre contributed violin solos, Mrs. Fraser Henry accompanied, and Dr. McNaught conducted. Besides the musical numbers the audience had the great gratification of hearing Mr. Charles Fry recite, and thus exemplify by his own performance the precepts of his adjudications. The secretarial arrangements, which were divided between Mr. C. J. H. Shann (general), Miss Whitbread, Mr. Sidney Thompson, and Mr. W. Yallop, were smoothly carried out.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.

The Barrow Musical Festival and Competition was commenced in 1899, and was an encouraging success to its promoters. This year's gathering was held on the 14th and 15th ult., and was still more successful than its forerunner. The undertaking appeals especially to local musical resources, but the competitions are partly open to outsiders. It is worked by a strong local committee, which includes the local Member of Parliament, the Mayor, some of the clergy, and many other influential citizens. The money for the prizes (the highest of which was £10) and for some of the expenses is met by donations. The population of Barrow is of an unusually mixed character. This is owing to the rapid rise of the town as an important shipbuilding and manufacturing centre, and the natural immigration of workmen and business men from all parts of the country. The attempt to provide such a community with a means by which sordid cares may be softened and social cohesion promoted is a highly laudable undertaking, and it may be hoped that the patient, sensible, and unselfish labours of the promoters of the competitions will continue to be rewarded by success. The scheme presented all the usual features of these gatherings. There were classes for instruments, solo voices, choirs of all kinds, and notably there was a string quartet section which brought forward three parties of players. Six children's choirs sang and showed excellent training. The test piece was the duet, 'Welcome thou' (Handel), and the first place was won by the Rawlinson Street girls, under Miss H. Paul. The local choral society section introduced four choirs. The prize was gained by the Barrow Madrigal Society, under Miss Lones, a lady who on former occasions has shown uncommon skill as a choir trainer. The test piece was Sterndale Bennett's 'Come live with me.' The open choral section was the most keenly contested, although there were only three entries. The singing reached a high standard. The result was that Hindpool Wesleyans, under Mr. W. Laxham, were awarded the first prize and fifty-two marks (out of sixty), the Barrow Madrigal Society (again under Miss Lones) coming next with fifty-one marks, and the Workington Glee Singers, under Mr. J. C. Harkness, following close behind with forty-nine marks. The test piece was 'Judge me, O God' (Mendelssohn). The solo singing sections were largely patronised. They served to prove that there are plenty of good voices in the district. Seventeen boys, eight sopranos and altos, sixteen tenors, and sixteen basses entered. The test for the string quartet was the Poco adagio cantabile movement from Haydn's 'Emperor' Quartet. The playing was distinctly creditable. The evening of the 15th ult. was devoted to competitions in choral classes and a concert given by the prize-winners. There was a large audience that nearly filled the most capacious hall in Barrow—namely, the Drill Hall, which is a dreary and comfortless building. The townsfolk seem to have been so absorbed in constructing great war vessels and vast works that they have passed over the need their town has for a commodious concert hall. The business arrangements of the festival were very well looked after by the executive committee, of which the Rev. Samuel Falle was chairman and Mr. T. J. Symons the honorary secretary. Dr. McNaught adjudicated.

OPERA.

'Patience' revived.

The revival, on the 7th ult., at the Savoy Theatre, of the Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera 'Patience; or, Bunthorne's Bride,' was an exceptionally interesting event. Originally produced on April 23, 1881, at the now condemned Opera Comique, it proved so successful that it was chosen to inaugurate the Savoy Theatre on the following October 10. The æsthetic craze which the libretto so mercilessly ridiculed has long since become social history, and there was a doubt whether its satire would not fall flat upon present day listeners; but Mr. W. S. Gilbert's witticisms are directed against the foibles of pretence and insincerity which are always with us, and consequently his story is too old to become antiquated. Moreover, the score contains some of the late composer's daintiest and most attractive numbers—all too well known to bear naming; and so it has come to pass that 'Patience' was received with as much delight and hilarity last month as in 1881. Not one of the principals in the original cast is to be found in the present company, but the opera is excellently served by the following artists: Patience, Miss Isabel Jay; Lady Jane, Miss Rosina Brandram; Ladies Angela, Saphir, and Ella, Misses Gaston-Murray, Lulu Evans, and Agnes Fraser; Bunthorne, Mr. Walter Passmore; Grosvenor, Mr. Henry Lytton; The Duke, Mr. Robert Evett; Colonel Calverly, Mr. Jones-Hewson; Major Murgatroyd, Mr. W. H. Leon. The choruses and instrumental portion were rendered with delightful crispness and finish, and the work was mounted with the artistic taste and completeness identified with the Savoy Theatre.

SPINELLI'S 'A BASSO PORTO.'

During a week's visit to the Coronet Theatre, Notting Hill Gate, the recently re-formed Royal Carl Rosa Company gave first performances in London of Signor Niccola Spinelli's three-act opera 'A Basso Porto,' on the 14th ult., and Gounod's 'Cinq Mars,' on the 17th ult. The composer of the former was born at Turin in 1865, and his opera, originally produced at the Town Theatre, Cologne, on April 18, 1894, has enjoyed some popularity on the Continent. The book, by Eugene Ghecchi, is a clumsily constructed melodrama, unredeemed by a single commendable sentiment. The music of the opera has no pretence to greatness. For the most part, it is feverish and noisy; but it is not without moments of decided strength, of broad melodic charm, and dramatic force. The duet in which Cicillo wins Susella's consent rings true in its passion. Marie's ante-murder prayer contains some beautiful passages, and the serenade which Cicillo and Luigino sing at the beginning of the second act is very pretty and dainty. In regard to the performers, Miss Winifred Ludlam excelled as Marie, and also sang with good effect; Mdlle. Aurelia Rèvy embodied Susella with convincing earnestness, and the parts of Cicillo and Luigino were sustained with due melodramatic fierceness by Mr. Arthur Deane and Mr. William Stephens. The chorus and orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Eugene Goossens, were excellent.

GOUNOD'S 'CINQ MARS.'

'Cinq Mars' is Gounod's tenth opera, as 'Faust' is his fourth; and to those who know the French master's operatic works this means very much. MM. Paul Poisson and Louis Gallet's libretto, founded on Alfred de Vigney's tradegy of the historic conspiracy against Cardinal Richelieu, was manifestly modelled on the lines of 'Les Huguenots,' which must have proved no little hindrance to the composer. With the exception of the Princess's cavatina, 'Nuit resplendissante,' a shepherd's song, and some ballet music, there is little in the score that lingers in one's memory, and tedium sets in where the interest should be most fully aroused. Mdlle. Rèvy, who throughout the week showed exceptional ability and versatility, embodied the Princess, Herr Julius Walther sustained the name-part, and Mr. Alexander Bevan personated Father Joseph. The other characters were well played, and justice was done to the choral and orchestral parts, under the conductorship of Mr. Walter van Noorden, who is responsible for the English translation.

At the Dedication Festival at All Saints' Church, Battersea Park, on All Saints' Day, the 1st ult., Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' and Stanford's Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat were given at Evensong. The organ was supplemented by the band of the Church Orchestral Society, the voluntaries being Gounod's 'Marche Religieuse' and Elgar's 'Imperial' March. Dr. Huntley conducted and Mr. C. J. Capponi presided at the organ.

ST. HUGH CELEBRATION AT LINCOLN MINSTER.

(From a Correspondent.)

In commemoration of the 700th anniversary of the death of St. Hugh, the famous Bishop of Lincoln to whom the preservation and extension of the magnificent Cathedral at Lincoln is mainly due, special services were held with great success on the 16th, 17th, and 18th ult. On Friday, the 16th, the eve of St. Hugh, Dr. G. J. Bennett's Service in A and Boyce's anthem 'I have surely built Thee an House' were sung. Before the festival service on Saturday the Cathedral organist, Dr. G. J. Bennett, gave fine performances of the 'Bridal Chorus' from 'Lohengrin' and Elgar's 'Imperial March.' The processional hymn, 'Blessed city, heavenly Salem,' was sung to a stately and melodious tune, specially composed for the occasion by Dr. Bennett, and after the sermon a hymn was sung, specially composed for St. Hugh's Day by Miss E. Wordsworth, daughter of a former Bishop of Lincoln, and entitled 'Praise to the Fountain-head of Good.' Under the baton of Dr. Bennett, Bach's 'Blessing, glory, and wisdom,' for double choir without accompaniment, was sung by the Cathedral choir, assisted by the Lincoln Musical Society and members of the Diocesan Training College, the whole choir numbering over 150 voices. A faultless rendering was given, the pitch being admirably maintained throughout. In the afternoon, at 2.30, an audience of several thousand people filled the nave and choir to hear a recital by Dr. G. J. Bennett, the following programme being given in a masterly manner by the talented Cathedral organist:—

1. Toccata and Fugue in C major .. .. .. J. S. Bach.
2. Andante from the Symphony in D major .. .. Haydn. (Known as the Clock movement.)
3. Introduction and Allegretto ("Hymn of Praise") Mendelssohn.
4. Lamentation in D minor .. ..Guilmant.
5. Largo from the Symphony 'Aus der neuen Welt' .. Dvorák.
6. Allegro con grazia (in 5-4 time) from the 'Sinfonie Pathétique' .. .. Tschaïkowsky.
7. Schiller March .. .. Meyerbeer.

A large number remained for evensong, when Brahms's anthem 'How lovely is Thy dwelling-place' was exquisitely sung by the Cathedral choir, the service, as at matins, being Stanford in B flat. On Sunday morning the Service was Stainer's in E flat, the Introit being 'O Lord my God,' Malan, and the Kyrie and creed, Martin in C. In the afternoon the Cathedral was crowded on the occasion of a special commemorative service in the nave, when the choir numbered 350 voices, being composed of the Cathedral choir, nearly all the choirs of the city churches, and boys from the Grammar school. Dr. Bennett's management of so large a choir was eminently successful, the Magnificat, to Tours in F, being sung with great spirit and precision, while the 'Hallelujah Chorus' was given with wonderfully good effect. Mr. H. S. Trevitt, assistant to Dr. Bennett, efficiently presided at the organ.

MUSIC IN BERLIN.

(By our Special Correspondent.)

Berlin, November 16.

The readers of The Musical Times could derive but little interest from a detailed allusion, on my part, to the 150 and more concerts which have already taken place since the beginning of the present season. Artists of established fame may be heard in England as well as in Berlin; and the less known concert-givers are apt to disappear from the scene, without leaving a trace behind them, having succeeded only in calling forth unfavourable criticisms of their often less than mediocre performances, and in having expended money in the undertaking, which in many cases they can ill afford to lose. And that these latter performances are in the majority may be readily imagined, since there is not a sufficient number of really first-rate artists to justify a weekly 'output' of some twenty-five concerts, which has of late become the average number taking place here in Berlin. Indeed, the almost reckless getting-up of concert performances on the part of unfinished or altogether talentless individuals, is fast becoming an absolute nuisance, to combat which, in the interests both of the art itself and of the general public, should be the task of the leading organs of the press.

Fortunately the pernicious influence of these more or less ephemeral undertakings is counteracted by a number of excellent institutions. And first amongst these should be mentioned the concerts of the Royal Orchestra, which take place at the Opera, under the able direction of Felix Weingartner, and which are distinguished from all similar concert-giving institutions by the fact of their being purely orchestral—i.e., to the exclusion of all solo performers. These concerts (as well as the respective general rehearsals, held in public on the same day) are invariably crowded by an audience prepared to worship at the shrine of the masters of instrumental music, and to hear their works interpreted in the most perfect manner. In nine out of the ten Subscription concerts given by this institution, a Beethoven Symphony is included, while the works of the more modern masters—Berlioz, Liszt, Tschaïkowsky, Glazounow, Brahms, Bruckner, Dvorák, Smetana, and others—are likewise well represented. In the most recent of these concerts, we were favoured with a very spirited, highly-coloured symphony by Josef Suk, the second violinist in the famous Bohemian Quartet Party, who in this work has shown himself a worthy art colleague of his father-in-law, Antonín Dvorák.

Of a somewhat different order are the aims and the characteristic features of our second great institution —viz., the Philharmonic concerts, under the conductorship of Arthur Nikisch. Here an important share in the proceedings is allotted to the virtuoso element. At least one solo vocalist or instrumentalist, and sometimes both, make their appearance at each one of the performances. In this way their character differs not immaterially from those given by the Royal Orchestra. At the Philharmonic concerts the audience assembles for the purpose, inter alia, of seeing and of being seen; it is an audience desirous, primarily, of being entertained by the efforts of some distinguished performer, of quizzing his personal appearance and manner—an audience, in fact, by whom the divine symphonic art is only appreciated conditionally.

In addition to these older institutions, which have their location in the western portion of the metropolis, a third has made its appearance this season and established its quarters in the eastern district. The 'Berliner Tonkünstler Orchester,' as the young Society somewhat pretentiously styles itself, has so far, however, scarcely justified its title. This infant Society suffers at present from the want of a really competent conductor, by whom its different, and by no means inefficient elements may be welded together into an artistically efficient whole. That such a wished-for conductor may ere long be coming forward is to be earnestly hoped, as the necessity for the existence of an additional private orchestra to relieve the decidedly overburdened Philharmonic has long since become apparent.

Much activity is already being displayed this season by our great choral societies. The Philharmonic Choir—by far the most important of their number—under the extremely able conductorship of Professor Siegfried Ochs, gave a performance of Schumann's 'Paradise and the Peri,' which, however, went far to show that even a most carefully prepared and absolutely perfect performance can no longer hide from us the fact (pointed out, indeed, long ago by many competent critics) that this once so enthusiastically admired work of the great romantic composer, with its sickly sweet sentimentalism, has already become faded to such an extent as to render its ultimate survival more than doubtful.

The Singakademie, once the leading institution for the performance of the great oratorios and other sacred compositions, has long since forfeited its prominent position in consequence of an almost incredibly one-sided conservatism. It has, in fact, been hermetically closed against the entire modern art, and its loss of artistic importance and of popular support is therefore scarcely to be wondered at. It remains to be seen whether, under its newly appointed conductor, Herr Georg Schumann, matters will improve. Herr Schumann is an able and cultured musician, whose previous experience at Danzig and Bremen has however hardly been sufficiently extensive for him to acquire the requisite routine and authority for the direction of a great choral society.

The Stern'sche Gesang-Verein, founded fifty years ago for the purpose of counteracting the exclusiveness of the Singakademie, by the performance of the then modern works of Mendelssohn and Schumann, has, since the death of its founder, likewise fallen into a state of decadence. There have been several changes in the conductorship, but neither they nor its present director, Professor Friedrich Gernsheim, have been able to stay the downward movement. Siegfried Ochs, at the head of the Philharmonic Choir, has shown what it is possible to accomplish, by means of a strict discipline and adequate training, with a choir consisting entirely of amateurs. The brilliant performances given under his direction have furnished the public with a standard of excellence that cannot fail to be attended with excellent results in the future.

In my next letter I hope to refer to some aspects of chamber music here.

Otto Lessmann.

MUSIC IN VIENNA.

(By our Special Correspondent.)

Vienna, November 18.

The most important event in our musical life during the present year has been the constitution of a second important and excellent Symphony Orchestra, which, by the side of the old-established Philharmonic (the orchestra of the Imperial Opera) is now giving a series of high-class Orchestral concerts. The new Society was formed about a year ago by a number of musicians with more superfluous leisure at their disposal than they desired, and a small number of concerts were tentatively given. A few well-to-do music-lovers thereupon took up the matter financially; first by providing the young institution with a very efficient conductor in the person of Herr Ferdinand Loewe, and then causing the performances to be given at very low prices, with the result that they had the satisfaction of seeing their efforts rewarded by the attendance of numerous and highly appreciative audiences. Thence the undertaking speedily developed into what is now known as the 'Wiener Concert-Verein,' a Society which already numbers over 1,000 members. A double series of concerts advertised at the beginning of the present season having, in a very short time, been fully subscribed for, a number of extra concerts have been added to the scheme. By virtue of this significant event, the musical physiognomy of the city has been completely changed, and the dream, cherished by our fathers fifty years ago, of the establishment of high-class orchestral performances at popular prices, has at length become a reality. The Symphony concerts of the Wiener Concert-Verein have begun brilliantly under Loewe's direction. Schubert's great C major Symphony, the Fourth Symphony of Brahms, a Concerto Grosso by Handel, and other standard works have been given in excellent style. Moreover, the success achieved by the young Society would seem to have greatly stimulated the musical interest of the public generally, inasmuch as the older concert institutions also have resumed their activity after the recess with an increased support on the part of amateurs.

The concerts of the Gesellschaft der Musik-freunde, which, since the retirement of Herr von Perger, are likewise ably conducted by Herr Loewe, have recently included a masterly performance of Schubert's Mass in E flat major, in which Fräulein von Hochmeister proved herself an excellent concert singer. The Philharmonic concerts are, as in the preceding season, conducted by Herr Mahler. This highly gifted artist has, in his capacity of concert-conductor, met with some adverse criticism on the part of not a few connoisseurs, first, on account of his autocratic interpretations of the classical masterpieces, and, secondly, because of his occasional meddling, for mere purposes of effect, with the instrumentation of Beethoven's symphonies. At the same time, it cannot be denied that his readings are always fascinating, spiritualized, and interesting. Compared with his mighty predecessor, Hans Richter, with whom the interpretation of a classical art work as a great organic whole formed the chief consideration, Mahler concentrates his attention more especially upon details; and thus, under his baton, every great work is frequently in danger of being split up into several minor pieces of, it is true, exquisite effectiveness. From a technical point of view, however, his performances are characterised by a very high degree of perfection. In regard to his activity as director of the Imperial Opera, there is but one opinion as to his being in the right place. He displays a rare catholicity of taste, and whether the work to be produced be 'Carmen,' 'Die Meistersinger,' 'Cosi fan tutte,' or 'Il Trovatore,' all are studied under his direction with the same amount of care and devotion, and interpreted with equal earnestness and artistic insight into the intentions of their respective composers. It is difficult to discern, however, what reasons may have induced the management to mount the latest novelty produced at the Imperial establishment—viz., the one-act serious opera, 'Der Bundschuh,' by Joseph Reiter. It is not too much to say that a more inane, clumsy, and ineffective piece has seldom been presented on the lyrical stage.

Mandyczewski.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(By our Special Correspondent.)

New York, November 12.

INTERESTING EXPERIMENTS IN ACOUSTICS.

My letter of last month was written on the eve of the concert with which, on October 15, the new Symphony Hall in Boston was dedicated to its noble and beautiful uses. Having visited the hall before the concert it was possible for me to say something about it; but I preferred to wait until the inaugural concert provided a practical test before speaking of the acoustical properties of the room. A peculiar interest attached to the test because of the fact that an effort had been made to remove the element of chance from the problem of construction. Wallace C. Sabine, assistant Professor of Physics at Harvard University, who had devoted five years of experimentation to the subject of the reflection and absorption of sound, laid down the acoustical formula to be followed by the architects and builders, and had the satisfaction of seeing his predictions verified to the letter. There is little doubt that the new Symphony Hall in Boston is one of the finest concert-rooms in the world in respect of its acoustical properties. Mr. Sabine began by establishing the duration of audibility of what he calls residual sound, popularly spoken of as reverberation, by means of an organ pipe, the action of which he could control electrically, and a chronograph. Then he determined the relative absorbing power of various substances—cushions, draperies, plaster on lath, plaster on tiles and bricks, wood, open windows, men and women. He made experiments in a score of rooms in Cambridge, Boston, and New York. By taking up the subject of reverberation he found the co-efficients of absorption and reflection of various kinds of wall surfaces, furniture, drapery, &c., and can tell you if you want to know the powers of absorption—sound-absorption, of course—of a fiddler compared with a metre of bench cushion. The inquiries and results are extremely interesting, but sceptics are not likely to admit that because the hall is a success the element of chance in architectural acoustics has been eliminated.

The composition with which the hall was dedicated was Beethoven's solemn Mass in D, which, under the direction of Wilhelm Gericke, and with a paid chorus of 250 voices, received the finest of the half-dozen or more performances which it has been my good fortune to hear in New York, London, Cincinnati, and Boston. Since the dedication the hall has been the home of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, which has given two concerts each week to audiences that have filled every one of its 2,569 chairs. Perhaps as good a way as any to let persons unfamiliar with Boston's interest in its orchestral concerts form an idea on that subject is to record the fact that a fortnight before the hall was opened to the public all the seats for forty-eight concerts had been bought and paid for at premiums which ranged from two or three to five hundred dollars.

The first of our foreign visitors was Mr. Ernst von Dohnányi, who played his Pianoforte Concerto here and in Brooklyn, and will this week begin a series of recitals. Madame Carreño and Mr. G. Gabrilowitsch are also here, and Mr. Kreisler and Madame Sembrich are preparing to set sail. Mr. Grau and the song-birds that are to warble in his gilded cage in Upper Broadway came in a body and went to San Francisco on a special train. Their season here will not begin until December 18. Meanwhile the effort to habilitate opera in the vernacular is proceeding at the Metropolitan Opera House, with results that do not promise a successful outcome for the experiment. Within the last month Gilbert and Sullivan's opera was the only popular hit. Meanwhile prices have been reduced in the hope of stimulating popular interest, and the contracts of several singers have been cancelled under circumstances which look as if the first spirit of enterprise had given way to a purpose of retrenchment. 'Foxy Quiller,' one of the spineless things which now-a-days masquerade as comic operas, has been produced at the Broadway Theatre. Messrs. Harry B. Smith and Reginald de Koven are its authors, and as there was a copyright performance in London and the first Act has some songs of the old 'heart of oak' stripe, telling how hammers are swung and planes pushed to 'build the walls of England,' I fancy that my London readers will hear of it soon.

The orchestral activities have been in New York, Boston, Pittsburg, Chicago, and Cincinnati, and acquaintance with much new music is promised. We have had Mr. Dohnányi's concerto, and in a few days the Philharmonic Society will bring forward a symphony, full of the Dvorákian idiom, by Joseph Suk, second violin of the famous Bohemian Quartet. The English Opera Company purpose to produce Goring Thomas's 'Esmeralda,' for the first time in America, on the 19th of this month.

The most pervasive news from the cities in which choral music is cultivated is of preparations for Christmastide performances of 'The Messiah'; but Benedict's 'St. Cecilia' is preparing by the Alleghany Musical Association; Parker's 'Hora Novissima,' besides 'Elijah' and 'The Messiah,' by the Washington Choral Society; Parker's 'A Wanderer's Psalm,' Bach's cantata 'O Light Everlasting,' and Chadwick's 'Lily Nymph' in Boston, besides the works previously reported.

H. E. Krehbiel.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. Max Mossel held his first Drawing-room concert, in the Grosvenor Rooms of the Grand Hotel, on October 25. The function took the form of a vocal and pianoforte recital, the artists being Miss Marie Brema and Mr. Frederick Dawson. The principal pieces of the programme were Schumann's 'Frauenliebe und Leben' and Beethoven's Sonata (Op. 109).

The Birmingham Chamber Concert Society, a new organisation for the promotion of chamber music in this city, gave its first concert, in the Masonic Hall, on the 7th ult. The executive consisted of the Max Mossel String Quartet, Mdlle. Johanna Heymann (pianist), Herr Hugo Heinz (vocalist), and Mr. G. H. Manton (accompanist). The programme comprised Beethoven's String Quartet in G (Op. 18, No. 2), Schumann's Pianoforte Quintet (Op. 44), and vocal and pianoforte solos. Everything went off well and the attendance was very good.

Mr. Halford's first orchestral concert was given in the Town Hall, on October 30. The programme was devoted to Mendelssohn and included the 'Ruy Blas' Overture, the Overture and Wedding March from the 'Midsummer Night's Dream' music, and the 'Scotch' Symphony, all of which were well played. Lady Hallé gave the solo part in the Violin Concerto in magnificent style and was well supported by the orchestra. She also played Beethoven's Romance in F to the pianoforte accompaniment of Miss Neruda. The second concert was held on the 13th ult. and was a 'British' night. The works performed were a Concert-piece by Herbert W. Wareing, Mackenzie's 'Scottish' Pianoforte Concerto (Op. 55)—soloist, Miss Marguerite Elzy; Sullivan's 'Irish' Symphony, Prout's Organ Concerto (Op. 5)—soloist, Mr. C. W. Perkins; and Bennett's Overture 'Parisina.' Dr. Wareing's piece has a motto: 'Sunset—Night at Sea—Sunrise.' It is not, however, mere programme music, but cast in symphonic form, and is a work of very considerable merit. The performance was conducted by the composer, and both were cordially received by the audience. Sir Alexander Mackenzie was enthusiastically welcomed on his appearance to conduct the Concerto. This is a very clever and most effective composition. Some old Scottish airs—'O Puirtith Cauld' and 'Green grow the rashes, O!'—are admirably treated. Miss Elzy played splendidly, and the Concerto made quite a sensation. Professor Prout, through illness, was unable to be present, but his Concerto was admirably rendered by Mr. Perkins and the orchestra. Mr. Halford conducted a fine performance of Sullivan's Symphony, a work that excited great admiration. The Bennett Overture went well. Mr. Wilfred Cunliffe contributed some songs. The concert was most interesting, but, sad to say, there was a serious falling off in the attendance. The spirit of patriotism evidently doesn't extend to music, and Mr. Halford will do well, in the future, to administer native art in smaller doses.

The Festival Choral Society gave a special Patriotic concert in the Town Hall, on Saturday afternoon, the 10th ult. Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' was then performed in aid of the Birmingham Daily Mail Reservists' Fund. It was a magnificent success and the hall might have been filled twice over. The principals were Mesdames Marie Duma and Marie Hooten, Mr. William Green, and Mr. Trevose Daniel, aid being given in the concerted numbers by the Misses Gell, Spence, and Heath, and Messrs. Roper, Cranmer, and Smallwood. Mr. Perkins was the organist and Dr. Sinclair conducted. The services of all were given gratuitously. Costa's version of 'God save the Queen' preceded the oratorio. This was Dr. Sinclair's introduction to the Birmingham public as the Society's conductor, and he met with a most enthusiastic reception from performers and audience. The Society's season opened on the 15th ult., when Gounod's 'Redemption' was performed in the Town Hall, before a large audience. Dr. Sinclair was again cordially greeted, and the extremely fine singing of the chorus was a testimony to his popularity with the Society. The vocal principals were Madame Emily Squire, Miss Anita Sutherland, Mr. Gwilym Richards, and Mr. Ffrangcon Davies, the latter doubling the parts of the Bass Narrator and of Jesus. Assistance was worthily given by Miss Marguerite Gell and Mr. Roper. Altogether it was a fine performance. Sullivan's Overture 'In Memoriam' was played at the beginning, as a tribute of respect to the Society's late conductor, Dr. Swinnerton Heap. The audience stood during the performance and the effect was very impressive.

Three concerts were given on successive evenings in the Masonic Hall, from the 20th ult., when Madame Pollack's party gave a varied entertainment. On the 21st ult. Dr. Rowland Winn (pianist) and Mr. Sidney Brooks (violoncellist) gave a recital, with Madame Margaret Milward as vocalist; and on the 22nd ult. a concert was given by Miss Trickett, a young local violinist.

Of the Saturday evening concerts mention must be made of that of the 3rd ult., when, under the direction of Mr. Joseph Adams, a concert recital was given of Boito's 'Mefistofele,' and of the Patriotic concert, on the 17th ult., when Handel's 'Messiah' was performed by the Midland Musical Society, under Mr. H. M. Stevenson, all the artists giving their services in aid of the Fund already mentioned.

MUSIC IN BELFAST.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Philharmonic Society performed Sullivan's 'Martyr of Antioch' on the 16th ult. We believe this work was never before performed in Ireland, and it was greatly admired by a crowded audience. The Society's chorus, which is very strong and effective this year, distinguished itself by its excellent singing of the choral parts, and the orchestra, which was almost entirely local and largely amateur, proved that Dr. Koeller's patience and perseverance are being rewarded as they deserve to be. The solo parts were intrusted to Madame Luisa Sobrino, Miss McKisack, Mr. W. R. Marshall, and Herr Hugo Heinz, all of whom proved very satisfactory.

Dr. Laurence Walker's first Chamber concert was given on the 8th ult., and was, as usual, well patronised. Herr Koerber was the violinist, Herr Bast (Dublin), violoncellist, Dr. Walker himself being the pianist. The programme was well selected, the only unfamiliar work being Saint-Saëns's Trio in F (Op. 18).

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

On October 31 the Hope-Jones electric organ in the Victoria Rooms, which has superseded the large instrument originally built for the Panopticon in London, and which afterwards became the transept organ in St. Paul's Cathedral, was opened. Mr. E. H. Lemare, organist of St. Margaret's, Westminster, gave a recital. On the previous evening the committee of the Rooms invited a large number of organists of Bristol and the neighbourhood to hear a description of the instrument by Mr. Hope-Jones and a short recital by Mr. Lemare, supplemented by a few pieces played by Dr. Buck, organist of Bristol Cathedral.

The Oriana Musical Society, formed chiefly for the practice of unfamiliar male-voice compositions, gave its first concert on October 31, at St. John's Parish Room, under the direction of Mr. Ulrich W. Jüst. In addition to the male-voice choir of thirty-two voices there were, as principal vocalists, Miss Amy Perry (soprano), Mr. Lionel Venn (tenor), Mr. Alfred Bentley (baritone), and Mr. Frank E. Moggs (bass). There was a small but competent orchestra, Mr. Ernest Lane holding the principal first violin. Schumann's 'Luck of Edenhall" and Max Bruch's 'Fair Ellen' were the chief features of the concert, which, with the other selections, were creditably rendered.

Mr. Bertram Fletcher, a violinist of much ability, who has come to reside in Clifton, gave a recital at the Victoria Rooms, on the 5th ult. He played Max Bruch's First Concerto, Bach's Chaconne, and, with Mr. Herbert Parsons (pianist), Beethoven's 'Kreutzer' Sonata.

Mr. Arnold Dolmetsch, with Miss Helène Dolmetsch and Mrs. Elodre Dolmetsch, gave two performances of old music on instruments of the character for which the pieces were specially written. The former concert was on the 9th ult., at the Victoria Rooms, and the latter in connection with the Clifton Subscription Chamber Concerts, on the 12th ult., at All Saints' Hall.

The second of the series of Clifton Orchestral Concerts was given on the 10th ult., Dr. Buck conducting. The principal works presented were Schubert's 'Unfinished' Symphony and Beethoven's Third Pianoforte Concerto, with Master Frank Merrick at the solo instrument. Madame Bertha Moore sang.

Miss Amy Riseley (niece of Mr. George Riseley) gave her annual concert at Redland Park Hall, on the 12th ult. In addition to her performance on the pianoforte there were solos by Miss M. Bigg (violin), Miss W. Bigg (violoncello), with Mr. G. Herbert Riseley (accompanist). Miss Isabel Simson and Mr. Wilfred Kearton (St. George's Chapel, Windsor) were the vocalists.

Mr. Herbert Parsons gave the first of three Chamber concerts, at the Victoria Rooms, on the 20th ult. He was associated with the Kruse Quartet, who performed Schumann's String Quartet in A minor, and, with Mr. Parsons at the pianoforte, Brahms's Quintet in F minor.

On the 21st ult. the Bristol Æolian Male Choir, under the direction of Mr. G. A. Sleigh, had its annual concert in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association. The glees sung were creditably rendered, and included 'After three score years,' a setting of verses of Mr. E. Oxenford by Mr. A. G. Colborn, organist of Stapleton Parish Church, given for the first time.

Mr. Charles E. Tinney has been appointed a Professor of Singing at the Guildhall School of Music.

MUSIC IN CHELTENHAM.

(From a Correspondent.)

The opening of the Cheltenham concert season finds us handicapped with the severe disadvantage of having no concert hall. Now that the Assembly Rooms have been pulled down, the Corn Exchange, which has been re-decorated and re-named the Victoria Rooms, is the only available place, and it must be frankly admitted that it is neither suitable nor adequate for any important musical function.

On the 7th ult. the new Philharmonic Society gave the first concert of the season, and, having regard to the inadequacies above referred to, we think the committee did wisely in performing a comparatively modest work and confining themselves to an orchestra of strings. The programme included Schubert's 'Song of Miriam,' together with Morley's five-part madrigal, 'What saith my dainty darling'; Elgar's romance, 'My love dwelt in a Northern land'; Pinsuti's 'Eldorado'; and Cooke's 'Strike the lyre,' arranged for mixed voices by Dr. McNaught. The chorus of 100 voices was, on the whole, good, though more male voices are badly needed. Madame Sobrino sang the solo in the 'Song of Miriam' finely, and the chorus did excellent work, showing sound training and considerable confidence and vigour of attack. The part-songs were also well sung. Mr. Phillips is an excellent choral conductor, and good unaccompanied part-singing comes as a revelation to Cheltenham. The two orchestral numbers—'Ball Scene,' by Josef Hellmesberger, and Dvorák's Serenade in E, in which the band was led by Mr. Lewis Hann—were splendidly played under Mr. Phillips's able conductorship.

Another important musical event took place on the 12th ult., when the Cheltenham Festival Society, under the direction of Mr. J. A. Matthews, gave a first performance of Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast' and 'The Death of Minnehaha.' Great credit is due to Mr. Matthews for his perennial enthusiasm, energy, and foresight in bringing many great works to a first hearing in Cheltenham.

The solos in Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's attractive work were in the capable hands of Madame Norledge, Mr. C. Marsden Child, and Mr. Charles Copland, the last two of whom made their first appearance in Cheltenham. An innovation was the recitation (before the cantatas were sung) of each section of the 'Hiawatha' poem by Madame Adey Brunel, who delivered Longfellow's graphic lines in a masterly manner. The forethought of Mr. Matthews in providing this interesting feature of the evening was greatly appreciated, as was the manner in which the fair reciter enunciated and delivered the words.

The concert opened with a performance of Beethoven's First Symphony, which was well rendered by the band, under the leadership of Mr. E. G. Woodward. Mr. J. A. Matthews conducted throughout.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Hallé Band, under Dr. Richter's baton, gave two concerts, on the 12th and 13th ult. At the first, Schumann's Symphony in E flat and Dvorák's Overture 'Husitzska' were played. Wagner's Overture to the 'Meistersingers' and Smetana's 'Lustspiel' Overture were perhaps the most effective pieces. At the second concert the magnificent performance of Beethoven's No. 7 left nothing to be desired. Dvorák's clever and effective Symphonic Variations were also performed and displayed the very great finish and excellence of every section of the orchestra.

Signor Esposito's first pianoforte recital took place, on the 17th ult., before a large audience. The programme included Beethoven's Sonata in E (Op. 109) and Schumann's 'Carnaval'; but perhaps the best performances were a group of Chopin pieces and Tausig's arrangement of a Bach Toccata and Fugue, Signor Esposito's playing of which was indeed a tour de force.

Mr. Arthur Darley, who has been appointed a professor of the violin at the Royal Irish Academy, gave a recital at the end of October, at which he went through a long programme of classical music. Considerable satisfaction was displayed at his sympathetic rendering of expressive music.

The Feis Ceoil annual general meeting, on the 16th ult., was on rather a larger scale than usual. Professor Mahaffy, of Dublin University, made an admirable speech, advocating the work of the Association, and Mr. T. W. Russell, M.P., made an eloquent appeal on behalf of the need for a large municipal hall suitable for concerts. The accounts of the Association show a distinct improvement on previous years. The committee announce that the adjudicators at the forthcoming festival will be as follows: Composition, Professor Prout; choral, vocal ensemble, and organ playing, Mr. Ivor Atkins, of Worcester; strings and chamber music, Herr Carl Fuchs (Professor, Manchester Royal College); solo singing, Mr. Denis O'Sullivan; and pianoforte playing, Mr. Oscar Beringer.

The Dublin Orchestral Society opened its third season on the 21st ult. The engagement of Mr. Denis O'Sullivan seemed to attract a very large audience, and his admirable singing of a scena from Verdi's 'Don Carlos,' and of two Irish airs, orchestrated by Dr. Stanford and Signor Esposito, left nothing to be desired. The band showed considerable advance in Beethoven's Fourth Symphony, the Vorspiel to 'Lohengrin,' and the Overture to the 'Flying Dutchman.'

MUSIC IN EAST ANGLIA.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The annual concert of the Railway Guards' Friendly Society took place in St. Andrew's Hall on October 25, in the presence of a very large audience. The quartet of vocalists included Miss Elsie Mackenzie, Miss Ada Crossley, Mr. Dalgety Henderson, and Mr. Charles Phillips; while Miss Ethel Barns effectively played several violin solos and Miss Gwendolyn Toms was solo pianist.

The Corn Hall, Attleborough, was the scene of a more than usually attractive concert on October 31, which had been organised by Prince Frederick Dhuleep Singh on behalf of a fund being raised for the repair of the Parish Church of Wilby, an adjoining parish. The performers included the Hon. Miss Henniker, Miss Whitbread, Prince F. Dhuleep Singh, and Mr. G. Uttley, vocalists; with Miss Noverre, solo violin, and Mrs. Fraser Henry, solo pianoforte.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Edinburgh Musical Education Society opened its second session in October with an encouraging increase in the membership. The first papers were read by Professor Niecks, the president (on 'Practical conclusions to be drawn from the Ethics of Music'); Mr. T. H. Collinson (on 'The Training of Choristers,' illustrated by members of the Cathedral choir), Mrs. Kennedy Fraser, and Mr. Franklin Peterson.

The Edinburgh Bach Society opened its thirteenth session on the 9th ult., when Professor Niecks, honorary president, addressed the members in a paper entitled 'A Criticism of Bach.'

Mr. Denhof's Chamber concerts, now in their fifth season, made an auspicious beginning, when good audiences assembled in the Music Hall to hear Miss Clara Butt and M. Louis Pecskai at the first concert, in October, and Madame Ella Russell and Professor Carl Halir at the second, on the 7th ult.

Recitals were given by Mr. Della Torre (October 29), also by Miss May Elliot (10th ult.), a pupil of Herr Stavenhagen, who has settled now in Edinburgh, and whose excellent technique and sound musical intelligence won the favour of her audience.

On the 15th ult. Mr. Elkan Kosman, with his quartet, gave a delightful concert in the Masonic Hall to an audience all too small for the excellence of the programme and performance.

The first of the University concerts, organised by Professor Niecks, is specially referred to on p. 801.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Already we have enjoyed two of the delightful concerts which Mr. Brodsky undertakes for the benefit of the fund enabling talented pupils to complete their studies at the Royal College of Music, over which he so ably presides. The programmes of these recitals of chamber music are generally so arranged as to present a pianoforte quartet or quintet between the purely string masterpieces which open and close the evening's enjoyment; and at the first meeting the manner in which Miss Edith Webster—so long a pupil of the College and now a valued member of the teaching staff—presided at the pianoforte in Schumann's celebrated Quintet excited the utmost enthusiasm and a triple recall. Not less ably did our tried and experienced resident teacher, Mr. Isidor Cohn, lead the way, at the recital of the 7th ult., in Brahms's Pianoforte Quartet in A major. But, however great may be the charm of the intermediate piece, the great charm of the recitals consists in the exquisitely finished performance of Messrs. Brodsky, Rawdon Briggs, Speelman, and Fuchs in such works as the Quartets of Beethoven in F major (Op. 135) and in E minor (Op. 59).

Miss St. Angelo, another of our young Manchester pianists of high talent, called her friends together on the 5th ult. to listen to a selection of exacting works, wherein from Bach to Liszt she displayed wonderful executive brilliance and dexterity.

Mr. Lane, also, has given two of his Subscription and always crowded concerts, introducing, on the 3rd ult., a large number of star vocalists, with Lady Hallé, who was received with delight and unbounded enthusiasm, and on the 17th bringing Mr. Santley and Madame Ella Russell to his extremely creditable annual rendering of the 'Elijah.'

At the Hallé Subscription meetings the orchestra, under Dr. Richter, was, of course, inimitable alike in the Symphony in E flat of Mozart, the No. 4 of Beethoven, and in many works of less pretension. On the 8th ult. M. Ysaye very wisely gave us two violin concertos of totally different style—the B minor of Saint-Saëns and the Bach in E, with accompaniment for strings and organ, which latter part was rendered by Mr. C. H. Fogg with great tact and discretion. In the interpretation of Hans Sachs's Monologue and in Wotan's 'Abschied,' Mr. Van Rooy's splendid voice and dramatic style delighted everybody. And, naturally, Mr. Rosenthal drew a crowded audience, on the 22nd ult., to enjoy his playing of Schumann's Concerto and Liszt's extraordinary 'Don Juan' Fantasia.

We have also had a revival of Handel's 'Acis and Galatea'—with the strange omission of its greatest chorus, 'Wretched lovers'; and Brahms's 'German Requiem,' with which Mr. R. H. Wilson evidently had taken great pains. The choral work throughout the whole evening was excellent.

MUSIC IN NOTTINGHAM AND DISTRICT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The regular season was initiated in Nottingham on the 8th ult., by the Chamber concert given by Miss Cantelo, whose performance of Brahms's Variations on a theme by Handel was lucid and masterful. Her programme was completed with the assistance of Miss Maud Powell and Mr. Paul Ludwig. Their united powers were exhibited to advantage in Schubert's elegant Trio in B flat for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello. At Derby, the same artist gave the first of a series of Chamber concerts on the 16th ult.

The Derby Choral Union gave a performance of 'Judas Maccabæus' on the 13th ult. The band and chorus, who did excellent work, were conducted by Mr. Charles Hancock.

The Nottingham Sacred Harmonic Society opened its season, on the 22nd ult., with a concert performance of the first two acts of Wagner's 'Tannhäuser.' The title-rôle was undertaken by Mr. William Green, Elizabeth by Madame Ella Russell; the other principals were Mr. Watkin Mills, Mr. Robert Radford, Mr. Sobell, Mr. Pearce, and Mr. Turnpenny. The chorus was good throughout, but especially so in the 'Tournament of Song,' and Mr. Henry J. Wood conducted with his wonted efficiency.

MUSIC IN NORTHUMBERLAND AND DURHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Newcastle and Gateshead Choral Union commenced its season, on the 2nd ult., with a concert consisting exclusively of orchestral music, by the Hallé Orchestra, under the conductorship of Dr. Hans Richter. The concert was chiefly remarkable in that it introduced for the first time to a Newcastle audience Mr. Edward Elgar's 'Variations on an Original Theme' and Dvorák's Symphony 'From the New World.' The concert, held in Olympia, Newcastle, was in every way successful.

On the 8th ult. the Middlesbrough Musical Union gave a performance of Goring Thomas's cantata 'The Sun-Worshippers,' in the Town Hall, Middlesbrough, with Miss Agnes Nicholls and Mr. Charles Saunders in the solo parts and Mr. N. Kilburn conducting. An exceedingly good rendering of the work was obtained. At the same concert Mr. Louis Pecskai gave a very fine performance of Max Bruch's Violin Concerto in G minor.

The Newcastle Chamber Music Society, which this year attains its majority, gave its ninety-first concert, in the Assembly Rooms, Newcastle, on the 15th ult. The programme included Brahms's Quartet in C minor (Op. 51, No. 1) and Beethoven's Quartet in G (Op. 18, No. 2), both of which were well played by Messrs. Müller, Schmidt, Krause, and Renard. Mr. Francis Harford was the vocalist and Mr. J. M. Preston the accompanist.

On the 10th ult. Messrs. A. and S. Oppenheim gave a very excellent concert of chamber music in Newcastle, when Mendelssohn's String Quartet (Op. 44, No. 2) and Schumann's Quartet in A were played by Mr. A. Oppenheim, Miss E. Smith, Mr. R. Smith, and Miss G. Smith.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The appointment of Mr. Henry J. Wood to the post of conductor of the next Sheffield Musical Festival has given much satisfaction in local musical circles. It is felt that his record and attainments qualify him for the position, and he will come to Sheffield with every augury of success. He will find able lieutenants in Dr. Coward and Mr. J. W. Phillips, who have been so largely responsible for past successes.

Dr. Coward's cantata 'The King's Error' was performed at Ann's Road Church, Heeley, on the 11th ult., the composer conducting. Trained by Mr. E. Jeffs, the choirmaster, a capable chorus of eighty voices sang the choral portions of the work with commendable spirit and accuracy. The principals were Miss Eleanor Coward, Miss Nellie Chisholm, Mr. Harold Green, and Mr. Frank Shimeld. Mr. S. Freeman was organist.

At the second of Miss Foxon's Subscription concerts, held on the 13th ult., Miss Liza Lehmann's song cycle 'In a Persian Garden' was performed. The soloists were Madame Ruth Lamb, Miss Ada Crossley, Mr. Ley Vernon, and Mr. Francis Harford, with Mr. S. Liddle at the pianoforte. The work was sung with perfect ensemble and was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. Ross and Mr. Moore played duets on two pianofortes.

The Sheffield Orchestra opened its second season with a concert in the Albert Hall, Sheffield, on the 15th ult. Under the direction of Dr. Coward, Mendelssohn's 'Scotch' Symphony, Parry's 'Hypatia' Suite, Grieg's 'In Autumn' Overture, and Delibes's Air and Variations from 'La Sclave' were played with accuracy, dash, and finish. Efforts are being made to establish the Orchestra as a permanent organization, and it is believed the project will be successful. Mr. Charles Knowles was the vocalist.

The Sheffield Musical Union gave an interesting and successful concert on the 20th ult. Gluck's 'Orpheus' was the main feature of the concert. Miss Brema sang the music of the title-rôle with her customary dramatic intensity and effect. Mendelssohn's Thirteenth Psalm afforded band and chorus scope for the winning of fresh laurels, and the concert may be written down as a success for principals, chorus, and orchestra. Miss Ethel Wood, who sang Stanford's 'There's a bower of roses,' and Miss Louie Coward were the other soloists. Mr. J. H. Parkes led the band and Mr. W. S. Jessop was at the organ. Dr. Coward conducted.

MUSIC IN WALES.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The dedication of the new organ at Llandaff Cathedral took place on the 1st ult. The instrument, which was built by the Hope-Jones Organ Company, Norwich, contains three manuals and is worked by electro-magnetism assisted by pneumatic power, the console being on the South side of the Cathedral. The cost of the organ (which has not been quite completed) is about £1,750 up to the present. Mr. G. G. Beale presided at the instrument with his usual efficency, the Cathedral choir being augmented by vocal contingents from neighbouring churches. The anthem was Beethoven's 'Hallelujah.'

The Cardiff Orchestral Society commenced its twentieth season on the 15th ult., when the programme included Marche Funèbre' (Chopin), Berceuse (Squire), Overture to 'Prometheus' (Beethoven), Introduction to Act 3 of 'Lohengrin' (Wagner), and Overture to 'Il Barbiere' (Rossini). Madame Amy Sherwin and Mr. Andrew Black rendered a number of solos, and Mr. Frederic Griffith contributed three flute pieces by Edward German, Saint-Saëns, and Chopin-Taffanel respectively. The concert ranks amongst the best given by the Society, the band never having played better. Mr. Deacon was the accompanist.

The former organ at Llandaff Cathedral has been presented to the very ancient Priory Church at Usk, Monmouthshire, by Mr. Richards, of The Priory, after having been thoroughly repaired by Messrs. Vowles, organ builders, Bristol. At the re-opening of the instrument, on the 14th ult., Mr. G. G. Beale, organist at Llandaff, presided at the instrument, and gave an organ recital in the afternoon; Mr. Miller, of Llandaff Cathedral, contributing solos by Handel and Gounod.

The programme of next year's National Eisteddfod, to be held at Merthyr Tydfil, has been issued. The whole of the choruses in Mendelssohn's 'Hymn of Praise' have been selected as test pieces for the chief choral prize, and competing choirs are to be prepared to sing any number or numbers called for by the adjudicators on the day of competition. This is a new departure of some importance, the working of which will be watched with interest.

MUSIC IN YORKSHIRE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

LEEDS.

The first event in point of date that I have to record is the visit of the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company to Leeds during the week beginning October 22. They deserve this prominence since the company is, as a whole, stronger than it has been for years past, and gave really excellent all-round performances of the two novelties—the rather insipid 'Cinq Mars' of Gounod and the strongly seasoned 'A Basso Porto' of Spinelli. The first concert of the Philharmonic and Subscription series, on October 31, was an excellent one. It was chiefly orchestral, the Hallé band, under Dr. Richter, giving a fine performance of the C minor Symphony of Beethoven, and introducing two works new to Leeds—the Symphonic Variations of Dvorák and Liszt's 'Mephisto Walzer.' The Philharmonic chorus took part in Brahms's 'Triumphlied,' and showed the result of the teaching of their new chorus-master, Mr. Fricker (the Town Hall organist), by a remarkably finished performance of that stupendous and exacting work. For chamber music Leeds is largely indebted to Mr. Rawdon Briggs, whose quartet concerts have become a characteristic feature of the music of a town which, for its size and musical pretensions, is very behindhand in this respect. On October 29 Mr. Briggs began a fresh season, he and his colleagues, Messrs. Bridge, Holme, and Hatton, with Mr. Cohn as pianist, giving thoroughly artistic renderings of Richard Strauss's interesting Pianoforte Quartet in C minor, and more familiar works by Mozart and Beethoven. A more modest supplement to these concerts is provided by the 'Bohemian' Chamber concerts, where tobacco is the rule and evening dress the exception; but where an efficient quartet of local players, with Mr. E. Elliott as leader, give good all-round performances. On the 13th ult. the programme included a Mozart quartet and Grieg's characteristic work in G minor, together with the Molto lento from Rubinstein's Op. 17, No. 2. On October 23 Messrs. Haddock's series of Musical Evenings was resumed. At the second of these 'Evenings,' on the 20th ult., as on a corresponding occasion at Harrogate the preceding evening, Miss Pauline St. Angelo was the pianist, playing with exceeding finish and refinement, and Miss Clara Butt the vocalist. The orchestra which Mr. Edgar Haddock has organized gave a concert in aid of charity on the 6th ult., and on the 10th Mr. Brodsky appeared at an afternoon concert given by Miss Lily Pearce and Mr. C. Wilkinson, two local musicians, and took part with Mr. Wilkinson in a Grieg sonata. Mrs. Creser's very agreeable singing was a pleasant feature of this concert. Some Saturday Popular concerts that have been instituted at Leeds afford good entertainment, and have introduced a few very able artists, such as Miss Agnes Nicholls and Miss Muriel Foster, but do not otherwise call for serious criticism. Of more artistic moment is a series of six lectures that has been given by Mr. Hattersley on Beethoven's pianoforte sonatas. Though he has confined himself rather rigidly to technical matters of structure and the like, and hardly touched upon their æsthetic qualities, the lectures have interested as well as instructed his hearers.

BRADFORD.

The first Bradford concert of moment was that of the Bradford Old Choral Society, on October 23, when a good miscellaneous programme was arranged. Gounod's Psalm, 'By Babylon's Wave,' was contrasted with Parry's virile 'Blest Pair of Sirens,' and Stanford's spirited 'Cavalier Songs' lightened the programme, though not so much as if they had been sung with all the dash for which they call. A Haydn symphony, creditably played, and Rubinstein's Pianoforte Concerto in D minor, with Mr. S. Midgley as an artistic soloist, were the chief instrumental pieces. Miss Clara Butt and Mr. W. Thornton were the vocalists, and Mr. Hartwell Robertshaw conducted with marked ability. Three days later the Bradford Festival Choral Society followed suit, contenting itself with the familiar 'Elijah,' of which a satisfactory performance was given, under Dr. Cowen's direction, with Miss Ethel Wood, Miss Florence Oliver, Mr. W. Green, and Mr. Andrew Black as principals. On the 9th ult. the Hallé Orchestra appeared at the first of the Subscription concerts, a superlatively fine reading of the 'Eroica' being given by Dr. Richter, while another striking feature of an excellent concert was the superb violin playing of Mr. Ysaye, who chose Saint-Saëns's Third Concerto as his principal solo. Miss Nevada was the vocalist. On the following evening the Bradford Permanent Orchestra, under Dr. Cowen, gave its second concert. Haydn's 'Oxford' Symphony was well played, and Mr. German's charming 'Nell Gwyn' dances—the only novelty in the programme—made a most favourable impression. Miss Ada Crossley and Mr. George Uttley were the vocalists. A thoroughly artistic concert was given by Miss Lummert, on the 19th ult. The concert-giver was assisted by Miss Wehner, and Mr. Isidor Cohn was the pianist.

It seems that my statement that Mr. Edward Lloyd made his farewell to Bradford last season at a specially arranged Subscription concert needs qualification. The programme was certainly 'specially arranged' for that purpose—the 'Hymn of Praise' and Rossini's 'Stabat Mater' being chosen at Mr. Lloyd's suggestion. Though the programme was retained, the farewell was postponed before the concert actually took place.

Three more Huddersfield Subscription concerts call for the briefest possible mention. On October 24 Miss Macintyre's party appeared, Mr. Zwintscher's brilliant pianoforte playing being a striking feature of the concert. On the 6th ult. Mr. Rosenthal and Miss Butt joined in a pianoforte and vocal recital, the pianist causing delight by his fine and intellectual reading of Schumann's 'Etudes Symphoniques' and wonderment by his execution of Liszt's 'Don Juan' Fantasia.

In York, Mr. T. T. Noble, the Cathedral organist, has been helping to raise money for the renewal of his instrument, which is in the last stage of collapse, by giving a series of weekly recitals. The programmes have been admirably chosen, and range over all that is best in organ music, classical and modern. About £3,500 has already been collected in the county, and the work has been placed in the hands of Messrs. J. W. Walker and Sons. It has not yet been officially stated what the pitch of the restored instrument will be, but doubtless advantage will be taken of the re-construction to adopt the low pitch.

The Hull Harmonic Society began its season on the 16th ult. with 'Elijah,' under Mr. Walter Porter's conductorship. The principals were Miss Ethel Wood, Madame Marie Hooton, Mr. E. Branscombe, and Mr. Ivor Foster.

At Scarborough the fourteenth season of Messrs. Cass and Owen Williams's excellent Chamber concerts was begun on October 29, the programme including pianoforte quintets by Schumann and Brahms. The concert-givers were assisted by Miss Edith Cass, Miss Ethel Wheelhouse, and Miss Alderson Smith; Mr. Chilver Wilson being the vocalist. On the 19th ult. Messrs. Cass and Williams played sonatas by Grieg and Brahms, and Miss Nancy Green contributed songs. At Filey, Miss Wheelhouse gave a Chamber concert on October 26, a quartet by Mozart and Beethoven's Serenade Trio being the chief pieces.

LONDON AND SUBURBAN CONCERTS, &c.

Dr. Richter concluded his brief autumn season at St. James's Hall, on the 5th ult., with a typical Wagner-Beethoven programme, the work by the latter master being the C minor Symphony. Comment is needless. The preceding concert, on October 29, opened with Tschaïkowsky's Fantaisie Ouverture 'Hamlet' (Op. 67), which is, perhaps, the finest of the Russian master's compositions in this form. Three excerpts from Wagner and M. Glazounoff's Sixth Symphony in C minor completed the scheme.

Mr. Robert Newman began a fifth series of Symphony concerts at the Queen's Hall, on the 10th ult., but as only well known compositions were played it is sufficient to say that Mr. Henry J. Wood conducted and that the soloists were Madame Amy Sherwin and M. Ysaye, the latter being heard in Beethoven's Violin Concerto.

The Saturday Popular Concerts were resumed at St. James's Hall, on the 7th ult., when the quartet was led by Herr Halir, who was supported by Messrs. Haydn Inwards, Alfred Gibson, and Paul Ludwig. Miss Adela Verne was the solo pianist and Mr. Lawrence Rea sang. On the following Saturday Mr. Halir again was first violin, but Mr. A. J. Slocombe took the place of Mr. Inwards in his unavoidable absence. Mr. Leonard Borwick played and the Hon. Margaret Henniker was the vocalist. Lady Hallé made her re-appearance on the 17th ult., when the soloists were Signor Busoni and Mr. Kennerley Rumford. The programmes have been of the usual 'Popular' character.

The association of M. Ysaye and Signor Busoni at a recital, on the 21st ult., at the Queen's Hall, was a most happy combination, and superb interpretations were given of Bach's Sonata in E—the third of the set of six for violin and clavier—and of Beethoven's 'Kreutzer' Sonata. Signor Busoni's performance of the second book of Chopin's 'Etudes' (Op. 25) was remarkable for finish and delicacy, and Madame Kirkby Lunn sang very finely.

Mr. Frederick Dawson gave a pianoforte recital, on October 31, at St. James's Hall, in which he showed marked advance in the interpretation of Beethoven, his reading of this composer's Sonata in E (Op. 109) being admirable. He is also to be commended for including in his programme two charming little pieces, an Impromptu in C (Op. 13, No. 1) and Ritornello (Op. 20, No. 2), by Sir A. C. Mackenzie, and an 'Etude Pathétique,' by Mr. Graham P. Moore.

Mr. Henry Such gave distinction to his orchestral concert, on the 16th ult., at St. James's Hall, by including in the programme Mr. Edward Elgar's Concert-overture 'Froissart,' which, although written for the Worcester Festival of 1890, was stated to have not previously been performed in London. The work, which is headed 'When chivalry lifted up her lance on high,' is stirring and romantic in character, and is an interesting example of early effort. Mr. Such played with his usual intelligence and brilliancy the solo part of Dr. Joachim's Hungarian and Mendelssohn's Violin Concertos, and the orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Frederic H. Cowen, gave effective renderings of two of this composer's charming 'Four English Dances' and Beethoven's 'Coriolan' Overture.

Mr. Reisenauer concluded, on the 8th ult., his three pianoforte recitals at St. James's Hall. His playing has shown him to be a fine executant, but unequal in his readings, this being noticeable in his interpretation of Beethoven's colossal Sonata in B flat (Op. 106).

The Curtius Concert Club re-commenced its Evenings on the 7th ult., but at St. James's Hall instead of, as formerly, at the Prince's Galleries. The first Evening was given by Madame Marchesi, who introduced three new songs by Hugo Wolff, severally named, 'Im Frühling,' 'Agnes,' and 'Nixe Binxfuss,' the last-named being very quaint. Later in the evening Madame Marchesi sang for the first time 'I miei saluti,' by Sir A. C. Mackenzie; 'Proud Maisie,' by Sir Hubert Parry; 'Cradle Song,' by Mr. Hamish MacCunn; and 'L'oiseleur,' by Madame Liza Lehmann; all these fully sustaining the reputation of their respective composers. The two subsequent recitals were given by Miss Marie Brema and Herr von Rooy, the former being assisted by M. Alfred Cortot, an able pianist and conductor of the Paris Philharmonic Society, and the latter by Professor Carl Friedberg, a typical German pianoforte player from Frankfort.

Madame Hilda Bergeron, from Stockholm, gave an artistic vocal recital, on the 12th ult., at St. James's Hall, and was very successful in her renderings of Swedish songs.

Miss Ethel Barns and Mr. Charles Phillips began a sixth series of their estimable Chamber concerts on the 13th ult., at the Steinway Hall. A vivacious performance was given of Sinding's Sonata in E (Op. 39) for violin and pianoforte, the latter instrument being played by Miss Mary Olson, and an artistic selection of songs was well sung by Mdlle. Carla Tinos and Mr. Charles Phillips.

Mr. Edward Iles, a young baritone vocalist of considerable musical ability, began, on the 8th ult., at Steinway Hall, a series of vocal recitals at which he accompanied himself. His programmes were most comprehensive.

The concert given by the Strolling Players Amateur Orchestral Society, on the 15th ult., was too light in character to merit serious criticism. A pleasing feature, however, was the first concert-room performance, if we mistake not, of the Three Dances from Mr. Edward German's incidental music to 'English Nell,' now being played at the Prince of Wales's Theatre. These pieces consist of a Country, Pastoral, and Merrymakers' Dance, and form an attractive addition to light music of artistic character.

Mr. Vert's concert, on the 2nd ult., at St. James's Hall, does not call for criticism. It is sufficient to say that the artists were Mesdames Albani, Ada Crossley, and Messrs. Ben Davies, Kennerley Rumford, Frederick Dawson, and Tivadar Nachez, and that they succeeded in delighting a large audience.

Performances testifying to notable ability and artistic earnestness have also been given by Mr. Sydney Brooks, on the 7th ult., at the Salle Erard; Mr. E. H. Thorne, on the 10th ult., at St. Martin's Town Hall; Miss Ethel Sharpe and Mr. Alfred Hobday, on the 12th ult., at St. James's Hall; Miss Lebell and M. Louis Pecskai, on the 13th ult., at the Salle Erard; Miss Anita Sutherland, on the same evening, at Steinway Hall; Mr. Hirwen Jones, the following afternoon, and the Misses Louie and Anna Lowe, on the 20th ult., at the same hall.

The Finsbury Choral Association's first concert this season took place on the 22nd ult., when Bridge's 'Ballad of the Clampherdown' and the 'Golden Legend' were performed. Sir Frederick Bridge, who conducted his own cantata, made a touching allusion to the loss British art had sustained in the lamented death that day of Sir Arthur Sullivan, and the Overture 'In Memoriam' was appropriately performed. The late composer's popular cantata received an excellent interpretation by the chorus and orchestra of the Society, the solo parts being successfully sung by Madame Emily Davies, Miss Greta Williams, Mr. Whitworth Mitton, Mr. Edward Axteus, and Mr. Charles Knowles—the last-named singing at very short notice with much ability. Mr. Cunningham Woods conducted with care and skill.

The Dulwich Philharmonic Society gave a performance of Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,' in the concert-room of the Crystal Palace, on the 3rd ult. The orchestra and chorus comprised 250 performers, and the choruses were sung with much spirit and good attack. The principal solo vocalists were Miss Esmé Atherton, Miss Lucie Johnstone, Mr. Lloyd Chandos, and Mr. David Hughes. Mr. Walter Hedgcock was at the organ and Mr. Arthur Fagge conducted.

Mr. Frederick Holloway gave his eighth annual concert, at Brixton Hall, on the 8th ult., assisted by Madame Marian McKenzie, Miss Ruth Lamb, and Mr. Wilfred Cunliffe. The concert-giver was heard in several well-selected works, his rendering of Raff's spirited 'Caprice' being exceptionally well given, while a Concert Prelude and Fugue of his own composition was warmly received.

FOREIGN NOTES.

Augsburg.—Two interesting new works obtained a first hearing at a recent concert of the Oratorio Society, under the direction of Herr Wilhelm Weber—viz., a setting for chorus and orchestra of the 'Thirteenth Chapter of the First Epistle of St. Paul to the Corinthians,' by Carl Pottgiesser, and a symphonic prologue to Dante's 'Divina Commedia,' by Felix Woyrsch.

Barcelona.—A most enthusiastic reception was accorded by a closely packed audience, on October 26, at the Novedades Theatre, to a new opera in four acts, entitled 'Euda d'Uriach,' the libretto by the distinguished Spanish dramatist, Angel Guimará, the music by Amadeo Vives, a young composer of very considerable promise.

Barmen.—The opening of the concert season of the Allgemeine Concert-Verein was marked by two excellent performances of Handel's oratorio 'Saul' (Dr. Chrysander's version), under the direction of Herr Carl Hopfe, and with the co-operation of the municipal orchestras of Barmen and Elberfeld, and Mesdames Seyff-Katzmayr and Geller Wolter, Herr Brunt and Dr. Felix Kraus in the solo parts. The noble work produced a most marked impression on a numerous audience.

Berlin.—Herr Engelbert Humperdinck, the composer of 'Hänsel und Gretel,' has been appointed a member of the Senate of the Berlin Academy of Arts and director of a Meisterschule for composition at that Royal Institution.

Busseto.—The organ in the Church of Roncole, the village in which Verdi was born, has just been restored gratuitously by Signor Tronci, the well-known organ builder of Pistoia, as an act of homage to the veteran composer.

Dresden.—At one of the Chamber concerts of Messrs. Petri, Spitzner, and Wille, last month, much interest was created by a new Quintet for pianoforte, violin, clarinet, horn, and violoncello, by Waldemar von Baussnern; a cleverly constructed and effective work.

Hamburg.—A new opera, entitled 'Armor,' by Silvia Lazzari, a gifted young French composer, was brought out at the Stadt-Theater, on October 23, with marked success. Herr Ludwig Hartmann, the well known Dresden critic, considers it the most remarkable work, constructed on Wagnerian lines, which has come forward since the death of the Bayreuth master. The difficulties presented by the score are, however, enormous, far surpassing, according to the same writer, even those offered by 'Tristan und Isolde.'

Heidelberg.—The first concert of the present season of the Bach-Verein, under the able conductorship of Professor Wolfrum, on October 28, was rendered commemorative of the 150th anniversary of the death of the great cantor, and included the performance of the 'Ode of Mourning' (in which Bach has utilised five numbers of his unfortunately lost 'St. Mark' Passion) and the 'Peasants' Cantata.

Laibach.—Under the title of 'Nicolas Zrinisky,' an original operatic work was brought out at the National Theatre last month with much success. The composer is M. J. de Zajic.

Leipzig.—Considerable success was achieved by the recent performance of a new choral work, with orchestra, by Wilhelm Kleefeld, entitled 'King Death,' a highly characteristic and melodious setting of an effective poem by G. Keller.

Mannheim.—Max Schillings's new opera, 'Der Pfeifertag,' was brought out at the Court Theatre, on October 28, with great success.

Milan.—The first performance of Leoncavallo's new opera, 'Zaza,' took place at the Teatro Lirico, on the 10th ult., with good success. The work is divided into four acts, the composer being also the author of the libretto, which is, of course, founded upon M. Berton's drama. Signora Rosina Starchio was much applauded in the titular part and the performance generally was an excellent one.

Montreux.—At the first orchestral concert of the season a new symphonic poem, 'Scène funèbre,' by the Norwegian composer, Johan Selwer, was produced for the first time with considerable success.

New York.—The National Conservatory of Music has opened a prize competition for a symphony, an overture, and a violin or pianoforte concerto, the prizes offered being 300 dollars in the first-named and 200 dollars each in the two latter instances. The candidates must be natives of the United States and not above the age of forty.

Pressburg.—Beethoven's 'Missa Solemnis' is to be performed, in connection with the celebration of High Mass, at the Cathedral, on the 25th inst. The event will be the more interesting since it is believed to be the first occasion of a performance of the great work in association with the Roman Catholic liturgy.

Rouen.—Madame Sanson, the recently deceased granddaughter of Boieldieu, has given directions in her will that her property at Boisguillaume, in the vicinity of this city, shall be used in future as a retreat for musicians and literary men, the sum of 700,000 francs having, moreover, been set apart by the testatrix for its maintenance.

Stockholm.—At the initiative of the Ministry of Fine Arts a musico-historical museum has been founded in the Swedish capital, which already includes many interesting and valuable musical instruments and manuscripts, dating from the seventh century onwards.—Mr. Percival Garratt, a young English pianist, gave a concert, on October 25, in the Musical Academy, which attracted a large audience. Mr. Garratt's most important solo was Liszt's Concerto Pathétique. His programme also included Bach's A minor Fugue and pieces by Mozart, Chopin, Brahms, and Saint-Saëns. Mr. Garratt is giving concerts in Upsala, Gothenburg, Christiania, &c.

Vevey.—The opportunity of hearing Schubert's famous song-cycle 'Die schöne Müllerin' for the first time at a public performance was afforded to Vevey audiences, last month, at a concert given by Frau Krafft, a well-known concert vocalist. The songs were given in the French version by M. Chassang, in which they were first made known to Paris audiences some two years since.

Weimar.—In celebration of the anniversary of the birth of Franz Liszt, a most successful concert was given, on October 22, by Mr. Frederic Lamond, the programme consisting exclusively of works by the late pianist-composer.

Wiesbaden.—Three 'Slavonic Intermezzi,' by the talented composer, Edmund Uhl, were produced, for the first time, at one of the recent Symphony Concerts, under Herr Lüstner's direction, and received with great favour.

Würzburg.—A new oratorio, 'The Legend of St. Boniface,' by Johann Diebold, was performed recently by the Choral Association, producing a highly favourable impression. An excellent reception was also accorded to Philipp Scharwenka's 'Sakuntala,' a choral work, which was produced for the first time last month by the Royal Musik-Schule, under Dr. Kliebert's direction.

CORRESPONDENCE.

ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE, TENBURY.

TO THE EDITOR OF 'THE MUSICAL TIMES.'

Sir,—It was, perhaps, natural in the delightful description of St. Michael's College, which appears in your interesting journal, that you should give only the names of some of the boys who, after being educated there, entered the musical and clerical professions; but in these patriotic days it is as well to remember that the dear old College has supplied both the Navy and Army with officers. As an old St. Michael's boy, if my memory serves me well, four of my schoolfellows entered the Navy and Marines and one the Army—doubtless many more have done so since my time. I myself passed straight into the service from the College without any intermediate cramming. I mention this in the interests of the school, for I have no pretensions to more than very ordinary abilities, so that parents who intend their boys for either of the services should not be deterred on account of the high musical reputation of the College from having them educated there. On the contrary, they will best serve their own interests, their boys' interests, and the interests of music by doing so; for I feel sure that no boy trained there ever left the school without having acquired at least a taste for the highest forms of musical art.

I respectfully suggest to the Warden that he should start a branch of the Navy League at the school. The age for entry into the Navy in future will about correspond with that at which voices usually break.

Yours, &c.,
Arthur Havergal,
November 17, 1900. Commander, R.N.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY AND COLONIAL NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Bognor.—The second session of the Subscription concerts opened, on the 7th ult., at the Assembly Rooms. The programme included Wagner's 'Siegfried Idyll' and 'The entry of the Gods into Valhalla,' the 'Marche Solennelle' and the 'Casse Noisette' Suite of Tschaïkowsky; besides the Harvest Dance from German's Suite 'The Seasons,' the Scherzo and Nocturne from Mendelssohn's 'Midsummer Night's Dream' music, and various pieces of an equally high order, played by the string band of the Royal Marines, under the direction of Lieut. George Miller. The vocalist was Madame Ada Loaring, who met with much success. Mr. W. H. Davies accompanied.

Box (Wilts).—That the people in rural parts of the South of England will appreciate good music, if they have the opportunity of hearing it, was more than ever proved in this country village on October 29. The programme, containing excerpts from the chamber works of Bach, Beethoven, and Schumann, together with solos and vocal quartets of unusual interest, was arranged by the Rev. B. Everett, and he was assisted in the performance of it by well known enthusiasts of the neighbourhood. Miss Carey, of Bath, was the vocalist, and Miss Grace Tollemache, a brilliant amateur violinist, led the quartets, acting as well as solo instrumentalist. Admission to the concert was entirely free, a fact which is to be commended, and there was a very large and enthusiastic audience of village folk.

Bradford.—Miss E. A. Atkinson gave a concert at the Church Institute, on the 2nd ult., when she played with much taste and skill Grieg's Sonata (Op. 36) and Mendelssohn's Variations Concertantes—both for pianoforte and violoncello—with Mr. George Schott; she also gave Schumann's 'Kinderscenen' and pieces by Chopin, Brahms, and Strauss. Miss Lillie Wormald was the vocalist.

Brighton.—The first performance in this town of Coleridge-Taylor's popular cantatas 'Hiawatha's Wedding-Feast' and 'The Death of Minnehaha' was given by the Brighton Sacred Harmonic Society, on the 8th ult. The choir sang with much steadiness and as if in full sympathy with the beautiful choruses, and the refined and delicate orchestration was admirably played. The solo vocalists were Madame Elvey, Mr. Whitworth Mitton (who was especially good), and Mr. John Sandbrook. Much credit should be given to the conductor, Mr. Robert Taylor, for the admirable manner in which he had trained his forces. The Society will, later in the season, give 'Judas Maccabæus' and Parry's 'Judith.'

Clare (Suffolk).—A new choral society has just been formed here, entitled the 'Clare Musical Society,' the president being the Rev. J. M. Vatcher; the secretary, Rev. C. Cartwright; and the conductor, the Rev. T. Normandale. The Society already numbers over thirty members.

Doncaster.—Messrs. George and Bromley Booth gave the first of their series of Subscription concerts, in the Corn Exchange, on October 25. The vocalists were Madame Medora Henson, Madame Marian McKenzie, Mr. Henry Plevy, and Mr. Plunket Greene, the last-named artist creating a furore by his artistic and characteristic rendering of several Irish songs. Mr. George Booth's pianoforte solos comprised Raff's 'La Fileuse,' a Gavotte by Schelling, and Tausig's Paraphrase on a Valse by Strauss; Mr. Bromley Booth's contributions on the violin being Fantaisie Caprice (Vieuxtemps), Romanza (Kes), and Rigaudon (Raff). Encores were the order of the evening.

Durban (South Africa).—The Orchestral Society finished its season on October 13, the occasion being a farewell concert to the founder and conductor, Mr. J. Frank Proudman, who produced a new Suite for organ (Mr. R. H. Macdonald) and strings of an exceedingly attractive nature. The programme also included Mendelssohn's D minor Concerto, the soloist being Mrs. D. MacColl. The vocalists were Mrs. J. F. Proudman, Miss Aldwyth Bond, Mr. G. C. Macfarlane, and Mr. John Fellows, and instrumental solos were given by Mr. Charles Bell (oboe) and Mr. F. C. Hollander (flute).

Eton.—A concert was given in the Drill Hall, Eton College, by Miss Lucy Stone and Miss Georgina Dupuis, on the 13th ult., when the programme included Mendelssohn's Trio in C minor and Professor Stanford's Irish pieces for violin and pianoforte. Miss Stone played Beethoven's Romance in F for violin, and Miss Dupuis contributed songs by Grieg and a set of five songs by Charles Willeby, entitled 'Hawthorn and Lavender.' Miss Gwendolyn Toms was the pianist and Mr. Arthur Williams, violoncellist. A second concert was announced for the 27th ult.

Hamilton (Ontario).—Messrs. J. E. P. Aldous and A. G. Alexander announce a series of Monday Chamber concerts, of which the first took place on the 12th ult. The programme included Saint-Saëns's Variations for two pianofortes on a theme by Beethoven, Bach's Concerto in C minor for two pianofortes and quartet, Mendelssohn's Trio in C minor, a group of pianoforte solos by Saint-Saëns, Leschetitzky, and Paderewski, and some songs.

Hanham (Bristol).—At the Congregational Church, on the 12th ult., Rossini's 'Stabat Mater' and Mendelssohn's 'Hear my Prayer' were given by a choir of forty voices, conducted by Mr. F. A. Wiltshire (organist and choirmaster of the church). Miss Edith Evans, Miss Ada Bennett, Mr. E. T. Morgan, and Mr. E. C. King ably sang the solo music, and Mr. Walter Maker presided at the organ.

Hebden Bridge.—The Hebden Bridge Choral and Harmonic Society opened its eighteenth season on the 13th ult., when Gounod's 'Faust' was performed, under the conductorship of Mr. John Bowling. The soloists were Madame Adelaide Mullen, Mrs. G. E. Baines, Mr. Henry Beaumont, Mr. John Browning, and Mr. Rowland Hoyle. The band and chorus consisted of upwards of 100 performers, and were fully efficient.

Sydney (N.S.W.)—The Philharmonic Society's concert of October 11 was made memorable by the production, for the first time in Australia, of Verdi's Requiem and a highly meritorious performance was given of this fine work by the chorus and orchestra of the Society. The orchestra, led by Mr. Rivers Allpress, was especially good, and the chorus singing, on the whole, distinctly creditable. A fully efficient quartet of soloists was found in Miss Jessie King, Miss Edith King, Mr. Edgar Fulton, and Mr. W. T. Colyer, and Signor Hazon, who conducted with care and ability, deserves much credit for the adequate presentation of this noble work.

Teignmouth.—A concert was given in the Assembly Rooms, on the 1st ult., by Miss Violet Haymes, who gave Sinding's 'Frühlingsrauschen' and other pieces with much skill. She was assisted by Madame Beatrice Langley, whose violin solos were enthusiastically received; Miss Daisy Campbell, a young soprano, who displayed an excellent voice and much vocal ability; Miss Harvey, Mr. Douglas Granville, and Mr. Norman Kendale.

Watford.—The annual Festival at the Union Chapel was held on October 26, the choirs consisting of St. Mary's, Christ Church, and St. James's. The service was fully choral throughout, and the anthem was 'While the earth remaineth' (J. H. Maunder). Much credit is due to Mr. W. Kempster (who officiated at the organ) for his excellent training of the choirs.——Hiller's 'Song of Victory' and Schubert's 'Song of Miriam' were performed at Beechen Grove Chapel on the 14th ult. The solos were undertaken by Miss Amy Sargent, and the choruses were efficiently rendered by the chapel choir, under the direction of Mr. F. G. H. Moore. Mr. H. W. Pierce officiated at the organ, and Mr. W. R. Maxwell contributed 'If with all your hearts' and 'Be thou faithful unto death.'

Wellington (New Zealand).—Mr. Alfred Bunz, of St. Luke's Church, Christchurch, gave a successful organ recital, at St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, on September 11, when there was a large attendance. The programme comprised selections from the works of Beethoven, Bach, Mendelssohn, Guilmant, Grison, Stainer, and Hoyte, notable features being Mendelssohn's First Sonata and Bach's Prelude and Fugue in C. Mr. John Prouse was the vocalist.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

An old Subscriber.—Mr. Dannreuther, in his 'Musical Ornamentation' primer (Part I., p. 165), prints out in full the identical shake concerning which you are in doubt (Bach's Fugue in D minor, Book I., No. 6), thus:—

He states that this is a case which comes under the rule, 'melodic outlines must not be blurred'—as they would be if the shake were started with the accessory. We are afraid that some authorities must be classed as unauthorised authorities.

L. R. A. M.—Mr. Dannreuther—who is really an authority on the subject of the proper interpretation of these signs that seem to be the despair of more than one fair reader—says ('Musical Ornamentation' primer, Part I., p. 168): 'Shakes upon a long note which is tied on to a shorter note of the same pitch, stop before the latter, without stress and without closing notes.' The shake begins with the main note. (Bach's Prelude, Book I., No. 16, bars 1, 3, 7, and 11.)

An Old Reader.—(1) There is, so far as we know, no book on the subject of hymn-tunes: a history of their growth and development is greatly needed. The article 'Hymn-tunes' in Stainer and Barrett's 'Dictionary of Musical Terms' may prove suggestive to you. (2) The hymn-tunes of the late Rev. Dr. J. B. Dykes, in a collected form, are not yet published, but the volume is in preparation.

G. W. F.—Choral settings of words by Samuel Taylor Coleridge are as follows: 'The Knight's tomb' (Stanford), 'If love be dead' (Wood), 'Up, up, ye dames' (W. Macfarren, Leslie, and Bendall), 'Hear, sweet spirit' (Smart), 'If I had but two little wings' (Hubert Parry), 'A sunny shaft did I behold' (C. H. Lloyd), and 'I asked my fair, one happy day' (Champneys).

Inquisitive.—We can recall two instances in vocal music of all the notes of the scale being sounded together in one chord: (1) Sir John Stainer's eight-part anthem, 'I saw the Lord,' at the beginning of bar 4 from the end of the first movement; and (2) in R. L. de Pearsall's Madrigal (in eight parts), 'Great God of Love,' bar 33, first beat.

G. C.—The best and most complete edition of Schubert's Lieder is that edited by Max Friedlaender and published by Peters, of Leipzig, in seven volumes. This edition has German words only, but it is invaluable for your purpose—that of study, as well as for practical use.

Pianoforte.—(1) Arensky has written one other pianoforte trio in addition to that in D minor; (2) Some pianoforte trios by modern composers are those by Saint-Saëns, Widor, Lalo, Rachmaninoff, Martucci, Nawratil, Tschaïkowsky, Napravnik, Stanford, and Davies.

Choir-trainer.—(1) Try the 'Speech in Song' primer by A. J. Ellis, which exhaustively treats the subject of singing consonants as well as vowels. (2) 'Sight-singing Studies,' by Dr. W. G. McNaught (4 books), and 'Five Minutes' Exercises,' by Mrs. Marshall (Novello).

R. H.—You are quite right in your determination 'not to play clap-trappy stuff,' and in your resolution 'to help people to know what a delight and education our noble art is.'

Student (Adelaide).—The Euphon consists of thin tubes of glass, resembling thermometer tubes, played by drawing the fingers (previously wetted) from end to end.

H. R. B.—Your best qualifying certificate as a teacher will be that of Licentiate of the Royal Academy of Music, or Associate of the Royal College of Music.

D. J. B.—Rather too fast. First movement minim = 108; last movement, crotchet = 144. (Gade's Sonata in D minor for pianoforte and violin.)

Basso.—So far as we know appointments of lay-clerks in Australia are at present unknown.

Fuga VI.—See reply to 'An old Subscriber.'

J. H. B.—See answer to 'An old Reader.'

A few questions are unavoidably held over.

MISS CORDELIA GRYLLS (Soprano)
"Delightful soprano voice . . . recalling that of Madame Melba."—Referee.
10, Swiss Terrace, N.W.

MADAME LOUISE BURNS
(SOPRANO). Oratorios, &c.
Now booking for Winter Season.
Erin, Riffel Road, Willesden Green, N.W.

MR. FREDERICK J. HOPE
(BASS).
Pupil of M. Bonhy (Paris).
"Mr. Frederick J. Hope, who possesses a very fine bass voice, was heard to great advantage in his various songs."
"Mr. Hope possesses an exceptionally fine bass voice, and knows how to use it."
"Mr. Hope sang in really grand style 'Oh, God, have mercy' ('St. Paul') and 'The Lord worketh wonders' ('Judas Maccabæus')."
Address, 2, Longridge Road, South Kensington, S.W.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO & CO., LIMITED.

CUMMINGS, W. H.—"A Welcome to the C.I.V." 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello and Bass, 6d.

GAUL, ALFRED R.—"The Hare and the Tortoise; or, slow and steady wins the race." Book of words, 25s. per 100.

KING, HENRY JOHN—An Album of Songs. 3s. 6d.

NOVELLO'S ANTHEM BOOK.—A Collection of Popular Anthems. For Festival and General Use throughout the Year. Book 4. 1s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

PARKER, HORATIO W.—"Hora Novissima" (Op. 30). Full Score. 42s.

PARRY, C. HUBERT H.—The music to the "Agamemnon" of Æschylus. The English version by H. J. EDWARDS, M.A. 3s.

BERKELEY, JULIAN C.—(in E flat). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 3d.

CARNELL, F. DRAKE—(in B flat). Te Deum laudamus. 4d.

CLEMENS, CHARLES E.—(in E flat). Benedicite, omnia Opera. 6d.

NAISH, A. J.—(in D). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 3d.

POWELL, REV. J. B.—Eight Settings of the Te Deum laudamus to Chants. Second Series. 4d.

THAYER, W. A.—(in B flat). Te Deum laudamus. 6d.

WILSON, ARCHIBALD W.—(in E). Kyrie and Credo. 6d.

ATTWOOD, T.—"Bow down Thine ear." Anthem. For Soprano Solo and Chorus. (No. 694. The Musical Times.) 1½d.

BROWN, ARTHUR HENRY—"The Angel said unto them, fear not." A Two-part Anthem. (S. & B.) For Christmas. (No. 684. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 2d.

HARRIS, CUTHBERT—"There shall come a star." Anthem. For Christmas. (No. 685. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

HANDEL, G. F.—"O praise the Lord with one consent." (No. 683. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

HOPKINS, J. L.—"O clap your hands together." (No. 686. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

PARKER, HORATIO W.—"While we have time." (No. 106. Novello's Short Anthems.) 3d.

SELBY, B. LUARD—"Crown Him the Virgin's Son." Anthem. For Christmas or Epiphany. (No. 688. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 2d.

STAINER, J.—"Day of wrath" ("Dies Iræ"). A Hymn-Anthem. (No. 682. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 2d.

WILLIAMS, C. LEE—"Thou art gone to the grave." (In Memoriam, S. Africa, 1900.) (No. 678. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 2d.

ADAMS, THOMAS—"Christmas Morn." (No. 290. Novello's Christmas Carols.) 1d.

—— "Child Divine." (No. 291. Novello's Christmas Carols.) 1d.

—— "A Christmas Song." (No. 292. Novello's Christmas Carols.) 1d.

BAIRSTOW, E. C.—"The Blessed Virgin's Cradle Song." (No. 294. Novello's Christmas Carols.) 1½d.

BROWN, ARTHUR H.—"The King's Messengers." Song for the Children's Missionary Guild. (No. 530. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1d. Words only, 3s. per 100.

HALL, EDITH A.—"It blows, the wind so bleak." A Christmas Carol. 1½d.

HAM, ALBERT—Three Christmas Carols. 3d.

HOLLINS, ALFRED—"A lowly Babe." (No. 293. Novello's Christmas Carols.) 1½d.

LEES, S.—Two Christmas Carols. 2d.

RAVENSCROFT, T.—"Remember God's goodnesse." Arranged by Sir FREDERICK BRIDGE. (No. 288. Novello's Christmas Carols.) 1½d.

PERCY, REV. HENRY V. HEBER—"Holy Father, bless Thy children." For a Catechism or Children's Service. 1d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

SMITH, SAMUEL—"Summer suns are glowing." Hymn. (No. 521. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1d.

SULLIVAN, ARTHUR—"We are but strangers here." Funeral Hymn. (No. 533. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1d. Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

TILLEARD, J.—"Lo! He comes with clouds descending." Advent Hymn. (No. 531. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 2d.

WETTON, H. DAVAN—"Christmas Tree Carol." (No. 289. Novello's Christmas Carols.) 1d.

DISTIN, THEODORE—"Jack Horner." Part-Song. For S.A.T.B. (No. 850. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

HOLLINGWORTH, W.—"Friendship." Part-Song. For A.T.T.B. 2d.

HUNT, H. E.—"The Sunset." Part-Song. For S.A.T.B. 3d.

NICHOL, H. ERNEST—"The Poet's Song." Part-Song. For S.A.T.B. 3d.

WILLIAMS, C. LEE—"Thou art gone to the grave. (In Memoriam, S. Africa, 1900.) For T.T.B.B. (No. 342. The Orpheus.) 2d.

—— "Faithless Nellie Gray." For S.A.T.B. (No. 848. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 4d.

—— "Faithless Sally Brown." Part-Song. For A.T.B.B. 6d.

ELGAR, EDWARD—"Softly and gently, dearly ransomed soul" ("Dream of Gerontius"). (No. 784. Novello's Octavo Choruses.) 6d.

ADAMS, JOSEPH H.—"Sun of my soul." Sacred Song, No. 1, in D, for Contralto or Baritone; No. 2, in F, for Soprano or Tenor. 2s. each.

ELGAR, EDWARD—"The Angel's Song," from "The Dream of Gerontius." For Soprano. 1s. 6d.

ODELL, ANNIE A.—"Our Hero, 'Bobs.'" A Patriotic Song. No. 1 in F, for Soprano or Tenor; No. 2 in E flat, for Contralto or Baritone. 2s. each.

PERINELLO, ADA DE.—Bolero. Song with French words. For Soprano or Tenor. 2s.

HIGGS, H. M.—Légende. (No. 286. Original Compositions for the Organ.) 1s. 6d.

—— Chanson Pastorale. (No. 287. Original Compositions for the Organ.) 1s.

LEMARE, EDWIN H.—Intermezzo in B flat. (No. 8. Original Compositions for the Organ. By EDWIN H. LEMARE.) 1s. 6d.

—— Andante Cantabile. (No. 9. Original Compositions for the Organ. By EDWIN H. LEMARE.) 1s. 6d.

EIGHT HYMN TUNES. Arranged for Violin and Pianoforte. (No. 17. A Modern School for the Violin. By AUGUST WILHELMJ and JAMES BROWN.) 1s. 6d.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS.—Edited by W. G. MCNAUGHT. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo size; B. Voice Parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

			A.	B.
No. 352.	The Poacher. Folk-Song. Arranged by	PERCY GODFREY	—	1d.
„ 353.	The oak and the ash. Folk-Song.	„	—	1d.
„ 354.	Come, lassies and lads. Folk-Song	„	—	1d.
„ 355.	The livelong day I dream. Folk-Song	„	—	1d.
„ 356.	Santa Lucia. Folk-Song	„	—	1d.
„ 357.	To Alexis. Folk-Song	„	—	1d.
„ 464.	Our dear old Church of England. Unison Song	J. L. HATTON	1d.	—
„ 533.	Dancing leaves. Action Song	MYLES B. FOSTER	—	1½d.
„ 612.	Peace to the souls of the heroes. Arranged for S.A.B.	Dr. CALLCOTT	—	1d.
„ 642.	For hearth and home. Unison Song	CIRO PINSUTI	2d.	—

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 102. Contains the following Music in both Notations: "The twilight star." Two-part Song. By J. BARNBY. "The flowers o' the forest." Unison Song, with Two-part Chorus. 1½d.

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Edited by W. G. MCNAUGHT.

No. 1153.	King all glorious	J. BARNBY	1½d.
„ 1155.	Calm on the list'ning ear of night	H. W. PARKER	1½d.
„ 1156.	Come, ye lofty	H. ELLIOT BUTTON	1d.
„ 1157.	Hark, the glad sound	MYLES B. FOSTER	1½d.
„ 1158.	Weep you no more, sad fountains	P. C. BUCK	1d.
„ 1159.	To Mary in Heaven	GEORGE J. BENNETT	1½d.
„ 1160.	The fortune-teller's song	EATON FANING	1½d.
„ 1161.	T'other day, as I sat	JOHN GOSS	1½d.
„ 1162.	The angel said unto them, fear not	A. H. BROWN	1d.

NOVELLO'S ANTHEM BOOK. Book 1. 9d.

TEN HYMNS, with Tunes. For use in Schools and for Children's Festivals. 3d.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Arthur Sullivan (with Portrait)	785
Thomas Attwood (with Portrait)	788
Father Smith's Organ in St. Paul's Cathedral (Illustrated)	794
Future-Music	796
Occasional Notes (with Portrait and facsimile)	799
Church and Organ Music (Illustrated)	801
A New English Composer—Dr. Walford Davies (concluded)	804
The Music in the present issue of The Musical Times	806
John Sims Reeves—Obituary	806
Reviews	807
The "Agamemnon" at Cambridge	808
Ysaye as Conductor	816
Royal Choral Society	817
Promenade Concerts	817
Crystal Palace Concerts	818
Another new English Composer—Mr. Donald F. Tovey	818
Mr. Coleridge-Taylor's Incidental Music to "Herod"	818
Royal Academy of Music	818
Musical Competitions	819
Opera	819
St. Hugh Celebration at Lincoln Minster	820
Music in Berlin	820
„ Vienna	821
„ America	822
„ Birmingham	822
„ Belfast	823
„ Bristol	823
„ Cheltenham	824
„ Dublin	824
„ East Anglia	824
„ Edinburgh	824
„ Manchester	825
„ Nottingham and District	825
„ Northumberland and Durham	825
„ Sheffield and District	825
„ Wales	826
„ Yorkshire	826
London and Suburban Concerts, &c.	827
Foreign Notes	828
Correspondence	829
Brief Summary of Country and Colonial News	829
Answers to Correspondents	830
Music published during the last Month	831
Anthem—"Bow down Thine ear."—Thomas Attwood	809

Anthem for Christmas—"Crown Him the Virgin's Son."—Bertram Luard Selby.—(Extra Supplement.)

Funeral Hymn—"We are but strangers here."—Arthur Sullivan.—(Extra Supplement.)

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.
A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in proper position Advertisements for the next issue should reach the Office NOT LATER THAN THE EIGHTEENTH of this Month.

BOYS with good Soprano voices WANTED, for the Church of St. Vedast, Foster Lane, Cheapside, E.C. Good knowledge of music essential. Liberal salary.
Apply to Choirmaster, at the Church, Thursday evenings, 7 to 8, or after Sunday Services.

MISS BERYL CLIVE (Contralto). Engaged: Lewisham ("Messiah"), Brockley (orchestral), Clapham ("Rose Maiden"), City, Greenwich, Peckham, Holloway, Kentish Town, Highgate, Nottingham, Whitechapel ("Messiah"), Limehouse. Address, 14, Gladsmuir Road, Highgate N.

WANTED, CHOIRMASTER. Earnest Communicant. Two Sunday services (simple) and two practices. £20. Must reside within walking distance. Write, stating age, &c., to V., 88, Bravington Road, Maida Hill, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, immediately, for Headingley Wesleyan Church. Apply, by letter, stating age, experience, salary required, and with testimonials, to J. Walter Harland, Alpha Cottage, Headingley, Leeds.

THE ORGANIST of Christ Church, Doncaster, has VACANCY for PUPIL. Exceptional advantages and sound musical instruction. Full Catholic Service. Apply as above.

THE PARISH CHURCH, Ashby-de-la-Zouch.—WANTED, at once, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Ability to train choir and to develop a plain hearty service essential. Apply, stating references and salary required, to the Vicar, Canon Denton.

TUNER (young) WANTED, with knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums. Permanency. Salary and commission. Dale, Forty and Co., Birmingham.

ASSISTANT.—Smart young MAN REQUIRED, in a Pianoforte Warehouse. Must be able to play the piano and well up in small goods. Dale, Forty and Co., Birmingham.

THE LONDON ORATORIO QUARTET
Madame LOUISE BURNS. | Mr. D'ARCY CLAYTON.
Miss FLORENCE CROFT. | Mr. SAMUEL HEATH.
Now booking for Winter Season.
Address, Arch. E. Swanson (Manager), 5, East India Avenue, E.C.

MR. RENÉ ORTMANS'
CHAMBER MUSIC CLASS
FOR PIANO & STRINGED INSTRUMENT PLAYERS.
Patron and Examiner: Mons. Ysaye.

The Meetings take place on Tuesday mornings, from 10 to 1, at Messrs. Erard's, Great Marlborough Street, Regent Street.
For particulars and terms, apply to Mr. René Ortmans, 51, Avonmore Road, West Kensington.

THREE-MANUAL CHAMBER ORGAN, 26 stops. Beautiful unique carved front. Very suitable for hall or mansion. Full particulars from W. H. W., 3, College Gate, Kemp Town, Brighton.

ORGANS (Pipe) for SALE or HIRE. 2 manuals; in perfect condition. Full compass of pedals. W. B., 9, Burdett Road, London, E.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—A set of Pedals by Hill and Son. £5; original price, £10. Can be applied to any upright Piano. E. Pardett, F.R.C.O., Sefton Terrace, Arundel.

COTTAGE PIANO, full compass, with Organ Pedal Attachment. C.O. scale. W. B., 9, Burdett Road, London, E.

FOR SALE.—BACK NUMBERS of "The Musical Times" (August, 1887-Nov., 1899) and of "Musical Opinion" (April, 1887-May, 1898). What offers? G. A. H., Hernewood, Sevenoaks.

Sung by Messrs. Henry Beaumont, W. L. Cockburn, Bernard Fountain, &c.

BRAVE HEARTS (D Edition now ready.)
Patriotic Song. Words by E. Oxenford. Music by John J. Jones.
"This rattling rhythmical song suits words that tell of determination and pluck."—Music Trades Review.
Three keys: D, E flat, and F, to suit all voices.
London: Weekes and Co. Price 2s.

EBENEZER PROUT'S Works. Bound, each net 5s.
HARMONY: Its Theory and Practice. Twelfth Edition.
COUNTERPOINT: Strict and Free. Sixth Edition.
DOUBLE COUNTERPOINT and CANON. Third Edition.
FUGUE. Fourth Edition.
FUGAL ANALYSIS. Second Edition.
MUSICAL FORM. Third Edition.
APPLIED FORMS. Third Edition.
THE ORCHESTRA: Vol. I. "Technique of the Instruments." Second Edition.
„ Vol. II. "Orchestral Combination."
London: Augener and Co., 199, Regent St., and 22, Newgate St.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

Published on the 1st of every Month. Price 1½d. Annual Subscription, including Postage, 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW for DECEMBER CONTAINS:—

General Notes, &c.
Class Singing. By Dr. W. G. McNaught—(continued).
The Musical Association. Paper on the Early Metrical Psalters and Singing by Note. By Sir John Stainer.
London Sunday School Choir.
School Music at the Cape.
School Sight-Singing Reader—Both Notations.
The Barrow Musical Festival.
The "Henniker" Musical Competition at Stowmarket.
The Associated Board School Examinations.
Educational Exhibition, Liverpool.
Miss Palliser and the Bradford Schools.
Selections from Correspondence.
Miscellaneous.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

The DECEMBER number contains the following music:—

"Christmas Eve." Junior Unison Song. By Arthur Moffat.
"Joy Bells." A New Year's Hymn. By J. Stainer.
"The Golden Carol." Arranged by J. Stainer.
"Evening." Round for Three Voices. By W. W. Pearson.
The Junior School Music Course.

Also, Extra Supplement, containing "Pluck ye Roses." Two-part Song. By R. Schumann. (No. 177. Novello's School Songs. Price 2d.)

The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.

London: Novello and Company, Limited.

TWO-MANUAL PEDAL ORGAN, by SNELL, 25 guineas; also three others, by MASON and HAMLIN, ESTEY, BELL; several large Harmoniums, by ALEXANDRE, DEBAIN, &c. Bargains. Stagg and Sons, 56, Red Lion St., Holborn, London, W.C

ORGANS for SALE or HIRE, or payable in five years.—Seven new Organs, 11 to 30 stops; three second-hand 2-manual and one 1-manual. These organs are built and constructed on the most improved principles, with the most valuable selection of high-class stops and most durable work, at reasonable prices. Tubular pneumatic actions. Repairs and additions. Tuners sent to all parts of the kingdom. Alfred Monk's Organ Works, 556, Holloway Road, London, N.

MODERN-BUILT ORGANS for SALE. Two manuals and pedals, 15 stops; an excellent instrument; £150. Also One-manual, £60. Full particulars, EUSTACE INGRAM, Organ Builder, only address, 361, Liverpool Road, London, N. Specifications and estimates for new Organs, &c., free.

15 GUINEAS.—PIANO ("Empress" Model), solid iron frame upright grand (list price, 35 guineas); full compass, full trichord, French check action, &c.; in handsomely carved walnut wood case, four feet two inches in height; in use only six months; sent on approval, carriage free, to any part of the United Kingdom; ten years' warranty; easy terms arranged; full price paid will be allowed if exchanged for a higher class instrument within three years. D'Almaine and Co. (established 115 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7. Saturdays, 3.

DRAWING-ROOM GRAND, by BROADWOOD. List price, 180 gns.; new 1893; has scarcely been used. Also, PERCUSSION HARMONIUM, by CHRISTOPHE, in burr walnut case, 17 stops, separate hand-blowing action, 2½ octaves of detachable pedals, with separate reeds and organ bench. List price, 100 gns. Tuned and voiced as duet instruments. Price, together, £95. Both these instruments are in perfect condition and are offered at the above low price, space being needed. Apply, Organist, Christ Church, Bexley Heath, Kent.

ÆOLIAN GRAND for SALE. Good as new. Cost £125; price £60. Reason for selling, having a manual organ. A. B., care of Housekeeper, 4, Tokenhouse Buildings, E.C.

PIANO.—COLLARD and COLLARD. Walnut Grand. Medium size, No. 113,664. Little used; fine tone; perfect order. Price £45. A bargain. Cornell, Watchmaker, Tonbridge.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus and price list free. Apply to Norman and Beard, Ltd., 24, Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

ORGAN PEDALS TO PIANOFORTES. Scale as desired. Price reasonable. Particulars, G. R., Park Road, Uxbridge, Middlesex.

ORGANISTS, &c.

RUMMENS'

Organ Pedal Attachment to Pianofortes

FOR HOME PRACTICE OF ORGAN MUSIC.

STRAIGHT AND CONCAVE, RADIATING AND CONCAVE
Or any other form of Pedal Board.

UNRIVALLED FOR TOUCH, APPEARANCE, DURABILITY, AND PRICE.

Sir JOHN STAINER: "I can confidently recommend it . . . nothing more valuable."
Sir FRED. BRIDGE: "I have tested it . . . successful . . . will give satisfaction."
Sir GEO. MARTIN: "I think very highly of it . . . clever."
Dr. HARDING: "I am delighted with it . . . in every way a success . . . the best."
Similar Testimonials from the most distinguished Organists and Musicians.

Particulars free. Write or call.
1, WYNNE ROAD, BRIXTON, LONDON, S.W.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

MESSRS. AMBROSE ABBOTT & CO. beg to announce CHANGE of ADDRESS to 16, Hanway Street, London, W. (Close to corner of Oxford Street and Tottenham Court Road.)

REMOVAL.—MUSICAL OPINION and MUSIC TRADE REVIEW Office is now REMOVED (from Holborn Bars) to 35, Shoe Lane, Holborn, E.C.

TO CHORAL and ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES.—Several CHORAL WORKS, PART-SONGS, and ORCHESTRAL WORKS for SALE. Applications for lists to Dr. Bunnett, Cathedral Close, Norwich.

THE CHORISTERS' REGISTER and ORGANISTS' RECORD for 1901, by Chas. Wilkes, F.R.C.O., is a compact and useful Handbook for Organists and Choirmasters. TWO SHILLINGS, POST-FREE. Further particulars from WILKES &Co., 88, Walworth Road, London, S.E.

For 1901. Now ready.

THE PROFESSIONAL POCKET BOOK, and DAILY and HOURLY ENGAGEMENT DIARY. Published according to the plan of the late Sir Julius Benedict. This work will be found invaluable to those who give lessons or have many appointments.

Price, in Roan case, 3s.; by post, 3s. 2d.
" Russia leather, 6s.; by post, 6s. 2d.
London: RUDALL, CARTE AND CO., 23, Berners Street, W.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

ANTHEMS.

O Lord, Thou art my God (Advent). Four Voices	3d.
Arise, shine, for Thy light is come (Christmas)	3d.
" " " " Tonic Sol-fa ..	1½d.
In the beginning (Christmas). Four Voices	3d.
O how amiable. Soprano Solo and Chorus..	4d.

SERVICES.

Te Deum in E. Four Voices	3d.
Benedicite in E	2d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E	3d.
Cantate and Deus in E	3d.
Ave Maria. Soprano and Tenor Solo, with Chorus	6d.
Twenty-four Original Hymn Tunes	6d.

ORGAN.

	s.	d.
Largo in E flat .. .. net	1	0
Minuetto in D .. .. "	1	6
Twelve Short and Easy Pieces .. .. "	2	0
Three Short Pieces—
Larghetto in A flat major Allegretto Pastorale in A major } In one Book .. "	2	0
Andante con moto in F major

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes, as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Fourth Thousand.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in G. By ALFRED J. DYE. Price 4d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS. A Plain Setting for Congregational use. By W. DE M. SERGISON. Price 6d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC

By CALEB SIMPER.

ANTHEMS.

*THE MORNING STARS SANG TOGETHER. New. 4th 1,000 .. 3d.
Very pretty, artistic, and effective.
*HE MAKETH PEACE. New. 9th edition .. .. 3d.
Special Thanksgiving Anthem for Victory and Peace.
*THANKSGIVING TE DEUM in D. New. 5th 1,000 .. .. .. 4d.
*TIDINGS OF GREAT JOY. New. 9th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Contains a splendid Bass Solo and fine Choruses.
*GLAD TIDINGS (moderate). From "Nativity." 6th 1,000 .. 4d.
*WHEN JESUS WAS BORN (easy). From "Nativity." 9th 1,000 .. 3d.
*HIS NAME SHALL BE CALLED WONDERFUL. 9th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
*IN THE BEGINNING WAS THE WORD (mod. easy). 7th 1,000 .. 4d.
*PEACE ON EARTH. A favourite. 12th 1,000.. .. .. .. 4d.
*UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN (easy). 9th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
"Both most useful and exceedingly beautiful."
*WORSHIP HIM AND SING OF HIM. 15th 1,000 .. .. .. 4d.
Short Bass Solo, Chorus, expressive Soprano (or Tenor) Solo, soft Chorus, and a short Full brilliant Final Chorus.
*BE JOYFUL, O EARTH (moderately easy). 8th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
*THE GLORY OF THE LORD. Very popular. 16th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
*REJOICE GREATLY. 10th 1,000. HE SHALL REIGN. 19th 1,000. Each 3d.
*BREAK FORTH INTO JOY. 33rd 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Sung at Choral Festivals in Downpatrick and St. Asaph's Cathedrals.
*THE HEAVENS ARE TELLING (quite easy). 10th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
*BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD. Very effective. 22nd edition .. 4d.
LET US NOW GO EVEN TO BETHLEHEM. Partly unis. 10th 1,000 3d.
WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR. Extremely popular. 44th edition .. 4d.
SING, O HEAVENS. 28th 1,000. GLORY TO GOD. 24th ed. each 3d.
THERE WERE SHEPHERDS. 24th ed. BEHOLD, I BRING. 55th ed. 3d.

*POPULAR CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

343rd 1,000. Price 1d. each. Nos. 49 to 54 just published.

*1. CAROL SWEETLY.
*2. O LOVELY STAR.
*3. WHAT SAY THESE BELLS?
*4. COME, HAIL THE DAY.
*5. GOOD NEWS WE BRING.
*6. SWEETEST MUSIC.
*7. AWAKE, AWAKE.
*8. O SO SWEETLY.
*9. HAPPY MORNING.
*10. SWEET ANGELS, EVER BRIGHT.
*11. OH, CHRISTMAS BELLS.
*12. BETHLEHEM'S PEACEFUL HILL.
*13. SWEET CHRISTMAS DAY.
*14. RING, BELLS, RING.
*15. FAIR EDEN'S GATES.
*16. SONGS OF RAPTURE.
*17. ALL HAIL! WE SING.
*18. SILVERY STARS.
*19. GLAD HEAVEN REJOICES.
*20. GOLD, FRANKINCENSE, &C.
*21. SEE THE JOYFUL DAY.
*22. THE ANGEL'S SONG OF LOVE.
*23. NIGHT OF GLORY.
*24. JESUS, THE LORD, IS BORN.
*25. ANGELIC VOICES.
*26. THE ROYAL CHILD.
*27. SWEETLY CHIMING BELLS.
*28. WELCOME, CHRISTMAS MORN.
*29. RING OUT, O BELLS.
*30. GLORY TO GOD ON HIGH.
*31. O BETHLEHEM FAIR.
*32. EMMANUEL! SWEET NAME.
*33. SING WE GLORY.
*34. HARP, AWAKE.
*35. COME YE TO BETHLEHEM.
*36. ANGELS BRIGHT.
*37. REJOICE WITH ALLELUIAS.
*38. THE WONDROUS STORY.
*39. LOUD HOSANNAS.
*40. THE CHILD OF PEACE.
*41. ON CHRISTMAS DAY.
*42. THE STARRY PORTALS.
*43. ANGELS WERE SINGING.
*44. RING ON, O BELLS.
*45. THE HYMN OF CHRISTMAS.
*46. THE LIGHT OF HOPE.
*47. GOOD NEWS FROM HEAVEN.
*48. HARK! FROM THE SKIES.
*49. LO! ON BETHLEHEM'S PLAINS.
*50. A SOUND OF MERRY PEALS.
*51. SWEET CAROLS RAISE.
*52. PEACE! PEACE! ON EARTH.
*53. HE IS OUR EMMANUEL.
*54. SING! FOR CHRIST IS BORN.

Also Carols Nos. 1 to 48 may be had in Two Books (24 in each), 1s. each Book; also, in One Bound Volume, 3s. 6d.

VERY POPULAR VOLUNTARY BOOKS.

Each contains Seventeen Pieces, including a capital March. On Two Staves for Organ, American Organ, or Harmonium. Book 1, 9th edit.; Book 2, 6th edit.; Book 3 (new), 4th edit. Price 1s. 6d. net each Book.

London: WEEKES AND CO., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY CO., 220, Wabash Avenue.

A BEAUTIFUL LITTLE ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS.

THE PRINCE OF PEACE.

COMPOSED BY

EDWYN A. CLARE.

9th 1,000. Price 3d.

Also the following favourite Anthems by the same Composer. Easy, attractive, and effective:—

WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR. 9th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
A SAVIOUR, CHRIST THE LORD. 5th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
BEHOLD, I BRING. 12th 1,000. SING, O HEAVENS. 9th 1,000. Each 3d.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in D. 12th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
(Sung at a Choral Fest. in New S. Wales. A favourite Service.)
PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 23rd 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
(Quite easy, yet very attractive. Suitable for "Peace" Services.)
THE LORD REIGNETH. 6th 1,000. (Sol-fa, 2d.) .. .. .. 3d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

A SERIES OF ORGAN PIECES

By JOHN E. CAMPBELL.

The 7 Pieces forming the series will soon be published in one complete set. Subscription for same (5s.), to be sent to the COMPOSER, at 4, Oakley, Claverton Down, Bath, at once. A subscribers' list will appear in each copy.

WINCHESTER'S Anthems and Services FOR CHRISTMAS.

ANTHEM—"Let us now go even unto Bethlehem" .. .. 3d.
ANTHEM—"There were shepherds" .. .. 3d.
TE DEUM. Service in F (No. 25 of Series) .. .. .. 3d.
TE DEUM. Five Easy Settings (Nos. 3, 4, 32, 36, and 46) each 2d.
BENEDICITE. Three Settings (Nos. 8, 35, and 42) .. each 2d.
BENEDICTUS. No. 9, in F, 2d.; also, No. 10, in G .. .. 1½d.
JUBILATE. Service in F .. .. 1½d.
COMMUNION SERVICE in F (No. 44) .. .. 4d.
KYRIE ELEISON (Two Settings). DOXOLOGIES and NICENE CREED (No. 49) .. .. 2d.
AGNUS DEI (No. 27) .. .. 1½d.
BENEDICTUS QUI VENIT (No. 28) .. .. 1½d.
OFFERTORY SENTENCES (Ten Settings) .. .. .. 3d.
OFFERTORY ANTHEM—"Be merciful" .. .. .. 1½d.
TALLIS'S FESTIVAL RESPONSES .. .. 1½d.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. Service in F.. .. 3d.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. Service in G.. .. 3d.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. In B flat (No. 17) .. 3d.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. In A (No. 48) .. 3d.

ORGAN MUSIC.

Grand Festival March, 1s. 6d. Three Soft Voluntaries, 1s.
Ten Original Compositions, 4s.

BOUND VOLUME OF
WINCHESTER'S CHURCH-MUSIC SERIES.
Nos. 1 to 50, bound in cloth, gilt, 4s.

London: HART AND CO., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

TWO NEW CAROLS.

CLEAR AND COLD THE STARS WERE SHINING

AWAKE! AWAKE! 'TIS CHRISTMAS-TIME

By H. ERNEST NICHOL, Mus. Bac., Oxon.
Price 2d. each; 1s. 6d. per doz.; words, 1s. per 100.
Specimen copies sent, gratis and Post-free, to any Choirmaster, from the COMPOSER, 4A, Baker Street, Hull.

THERE WERE SHEPHERDS.—SYDENHAM'S POPULAR CHRISTMAS ANTHEM. Price Threepence; Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.
"An effective, bright, melodious composition."—Church Review.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COLLECTION OF OLD ENGLISH CHRISTMAS CAROLS, as sung at Hereford Cathedral. By W. D. V. DUNCOMBE. Collection, complete, 1s.; separate Numbers, 1d.
London: WEEKES AND CO., 14, Hanover Street, W.

CHRISTMAS BELLS. Words by M. J. C. Music by A. E. HUTCHINGS. A pretty and suitable Carol for Children. Key, C. 6d. per copy. Refrain: "Merrily ring while children sing. For unto us is born a King." Published by A. E. HUTCHINGS, 177, Kettering Road, Northampton, where copies may be obtained.

A NEW CHRISTMAS CANTATA.

THE ANGEL'S MESSAGE. By E. VINE HALL. Suitable for Christmas Concerts; bright and easy. Price 1s. A specimen copy sent post-free for seven stamps. C. EVANS and Co., High Street, Bromsgrove.

RING THE JOYFUL CHRISTMAS BELLS. Carol. For Sopranos and Chorus. By F. PESKETT. Price 2d. "Dame Durden." Humorous Part-Song. Arranged for S.A.T.B. By H. TOWNSEND. Price 2d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Sixth Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat. By WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME. Popular Negro Melody, with vocally-imitated Banjo Accompaniment. Arranged for T.T.B.B. (Tenor Solo), by T. B. BLACKSHAW. Eleventh Edition. Price 2d. London: WEEKES AND CO., 14, Hanover Street, W.

TWENTY-FOUR

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

BY

FRANK ADLAM.

PRICE ONE PENNY EACH NO.
Words only, 4s. 6d. per 100.

"The melodies of all these carols are taking, and the harmonies faultless. In these little pieces of music Mr. Adlam's good points are many. He has contrived to find out the great secret of accent, and, as a consequence, has avoided the most glaring fault of modern times—the turning his mother-tongue into nonsense. It gives us much pleasure to recommend these carols. In several Nos. Mr. Adlam is his own poet, and a very good one too."—Church Review.

"These compositions are charmingly quaint and graceful, and all possess the true spirit and character of the carol."

"The carols are among the prettiest and most attractive we have met with. . . . Cannot fail to delight."

Several of these Carols will be found suitable for out-door singing.

SEND 3D. FOR TWELVE SPECIMENS.

London: HART AND CO., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

THE BABE OF BETHLEHEM.

A Short and Easy CAROL-CANTATA for Christmas and Epiphany.

THE WORDS SELECTED AND THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

FRANK ADLAM.

SYNOPSIS: Part I.—1. ORGAN INTRODUCTION—"Midnight at Bethlehem" (Pastorale). 2. CAROL—"Come, hear a song." 3. RECIT. AND AIR (Tenor and Soprano)—"There were shepherds." 4. CAROL—"While shepherds watched." 5. RECIT. (Tenor and Chorus)—"And suddenly." 6. CAROL—"Hark! the Herald-Angels sing." 7. RECIT. (Tenor and Chorus)—"And it came to pass." 8. CAROL—"O shepherds, whither wend ye?" 9. RECIT. (Tenor)—"And they came with haste." 10. DUET Tenor and Bass)—"Song of the shepherds."

Part II.—11 ORGAN INTERMEZZO—"The Manger Cradle" (Judæan Lullaby). 12. CAROL—"Angels bright, their pinions olding." 13. RECIT. (Baritone)—"Now when Jesus was born." 14. CAROL—"Brightest and best of the sons." 15. AIR (Soprano)—"O may we keep." 16. CAROL—"O that Birth for ever blessed."

Octavo Edition (Words and Music) .. .. Price One Shilling.
Words only .. .. Price 6s. per 100.
The Carols with Music (printed separately) .. Price 1d. each.

With a view to bringing the use of Carols into closer connection with the service of the Church. Mr. ADLAM has produced his Carol-Cantata, in which the story of the Nativity is interspersed with Carols—enlarging upon and descriptive of the Bible narrative. The music has purposely been made simple and easy, as seems necessary in a work of this kind; and, given the assistance of two or three soloists, the Cantata can be rendered by any choir capable of singing ordinary hymn tunes. Short addresses or readings may be introduced into the work if required; and if there be added a few prayers, and possibly one or two appropriate hymns or carols, it could be expanded into a complete Service of Song. Where it is not possible to obtain soloists, the recitatives may be recited by a reader, and the carols sung alone. Several of the carols will be found suitable for out-door singing.

SPECIMEN COPY SENT FOR THREEPENCE.

London: HART AND CO., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

T. MEE PATTISON.

	Staff. s. d.	Sol-fa. s. d.
CANTATAS.
The Ancient Mariner	2 6	0 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
May Day	1 0	0 6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1 0	0 6
ANTHEMS, &c.
All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0 3	0 1
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0 2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0 3
There were shepherds (Christmas)	0 2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4
Six Kyries	0 2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0 3
ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.
Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries		3 6
Five Concluding Voluntaries		1 6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

5s. net.

RIVAL POETS. An Operetta, in Two Acts, with Six Solo Parts. Written by HERBERT SCOTT and composed by EDWARD GERMAN.
For further particulars, apply to the Publishers, BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent Street, London.

NEW MUSIC.

METZLER'S CHRISTMAS LIST.

THANKSGIVING FOR VICTORY. Choral Song.
FRANCES ALLITSEN.
Performed with great success at the Royal Albert Hall.
Octavo. Price 6d.

UPON THE SNOW-CLAD EARTH.
ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
Carol for Christmastide. 3d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

CHRISTMASSE OF OLDE.
GEORGE C. MARTIN.
Carol and Chorus. 2d.

BETHLEHEM. CH. GOUNOD.
The Shepherds' Nativity Hymn.
Chorus with Pastoral Symphonies, 2s. net; Octavo, 3d.; as a Song, 2s. net; Organ Solo, 1s. 6d. net; Piano Solo, 1s. 3d. net; Piano Duet, 1s. 6d. net; Orchestral Parts, 5s. net; Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.; words only, 2s. per 100.

SEVEN CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS.
J. L. HATTON.
Complete, 1s. net.

CHRISTMAS MORN. CH. GOUNOD.
Song, with Violin and Organ Obbligato. 2s. net.

THE BABE OF BETHLEHEM.
BENJAMIN GODARD.
Vocal Duet, 2s. net.

SEND OUT THY LIGHT. CH. GOUNOD.
Anthem. 6d. net. Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.

THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN.
Anthem in "Quo Vadis." Written by WILSON BARRETT; composed by JOHN CROOK. Octavo, 6d. net; as a Song, 2s. net; Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

SHEPHERD OF SOULS. EDWARD JONES.
From "The Sign of the Cross." Written by WILSON BARRETT. Octavo, 6d.; as a Song, 2s. net; Piano Solo, 2s. net; Organ, 2s. net; Violin or Violoncello and Piano, 2s. net; Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

CRAMER'S CHRISTMAS CAROLS. New and Old.
Twenty-seven Carols, complete, 1s. net.

CRADLED SO LOWLY. F. L. MOIR.
Christmas Song. 2s. net.

CHRISTMAS BELLS. J. M. COWARD.
Song. Written by HENRY ROSE. Sung by Mr. Norman Salmond and Mr. Leo Stormont. 2s. net. Choral Edition, 3d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.; words only, 1s. per 100.

THE AMERICAN ORGAN JOURNAL.
Edited by J. M. COWARD.
Thirty-one Numbers published, 1s. 6d. each net. Vols. 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5, bound in red cloth, gilt, 5s. each net.

LITTLE SONGS FOR LITTLE VOICES.
A. SCOTT-GATTY.
Books 1, 2, and 3, price 2s. 6d. each net; or, bound in cloth, gilt, 4s. each net.

PLEASE SING ME A SONG. R. B. ADDISON.
Album of Songs for Children. 2s. 6d. net; or, bound in cloth, gilt, 4s. net.

NURSERY RHYMES AND COUNTRY SONGS.
M. H. MASON.
Illustrated. 3s. net; or, bound in cloth, gilt, 5s. net.

METZLER'S RED ALBUMS. Vocal and Instrumental.
Thirty-one Numbers published. 1s. each net.

TOY SYMPHONIES FOR CHILDREN.
By ROMBERG, HAYDN, and DESMOND RYAN.
Complete Scores, Pianoforte, String, and Toy Parts. (Toy Instruments, carefully tuned and regulated, 30s. and 33s. 9d. net per set.) List on application.

METZLER AND CO.,

40 to 43, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, LONDON.

NOVELLO'S CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

BRAMLEY, Rev. H. R. and STAINER, JOHN } Christmas Carols, New and Old.

FIRST SERIES. One Penny each.

1. God rest you merry, gentlemen ... ... Traditional.
2. The Manger Throne ... ... C. Steggall.
3. A Virgin unspotted ... ... Traditional.
4. Come, ye lofty ... ... Elvey.
5. Come, tune your hearts... ... ... Ouseley.
6. The First Nowell ... ... Traditional.
7. Jesu, hail ... . J. Stainer.
8. Good Christian men ... ... Old German.
9. Sleep, holy Babe... ... ... Dykes.
10. Good King Wenceslas ... ... Traditional.
11. When I view the Mother ... ... J. Barnby.
12. The seven joys of Mary ... ... Traditional.
13. On the Birthday of the Lord ... ... Dykes.
14. What Child is this? ... ... Old English.
15. Glorious, beauteous, golden-bright ... ... Maria Tiddeman.
16. Waken! Christian Children } 1d. ... ... S. C. Hammerton.
17. A Child this day is born } ... ... Traditional.
18. Carol for Christmas Eve ... ... Ouseley.
19. When Christ was born ... ... A. H. Brown.
20. Christmas Morning Hymn ... ... J. Barnby.

Tonic Sol-fa, complete, 1s.; separate numbers, 1d. each.

SECOND SERIES. One Penny each.

*21. Carol for Christmas Eve ... ... Traditional.
22. Jesus in the Manger ... ... H. Smart.
*23. The Holly and the Ivy } 1d. ... ... Old French.
24. The Moon shines bright } ... ... Traditional.
*25. The Virgin and Child ... ... C. Steggall.
26. The Incarnation ... ... Traditional.
*27. Christmas Day ... ... J. Stainer.
28. The Cherry-Tree Carol ... ... Traditional.
29. God's dear Son ... ... Traditional.
*30. Christmas Hymn ... ... Goss.
31. The Babe of Bethlehem ... ... Traditional.
32. In Bethlehem, that noble place ... ... Ouseley.
*33. A Cradle Song of the Blessed Virgin ... ... J. Barnby.
34. Christmas Song ... ... Dykes.
35. Jacob's Ladder ... ... Traditional.
36. The Story of the Shepherd ... ... J. Barnby.
*37. The Wassail Song ... ... Traditional.
*38. In terrâ pax ... ... Dykes.
39. Dives and Lazarus ... ... Traditional.
*40. From far away ... ... Dykes.
*41. Carol for Christmas Day ... ... A. Sullivan.
42. The Child Jesus in the Garden ... ... J. Stainer.

THIRD SERIES. One Penny each.

43. What soul-inspiring music ... ... Har. by J. S.
44. In the country nigh to Bethlehem ... ... G. Hine.
45. We three Kings of Orient are... ... ... Har. by J. S.
46. Emmanuel, God with us ... ... H. Gadsby.
47. New Prince, new pomp } 1d. ... ... C. Steggall.
48. A Babe is born } ... ... Har. by J. S.
49. Come let us all sweet Carols sing ... ... F. Champneys.
50. Let music break on this blest morn ... ... J. B. Calkin.
51. Carol for New Year's Day ... ... A. H. Brown.
52. The Angel Gabriel ... ... Har. by J. S.
53. The Shepherds amazed... ... ... A. H. Brown.
54. Noel! Noel! ... ... Har. by J. S.
55. I sing the birth ... ... G. C. Martin.
56. Christmas Night ... ... A. H. Brown.
57. The Christmas Celebration ... ... E. Prout.
58. Arise and hail the Sacred Day ... ... A. H. Brown.
59. The Holy Well ... ... Har. by J. S.
60. The Angel and the Shepherds ... ... E. H. Thorne.
61. The Coventry Carol ... ... Har. by J. S.
62. The Morning Star ... ... J. F. Bridge.
63. The Shepherds went their hasty way ... ... J. F. Barnett.
64. I saw three ships... ... ... Har. by J. S.
65. Mountains, bow your heads ... ... W. H. Cummings.
66. Luther's Carol ... ... J. Higgs.
67. The Boy's Dream .. .. W. H. Monk.
68. Legends of the Infancy... ... ... J. F. Bridge.
69. Let Christians all (The Black Decree) } 1d. ... Traditional.
70. Immortal Babe (for Christmas Day) }

	s.	d.
The above 70 Carols, complete, cloth, gilt ...	4	0
Library Edition, with Historical Preface, Roxburgh binding	7	6
Illustrated Edition, 1st and 2nd Series	7	6
Three Series (cloth, gilt, 2s.) ... ... each	1	0
Words only, complete (cloth, 6d.)...	0	4
Words, each Series	0	1½

HELMORE, Rev. T. and NEALE, Rev. J. M. } Carols for Christmastide. Set to Ancient Melodies. One Penny each.

71. Here is joy for every age.
72. Earthly friends will change.
73. Gabriel's message.
74. Christ was born on Christmas Day.
75. Earth to-day rejoices.
76. Good Christian men, rejoice.
77. From church to church.
78. In the ending of the year.
79. Royal day that chasest gloom.
80. O'er the hill and o'er the vale.
81. Good King Wenceslas.
82. Toll! toll! because there ends.

	s.	d.
The above 12 Carols, complete	1	0
Folio, with pianoforte accompaniment	4	6
Treble part	0	6
Words only	0	1½

WENSLEY, SHAPCOTT.—Twelve new Carols for Christmastide. Three-Halfpence each.

83. O holy star ... ... J. Stainer.
84. The shepherds ... ... Eaton Faning.
85. Hymn of the angels ... ... G. M. Garrett.
*86. The anthem of peace ... ... J. Barnby.
87. The Desert ... ... Emma Mundella.
88. Bethlehem ... ...Myles B. Foster.
89. Daybreak .. .. Berthold Tours.
90. In the manger ... ...J. Barnby.
91. The Mother and Child... ... ... Myles B. Foster.
92. Christ is born ... ... J. F. Bridge.
93. Christmas Day ... ... Battison Haynes.
94. Sweet Christmas Bells ... ... J. Stainer.

Complete, 1s. Tonic Sol-fa, 8d. Words only, 2d.

TEN CHRISTMAS CAROLS. Three-Halfpence each.

95. Now join we all with holy mirth ... ... J. Stainer.
96. Softly the night... ... ... J. M. Crament.
97. Sleep, Holy Babe ... ... J. T. Field.
98. Now dies in David's City ... ... J. Swire.
99. There dwelt in Old Judea ... ... R. Jackson.
100. Good people, give ear ... ... J. Swire.
101. Carol for Christmas Day ... ... J. T. Field.
102. Ye stars of night ... ... J. Swire.
103. Ring out, ye bells ... ... J. H. Wallis.
104. Two thousand troubled years ... ... J. F. Bridge.

Complete, 1s. Tonic Sol-fa, 8d. Words only, 2d.

STAINER, JOHN (Adapted and arranged by).—Twelve Old Carols. One Penny each.

*105. Shepherds! shake off your drowsy sleep.
106. Come, shepherds, come! shake off your sleep.
107. Now sing we all full sweetly.
108. The good men all of Chastres.
109. Whence comes this rush of wings afar?
110. { Come with us, sweet flowers, and worship. / Infant so gentle, so pure, and so sweet! } 1d.
111. O Night, peaceful and blest!
112. Of the Father's love begotten.
113. We saw a light shine out afar.
114. Christmas hath made an end.
115. Now farewell, good Christmas.

Complete, 1s. Tonic Sol-fa, 6d. Words only, 1d.

MARTIN, G. C. (Harmonised by). — Christmastide Carols. One Penny each.

PART I. (Old Breton Melodies).

116. Hail! Christmas Bells.
117. { O'er her Child the Virgin weeps. / The stars are bright. } 1d.
118. On this day was born.
119. Glad hymns, with one accord.
120. Outside the city gates.
121. On Asia Minor's sunny shore.
*122. Across the desert sands by night.

Complete, 6d. Words only, 1d.

PART II. (Old French Melodies).

123. The Shepherds glad.
124. Merrily ring the Christmas bells.
125. The sombre shadows darker fall.
126. Poising bright on golden wing.
127. Round the Virgin gently sleeping.
128. The Circumcision.
129. In the golden lands afar.
130. A Legend of the Flight.

Complete, 6d. Words only, 1d.

 The Carols marked thus * may be had in Tonic Sol-fa.

Novello's Christmas Carols—continued.

Bramley, Rev. H. R. } Christmas Carols, New and Old.
Stainer, John } Arranged for Men's Voices.

Three-Halfpence each.

131. A Virgin unspotted ... ... Traditional.
132. The Manger Throne ... ... C. Steggall.
133. Sleep, Holy Babe ... ... Dykes.
134. Good Christian men, rejoice ... ... Old German.
135. 'Twas in the winter cold ... ... J. Barnby.
136. Good King Wenceslas... ... ... Helmore's Carols.
137. Come! ye lofty ... ... Elvey.
138. God rest you merry, gentlemen ... ... Traditional.
139. Listen, Lordings ... ... Ouseley.
140. The First Nowell ... ... Traditional.
141. When Christ was born ... ... Arthur H. Brown.
142. Jesu, hail! O God most holy ... ... J. Stainer.
143. The seven joys of Mary ... ... Traditional.
144. What Child is this? ... ... Old English.
145. The Waits' Song (The moon shines bright) ... Traditional.
146. The Virgin and Child ... ... C. Steggall.
147. The Holly and Ivy ... ... Old French.
148. The Lord at first ... ... Traditional.
149. The Incarnation ... ... Traditional.
150. The Cherry-Tree Carol ... ... Traditional.
151. A Cradle-song of the Blessed Virgin ... ... J. Barnby.
152. Jacob's Ladder ... ... Traditional.
153. Dives and Lazarus ... ... Traditional.
154. The Wassail Song ... ... Traditional.

Complete, 2s. Words only, 2d.

Bramley, Rev. H. R. } Christmas Carols, New and Old.
Stainer, John } Arranged for Two-part Singing by W. G. McNaught.

Three-Halfpence each.

155. Good King Wenceslas.
156. Good Christian men, rejoice.
157. Christmas hath made an end.
158. God rest you merry, gentlemen.
159. The First Nowell.
160. A Virgin unspotted.
161. The Wassail Song.
162. { I hear along our street. / The Boar's Head Carol. } 1½d.
163. The seven joys of Mary.
164. Hark! how sweetly the bells.
165. The Holly and the Ivy.

Complete, 1s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 6d. Words only, 1½d.

Fox, George—Carols for Christmastide. Set to Music for Little Singers.

Three-Halfpence each.

166. Good King Wenceslas.
167. I hear along our street.
168. Brightly shone the Eastern star.
169. As Joseph was a-walking.
170. Hark! what mean those holy voices.
171. The Holy Well.
172. While Shepherds watched.
173. God rest you merry, gentlemen.
174. Hark! how sweetly the bells.
175. A little robin.
176. As I sat on a sunny bank.
177. Why in tones so sweet and tender.
178. { The moon shone bright. / All you that in this house. } 1½d.
179. Clearly in the East it shone.
180. { Shepherds at the Grange. / These good people. } 1½d.
181. { Nuns in frigid cells. / Washerwomen old. } 1½d.
182. The Holly and the Ivy.
183. { How grand and how bright. / Hosanna to the living Lord. } 1½d.
184. { Lo! a heavenly form appearing. / The Boar's Head Carol. / In excelsis gloria. } 1½d.

Complete, 2s. 6d.

Legge, Robin H.—Twelve New Christmas Carols. For Unison Singing. Words by E. A. Alston.

Three-Halfpence each.

185. Praeludium.
186. The Midnight Masse.
187. The bells of Christmas.
188. Pastor Bonus.
189. Rejoice! Christen men.
190. A Children's Carol.
191. Caraula Pastorum.
192. Wassail Song.
193. Kings of Orient.
194. Good Christians all.
195. Cometh the day.
196. Ye Angelus Bell.

Complete, 1s. Tonic Sol-fa, 8d. Words only, 2d.

---

*197. { The Anthem of Peace (O sweet the enchanting anthem) ... ...J. Barnby. / On Christmas Morn ... ... A. C. Mackenzie. / Across the desert sands by night ... G. C. Martin. / Shepherds! shake off your drowsy sleep ... J. Stainer. } 1½d.
(Words only, 3s. per 100.)

*198. { O Babe! in manger lying ... ... / The Virgin is hushing ... ... / What Child is this? ... ... / Darkness fell on the weary earth ... } ... J. Barnby. 1½d. Words only, 3s. per 100.)

199. Holy night! peaceful night! ... ...J. Barnby. 2d.
200. In excelsis gloria ... ... J. M. Crament. 1½d.
201. When Christ was born ... ... J. T. Field. 1½d.
202. What Child is this? ... ... J. T. Field. 1½d.
203. { There were whisperings ... ... J. T. Cooper. / Shades of silent night ... ... S. Gee. } 1½d.
*204. The Legend of Good Saint Christopher... F. J. Sawyer. 1½d.
205. I hear along our street ... ... E. Silas. 4d.
*206. In dulci Jubilo ... ... Pearsall. 3d.
207. Caput apri defero ... ... Pearsall. 3d.
*208. Holly berries ... ... Westbrook. 1½d.
209. A New Year's Carol ... ... J. Shaw. 1½d.
210. { There was silence (Unison) ... ...J. Stainer. / The star in the East (Unison) ... ... H. Leslie. } 1½d.
211. A Christmas Carol (Two Parts) ... ... C. Reinecke. 2d.
212. Glad Christmastide ... ...J. Barnby. 1½d.
213. All things were in silence ... ...J. Barnby. 1½d.
214. This is the month ... ... Hugh Blair. 1½d.
215. How peaceful was the night ... ... Hugh Blair. 1½d
216. There came a little child ... ... R. Jackson. 1½d.
217. As with gladness ... ... C. V. Stanford. 1½d.
218. One night as I was sleeping ... ... J. Swire. 1½d.
219. The Golden Crown ... ... J. Stainer. 1½d.
220. Joy fills our inmost heart ... ... A. C. Mackenzie. 1½d.
221. Who is this that lies all lowly ... ...Myles B. Foster. 1½d.
222. See, the Morning Star ... ... E. G. Monk. 1d.
223. Carol, carol, Christians ... ... Victoria Grosvenor. 1½d.
*224. On Christmas Morn ... ... A. C. Mackenzie. 1d.
225. In the ages past ... ... F. A. J. Hervey. 1½d
226. We sing a song of gladness... ... ... J. Swire. 1½d.
227. The morn, the blessed morn is nigh Victoria Grosvenor. 3d.
228. Carol, carol, Christians ... ... Mrs. J. W. Bliss. 3d.
229. O was not Christ our Saviour? ... ... J. Shaw. 1½d.
230. Carol, Christian children ... ... A. Moffat. 1½d.
*231. There was silence in Bethlehem's fields (S.A.T.B.) J. Stainer. 1½d.
232. Come, all ye Christian men, rejoice Hamilton Clarke. 1½d.
233. Shepherds in the fields abiding ... Hamilton Clarke. 1½d.
234. Come and sing the wondrous story J. Varley Roberts. 1½d.
235. The Christmas bells ring loud and clear J. Varley Roberts. 1½d.
236. Bethlehem ... ... J. Varley Roberts. 1½d.
237. The birth ever new ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
238. The old news ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
239. Christmas Eve ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
240. The Christmas vision ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
241. The Shepherds' Carol... ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
242. Mary's Cradle Song ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
243. The Angels' Carol ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
244. Children's Chorus ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
245. The Holy Quest ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
246. The Five Kings ... ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
247. Praise we now the Holy light ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
248. Nazareth town in slumber lay ... Robin H. Legge. 1½d.
249. An ode on the birth of our Saviour ... C. H. Lloyd. 1½d.
250. See, the morning star is dwelling ... A. Herbert Brewer. 1½d.
251. Christ was born on Christmas Day A. Herbert Brewer. 1½d.
252. Christmas Morn ... ... H. C. Havergal. 2d.
253. The Kings of the East... ... ... H. C. Havergal. 2d.
254. The Star ... ... H. C. Havergal. 2d
255. The Angels' song ... ... H. C. Havergal. 2d.
256. The Holy birth ... ... H. C. Havergal. 2d.
257. The Humiliation ... ... H. C. Havergal. 2d.
258. Rejoice, O daughter ... ...C. Macpherson. 1½d.
259. The Virgin and Child (This winter's night) C. Macpherson. 1½d.
260. The Annunciation ... ... J. Barnby. 1½d.
261. The Message to the Shepherds ... ... J. Barnby. 1½d.
262. Cradle Song of the Blessed Virgin... ... J. Barnby. 1½d.
263. Gloria in excelsis ... ... J. Barnby. 1½d.
264. Sing the Holy Child-Christ... ... Myles B. Foster. 1½d.
*265. Sleep, baby, sleep ... ... Thos. Adams. 1½d.
266. Noël ... ...A. M. Goodhart. 1½d.
267. What sudden blaze of song... ... Cuthbert Harris. 1d.
268. What sudden blaze of song ... ... J. F. Bridge. 1d.
269. Shepherds, leave your flocks ... ... J. V. Roberts. 1d.
270. Heavenly music, clearly ringing ... ... J. V. Roberts. 1d.
271. Silent night, holiest night ... ... J. V. Roberts. 1d.
272. Angels singing ... ...J. H. Mee. 1d.
273. Little children ... ...J. H. Mee. 1d.
274. Blessed Babe ... ... H. W. Wareing. 1d.
275. Ring the bells ... ... J. Barnby. 1½d.
*276. Sweeter than songs of summer ... ... J. F. Bridge. 2d.
277. The night in solemn stillness hung ... J. G Smith 1½d.
278. The Son of Mary, Christ the King ... Thomas Adams. 1d.
279. Hark! all around ... ... W. A. C. Cruickshank. 1d.
280. It is the day ... ... W. A. C. Cruickshank. 1d.
281. Mortals, awake ... ... W. A. C. Cruickshank. 1½d.
282. In the fields with their flocks abiding ... ...J. E. West. 1½d.
283. It came upon the midnight clear ... ...Battison Haynes. 1d.
284. Royal Bethlehem ... ... W. Montgomery. 1½d.
285. I hear along our street ...Arranged by S. H. Nicholson. 1d.
286. The Child Jesus in the Garden (2nd setting) J. Stainer. 1d.
287. The Prince of Peace ... ... A. Herbert Brewer. 1d.

Just Published.

288. Remember God's goodnesse ... Ravenscroft-Bridge. 1½d.
289. Christmas Tree Carol ... ... H. Davan Wetton. 1d.
290. Christmas morn ... ... Thomas Adams. 1d.
291. Child Divine ... ... Thomas Adams. 1d.
292. A Christmas Song ... ... Thomas Adams. 1d.
293. A lowly Babe ... ... Alfred Hollins. 1½d.
294. The Blessed Virgin ... ... E. C. Bairstow. 1½d.

 The Carols marked thus * may be had in Tonic Sol-fa.

NOVELLO'S ANTHEM BOOK

A COLLECTION OF POPULAR ANTHEMS

FOR

FESTIVAL AND GENERAL USE THROUGHOUT THE YEAR.

Each book of this series contains twelve anthems: some for Festival occasions—e.g., Christmas, Easter, Harvest—and others which may be used at any time. Great care has been taken in making the selections, in order that suitable variety may be secured and practical needs supplied.

It is therefore anticipated that in churches where an elaborate musical service is not possible, this publication will find acceptance. In such cases the advantage of having, in one book, twelve standard anthems which more than cover the requirements of the Church's year is obvious.

Book 1.

Advent	O King and Desire of all Nations	Stainer.
Christmas	Arise, shine, for thy light is come	Elvey.
Lent	Lord, for Thy tender mercies' sake	Farrant.
,,	Enter not into judgment	Attwood.
,,	O ye that love the Lord	Coleridge-Taylor.
Easter	O give thanks	Goss.
Whitsuntide	Come, Holy Ghost	Attwood.
Harvest	The Lord is loving unto every man	Garrett.
General	O love the Lord	Sullivan.
,,	The day Thou gavest, Lord, is ended	Woodward.
,,	Blessed are they that dwell in Thy house	Tours.
,,	Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace	Lee Williams.

Book 2.

Advent	Hosanna in the Highest	Stainer.
Christmas	Sing and rejoice	Barnby.
Lent	O Saviour of the World	Goss.
,,	Teach me, O Lord	Attwood.
,,	Jesu, Word of God Incarnate	Gounod.
Easter	Christ is risen	Elvey.
Harvest	Great is the Lord	Steane.
General	What are these?	Stainer.
,,	O how amiable	West.
,,	O taste and see	Sullivan.
,,	The Lord is my Shepherd	Macfarren.
,,	God that madest earth and heaven	Fisher.

Book 3.

Advent	Far from their home	Woodward.
Christmas	Four Christmas Carols	Various.
Lent	Turn Thy Face from my sins	Sullivan.
,,	O Lord, my God	Wesley.
,,	Jesu, Word of God Incarnate	Mozart.
Easter	Break forth into joy	Barnby.
Harvest	O Lord, how manifold	Barnby.
General	Seek ye the Lord	Roberts.
,,	I was glad	Elvey.
,,	The radiant morn	Woodward.
,,	O praise God in His holiness	Weldon.
,,	Doth not wisdom cry	Haking.

Book 4.

Advent	Arise, O Jerusalem	King.
Christmas	Let us now go even unto Bethlehem	Hopkins.
Lent	In Thee, O Lord	Tours.
,,	Comfort, O Lord, the soul of Thy servant	Crotch, arr. by Goss.
,,	God so loved the world	Stainer.
Easter	Christ our Passover	Goss.
Whitsuntide	Praised be the Lord daily	Calkin.
Harvest	Ye shall dwell in the land	Stainer.
General	O how amiable are Thy dwellings	Barnby.
,,	O taste and see how gracious the Lord is	Goss.
,,	Thine, O Lord, is the greatness	Kent.
,,	O give thanks unto the Lord	Elvey.

Book 5.

Advent	The Great Day of the Lord	Martin.
Christmas	It came upon the midnight clear	Stainer.
Lent	Incline Thine ear	Himmel.
,,	Lead me, Lord	Wesley.
,,	Rend your heart	Calkin.
Easter	Awake up, my glory	Barnby.
Whitsuntide	O for a closer walk with God	Foster.
Harvest	The eyes of all wait on Thee, O Lord	Elvey.
General	I am Alpha and Omega	Stainer.
,,	O how amiable are Thy dwellings	Richardson.
,,	Blessed are the merciful	Hiles.
,,	I will sing of Thy power, O God	Sullivan.

Book 6.

Advent	Hearken unto Me, My people	Sullivan.
Christmas	O Zion, that bringest good tidings	Stainer.
Lent	Turn Thy Face from my sins	Attwood.
,,	O Saving Victim, slain for us!	Stainer.
,,	There is a green hill far away	Gounod.
Easter	Now is Christ risen from the dead	West.
Whitsuntide.	O Holy Ghost, into our minds	Macfarren.
Harvest	Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	Maunder.
General	Sweet is Thy mercy, Lord	Barnby.
,,	I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills	Clarke-Whitfeld.
,,	Rejoice in the Lord, O ye righteous	Elvey.
,,	I will alway give thanks unto the Lord	Calkin.

(To be continued.)

ONE SHILLING EACH BOOK.

Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence each Book.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited

AND

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS.

Just Published.

CROWN HIM THE VIRGIN'S SON

COMPOSED BY

B. LUARD SELBY.

Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

THERE SHALL COME A STAR

COMPOSED BY

CUTHBERT HARRIS.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

COME, YE LOFTY

COMPOSED BY

H. ELLIOT BUTTON.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

CALM ON THE LIST'NING EAR OF NIGHT

COMPOSED BY

HORATIO W. PARKER.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

HARK THE GLAD SOUND

COMPOSED BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE ANGEL SAID UNTO THEM

COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR HENRY BROWN.

(Two-part Anthem—Soprano and Bass.)

Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

Recently Published.

IT CAME UPON THE MIDNIGHT CLEAR

COMPOSED BY

JOHN STAINER.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

BEHOLD THE NAME OF THE LORD COMETH FROM AFAR

COMPOSED BY

PERCY PITT.

Price Fourpence.

THE WORD IS MADE INCARNATE

CAROL-ANTHEM

COMPOSED BY

THOMAS ADAMS.

Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

SEE, AMID THE WINTER'S SNOW

CAROL-ANTHEM

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

REV. E. CASWALL, M.A.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.
Ditto, with Welsh words, Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

Laid out after the model of "The Story of the Cross."

THE STORY OF THE ADVENT OF JESUS

WRITTEN BY

E. W. LEACHMAN

SET TO MUSIC BY

J. STAINER.

Price Twopence; Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.
Words only, 3s. per 100.

PART I. The advent of Jesus before His Incarnation.—To create and to illuminate mankind.
PART II. The advent of Jesus at His Incarnation.—To save and to elevate mankind.
PART III. The advent of Jesus since His Incarnation.—To attract and to nourish mankind.
PART IV. The advent of Jesus to receive the Fruits of His Incarnation.—To Judge and to claim mankind.

N.B.—The Incarnation of Jesus means His taking upon Him our flesh, and being born as Man on Christmas Day.
This "Story" is told in the order above so that, whilst remembering our Lord's Coming as Man, and as Judge, we may not lose sight of His other Advents.
The Bible references given are those which suggested the form of this "Story."

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE STORY OF BETHLEHEM

A SHORT SACRED CANTATA

FOR CHRISTMAS SERVICES, &c.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY

THE MUSIC FOR SOPRANO, TENOR, & BASS SOLI, CHORUS AND ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

A CHRISTMAS PASTORAL

ON THE INTROIT

HODIE CHRISTE NATUS EST

AND THE HYMNS

"CORDE NATUS" AND "ADESTE FIDELES"

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

B. LUARD SELBY.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHRISTMAS ALBUM

TWENTY-FOUR

PIANOFORTE PIECES FOR THE YOUNG

COMPOSED BY

P. TSCHAÏKOWSKY.

(Op. 39.)

EDITED AND REVISED BY

A. ROSENKRANZ.

IN THREE BOOKS.
Price One Shilling each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

In Four Sets. Each Set, complete, One Shilling; or, in Single Numbers, One Penny.

CONTENTS OF FIRST SET.

1. THE CAROLLERS.
2. THE STARS ARE SHINING BRIGHT AND CLEAR.
3. CAROL, SWEETLY CAROL.
4. CHRISTMAS BELLS.
5. A CHILD THIS DAY IS BORN.
6. HARK! WHAT MEAN THOSE HOLY VOICES
7. THE ANGELS' CAROL.
8. WHILE SHEPHERDS WATCHED.
9. ANGELS FROM THE REALMS OF GLORY.
10. A CHRISTMAS CHIME.

CONTENTS OF SECOND SET.

1. AWAKE! AROUSE! YE CHRISTIAN BAND.
2. RING OUT, SWEET CHIMES.
3. BRIGHTEST AND BEST.
4. HAIL! HAPPY MORN.
5. O LET OUR VOICES.
6. CHRISTMAS EVE.
7. HARK! THE BELLS.
8. CHRISTMAS CAROL.
9. JOYFUL IS THE MORN.
10. NOËL.

CONTENTS OF THIRD SET.

1. O GLADSOME MORN.
2. HOW MARVELLOUS THY WAYS.
3. LET'S MERRY BE.
4. HARK! THE ANGELS, SINGING.
5. CHILDREN'S VOICES.
6. SONG OF THE SHEPHERDS.
7. A CHILD IS BORN.
8. O SAVIOUR DEAR.

CONTENTS OF FOURTH SET.

1. LIFT YOUR GRATEFUL VOICES.
2. THE BRIGHTEST MORN.
3. CHIMES ACROSS THE SNOW.
4. THE ANGELS' SONG.
5. SONG OF THE FAITHFUL.
6. THE HERALD BELLS.
7. O DAY OF DAYS.
8. COME, YULETIDE GUESTS.
9. THY SERVANTS SING.
10. THE ANGEL'S TIDINGS.

Words of each Set, One Penny, and may be had of the COMPOSER, Cathedral Close, Norwich.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE RECITAL SERIES

OF

Transcriptions for the Organ

BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

WEBER, C. M. VON.—1. Overture to "Euryanthe." 2s.

HOFMANN, H.—2. Lied and Barcarolle. 1s.

—— 3. In the Arbour. 1s.

—— 4. Serenade. 1s.

MENDELSSOHN.—5. Overture, "Ruy Blas." 2s.

RACHMANINOFF, S.—6. Melodie in E. 1s. 6d.

ELGAR, EDWARD—7. Triumphal March ("Caractacus"). 2s.

TSCHAÏKOWSKY.—8. Chant sans Paroles. (Op. 2, No. 3.) 1s.

—— 9. Romance in F minor. (Op. 5.) 1s.

BEETHOVEN.—10. Overture to "Prometheus." 2s.

HOFMANN, H.—11. The Trumpeter's Greeting ("The Trumpeter of Säkkingen"). (Op. 50, No. 1.) 1s. 6d.

—— 12. Duet. ("The Trumpeter of Säkkingen.") (Op. 50, No. 3.) 1s. 6d.

—— 13. Farewell. ("The Trumpeter of Säkkingen.") (Op. 50, No. 4.) 1s.

—— 14. In Rome. ("The Trumpeter of Säkkingen.") (Op. 50, No. 5.) 1s. 6d.

—— 15. Wedding March. ("The Trumpeter of Säkkingen.") (Op. 50, No. 6.) 1s. 6d.

BEETHOVEN.—16. Overture to "Coriolan." 2s. 6d.

MOZART.—17. Overture to "Don Giovanni." 2s. 6d.

FLOTOW.—18. Overture to "Stradella." 2s. 6d.

TSCHAÏKOWSKY.—19. Chanson Triste. 1s.

SULLIVAN, A. S.—20. Overture in C ("In Memoriam"). 3s. Just Published.

To be continued.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

RECITAL SERIES

OF

Original Organ Compositions

COLLECTED AND EDITED BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE.

Nos. 1 to 6, 7 to 12, and 13 to 18, in Three Vols. Each 12s.
Or, separately:—

WEBBER, AMHURST.—1. Scherzo Sinfonico. 2s.

WOLSTENHOLME, W.—2. Canzona, Minuet, and Trio. 2s. 6d.

CAPOCCI, FILIPO.—3. Toccata in E flat major. 2s. 6d.

LEMARE, E. H.—4. Romance in D flat. 2s.

D'EVRY, E.—5. Concert-Overture in F. 2s. 6d.

BOSSI, M. E.—6. Second Sonata (Op. 71). 3s.

HOLLINS, ALFRED.—7. Andante in D. 2s.

—— 8. Grand Chœur. 2s. 6d.

WOLSTENHOLME, W.—9. Andantino and Finale in B flat. 2s. 6d.

WHEELDON, H. A.—10. (a) Cantilène; (b) Grand Chœur. 2s. 6d.

LEMARE, E. H.—11. Allegretto in B minor. 2s.

—— 12. Marche Solennelle. 2s. 6d.

D'EVRY, E.—13. (a) Meditation; (b) Toccata. 2s. 6d.

WOLSTENHOLME, W.—14. (a) The Seraph's Strain; (b) Le Carillon. 2s.

HOLLINS, ALFRED.—15. Concert-Overture in C minor. 2s.

WHEELDON, H. A.—16. Romance. 2s.

WOLSTENHOLME, W.—17. (a) Romanza; (b) Allegretto. 2s.

HOLLINS, ALFRED.—18. Concert Rondo. 2s. 6d. Just Published.

WEST, JOHN E.—19. Fantasia. (In the press.)

To be continued.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THREE CAROLS FOR CHURCH USE

WITH OBBLIGATO ORGAN ACCOMPANIMENTS—viz.:

"ANGELS FROM THE REALMS OF GLORY"
"CHRISTMAS BELLS"
"YULETIDE"

COMPOSED BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

The verses of the above Carols have been carefully varied and suitable symphonies interspersed.

Price Threepence each.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

EMYN AR GYFER NADOLIG

CYFANSODDWYD GAN

J. GOSS

ALLAN O

GAROLAU NADOLIG, HEN A NEWYDD.

Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa, each One Penny.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Now ready.

WEBSTER'S

SIXTH EDITION OF THE GROUNDWORK OF MUSIC.

Price 1s. Key, 1s. 6d.

FOURTH EDITION OF THE CHILD'S PRIMER OF THE THEORY OF MUSIC.

One Shilling.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited; and NOVELLO, EWER and Co., New York.

POPULAR PART-SONGS FOR S.A.T.B.

BY

WILLIAM J. YOUNG.

England's glory	3d.	Fairy Revels	3d.
O Anglia, land of the brave	3d.	The Streamlet	3d.
Hail, merry Christmas	2d.	Sunny Rays	3d.
A merry Christmas to you all	3d.	Who is Sylvia?	3d.
A happy New Year	3d.	Where are you roaming?	3d.
Songs of Praise the Angels sang	3d.	I love the merry springtime	2d.
Blow, ye balmy breezes, blow	3d.	Gaily thro' the greenwood	2d.

200,000 copies of Part-songs sold.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

Nymphs of the Ocean	3d.	Under the Trees	2d.
The Skaters	3d.	The Oyster Dredgers	2d.
The Lake	3d.	Evening	2d.
*'Tis Morn	3d.	*Sweet to live (38th thou.)	2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal)	3d.	*Welcome, young Spring!	2d.
The River	3d.	*The Anglers (14th thou.)	2d.
Over the mountain side	3d.	The Dream of Home	2d.
Soul of living music	3d.	Summer and Winter	2d.
The Stormy Petrel	3d.	*Departed Joys	2d
The Coral Grove	3d.	There's beauty in the deep	1½d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu	3d.	Soldier, rest!	1d
Blow, Western Wind!	3d.	Woods in Winter	1d.
Stars of the Night	3d.	Autumn	1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men (76th thousand)	3d.	*Ben Bowlegs (Ed. Oxenford)	3d.
Three Children Sliding (12th thousand)	3d.	The Carrion Crow	3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste	4d.	Call John!	3d.
The Snow-white Doe	4d.	Three Merry Fishers	3d.
		The Cuckoo Clock (just published)	3d.

DESCRIPTIVE CHORUSES.

With Pianoforte or Orchestral Accompaniments.

The Iron Horse	4d.	The Ocean	3d.
Off to Sea	4d.	*The Ironfounders (36th thou.)	3d.
Jäger Chorus	3d.	The Cyclists	4d.
The Lifeboat	4d.

Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER, Elmham, Dereham.
Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked *.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

THOMAS ATTWOOD.

SERVICES.

		s.	d.
Morning and Evening Service in F	8vo	0	9
Or, separately: Te Deum, 4½d.; Jubilate, 2d.; Sanctus and Kyrie, 1½d.; Magnificat, 3d.; Nunc dimittis, 1½d.
Te Deum, Jubilate, Sanctus, and Kyrie	folio	2	0
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis	„	2	0
Te Deum and Jubilate in A	„	2	6
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in A	„	2	0
Te Deum, Jubilate, Sanctus, and Kyrie in C	„	3	0
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C	„	2	0
Te Deum, Jubilate, Sanctus, and Kyrie in D	„	3	0
Cantate Domino and Deus misereatur in D	„	3	0

ANTHEMS.

Bow down Thine ear	8vo	0	1½
Come, Holy Ghost	„	0	1½
Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.
Enter not into judgment	„	0	1½
Grant, we beseech Thee	folio	1	6
I was glad when they said unto me	8vo	0	4
Let the words of my mouth	folio	1	6
O God, Who by the leading of a Star	„	1	0
O Lord, we beseech Thee	„	1	3
Teach me, O Lord	„	2	0
Ditto, 1st movement	8vo	0	1½
Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.
Teach me Thy way, O Lord	folio	2	6
They that go down to the sea	8vo	0	4
Turn Thee again, O Lord	„	0	1½
Turn Thy face from my sins	„	0	1½
Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.
Withdraw not Thou Thy mercy	folio	1	6

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW EDITION. NOW READY.

The very successful Lent Cantata

PENITENCE PARDON AND PEACE

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

The Musical Times, 1/1/99: "An admirable example of a commendable class of Church music. Consists of writing of that melodious and effective nature for which the composer is so widely famed."

Musical Opinion, 1/2/98: "A fine Church composition."

Musical News, 15/1/98: "We have no hesitation in cordially recommending it."

Musical Standard, 5/3/98: "Deserves considerable popularity."

Organist and Choirmaster, 15/2/98: "For the music we have nothing but praise."

Birmingham Post, 5/3/98: "The music is of a high artistic value."

Liverpool Courier, 2/8/98: "A work of great merit in every respect."

Manchester Courier, 9/3/98: "It will doubtless be used in many 'quires and places where they sing.'"

Newcastle Leader, 23/2/98: "A well-written work."

Western Morning News, 25/3/98: "A good composition. Striking and original."

Chester Chronicle, 16/4/98: "A beautiful work, very tuneful, and exceedingly effective."

Lichfield Mercury, 4/2/98: "Extremely effective, containing some really beautiful music."

Journal of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, 1/2/98: "A well written work. We can strongly recommend it."

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Paper boards, 2s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. Words, 2s. per 100.

 A Specimen Copy will be sent for six stamps to any Clergyman, Organist, or Choirmaster, on application to the COMPOSER, Hill Top, Belmont Park, S.E

Band Parts may be hired or purchased from Messrs. Goodwin and Tabb, 71, Great Queen Street, W.C.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

BREAKING WAVES WALTZ. 4th Thousand. By HARRISON RUSSELL. Price 1s. 4d. Specimen of Airs, 1d. Alphonse Carey; or, COMPOSER, 2, Bockhampton Rd., Kingston, Surrey.

HOPE VANE'S Patriotic Song, "ENGLAND'S GLORY." Price 2s. Played by the Naval and Military Bands. London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

THE MUSICAL DISCOVERY

OF THE

19TH CENTURY.

NEW VIOLINS VOICED.
OLD AND WORN VIOLINS REVOICED.

THE OLD CREMONA MASTERS' SECRET RECOVERED.

New or worn Violins can now be brought to their perfection without the aid of injurious processes, or alterations, additions to, or subtractions from the instrument. The setting up and stringing even untouched.

AN ASTOUNDING FACT.

A SENSATION FOR ALL VIOLINISTS.

First Edition of pamphlet, containing particulars of this wonderful recovery, now ready, and will be sent, post-free, on receipt of address.

CROWTHER AND RIGBY,

14, PROSPECT PARK, EXETER.

Sole London Agent: E. WITHERS, 22, Wardour Street, London.
Wanted, Agents in the North of England, Scotland, and Ireland.

Second Edition.

NARCISSUS AND ECHO

CANTATA FOR CHORUS, SOLI, AND ORCHESTRA

Price 3s.; Choral Parts, 1s. each. Also,

"GOD IS OUR REFUGE" (Ps. 46)

For Chorus, Soli, and Orchestra. Price 1s.

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN C. SUCH,

Mus. Bac., Cantab.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE

BRITISH AFRICAN GAVOTTE

Allegretto, Scherzando, e Staccato

PIANOFORTE SOLO

COMPOSED BY

G. JENNINGS-BURNETT.

INSCRIBED TO THE

British Columbian Fifth Regiment Artillery Volunteers for the TRANSVAAL WAR, who fought so bravely at PAARDEBERG, &c.

Vide Press:—"Replete with delightful staccato strains, a very melodious piano solo, also an effective organ recital number."—The Times.

". . . Its airy allegressimo passages are bright, catchy, and extremely pleasing; somewhat reminiscent in parts to the popular gavotte Mignon."

Price Two Shillings net.

London: WEEKES AND CO., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY CO., 220, Wabash Avenue.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS. By A. B. ALLEN.
"Tom, the Piper's son." S.A.T.B. Price 3d.
"Dickory, dickory, dock." S.A.T.B. Price 4d.
London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

GUIDE to WAGNER'S NIBELUNGENRING

"THE EPIC OF SOUNDS"

BY FREDA WINWORTH.

The Musical Times says: "Just the kind of résumé Wagnerian pilgrims should put into their pockets."

Third Edition. Price 3s. 6d.

London: SIMPKIN AND CO., Limited, and NOVELLO AND CO., Limited.

"IN MEMORIAM"

OVERTURE

COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

	s.	d.
Full Score	15	0
Orchestral Parts	13	0
Pianoforte Solo Arrangement, by Myles B. Foster	2	6
Pianoforte Duet Arrangement, by Myles B. Foster	5	0
Organ Arrangement, by Edwin H. Lemare	3	0

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

SUNG AT A UNITED CHILDREN'S SERVICE IN EXETER CATHEDRAL, JUNE 28, A.D. 1900.

CHILDREN'S MISSIONARY HYMN

FOR

S.P.G. BICENTENARY CELEBRATIONS

BY

S. CHILDS-CLARKE

(Vicar of Thorverton, Devon)

MUSIC BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price One Penny. Words, 3s. per hundred.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

TOILERS OF THE DEEP

CANTATA

FOR FEMALE VOICES

VERSE BY JAMES STRANG

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"Mr. Gaul has written nothing finer, nor more melodious and captivating in this branch of composition specially adapted for High Schools for Girls. Taking the Cantata as a whole, it is a delightful work, replete with artistic workmanship, and, above all, melodious and expressive."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

"This charming work was composed for the pupils of King Edward VI.'s High School for Girls, Birmingham, and bears all the best marks of the composer's characteristically graceful style. The libretto is of a high order of merit, and worth the music, which from first to last is attractive and without a dull page."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

Price Two Shillings.
Words, Five Shillings per hundred.

THE LEGEND OF THE WOOD

A JUVENILE OPERETTA

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price One Shilling.
Words, Four Shillings per hundred.

THE ELFIN HILL

AN OPERETTA FOR SCHOOL USE

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price Two Shillings.
Words, Seven Shillings and Sixpence per hundred.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CANTATAS.

*UNA

SIXTH AND SEVENTH THOUSAND.

PRODUCED AT THE NORWICH MUSICAL FESTIVAL, OCTOBER 4, 1893.

"'Una' is quite one of his best."—Musical Standard.

"The result, in the present case, leaves no doubt that into all the places which know his previous compositions 'Una' will find a way and become as much a favourite as its forerunners. . . . Mr. Gaul considers before all things the elegance and symmetry of his melodic phrases."—Musical Times.

"We believe that Mr. Gaul has attained greater popularity with small English provincial choral societies than any other composer, living or dead."—London Daily Graphic.

*THE TEN VIRGINS

Third Edition. Eleventh and Twelfth Thousand.
This Edition contains the additional Soprano air "Sun of my soul."

"The work will certainly go through Saxondom in the wake of its predecessors from the same pen."—London Daily Telegraph.

"Must attain popularity wherever heard. Infinitely superior to any previous effort of the composer."—Liverpool Daily Courier.

"A distinct advance upon any of its predecessors."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"That 'The Ten Virgins' is a much finer work than the everywhere favourite 'Holy City' we have no doubt whatever."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

PRODUCED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY

*JOAN OF ARC

Staff Edition. Twenty-sixth to Thirtieth Thousand.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success, and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"—Western Times.

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description, and will doubtless soon be a favourite with choral societies."—Shields Daily News.

SEVENTH THOUSAND.

PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE, JULY 9, 1892.

†ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS

"The work was given under Mr. Gaul's own direction by some 3,000 singers, accompanied by the Palace orchestra. Mr. Gaul has presented in no previous work better characteristics or more successful efforts than are to be found in 'Israel in the Wilderness.' The popular composer was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance."—Musical News.

The above Cantatas have been specially planned to meet the requirements of Musical Societies, the greater portion being choral.

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Vocal Parts, each 1s. Words only, *7s. 6d.; †5s. per 100.
The loan of Orchestral Parts on application to the Composer.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED
AND
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

Just Published.

HORA NOVISSIMA

THE RHYTHM OF BERNARD DE MORLAIX ON THE CELESTIAL COUNTRY

ENGLISH TRANSLATION BY

ISABELLA G. PARKER

SET TO MUSIC FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

BY

HORATIO W. PARKER.

(Op. 30.)

FULL SCORE. PRICE 42S.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE ANGEL'S SONG

FROM "THE DREAM OF GERONTIUS"

BY

CARDINAL NEWMAN

SET TO MUSIC BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

(Op. 38.)

Price One Shilling and Sixpence net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THOU ART GONE TO THE GRAVE

(IN MEMORIAM—S. AFRICA, 1900)

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY BISHOP HEBER (1783-1826)

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Arrangement for S.A.T.B. Price Twopence.
" " T.T.B.B. Price Twopence.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published.

THE

"KING'S MESSENGERS"

SONG FOR THE CHILDREN'S MISSIONARY GUILD

WORDS BY

S. CHILDS CLARKE,
Vicar of Thorverton, Devon.

MUSIC BY

ARTHUR H. BROWN,
Brentwood.

Price One Penny.
Words only, Three Shillings per hundred.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

Just Published. 8vo, 3d.

THE CUCKOO CLOCK

HUMOROUS PART-SONG FOR S.A.T.B.

COMPOSED BY

W. W. PEARSON.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NOVELLO'S LIST OF WORKS SUITABLE FOR CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR PRESENTS.

	s.	d.
J. S. BACH.—His Work and Influence on the Music of Germany, 1685-1750. By PHILIPP SPITTA. Three Vols. ..	42	0
New and revised edition.
JOSEPH BARNBY.—Original Hymn Tunes. 246 Tunes, complete in One Volume. 188 pp., demy 8vo.. .. cloth	3	6
STERNDALE BENNETT.—Twelve Songs .. .. „	2	6
BERLIOZ.—A Treatise on Modern Instrumentation and Orchestration .. .. 8vo, cloth	12	0
BEETHOVEN.—Sonatas. A. ZIMMERMANN .. folio, cloth	21	0
—— Ditto .. .. Elegantly bound in whole Morocco, &c.	51	0
—— Ditto .. .. 8vo, cloth	7	6
—— Ditto .. .. Rutland roan	9	0
J. BLUMENTHAL.—Two Books of Song .. paper, each	4	0
—— Ditto .. .. cloth, each	6	0
FREDERICK CHOPIN.—As a Man and Musician. By FREDERICK NIECKS. Two Vols..	25	0
CAPTAIN C. R. DAY.—The Music and Musical Instruments of Southern India and the Deccan. Illustrated with Seventeen Plates. Handsomely bound	73	6
—— Ditto. Artist's proof copies, on finest Japanese paper ..	147	0
CATHEDRAL PRAYER BOOK (with Music):—
No. 1. Demy 8vo, 620 pp., large type. With Canticles and Psalter pointed for chanting .. cloth, bevelled, red edges	6	0
No. 2. Demy 8vo, 592 pp., large type. With Canticles and Psalter pointed, set to appropriate Chants (Cathedral Psalter Chants) .. .. cloth, bevelled, red edges	6	0
No. 3. Imperial 32mo, 692 pp., Pocket Edition. With Canticles and Psalter pointed for chanting cloth, bevelled, red edges	3	6
A large variety of Special Bindings in Stock.
CATHEDRAL PARAGRAPH PSALTER .. .. cloth	3	6
CHRISTMAS CAROLS.—New and Old. Rev. H. R. BRAMLEY, M.A., and J. STAINER. Beautifully Illustrated cloth, gilt	7	6
Library Edition, with historical Preface. Roxburgh binding	7	6
E. DANNREUTHER.—Musical Ornamentation, from Diruta to modern times. Two Vols. .. .. each	5	0
—— Ditto .. ..paper boards, each	6	0
F. G. EDWARDS.—The History of Mendelssohn's "Elijah" cloth	3	6
J. W. ELLIOTT.—National Nursery Rhymes and Songs. Beautifully Illustrated and elegantly bound	7	6
CARL ENGEL.—The Literature of National Music .. cloth	5	0
—— Researches into the Early History of the Violin Family cloth	7	6
SIR GEORGE GROVE.—Beethoven and his Nine Symphonies .. .. cloth, gilt	6	0
—— Dictionary of Music and Musicians (1450-1889). Four Volumes .. .. cloth	40	0
—— Ditto .. .. half Morocco	60	0
—— Ditto .. .. full Morocco	80	0
HANDEL.—"Messiah" .. whole calf, gilt edges, folio	34	0
—— Ditto .. .. folio, cloth	10	0
—— Do. Fac-simile of the Autograph Full Score, cloth, red edges	21	0
DR. EDUARD HANSLICK.—"The Beautiful in Music." A contribution to the revival of Musical Æsthetics. Translated by GUSTAV COHEN .. .. cloth	4	0
MORITZ HAUPTMANN.—The Letters of a Leipzig Cantor. Translated and arranged by A. D. COLERIDGE. Two Vols. cloth, gilt	21	0
H. HERKOMER.—Six Easy Pieces for the Violin. Illustrated	6	0
—— Ditto. Superior paper, Illustrations on Japanese vellum, only a limited number printed (numbered and Signed) ..	21	0
LADY ARTHUR HILL.—Holiday Songs..	2	6
A. J. HIPKINS.—A description and History of the Pianoforte and the older Keyboard Stringed Instruments paper boards	3	0
JENNY LIND.—A Record and Analysis of the "Method" of the late Jenny Lind-Goldschmidt. By W. S. ROCKSTRO cloth	2	0
A. C. MACKENZIE.—Eighteen Songs .. .. cloth, gilt	7	6
MENDELSSOHN.—Pianoforte Works (including the Lieder ohne Worte) .. .. folio, cloth, gilt	21	0
—— Ditto, ditto .. .. Rutland roan	30	0
—— Ditto, ditto .. .. whole Morocco, folio, gilt edges	51	0
—— Ditto, ditto .. .. 8vo, cloth, gilt	10	6
—— Ditto, ditto .. .. Rutland roan	12	6
—— Lieder ohne Worte. The only complete edition. Eight books (with Portrait of Composer) .. .. .. folio	12	0
—— Ditto, ditto .. .. folio, cloth, gilt	8	0
—— Ditto, ditto .. .. Rutland roan	10	6
—— Ditto, ditto. Elegantly bound in whole Morocco .. folio	47	0
—— Ditto, ditto, ditto .. .. 8vo, gilt edges	17	6
—— Ditto, ditto .. .. 8vo, cloth, gilt	6	0
—— Ditto, ditto .. .. Rutland roan	7	6
—— Ditto, ditto .. .. cloth, gilt	4	6
—— Ditto, ditto .. .. Rutland roan	6	0
—— Ditto. Edited by Prof. KARL KLINDWORTH..	5	0
—— Ditto, ditto .. .. cloth, gilt	7	6
—— Ditto, ditto .. .. Rutland roan	10	6
—— Symphonies (Solo) .. .. folio	12	0
—— Symphonies (Duet) .. .. „	15	0
—— Overtures (Solo) .. .. „	12	0
—— Overtures (Duet) .. .. „	15	0
—— "Elijah." Arranged by B. TOURS .. .. .. „	5	0
—— Songs .. .. folio, cloth, gilt	21	0
—— Songs .. .. 8vo, cloth, gilt	6	0
—— Songs (Deep Voice).. .. .. .. 8vo, cloth, gilt	8	0
MOORE.—Irish Melodies .. .. .. 8vo, cloth, gilt	4	0
—— Ditto .. .. folio, cloth, gilt	21	0
MOZART.—Sonatas .. .. folio, cloth, gilt	18	0
—— Ditto .. .. .. bound in whole calf extra, gilt edges	48	0
—— Ditto .. .. 8vo, cloth, gilt	5	0
—— Ditto .. .. Rutland roan	7	0
LIFE OF MOZART. By E. HOLMES. Including his Correspondence .. .. cloth	5	0
LIFE OF MOZART. By OTTO JAHN. Translated from the German by PAULINE D. TOWNSEND, with Five Portraits and Preface by Sir GEORGE GROVE, D.C.L. Three Vols. cloth	31	6
EMMA MUNDELLA.—The Day School Hymn-Book cloth, bevelled, red edges	3	6
ORATORIOS, OPERAS, and CANTATAS (Novello's Original 8vo Edition). Any of the above can be had in Roan, rounded corners, red and gilt edges, price 3s. in excess of the marked price of the paper cover edition.
ALBERTO RANDEGGER.—Sacred Songs for Little Singers. Words by F. R. HAVERGAL. Illustrated .. cloth, gilt	5	0
RUBINSTEIN.—Eighteen Two-part Songs .. cloth, gilt	4	6
SCHUMANN.—Original Compositions for the Pianoforte. Edited by A. ZIMMERMANN. Vol. I. .. folio, cloth, gilt	21	0
—— Ditto, ditto .. .. 8vo, cloth, gilt	7	6
—— Ditto, ditto. Vol. II. .. .. .. folio, cloth, gilt	21	0
—— Ditto, ditto. Vol III. .. .. .. folio, cloth, gilt	21	0
—— Pianoforte Album for the Young.. .. .. cloth, gilt	4	6
—— Songs. Vol. I. Edited by N. MACFARREN folio, cloth, gilt	10	6
—— Vocal Album. Containing thirty of his most celebrated Songs .. .. cloth, gilt	4	6
J. STAINER.—A Theory of Harmony. With Questions and Exercises for the use of Students .. .. .. cloth	7	6
—— A Dictionary of Musical Terms. By J. STAINER and W. A. BARRETT. Revised (1898) Edition .. large 8vo, cloth	7	6
—— Hymn Tunes. 158 Tunes, complete in one Volume. 237 pages, royal 8vo, cloth	4	6
STAINER, J., J. F. R., AND C., AND E. W. B. NICHOLSON.—Dufay and his Contemporaries. Fifty Compositions, with Fac-similes	42	0
SUNLIGHT OF SONG.—A Collection of Sacred and Moral Songs. With Forty-six Illustrations ..handsomely bound	5	0
—— Ditto .. .. paper boards	3	6
FRANKLIN TAYLOR.—Technique and Expression in Pianoforte Playing .. .. cloth, gilt lettered	5	0
JOHN E. WEST.—Cathedral Organists, Past and Present ..	3	6
WESTMINSTER ABBEY HYMN BOOK, with Tunes. Edited by FREDERICK BRIDGE .. .. demy 8vo, cloth	4	0
—— Ditto. Hymns only	1	0
FREDERIC ARCHER.—The Organist's Journal .. cloth	15	0
J. S. BACH.—Grand Studies. Consisting of Preludes, Fugues, Toccatas, &c.	10	6
W. T. BEST.—Arrangements from Scores of the Great Masters. Five Vols. .. .. cloth, each	36	0
—— Fifteen Celebrated Marches. Arranged from Scores of the Great Masters	4	6
—— Collection of Pieces for Church Use .. .. .. cloth	12	0
—— Six Concert Pieces	8	0
SIR JOHN GOSS.—Collection of Voluntaries .. .. cloth	3	0
—— The Organist's Companion. Four Vols. .. cloth, each	5	0
CH. GOUNOD.—A Selection of Movements from "The Redemption." Arranged by Sir G. C. MARTIN	5	0
—— A Selection of Movements from "Mors et Vita." Arranged by Sir G. C. MARTIN	5	0
HANDEL.—Six Organ Concertos	7	6
—— Choruses. Arranged by H. G. NIXON. Two Vols. each	20	0
JOHN HILES.—Hand-Book for the Organ	21	0
—— Short Voluntaries. Five Vols. .. .. .. cloth, each	5	0
LÉFÈBURE WÉLY.—Six Grand Offertoires	2	6
—— The Modern Organist .. .. cloth	12	0
J. LEMMENS.—Four Organ Pieces in the Free Style	6	0
—— Trois Sonates..	7	6
MENDELSSOHN.—Six Grand Sonatas, and Three Preludes and Fugues. Edited by W. T. BEST	5	0
—— Twelve Lieder ohne Worte. Arranged for Organ paper cover, oblong	3	0
S. NEUKOMM.—Elementary Method for the Organ or Harmonium .. .. cloth	10	6
C. H. RINK.—Practical Organ School. Edited by W. T. BEST cloth	12	0
HENRY SMART.—Organ Works. Two Volumes .. each	7	6
—— Ditto, ditto .. .. cloth, gilt, each	10	6
DR. W. SPARK.—The Organist's Quarterly Journal. Nine Vols. .. .. cloth, each	21	0
THE RECITAL SERIES OF ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS. Edited by EDWIN H. LEMARE. Three Volumes, cloth, each	12	0
THE VILLAGE ORGANIST.—Books 1-6, in One Volume, elegantly bound in cloth	6	0
—— Books 7-12. Ditto, ditto	6	0
—— Books 13-18. Ditto, ditto	6	0
—— Books 19-24. Ditto, ditto	6	0
DR. W. J. WESTBROOK.—Voluntaries for the Organ. Three Vols. .. .. cloth, each	10	6
—— The Young Organist. Two Vols. .. .. cloth, each	7	6

COMPOSITIONS
BY ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

CANTATAS, &c.

	s.	d.
THE GOLDEN LEGEND	3	6
Vocal Parts, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 2s.; Full Score, 52s. 6d.; String Parts, 22s.; Wind Parts, 33s. 6d.
ODE	1	0
Vocal Parts, 1s.
TE DEUM LAUDAMUS	1	0
Vocal Parts, 4s.; String Parts, 4s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 11s.; Military Band Parts, 5s.
THE TEMPEST cloth	10	0
Full Score, 30s.; String Parts, 11s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 19s.

ORCHESTRA.

OVERTURE, "IN MEMORIAM":—
Full Score	15	0
String Parts	4	6
Wind Parts	8	6
OVERTURE, "DI BALLO":—
Full Score	12	0
String Parts	5	0
Wind Parts	12	0

MILITARY BAND, &c.

Onward, Christian Soldiers ("St. Gertrude")	2	6
Do. do. for Brass Band	2	6
O Gladsome Light ("Golden Legend")	7	6

SONGS.

Christmas Bells at Sea	2	0
The love that loves me not	2	0
Where the bee sucks ("The Tempest"). Two keys each	1	6

PIANOFORTE SOLO.

Banquet Dance ("The Tempest")	1	0
Overture, "In Memoriam"	2	6
Onward, Christian Soldiers ("St. Gertrude.") (School Marches. Book I.)	1	0
Processional March. (No. 8. Novello's Pianoforte Albums)	1	0

PIANOFORTE DUET.

"The Tempest" cloth	10	0
Banquet Dance ("The Tempest")	1	6
Dance of Nymphs and Reapers ("The Tempest")	2	0
Overture ("The Tempest")	2	0
Prelude ("The Tempest")	1	6
Overture, "In Memoriam"	5	0
Overture, "Di Ballo"	5	0

PIANOFORTE AND VIOLIN.

Nine Transcriptions from "The Golden Legend"	2	6
Do. do. for Pianoforte and Violoncello	2	6

ORGAN, &c.

Overture, "In Memoriam." (No. 20 E. H. Lemare's Recital Series of Transcriptions)	3	0
But Thy right hand. (Book 24. J. Hiles's Short Voluntaries)	1	0
To Thee, Cherubim. (Book 28. J. Hiles's Short Voluntaries)	1	0
O love the Lord. (Book 34. J. Hiles's Short Voluntaries)	1	0
O love the Lord. (No. 19. W. J. Westbrook's "The Young Organist")	1	0
O love the Lord. (Book 5. J. W. Elliott's Harmonium Voluntaries)	1	0
Thou art to be praised. (Book 2. J. W. Elliott's Harmonium Voluntaries)	1	0
Prelude. (Book 3. J. W. Elliott's Harmonium Voluntaries)	1	0

PART-SONGS, &c.

	s.	d.
Choral Epilogue: God sent His messenger the rain ("The Golden Legend") Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.	0	4
Echoes Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.	0	3
Evening Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.	0	1½
Honour, riches, marriage, blessing ("The Tempest"). Duet for S.S.	1	3
Joy to the victors Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.	0	3
O gladsome light ("The Golden Legend") Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.	0	6
O hush thee, my babie Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.	0	3
Ditto, for S.S.A. Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.	0	2
Parting gleams	0	1½
The beleaguered (A.T.B.B.) Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.	0	4
The last night of the year Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.	0	1½
The long day closes (A.T.B.B.) Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.	0	3
The night is calm and cloudless ("The Golden Legend") Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.	0	6
The rainy day Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.	0	1½
We've ploughed our land. (Unison Song)	0	1
When love and beauty Tonic Sol-fa, 3d.	0	6
Wreaths for our graves Tonic Sol-fa, 3d.	0	6

ANTHEMS, &c.

Hearken unto Me, My people Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.	0	1½
I will mention the loving kindness Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.	0	6
I will sing of Thy power Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.	0	1½
Mercy and truth are met together	0	2
O God, Thou art worthy to be praised Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.	0	4
O love the Lord Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.	0	2
Ditto, with Welsh words. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	0	2
O taste and see how gracious the Lord is Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.	0	1½
The Son of God goes forth to war ("St. Anne's" tune) Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.	0	1½
The strain upraise Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.	0	1½
Turn Thee again	0	1½
Turn Thy face from my sins Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.	0	1½
We have heard with our ears	0	6
Who is like unto Thee	0	6
Domine salvum fac (Festival Te Deum)	0	4
O Lord, save Thy people, and Vouchsafe, O Lord (Festival Te Deum)	0	6
Bishopgarth (Hymn tune)	0	1
Happy children we have been (Hymn)	0	1
Onward, Christian Soldiers ("St. Gertrude"). Hymn Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.	0	1
Ditto, with Welsh words. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	0	1
We are but strangers here (Funeral Hymn) Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.	0	1
Carol for Christmas Day Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.	0	1

SERVICES.

Te Deum laudamus in D	0	3
Jubilate and Kyrie in D	0	3

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED
AND
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

WITHDRAWAL of SPECIAL PRICES.

MESSRS. NOVELLO & CO. beg leave to announce that by arrangement with Messrs. Macmillan & Co. the special prices hereunder mentioned will be withdrawn

ON FEBRUARY 1, 1901

on which day the price of the complete Dictionary, in Cloth binding, will be £4 4s. 0d.

Consequently no orders received after that date can be entertained at the reduced terms now offered.

GROVE'S DICTIONARY OF MUSIC

(1450-1889)

ILLUSTRATED, FOUR VOLUMES, WITH INDEX

BY

EMINENT WRITERS, ENGLISH AND FOREIGN

UNDER THE EDITORSHIP OF THE LATE

SIR GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

ASSISTED IN THE SUPPLEMENT

BY

J. A. FULLER MAITLAND.

PRICES OF THE FOUR VOLUMES

UNTIL FEBRUARY 1, 1901, ONLY.

Previously published, ONLY IN CLOTH, at £4 11s. 6d.

CLOTH BINDING, £2 0s. 0d. HALF MOROCCO, £3 0s. 0d. FULL MOROCCO, £4 0s. 0d.

Should the purchaser desire to take advantage of the instalment system, he can obtain the complete Book on payment of a deposit of 7s. (Cloth), 13s. (Half Morocco), or 24s. (Full Morocco); and must then complete the transaction by five monthly payments of 7s., 10s., or 12s. respectively, the first of which becomes due on receipt of the book.

 This Special Issue, it should be observed, is only of a temporary character, and it is not to be regarded as implying the early appearance of an entirely new edition of the Dictionary, which, as a matter of fact, Messrs. Novello and Co. are authorized to say that Messrs. Macmillan and Co. have not in preparation.

Copies of the book may be seen at the offices of Messrs. Novello & Co., Ltd., 1, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W., and 80 & 81, Queen Street, E.C. An explanatory pamphlet, giving a full description of Contents, a List of Contributors, and a Catalogue of the Articles contributed by each writer, with specimen pages and illustrations, and an order form will be sent Post-free on application.

LONDON: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

HYMNS FOR THANKSGIVING AFTER WAR.

1. PRAISE THE LORD

Words by A. C. AINGER. Music by J. BARNBY.

2. THANKS BE TO GOD

Words by Rev. S. CHILDS CLARKE. Music by GEO. C. MARTIN.

3. THE TRUMPET NOTES ARE SOUNDING

Words by T. DISNEY. Music by J. F. BRIDGE.

4. LORD OF HOSTS, WHO HAST ENDUED US

Words by A. C. BENSON. Music by WALTER PARRATT.

5. THE ROCKS WERE RENT

Words by Rev. Canon H. D. Rawnsley. Music by GEO. C. MARTIN.

Price One Penny each. Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

Other Hymns suitable for Thanksgiving Services after War :—

Now thank we all our God .. .. 1d.
O God, supreme Commander .. .. J. F. Bridge 1d.
(Words, by Rev. Alfred A. Toms, 2s. 6d. per 100.)
O God, supreme Commander .. .. W. Creser 1d.
(Words, by Rev. Alfred A. Toms, 2s. 6d. per 100.)
Onward, Christian soldiers (St. Gertrude) .. Arthur Sullivan 1d.
(Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)
Old 100th (Tune only) .. .. Arranged by Battison Haynes
String Parts, 2s. ; Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.
We march, we march to victory .. .. .. J. Barnby 1½d.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
ALFANO, F.—Cinq pièces lyriques. Op. 14	6	0
1. Chant sans paroles. 2. Taquinerie. 3. A la mazurka. 4. Scherzo. 5. Sérénade exotique.
AMANI—Violin Trio. Op. 15. Score, net, 1s. 6d. ; Parts, net	5	0
BEETHOVEN — Cadences pour le Concerto de Violon. By Saint-Saëns	1	6
BERGER, W.—11 Kleine Charakterstudien für Klavier. Op. 78. Books I. and II. .. .. each	6	0
—— Quintet (E minor). Op. 75. Score, net, 10s. ; Parts, net	15	0
BERLIOZ—Full Scores. Small size :—
Waverley Overture. Op. 1 .. .. net	1	6
Francs Juges Overture. Op. 3 .. .. „	1	6
King Lear Overture. Op. 4 .. .. „	1	6
Roman Carnival Overture. Op. 9 .. .. „	1	6
Symphonie fantastique. Op. 14 .. .. „	4	0
Harold in Italy. Op. 16 .. .. „	4	0
Romeo et Juliette. Op. 17 .. .. „	5	6
Corsair Overture. Op. 21 .. .. „	1	6
Benvenuto Cellini Overture. Op. 23 .. .. „	1	6
BIERNACKI, M.—Suite for Piano upon the notes A, D, C, A „	5	0
BOSSI, M. E.—Concerto (in A minor). For Organ, Strings, 4 Horns, and Pauken. Op. 100 :— Score, net, 9s. ; Parts, net, 9s. ; Organ Part, net	4	6
BOURGEOIS, E.—Chanson d'amour	3	0
BRAHMS—"Ye now are sorrowful," from "Requiem." Arr. for Harmonium and Pianoforte by Reinhard	3	0
—— "Worthy art thou to be praised," from "Requiem." Arr. for Harmonium and Pianoforte by Reinhard	5	0
CLAUSSMANN—Eight Pieces for Organ. In Two Books :— Book I. March. Elevation. Pastorale. Offertoire sur l'Adeste .. .. net	4	0
Book II. Marche religieuse. Offertoire sur l'O Filii. Andantino. Final .. .. net	5	0
DONNAY, A.—Prélude Symphonique. For Pianoforte Duet. Op. 70 .. .. net	2	0
—— Ballet. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 74 .. .. .. „	5	0
—— Andante. For Pianoforte and Violin. Op. 75 .. „	2	0
FISCHHOF—Trois scènes aragonaises. For Two Pianos :— No. 1. 48. Nos. 2 and 3	5	0
FOURNIER, P.—Toccata. Etude Symphonique. Op. 20 :— Score, net, 10s. ; Parts, net, 20s. ; Pianoforte Solo	7	0
FRANCK "Psyche." Poëme Symphonique. Pour Orchestre et Chorus :—
"Sommeil de Psyche." Score, net, 8s. ; Parts, net, 20s. ; Pianoforte Duet .. .. net	3	0
"Psyche enlevée par les Zephirs." Score, net, 8s. ; Parts, net, 20s. ; Pianoforte Duet .. .. net	3	0
"Des Jardins d'Eros." Score, net, 8s. ; Parts, net, 20s. ; Pianoforte Duet .. .. net	3	0
"Psyche et Eros." Score, net, 8s. ; Parts, net, 20s. ; Pianoforte Duet .. .. net	4	0
GIGOUT—Two Pieces for Organ :—
1. En forme de légénde .. .. net	2	6
2. Marche des Rogations .. .. „	1	9
GLAZOUNOW—Ruses d'amour. Op. 61 :—
1. Introduction, &c. .. Score, net, 8s. od. ; Parts, net	20	0
2. Grande Valse .. .. Score, „ 4s. 6d. ; Parts, „	15	0
3. Ballabile des Paysans et des Paysannes Score, net, 4s. od. ; Parts, „	15	0
4. Grand pas des Fiances Score, „ 4s. od. ; Parts, „	12	0
5. La Fricassée .. .. Score, „ 4s. od. ; Parts, „	15	0
GODARD—Canzonetta. For Violoncello and Piano. Op. 35	3	0
GRODSKI, B.—Deux morceaux. For Violin and Piano. Op. 63 :— 1. Cavatine .. .. 3 0 | 2. Bagatelle	2	0
GRÜNFELD, A.—Quatre morceaux. For Pianoforte. Op. 49 :— 1. Nocturne; 2. Prelude; 3. Idylle; 4. Gavotte caprice each	4	0
HAHN—Etudes Latines sur des Poesies de Leconte de Lisle. For Voice and Pianoforte .. .. net	5	0
SINDING—Duets. For Two Pianofortes (4 hands). Op. 41 :
1. Andante	8	0
2. Deciso, ma non troppo Allegro	11	0
STRAUS, O.—Air de Ballet. For Cello and Piano. Op. 46 ..	3	0
—— Perpetuum mobile. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 47 ..	3	0
SUDESI—"Danse et Flirt." Caprice. For Pianoforte and Violin (or Mandoline) .. .. net	2	6
TANÉÏEW—4th Quatuor. For Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello. Op. 11 :— Score, net, 1s. 6d. ; Parts, net, 10s. ; Pianoforte Duet, net	9	0
TSCHAÏKOWSKY—Violin Quartet. Op. 11. Arranged for Pianoforte Duet 12	0
—— "Schneewitchen." For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 12 .. net	6	6
—— Symphony, No. 1. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 13 .. „	7	6
—— Trois morceaux. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 42. Arranged for Pianoforte Solo .. .. each	3	0
—— Marche miniature. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 43	2	0
—— Capriccio Italien. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 45 .. net	5	0
—— Valse bluette. For Orchestra. Op. 72, No. 11. Score „	5	6
—— Espiègle (Eulenspiegel). For Orchestra. Op. 72, No. 12 Score .. .. net	3	0
—— Un poco de Chopin. For Orchestra. Op. 72, No. 15. Score „ (Parts in the Press.)	5	6
—— Potpourri, "Piqué Dame." For Violin and Pianoforte ..	8	0
—— Potpourri, "Dornröschen." For Violin and Pianoforte ..	8	0
—— Paraphrase de Concert sur le Ballet "Dornröschen." For Pianoforte Solo	6	0
VERRIMST—Offertoire. For Flute, Violin, Hautbois, Clarinet, and Bassoon .. .. net	5	0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

London: NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Limited
AND
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., NEW YORK.

JUST PUBLISHED.

SIMS REEVES ON THE ART OF SINGING.

PRICE ONE SHILLING NET.

This work, written by so celebrated an artist, needs little, if any, introduction. It contains some most valuable hints to Singers, as well as a few examples of the Author's most popular renditions.

EDWARD GERMAN'S THREE DANCES, "NELL GWYN."

AN UNPRECEDENTED SUCCESS.

Pianoforte Solo, 2s. net; Piano Duet, 3s. net; Violin and Piano, 3s. net; Orchestra, 5s. net; Extra parts, 6d. net each; Full Score, 5s. net; Military Band, 15s. net.

ALSO, NOW READY.

SELECTION OF THEMES, "NELL GWYN."

Piano Solo, 2s. net.

Chappell and Co.'s Latest Songs and Ballads.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS NET EACH.

EDWARD GERMAN.
"Sea Lullaby."
"Fair Flowers."
"Birds on Wing."
"In Summer Time."
(Or, complete in One Vol., price 4/- net.)
"Early One Morning."

L. DENZA.
"Serenade in Summer."
"An Orchard Cradle Song."

TITO MATTEI.
"Primrose Time."

HERMANN LÖHR.
"When Jack and I were Children."
Two Little Irish Songs:—
1. "To my First Love."
2. "You'd better ask me."
"Chorus, Gentlemen."

NOEL JOHNSON.
Two Songs:—
1. "The Rose."
2. "The River and the Sea."

D'AUVERGNE BARNARD.
"In the glad June-Time."
"In a Fairy Boat."

ERNEST NEWTON.
"Lorna."
"By Tagus' Tide."

FRANK LAMBERT.
"There was a Star."
"Sweet Zephyrs, breathe my gentle love."
Series of Short Songs, each 1/6 net.
1. "'Tis Night."
2. "Love in Absence."
3. "A barque at Midnight."
4. "The Night has a Thousand Eyes."
5. "One more clasp."
6. "O, Purest Pearl."
7. "Because my Heart-Wound."

MAUDE V. WHITE.
Two Songs:—
1. "Last Year."
2. "The Fifes of June."
"Among the Roses."
"A Ballad of the Ranks."

FLORENCE AYLWARD.
"Not mine to ask."
"The Sailing of the Long-Ships."
"A Greenland Lullaby."

A. L.
"Silent Love."
"En Septembre."

FRANCES ALLITSEN.
"On the River."
"Dainty Clare."

TERESA DEL RIEGO.
"Harmony."
"Slave Song."
Two Songs:—
1. "Heart, my Heart."
2. "Scotch Love Song."

GUY D'HARDELOT.
"In Bracken Time."

ELLEN WRIGHT.
"Lovesight."

FRANCO LEONI.
"A Song of the Cruise."

GEORGE AITKEN.
"Maire, my Girl."
"For a Soldier."

CHARLES WILLEBY.
"Gianetta Bella."

REGINALD SOMERVILLE.
"Only."

FREDERICK ROSSE.
"My Lady of Lilies."

WALTER SLAUGHTER.
"O Little Children."

CHAPPELL & CO., LTD., 50, New Bond St., London.

Printed by Novello and Company, Ltd., at the Novello Works, Soho, and published at 1, Berners St. (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen St. (E.C.). Sold also by Simpkin, Marshall, Hamilton, Kent and Co., Ltd., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Saturday, December 1, 1900.

THE ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC

TENTERDEN STREET, HANOVER SQUARE.

INSTITUTED, 1822. INCORPORATED BY ROYAL CHARTER, 1830.

PATRONS:

HER MOST GRACIOUS MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES AND OTHER MEMBERS OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

PRINCIPAL—SIR ALEXANDER CAMPBELL MACKENZIE, MUS.D., F.R.A.M.

THE ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC offers to students of both sexes (whether amateur or professional) a thorough training in all branches of Music, the Drama, and Elocution, under the most able and distinguished Professors. In addition to receiving individual lessons in the various branches of the Curriculum, students have the advantage of attending the Orchestral, Choral, and Chamber Music Classes, and the weekly Lectures on music and musicians. Evidence of their progress is given at the Fortnightly and Public Concerts and by periodical Operatic and Dramatic Performances.

There are three Terms in the Academic year—viz., the Michaelmas Term, from Michaelmas to Christmas; the Lent Term, from early in January to Easter; and the Midsummer Term, from early in May until the end of July.

The Fee for the ordinary curriculum is 11 Guineas per Term.

A large number of Scholarships and Prizes are founded and are competed for periodically.

Students who show special merit and ability receive the distinction of being elected by the Directors Associates of the Institution, and are thereby entitled to the use after their names of the initials A.R.A.M. Students who distinguish themselves in the musical profession after quitting the Institution may be elected by the Directors Fellows of the Royal Academy of Music, and are thereupon entitled to the use after their names of the initials F.R.A.M.

Subscribers have the privilege of attending the Lectures and Public Concerts an of introducing friends in proportion to the amount of their subscriptions.

An examination of persons trained independently of the Academy is held twice a year—viz., during the Summer and Christmas vacations—successful candidates at which are elected Licentiates of the Academy, and are thereupon entitled to the use after their names of the initials L.R.A.M.

Prospectus, entry form, and all further information may be obtained on application.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD

OF THE

ROYAL ACADEMY of MUSIC & ROYAL COLLEGE of MUSIC

FOR

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

PRESIDENT:
H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

ASSOCIATED BOARD
THOMAS THRELFALL, ESQ. (R.A.M.), Chairman.
HON. G. W. SPENCER LYTTELTON, C.B. (R.C.M.), Deputy-Chairman.
SIR ALEXANDER C. MACKENZIE, MUS. DOC., ST. AND., CANTAB. ET EDIN., Principal of R.A.M.
SIR C. HUBERT H. PARRY, M.A., MUS. DOC., CANTAB., OXON., ET DUBL., D.C.L., Director of R.C.M.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.
OSCAR BERINGER, ESQ.
PROFESSOR JAMES DEWAR, F.R.S., &c.
WALTER MACFARREN, ESQ.
EDMUND MACRORY, ESQ., Q.C.
CAVE. ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.
SIR WALTER PARRATT, MUS. DOC., OXON.
PROFESSOR C. VILLIERS STANFORD, D.C.L., M.A., MUS. DOC., CANTAB. ET OXON.
SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN, MUS.D., CANTAB. ET OXON.
FRANKLIN TAYLOR, ESQ.

Honorary Treasurer: CHARLES MORLEY, ESQ., M.P.
Auditor: LESLEY C. PROBYN, ESQ.
Secretary: JAMES MUIR, ESQ.
Bankers: BANK OF ENGLAND, WESTERN BRANCH, BURLINGTON GARDENS, LONDON, W.

THE Board holds Examinations throughout the United Kingdom and in the Colonies in both Theoretical and Practical Music. The Examinations are of two kinds, "Local Centre" and "School." The Local Centre Examinations are carried out by two Examiners chosen almost exclusively from the Staffs of the Royal Academy of Music and of the Royal College of Music. The School Examinations are conducted by one Examiner.

The Subjects for Examination are comprised in the following list:—

ELEMENTS OF MUSIC.	PIANOFORTE.	DOUBLE BASS.
HARMONY AND GRAMMAR OF MUSIC.	ORGAN.	HARP.
COUNTERPOINT.	VIOLIN.	WIND INSTRUMENTS.
	VIOLA.	SINGING.
	VIOLONCELLO.

The Local Centre Examinations are held Annually, in March and April. Full particulars will be found in Syllabus A, which will be sent on application to the Secretary.

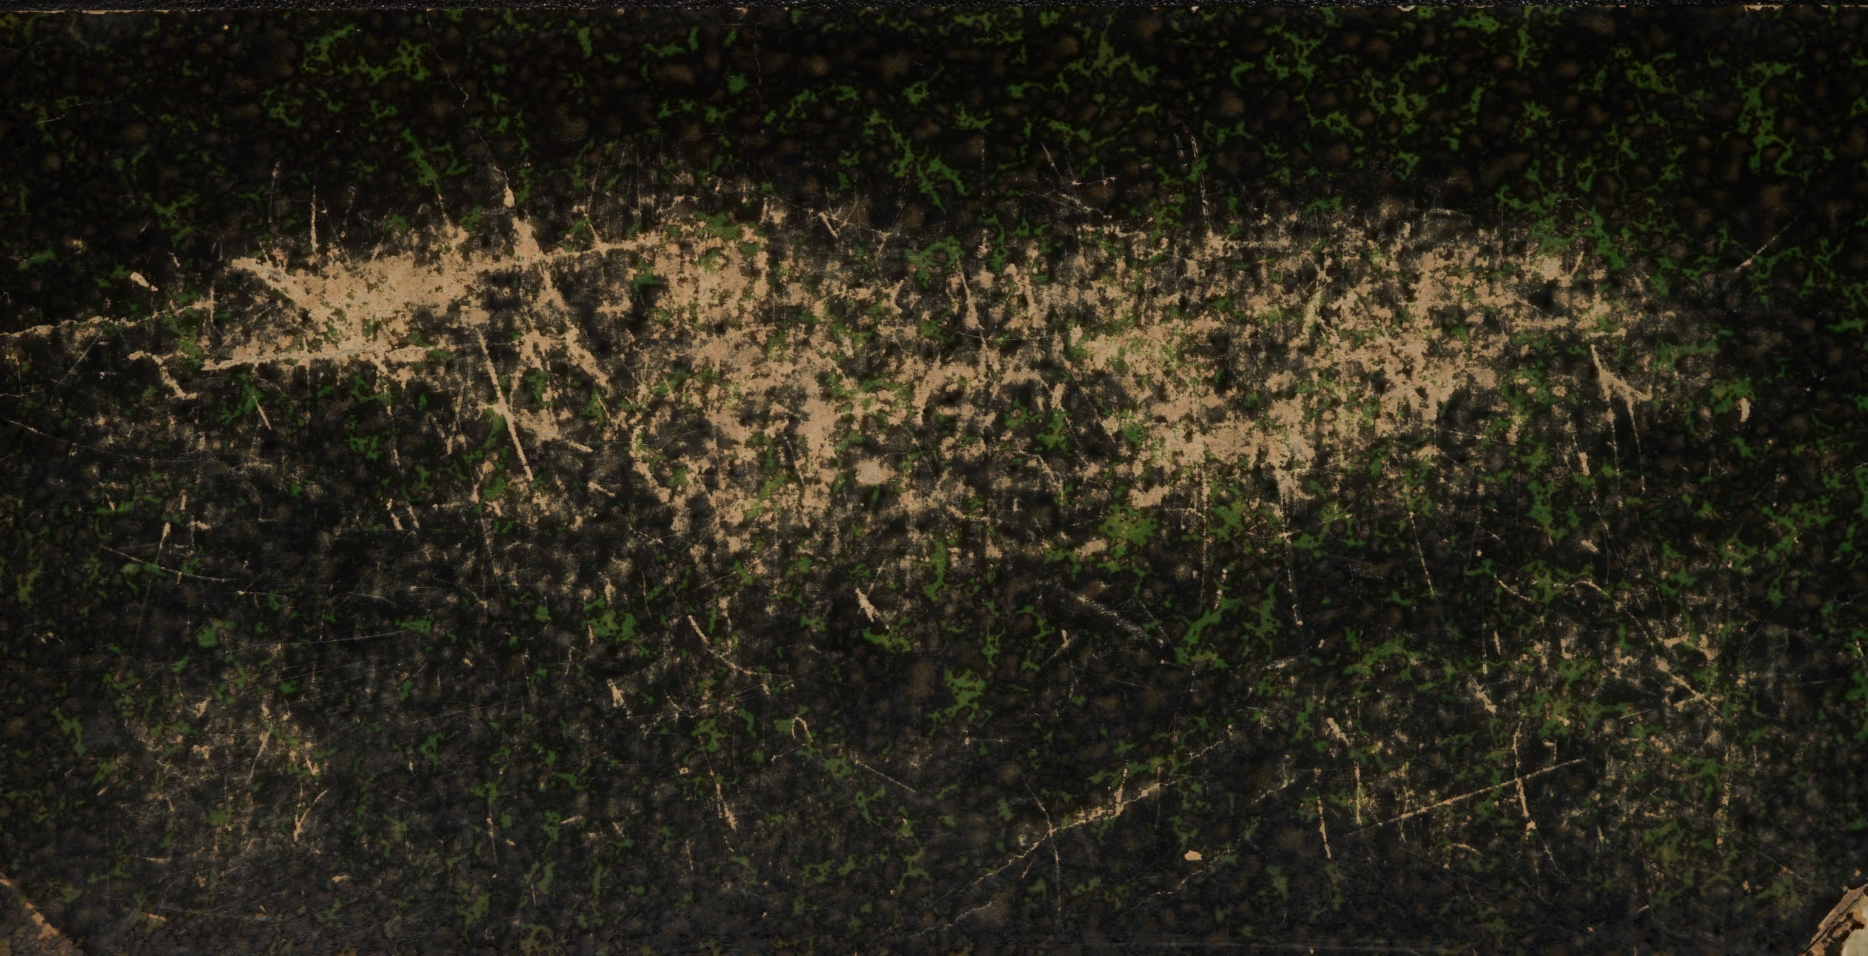
The School Examinations are held at three periods: (a) March—April, (b) June—July, (c) October—November. Candidates for these Examinations may be entered either by Heads of Schools or by individual Teachers. In the latter case, neither the Teacher nor the Candidate need necessarily be connected with a School. Full particulars of these Examinations, and also of the General School Examination and Class Singing Examination, will be found in Syllabus B, which will be sent on application to the Secretary.

The Board gives annually six Exhibitions tenable for two years. These Exhibitions are limited to candidates under 20 years of age who fulfil certain conditions set forth in each Syllabus.

The attention of Teachers and Candidates is specially drawn to the important new regulations contained in Syllabus A and B for 1901, which are now ready.

TELEGRAPHIC ADDRESS:—
"ASSOCIA, LONDON."

CENTRAL OFFICE: 32 MADDOX STREET, LONDON, W.

Printed by NOVELLO AND COMPANY, Ltd., at the Novello Works, Soho, and published at 1, Berners St. (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen St. (E.C.).
Sold also by SIMPKIN, MARSHALL, HAMILTON, KENT AND CO., Ltd., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Saturday December 1, 1900.


BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY
3 9999 08818 990 5
B.P.L. Bindery
OCT 4 1901